AUGUST FURNITURE SALE

Our first August Furniture Sale will commence on Tuesday, August the second. For months we have been making preparations for this sale. As everyone knows, a Furniture Sale at this store is not a sale of shop-worn, damaged or out-of-date styles. We are less than one year in the furniture business, and most of the furniture to be offered during our August Sale has been purchased during the last six months, and every piece before the recent advance at the factories, the last, a 10% advance made in July, is that much more added to your savings on every piece of furniture you buy during this sale, making this an event of unusual importance. The great reductions on many lines of beautiful furniture and the great amount of furniture bought for this sale at sale prices, which is demonstrated by the price tickets displayed in windows and Furniture Section, should be sufficient to convince every person with the slightest knowledge of furniture value or quality that this is the greatest opportunity furniture buyers have ever had in this city, and that August is the time to buy your furniture. We invite you to look, and assure you that because you come to see we do not wish you to feel under the slightest obligation to make a purchase. This we leave to your own good judgment. This sale includes every line of furniture—Parlor, Bedroom, Hall, Living-room, Den, Library, etc. TODAY WE MAKE SPECIAL MENTION OF DINING-ROOM FURNITURE.

Ten Acres and Independence

Thousands of farmers are today becoming rich and independent on small and well cultivated farms in Ontario. Buy a farm in Ontario now while farms are cheap. We have for sale farms of all sizes and at all prices in every county in Western Ontario, owned by men who on account of old age or who have made a competence and are retiring from active work or who are selling in order to buy more or less land in Ontario or buy more land in the west.

The following are short descriptions of a few of the farms we have for sale:
No. 6352—100 acres in the Township of North Walsingham, County of Norfolk, soil sand loam, 20 acres timber, drained by tile and natural drains, 3 acres of apples, watered by well and creek, 1½ story frame house, 20x24, barn 41x80, on 8 ft. front wall, shed 18x24, other outbuildings, 2 miles to Walsingham Centre market, 4 miles to Courville station, 1 mile to Port Rowan.

No. 6322—50 acres in the Township of Zone, County of Kent, soil sand loam, 19x31, barn 38x50, 20 ft. posts, stabling in barn for 8 horses and 8 head of cattle,
5 miles to Thamesville railroad station and postoffice.

No. 6317—100 acres in the Township of South Colchester, County of Essex, soil sand and clay loam, 20 acres timber, all drained by tile and natural drains, 1½ story frame house, barn 30x50, 20 ft. posts, stabling in barn for 8 horses and 8 head of cattle, granary, lean-to implement house, fowl house 10x12, 5 miles to Kingsville market, 2 miles to Arner railroad station and postoffice.

For further list of farms for sale see today's Free Press or send for our catalogue of farms for sale in any county north or west of Toronto.

LONDON, SATURDAY, JULY 30.

THE HIGHER COST OF LIVING.

The results of the investigation which for some time has been in progress in regard to the increased cost of commodities, are summarized in the latest issue of the Canadian Labor Gazette. The last twenty years is the period covered by the inquiry. No fewer than 230 commodities are enumerated, being grouped into thirteen classes. Charts are given, showing a downward tendency of prices from 1890 to 1898. Since then the movement has been upward.

Prices of agricultural products show the largest increases, grains, fodder, meat-producing animals, milk, eggs, wool, fruits and vegetables having advanced by over 37 per cent compared with the previous ten years. Meats, bran, flour, hides, leather, etc., made from these crude products, have increased by over 34 per cent. Fish products are given as nearly but not quite so high as farm products, while products of the mine are only slightly above the level of the decade, and below it if coal is excluded.

The general level of Canadian manufactured products is about 14 per cent above that of the previous decade. Various grades of Canadian lumber average 50 per cent higher than during the last period. Excluding lumber Canadian manufactured products show a gain of less than 10 per cent compared with the prices in the 1890-99 decade.

Deferred productivity is named by the Gazette as the basic cause of this increase. It is pointed out that the present decade has been one of exceptionally rapid industrial expansion in Canada; that immigration has been on an unprecedented scale; that large areas of new lands have been brought under cultivation, and that in addition there has been a heavy expenditure, chiefly of borrowed capital, on railways, towns, public works and other large undertakings. Emphasis is laid on the point that many of these enterprises have not yet become productive; hence the weight thus far has been thrown almost entirely into the demand side of the scale. The demand in the first instance has been for the materials consumed in the actual undertakings, but the circle of industrial trade activity, once set in motion, has gone on widening until it has reached all but the very edge of the community. There have been heavy increases in lines brought primarily under the influence of the expansion, such as food supplies, lumber and articles produced by the labor deflected, while goods of foreign growth and manufacture, other things being equal, appear in many cases less affected. The report suggests also that the increase in gold production may be a factor in inflating prices.

SPAIN AND THE VATICAN.

The Spanish Government has withdrawn its ambassador at the Vatican. The press dispatches convey a very imperfect idea of the quarrel between Rome and Madrid, leading up to this rupture. They give the impression that non-Catholics have had no freedom of worship in Spain; that the Government decreed full liberty; and that the Vatican demanded the withdrawal of the decree. As a matter of fact, freedom of worship has been permitted to all creeds in Spain, subject to the restriction that non-Catholic societies shall not display their insignia. A Protestant Church or a Jewish synagogue has been hitherto prohibited from exhibiting a sign or a symbol. They have been forbidden to "advertise."

The present Government has demanded a revision of the Concordat, a convention between the Vatican and the Spanish Government of 1851, and overtures for that purpose were made to Rome. The Vatican complains that before the negotiations were fairly begun, the Government violated the Concordat by forbidding the entrance of new religious orders, and by permitting religious minorities to display the insignia of public worship. The Government contends that these matters do not touch the Concordat, or the constitution.

If negotiations had been exhausted, and the Vatican had refused to waive its protest against the liberty of other churches to "carry their signs," its attitude, would not only be intolerant, but purple. It will be fair to wait for further evidence before assuming that the Vatican will take this position. Just now the quarrel appears to be over a point of diplomatic etiquette. The restriction as to the insignia of worship is not consistent with the principles of religious freedom which prevail in this country and in the United States. But troubles like these arise wherever there is an established church, Catholic, Protestant, or Greek. The separation of church and state is better for both.

THE ANTI-CANADIAN CAMPAIGN.

The speculators in southern lands and the American railway companies serving the south, continue to invent an exodus from Canada. The New Orleans Times-Democrat—the note the locality!—says of Canada:
"The American settlers were dissatisfied with the character of the land, the crops from which they alleged consisted principally of alfalfa and such hardy grains as winter wheat, and even these were not sure. The form of government did not appeal to them, and they considered the railroad freight rates exorbitant. The climate was a source of dissatisfaction, ice and snow in August and September of last year adding to their discontent."

Some of the American newspapers are taking the same bait, but not all. The Cincinnati Times-Star says that if the emigration to Canada lets up because the thermometer sometimes drops out of sight in Winnipeg and Medicine Hat, "the character of the American farmer must have changed a good deal in the past few decades." Our fellow-citizen, Mr. Cy Warman, writes his pen on Canada's behalf in the New York Sun. The present campaign, he says, is the third foolish and futile attempt to stop the stampede to Canada. He says he has visited Western Canada frequently in the last seven years, and knows the country thoroughly, and in all his experience has "yet to find the first Yankee or Scotchman kicking on the country or the conditions." He adds:

"Meanwhile Americans from the Middle West are pouring into Canada; one special train delivered about 6000 men at the 2-year-old town of Scott, Sask., in a single day last spring, and they were estimated to be worth $100,000 in money and machinery. They are coming at the rate of about 100,000 a year, bringing $100,000,000 with them."

LAND VALUES.

Real estate values in Vancouver, and some other western cities have taken a drop, but it would be a mistake to regard this as a diminution of wealth. An acre in the heart of New York, or in Winnipeg, or any other centre of population, is intrinsically worth no more an acre of farming land. It would be worth less if it could not produce a crop. A rise in the selling price of land in an urban community does not imply the addition of a single dollar to the wealth of a country. If we were estimating the wealth of Canada, we should have to erase the market value of all land except its value for agricultural purposes. If a parcel of city land is said to be worth a hundred thousand dollars, it simply means that that parcel will exchange for other property valued at a hundred thousand dollars. No wealth has been created; the owner of the land is able to collect a hundred thousand dollars solely by reason of the advantages of its situation. The money goes into his pocket, but it comes out of another pocket. Nothing is more clearly affirmed by economists than the artificial character of values of this kind. A drop in the price of real estate is a loss to the individuals who paid more for it than they can sell it for, but the loss is private, not public. The western real estate booms, and the reactions from those booms, do not affect the real riches of the country, which are determined by the soil and climate.

These strike settlement reports are like Finnegan's dispatch: "Off again, on again."

By the way, these western farmers who are heckling Sir Wilfrid on the tariff question, don't seem to be concerned over imperial preferential trade.

Dr. Crippen and his companion are exciting the interest of everybody but the passengers on the Montrose, who are nearest to the suspects, and have no suspicions.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier yesterday laid the cornerstone of the University of Saskatchewan. Perhaps it was a more congenial task to a scholar and a student than making a political speech.

If Mr. Bryan cuts loose from the Democratic party the loss will be the party's, not his. With all his faults of leadership he has saved it from moral and intellectual bankruptcy in the past few years.

In parts of East Africa the native ladies steal telegraph wire for head-dresses, and put empty marmalade jars in their ear-loops. No doubt they would laugh at the hobble skirts and the big hats of their white sisters.

TOUGHT TO BE INSIDE.

A woman sunbathing at the Thousand Islands had an elaborate funeral, with a band, for her dead foxterrier. Evidently the gate of some asylum has been left open too long.

VACATION.

He travelled more than a thousand miles, with arduous he had to go. But found the grub at the smart hotel far worse than he had at home.

WELCOMING THEM.

Just the other day in the west a party of American settlers came in with the Stars and Stripes waving from their caravans. Arriving at their destination they respectfully packed these flags in the bottom of their trunks and let Union Jacks flutter in the prairie breezes.

The incident forms a pretty bit of Canadian history, and, while perhaps a little ostentatious, is characteristic of the great trek northward. It is appropriate that Sir Wilfrid Laurier is in the west to tell these people they are welcome; that they have the same chances and the same privileges as the rest of us. It was appropriate that he should give the same message to the strangers whose former home was in Europe.

Yes, it was appropriate, and no person knows better how to do it than Sir Wilfrid.

LOGICAL SUFFRAGETTES.

The German suffragettes are more logical than most of their kind. They don't shrink from the liability to military duty which falls to the lot of the male citizen. While some of them are willing to serve in the ranks, the majority suggests that they be drafted for hospital and commissariat service.

NOT HE.

A Cleveland woman left $5,000 to a man who spoke a kind word to her. We note with regret that he was not her husband.

THE SUMMIT OF KINDNESS.

"Was your husband kind to you during your illness?"
"Kind? Ah, indeed, mum! Molke was more like a neighbor than a husband."

NO REASON TO LOAF.

The Loafer—Alas! my ship doesn't come in.
The Real Man—Then get a move on and help some other fellow to unload his.

NO, A GOOD FELLOW.

"A fool and his money are soon parted."
"Yes, but you never call him a fool till the money is gone."

THE DIFFERENCE.

"I decline to spend $30 for a bathing suit."
"But, hubby, you don't understand. This isn't a bathing suit; this is a beach costume."

A RETROGRADE.

Borrowby—The scheme would be a howling success. I could secure the proper backing, and—Grimshaw—The only backing I am doing this year is out.

AN IMPOSSIBLE PROSPERITY.

"What a prosperous looking man."
"Yes, indeed. He owns his automobile free and clear."

A SEEMSTER.

"That clerk of yours seems to be a hard worker."
"Yes; that's his specialty."
"What, working?"
"No—seeming to."

HIS GARDEN.

The average man rarely takes to gardening before he is married.—Weekly Paper.

Ah! I remember somewhere in my cranium
The garden where I used to loiter and yawn,
The sickly pink, the rose, the red geranium,
Around our ragged lawn.

I recollect our golden-haired Hesperides—
My sisters—for they held me then in awe,
And the deep hollows where our doggie buried his Bones with a privy paw.

I think of how my mother oft-times fearfully
Would ask of me—an unobedient kid—
To dig, and how I used to promise cheerfully,
Only I never did.

Those were the times, too, when I hadn't got any Knowledge of things that grow in bed or pot,
And little minded, for I hated botany,
Whether I had or not.

But what a change today! Although my knowledge is Up to this moment little short of bad,
Today, I say, without mere vain apologies,
I'm getting gardening mad.

I mow my lawn with regularity;
I have to labor nightly like a horse,
Because the grass has this peculiarity,
I grows in tufts like gorse.

I garden not because the work's congenial,
Indeed I loathe that simple sort of life;
I do it well, because I'm now a menial;
I'm ordered by my wife!

HAD ITS DAY.
She—The popularity of the bicycle built for two was of short duration.
He—Yes; it wasn't in it with the ham-bone built apparently for one.

SPEAKING OF WOMEN.
[Chicago News.]
Him—Generally speaking, a woman is—
Her—Is what?
Him—Generally speaking.

SAVES WORDS.
[Louisville Courier-Journal.]
"Why do you always jam a thermometer into the patient's mouth? Is the temperature so important?"
"It saves listening to a lot of symptoms," explained the doctor, briefly.

THE MENU CARD.
[Cleveland Leader.]
Guest—"I'll take some of that."
Waiter—Some of which, boss?
Guest—Some of that there. Can't you read?
Waiter—Scuse me, suh. I ain't had no education, neither!

WHAT BOTHERED HIM.
[The Widow.]
"Brown has wired me to send him up some fishing tackle."
"A nuisance, isn't it?"
"No, that isn't it; but I can't remember whether he favors Scotch or rye."

"IF THAT BE TREASON."
[Everybody's Magazine.]
"It was during the Parnell agitation in Ireland that an anti-Parnellite, criticising the ways of tenants in treating absentee landlords, exclaimed to Archbishop Ryan, of Philadelphia: 'Why, it looks very much like treason.'"

Instantly came the answer in the archbishop's best brogue: "Sure, treason is reason when there's an absent 't'."

THE ETERNAL FEMININE.
[Puck.]
"In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love."
"The thoughts of love," a woman's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of clothes."

THEY'RE NOT PYNING.
[Petersburg Examiner.]
Dr. Pyne, minister of education for Ontario, is taking a trip to Paris, France. His objective point would be to Jericho if some of the friends of provincial education, both Grit and Tory, had their wishes carried out.

DOW SURE OF CRIPPEN

Father Point, Que., July 30.—"Be sure they do not commit suicide." These were the most emphatic instructions received by Charles Gauvreau, Government officer at Rimouski. They were part of a message received by him from Lieut. Col. Sherwood, commissioner of Dominion police. The message went on to say the department would see that he (Gauvreau) get a pass to board the Montrose, and continued: "Try to make as sure as possible of the identity of the two people supposed to be Crippen and Miss Leneve, then arrest them. Caution them that anything they say may be used against them. Then separate them."

Crippen Hard Up.
London, July 30.—Special dispatch from Brussels asserts that after purchasing his steamship tickets at Antwerp, Dr. Crippen had less than $20 left, and that prior to sailing he vainly sought to find a loan office.

Father Point, Que., July 29.—The man who holds the key to the Crippen case, Inspector Dew of Scotland Yard, arrived today from London on the steamship Laurentic, and is waiting here to unlock the secret the steamship Montrose will bring to Father Point Sunday.

Dew is the English police officer who made an examination of Dr. Hawley H. Crippen's home in London after the disappearance of the doctor's actress wife, Belle Elmore. He made an appointment to meet Crippen later, but before the date arrived the cellar of the Crippen home had been searched, the mutilated remains of a woman, and Dr. Crippen was a fugitive hunted by the police of two continents.

Awaits the Montrose.
Inspector Dew probably is the only man in America tonight equalled in say with certainty whether the two persons who sailed on the Canadian Pacific liner Montrose from Antwerp on July 20 under the name of John Robinson and John Robinson, Jun., are Dr. Crippen and his typist, Ethel Ellice Levee.

When she stops here to take on her river pilot; he will seek out the two persons on board whom Captain Kendall believes are Crippen and Miss Leneve, and if he clinches the captain's suspicions he will arrest "Robinson" and be arrested by the Canadian police officers, who are waiting here with warrants charging Crippen with the slaying of an unknown woman. His companion will be held as an accomplice.

Chief McCarthy of the Quebec police, who met Dew here today, says he is confident that the suspicions of the Montrose's skipper will prove correct, and that from Quebec Crippen and Miss Leneve will be sent back to England for trial.

The wireless station here resounded all day with messages being exchanged between the Canadian authorities, the Scotland Yard Inspector and the captain of the Montrose. An immense amount of red tape had to be unrolled before the London detective could be landed here from the White Star liner Laurentic, on which he crossed the ocean. She arrived here at 10 o'clock, a clock which afternoon. Father Point has no quarantine and no customs inspector, but Capt. Jean Baptiste Belanger of the tug which puts the pilots aboard incoming liners, received orders from the quarantine and immigration department at Ottawa authorizing him to take Dew off.

Army of Correspondents.
When the pilot boat left here at 3:30 o'clock she carried two physicians especially assigned to inspect the Laurentic, and in addition three Canadian police officers, 20 newspapermen and photographers and as many inhabitants of this little sea coast town as could crowd aboard.

When she sailed alongside the liner a mile from shore, one of the freight hatches on the Laurentic's lower deck was opened and Inspector Dew stepped aboard the smaller boat. It was the first time in the history of the service that a Canadian passenger had been landed here. Before the pilot boat was allowed to leave the liner's side, however, the two physicians spent 20 minutes aboard, but they found nothing to warrant detaining Dew.

The long expected detective proved to be a large, florid-faced man wearing a long green ulster, a black derby and an air of impenetrable reserve. He immediately dodged behind the Canadian police officers and declined to discuss the case. "I am sworn to secrecy," he said. "I cannot answer any of your questions."

When the pilot boat landed Dew drove with the Canadian detectives to a boarding-house, where they stayed until the arrival of the Montrose.

Guarded His Identity.
Passengers on the Laurentic say that Dew guarded his identity from them until yesterday, when a bombardment of wireless queries castor off the fact that he was aboard. He was on the passenger list as "Dewhurst," and when he found that he was known he withdrew from his fellow-passengers and refused to answer questions bearing on the Crippen case.

The fact that he sought out Chief McCarthy, of the Quebec police force here, seems to indicate that the provincial officers and not the Dominion authorities will arrest Crippen if he is aboard the Montrose. When Gustave Gauvreau, of Rimouski, five miles from here, who has been authorized by the Dominion police to make the arrest, presented his card to Dew, the latter waived him aside, and simply asked him to make no further effort to approach him.

The Montrose will enter the mouth of the St. Lawrence tomorrow afternoon and should arrive here Sunday afternoon. She is due at Quebec Monday morning. Inspector Dew and Chief McCarthy visited the local wireless station here tonight to make sure that the restrictions placed by the Government on wireless communication with the Montrose were regarded.

The police say that the couple aboard the vessel do not yet know that they are under suspicion and that every precaution is being taken to prevent their getting wind of the elaborate preparations to receive them here.

No private messages to the Montrose are received here, and it is said that the captain of the vessel exercises supervision over everything received. The police fear that if any of the passengers hear of the suspicion regarding the alleged Crippen the latter may learn of it, and the task of identifying and arresting him on Sunday will be made more difficult. By a complete surprise Inspector Dew and the Canadian police hope to break the self-possession of the man and perhaps obtain a confession before they reach Quebec.

Inspector Dew's disinclination to discuss the case and his aversion to reporters is almost humorous. He even threatens to bar them from boarding the Montrose.

STRATFORD PASSES SEVERAL BYLAWS

Street Railway, Dutton Company Bonus and Hydro-Electric Plant. [Special to The Advertiser.]

Stratford, July 30.—Stratford citizens were in a bylaw-carrying mood yesterday, and the result was that all three bylaws were handsomely indorsed by the ratepayers.

There has been a long felt desire for an electric railway in the city and connection with outside places, and the desire bids fair to be realized as a result of yesterday's voting. Most decisively the ratepayers indicated their desire for a street railway by the overwhelming vote of 1,492 to 48, thus accepting the proposition of the Stratford Railway Company. Connection with Grand Bend, via Exeter, is included in the scheme. The franchise falls back into the city's hands if definite progress is not made either in actual construction or in purchase of material, and its presence on the ground within six months. By today's vote ten years' exemption of taxes is granted, except school and local improvement.

The citizens indicated their desire for the retention of the Dutton Woolen Mills in no uncertain manner. An unusually large vote was required to carry this bylaw, three-fifths, of the ratepayers being necessary. Its promoters were somewhat dubious of their ability to carry the bylaw under such requirements, but it was passed by a vote of 1,358 to 181. The effect of this bylaw is that the city guarantees the bonds of the Duttons, Limited, for $12,000, on consideration that the company rebuild the plant recently destroyed by fire. The new building will be much larger than the old, increasing the staff and wages 50 per cent, as the output more than 50 per cent.

The result of the hydro-electric bylaw is a particular source of gratification to the promoters of that bylaw. From its inception the bylaw aroused a great deal of opposition, but it was presented so attractively that it swept everything before it, carrying by 1,226 to 291. This bylaw provides for the purchase of the local electric plant, which the arbitrators last December awarded at $58,800, at $15,000 less, or $43,800, and divided into $4,380, paid yearly, without interest.

The polling for the day was fairly heavy, considering the inclement weather and the holiday season.

Hockey Star Leaves.
One of the best hockey players Stratford ever turned out, in the person of Jimmie Preston, left at 4:30 yesterday to take a position with the T. Eaton Company of Toronto.

This is only another instance of the Eaton Company's aggressive movement to acquire a septette of star hockeyists for the coming winter. Three of Stratford's best, in Ramsay Rankin, Jimmie Preston, and Frank Rankin, are now with the Eaton Company.

Strike Situation.
There is little new in the strike situation so far as Stratford is concerned.

G. T. Pettigrew, division freight agent, issued the following message to agents, Weston to Point Edward, inclusive, and north of Guelph, Berlin, Stratford and Lucknow Crossing: "Loss than carload freight, other than perishable and live stock, may now be accepted at all stations, when such freight is destined to all our stations on connecting lines east of Detroit River, except to stations on northern and southern divisions. This may be understood to apply to less than carload traffic, via Point Edward and Northern Navigation Company."

INJURIES PROVED FATAL

Death of Man Who Was Hurt in Maxwell Works, St. Marys.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
St. Marys, July 30.—Richard Watson, who was injured some time ago in a belt accident at the Maxwell works, died yesterday at the age of 58 years. A widow survives him. The funeral takes place on Monday, Aug. 1, from his late residence, Thomas street, at 2:30 p.m., service at the house at 2 p.m. Interment will be made at St. Marys Cemetery.

The Baptist Church people held a very enjoyable picnic at Cadzow Park yesterday afternoon.

Richard Routley, of Port Arthur, who has been visiting his father, John Routley, who was injured a short time ago by being struck by a G. T. R. engine at Elgin street crossing, returned Thursday, his father being much improved.

There was another heavy downpour of rain yesterday afternoon, which will greatly improve the pasture and the root crops.

Frank J. O'Dea, who has been in the west for some time, arrived home this week.

Mrs. Wm. Fletcher, of London, and formerly of St. Marys, is visiting Mrs. John Perry, Water street south.

Five drayloads of eggs came here yesterday from Centralia to be shipped by the C. P. R. owing to the G. T. R. strike.

Monday, Aug. 1, is St. Marys Civic Holiday. Excursions to all points on the G. T. R. and C. P. R. have been arranged for.

CLASH WITH VATICAN
MAY CAUSE A WARPretender to the Spanish Throne Issues Call to Battle for the Carlists.

[Associated Press Cable.]
San Sebastian, Spain, July 29. — Don Jamie of Bourbon the Carlist pretender to the Spanish throne, today issued a manifesto to the Carlists in Parliament, congratulating them upon their loyalty to the Pope and their devotion to the church, and declaring:

"I think the day is not far distant when my followers must rally to the flag. I will head the battle."

Signs of Civil War.
Madrid, July 29. Ominous reports are received, following the publication of the news that a rupture between the Spanish Government and the Vatican appears imminent.

At San Sebastian, Don Jamie, the pretender, has issued a manifesto in which he says that he will lead the Carlists in the battle which he intimates may be coming soon.

It is expected that Premier Canalejas will ask King Alfonso to set the stamp of his majesty's approval upon the course that the premier has adopted.

The Vatican has declared that the negotiations looking to a revision of the concordat cannot be continued until the imperial decree permitting non-Catholic societies to display the insignia of public worship has been withdrawn. The premier has responded that he cannot cancel the programme. In some quarters it is believed that the Holy See counts upon the fall of the Government. Canalejas, however, is said to have had the assurance of the King's support at the time he determined upon his plan for religious reforms. The general situation is complicated by the unrest among the miners in the Catalonia provinces, and the occasional clashes between Catholics and non-Catholic elements throughout the country.

MR. CROUCH RETURNS

Attended Convention of Stationary Engineers in Berlin.

Engineer Crouch, of the G. T. R., city, has returned from a visit to the convention of the Canadian Association of Stationary Engineers, held in Berlin during the week, having put in an enjoyable and instructive time. He has come to the conclusion that the association does not do things by halves, for the energy displayed in the transaction of business, as well as the sports, was to be admired. The papers read at the session on Wednesday evening were well worth a long journey to listen to. They were as follows:

"Considerations Affecting the Choice of an Engine," by A. W. Spotten, of Goldie & McCulloch, Galt, Ont.

"Steam as a Motive Power," by A. M. Wilkens, chief engineer, Canadian Casualty and Boiler Insurance Company, Toronto, Ont.

"A Treatise on Economical Treatment of Condensation," by H. L. Peller, of Peller & MacKenzie, Montreal.

FELL EIGHT FLOORS

Workman on High Building Meets With Terrible Death.

Toronto, July 29. — George Van Wagner, an iron worker, employed by the Canada Foundry Company, died at St. Michael's Hospital shortly before six o'clock last night from injuries sustained by falling from the eighth story of the new Kent building at Richmond and Yonge streets.

The unfortunate man was assisting some fellow-workmen in adjusting a derrick on the top story, when he overbalanced and fell to the basement, a distance of 125 feet. In falling his head came in contact with several girders and beams. When picked up he was suffering from a deep scalp wound, besides being badly bruised about the face and arms. He was rushed in the police ambulance to the hospital, but he never regained consciousness, and died shortly after his admission there. He was 36 years of age, and was survived by a widow and three children. His home is at the Humber. An inquest will be held.

SIR H. TICHBORNE DEAD.

London, July 28. — Sir Henry Tichborne, who, as a child, was defendant in Arthur Orton's historic attempt to possess himself of the Tichborne estate, is dead. Sir Henry was a famous big game hunter. He returned from an expedition to Africa last Saturday and on his arrival home had a paralytic stroke, to which he succumbed.

WISE WORDS

A Physician on Food.

A physician out in Oregon has views about food. He says:

"I have always believed that the duty of the physician does not cease with treating the sick, but that we owe it to humanity to teach them how to protect their health, especially by hygiene and dietetic laws."

"With such a feeling as to my duty I take great pleasure in saying to the public that in my own experience and also from personal observation, I have found no food to equal Grape-Nuts, and that I find there is almost no limit to the great benefit this food will bring when used in all cases of sickness and convalescence."

"It is my experience that no physical condition forbids the use of Grape-Nuts. To persons in health there is nothing so nourishing and acceptable to the stomach, especially at breakfast, to start the day's work. In cases of indigestion I know that a complete breakfast can be made of Grape-Nuts and cream, and I think it is necessary not to overeat the stomach at breakfast. I also know the great value of Grape-Nuts when the stomach is too weak to digest other food."

"This is written after an experience of more than 20 years of treating all manner of chronic and acute diseases, and the letter is written voluntarily on my part without any request for it."

Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in packages. "There's a Reason."

FORGETS THE PARTY
SAYS SIR WILFRIDBut Remembers That He Is a Canadian and Proud of the Dominion.

Saskatoon, July 29. — Saskatoon made a record reception for the Premier when he arrived here last night. Huge arches, decorated with electric lights, covered every exit from the main part of the town to the outside. Hon. Mr. Graham, after descending from the platform in the centre of the city, where speeches had been made, unwittingly delayed the procession by becoming absorbed in examining the prize team that was to draw the Premier. While Sir Wilfrid, the band, the soldiers, and the Mounted Police waited, he walked about and about the beauties, examining them. When finally reminded that the procession was waiting, he was explaining the frog of one horse's hoof. As he put the foot down he found a horseshoe, which he carefully preserved.

On Historic Ground.
Yesterday Sir Wilfrid addressed meetings from his car at Rosthern and Duck Lake, both places adjacent to Batoche, the scene of the 1885 rebellion. He spoke of the rebellion as "a thing which perhaps might not have occurred had the Government acted more promptly." He rejoiced, however, in the peaceful times which succeeded the rebellion.

At Rosthern, an old Indian medicine woman pressed through the crowd, and seizing the Premier's hand, kissed it fervently. She then pressed upon him a package of fragrant roots dramatically, and then as quickly as samples.

"You very lucky," she muttered she had come disappeared, a weird figure, through the crowd. The incident made a profound impression on the Indians, and they redoubled their enthusiasm.

Not a Party Man.

"I forget that I am a party man," declared the Premier in his speech, "though I am proud of my party. I remember rather that I am a Canadian, that you are Canadians, and I stand before you as a Canadian speaking to Canadians, proud of our country, proud of the British institutions under which we live, the freest and best under the sun. I extend to the newcomers Canada's warm and hearty welcome."

Sir Wilfrid addressed himself to the women in the gathering. Theirs was the better part. It was to them that the country looked in its great ambition to make this a happy homeland, to create a high standard of ideals, to supply sunlight and hope and joy, to be an uplift in the life of this young nation.

The Suffrage Question.

"I do not know whether you want to vote or not," he said, smiling. "Nothing of the kind has been intimated to me in any of the many addresses I have received. I look about me, and I realize that I now understand the lofty spirit of inspiration in your loving service. You may not vote, but you rule all the same by a higher and more potent force than the franchise. It is with you in new Saskatchewan as with us in old Quebec. I am not now young, as you see. I speak from the inspiration of 40 years of happy married life."

Hudson Bay Railway.

Alluding to the Hudson Bay Railway, to which reference had been made in the address, Sir Wilfrid disclaimed promises. He preferred performances, and related what had been accomplished—the building of the bridge over the Saskatchewan River. Next year construction would be continued to the bay. He prophesied that in three years at the most the whistle of the steam engine would be heard on Hudson Bay in the opening of a great natural outlet for the continent. (Cheers.)

Hon. Beo. P. Graham pointed out that the building of the railway was the smallest part of the project the Premier had committed to him.

"We propose," said he, "not only to open up the country by transportation, but to secure a market for its produce. We plan harbors, wharf equipment, and elevators properly conducted. (Applause.)"

It's Good Business.

"A connecting steamship line to carry the wheat to European markets has to be a part of the arrangements. I have been in conference with transportation men on the project. They view it as an experiment. This is not politics, but business. We believe it to be good business for the whole of Canada. You have not only the grain, you have possibilities for mixed farming. A shortened haul will open up operations in the cattle trade. We believe ourselves to be in a position to go ahead on a sound business basis."

"When?" asked a voice.
"Immediately. Before your town is much older it will send grain to Liverpool over the projected route. If you watch the newspapers for the next few months you will find announcements of further important steps to be taken. I hope to remain in office long enough to take a trip over the new route."

RAWN A SUICIDE

Coroner's Jury Says That He Killed Himself With His Own Revolver.

Chicago, July 28.—The coroner's jury impaneled to inquire into the death of Ira Griffin Rawn, late president of the Monon Railway, returned its verdict at 8 o'clock this morning. It found that he died from shot fired from his own weapon by his own hand. The verdict is as follows:
"We, the jurors, sworn on oath to inquire into the death of Ira G. Rawn, at his home in Winnetka, on July 20, find that he came to his death at 1:30 o'clock on the morning of July 20 from shock and hemorrhage, caused by a bullet from his own revolver, fired by his own hand, but whether this was accidental or with suicidal intent, this jury is unable to determine, except that the location of the wound and the type of revolver render the accident theory less probable."

DIVIDEND SUSPENDED.

New York, July 29.—Announcement was made today that the directors of the Atlas Portland Cement Company, which has a capitalization of $12,500,000, have decided to suspend the dividend on its common stock for the present. The company, which has been paying 3 per cent on common, obtained a contract from the Government aggregating many millions of dollars to furnish cement for the Panama Canal.

GROWTH OF THE KRUPPS

Wonderful Increase in Business of the Big Gunmakers.

London, July 29.—To English people the German danger is always closely identified with the great firm of Krupps. Some time ago a controversy arose in England concerning an alleged secret increase in the number of workmen employed by the firm. It was denied at the time, but from the report just published by the Essen Chamber of Commerce it appears that the Krupps force on May 1 last numbered 85,905 men, an increase of about 5,000 in the last two years.

The Chamber of Commerce report gives some interesting figures illustrating the continued growth of this German concern. In 1909 Krupps used 1,294,000 tons of coal and 771,000 tons of coke. The gas works produced gas for 2,004 street lamps and for 23,307 workshops, offices and dwelling houses. In addition, the central electric generating station produced 29,640,000 kilowatts of electric energy, compared with 25,541,000 kilowatts in the previous year.

In 1909 the cast steel works contained 7,500 working machines, 435 steam boilers, 554 steam engines of from 2,000 to 7,000-horsepower, and an aggregate capacity of 89,430 horsepower; 2,690 electric motors, having an aggregate power of 50,491 horsepower.

In the testing house of the cast steel works at Essen and in the rolling mills 220,000 tests were carried out in 1909, being 20,000 more than in 1908. In addition 31,500 shots and 308,250 pounds of powder were fired in 1909 in the three powder butts attached to the works. In the previous year these figures were 30,000 shots and 202,500 pounds. The aggregate weight of projectiles fired amounted to 775 tons of metal.

CONVICT TRANSPORTS

How French Government Carries Its Criminals to Penal Settlements.

London, July 29.—French convicts, it is often said in France, are too well treated in Guiana and other penal settlements, but the good treatment certainly does not begin with their transportation to their new home.

Five hundred have just left on the transport Loire. Chained two and two to each other the prisoners are taken from the old citadel in the Ile de Re, near Rochelle, marched to the pier and placed on barges which take them to the ship. Once aboard they descend to the iron cages or bagnes, of which there are four between decks separated from each other by passages in which are sentries on guard fully armed.

Bread is distributed every morning, and twice a day a party ascends to the deck with vessels which are filled with provisions at the rate of twelve portions in each. Sometimes the food is codfish cooked with rice, sometimes bacon with potatoes or beans or lentils. The pans having been brought down to the cages the convicts devour their contents.

In fine weather when the transport is well away from land parties of a hundred at a time are allowed on deck for half an hour. Hammocks are served out in the evening slung to the ceiling of the cage and the convicts get what sleep they can.

As many of these men are desperate criminals great precautions are taken on board to keep them in order. Four guns loaded with grape stand in readiness to suppress any attempt at revolt, and when they are permitted on deck a hose connected with the boilers is within reach of the sailors on guard.

DEAD BY THE ROADSIDE.

Oshawa, July 29. — James Conlin was found dead by the roadside with a bullet wound in the head. He was in the corporation limits early this morning by a farmer driving into town. Investigation showed death had been caused by acute heart disease.

Conlin, who lived on a farm about four miles out, was in town, and started for home late in the evening, and it is supposed to have fallen from the rig when taken with the seizure. His horse went home, and the rig bore evidence of being damaged.

THE WOMAN'S CORNER

SMART SUIT OF LINEN

Narrow belted-in skirts are coming steadily into favor, much as they hamper the wearer's steps. Low-cut collars and very short sleeves are also "the thing" with those who wish to be up-to-date. The frock in this sketch is of blue linen, and is laced up the side of the bodice with a heavy silk cord. Long blue silk gloves, blue suede shoes and a drop-earrings Persian-silk-covered hat trimmed with pastel-shaded roses were worn with this costume.

CYNTHIA GREY'S CORRESPONDENTS

Dear Miss Grey: What is the best way to wash and launder a navy blue and white striped suit, to keep the blue from running into the white?

VON YOLLA.
A.—Wash in gasoline and press out the next day with a moderately hot iron.

Dear Miss Grey: 1. Please give me some suggestions for a picnic. I am thinking of inviting about five girls and the same number of young men. 2. Also, what would you suggest as a suitable birthday present for my gentleman friend? Would a nice Bible be a suitable gift? 3. Will salts of lemon remove stains from a linen dress, without fading the color?

A.—1. A feature which created great amusement at a picnic which I once attended was the using of the left hand exclusively while at lunch and in several of the games. Everyone present had his or her right hand tied up in a handkerchief and was obliged to eat with their left hand alone. It is no easy matter, I can assure you, and our many awkward attempts caused much merriment. The idea was further carried out in several of the games. Our hostess had provided several small hoops of wire. A stout twig was placed upright in the ground, and a game of quoits followed, all throwing with their left hand. I may add that the score showed many more "misses" than "hits." A picnic nowadays seems incomplete without having a picture taken of the group. At a club picnic recently given, the boys and girls changed hats and coats while being kodaked, and the result was funny in the extreme. For lunch, nothing is nicer than a good variety of sandwiches: an iced cake or two; pickles and olives; deviled eggs; ice cream, if possible, and lemonade or coffee. If you are holding your picnic beside water, nothing adds more to the enjoyment of the evening than an hour's boating.

2. A book by one of his favorite authors: a pretty out-of-door scene; a local snapshot; preferred with a postcard; or a cushion for his room. Yes, if you think he has not got one already.

3. I'm afraid not.

Dear Miss Grey: What can I do for laughing wrinkles, and to fatten my face?

DORIS.
A.—Facial massage will tone up the skin, improve its circulation, and make the face more plump. It will remove the larger wrinkles. Wrinkles are caused by the stretching of the muscles which reflect the emotions of the soul. The frown and the look of scorn should be avoided. Laughing wrinkles are things to be proud of.

Dear Miss Grey: 1. In what order should pie, pudding, and fruit be served? 2. Is the lettuce leaf eaten with the salad or left on the plate? 3. When serving banana with mayonnaise, what time during the meal does it come?

A. B.
A.—1. These are desserts and served at the close of the meal—not eaten more than one of them at a meal, however. 2. Usually left on the plate. 3. After the meat and vegetable course, and before dessert.

Dear Miss Grey: What are the first signs of consumption? R. D. A. B. C. D. E. F. G. H. I. J. K. L. M. N. O. P. Q. R. S. T. U. V. W. X. Y. Z.

A.—It comes in many forms and with different symptoms. The most frequent are persistent coughing, weakness, lack of endurance, sweating at night, and a general feeling of being unwell. If you are one of your family suspect such a thing, consult a good physician at once.

Dear Miss Grey: 1. I wish to give a party on my 14th birthday. Should I invite all girls or half boys? 2. What shall I serve for refreshments?

SATIE.
A.—1. Of course, your mother will be present, and I suggest inviting boys, too. 2. Fruit punch, nut cheese sandwiches and olives first, then an ice and your birthday cake with the fourteen candles.

Dear Miss Grey: 1. When one receives a wedding announcement, how should it be recognized? 2. Is it necessary to send a present? 3. Which is taking the lead in fancy work, eyelet or solid embroidery? 4. Will braiding be as popular as ever this fall? 5. How and when should a lunch cloth be used?

MILDRED.
A.—1. Wedding invitations do not require any answer, unless one is requested—or if a "sit-down" dinner or breakfast is to be given. Friends at a distance acknowledge a wedding invitation by sending their visiting cards in an envelope addressed to the bride's parents, or the person in whose name the invitations are issued.

2. Not unless you are a particular friend.

3. Either is very popular. Wall-paper and coronation braid designs are also much in demand, especially for cushion tops. Crocheting is "all the rage" this summer for trimming undergarments, table and toilet mats, etc.

4. Yes.

5. Use a lunch cloth for afternoon teas, served either on the verandah or indoors, and for an evening lunch of any kind where the table is to be set.

Dear Miss Grey: 1. Would you please give us some recipes for home-made candy? 2. Is it proper for a young man to accompany a girl home from a concert when he does not accompany her there? 3. What should a girl say when a young man asks to accompany her home? 4. Would you please give us a recipe for canning green peas?

THREE GIRLS.
A.—1. Fudge is about the only candy I have ever had actual experience in making, so will give you my recipe for two kinds. To be successful in making fudge the main thing is not to boil it too long, nor to beat it too much, and nothing will make one perfect but frequent trials.

Chocolate Fudge—To three cups of granulated sugar and two tablespoons of cocoa, add half a cup of milk. Bring slowly to the boiling point and allow to boil very fast, stirring often. Boil hard ten minutes, or until it will form a soft ball when dropped into water. Add a lump of butter, remove from the fire and stir with one teaspoon vanilla. Beat steadily until it begins to get smooth and glossy. Pour into buttered pan. Walnuts are nice in this fudge. Add them along with the vanilla.

Cream Nut Fudge—Two cups of granulated sugar, half-cup white icing sugar, lump of butter; any preferred kind of nuts, half-cup; half-cup milk; one teaspoon vanilla. Proceed the same as with the chocolate fudge.

A pleasing variety is given by omitting the nut-meats in this cream fudge, and using instead chopped dates, candied cherries, or shredded cocoanut.

A dainty confection, and one of which we are all fond, is stuffed dates. Procure the largest and firmest dates possible and remove the stones. Make a fondant by stirring icing sugar into a little warm milk, a tablespoon of milk to two of sugar, and add a little vanilla flavoring. Fill the dates and roll in granulated sugar. A walnut meat may also be stuffed into each date.

2. Yes.

3. "Thank you."

4. Shell and pack closely in jars. Add to each quart one teaspoon salt, and one teaspoon sugar. Fill full of water and put covers on loosely. Set in a boiler, using a cloth pad or strips of wood beneath, and between the jars, to prevent them cracking. Fill water in around them to the necks; bring to a boil and keep boiling vigorously for fifteen minutes. Remove from fire, and when cool seal the jars tightly.

5. "Thank you."

6. "Thank you."

7. "Thank you."

8. "Thank you."

9. "Thank you."

10. "Thank you."

To clean water jars or small neck bottles, or glass jars with cut lemon peel in small pieces. Put in jar and fill with cold water and let stand a few hours or over night. Will be perfectly clean in the morning.

When canning fruit, if a silver tablespoon is placed in a glass jar before pouring in the hot fruit, it will prevent the jar from breaking. This also applies when it is desired to put hot dessert in a cut glass dish.

If the hands have become very much stained with ink, they should be rubbed with lemon juice.

"Be careful," she answered, speaking slowly. "Heinrich is not to be trusted."

"If it makes you feel easier," I answered, "I will take no chances. I know Heinrich would do anything, but this time there is little need for fear. The countess has something to tell me. I'm sure. And then, too, they'd not harm an English undersecretary."

BOWLING GREENS

The Trundlers Are Returning to Their Homes and Play Has Ceased.

McNEE MATCH POSTPONED

Yesterday's Rainstorm Soaked the Lawns and Rendered Play Next to Impossible.

The bowling tournament is a thing of the past. Yesterday afternoon the McNeen trophy match was brought down to three rinks, all from London.

Bert Heaman won from E. A. Coughlin, of Aylmer, in as hard a battle as has been seen on the green for some days.

He will now fight it out with Skip Charlie Abbott for a position in the finals against Barney Vining's four.

By a singular coincidence Abbott and Heaman battled for the O. B. A. championship at Niagara-on-the-Lake, Abbott won, and Heaman hopes to even matters now.

Coughlin, of Aylmer, and Ray, of Strathroy, tossed for fourth place in the consolation, and the Aylmer skip won the choice.

Bowlers Off for Home. Practically all the outside bowlers have returned home. Bawden and Little, of Ridgeway, who were in the jewelry class in the Scotch doubles, departed, taking a prize with them. They did not wish to remain another day.

It is expected that Heaman and Abbott will play on Tuesday next for the McNeen trophy, and then the finals will be played later.

TWO FAST GAMES FOR THE HOLIDAY

Management of London Team Arranges Matches With Johnston's Strathroy.

The management of the London Baseball Club have arranged a series of games with the Strathroy team for the championship of Middlesex. The first meeting will take place at Tecumseh Park on Civic Holiday, when two games will be played, at 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. The Strathroy team is now under the wing of Abbie Johnson, the old Londoner, late of the South Middlesex League, who has drilled them in such a fine shape that the team that beats them will have to be a real team.

The London team has been playing regularly, and the fans that go to see these games will witness good exhibitions. The batteries are Smith, Holt, and Newton; London, Tether, Clarke, Miller and Daniels.

COBB'S GREAT WORK
WINS FOR CHAMPS

Ty Scores From Second on Bunt in Seventh With Lone Tally of Game.

SOX HELD DOWN TIGHT

Only One Allowed Past the First Base—Summers Touched for But One Hit.

Chicago, July 29.—The most sensational game of ball and the greatest pitching duel ever witnessed at Comiskey Park was played this afternoon between the White Sox and the Tigers and only one of the most brilliant pieces of base running of the year by Ty Cobb allowed the Tigers to score the only run of the game in the seventh inning.

Only once were the White Sox able to reach first base through hitting Eddie Summers safely, and his hit was good for but one base. On two other different occasions did members of Duffy's organization get as far as the initial sack, and these were through passes issued by the Tiger twirler.

"You can't stop the Tigers now," is the sentiment of Chicago fans at present. Their work of the past few days is what has made them look good right here in Chicago. It has been 27 innings since they have been scored on, and this is due to the work of their pitchers, who have come back from the slump that they were in on the eastern trip.

Fitted against Summers Duffy had big Ed Walsh. The "spittin' artist" was working well enough for him to win the game, and had it not been for the great work of Cobb in the seventh inning, the game would probably have ended with the result being a scoreless tie.

Cobb's Great Play. The play and after Cobb had started the inning with a clean single to left, his second hit of the day, Crawford fled to first. Parent and then Cobb, seeing there was little chance of him being brought in from first with Walsh pitching the way he was, stole second. Still the Georgian had to rely upon himself to get the rest of the way around the circuit, for he was, stole second, and in doing so, he would have been scoreless Cobb to third. He laid the ball down the third base line perfectly, in fact, so that he took giant steps toward winning the game. Pittsburg Takes Hard Battle From Bresnahan's Players.

WHITE HIT VERY HARD

Is Pulled From Box—Maddox, Succeeded Him, Holds the Reds.

Pittsburg, July 29.—Pittsburg won an uphill game from Cincinnati, 7 to 3, today by hitting Burns in the fourth inning and taking advantage of two of the visitors' errors in the seventh. White was hit hard at the start of the game, but Maddox, who succeeded him, was invincible. The score:

FIERCE HAILSTORM
VISITS KERWOODGreat Damage to Crops—A 12-Acre Field of Oats Destroyed—Hailstones 2 1/2 Inches Long.Kerwood, July 29.—The fierce hailstorm that visited this place last week was most disastrous in its effects, almost totally destroying oats, corn, wheat, etc.Where it was at its worst was about a mile west and southwest of Kerwood. A heavy gale from the northwest accompanied the hail and rain, and most of the houses in this vicinity have the north windows badly smashed.The hail in its course struck a 12-acre field of oats, completely battering the standing grain, laying it flat on the ground.One of the stones, by actual measurement, was found to be two and a half inches in length. The fences shows the amount of hailstones as it hit by bullets. An unlucky hen happened to be in the path of one of the hailstones. She never smiled—or cackled—again, and an inquest was considered unnecessary.Altogether several thousands of dollars' damage was done in this neighborhood, practically all the crops not harvested being ruined.

DELAWARE.

Delaware, July 28.—The garden party which was held on the grounds of St.
Andrew's Presbyterian Church was a great success. The lawn, flower beds and grounds were tastefully decorated with bunting, flags and evergreens, and were tastefully lighted. Mr. Duncan C.
Ross, M. P., proved a model chairman.
The program of music varied and entertaining. The ministers of both the other churches lent their aid. The London Imperial Quartette were fully appreciated, and responded generously to requests. Mr. J. Taylor did justice to the occasion. Miss McLean, of Melbourne, greatly pleased the audience. The stalwart pipers, Gordon and Henry Nickol, displayed their handsome Highland regalia and vintage and rendered Scottish music which was enjoyed in the open. Miss Boyd sang "Annie Laurie" by request.
In short, all who took part were hearty praise, none more than the Ladies' Aid who served a choice collation that everyone enjoyed.

2,000.SUMMER MONTHS FATAL TO SMALL CHILDREN.Every mother must know how fatal the summer months are to small children. Cholera Infantum, diarrhea, dysentery and stomach troubles are all common at this time, and many a precious life is snuffed out after only a few hours' illness. As a safeguard mothers should keep Baby's Own Tablets in the house. An occasional dose of the Tablets will prevent stom-

the trouble comes on suddenly, will bring the little one through safely. Mrs. R. E. Sanford, In-

NO PROPOSITION IS MADE

City Council of London Met Representatives of the Company Yesterday
But Nothing Was Done.A conference was held yesterday afternoon between Messrs. J. C. Moody and W. H. Bugg, of Berlin, representatives of the People's Railway Company, and the city council relative to bringing the railway to London. No definite action was taken on the proposition, but a further conference will be held later, when further information will be received.Mr. Bugg explained the proposition.
The railway was a people's railway, in that the people put up the money. The company was capitalized at a million dollars, and had a charter for 116 miles of railway.A People's Railway.
"Our scheme is to make a people's railway in truth," said Mr. Bugg. "We issue preferred stock six per cent to the municipalities. The interest is cumulative. We issue this stock to the extent of $3,000 per mile. A number of municipalities have taken up this stock; in fact, we have succeeded in every municipality where the scheme has been properly placed before the people. New Hamburg took $20,000 worth, Wilmet Township $30,000.Wellesley Township $15,000, Blenheim Township $15,000, Berlin $65,000. A bylaw is being submitted in Guelph for $85,000. You see the municipalities have responded well to the proposition and it is merely government ownership applied. There will be no watered stock. We will be bonded up to $16,000 a mile, a low estimate indeed. The present stock is selling nothing out of the but common stock, and they have that much faith in the enterprise that they are confident the common stock will pay interest from the beginning.Mr. Bugg had no plan for entering the city as yet. Their engineers had not gone over the ground at all, but they so shortly. When they had done that a proposition would be submitted to the council of London.Is Now Assured.
Mr. J. C. Moody, of Berlin, also outlined the scheme. There was much skepticism regarding it at first, but now it was assured, and there was no doubt that eventually it would be a great success. He thought London would be an ideal centre for a radial system. There was excellent farming country round about."What do you think of the prospects for radial roads in this district?" Mr.
Moody asked the aldermen."I think the time is ripe for a system of radials in Western Ontario," said Mayor Beattie. "Radials would be a good thing for London, and the city would profit greatly by them.""What would happen the charter of the North Middle Railway?" asked Ald. Fitzgerald. "You know they had a charter over practically the same ground.""If we built first, I do not think you would hear much of the other road, as it would, if built, duplicate our railway," answered Mr. Bugg. "It looks very much as if the road built first would be the only one."Await Further Information.
After a desultory discussion on the question, it was decided to await further information.Mr. Bugg pointed out that fifty miles of the road was under construction at the present time, and if the members of the council could at any time come to Berlin they would gladly show them around and explain the proposition.Those present were Mayor Beattie, Ald. Richter, Ald. Eckert, Ald. Ash-plant, Ald. Fitzgerald, Ald. Pocock, Ald.
Tancock and Publicity Agent Carruthers.

SARNIA'S CIVIC HOLIDAY

Brown.[Special to The Advertiser.]
Sarnia, July 30.—The strike situation in Sarnia remains practically the same as in the beginning except that an occasional freight train comes in and goes out. The strikers are conducting themselves in a very orderly manner.
The sympathies of the people here are largely with the men.The Sarnia Street Railway Company are sparing no pains to make Civic holiday a most pleasant one for those who go to Lake Huron Park. During the afternoon the Citizens' Band will furnish music, and a good programme of sports has been arranged. There will also be a dance in the evening, and a display of fireworks.Mrs. Thomas Brown, aged 88 years, a highly respected lady, and at one time a resident of Moore Township, died at St. Paul, Minn., on Thursday.
Mrs. Brown and her husband were well known in Moore Township about

That Fully $475,000 Will Have Been Received.The taxes are pouring into Major Hayes, tax collector, and on Tuesday night it is expected that fully $475,000 will have been taken in at the office.
Up to Friday night, about $200,000 had been received, and today large sums are being paid. Major Hayes has not yet any idea how much was taken in."The payments are good this year, but are no better than last," he stated to The Advertiser. "The total taxes amount to about $700,000. The year we received approximately $470,000 in the first instalment. We will reach that sum this year, I think."The office will be open on Tuesday.
The taxes are due, July 31, but this falls on Sunday. Money is in a holiday. It has been decided to open on Tuesday to accommodate those who could not pay their taxes sooner.CITY WILL PUT METER

it was decided to purchase a self-reg-

By Big ConsolidationFurther impetus to the industrial development of the province will be given by the Canada Machinery Corporation. How industry has grown under direction of R. MacGregor, of Galt.The organization of the Canada Machinery Corporation, recently put through by prominent Toronto financiers, has more than usual interest as all the companies included in the consolidation have grown with the country from very small beginnings to the point where they are the large-est concerns in the province.The town of Galt has, for a great many years past, been the great centre in Canada for the manufacture of wood-working machinery and tools, and the growth of the industry there and in the neighboring towns that have been devoted to this branch of industry has been of the most remarkable character. Ever since the wood-working machinery business in Canada was big enough to be known as the name of Mr. R. MacGregor has been closely associated with it, and it was under his direction that the leading companies included in the consolidation became known by the lines of machinery they manufactured from one end of Canada to the other. Some idea of how the industry has grown since Mr. MacGregor went into Galt some 27 years ago may be gathered from the fact that in the last ten years less than eighty hands were employed in the various departments of the Mac-Gregor-Gourley plant, while at the present time there are over four hundred employed, while the company itself has gradually grown from a twenty-thousand dollar concern to close to a million-dollar concern.Mr. MacGregor, as well as all the other men who have had practical experience in the different companies included in the consolidation, are being actively identified with the Canada Machinery Corporation, and as the reorganization plan provides for ample working capital of the new company, the development of the wood-working machinery and tool manufacturing of Canada should be much greater than it has ever been at any previous period.BOY DROWNED.

STOCK OF GOLDRussia's Metallic Reserve on the Increase—Gain for Bank of England.London, July 29.—The principal points of the half-yearly statistics, showing the gold holdings of the leading European banks of issue, as compared with the position a year ago, are the strengthening of the Bank of Russia's metallic reserves and a decline in those of the Bank of France.
The continued absorption by the latter of the precious metal has often been referred to in this country as a menace to the London money market, which in past times of stress has had to borrow heavily from France to replenish a shortage of supply.The recent advance in European exchange has caused the bulk of the gold coming into the open market to be taken on continental account.
This, coupled with a call of $1,700,- 000 in gold for export to America, justifies the belief that the present English bank rate of 3 per cent will not be lowered throughout the summer, and may last through the fall.
Financiers welcome this indication of stable monetary conditions, which seem assured if the American demand is kept up to a moderate level.Russia's recuperative power since her war with Japan is illustrated by the gold stock accumulated in the vaults of the State Bank of St. Petersburg at the end of June last, when it stood at $619,410,000, an increase of $89,645,000 compared with June 1909, while the balance held outside Russia also increased by $21,840,000.The Bank of France's accounts on the other hand show a decline of $58, $74,000 gold, to $680,876,000. France nevertheless continues to hold the premier position in Europe in the matter of gold reserves and also in silver,

cost of $30 each, if it will employ competent physicians to care for them.Under its present system of medical inspection and district physicians it is allowing these children to die on the altar of ignorance and incompetence, according to the statement of Dr. Jesse M. Burke, head of the bureau of municipal research.In spite of the baby-saving crusade and the widespread effort to reduce infant mortality, the death rate among children less than two years old has been greater this summer than last.During the five weeks beginning June 1 there were 662 deaths among infants, as against 490 for the same period last year, an increase of 35 per cent. For the first two weeks of July the increases were 13 and 31 per cent more than last year.Even the wards in which the baby-saving crusade is being carried on by the Visiting Nurse Society, an increase in the number of infants' deaths has been recorded.These figures are being used by the bureau of municipal research, which is back of the baby-saving movement, to procure from the city an adequate corps of district physicians, who shall be paid such a salary as to warrant them devoting their entire time to work among the poor.In an interview Dr. Jesse Burke said

TEST CASE GOES AGAINST BAKERS

May Not Sell the Small Loaves When Joined Together.

IN GROUPS OF FOUR

Toronto Magistrate Thinks Legislation Designed to Check Dishonesty.

Toronto, July 29.—"Small bread" means "individual" loaves sold in any weight not exceeding twelve ounces, and a large loaf subdivided by workings in any number of smaller loaves, even though each portion conforms to the law requirements with respect to weight, are not "small bread," but are still only portions of the "large loaf," and if under weight are liable to the fine imposition. To be sold as small bread these portions, each less than 12 ounces in weight, must be divided when sold. If a person asks for a loaf of bread he must still get the 24 or 48 ounce loaf, no matter what the price.

This was the decision handed out by Magistrate Kingsford this morning in the vexed question of the bread cases, which has been occupying the minds of bakers and public for some weeks. This decision was reached, in a test case against the Nasmith Company, who were charged with selling large loaves subdivided into four sections, each weighing ten ounces, and calling each section "small bread," conforming to the regulations of the Baking Act, which says that "small bread" means "individual" loaves sold in any weight not exceeding twelve ounces, and a large loaf subdivided by workings in any number of smaller loaves, even though each portion conforms to the law requirements with respect to weight, are not "small bread," but are still only portions of the "large loaf," and if under weight are liable to the fine imposition.

The charge against A. J. Carrick, being under the same conditions, was adjourned until called on.

The magistrate's explanations of his grounds are set forth as follows:

"The charge in this case is that the Nasmith Company, Limited, did, contrary to law, on the 22nd of July, 1916, at Toronto, offer for sale and sell bread not in loaves weighing 24 ounces or 48 ounces avoirdupois, and in a weight exceeding 12 ounces avoirdupois.

"The evidence shows that ten loaves were bought at the establishment of the defendant.

"In the aggregate these loaves taken together do not amount to the aggregate required by the bread sales act, Chapter 85, Ontario Acts, 1910.

Can't Sell Them Together.

"The defence is that each of these loaves is really four small loaves, and that the sale of these four small loaves is lawful under the clause of the act which says: 'Small bread may be made for sale, offered for sale, and sold in any weight not exceeding 12 ounces avoirdupois.' When these loaves were sold they were capable of easy division into four smaller portions, each under 12 ounces. They were not so divided when sold, but they were capable of being so divided. If the bakers wish to take advantage of the provision that they may sell what is called under the bread sales act 'small bread' they must not sell or offer for sale their small bread except in portions each not exceeding 12 ounces. The mode of making these small bread portions is their own business, and it may be that it is easier for them to bake any number of small bread portions in one pan, but when they leave the pan, in order to be capable under the act of being legally sold, these small bread portions must be each less than 12 ounces. The act is plain enough. It may be true that there is no actual definition given of the phrase 'small bread,' but the restriction as to weight is quite clear. The obvious intention of the act is that if a customer asks for a loaf of bread he must either get 24 ounces or 48 ounces, the well-known small loaf or large loaf.

To Prevent Dishonesty.

"If for any reason there is a demand for quantities less than 24 ounces, the bakers have the opportunity of supplying it in separate portions, not more than 12 ounces each. To allow them to join together two or more of these small pieces, less than 12 ounces and sell such pieces joined together would give the opportunity to a dishonest baker of selling a customer as a loaf less than 24 ounces, which is exactly what the act desires to prevent."

"There must be a conviction and the fine will be $5 without costs."

DROP CHARGE OF MURDER

But in the Meantime James Burke Will Remain in Jail.

Toronto, Ont., July 29.—Pending the inquest on the 5th of August into the death of George Matthews, who died at the general hospital, Wednesday morning, James Burke, who was wanted in connection with the man's death, will have to remain in jail. The charge against him is murder, but when the medical evidence is heard that charge will likely be dropped, or at least changed.

A post-mortem examination of the dead man has been performed and it appears that the doctors have been unable to find any injuries which might have caused Matthews' death. There are no marks on his body, his skull is not fractured, and altogether it is likely that death was due to natural causes.

NET CLOSING ON KELLNER SUSPECT

Joseph Wendling, After a Long Search, Is Traced to the West Coast.

San Francisco, July 30.—Trailed through half a dozen states of the United States through Mexico and a portion of Central America, Joseph Wendling, accused of the murder of 8-year-old Alma Kellner, daughter of a milliner, brewer in Louisville, Ky., in the cellar of St. John's parochial school in that city, has finally been trailed to San Francisco, where the local detectives are slowly but surely drawing the net about him.

For the past three weeks Capt. J. P. Carney, chief of the Louisville detective department, has been in the city himself directing a corps of detectives in the search for the suspected murderer. Capt. Carney declares that it is only a matter of hours until Wendling is captured, and that with his capture one of the most fiendish murders in recent years will have been cleared up.

That Wendling has been hiding for the past three weeks in a house in San Francisco is said to be known to the local police. They declare that they have spotted the place and that detectives are guarding the house in the hope that Wendling will put in an appearance.

Two weeks ago Wendling was located at Vallejo, where he was living under an assumed name. Chief Stanford, of that city, was placed on the case at the direction of Capt. Carney. Wendling, somehow, got word that he was being sought, and fled to this city.

Chief Stanford is now in San Francisco assisting the local police.

Following the murder of the Kellner girl, her parents and Fred Fehr, millionaire uncle, offered a reward of $6,000 for the capture of the murderer.

At the request of the Kellner family, Capt. Carney consented to abandon his duties as head of the Louisville detective department and devote his entire time toward tracking down Wendling, who has fled immediately after the murder was discovered.

Through half a dozen states Carney traced Wendling. He followed him into Mexico and into the heart of Central America. He learned that the fugitive came here and lost the trail again, finally to pick it up again a month ago at Rio Vista, where he discovered that Wendling had been working as a laborer on a ranch. When Carney finally located him he learned that Wendling had anticipated him and had gone to Vallejo.

BAKERS TEST CASE

A Toronto Concern Fined for Selling Lightweight Bread.

Toronto, July 29.—Magistrate Kingsford this morning convicted the Nasmith Baking Company on a charge of selling lightweight bread and fined them $5 and costs.

The case was a test case to decide whether the bakers can lawfully sell a 20 or a 40 ounce loaf composed of two or four separate pieces of dough baked together, under the clause which says "small bread" cannot be sold. An appeal to the high court was entered.

THE SALADA COMPANY APPEALS TO COMMISSION

Because Grand Trunk Refuses To Accept Their Shipments.

Toronto, July 29.—The Salada Tea Company has written to the Dominion railway commission complaining that the Grand Trunk Railway persistently refuses to accept the freight offered to it by the company. This action of the railway, the letter points out, is causing great loss and injury to the company. It is also pointed out that the commission has lost its power, and its power only to compel the railway to act up to its charter, and accept and carry the freight offered. The Salada Tea company concludes by asking that the attention of the commission be immediately called to this matter.

DOING FINE SAYS BROWNLEE

General Superintendent of the G. T. R. Very Optimistic.

Toronto, July 29.—General Superintendent Brownlee, of the Grand Trunk Railway Company, met the representatives of the city press this morning with the same cheerful, optimistic spirit that has carried him through the arduous hours of the last two weeks.

"We are doing fine," he said, "getting in a better position every day. Our passenger service is normal and we are handling freight in any quantity. We are very well satisfied with the progress being made. New men are being taken on, and are being drilled as quickly as possible. These are filling the vacancies created by the men who have gone out on strike."

NO FREIGHT MOVING.

Kingsford, July 29.—So far no freight has been handled out of Kingston since the G. T. R. strike began. Some small packages have been received, but they were on their way when the strike commenced. Everything is quiet hereabouts in railway circles.

THE GAS TURNED ON.

Toronto, July 29.—Naomn Aboojara, an Assyrian, who keeps a general store at Cobalt, and who arrived in the city yesterday for the purpose of purchasing supplies, was found unconscious in a rooming place on Yonge street this morning, with the gas-jet in the room turned on. The man was taken at once to St. Michael's Hospital and for a time it was thought he would not recover, but he was finally brought round. The doctors had to administer oxygen, so far was the man gone.

NICARAGUA THREATENS THE TURTLE INDUSTRY

Caymanians Protest to British Against Concession to American.

Kingston, Jamaica, July 30.—The turtle industry, the mainstay of the Cayman Islands, is threatened with extinction owing to the action of the Nicaraguan Government, which, according to representations made to the governor by the commodore of the fishing fleet, is reported to have granted a concession to an American named Landburg.

The governor has taken the matter up on behalf of the Cayman Islanders and is seeking the maintenance of the agreement between Nicaragua and the British Government. It is understood that the English cruiser Scylla, which sailed for Nicaraguan waters Sunday, has a mission in connection with the affair.

For a hundred years the Caymanians have exercised their rights to fish in the waters where turtles abound. Under the agreement made after the British delimitations of territorial waters belonging to Nicaragua, the Caymanians were allowed to fish off the Nicaraguan coast upon the payment of a royalty of 50 cents for each turtle taken. Last season Landburg paid high prices than obtained here and secured the bulk of the catch for the American market. Not a single turtle has been received in Kingston. The fishing operation, which should have commenced on Aug. 1, are delayed pending the outcome of the negotiations. The fleet is lying idle in the harbor and the preliminary preparations have not been made.

Formerly nearly all the turtles were shipped to the London market through the port of Kingston. TRACK TORPEDO INJURED LADY

Exploded by Train Entering Depot at Toronto.

Ottawa, July 29.—A torpedo was placed on the Grand Trunk tracks in the Central depot here yesterday afternoon and was exploded by an incoming passenger train, with the result that a lady, waiting for the arrival of a train was slightly injured. The Grand Trunk agent at Valleyfield reports that a Grand Trunk boxcar was burned in the yards there last night.

A passenger train being shunted at the depot near Ottawa last night backed into a freight standing on the siding, four cars on the freight being telescoped.

TOWNS ON G. T. R. SHORT OF COAL

Local Dealers Receiving Many Orders For Supplies.

As a result of the Grand Trunk strike, towns throughout the district that road for their coal supply are beginning to suffer. It is stated that local coal merchants have received repeated inquiries from towns throughout the district for supplies. Local dealers are receiving practically no coal over the G. T. R., and word has been received that some of the railways out of Buffalo have refused coal shipments as a result of having more freight business than they can handle.

The fact that London has so many railways is all that has prevented a shortage here. Dealers have received coal regularly over the Pere Marquette, and there are hundreds of cars still to be moved. The yards at St. Thomas and Port Stanley are filled with loaded cars. Local dealers say that they do not expect any trouble.

It is said that many of the towns up the Bruce are in a very bad way for fuel, and that they will have to have to close down unless they receive some shortly. Many complaints it is stated are being made by ship-owners in the north, who complain that the freight service is entirely inadequate, and that they will lose thousands of dollars if their shipments are not handled promptly.

Kingsford, July 29.—The steamer Hecla, of the George Hall Company, Ogdensburg, N. About three tons of the Hecla's coal was lightered and after some hard pulling the steamer was floated. She left immediately for Ogdensburg, towing the barge on which the lightered coal had been placed. It is not thought the steamer is injured.

MOODY TO RETIRE.

Magnolia, Mass., July 29.—Associate Justice William H. Moody, of the United States supreme court, has definitely stated that he will announce his retirement from the bench prior to the expiration of the "ambulatory term" which expires in the fall of 1917. This act expires the middle of November.

The President now faces the responsibility of appointing two associate justices to the supreme court and designating a chief justice.

Advices from Beverly, Mass., President Taft's summer home, are not to the effect that the President has not announced his attitude with respect to the chief justiceship.

Governor Hughes, of New York, still appears to have the field practically to himself.

CORRESPONDENCE

"Catholics and the Bible."

To the Editor of The Advertiser: I did not look forward to an intrusion on your valuable time and space again on this subject, but it seems I must, so please be as indulgent as you can. First, a gentleman has corrected a historical mistake of mine, for which I am sorry. He says it was Archbishop Trenchard who performed the coronation ceremony of the late king, and that does not affect the fact, that the Rev. Hugh Benson, formerly an English Church minister, now one of the noted Catholic priests and writers, is the son of the late Archbishop of Canterbury, that name.

It is quite true, and I am proud of it, that I am of the Celtic race, but did not have the honor of seeing daylight for the first time in dear old Ireland, but I have the honor of seeing it first in dear "old Chelsea" in England. Having been born and brought up in England, I was ever used to hearing of English fair play, and I always saw it exercised, save when the Irish were mixed up in it.

For many years was another thing. But, sir, if two boys got mixed up, then I always saw fair play—no kicking, no punching or kicking when down, no one might butt in with a sly kick, a sly blow. Well, in this country we hear the cry "equal rights," and "fair play for all." Ah! but what for the Catholic? It's all right if a Catholic puts up with all the kicks, and mud-slinging. If Croppy will only lie down, but if he won't lie down and talks back, and hits back then he gets "eggs, eggs, and eggs," and "ham is ham," the onlookers or some of them pile in—someone must butt in. I never saw it in the side. And so A. B. C. butts in, in the side. And oh! what a clever, smart critic it is! Can't you appoint a chief clerk in your office—it's such a nice chirper. It sees and cannot see. It reads and cannot understand. A question is asked and it cannot see through it. If this A. B. C. had said of it what I have heard yesterday and this day by educated and really intelligent non-Catholics, it would be real name. If I were to write what I have heard said of A. B. C. you would not print it. What a strange thing I had my words actually put in cold print! As an old press man, I did not know what was going on. I did not stand my question. I will repeat it: "Did the women who spun the yarn, if they did spin it, about the priests carrying off, and burning their Bibles, but a clever A. B. C. would think of the women (?) being paid for having their names and those of the priests (?) kept dark?"

How funny! Oh, what a joke! Would an idiot ask a question through the public press if they did not expect an answer? The question "awaits" an answer. It won't run away unless it is put in hot print. It is more easy to tempt and corrupt the tempter than the man of plenty. The tempter, the corrupter, might go into, say Nelson, or some other street, but dare not show his nose on Dufferin Avenue. As to the "Baptist Church," as the other side says, "one just as good as the other," the wealth of the Catholic Church came from the people, for the people, and the people are the benefit of it. The habitants have made a complaint. Of course, I write over my name. I have no reason to hide carries on the one. A good general enemy, and overlooking the Catholic faith were after mature investigation, research, study and counting the woman who thought light should be in the light, and put him in it. She was not "timid," but ran called her people and said: "Come the truth they said four women told non-Catholics have said a great many names, addresses, the names and the dresses of the priests, and state that swear to be prepared to go into court and tell the truth of their statement. 'Timid women!' Oh, are there any? I thought all the timid women had gone up amongst the saints in heaven long ago. St. Paul told the women to keep 'silent in the churches.' Why do the Catholics, they hold big talkers. They are running all over the world, holding conventions, conferences, congresses, and making speeches, proposing and discussing resolutions. There are 'ordained' women preachers, lawyers, doctors and professors. I would like to see a woman keep in the background and let the men turn England upside down to get votes. They preach 'religion' and politics at every corner, in halls, at the same games. In the United States and in Canada, St. Paul told the women to be 'subject to their husbands in all things, as the church is fashioned to Christ.' But that's too old-fashioned for the modern woman. St. Paul ought to have said: 'Men, obey and be subject to their wives.' Or they will haul you into Magistrate Love's court or sue for a divorce, and remarry them. St. Paul did, I am afraid, make one mistake, when he said the women should keep their heads covered in the churches. Well, they do obey this injunction with a vengeance—backs of straw, birds' nests, baskets of fruit, baskets of bages, turnips, onions, carrots and flowers, and plumes of feathers, two, three and four feet high, and men! Oh, the poor, dear, timid women there in Chicago advocated wholesale killing of infants, and said 'the time will come when people will be ashamed of being the parents of sixteen children.' Madam, not Catholic women, in benighted Quebec, especially A. B. C. actually admit, and asks, why should not material aid be offered to induce people to change their religion, and dares to compare the offer by bribes, with the call of Abraham by Almighty God, and the promises made to him, forever. This seems to me a horrible blasphemy. True penance is a turning from sin for love of God, humble, sincere, free, full, honest confession, promise of amendment, keeping out of bad company, and making restitution, if we have wronged our neighbor, and as far as possible make satisfaction for any wrong done to the person's character or person. Now, Mr. or Mrs. M. B. C., Master, A. B. C., you are all in a tangle. You have mixed up what I wrote of the 'Trish' church missions to the Catholics of Ireland with questions I have asked, as to whether the Baptist 'Grande Ligne' does the same. No, there is none of the spirit of Christ in tempting people to sell their souls, barter their faith, their God-given faith, peace, concord, sure hope and unity, which is alone found in the one holy, Catholic, apostolic, infallible, unchangeable church of the living God, for the discord, contradictions, vain opinions, envyings, jealousies and doubts of any one of the five hundred sects, all claiming to be the true church of God, founded upon private opinion of the things they find written in the Bible. Not all the sects combined can come up to what the Catholic Church has done for the people all over the world—churches, colleges, universities, schools, hospitals, institutions of all kinds for the poor, the sick, the afflicted in every way, the orphan, and the aged. There are more Baptists in this city than Catholics, yet the latter can show such institutions as St. Joseph's Hospital, Mount Hope, Mount St. Joseph, Sacred Heart Academy, and we are taxed in addition to keep up the city and government institutions.

If you help people without interfering with their religious faith, well and good, but if you hold out temporal inducements to change their religion, it seems to me doing what the enemy of God and man did to the Incarnate God. History tells us that the middle ages abounded with noble works of charity. I am here in London, not in Montreal, but A. B. C. does not deny, but upholds a system of which I speak of as existing in Ireland, and asked if it was practiced by the Baptists in Montreal. I made no reckless charges. I asked questions. A. B. C. asks, would I help a brother. Well, those Catholics and non-Catholics, with whom I have lived and worked these 38 years, in this country, can better answer that question than I. They are the witnesses as to whether I do or do not "help poor and weary brother, pulling hard against the stream." I never gave help or offered help in order to induce any person to even change his Catholic place of worship. I never began to talk of the Catholic religion to a non-Catholic in my life. If they begin to talk to me or ask questions, then, of course, I am not dumb. I have nursed non-Catholic city and private patients in St. Joseph's Hospital, and the old general hospital, of this city; private patients in Victoria Hospital, non-Catholics, and many non-Catholic patients in private houses. I never took advantage of my position to interfere with the religious convictions of those committed to my charge. The doctors under whom I nursed, the persons I nursed, or their friends and relatives, know whether I would help a brother change his place of worship. I have thirteen patients in the smallest hospital on the Wellington road, all non-Catholic. Four were dangerously sick. One was for seven weeks isolated in a room alone. No one went near him but me. I never interfered with their religion, and they know what I did do and faced, and went through day and night, fighting a dread disease and death, for long weeks, but I never tampered or interfered with their religious convictions; did not even ask if they had any, save on one solemn occasion. One of my poor boys; his pulse was 150, temperature 106 3-5, respiration 30. It was a hand-to-hand fight with death; hope was almost gone, and then I asked, "Have you been baptized?" The answer was whispered back, "Yes, I am a Baptist." "Then," I said, "I have great fear for you, but I hope God will come to my aid. Place yourself before God, ask pardon for every thought, word or act offensive to him, offer yourself up with the sacrifice of the cross." That was all. I saw he was a good boy, and I would be ashamed to have made any attempt to disturb what I saw was a sincere, honest conviction. But had he asked me questions, displayed doubt, asked any advice or guidance about religion then the case would have been different.

With regard to my "irrelevance and boasting." Nothing of the sort. It all had bearing on the case or four persons joining a Baptist sect through reading the New Testament. I hope A. B. C. is as helpful to a brother as he would have us to understand. The "doctrines" I believe, and love, have taught me my duty to my fellow-men, no matter what their credit, politics, country or color, and now, at the end of this, our first, and on my part, last interview, after this "feast of reason, and flow of soul," good-bye, A. B. C.

THOS. J. M. D.

P. S.—I have just noticed a letter from the Rev. A. L. Therrien, written from Montreal. It is not an answer to my question re "The Burning of Bibles," but a tirade of abuse of myself. He seems to be full of hot anger because I asked who and what he is! In the second paragraph of this letter he calls me a "fool" and follows this up with "blinded by fanaticism, pride, and bigotry." My friends, of whom I have many amongst the various non-Catholic religions, and those amongst whom I have lived and worked for 38 years in this country, will fail to recognize me by this word-

Is coming—and you will want to look your best on your trip to the country—just have your dainty gowns thoroughly cleaned and made like new with our careful process. That spotted silk dress in the closet—that lace waist with the fruit stain on it, will come back as clean as sunshine. The treatment they'll get will be kind—the cost will be a little more than a trifle. Spots vanish in a jiffy in our sanitary shop. We clean shoes, fine silk lingerie, dainty silk or satin belts, gloves and ribbons. We do it as it ought to be done—and promptly. Phone for our wagon or command us on a postcard.

WOULD CUT LOSE FROM PRIVY COUNCIL

Montreal, July 30.—Mr. W. E. Raney, C. of Toronto, who worked so gallantly in the interests of the Miller bill at the last session of the Federal Parliament, reported at Montreal on his way back from London last night, and expressed himself as highly favoring any movement by which Canada could cut herself adrift from the highest court in the realm, after his experience before the judicial committee of the Privy Council. The suit he was defending was $2,000, with the legal expenses in connection with it at least $6,000.

The ability and integrity of the highest court, Mr. Raney said, was above criticism, but they frequently displayed ignorance and misunderstanding as to the conditions in Canada.

JUDGE BARRON ILL.

Toronto, July 29.—Judge Barron, of Stratford, was taken suddenly ill yesterday and was unable to attend the sitting of the Toronto railway commission board, of which he is the chairman. He fell off a freight train, and the physician who was called said that he was suffering from an attack of appendicitis. It will not be necessary to operate at present, but Judge Barron will have to remain in bed for several days before he can travel to his home.

KENT HOG RAISERS HELPED BY STRIKE

Prices Took a Boost From $5.50 to $6.00.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Chatham, July 30.—As a direct result of the Grand Trunk strike, the farmers of Kent County are receiving $9 per cwt. for live hogs. Before the strike was declared hogs were steady at $8.50, with a tendency towards a drop, but as soon as the strike was declared the price took a boost, and now the buyers are taking all they can get at $9. Kent hogs are being shipped out on the C. P. R. and other lines, while in some of the other hog-raising districts only the Grand Trunk lines touch, so that hogs from these places cannot be delivered.

Word was received here from Windsor that William DeGroat, a colored resident of this city, was dying in Hotel Dieu. He fell off a freight train in the Windsor yards, and his legs were almost severed. DeGroat is well-known here. He was about 28 years old, and was married. The Chatham Retail Merchants' Association have decided to hold their annual picnic on Aug. 16 or 18. It will take place either at Erie Beach or at the Thames lighthouse. The steamer Ossington may be chartered to take the merchants to the lighthouse.

TWO TO BE DEPORTED. Ottawa, July 29.—Conrad and Woods, the two prisoners sentenced a year ago for the theft of 100 diamond rings from the store of Messrs. McMillan, Sparks street, will be released tomorrow. The sentence of one year expires today and the two much-talked-of men will be escorted across the border by officials of the immigration department.

A Bolt Stunned Five Farmers

[Special to The Advertiser.] Stratford, July 29.—A violent electrical storm swept over this district this afternoon and wrought considerable havoc to standing crops. A cheese factory on the Northern Gravel road, Ellice Township, about three miles from the city, was struck about 3 o'clock this afternoon, stunning six men. The bolt struck the making room, ripped off a number of rafters, came down the siding and burned a hole two feet square in the side of the wall. About $75 damage was done. The cheesemaker, Herb, Hastings, and John Martin, John Forbes, John Davis, John Dempsey and John Dempsey, five farmers taking refuge from the storm, were all rendered unconscious by the shock. They quickly came to, and extinguished the fire.

Spain Breaks With the Vatican

San Sebastian, Spain, July 30.—At the conclusion of a conference last evening between King Alfonso and Premier Canalejas it was announced that Marquis Emilio de Ojeda, Spanish ambassador to the Vatican, had been recalled. At the same time the opinion was expressed that a rupture with the Vatican is inevitable. Senor Canalejas told the king that the Government could not accept the conditions of the Vatican's last note, and that the Vatican would not be informed. Premier Canalejas will continue his anti-clerical programme, counting on the support of King Alfonso.

CHARGED WITH THEFT IN A TORONTO COURT

Walsh Brothers, With Tickets for London, Are Allowed Out On Bail.

Thomas Walsh, directly from California, claimed that following the picked-up acquaintance of two other young fellows at a downtown hotel in Toronto on Thursday afternoon, and a few friendship-cementing drinks together, he slept, and two hours later missed his roll of bills, $245, in denominations of the National Bank of Los Angeles. They had been in an inside vest pocket.

Detective Taylor was sent on the lookout, but in the meantime two Walsh brothers, David and Edward, of 122 King east, had been taken to the Parkdale police station on charges of drunkenness. Tickets on them for London, Ont., and $150 each, in the bills was found on Edward Walsh, the other having $19.50. No inquiry was made at headquarters if anybody had been robbed, and the charge against the brothers was theft.

White identified the two as his afternoon companions, but they told of furniture sold to account for the big roll. The bills were on the Los Angeles bank.

The men did not plead, but asked for a week's remand. It was allowed, bail being fixed at $500 each.

TRADE IS ACTIVE BUT STRIKE HANICAPS

Bradstreet's Report From Chief Distributing Points of the Dominion.

Montreal reports to Bradstreet's say in nearly all lines of trade there continues a fairly active tone and the volume of general business moving has shown little change during the week. The Grand Trunk Railway strike has been a serious factor in the movement of freight. Trains are at present running regularly and there are, at present, no indications of a settlement. The company has reopened its locomotive and general repair shops. There is still holiday tone in wholesale and retail trade, a fair amount of sorting business in seasonal lines is noted. While opinions regarding fall trade still vary in character, a more optimistic tone seems to be making itself felt. Crops were good in Ontario, Quebec and the Eastern Provinces are promising exceedingly well, and from the west indications of an average total yield are reassuring. In this province the hay crop is an unusually good one and is being safely gathered in. City retail trade is active and that in the country is of normal proportions. Receipts of produce continue good. Exports of cheese are large and prices are generally steady to firm. Collections continue slow and banks are tightening up on credits.

Steady at Toronto.

Toronto reports to Bradstreet's say retail trade continues steady in character and the volume of general business moving is about normal for this time of the year. Holidays are having the usual effect upon wholesale trade generally, and the G. T. R. strike has been a pronounced factor in restricting shipments of goods. The company is now moving a fair amount of freight and threatened shortages of ice, meat and fruit would seem to be averted. The greatest sufferers by reason of its continuance are many small Ontario towns, for whom the G. T. R. forms the only means of connection with the outside world. The sorting movement of general lines continues good. The summer resort trade is excellent, but up to the present tourist traffic has been on the light side. The outlook for fall continues excellent. Ontario crops are generally better, and the farmers look forward to harvesting a particularly good yield of fall wheat.

Moving at Winnipeg.

Winnipeg reports to Bradstreet's say the past week has seen no falling off in the volume of business moving. Sorting orders have been good and excellent orders for fall and winter lines were left by large numbers of merchants who visited the exhibition. In nearly all districts there are good indications of either good or fairly good fall and winter trade. Undoubtedly the crop will be light in some parts. But the total yield will be quite up to average, and prevailing high prices will, in most cases, make up for the deficiency. Collections are on the slow side. Money is firm and banks are showing a tendency to grow more conservative in their dealings with evidence of being legitimate business.

Vancouver and Victoria reports say while there continues an excellent movement in all lines of trade, there has been a marked falling off in the volume due to the holiday season. Sorting orders, however, continue good and the outlook for later business is as encouraging as ever. An excellent business is moving in groceries and the preceding week. Retailers in the city complain of a dullness, usual at this season. Building trades with a few exceptions are quiet. Local industries show no unusual signs of activity which is attributed to high price of raw material.

Hamilton reports say the G. T. R. strike has had some considerable effect upon general business there but, apart from this, a healthy tone is noted in all lines of trade. Country business is of fairly good proportion. Crops in the district are looking well and prospects for fall business continue good.

STORM BROKE OVER

Three tents were completely blown over.

Funeral in the Storm.

In the vicinity of Woodland Cemetery the storm was especially violent.

Funeral party reached the cemetery. They pulled in for shelter under some of the trees and waited.

While they were almost unharmed, a tree was blown over and fell across a back driven by W. Langley, of Hunter's stable.

One of the branches of the tree struck Mr. Langley on the back of the head, and other branches came down on the horses, frightening them badly.

Those in the back pulled the tree off.

"It was one of the fiercest storms I have ever out in my life," said one man who was there. "The wind was blowing in gusts, and the rain was coming in sheets."

Blinding flashes of lightning and terrific claps of thunder. The horses became so frightened from the storm that they were almost unmanageable. Throughout Springbank Park trees are down, and it will be some days before the traces of the damage done are all removed.

At Hyde Park.

Around Hyde Park and Komoka the wind was terrific, and it is said that there are fully 500 trees blown down around Hyde Park and as many more around Komoka.

It is believed that the damage west of London was very heavy, but as all the telephone lines through the district are down, reports are coming in slowly.

The Bell Telephone Company reports that the storm caused great damage to the system. West of London the long-distance lines are out of commission completely in many places, and hundreds of phones are burned out. In the city, it is stated that there are about 300 phones out of order as a result of the lightning and wind. The wires regularly and the G. T. R. strike has been a pronounced factor in restricting shipments of goods. The company is now moving a fair amount of freight and threatened shortages of ice, meat and fruit would seem to be averted.

STRATFORD MAN TOOK FATAL DOSE

Stratford, July 30.—Angus McDerrett, a farmer residing on Erie street, this city, died today as a result of drinking a cup of poisonous mixture during Tuesday night. He was alone in the house at the time, his wife and family visiting friends in the country, and his condition was not discovered until the following evening. He went home from work sick on Tuesday morning, and it is supposed took the liquid by mistake.

LEAMINGTON LADY TAKES HER LIFE

Leamington, July 30.—The wife of Henry Dring, a local hotelkeeper, shot and killed herself yesterday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock while in a fit of despondency.

Mrs. Dring, who was about middle-aged, had long been associated with the hotel business in South Essex, and will be greatly missed by the travelling public.

TROOPS ARE READY FOR DASH TO THIBET

[Associated Press Cable.]

Simla, British India, July 30.—The unrest in Thibet, due to the continued activity of the Chinese, has assumed a threatening form that the Indian Government has ordered a considerable force of Indian troops to be held in readiness on the Thibetan frontier.

RHEUMATISM CURED, SURE! NO

THE BRITISH GIANTS OF DEBATE ON THE WOMAN SUFFRAGE BILL

Mr. F. E. Smith Opposes and Mr. P. B. Haldane Supports It—
Mr. Smith Sees Disaster—Mr. Haldane Punctures
Mr. Smith's Arguments.

The speech on the woman suffrage bill in the British House of Commons brought out many excellent speeches. Two of the best of these were by Mr. F. E. Smith, Conservative, who opposed the bill, and by Right Hon. R. B. Haldane, minister of war, who supported it.

Mr. F. E. Smith (C. Walton, Liverpool), moved the rejection of the bill. It was said that women had the right to vote. No one had an abstract right of that sort, declared Mr. Smith. The theory that there was such a right was as dead as Rousseau (Laughter.) The vote was given on approved public grounds to such sections of citizens as in the opinion of the state were likely to use it for the benefit of the whole community. If women had a right to vote, they had it everywhere, including priest-ridden Italy and our great eastern dependencies. Supporting our Indian fellow-subjects were ever enfranchised, the operation must include not the men only but the unilluminated zenanas. It would not be right in discussing this question to leave out of account the prodigious fact that we were asked to take a step for which there was no model and no example in any first-class country in the world.

Mr. W. Redmond (N. East Clare)—Is not Australia a first-class country? Mr. Smith explained that he was speaking of countries which discharged in their entirety Sovereign functions. The case of Norway was the only one cited. Norway had a population of 2,328,000, distributed over a territory of 124,000 square miles. Was there anybody who would say a case like that was asked to mold an empire of 450,000,000 inhabitants, with an Oriental population of 300,000,000 who detested government by women. We were holding the equipoise of empire balanced upon democracy in the west, and bureaucracy in the east, and we were asked to be the body upon whom this experiment was to be made for the first time on a large scale in the history of the world. (Cheers.)

One contention put forward in every debate on this subject had never been answered. Majorities were allowed to rule peacefully because in the last resort they could coerce minorities, and because it was more agreeable to vote than fight in those circumstances. The one was effective only because the other was believed to be behind it. He did not say that women in this country would ever vote all together, but women, with a minority of men, might easily attempt to impose their views upon an actual majority.

Women and Military Service. Suppose those men who believed in compulsory national service were able, with the aid of the female vote, to press it upon an actual majority of the male voters. Would the Labor party accept that? Suppose as the result of a sinister alliance between Mrs. Pankhurst and Sir Thomas Whitaker (laughter) every public-house was closed. Would the men of the country ever acquiesce in that? Suppose the powerful eloquence of the late Mr. Gladstone against the Bulgarian and Armenian atrocities had found root in the emotional mind of a female electorate. The result might easily have been that the majority of women would have had to go to fight in a war for which they had no inclination.

In conclusion, Mr. Smith said the moment chosen for creating a million of new electors, as to whose decision no man could pronounce with confidence, was the moment when, if the pacific discussions at the veto conference should unhappily prove unsuccessful, the country would be confronted with the risk of being governed almost under a unicameral system. Mention had been made of illustrious women. He ventured to say that the sum total of human happiness would have been almost unaffected if Sappho had never sang, if Joan of Arc had never fought, if Mrs. Siddons had never played, and if George Eliot had never written. It was because he believed in the influences which most animated mankind were so heavily menaced by the intrusion of women into politics that he moved the rejection of the bill. (Cheers.)

War Minister's Friendship.

Mr. Haldane, secretary of state for war, reminded the House of the position in which the members found themselves. "Here, with a question of absolutely first-rate importance before the House," he said, "it is impossible for the Government to give the usual guidance, and not only is that the case with the Government of the day, but it is equally true of the front Opposition bench. We are divided in opinion, and the division is of such a character that I believe it to be impossible under any conditions which are likely to occur soon for any Government to give a lead on this question."

"There is this new feature in the situation at this moment—that the Government has never made for the full discussion of this question so that this House of Commons may, for the first time, express itself, and that some judgment may be passed as to what the mind of this House of Commons is. No doubt that the question has been conceded to opinion, because if this House of Commons expresses itself very strongly upon the principle, then it is reasonable to give an effective order for the House to translate its opinion into a concrete form." (Cheers.)

Mr. Haldane cautioned the House, as a strong supporter of women's suffrage, to act carefully, in the absence of government guidance. He was against the relegation of the bill to a committee, which might be disastrous to the measure in another place. As to the proposals of the bill, he had to one of the most admirable of many speeches made by the honorable and learned member for Walton (Mr. F. E. Smith), whose earnestness no one could have failed to appreciate; but there was one relation which must have gone through their minds, and that was the fact that the bill, however admirable, however important, would have been at an earlier stage in the history of this question, "too late." (Cheers.)

The Woman on the Throne. The honorable member for Walton spoke of this question, the war secretary proceeded, "as though it were an open one, which we were discussing on its merits without a history behind it. He told us, and with great eloquence, that the sovereign reigns over between 300 and 400 millions of colored subjects, who would resent the denigration of government by women. Well, I think it might, however crushing force, have been retorted on him that these very subjects not only endured, but accepted and welcomed, the reign of a woman on the throne, and that if we are to take the standard of this country, it is that its throne can be occupied, that has been occupied, by women, who have imparted to the supreme position in the state and in the empire a distinction, and an influence that have been outdone by no man." (Cheers.)

Mr. Haldane went on to speak of the steady development of the position which women had taken in the nation. And who, he asked, were those who objected to this enfranchisement? They were the very same men who were welcoming the advent of women to take a large part in imperial questions. (Cheers.)

There were many superior persons who wrote in the newspapers for and against the emancipation of women on abstract grounds. But this was not a matter which could be decided on abstract grounds. The real argument to day was in the concrete. That was why he did not find himself in sympathy with the line of argument pursued by some of the very aristocracy of thought, who, notwithstanding their

ILLUSTRATIONS OF LAURIER'S WESTERN TOUR

Many pleasing and picturesque incidents have marked the Premier's meetings in the west, as at St. Anne's, the French-Canadian village near Winnipeg, where a mounted body, bearing Union Jack and tri-colored flag, escorted the party from the depot, along the gaily-decorated route to the picnic grounds. There, Sir Wilfrid addressed the meeting in French, also complying with a request to "speak a few words in English."

"No man will be able to stand on my grave and truthfully say, 'He was unfair and an instigator of discord among his fellows.' On the contrary, my life has been, and will continue to be, devoted to conciliation, and the spread of the Gospel of Good-will among the people."—Sir Wilfrid Laurier in the Pavilion at Winnipeg.

Of all base passions, fear is most accursed.
—Henry VI., Part I., Act V., Sc. 2.

The statement, that "Of all base passions fear is most accursed," is somewhat startling. It is true that it is uttered by Joan of Arc to stir the heart of King Charles and make him valiant in the presence of the English troops, and is an exaggeration for a particular purpose. However, there is much truth in it. Shakespeare has it in Troilus and Cressida it is often true that: "Fears make devils of cherubims."

It is rather astounding to hear fear called a base passion. Weakness it is admitted to be, but a base passion, that too strong an expression? Love and hate, joy and grief, avarice and revenge, are passions, but fear—can it be placed in the same category? Blind was so awayed by his feeling of fear that, from a staunch defender and ideal citizen, he became one of a group of brutal murderers. Such fear can only be classified as passion. It stirs a man to the roots of his being, changing his nature, often dethroning his will; mere animal impulse taking the place of reason. It was fear, lest Abel had gained greater favor in the eyes of Jehovah than himself, that caused Cain to slay his brother. It was fear that made Peter deny his Lord.

Macbeth was a man of such high honor, courage and loyalty that he had deservedly won the admiration of the nation and the esteem of his king. He was "peerless" among the nobles of his time. Tempted, he fell and slew his king. Fear of discovery and fear that he might lose his base-ly-won throne haunted him, and from that moment he became a devil incarnate. In slaying Banquo, Lady Macduff and her children and others, he was not prompted by revenge or mere hate, but by fear.

Communities are often startled by the crime of someone held in good repute. Men highly esteemed, and deservedly so, have been known to be

than their personal safety. There is no nation but has to blush when some battlefield is recalled. Fear lowers moral character, courage raises it. Cowards are usually crueler than brave men when they have an opportunity of showing their power. The Anglo-Saxon race has been, since the days of William the Conqueror, renowned for its courage. And what people or what individuals are as generous to their defeated enemies?

Courage can be cultivated. There are few men who have it in their first battle. A regiment must be shot over before it can be depended on. If it stands firm under a storm of bullets, no fear of a panic seizing its members in future engagements. Every man has spiritual and physical enemies to meet. Whether he is to be strong or a weakling depends upon the way he faces his first battles. If fear possesses him he cannot win. He may turn and flee, or, in the cowardly effort to save himself, become a very "devil" in human form. After all Shakespeare was not far wrong when he made Joan of Arc say, "Of all base passions, fear is most accursed."

VERY DRY JUNE.

Greater Part of Scotland Suffered Severely From Drought.

During the month of June the greater part of Scotland suffered from drought, but the country has now had a fair share of rain, and crops on the whole have benefited. It is, however, fairly evident that the hay crop will be light. The rain came too late to improve the crop, which in many districts suffered seriously from the prolonged drought. According to reliable reports from various quarters the corn crops, although deficient in straw, are showing considerable promise, and notwithstanding the attack of grub in some districts, the outlook is quite satisfactory.

Death of Former World's Champion—Made a Fortune in Mines.

Mr. Daniel Thomas, a retired colliery owner, formerly of Pontypridd, died at Portlough, Wales, on July 15, in his 82nd year, after a prolonged illness. During the last 40 years of his life he was a prominent deacon in the Baptist Church in Glamorganshire, making lavish contributions in support of the churches, and all philanthropic efforts.

Mr. Thomas had a most interesting career. When quite young he became enamored of boxing, and in the early sixties, before the days of Heenan and Sayers, won great fame in the prize ring as an unconquered champion, being generally known as "Dan of Pontypridd." Later he became a publican at Cardiff and amassed a competence.

While a publican he became converted to Christianity, and Spurgeon's sermons, and he then burned the valuable belt that had been presented to him when he won the world's lightweight championship. Even a gold trophy won in another fight shared the same fate. Thomas utterly renounced the ring, and subsequently joined a Baptist church at Treorest, being elected a deacon there at the same time as Mr. John Davies, father of the Rev. David Davies, formerly of Brighton.

In after years Mr. Thomas lost all the money he made as a licensed victualler, but subsequently amassed a fortune through successful colliery enterprise in the Ogmore and Rhondda Valleys.

Sir John Murray Describes the Marvels of the Sea

A Fascinating Story of the Progress of Deep-Sea Exploration By a Former Londoner.

Fish that would blow up when they reached the surface of the sea, fish that swallowed other fish larger than themselves, and more fish that carried their own illuminating plants in their bodies—these are the marvels of the deep sea, three miles below the waves, were the theme of Sir John Murray, known as the greatest deep-sea fisherman in the world, when he narrated the other day his experiences as an ocean angler.

The fisherman-baronet is learned in the way of the ocean depths, having been a member of the famous Challenger expedition sent out by the British Government, and having supervised the publication of its discoveries, 50 volumes of which have appeared. The immediate cause of his presence in America at this time is the death of Alexander Agassiz, who was his most intimate friend, and an appreciation of whose work he has just delivered in Cambridge, at the invitation of President Lowell of Harvard University.

Aboard the Michael Sars.

"There have been great improvements in thermometers, salinometers, and all the implements of the deep sea naturalist, in the past ten years," said Sir John as he began to tell of the present expedition.

He has been anxious to do some more experimental work for some time, and when the opportunity came I gladly availed myself of it. You must know that recently the Norwegians have been the most active explorers, and this last year they have had a specially built steamship, the Michael Sars, operating off their own coast. Knowing of this, I offered to take the vessel for four months and pay all the expenses for that period, if they would lend her to me. This they agreed to do, and we have been hard at it since April.

"We first did some work in the Bay of Biscay and in the Straits of Gibraltar. In the straits there are two currents, the upper of which flows from the Atlantic Ocean into the Mediterranean Sea, the lower takes exactly the opposite direction. These we measured for velocity, density, and so on, and we made some rather interesting discoveries, particularly one that the lower or outflowing current poured out in a dense flow into the Atlantic at a rate of five knots an hour in some places. The depths at which the two currents pass each other vary from 50 to 100 fathoms, according to our anchorage in the middle of the straits, we started down the coast of Africa, and went as far as the Canaries. The prevailing wind is off shore there, and this caused all the warm-surface water to be blown out to sea, while the cold underwaters come up, close inshore. We made some interesting temperature observations. Then we did work in the Sargasso Sea, mainly in collecting pelagic plants.

"The Azores were next visited, and from there the vessel went west to a point south of the Grand Banks. There we spent some time in making observations of cross-sections of the Gulf Stream, and the results we obtained were so different from what we expected, and so interesting to me, that the ship, which was lent to me by Sir John, Newfoundland, has continued across the Atlantic, following the stream's course. I expect to meet it in Scotland about the end of the month.

"In the course of the trip we made observations from 74 different stations. On the physical side of the work, Prof. Henson made 600 observations of temperature at different depths; they were all made with two deep sea thermometers, read at the same time, and they are accurate to within a 200th part of a degree. On the whole, they agree closely with the work of the Challenger expedition.

Sunlight 300 Fathoms Down.

"Interesting experiments to determine the degree of light in the ocean were made in the Sargasso Sea. Here we exposed photographic plates at various depths and found that at 300 fathoms the effect of light was clearly marked; at 500 fathoms it was discernible, but at 900 fathoms no effect could be discovered. Of course, the various colors of the spectrum penetrate to unusual depths; the violet rays probably reach the great depths, a mile or two.

"In fishing for pelagic plants, we are always dead, except some that come from comparatively shallow water. These occasionally struggle for a moment on their backs. In most cases they have blown up, as you might say; their eyes are blown far out of their sockets, and they are greatly swelled. This strange appearance is caused by the sudden relief from the enormous pressure of the deeps, which amounts to about a ton to the square inch for each thousand fathoms.

Creatures From Far Depths.

"Oddly enough, these organisms that live under pressure of three tons to the square inch, some of them, have not a heavy bony structure. In very cold water there is comparatively light formation of carbonate of lime, and the bones of the fish have therefore comparatively little calcareous matter in them. Their spines are not stiff, and if laid on their sides across your hand, they will hang down like ribbons.

"The eyes of the forms that live on the bottom are peculiar. Many of these forms are blind, and in some the eyes have degenerated almost to the point of disappearance; others have huge eyes, so situated as to have a commanding range of vision. Why this should be we do not know. But my theory is that in some the loss of the eyes is compensated for by the formation of the great number of sensitive tentacles and processes, like antennae, that appear on the heads of those which show the eye weakness. These rely on touch alone. On the other hand, those with overdeveloped eyes need such a formation to do anything by the sense of sight in the strange phosphorescence at the sea bottom, and which they themselves give off.

"Speaking of phosphorescence, many of these bottom dwellers have a number of organs or processes which are evidently for the sole purpose of generating light, and this glow is really a very light, as the world, found at the bottom. When it has been calm for several days this phosphorescence, which the fish of less abyssal depths also possess, may be seen, for at such times the life of the sea tends to come toward the surface, to be driven down again by the motion when the wind begins to blow.—New York Evening Post.

Posed as Father Twenty Years Sex Only Discovered at Death

Amazing Evidence Presented at Inquest on the Body of Harry Lloyd by Supposed Daughter.

The mystery of the woman who for twenty years had masqueraded in England as a man, under the name of Harry Lloyd, was investigated at the inquest on the body of Lloyd three weeks ago. The deceased had lived at Alma road, Enfield Wash, London, together with a young woman of 28, employed as a teacher, who was up to the time of the death on Saturday had believed the woman to be her father.

This young woman, Elizabeth Lloyd, called the first witness.

The Coroner:—So far as you know, has the deceased always dressed in man's attire? Witness:—So far as my memory goes back, I remember things when I was as young as three years.

Q.—Do you remember the death of your mother? A.—Perfectly.

Q.—What was your age then? A.—I was just 6½ years old.

Q.—Did you understand what deceased's nationality was? A.—I always understood it was French. She spoke French perfectly.

The Coroner said he had received a telegram from a Mr. Kels, an auctioneer at Southend. The telegram read: "Lloyd was in my employment at Edmontford for years. Know nothing of his life."

The Coroner: Did she ever tell you what her age was? A.—She told me her age once, and it would make her 74 when she died.

Q.—Did you ever suggest she should see a doctor? A.—I have done it many times in the last year, but she always said "No."

Witness, continuing, said there had never at any time been anything which aroused her suspicions that the deceased was not her "father."

The Coroner: Do you remember at the time your mother died whether any other persons were there? Witness: As far as my memory goes, it seems to me I can see a man and a woman, as well as my father (the deceased).

A Maiden Aunt.

Q.—Did the deceased ever speak about your mother? A.—If I questioned "him" he would tell me little details. I rarely asked him about the color of his coat.

Q.—What did "he" tell you? A.—"He" told me my mother's name was Condit, or a name something like that.

Q.—Did she ever say anything to you about the circumstances of marriage with your mother? A.—She never gave me any circumstances. I asked, and the reply always was, "Another time."

Q.—Did you ever say anything about the name "Lloyd," knowing deceased was supposed to be French? A.—She said she came of Welsh stock, and some generations ago settled in France.

Q.—I suppose we may take it now that your mother was a sister of the deceased? A.—Well, I privately don't think so.

Q.—What do you think? A.—Sometimes I think she was a maiden aunt, because so far as I know she went as a man before.

Q.—Before the death of your mother? A.—No, before my birth. She had told me many things in connection with politics and things like that, which led me to believe she was a man.

A number of photographs handed to the witness by the Coroner were inspected. One of these was a photograph of the deceased, her mother and herself as a little girl. Witness did not know any of the others, but one of them represented a young lady, having a very strong resemblance to the features of the deceased.

Dramatic Surprise.

The Coroner: I see "he" was acquainted in some way with Mr. Charles Bradshaw. Witness: Yes, he had a very intimate knowledge of him.

Miss Lloyd, continuing her evidence, said the deceased had told her that she was born in France.

"Dr. Foot said he had known the deceased by sight for some time. He had always known her as a man, and his attention was directed to her by a peculiar habit of walking. I have never on any occasion tried to come into conversation with her, but she had always "shut him up sharply."

When witness arrived at the house on Saturday and saw the deceased lying on the couch he said to Miss Lloyd: "I thought it was a man I was called to see." She replied, "Yes, it is; that's my father." Witness said: "I have never seen a more effeminate expression on a man's face in my life." Miss Lloyd was absolutely surprised when told the body was that of a woman. Death was due to pleurisy. The doctor further stated that a friend of his, another doctor, remembered attending the late Eliza Lloyd at the time of Miss Lloyd's birth.

The jury returned a verdict in accordance with the medical evidence, and expressed their sympathy with Miss Lloyd.

Was She Marie Le Roy?

The widow of Mr. George Jacob Holyoake, Chiswick, told a London press representative that she believed "Harry Lloyd" to be the same as Marie Le Roy, a bright little Frenchwoman, and a teacher of French, who used to visit the Hall of Science in the days when Mr. Charles Bradshaw and Mr. Austin Holyoake lectured there.

"Marie Le Roy, as I knew her," said the lady, "was as dear, sweet, tender-hearted a creature as you could wish to see. She had a wonderfully affectionate nature, and was in everything a perfectly well-bred lady. Even her masculine ways she loved to wear a collar and tie. She did not detract from her feminine charms. I introduced her to the Hall of Science circle, and she became a great help there, always taking an active part in the secretarial side of the work, and in the arrangement and management of the lectures. She was well known to all the circle, including Mr. Charles Bradshaw and my late husband."

"Marie, as I said, was of a very affectionate nature; I might say, absorbingly affectionate, for there was nothing she seemed to love so much as to absorb the affections, if I might put it that way, of those she liked. That is another point which strengthens my belief in her identity. She was a woman whose ways and habits you could not be surprised at, and I can well conceive that after leaving me she would become as close a friend to some other woman. We began to drift apart about thirty years ago, soon after I remarried, and I remember that when I last saw her in 1880 she told me that she was living with a woman friend. "After the meeting in 1880 she seemed to disappear quite suddenly—I might say almost miraculously—and I never heard anything of her from that time. I made many inquiries, but could not trace her.

LEOPARD NOTED FOR TREACHERY

Can Seldom Be Tamed or Trained Like the Other Big Cats.

Less in size than the lion or the tiger, the leopard is much more dangerous, and far more treacherous. It lives a life of concealment and hides as a rule in trees, so that it is not so often seen as other animals far rarer than the leopard.

Leopards are spread widely over the world. They are found from the Cape of Good Hope to the Atlas Mountains, from Southern China to the Black Sea. As they differ in habitat, so do the treacherous beasts differ in size and color. Some are almost white, others are out brown; a few are jet black. But, wherever they live, the felids are catlike thieves, sheep thieves and child stealers. Not formidable in appearance, they are immensely strong—it is not unusual for them to turn man-eater. Both in India and Africa they have been known to turn deliberately from preying upon domestic animals to man, and live on human flesh alone.

Occasionally leopards are tamed. The cubs are amusing while they are too little to do any harm, but once they commence to feel grown there is a sure to be danger for human beings. Their treachery knows no bounds—they are just as apt to turn on the person who has fed and petted them from birth as they are to pounce upon an unsuspecting dog or lamb.

A Hong Kong Englishman, for example, had a tame leopard that he thought was perfectly safe and domesticated. It was brought one evening into the dining-room by a coolie to be exhibited to the owner's guests. Excited by the smell of food, the leopard refused to go out when one of the ladies, who did not like to be asked to ask the coolie to be removed. The coolie took hold of its collar and began to haul it out. It seized him by the neck, bit it through, and in a minute the coolie was lying covered with blood, on the dining-room floor.

The Chinese leopard ranges as far north as the Siberian tiger, and, like it, seems to grow larger the further north it is found. The color of these northern leopards is very pale, the spots large and the fur very long.

Natives of all countries are unanimous in declaring that the leopard is more dangerous than the lion or tiger. They have no fear of the lion, providing they are not hunting it. A lion will not attack unless provoked, but a leopard is never to be trusted.

In Africa natives were once firing the reeds along a stream. One of them, a boy, being thirsty and hot, stooped down to drink. He was immediately seized by a leopard. The boy's brother, with admirable aim, hurled his spear at the leopard and while the boy was in his jaws. The point penetrated the vertebrae of the neck and the leopard fell stone dead. But the boy could not recover. The leopard's fangs had torn open his chest and injured the lungs. He died during the night.

Leopards seize their prey by the throat and cling with their claws until they succeed in breaking the spine or in strangling the victim. They have a habit of feeding on putrid flesh; this makes them so filthy that they are considered unclean by the Jews and Moslems, and liable to blood-poisoning. Nothing in the way of prey comes amiss to them, from a cow in the pasture to a fowl up at roost.

In the great mountain ranges of Central Asia the beautiful snow leopard is found. It is a large creature, with thick, woolly coat, and a white tail like a fur coat. Its eyes are very large, bluish grey or smoke-colored. It lives on the wild sheep, ibex and other mountain animals.

The West African leopard skin is more handsome than the Asiatic. He and she usually go in couples—are fond of hunting cantonments and around native towns, where they pick up a goat and a sheep, then a baby.

The leopard is so bold that even in daylight he will wander about a town or a village, seated upon a high rock or a white man's prelate to get a good shot at a leopard from a bungalow verandah or a mud hut door.

Wounded leopards have always a nasty temper, and it is distinctly inadvisable to follow up a wounded panther at night. The moral is, of course, to kill outright. With a good moon and a white coat, a cool eye and a fairly heavy ball there is not much difficulty in a straight kill.

NORWAY'S SIMPLE KING.

The Scandinavian is distinguished by a certain simplicity of bearing far exceeding that of the more sophisticated English-speaking world, and certainly the people of Sweden display rather more of the great world manner than the Norwegians. Indeed, the western side of the peninsula is comparatively rural, and the young king, who is very like the president of a rustic democracy than a crowned monarch, so at one is he with the common people. It is like playing at royalty, and one almost feels that he might at any moment tilt his crown a bit askew and wink his eye. A pretty little anecdote met us in Christiania lately. It seems that a quiet tailor-made little day went into one of the shops one day and bought a pair of shoes, and when the saleswoman asked her address, she replied: "You need not deliver them. Just have them wrapped up here and he will carry them." And in a moment, his majesty the king came in, took the queen's parcel and they walked out together as if they had never heard of the crown of Norway.—Harper's Bazar.

PRIDE OF INDIANS.

These people drift together, following their own ideas of life, speaking their own language and retiring before the whites with the same strange reserve and pride that characterized them in their wild state.

Although claiming the name of several Christian denominations and following certain beliefs with devoutness, their ways of thinking, their dislike of innovation and their aversion to work have made them withdraw to the mountain districts. Whether this so-called reserve comes from pride or a distrust of the white man or timidity or merely a stubborn conservatism it produces the same result, the backward and non-progressive Indian.

There is, too, a certain mystic quality that holds the Indian aloof, a quality that we do not understand and with which there is little sympathy in our everyday life. He is so much of a philosopher that he looks upon our strenuous life with some contempt, dismissing our efforts for personal comfort and material advancement with the remark that "the white man is heap trouble to himself." White people call him lazy because he does not care to exert himself for those things which seem important to whites, and yet to some religious ceremonial or some artistic expression his application is persistent and his "patience of an Indian" has passed into a proverb.—Southern Workman.

DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY

It has a reputation of 65 years' standing and never fails to either relieve or cure

Do not be imposed on by any unscrupulous dealer who wishes to substitute the so-called Strawberry Compounds for "Dr. Fowler's," as these no name, no reputation substitutes may be dangerous to your health.

"Proved It Again and Again"

Mrs. Charles Kitchen, Noel, N.S., writes:—"I beg to recommend Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry as I always keep a bottle in the house and would not care to be without it. I have proved it again and again as a never failing remedy for Diarrhoea."

SIDELIGHTS ON NOTABLE PEOPLE BY THE MARQUISE DE FONTENAY

Countess Camilla Hoyos, who has been paying a series of visits in the Berkshires, where she was entertained, among others, by former Ambassador Choate, is the youngest daughter of the late Count George Hoyos, of the Austrian navy, and of the latter's wife, Alice Whitehead, a grandchild, therefore, of old Robert Whitehead, the inventor and manufacturer of the famous Whitehead torpedo. She inherited a very large share of her grandfather's immense fortune, which in England alone amounted to some $10,000,000, the bulk of his property being situated in Austria, especially at Plume, on the Adriatic, where the huge Whitehead torpedo works are situated. She was born on the Isle of Wight and was brought up almost wholly in England, is a familiar figure in London society, is a tall, handsome woman, with blue eyes and fluff, golden hair, and was formerly engaged to Samuel Pepys Cockrell, of the London foreign office, but broke off the engagement within a fortnight of the date appointed for the wedding.

One of her sisters is the widow of the late Prince Herbert Bismarck, while another is the wife of Count Louis Plessen, German envoy at Athens. The Hoyos family is of Spanish origin, and came from the Iberian peninsula to Germany in the train of Emperor Charles V. Indeed, the original house of Hoyos still flourishes in Spain, and for a number of years the Marquis Hoyos of Madrid was Spanish ambassador at the court of Vienna. They were created Barons of the Holy Roman Empire in 1547, and count a hundred years later, and now own great territorial possessions in Austria. One of the members of the house, Count Ladislaus Hoyos, was for many years minister of Emperor Francis Joseph at Washington, where, indeed, his eldest son was born, and a quarter of a century later served as secretary of the mission.

Although English barons have the reputation of being wicked, probably owing to the fact that the villain of almost every melodrama is "a bold bad baron," there are some of them who are almost saints. To the latter category belongs Sir David Hunter Blair, a barefooted monk of the Order of St. Benedict, who after spending a number of years laboring in the swamp districts of the Amazon River, to convert the natives to Christianity, has now returned home to Europe, perfectly blind, in the faint hope that some miracle may be accomplished towards the restoring of his eyesight by the world-famed oculist, Professor Pa-genstecher, at Wiesbaden.

The Hunter Blair family made its fortunes in the eighteenth century, when its members were the king's printers for Scotland, and partners of the Forbeses of Pitlochy, in the Edinburgh banking business of that name, so well known to the readers of Boswell's "Johnson," and of Lockhart's "Sir Walter Scott." Sir David is the fifth baronet of his line, received his education at Eton, and at Magdalen College, Oxford, served in the army with the rank of captain of one of the Highland regiments, and was a chamberlain of Pius IX, and of Leo XIII, but on the death in 1878 of his wife (of whom, curiously enough, no mention is made in any of the standard works of reference), he, with the permission of Leo XIII, entered holy orders, became a Benedictine monk, and on his father's death in 1886 turned over the family estate, including Blairquhan Castle, near Maybole, in Ayrshire, to his younger brother, Captain Edward Hunter Blair, of the royal navy. One of his sisters is the wife of the Earl of Glasgow.

Let me add that Sir David has also done missionary work in Patagonia, and was for a time rector of the Abbey School, Fort Augustus. So far as I am aware, he is the only monk who belongs to any club, having retained his membership of the Caledonian, in Edinburgh, and of the Conservative, in London.

In describing in these letters the other day the extraordinary marriage of Queen Natalie of Serbia's nephew, George Ghika, to the elderly but still comely Parisian demi-mondaine, Liane de Pougy, who, unlike most of her tribe, has managed to set aside her public large fortune, I omitted to mention that she is the original of "Sylviane," in Emile Zola's well-known novel entitled "Paris." I also neglected to state that at the wedding ceremony at Paris she carried in her hand, in lieu of the customary flowers, an almost priceless breviary, exquisitely illuminated, which had at one time belonged to Duchess Anne de Bretagne. For the new niece of Queen Natalie is Breton by birth, and owns a magnificent chateau and park in Brittany near Roscoff.

Admiral Sir Albert Markham, who arrived in the country last week, but the Adriatic from England, with Lady Markham and his little daughter to stay with Frederick Pearson for some weeks to come, at Great Barrington, Mass., came prominently before the public a few months ago in connection with an unsuccessful attempt to make him the victim of a full-fledged Black Hand outrage. He is an officer who some 20 years ago was the subject of a controversy that attracted worldwide attention, especially in naval and military circles, the issue being to what extent the obedience to superior officers should be carried. He was second in command of the Mediterranean squadron, when his flagship, the Camperdown, rammed the Victoria, the flagship of the commander-in-chief, Admiral Sir George Tryon, sending her to the bottom of

Around World in Auto American Lady's Feat

Wife of a New Jersey Millionaire Makes a Wonderful Trip.

Racing across the continent somewhere out in the plains of Nevada or Wyoming is a 40-horsepower motor car in which rides the first woman to circle the world in a gasoline car. When Mrs. Harriet Clark Fisher, of Trenton, N. J., reaches New York city, her journey is done. But just for good measure she is going to keep on to Lake Como, Italy, where she has a villa. Then, indeed, she can rest from her labors—she will have girdled the globe with gasoline!

Mrs. Fisher left San Francisco a few days ago on the last lap of her journey. What is before her seems to be easy, compared with what she has done already. She has crossed mountains on trails fit only for camels or mules; she has had her machine literally lifted out of the mire by coolies and carried to a dry place; she has taken her car across watercourses in boats so small that two had to be lashed together to float it; she has camped in the wilds at night, while desert nomads prowled about; she has run the car across bridges that shook with the weight of one man, much more with a heavy machine; she has done everything—but fail!

Mrs. Fisher left New York on June 16 last with her youthful chauffeur, H. Fisher Brooks, a cousin of hers, a maid and a man-servant, Albert Fusi, and not forgetting Honk-Honk, her pet bull terrier and mascot. Her machine was especially prepared for the trip. It was of the 40-horse type, with a 14-inch clearance, and a tank holding 40 gallons of gasoline. Besides, there were extra wheels and tires aplenty, a cooking outfit, tools and spare parts. After getting the car ashore in France the real start was made from Paris. The party toured France leisurely, and then went through Germany and Switzerland. Next Mrs. Fisher crossed over to Italy and spent a few days at her villa at Como. Then the party went to Vienna, Rome, Naples and Port Said, and took ship for India, where the real adventure began. And let Mrs. Fisher tell the story just as she told it when at last she set foot again on the soil of her native land, even if it was California, something more than 3,000 miles from her New Jersey home.

"It was certainly an exciting trip," laughed Mrs. Fisher, "just as soon as we left civilization. We lived like gypsies half the time; the hotels in India are few and far between, and even then—well, they weren't Waldorfs, at that. I don't know what we should have done if it hadn't been for Mr. Brooks. His ingenuity got us out of many a tight situation.

"He seemed to be able to run our machine anywhere. I took the wheel when the roads were good—which was not often—but when there was real work I left it all to him. He picked out trails in the Punjab where no wheeled vehicle had ever been before, much less an automobile.

"The natives marvelled as we came along. Only a few men have ever negotiated India in a motor car. They couldn't believe their eyes when they saw a car containing not one woman, but two! Fortunately, it was cool, dry weather. The nights we found delightful—in fact, after sundown we noticed the thinly clad natives huddling around their wood fires to keep warm. The roads were fine, thanks to the British Government, but the towns—awful! Really, in the country between Bombay and Calcutta we preferred to camp out.

"We visited many places in that land of the sea, off the coast of Syria, carrying with her crew of over 600 men and most of her officers, only 27 sailors and officers escaping.

The disaster was due to a faulty manoeuvre ordered by Sir George Tryon. Admiral Markham had to choose between obedience, with almost inevitable disaster, and disobedience with the probability of a court-martial for insubordination, his commanding officer, Sir George Tryon, being a strict disciplinarian.

Markham decided in favor of the former alternative. He held that the virtue of obedience was superior to every other in the navy; that the responsibility for what would follow, would after all remain with his chief. He argued that if every officer on receiving orders were to hesitate about complying with them until he had decided in his own mind whether they were right or wrong, all discipline would be at an end in the navy.

All this was brought out in the court-martial subsequently held at Malta, and before which he had to appear for ramming and sinking the Victoria. He was acquitted by the court-martial, and all the newspapers, both in England and abroad, lauded his Spartan ideas of discipline.

Although Markham was acquitted, the admiralty is understood to have censured him in a confidential minute, holding that he ought to have exercised judgment in obeying an order that was not only manifestly erroneous and clearly issued in momentary aberration by his superior officer, but also evidently brought out in the court-martial subsequently held at Malta, and before which he had to appear for ramming and sinking the Victoria. He was acquitted by the court-martial, and all the newspapers, both in England and abroad, lauded his Spartan ideas of discipline.

Sir Albert Markham achieved fame as an Arctic explorer, and in 1876, as the commander of the Alert, succeeded in planting the English flag in the highest northern latitude reached up to then, namely, the 83rd degree. He also has to his credit the suppression of the "blackbirding," that is to say, the slave raiding and trading in the South Sea Islands; and served with Admiral Sir Edward Seymour in the China Seas 50 years ago, taking part in the expedition which culminated in the capture of Peking, and the destruction of the summer palace.

of history and mystery where the people had never seen a motor car before. But never once were we in danger—this is, from the natives themselves. When we got to China we had our troubles, all right—the roads. They were simply awful. However, we got through everything, and never once did we have to stop to repair the car. And the Chinamen, whom we thought would make us trouble, never did anything more than crowd around the car, bursting with curiosity.

"Honk-Honk stood guard at night always, and slept in the car during the day. Never could a native approach within ten feet of us without our faithful watch dog giving the alarm. But it was only their overwhelming curiosity that brought them so close. They never meant us any harm. In fact, more than once we would have been helpless without their assistance.

"Honk-Honk was a great help. But more than once he disgraced us in the Indian and Chinese villages by chasing the chickens. How could we blame him? He worked so hard when he was with us that we couldn't begrudge him such little diversions in his hours of ease, could we?

"As we went along we got playfellows for him. In India I got the cutest little monkey you ever saw. I named him Billiken. And in Japan we added the nicest little pug, Jap. They would not let me bring my pets ashore when we arrived in San Francisco on the Siberia, but finally they relented, and the two dogs and the monkey are going all the way home with me.

"In Japan we had our most exciting experiences. We started from Kobe, and from there we went to Osaka, and then to Kyoto, Nagoya, Skitagonia, J. ani, Odawara and Yokohama, to Tokio. Afterwards we made several short trips to points of interest, going as far as Nikko. The majority of the roads in Japan are extremely narrow, and in many of the city streets the auto would barely pass, with no room to spare.

"We have run the car over bridges that were very old and most unreliable; often so flimsy that a person's weight alone would shake them quite perceptibly. We were obliged to cross several bodies of water on small ferries, made of all sorts of craft; one instance was the Hamana Bay, which is about three miles across. This we ferried by lashing two fishermen's sails, boats together, and by putting the car on a temporary platform, placed across the boats.

Exciting Experiences.

"Another exciting ferrying experience was that of crossing the Fuji Rapids. This we accomplished by putting the car on two flat-bottomed sampans, fastened together. This crossing was most dangerous; the river was full of rocks, and the water a dashing, swift-flowing current. Although the sampans worked the boats and controlled them are very clever and experienced, the great bulk of the two boats and the car combined was too much for them, and instead of landing us about opposite where we started, we were carried some distance down the river and grounded on the rocks about 25 feet from shore, which was really exposed river bottom and covered with huge stones.

"We were left in this condition until the coolies brought long pine tree poles and planks from a nearby village and built an inclined plane from the boat to shore. Then we had to run the car a long distance over these stones, and up the river bank before we reached the road again. We passed over several mountains with narrow roads and short, steep turns, but the worst of all was the Kamizawa Pass, over the Hakoni Mountains from Mishima to Atami. This road is not much more than a trail for pack-horses and pedestrians, and is about ten miles up and seven miles down. We started to make the ascent after lunch, Tuesday, May 17, and before we had gone half-way to the summit we found ahead of us a partly constructed bridge over a chasm, too narrow for the car to pass. We tried to put planks down to get across, but were unable to succeed with the material at hand.

"By this time night had come on, and there was a cold, misty rain falling, and not a hotel or an inn for miles, and not even a house in sight. So we decided to spend the night there, and proceeded to pitch our tents and make ourselves as comfortable as possible. Fortunately, the place at which we stopped was the only one we had seen where there was a flat place large enough to pitch camp, and we also had another very essential thing close by in the form of a nice clean stream of water rushing down the cascade just before us.

"The coolies brought us some brush and wood and some eggs, which along with our own provision of canned beans and sausages soon helped us to make ourselves fairly comfortable, both inside and out. We kept the fire burning all night. Our bull-terrier, which is quite a respectable sized dog now, was on watch, and I kept my repeating rifle in a handy place, so we were quite prepared for anyone who might fancy to molest us.

"Early in the morning the men from the nearby village arrived with a supply of boards and planks to build the bridge. We decided to arrange a verbal agreement with ten of the coolies, through our boy, Uchiyama—Frank, for short—to build the bridge and also to clear the road, and to do whatever was necessary to get our car through to Atami, for the sum of 20 yen. A yen is about 50 cents, and United States money. That day we shall long remember, for many times we feared it would be our Waterloo. Of the lifting, pulling, cutting away corners and filling up holes there seemed to be no end.

Pain in Heart

"For two years I had pain in my heart, back and left side. Could not draw a deep breath or lie on left side, and any little exertion would cause palpitation. Under advice I took Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy and Nerve. I took about thirteen bottles, am in better health than I ever was, and have gained 14 pounds."

MRS. LILLIE THOMAS,
Upper Sandusky, Ohio.

For many years Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy has been very successful in the treatment of heart troubles, because of its tonic effect upon the heart nerves and muscles. Even in severe cases of long standing it has frequently prolonged life for many years after doctors had given up all hope, as proven by thousands of letters we have received from grateful people.

How Do You Eat?

Some people eat with their palates—and others with their brains. To which class do you belong? Those who eat with their palates eat only the food that tastes good, no matter whether it nourishes the body or not.

Those who eat with their brains eat food which supplies the greatest amount of body-building material in the most digestible form.

Christ Church, Sutorville, was on Wednesday, July 27, the scene of a pretty wedding, when Miss Sarah May, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A HANDSOME UMBRELLA FOR MR. J. L. GALBRAITH

Popular Organist of New St. James' Church Is Leaving for Southern States.

The choir of New St. James' Presbyterian Church and a number of their friends had planned a little farewell picnic for their organist, Mr. J. L. Galbraith, who is leaving in a few days to take a position in the Southern States. Owing to the weather the picnic idea was abandoned, and a little social affair held in the Sunday school room.

Mr. Galbraith was presented with a handsome umbrella and also a large group photograph of the members of the choir. The following address was read to Mr. Galbraith:

To J. Lamont Galbraith, Organist and Choirmaster, New St. James' Presbyterian Church, London, Ont.: Dear Mr. Galbraith, In severing your connection with New St. James' Presbyterian Church, we feel that we have removed the main portion of our choir body, in other words, our head.

Much as we desired it, we knew we could not hope to keep you always with us, and your removal has caused keen personal regret among us all.

We want to thank you very especially for your kindly sympathy freely given to us at all times, your great interest in us, educating us to the highest standards not only of music but in all else wherever your influence touched, making our work a great source of pleasure always; for the wonderful patience you have had with us, evidencing your Christlike nature ever ready to help and by your courteous manner and tactfulness, making the rough places smooth.

Words fail to express for us the high esteem in which we hold you, but in our love and gratitude we ask you to accept the accompanying tokens of appreciation, trusting that looking at the one and using the other will serve to keep what we all desire—a little green spot in your memory, for us.

We wish you and Mrs. Galbraith a bright and prosperous future, and every success in whatever field of usefulness you may be called to enter.

Signed on behalf of the choir.

Gault, $6,000, full of claim; Galtshore & Thompson, paid $2,897.45, retained $1,657.56, amount of certificates $3,955.01; H. & J. Daniels, $2,490, retained $5,810, certificates, $8,300.

The total contract given to Mr. Beck was $98,700. The total amount of certificates for work amounts to $70,344.87, leaving $28,355.13 to be expended for further pumps and machinery. This table does not include the two electric turbines and motors that have not yet been delivered. These will be paid for out of the $28,000 still remaining.

It is thought the contract can be carried out for less than the original estimate.

JULY WAS VERY WET

2.76 INCHES OF RAIN

More Rain Than Last Year But Much Less Than in July of 1908.

The weather report for July shows that during the month 2.76 inches of rain fell. Of this amount 1 inch fell in the storm of last Sunday, and half an inch in yesterday's storm. The total rainfall for July, 1909, was 1.11, while in July of 1908 there was 2.35 inches. The hottest day of the month was on July 9, when the mercury climbed to 96.5, and the coolest was on July 5, when the temperature was 47. The hottest day of July, 1909, was 90.5, and the coldest 42.5.

WILL SELL OLD BRIDGE NEW ONE ON DUNDAS ST.

Special Committee of London Township Council Met Yesterday to Deal With Matter.

At a meeting of a special committee of the London Township council, held yesterday afternoon, it was decided to sell the old bridge, the Governor's road to the county council, who will use it to replace the bridge on the sidewalk near the old Packing Company's plant, which was badly damaged when a traction engine went through it on Tuesday last, and erect a new reinforced bridge on the Governor's road.

Engineer Talbot was instructed to go ahead and prepare the necessary plans and specifications. The new bridge will be a very handsome and substantial affair with a span of 32 feet, a 16-foot driveway and a four-foot walk.

LIGHTNING BOLT STRUCK HAMILTON ROAD HOUSE

$600 Damage Caused to the Residence of Mr. George Spearin.

Fire, caused by lightning, did $600 damage to the store of Geo. Spearin, 188 Hamilton road, yesterday afternoon during the storm.

A bolt struck the chimney and went through to the ground. The bricks were scattered in all directions. In a moment or two flames burst out, and an alarm was sent in. After a stubborn fight the fire was extinguished. There was no person in the kitchen at the time.

The department had some difficulty in reaching the fire owing to the heavy roads. The Hamilton road is being repaired, and the heavy rig sank in the mud. The truck could not reach the fire.

Soreness of the muscles, whether induced by violent exercise or injury is quickly relieved by the free application of Chamberlain's Liniment. This liniment is equally valuable for muscular rheumatism and always affords quick relief. Sold by all dealers.

LAMBTON HIT BY A CYCLONE

Cuts Swath Two Miles Long in Bosanquet Township.

FALLING BARN CRUSHED TWO

Crops Levelled, Trees Down and Part of Forest Cemetery Wrecked—A Destructive Bolt Near Chatham.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Forest, Ont., July 30.—Cutting a swath two miles long and 600 yards wide, a cyclone swept through Bosanquet Township early yesterday afternoon, doing immense damage to crops and property generally. It was accompanied by a terrific downpour of hail and rain, and was the worst storm of this type that has ever visited Lambton County. No lives were lost, but George Codling, a farmer on the 16th concession, and his mother were caught beneath a collapsing barn, and the former terribly injured. His jaw was broken and he is suffering from internal injuries, while his mother is also badly bruised and shaken up. The barn, which contained the season's crops, was a total wreck.

Everything went down that was in the path of the storm, corn, sugar beets, wheat and other crops being levelled, and hopelessly ruined. Orchard trees also suffered in large numbers.

The cyclone cut across a corner of the cemetery about half a mile north of this place, badly wrecking everything in the way of fences, bushes and trees and upsetting a half dozen monuments.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Chatham, July 29.—Fire started this afternoon in Wood Smith's barn, near Kent Bridge, and destroyed one end of the main building. The total loss will be over $2,000. Lightning struck the building while Mr. Smith was threshing, and the fire reaching the grain and hay spread rapidly, and one end of the barn was soon in flames. The men succeeded in getting out the stock, and the threshing outfit, and the house and other buildings were saved. The barns were insured.

ATTEMPT AT ROBBERY

Store on Richmond Street Was Entered by a Thief.

A daring attempt was made about 3 o'clock on Wednesday morning to rob the store of Mrs. Julia Shelton, at 719 Richmond street. The thief, who was seen by the storekeeper, entered the store by the front door, which was left open and the thief, by using a gum slot as a step climbed up and swung himself through. The noise he made getting down on the inside awakened Mrs. Shelton and she at once got up. The man was then in a passageway, and when he saw her coming he said, "You stay where you are," and ran back, turned the key and opening the door ran down the street. The affair was reported to the policeman on the beat, but no trace could be found of the burglar.

MURDOCK AND KING TALKED IT OVER

The Labor Minister Saw Strike Leader, But Nothing Was Given Out.

Montreal, July 29.—It is thought that the prospects for a speedy settlement of the dispute between the Grand Trunk Railway and their conductors and trainmen were increased this morning by a conference between Vice-President Murdock, of the union, and Mr. Mackenzie King, minister of labor. Mr. King refused to make any statement after the meeting, and Mr. Murdock said that no peace proposition was discussed.

"We merely talked over the situation," Mr. Murdock said afterwards, "and no proposals were made by the minister, nor did I suggest any terms for a settlement."

It is understood, however, that this morning's conference was the first step in a plan which the Minister of Labor has formed to bring the opposing factions in the big labor war together and ultimately effect a settlement.

At the Grand Trunk offices it was stated that nothing was known of any further negotiations towards the settlement of the dispute by arbitration. President Hays and Vice-president Fitzhugh both spent the morning in their offices attending to routine work.

Mr. Hays said he had not been officially notified of Mr. Mackenzie King's visit to the city, and that the minister of labor had not asked for a further conference with him. It is understood that a meeting between the Grand Trunk president and the minister will take place this evening, with a view to arranging for another conference with the representatives of the men.

To His Honor Address.

Ben. J. Wilson, a noted labor speaker, who has been engaged in an eighteen months' tour of England, arrived in the city this morning. He had an interview with Mr. Murdock, and it was announced afterwards that he will address his mass meetings of the strikers and their sympathizers on the Champ de Mars tomorrow afternoon and on Sunday.

This is believed to be in line with Mr. Murdock's statement, yesterday that if the company would not agree to arbitration, the unions would begin to push the fight. The local police will make special arrangements for a large guard of men to keep order when the mass meetings are being held, fearing

The FRUIT JAR That Stays Sealed. Easily Opened When You Desire

That's the Schram Fruit Jar—the best sealer made, and there's another reason why you should seal all your preserves in Schram jars this season.

$500.00 IN CASH PRIZES

We are going to distribute $500 in cash this season among the prize-winners at the fruit exhibit of the National Exhibition. All you have to do to make sure of an extra prize is to seal your preserves in Schram Fruit Jars—the best by actual test. The list of fruits for which we will give an extra prize of $5 in cash is: Pears, Cherries, Strawberries, Pineapples, Lombard Plums, Red and Black Raspberries, Peaches, Green Gage Plums and Gooseberries. The prizes will be awarded by a committee of well-known Ontario ladies.

All contestants may take away their entries after the close of the exhibition.

There are no restrictions and no entrance fee. The Schram Automatic Sealer is easily sealed and just as easy to open. The mouth is wide, smooth and polished. No danger of cutting your hands. It admits whole fruit easily.

The Schram Automatic Sealer Jar has also proved itself the jar par excellence for the canning of vegetables.

that some of the speakers of Socialistic tendency may succeed in working up the men to starting a disturbance.

Points of Difference. The chief point of difference on which the negotiations for arbitration now hang is the question of the retention of the men hired since the strike began. It was on this point that the union leaders and the officials of the company split up in the first approaches towards arbitration. President Hays repeated this morning that he would on no account displace the men taken on since the strike, and Vice-President Murdock again said the union would consider no proposition which did not include the taking on of all the strikers.

DROPPED DEAD

Comber, July 28. — E. O. Smith, a farmer living about four miles from Comber, in the township of Rochester, dropped dead yesterday while entering his home for dinner. Deceased was 44 years of age and leaves a widow, but no children.

One million persons in the States today are confirmed inebriates. Of these one-third die yearly as a result of drink, yet this number is annually made up by recruits to the army of drunkards. Thus the total enrollment of 1,000,000 is kept up.
