SCORCHED THE SCHOOL BOARD

Council Claim Trustees Must Shoulder Responsibility for High Rate.

Long Session of Civic Fathers—The Estimates Submitted and Rate Struck.

"I'd just as soon break the news to you now," said Ald. McCoig, in his characteristic way at Monday night's Council meeting, as he rose to present the by-law fixing the rate. "Twenty-five and a half mills is the best we can make it and meet the expenses that have to be paid. There is not one cent added that we can get along without, but all grants will have to be cut down and curtailed."

Ald. McCoig pointed out that a large portion of the expenditure was uncontrollable, as far as the Council was concerned.

The Mayor instanced the School Board expenditure, which had increased $2,000, in addition to "giving away" a valuable piece of property. He thought it was time the School Board was held more strictly to account for expenditure.

Ald. Cowan said the throwing away of the Queen St. site was a disgrace to the School Board. "It was done to get $2,000 to be spent on water closets and ridiculous spending of money on McKeough school," he supposed.

"Why," continued Ald. Cowan, "the School Board seem to take no thought in running up expenses. I met Mr. D. Jordan not long since and he said, 'Did you hear of the bargain I got, the cheap lot I purchased from the School Board?' He said he had got the lot on Queen St., next to Richard Smith's, for $200."

"It is time the School Board were learning to control expenses. If all city business was conducted the way they do it, there would be an awful row."

The Mayor said people did not realize how much the School Board controlled. "Electors should be careful in picking the trustees," he said.

Ald. Cowan said it was time the School Board was exhibiting more economy.

Ald. McCoig said it was largely such uncontrollable expenditure as that of the School Board that caused high rates.

He quoted the assessment in detail as follows:—

Public Schools—4-10 mills.
R. C. Separate School—4-10 mills.
Coll. Inst.—1-7-10 mills.
Free Library—3-10 mill.

The by-law was passed at these figures.

A shoal of applications poured in from citizens who claimed to have been erroneously assessed for dogs. Among the number were Thomas T. Seanton, Jas. Dagneau, Geo. Warren, W. W. Seane, Chas. Bartlett, Jno. McCorrie, Louis Wangerheim, S. J. Sulzerland, Mrs. Margaret Phillips, E. A. Scott, Jacob Smith, Peter Bloude and others.

The Mayor pointed out that this was the last opportunity this year of dealing with the dog cases.

Ald. McCoig suggested the advisability of dealing with them as they came before the Council.

Report adopted.

Ald. Cowan reported that the Bloude Co. be allowed to lower main crossing the river and the cost be apportioned as follows: $50 by waterworks, $125 by Bloude Co. and balance by city. Total cost $400.

bility of dealing with them as they came before the Council.

Other aldermen took objection that many of the cases would require investigation and they were all accordingly referred to the Chief of Police to investigate and report back to the Council.

Applications from Mrs. Hamilton, St. George St., Miss Ward, Head St., W. J. Kitchen, Head street, and others were also referred to the Chief of Police.

In this connection Ald. Waddell submitted a motion instructing the clerk to advertise invitations to the citizens to petition for the trimming of trees, work to be done under the supervision of the Chief of Police, Carried.

Communication was received, asking that the estate of the late E. W. Glady, deceased, be relieved of income tax after April 1. Finance.

Account M. Houston, for storage of city implements, $10, was referred to City Engineer.

FOREMAN AND HIS PIPE

When Ald. McKeough presented the civic pipe, he asked the Council how much had been charged up for measuring the various street improvements.

Ald. McKeough gave the figures, which Ald. McCoig tallied at $17.50. "I don't see why this expense is necessary," the latter declared. "The engineer and foreman both have plenty of time to take after themselves. Why, I have seen the foreman take as long to light his pipe as it would take to measure a whole street."

The city engineer interposed that both the foreman and himself had other and more important duties to perform.

A. J. Dolan wrote concerning extension of Lacroix street—Board of Works.

Petition was received for sewer on south side of Kirk street—City Engineer.

ABOUT SURETIES

Bligh & Fielder, contractors for granolithic walks, wrote asking that they might be relieved of furnishing sureties on their contract.

Ald. McKeough said the Board of works were desirous that the council should deal with this matter, as the board had no inclination to inaugurate a precedent of this character.

The Mayor said the matter would be taken up later in the evening. The agreement between the City and the Chaplin Co. was authorized to be signed.

TOLD THEM THINGS

The Mayor said an effort was being made to collect the various small-pox accounts. He read a letter from D. Glady, Manager of the Bank of Montreal, replying to the application of the city clerk for payment of $50, repudiating the account, and denying liability.

Ald. McCoig moved that the account be forthwith placed in the hands of the city solicitor for collection.

Ald. Marshall seconded the motion, which carried.

Henry Vernon wrote soliciting patronage on new city directory—Finance.

MR. QUINN'S THREAT

F. F. Quinn, senior member of the firm of Quinn & Patterson, notified the city through his solicitors, Lewis & Richards, that unless the specifications in regard to the laying of the granolithic walk past his residence on Stanley avenue, were strictly adhered to, he will refuse to pay for the sidewalk, as material was being substituted that was not according to the original specifications. These call for Portland cement and gravel equally as good as filling for the granolithic walks. It is claimed that cinders were first substituted. Then a mixture of sand and gravel was allowed, and now the contractors were using common sand.

Robert Pritchard, inspector of the work, wrote resigning, owing to similar difficulties with the contractors.

BOARD OF WORKS

Ald. McKeough reported that owing to a petition from the Sixth street property owners the tender of Bligh & Fielder be not entertained and the work be again advertised for.

That the Board be authorized to purchase two cars of cobblestones for crossings.

DOMINION DAY ATHLETIC ARENA

Rough and Tumble Time Characterize Lacrosse Game at Thamesville.

Gordon McKays Play Splendid Cricket-Big Bowling Tournament.

Old Sol did the generous after all. After an exhibition of distant and retiring coquettishness, the old fellow bobbed up serenely yesterday and blazed down his radiance on the holiday-seekers and promising athletes.

He seems to have repented it. To-day he's more elusive than ever. But what matters? He was generous to a fault for the holiday, and we'll just have to forgive the temporary slump again to the sulks—if he doesn't take too long to come to.

It was a big day for all the sports and good use was made of it.

CHATHAM WON

Another victory for Chatham. Five league games won in succession and not a single loss.

That was the encouraging report the lacrosse players brought from Thamesville yesterday after coming victoriously through the hardest and closest game they have yet played this season. (Thamesville have a very fast team, having improved wonderfully since their game with Chatham.)

The local boys were terribly surprised after the first quarter, and realized that they had met a harder problem than they had anticipated.

The game started shortly after ten o'clock, and the four quarters were played without either side shooting a goal. During this time Richards, in Chatham goal, was given some swift shots to stop, and he stopped them all. Elliott and Comland on the defence were also the means of several times saving the Chatham team from defeat.

Sims in goal and Sims at point for the Thamesville club, were also "at themselves," Sims especially, who made some very clever stops from the Chatham home men. Several times the ball was almost through the Thamesville goal, but Sims was always at his post.

After the time was up it was decided to play the game off in ten minute quarters. The first quarter was played and still neither side scored. The ball was again faced off and had been in play for about seven minutes when Chatham scored a goal after a clever piece of combination work.

The game, while very close, was far rougher than it should have been. Deliberate fouls were made by both sides when there was no excuse for it. It is such playing as this that kills the game, and disgraces the spectators who come to see a clean game.

"Don't" Taylor, who acted as referee, was very fair and impartial in his decision. This was not seen by the Thamesville crowd, who made it very unpleasant for him after the game. As soon as the Chatham goal was scored the crowd rushed on to the field, and everyone wanted to fight with the Chatham players. This was a very disgraceful spectacle and is no credit to any town.

The following are the teams—

Chatham.

Goal—Richards.
Point—Elliott.

CRICKET MATCH

The weather turned out beautifully yesterday, and the sun shone down, taking the dampness off the park. The cricketers' crease was re-rolled in the morning and turned out to be a fairly good one, notwithstanding the fact that the rain soaked it the night before.

Play was started by the Gordon McKays going to bat, totalling up a score of 100. Percy Leam made 28 and Wallace made 23; these were the only high scores they made. (Chatham's fielding and bowling was good, Aitken taking six wickets for 48 runs and Kenny three wickets for 54 runs.)

Chatham went to bat and were all out for the small sum of 36 runs, 19 of which were by F. J. Dowley, who followed the first wicket, and carried his bat. Dowley's was the only double figure, five of the others having circles sometimes called goose eggs.

The game was clean and friendly throughout as a cricket game should be.

To finish the time out Chatham went to bat again and had about 30 runs for three wickets.

In the evening the Gordon McKay team were the guests of the local club and were taken to the Eau, where

On return to the city both clubs and a number of friends repaired to the Garner Hotel, where a sumptuous repast was served. Ex-Mayor T. A. Smith, who is president of the local club, occupied the chair and made many complimentary remarks about each team.

The toast to the Gordon McKay Co. Cricket Club was responded to by W. McMillan, captain and representative of the club, and G. A. Woods.

The toast to the sports was responded to by W. W. Seane.

DRESDEN VICTORIES

In the annual Dominion Day bowling tournament here yesterday rinks competed from Petrolia, Dresden, Leamington, St. Thomas, Aylmer, Thamesville, London, Blenheim, Tilbury, Chatham, Windsor, Ridgeway, and Walkerville.

The matches and the green were perfect. After a close fight in the various rounds the contest narrowed down to Dresden against Aylmer, and London against Ridgeway. In the final Dresden beat Ridgeway by seven shots, winning the handsome Sutherland trophy, the runners-up taking the set of whist trays presented by The Planet.

The defeated rinks as they fell out of the primary contest entered the Banner-News consolation match and a spirited set of games ensued. In the semi-final were London with a bye and the Walkerville boys, who played Taylor, Chatham's crack skip, The Walkerville boys won in an extra and to finish a tie, and then won the trophy by London's defaulting. London takes the second prize, a game each, presented by A. L. Eberts, of the Garner House.

THE ARSON CASE

The preliminary hearing in the arson case of Dan Macdonald, Miss Marsland and Sara Kerr, was taken to-day before Judge Houston. Much interest was shown in the case and quite a crowd, including several ladies, was present to watch the proceedings. It isn't often that women are spectators in police court cases. No sensational evidence developed during the progress of the case.

James S. Gray, agent for Mrs. Bennett, owner of the house, testified that Miss Kerr had rented the house. He could see no signs of the trunk alleged to have been burned. Two fires had evidently been started, one up stairs and one down, as there was no apparent connection between the two fires.

Chief Pritchard testified as to the condition of the house. Robert Leake, Will Hadley, Harry Johnson, Fred H. Hiesco, agent for the insurance company, and Ferguson Jacques were all placed in the witness box, but no additional evidence was adduced.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 2.

A RECORD RATE.

In striking the civic rate of taxation at 25 1-2 mills on the dollar, the City Council are adopting the time-honored and business-like principle of "paying as they go."

The principle is sound—it is the foundation of honest and accurate financing. The people of Chatham have no quarrel with that—ratepayers are ready and willing to endorse it from their pocket-books.

But a careful examination of the causes which necessitate this record rate would not be amiss. The Maple City is prosperous; its people are thriving—and yet civic, as well as personal reasons demand of the ratepayers and their representatives a careful, thorough analysis of the expenditures which, year by year, appear to be foisting the schedule of assessment.

Ald. McCoig, chairman of Finance, and some of his aldermanic colleagues at Monday night's Council meeting sought shelter in the statement that, to a large extent, the expenditure which brings about this heavy assessment is uncontrollable as far as the Council is concerned. This is quite true—and yet it must be a far from satisfying statement to the ratepayers unless supplemented by addenda of facts and figures. These "uncontrollable expenditures," which are so material in the development of taxation, should be specially instanced and the attention and co-operation of all and any bodies who may have control thereof secured.

The Public School Board alone was called to account—and despite considerable sultry general comment at the expense of the trustees—no definite analysis of the causes which did, or did not, make the expenditure of an extra $2,000 (plus the $2,000 received for the sale of the Queen street site) necessary, was attempted, nor had there been, apparently, any effort to secure consultation and co-operation from the Educational Board.

That the Public School Board made a serious mistake when they disposed of the location alluded to for a comparatively paltry remuneration, The Planet has no doubt. The only apparently extenuating consideration in the sacrifice of the site is the fact that civic taxes and school rates will now be paid upon it; but, to our mind, it is a lamentably weak defence of an action which cannot commend itself to the best business instincts of the Trustees.

For their action in this matter the Trustees must be held to account—strictly so and rightly so—but it does not furnish excuse for a heterogeneous attack in generalities upon their increased expenditure, which has nothing whatever to do with the sale blunder. The ratepayers have a right to ask and receive from the Public School Board an explanation of the added $2,000 in their estimates; they have equal right to know where and how the $2,000 received for the site sale is to be invested, but it is not fair to the members of the Board to shoulder upon them, without definite information, the main responsibility for the record rate. A glance at the salary lists of the Public School Board, as compared with those of the College

Catarrh

Is a constitutional disease. It originates in a scrofulous condition of the blood and depends on that condition. It often causes headache and dizziness, impairs the taste, smell and hearing, affects the vocal organs, disturbs the stomach. It is always radically and permanently cured by the blood-purifying, alterative and tonic action of ate Institute Board, tends to give evidence of almost penurious economy by the former; the sundries may stand sifting, but there is no defence for Ald. Cowan's sneer at "the ridiculous spending of money on McKeough school," until that gentleman appends the facts and figures on which his statement is based. The Public School Board may be penny wise and pound foolish, but surely the people are entitled to more explicit evidence before being asked to pass judgment.

And there is additional material for consideration in the estimates. The consolidated debt debenture is the mammoth item. In itself this is uncontrollable and some thirty years have yet to elapse ere it is satisfied. But the Councils must, in the meantime, exercise care and economy in the issue of all debentures as any tendency to extravagance will mean the further consolidation of another gigantic account prior to the termination of the present indebtedness.

No shadow of criticism has been cast upon the conduct of the Waterworks Department. It has been splendidly directed upon businesslike lines. And yet the Commissioners should aim to inaugurate, at an early date, a reduction of the two debenture debts now partially crippling the Council.

The Board of Health expenditure has been severely augmented by the smallpox scare and, in view of the prompt and efficient measures adopted to stamp out the dread disease, we do not think there will be any desire manifested to call in question a dollar of the outlay. If the Council have the power, however, it is their duty to energetically busy themselves in collecting the outstanding smallpox accounts and recoup the civic coffers to the extent of their legitimate claims.

It would be decidedly interesting to know how and why the legal expenses are quadrupled this year. An increase from $500 to $2,000 is of sufficient importance to occasion a more than cursory examination, and much care should be exercised in the future. With an assessment of 25 1-2 mills the ratepayers cannot afford to foot too many city solicitor's bills.

There is, however, one very gratifying feature of the estimates. The Board of Works expenditure decreases from $7,068.94 last year to $5,500 this year. If Ald. McKeough, chairman of the Board of Works, and his colleagues can establish this reduction and—at the same time—maintain an enterprise and permanency in civic work and improvement, they will have earned appreciation and prestige from the community. Other departments should be encouraged to emulate this course.

Ald. McCoig was quite right in asking for a 25 1-2 mill rate and the Council was quite right in endorsing it. This city wants to pay its way and desires no deficit at the end of the year. But an examination of the causes which have brought about this assessment will prove profitable if it enables the aldermen and their successors to guard in future against all circumstances which have contributed this year towards placing upon the people of Chatham a record rate.

THAT AWFUL GAS.

For Years This Form of Indigestion Had Troubled Mr. Harmer—Now all The Bloating and Belching Has Gone.

Indigestion manifests itself in many forms. One of the most trying and unpleasant symptoms is the formation of gas in the stomach, and the consequent belching up, bloating and distress.

This was how it affected Mr. W. H. Harmer, of Avonmore, N. B., and in this way he had been troubled for a long time. Nothing he used as a medicine seemed to improve his condition, until he commenced a treatment of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. This favorite remedy once more demonstrated its wonderful curative properties by immediately relieving and in a very short time completely curing Mr. Harmer's trouble.

He has written a letter in which he expresses his gratitude to Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets for their prompt and satisfactory cure of his trouble. He says:

"I know of several others here who have used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets with good results."

The evidence of these wonderful cures pour in daily from all parts of the Dominion. From east, west, north and south come grateful letters from people in all stations of life, who had almost given up hope of ever being cured, and who have found in Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets a remedy they so long had sought.

The wonder is that every Dyspeptic has not already heard of and used this remedy.

One of the serious symptoms of this disease is fear and doubt, and this may account for the fact that there is a single case of Dyspepsia left in the Dominion of Canada.

Surely these earnest, honest letters and statements of living men and women will convince the most skeptical Dyspeptic to suffer a moment longer when a cure is at hand is unnecessary.

What has cured all kinds of cases, of every conceivable form, in old people and in young people, is surely worth a trial.

If you don't believe, ask these people, or any one else who has given Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets a fair trial.

WANT WAGES

Lewis & Richards, on behalf of John and Conrad Leitz, are threatening to enter action against the Chatham Binder Twine Company, for balance of wages due. John Leitz was hired as superintendent of the binder twine factory at $2 per day, and Conrad was hired as foreman at $1.75 per day. The contract was made in writing and could be terminated at three months' notice. The two were notified to quit and were put out, but they were not paid for the three months' notice required. Their services ended suddenly one day when the shareholders went over and told them to depart. They now seek to recover the wages due.

Just a Cold in the Head!

But if followed by another cold, or some extra exposure, is liable to result in Nasal Catarrh. Unless a radical cure is obtained, the Throat, Bronchial tubes and finally the lungs become affected. Nothing cures colds so quickly and pleasantly as Catarrh. The Inspector of Mines for Nova Scotia, Mr. Neville, says, "Catarrh is the best remedy I have ever used. It cured me of Catarrh of the Head and Throat, and I am pleased to recommend such a satisfactory remedy." Catarrh is a safe-guard against Colds, Coughs and Catarrh. It can be used while at work, in the church, theatre, or street car. Simply inhale Catarrh and it cures. Price, $1.00. Small size, 25c. Druggists, or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

ROLFF HOUSE

BY
G. H. BENEDICT.

"But it's the duty of a wife to follow her husband," replied Rosa, argumentatively. "and if I marry I must needs follow my husband if he should wish to go to the ends of the world."

"I'll care for that," said the hearty old man laughing. "I've chosen you a fellow whose hands will join mine, and I'll make my own terms with him, and never shall you go from this house while I live."

"But I do not wish ever to marry, father," replied Rosa, somewhat vexed at her father's cool disposal of her in his match-making plans.

"Pooh, pooh," was the response, "Tien's nature. I women wish to marry. You're old enough now, and by my dunder, I'd rather give up half my farm than see you grow up into a sour old maid. No, no. Think you you'll cheat me of having half-a-dozen grandchildren to clamber round my knees before I die? 'Twouldn't be honoring your old father, girl. There's Ralph—a fine young fellow, but a smile will make him yours, and will you turn him away for a scapegrace that leaves you as soon as he gets a little money to scatter, and who, a thousand to one, will never show his face here again?"

Rosa did not answer; but the tears stealing down her cheeks, told of the distress her father's words caused her. "There, there," continued the old man, "they are foolish tears; but cry it out; you will feel better for it, and be my merry little girl again one of these days. If I was a girl, it's few tears I would waste on the scamp that ran away from me."

"I cannot believe that Claude meant to desert me," interposed Rosa, pleadingly.

The old man's brow darkened. "Believe it or not, girl," he said, "he's but a scamp, and I'd sooner see you dead than married to him. He's made a fool of you, and I must leave it to work off. When your wits come back, you'll be ashamed of every tear shed for such a scapegrace."

Rosa saw that to attempt to controvert her father's opinion of Claude would only be to arouse his anger, and she wisely chose to baffle him.

The old man did not attempt to press his wishes on her any further, but turned away with the blunt counsel to cheer up and forget her troubles. The future sounded like mockery to poor Rosa. In the conflict which she saw ahead between her filial duty and her plighted troth, there appeared nothing to cheer and encourage her. The future lowered on her vision dark and threatening, and portentous of the wreck of all her hopes of happiness.

CHAPTER XXI.

Lawyer Saybrook had very little of the sentimental in his disposition. But who is to be the rosy anchor at all times and under all circumstances? The time comes when the most wary must be taken in a snare.

The elder Saybrook entered his domicile one day, with thoughts intent upon business. He wished to have a talk with Ralph, who, however, was not in the office. He made his way to the domestic department where Mrs. Grewy presided. That excellent housekeeper had been engaged in moulting bread, and three shapely loaves stood on the moulting board as he entered. Mrs. Grewy blushed slightly, and then smiled sweetly, as she saw the lawyer.

Somehow, it had never before struck Mr. Saybrook that Mrs. Grewy was an attractive female, but just at this particular moment it flashed on him that the widow, as she stood with her sleeves rolled up above her elbows, showing a white and shapely arm, and with a jaunty cap on her head, presented rather a handsome figure. This thought entered the lawyer's mind, but his immediate object was to enquire for Ralph, so he said:

"Has Ralph been in, Mrs. Grewy?"

"He went out about half an hour ago," replied Mrs. Grewy, and again a rosy hue suffused her face. Now, there was really no reason for the widow to blush. Mr. Saybrook's object was plainly very prosaic, and there was certainly nothing unusual in his inquiring for his son. Still, his sudden advent had evidently so accorded with some fancy of the widow's as to produce the tell-tale signal in question.

"Did he say when he would be back?" continued the lawyer.

"Oh, bless you, no," replied the widow; "he never does, you know; and I shouldn't presume to ask."

"Or didn't say where he was going?" "Oh, dear, no, Mr. Saybrook; but then if you are anxious to know, I might make a pretty good guess. He dressed himself with unusual care, and I suspect that he was going up to Mr. Bruyn's."

And having said this, the widow thought it proper to look down archly, and again let a rosy tinge suffuse her face.

Now the lawyer had been fully answered, and there was no occasion for him to remain longer in the kitchen. But he hesitated a moment, and then advanced toward the table where the widow had been at work.

"Making bread, eh?" he said. "Really, Mrs. Grewy, I must compliment you on your effort."

The effect of these words on the widow was truly remarkable. They not only caused her to blush again in a very charming manner, but the lawyer could have sworn that in the space of about three seconds she grew twenty years younger, so pleased and animated did she become under the effect of his compliment.

Now the truth was that the widow had long worshipped in silence the stately lawyer, and had in fancy cherished the idea that he would make a more than acceptable substitute for the late Mr. Grewy, who in truth had been but a plain and illiterate, though good-natured blacksmith. Mr. Saybrook, however, had hitherto never manifested the slightest interest in the widow's efforts to please him, and this sudden unbending quite took her by surprise. The lawyer, though, had long been aware of the not very carefully concealed worship of his housekeeper, but while it had not been displeasing to his vanity, to reciprocate her sentimental attitude was about the last thing he would have thought of under ordinary circumstances.

But this digression is delaying the widow's answer.

"Really, Mr. Saybrook," she replied, "you are very kind to speak so; and, if I do say it myself, I do not think there are many women who can surpass me in baking of any kind; but then I always put my whole soul in my work, which is a good deal, but very natural, as it is my highest ambition to please you."

"U-m-m—yes—of course," replied the lawyer. "And so Ralph has gone up to old Bruyn's?"

"Yes—that is, I think he has," said the widow. "And I must say, Mr. Saybrook, that I think the young lady is very fortunate who succeeds in getting him. Of course, I admit I am somewhat prejudiced—but how can I help it? I think he is really the most elegant young man I ever knew."

"Ah," interposed the lawyer. "Yes, indeed," continued the widow, gazing archly up. "And he resembles you so much; it is really quite remarkable."

"Well," said the lawyer, "I agree with you about Ralph. The girl will be fortunate who gets him. And yet I am particularly anxious about this present affair of his. I think he is getting along, Mrs. Grewy. I do not think it would be any mistake to have it understood that he is to marry Rosa, but of course I would not wish to have it known as coming from me, you know."

"Oh, certainly not," replied the widow. "Really, I am quite surprised—and pleased, too, although one may be sure that Ralph cannot get anybody too good for him."

"Well, if Ralph comes in this way, tell him I want to see him," said the lawyer. "I am going up in the office."

"But won't you have just a bite of something before you go, Mr. Saybrook?" inquired the widow, with a sudden display of tender anxiety for his carnal comfort. "Let me show you some cake I have just been baking."

"No, no, Mrs. Grewy; not at present; do not disturb yourself. I must go at once."

And so the lawyer left, having succeeded in raising the most ardent hopes in the bosom of the widow that she would yet be the rich and distinguished Mrs. Saybrook, while he had at the same time taken the best measure possible to have it publicly understood that Ralph and Rosa were not only engaged, but very shortly to be married. He took his accustomed seat in his office, and after hour flew by while he was deeply absorbed in writing.

At last Ralph came in.

"Eh, Ralph," said the elder man, "take a seat. Just home, eh? Well, what luck to-day? Any more favorable report?"

"Well, slightly, perhaps," replied the young man, drawing out his tones with easy indifference. "It isn't my tactics, I know, to hurry matters. I undertook to press my claims a little to-day, however, and succeeded in extracting the answer that, while I was held in the deepest respect, it was not possible that I could become the recipient of anything more than friendship while the sentiments of a certain young gentleman now in Europe. Not a very encouraging answer, perhaps; but inferentially I see therein a sign of hope."

"Ralph, I am rather out of patience

Sketch of Mr. W. D. Scott.

Mr. W. D. Scott, who is Commissioner-General of the Canadian exhibit at Wolverhampton, and who also had charge of the Colonial Exhibition at the London Royal Exchange, is no stranger to the manipulation of Exhibitions, writes M.A. P. He was one of the Canadian commissioners at the Paris Exposition, and in charge of the great collection the Dominion Government sent to the Glasgow Exhibition last year. He is a fine specimen of the native-born colonial. Of Scottish parentage, Mr. Scott retains all the characteristics of the race, being shrewd, cool-headed and far-seeing. In his boyhood he was in the office of Lord Strathcona, and so strong is his habit to this day his old "boss" still addresses him as "Willie." Mr. Scott was for some time connected with the Canadian Pacific Railway, and can tell many a good story of railroad life in the Dominion.

How she secured silence.

Mrs. Arthur Stannard, better known to the literary world as John Street Winter, who is president of the International Society of Women Journalists in London, always has some musical celebrity to meet the guests at her weekly afternoon receptions during the season. One day, out of courtesy to Emma Nevada, she invited, among others, several Americans. Henry M. Stanley was there, too, fresh from his African thimble. As Nevada stepped to the piano the hum of conversation about him showed no indication of subsiding. The voice of the hostess imploring silence was not heard.

Stepping to the piano, Mrs. Stannard, as though by accident, fell with one arm from wrist to elbow squarely on the keys of the piano. The crash stopped all talk, and the guests looked on in astonishment.

"How awkward of me!" exclaimed the hostess sweetly.

But there was no more talk.

Wire is no new thing. Specimens of metallic shreds dated as far back as 1700 B. C. are stated to have been discovered while a mass of wire made by the Ninivites some 1800 years B. C. is exhibited at the Kensington museum in London. Both Homer and Pliny allude to wire.

yet I admire your imperturbable coolness. But I never can bear to delay in such matters as this. There is something about new difficulty will spring up. That girl's obstinacy annoys me exceedingly. Everything is straight now if it wasn't for her infatuation for that young fool of a Rolff. I have the old man completely in my power, I think, and I believe I could speedily bring him to exert his authority. But you have been so opposed to it, I have hesitated."

"Well," interposed Ralph, "I don't know but that I am getting a little tired of the way matters are going myself. I don't like to own up to such a contest—in fact, I don't; but if time is a question of moment, I don't know that I should object to a little pressure being used."

"Well," responded the elder, "I have a plan in my mind to stir up the old gentleman that I think will work satisfactorily, and I must put it in operation."

"What is it?" asked Ralph.

"Well, never mind at present," replied his father. "All you need concern yourself about is to note the result. Old Bruyn will doubtless be in this evening, and I shall see what I can do with him. My idea is, that if we can only induce him to bring a moderate amount of pressure to bear on Rosa, she will speedily yield. This is the sentimental period of her existence, and young Rolff having secured the first place in her affections, she naturally clings to him. It is very natural, and in fact, she is to be commended for it; only it is cursed inconvenient for us. But she will not be a whit less devoted to you, my boy, after she once makes her mind to accept you as her lover. She is rather more constant than her sex generally, and I like her the better for it."

"She's a tip-top girl," replied Ralph. "And I'm hanged if I don't grow to like her better every time I see her. She's the soul of sweetness and sincerity, and I'm almost sorry for her, she grieves so over that fellow Claude. But of course I'll make her a better husband, and I fancy I'll cure her yet of admiration for anybody beside myself."

"Well, Ralph, we'll hope for the best, and work for it as well. And now just look over these papers in Saybrook's. Miner, and see if they are all right."

Evening came, and shortly after supper hour was over. Farmer Bruyn dropped into the office of the lawyer. Anthony Saybrook received him with especial warmth, and speedily ordered in glasses and bottles, and pressed his hospitality on the free-hearted old fellow with all his arts of persuasion.

After they had both tossed off a couple of glasses of wine, and exhausted the ordinary topics of interest, the lawyer thought it time to introduce the subject of his plan to influence the old gentleman to so exercise his parental authority over his daughter as to induce her to look more favorably on Ralph's suit.

"By the way, Mr. Bruyn—but, come, let me fill your glass again, as you haven't done so yet; it is a very light wine, and wouldn't hurt you if you drank a gallon of it. What was I going to say? Ah, I recollect—I have an idea that may interest you. I have an offer to sell the Rolff property."

The old farmer gazed up in evident surprise.

"Who to?" he asked.

"Well, I am not at liberty to state yet. He is a very wealthy city merchant, who wishes to retire, and seek a healthy and quiet locality to spend the remainder of his days. The offer came to me through a legal friend of mine, and is really a very good one, as the old gentleman is willing to pay liberally."

"If you are going to sell," interposed Farmer Bruyn, "first sell me the wood lot, and the meadows next to the road. I'll pay more than he will."

"Ah, but, my dear sir, that would cripple the balance of the estate, and spoil my bargain."

"But you promised me," said the farmer doggedly, frowning up in a way that showed how deeply he was interested. "To be continued."

Respiring

Lungs in your shoes—yes! At every step fresh air inhaled and expelled.

The insole of the RESILIA shoe expands from the outsole each time the foot is lifted.

In doing this it draws in fresh air through a hidden valve in the heel, which locks it in.

When the foot bears down upon the insole, this air, contained in the cross channels, is then forced up into the shoe by the wearer's weight, through insole perforations under the foot.

As the air cannot go out where it came in, it is then compelled to circulate up around the stocking and out at the boot top, keeping the foot dry, clean, hardy, and healthy.

And the dry shoe in winter is the warm shoe, the safe shoe.

The damp shoe, from causes within or without, is the winter death-dealer.

MILITIA MEN MADE MARKS

Bull's Eyes Caught Blazes at the Target Practice Yesterday.

24th Regiment Held a Splendid Outing at Rond Eau—Colonel's Comment.

The 24th Regiment and Bugle Band enjoyed a splendid and profitable outing at Rond Eau yesterday.

The train which carried the boys to the "O" was packed to the doors, and all had hard work securing standing room. They left the depot about 10:35. On arrival at their destination, headed by the bugle band, the boys were marched to the platform in front of the band stand, where they piled arms and were dismissed.

Dinner would not be ready to half an hour, so the boys employed their time in baseball and other sports. Pretty soon the bugle sounded; all assembled at the Bungalow, where Mine Host Harry Hall had prepared for them a dinner worthy of the Waldorf Astoria.

About two o'clock, fall-in was sounded, and after a couple from each company had been detailed for "fatigue duty" to carry the targets and ammunition to the shooting place, the regiment was marched about two miles down the track, targets were arranged and the shooting began at one hundred yards.

McCormick, of A Company carried off the honors having a score of 22 out of a possible 25. Butler, of A Company, and Coupland, of C, each made 23 points, while Chisholm and Hutchison, of A, Pritchard, of B, and Barfoot of C made 22 each.

McCormick carried off the honors in A company and the regiment, M. Pritchard topped B Company's score, Coupland won out in C company and Sergeant A. Moffat was the best man in D Company.

The scores as far as obtainable (one of D Company's targets was lost) were:—

"A" COMPANY.

Lying down—Burrell 21, Bates 0, Sullivan 6, Riddell 19, Bechard 13, Houston 21, Hutchison 22, McMillen 17, Everett 20, McCormick 24, Chisholm 22, Waterson 8, Spicer 20, McLaren 21, Crump 15, Bartlett 18, McLeod 16, Turner 11, Embrey 21, Oliver 19, Butler 23, Smith 13, Pollet 3.

"B" COMPANY.

Lying down—Sutherland 17, L. Reid 16, J. Smith 15, G. Smith 0, Pritchard 22, Clements 15, Thompson 11, Doherty 15, Lieut. Col. Rankin 20, W. Smith 0, Walters 10, Alexander 0, Pope 15, Wanless 16, Ripley 17, Johnson 2, Herman 5.

"C" COMPANY.

Standing—P. Wilson 10, Irwin 14, Bates 16, Stone 18, Larneur 21, W. Mann 13, Bennett 17, Morley 20, Cartier 7, Embrey 19, Jordan 13, Couzens 10, Coupland 22, Haviland 4.

"D" COMPANY.

Standing—A. Moffat 18, Sterling 11, Capel 16, Noah 14, Brown 12, Bing Bong 6.

The Regiment then returned to the Bungalow, had supper and enjoyed a fine band concert and dance in the evening. On returning to the drill hall on arrival in the city the Colonel addressed them. He said he hoped they had had a good day's fun, as he had. He announced that yesterday was the last drill until September, but hoped that the companies, under their captains, would do some target practice during the holidays, as that was what the Regiment needed most, as was shown by some of the shooting in the afternoon, but some very good shooting had been done.

The officers fell out and the Major dismissed the men.

BULL'S EYES.

Sergeant Bates didn't shoot where he looked.

Coupland took a header getting off the train.

McCormick has a good eye and a steady hand.

The Bugle Band was as good coming back as going.

The Colonel said the shooting was uniform in some cases.

The day passed off without an accident. No one was shot—just a few half.

Some of those with blanks opposite their names claim the targets were in the right place.

Mann, of "C" Company, made the shot of the day. It struck the ground and bounced up, hitting the black spot on the target.

SCORCHED THE SCHOOL BOARD

500 gallons free water per day be granted for five years.

Reported adopted.
Ald. Marshall asked what steps were being taken to protect park property from rowdies.

Ald. Mounteer said notices would be posted offering reward.

CONTRACTORS' TROUBLE.
The Mayor said something must be done in connection with the trouble concerning the granolithic walk on Stanley avenue. He—the Mayor—was not satisfied with the work the contractors were doing.

The inspector wished to resign and he was the best overseer the city could secure. But he had had continual trouble with the contractors, who did not work according to specifications. He would report matters to the City Engineer, who would come up and investigate. The moment the Engineer's back was turned the contractors would tell the inspector to go to—

Ald. McKenough said he would be very sorry to see the inspector resign. Ex-Ald. Pritchard was a splendid man for the position and should be retained if possible. The Engineer had stopped the work on Saturday and it could only be proceeded with according to specifications. He thought it would be a very bad precedent to allow no sureties to be given.

The Engineer was heard and said everything was done according to contract until the last 48 feet. Mr. Pritchard reported the matter at once and he stopped the work. On motion of Ald. Marshall and McCole the Board of Works were instructed to see that the contract was carried out to the letter and sureties given.

A CELEBRATION.
Communications from Jas. Jackson, Henry Lawrence and George Smith asking co-operation in Emancipation Day celebration was referred to Finance.

HOLIDAY GRANTED.
Ald. Mounteer moved that the civic employees be granted a holiday with full pay on July 1st and half a holiday with full pay on circus day.

Tenders were read for the securing of lots for earth to be used for civic purposes. The matter was left with the Board of Works with Mr. Weaver.

DOWN ON ROWDIES.
A motion by Ald. Mounteer and Marshall was passed authorizing the painting of signs offering reward not to exceed $10 for the apprehension of rowdies injuring or destroying park property.
