Roy McLeod, formerly of The Advertiser staff, who went to Europe with the first Canadian contingent, and who has written some interesting letters from England and from the trenches in France, writing to his sister, Mrs. H. T. Bradford, 511 Simcoe street, from the front, says that the Canadians, who are scattered all over the country, are doing splendid work. He says conditions in the trenches are improving greatly with the approach of spring. Some of those captured from the Germans, he declares, were waist deep with water and mud, but they are drying up nicely now, for which no one is sorry. All Well and Happy.

McLeod states that everyone is well and happy, even the German prisoners having a smile on their faces. One of the latter, when asked for his opinion of the war, the writer says, replied "bad business," this, as he points out, in spite of the German bluff about "business as usual." His own comment is to the effect that it isn't war at all, but

His letter is dated March 29, and he points out that Easter eggs will not be plentiful where he is, going on to say that the French farmers, no doubt, will be on the alert to pre-vent thefts of "hen fruit," since They have learned from experience that it pays to keep an eye on Les

The men McLeod says, have a football with which they amuse themselves when off duty, and he suggests that possibly a baseball team may be organized if a ball is procurable. He says signs of spring are manifesting themselves, signs of its approach being the resurrection by the French girls of their skipping ropes and the plowing of the fields-

Commander of Fine Body of Men Thanks the Citizens of London

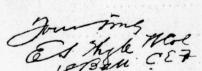

Canadian Expeditionary Force. 18th Battalion. London, April 14, 1915.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

I have given expression to my appreciation of all that the good people of London have done for the officers and men of the 18th Battalion during our training and before we are sent to the front. I wish to say through your columns to all citizens of London that the interest you have taken in us has done much to make our hard training far easier than it would have been.

We have tried to do our duty to our Government in training faithfully that we may be an honor to our King and Empire. The good citizens of London, I hope, will be proud of us when the time comes for us to join our comrades now at the front. The comforts supplied during cold weather were ample, and the different societies, clubs and other organizations have done a great deal to make the time when not at drill pass pleasantly. What I have said to different societies may not have reached everybody, so I take this opportunity, before leaving, to thank everybody.

She graduated as a nurse from the Minneapolis City Hospital, and some five years ago went with her father and mother to Calgary, where the father, until then a well-known Dorchester farmer, started in the real estate business. For some years Miss Gee has been a member of the Calgary school board staff of nurses. She re signed her position to volunteer for service at the front. Her only relative in London or the vicinity is Miss Myrtle Gee, a cousin, living at 425 Maitland street, who also is a nurse.

BERNSTORFF'S LATEST

N THE slang of the street, Count Von Bernstorff, the German ambassador to the United States, has been "pulling a lot of raw stuff" on Uncle Sam ever since the war opened. While the attitude of the British, French and Russian ambassadors has been strictly correct and dignified, Bernstorff has repeatedly made himself obnoxious, and more than once his actions must have provoked President Wilson to the verge of demanding his recall. Repeatedly he has sneered at and scolded the American Government and people, and escaped official censure from Washington, but his latest "break" may be his last. He has publicly told the American people the course he thinks they should take regarding the attitude of their Government towards Germany and the Allies.

Last week, at the German embassy, Bernstorff received a delegation of dyestuff importers, and told them that if Government to threaten Great Britain military powers which rule Germany. supplies unless the interference with from the spiked heads whom he serves. would be no trouble about getting dyestuffs. Benzonia, Ont., April 15.-The secret of the Benzonia frogs has been explained. During the entire winter, which has been severe in Benzie County, the people of Benzonia have been hearing frogs croaking. Even in the fiercest blizzards, with the snow piling ten feet deep in the sand ridges and the lakes frozen solid, the "bl-dp" of the old frogs and the chirrup of smaller ones have lace, who lives near Beulah, was walking home after a trip to Travers City. The snow was two feet deep, the thermometer near zero, and a gale blowing. He heard the frogs croaking. When he told of it his reputation for sobriety suffered a severe shock. Later George Lucas heard them.

By the middle of January a score of persons claimed they heard frogs

But the neighbors laughed at them so much everyone quit hearing frogs save the elect. It was worth a man's reputation to admit he ever heard a bullfrog's croak.

Last week, Bill Davis, who has been one of the loudest scoffers, went to look for his cow. Passing went to look for his cow. Passing along the edge of a swamp he saw something moving in the snowbank and threw a stick at it. His aim was good. He picked it up. It had fur, but croaked. Bill dropped it and jumped. Then a big bullfrog immed out of the fur and honned. jumped out of the fur and hopped off onto the snow, turned over, shivered a few times and expired. Bill hunted around and stirred up 14 more frogs, each one with a heavy

We received a telephone set, and I took one phone and wire out in front to be able to phone back all hap-penings. It was a telegraph-telephone set, and I managed it on one wire. After I had it set up, Capt. Collins started the buzzer going from his end, and I could not stop him quick, so the unusual noise startled someone in the German lines and caused them to drop about six star shells on us. A few wild shots, which always go that way at night, decided us about returning. I shall calm the buzzer down and try it again.

United States General Manager.

Nelson Wilmarth Aldrich held a seat in the United States Senate continuously from 1881 to 1911. The influence exerted by him on governmental affairs was best illustrated by the fact that when he was satirically introduced to an audience as "the general manager of the United States," that appellation lived through the Administration of Mc-Kinley, Roosevelt and Taft.

Probably the greatest parliamentarian that ever served in the Senate, Mr. Aldrich had no difficulty in maintaining leadership of his party. As chairman ters which his parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. of the finance committee, he was called McGuire, have received from Lieut.

Latest reports from there say that the ice is rotten and drifting, but is of considerable thickness, and, while a steamer might be able to make a passage with no trouble today, tomorrow a change of wind might blow in the ice so as to make the passage impassable Steamers in the harbor here are busy taking on grain cargo at the different elevators and a large quantity of grain is coming down from the West over the three railroads.
