The Rural Church

Chas. M. Flatt

Recently an article appeared in the Toronto Globe describing the activities of a rural Methodist minister. Going into a new field after having served overseas as an aviator in the R. F. C. this minister at once began to interest himself in the daily occupation of those with whom he must constantly come in contact.

The district is one in which dairying is the dominant industry. The minister was an experienced dairyman, and recognized that in this line lay his best opportunity of coming in touch with his people. He immediately began to study how he could advance the interests of the dairy farmers. He organized a cow testing association that from a small beginning rapidly became the largest organization of its kind in Ontario. Over 500 cows are being tested in this one district.

The work of testing and sending in the reports to Ottawa is supervised by the minister, who is the Rev. Capt. Cotton, of Copetown. Every week he lectures on some phase of the dairy industry. Besides all this he carries on the regular work of a minister in a particularly efficient manner.

Undoubtedly this effort will meet with some disapproval by certain classes who constantly criticise any movement. But it is obvious that by the method used in this district can rural churches alone be made particularly successful. That this is true is substantiated by certain arguments contained in Carver's "Principles of Rural Economics" the writer of which, shows that under the present world conditions, it is evident that finally those most efficient and most thrifty will push out and supplant those less proficient or assiduous in industry. Following up this point he shows that if the more progressive classes are non-christian the christian community will eventually so diminish as to be negligible, unless they seek sufficient skill to compete with their supplanters. Thus obviously it is as much to the advantage of christian workers to encourage education and efficiency so that their converts may exist, as it is to primarily convert them.

In the fact that a minister can be of other service than merely to preach on the Sabbath day lies the solution of most rural problems. To this end a special course for ministers is carried on during the summer at the Ontario Agricultural College. Here the underlying principles of agriculture in a manner to be easily assimilated. The result hoped for is that ministers will go out and be real leaders in every line of progress in their community. That few are doing this is perhaps not surprising. It is a matter that is of comparatively recent interest and it requires particular ability.

In the example set at Copetown we see what will probably be the starting point of a new movement that takes in a wider scope than any other, because besides showing people the proper path in life it seeks to make their progress certain.

Chicken thieves were active in this vicinity last night. A number of farmers report the loss of valuable flocks.

The Sunday School Lesson

THE MARRIAGE FEAST.

Lesson—Matt. 22: 1-14.

Golden Text.—"Go out into the highways and hedges and constrain them to come in" (Luke 14: 23).

Historical Setting.

Time—Apr. 30, A. D. 30. Place—Temple at Jerusalem.

The Lesson Text.

1 And Jesus answered and spake again in parables unto them, saying,
2 The kingdom of heaven is likened unto a certain king, who made a marriage feast for his son,
3 and sent forth his servants to call them that were bidden to the marriage feast: and they would not come.

4 Again he sent forth other servants, saying, "Tell them that are bidden, Behold, I have made ready my dinner; my oxen and my fatlings are killed, and all things are ready: come to the marriage feast."
5 And the rest laid hold on his servants, and treated them shamefully, and killed them.

6 But the king was wroth; and he sent his armies, and destroyed those murderers, and burned their city.
7 Then saith he to his servants, The wedding is ready, but they that were bidden were not worthy.

8 Go ye therefore unto the partings of the highways, and as many as ye shall find, bid to the marriage feast.
9 And those servants went out into the highways, and as many as they found, both bad and good; and the wedding was filled with guests.

10 But when the king came in to behold the guests, he saw there a man who had not on a wedding-garment:
11 and he said unto him, Friend, how camest thou in hither not having a wedding-garment? And he was speechless.

12 Then the king said to the servants, Bind him hand and foot, and cast him out into the outer darkness; there shall be the weeping and the gnashing of teeth.
13 For many are called, but few are chosen.

Comments.

Verse 1. Two parables had preceded this. Hypocritical Pharisees and Sadducees could not help seeing that His parabolic fire was directed at them. There may have been additional parables that are not here recorded.

Verse 2. To the formal, carnal-minded Jews the teachings of Jesus concerning the kingdom were revolutionary and incomprehensible. His spiritual-winged imagery was beyond them. In their legalistic view, He was impossible.

Verse 3. This part of the parable covers all the invitations given before the resurrection by Jesus and His disciples. The universal liking for a feast and the honor of being the king's guest, make this a strong figure.

Verse 4. The patience of God with a willfully perverse and ungrateful people is a never-ending marvel.

Verse 5. In the parable recorded by Luke the guests refused courteously; here contemptuously. There are all kinds of receptions of the king's invitation today as there were then.

Verse 6. Note how literally this was true by reading Acts 5: 40. That messengers bearing invitations to a royal feast should be so mistreated is almost unthinkable; yet such was the fate of Stephen, James, Paul and others.

Verse 7. Let us not sentimentalize about the impossibility of God's wrath. Justice is as much a divine attribute as love.

Verse 8. They were unworthy in that they refused to accept. Such are unworthy now.

Verse 9. It is a noteworthy fact that the gospel invitation is often unheeded by the smugly self-satisfied and accepted by the poor and unfortunate, though all equally need the Christ.

Verse 10. The bad should become good and the good become better.

Verse 11. The Oriental king furnished a special dress for royally invited guests. There was no excuse for being without it.

Verse 12. A smitten conscience which recognizes the fairness of the smiting is tongue-tied when honestly questioned. Nothing makes frankness and fearlessness possible except a clear conscience.

Verse 13. Any place or condition of alienation from God is "outer darkness." God's enemies are not happy here or hereafter.

Verse 14. "The called are those who hear; the chosen those who obey." The responsibility for the call rests with God; the responsibility for obedience rests upon those who hear.

GOOD RESULTS FROM TOP-DRESSING WINTER WHEAT WITH FERTILIZERS.

Wheat yields have been increased all the way from 14 to 18 bushels per acre by fertilizing as indicated. Ohio Experiment Station recommends broadcasting in the spring 200 to 300 pounds of fertilizer per acre. By so doing they have obtained 13.2 bushels per acre increase as an average of twenty-three years test. In co-operative tests, conducted by the Ontario Agricultural College in 1916, there was a gain of 8.3 bushels per acre of wheat obtained where winter wheat was top-dressed with complete fertilizers in the spring. Such a gain on winter wheat in Ontario would not over five and a half million bushels increase.

Proper Application Important. Proper application is the key to best result from top-dressing. Fertilizers are concentrated soluble plant food. To be of greatest service they must be distributed evenly and dissolve readily in soil moisture. Many successful wheat growers distribute fertilizers on wheat through the wheat drill fertilizer attachment. This is done as soon as the ground is dry enough to drive over. The hoes or disks are not let down, consequently they do not injure the growing wheat. Drilling is done with the rows and not across them.

If you do not have a fertilizer drill, apply fertilizers with a lime spreader. Good results have been obtained by following an application of fertilizer with a light harrowing. If you have an adjustable harrow, set the teeth back at an angle of about 45 degrees. This prevents dragging out the wheat. Light harrowing breaks the soil-crust and works the fertilizer into the soil. If the wheat has headed badly it is good practice to roll it lightly before harrowing.

YOUR GROCER IS NOT A PROFITEER

Have a heart!
He is passing along to you reduced prices, as fast or faster than they come to him. Just because prices on many good things are still high, don't blame him. It is usually the poorest quality of everything that shows the greatest decline.

If he is as good a man as the average, your grocer is still doing his utmost to give you the best value for your money. But don't push him too hard. He's only human.
You don't know, but we do, that he is recommending goods that pay him less profit than other well known brands which he might easily persuade his customers to take if he dared to do so.

We know this because he pays us more for Red Rose Tea and sells it at less profit than other teas, so when he recommends you to buy Red Rose Tea, you will know it is because he believes it the best and is willing to take a little less profit for the sake of giving you the best value he can.

We are publishing this because we believe the more our people know of the true facts concerning the profits made by those they deal with, the more generous they will be in their judgments.—T. H. Estabrooks Co., Ltd., Toronto, Ont.

HOW TO CARE FOR STORED ROOT CROP

WATCHFULNESS AND CARE WILL PREVENT LOSS FROM ROTTING OR DRYING UP DURING WINTER.

There is always much loss of vegetables for rotting or drying up during the winter, but with a little watchfulness and care much of this could be prevented.
This year the late blight of potatoes caused much rot, and many tubers were stored with the disease in them. It will be found to pay well to look over the potatoes from time to time if a winter's supply has been stored and remove those which show the disease or are rotting so that others will not be infected. It will not be long before the potatoes will begin to sprout, and if the sprouts are removed promptly the tubers will remain in much better condition than if they are allowed to grow long. It will be necessary to go over them two or three times or more before spring to remove sprouts. If potatoes are in boxes or bins where sprouts can be readily seen one is more likely to remove the sprouts in good time than if they are kept in bags.
If onions are rotting, put them in a

THE CARE OF YOUR TEETH

FIRST OF A SERIES OF ARTICLES TO BE PUBLISHED IN THIS PAPER. ANYONE WISHING TO ASK ANY QUESTIONS REGARDING THE CARE OF TEETH SHOULD WRITE TO THE DENTIST, 34 KING WILLIAM STREET, HAMILTON.

That the care of the teeth should extend to long before a child's birth, and that every attention to diet should be paid by expectant mothers if they desire their offspring to have good teeth,—is the striking statement of a prominent dental scientist whose views on this subject have received the unqualified approval of an influential dental body. In a well thought-out interview he expresses his views as follows:

"The conditions obtaining during the pre-natal period of a child's life are of very vital importance in determining the future health and development of a child. The health and well-being of the mother are wrapped up in the health and well-being of the developing child. As long as she supplies nourishment from herself to her young, so long will that influence last. That would naturally be till the time of weaning.

"It then behooves the mother to so regulate her life during this period that she may enjoy the fullest measure of health that it may be imparted to her young.

"This parental influence affects all the organs of the young body, and not least among these organs—the teeth. About the fortieth day of the intra-uterine period, the little teeth begin to develop; and at the time of birth their crowns are fully formed though they do not appear in the mouth, except in rare instances, until the child is six months old.

"Thus, it will be seen that since the teeth are developed to such an extent during this period, the nourishment supplied must contain the necessary elements that enter into their up-building, and that nourishment must first be taken by the mother.

"For instance, if a nursing mother were to eat large quantities of sweets, cake, bread and so forth, and very little meat, fruit and the less starchy vegetables, it would be found on examination that her milk was over-rich in sugar and lacking in proteins and the necessary salts found in the fruits and vegetables with the results that the child's digestion would be disturbed and its nutrition interfered with.

"Cases have been observed where some of the temporary teeth began to appear in the mouth during the nursing period and promptly began to decay and the gums around them to become inflamed—periculis—as a result of the milk being too rich in sugar and lacking in protein and so forth due to the mother's diet being as before outlined. The milk lacked balance in proportion as the mother's diet lacked balance. Needless to say digestive disturbances were evident, as vomiting after feeding and so forth.

"If the mother indulges in the use of alcohol or drugs, the teeth as well as other organs of the child are seriously affected and, of course, any syphilitic condition is sure to be settled up on the teeth of the unoffending child.

"Health in plenty—How may this very desirable thing be obtained? Principally in two ways: First—Plenty of pleasant outdoor exercise with adequate rest and a contented mind. Second—A proper amount of proper food well masticated.

"The first requisite requires no comment, but a few suggestions regarding the food question might be helpful.

"The question of proper food is one which should receive careful consideration because so much depends on it for the comfort and health of the mother. Highly sweetened foods, confections, jams, toast, biscuits, pastry and flour products as well as cereals, and so forth, should be used in considerable moderation; while the less starchy vegetables, fruits and greens should be used liberally. The daily use of some uncooked fruit up to but not later than the middle of the afternoon is very beneficial. Moderate amounts of protein food, as meat, fish, fowl, eggs, cheese, milk, and so forth, should find a place in a well-balanced menu.

"Highly seasoned foods, condiments, and so forth, should be largely avoided, as well as over-eating.

"Thorough mastication is very essential. Inefficient mastication and bolting will cause indigestion and consequent poisoning of the bloodstream and through it, of the whole body.

"With a good set of teeth, which are a necessity for efficient mastication, soft foods should be chewed about twenty times; food like bread should be chewed about forty times; and the more fibrous food, like meat, corn, and so forth, about one hundred times.

"This is only a guide to mouth efficiency. Do not depend on counting but strive for the efficiency to which this is the guide."

PALE, WASHED, CH'CKS INDICATE ANAEMIA

NEW HEALTH CAN BE OBTAINED BY ENRICHING THE BLOOD.

When a girl in her teens becomes peevish, listless and dull, when nothing seems to interest her and duties no do tempt her appetite, you may be certain that she needs more good blood than her system is provided with. Before long her pallid cheeks, frequent headaches, breathlessness and heart palpitation will confirm that she is anaemic. Many mothers, as the result of their own childhood experience, can promptly detect the early signs of anaemia and the wise mother does not wait for the trouble to develop further, but at once gives her daughter a course with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which renews the blood supply and banishes anaemia before it has obtained a hold on the system.

Among the many who have benefited by the use of these pills is Miss Dora Kerr, R. R. No. 4, Warton, Ont., who says: "For a long time I had been feeling tired and worn out. I was troubled with headache and backache, and would wake up in the morning feeling tired and depressed. I had to walk a considerable distance going to and from school and would feel so tired that it seemed I could not go another step. About this time a lady doctor came to the school, to examine the children, and she told me I badly needed a tonic to build me up. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had been used in our home before this and I began to take them. I can only say that they have greatly helped me. I no longer suffer from the headaches and backaches and I now wake up in the morning feeling rested and refreshed. If ever in need of a tonic again I shall lose no time in taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail postpaid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The feature of agricultural production, which is brought to the highest perfection in Nova Scotia, is the apple and small fruit industry which flourishes in the famous Annapolis Valley, and the adjoining areas in Western Nova Scotia. In 1880, only 20,000 barrels of apples were exported from the province, while in 1911, a banner year, 1,584,000 barrels were shipped. In 1919, approximately 2,000,000 were produced.

England to Grow Square Trees.

Not with any desire of giving publicity to the designs of that curious class of artists, called cubists, but with the entirely laudable Forestry Association of Cambridge, England, suggests that trees should be made to grow square instead of round, thus producing wood of better quality and in greater quantity. Will the leaves, flowers and fruit of such trees be square also, one wonders?

Before leaving Rawdon, Ont., Rev. S. B. Morton, who has been rector at Stirling for a number of years, and his wife were presented with an address and purse by his parishioners. Mr. Morton assumes the rectorship of Leeds Rear parish, near Lyndhurst.

SHELTON—At Waterdown, on Saturday, January 22, 1921, Ruby Eleanor, only child of Mr. and Mrs. Emery Shelton, age 19 months.

Fought With Moose.

George Hinton, of Donktown, N.B., broke two of his ribs on the last day of the moose-hunting season, when he was hunted from the antlers of a gigantic old bull, crossing his way through the thick woods near Fred-ereton. Hinton had wounded the moose, and was turning his attention to a band of six others in the vicinity, when the noise of his "kill" staggered to his feet, made him turn around. The huge bulk of the infuriated bull was almost atop of him. Grasping the massive antlers with both hands Hinton was swung clear of the trip-hammer hoofs, and carried off at a great pace into the woods, clinging to the head of the injured moose. After a ride of some distance Hinton was thrown from his exalted position, his steed continuing his wild career. Hinton is one of the best known moose-hunting guides on the Mirimachi.

Grass By the Yard.

Many people, suburban dwellers and others, have trouble in growing satisfactory grass. There is a new way to do it.
Sow grass seed thickly on canvas, with enough loam for it to sprout in. If properly watered, the canvas will soon be covered with a fine crop of grass.
It is then ready for the lawn. The soil of the latter having been duly prepared and made smooth, cover it with the canvas grassmats, keeping them closely together. The roots of the grass plants will quickly push through the interstices of the canvas. By this means a lawn can be made in a few hours.

Won Inside Out.

"Hey, there!" yelled the slap-stick comedian. "Your shoes are inside out." His running mate halted. "Whatta ya mean?" he asked scornfully. "How can my shoes be inside out?" "Didn't you wear 'em inside out?" "Yuh." "An' didn't yuh wear 'em from inside out here?" "Sure." "Then why shouldn't they be inside out?" And then the fun started.

Our First Postal Route.

The first postal route in Canada was established in 1721, between Montreal and Quebec. A mail route between Quebec and Halifax followed in 1784, under Governor Haldimand. The first mail service to Upper Canada (Ontario) began in 1789, when post offices were established at Kingston, Niagara and Detroit.

OUR BOYS' AND GIRLS' CORNER

DEDICATED TO EVERY BOY AND GIRL IN CANADA

My Dear Boys and Girls:
I hope that some of you have not been feeling neglected, for my mail bag was stuffed so full last week with letters that I have only been able to reply to a few, and I think that most of our corner this week will have to be taken up with these letters or some of my helpers will indeed think they are forgotten.

BIRDS.
Jack Frost is very busy again trimming up the branches of the trees and painting the windows and countryside with his elfish tinkers, and the little birds that a few days ago twittered and chirped cheekily underneath my window are now huddled together on the branch of a tree trying to keep warm. The friend who left crumbs for them every day at the house opposite has gone away, but I have hopefully scattered some over the ground on my side, wishing that they will come down to get them, and as I watch I am thinking of my many helpers who love the little birds, and hope that you are remembering to put something out for them while the ground is frozen up and their food is scarce.

Please don't forget your little friends, the birds.

which I hope will not be the last. You have earned a Helper's badge. I wonder which you like to do best, milking the cows or washing the dishes. Tell me more about your school next time. I am interested.

Dear Aunt June:
I read your Boys' and Girls' paper every week and I think it is very nice. I also like the puzzle pictures. I would like to join your Helpers' League of Service. I go to school every day. When I come home at night I bring in wood, and wash dishes, and do my home-work. I have one brother, he is fourteen. I am enclosing a three-cent stamp for a badge which I would like to receive. I am 12 years old. Love from
OLIVE VIRGIN.
P. S.—It is near Christmas. I have got four presents already.

Dear Olive:
This seems a very late answer to a Christmas-time letter, does it not? By this time, however, you have received your badge. I am glad that you had some nice Christmas presents. You did not tell me your brother's name. I expect you have had much fun together in the holidays.

Dear Aunt June:
I am a weekly reader of our Boys' and Girls' paper and I would like to be a member too. I like to help and I dust, bake, iron, sew, help to wash and other little chores like getting the meals. I am ten years old and I am in the junior fourth class at school. I like going very much. I have two pets, a kitten and a cat. Hoping to receive my badge, and hoping not to have tired you with this letter. Lovingly
SUNSHINE.

Dear Sunshine:
What a jolly pen-name you have chosen. I shall picture you now as a Helper who loves most of all to make the days bright for others. Your name just fits in with our little pledge. Thank you for telling me about your pets. I would love to see the kitten. For a little girl of ten, I think you manage to do quite a lot of chores. I should like to taste one of your cakes after the baking.

Dear Aunt June:
I am a reader of the Boys' and Girls' page thought I would write and improve the page. I go to school every day. I am in the third class. I like my teacher fine, her name is Miss Ferguson. When I get up in the morning I wash the dishes before I go to school. And when I come home I get the supper and then I wash the dishes and bring in the wood. I live on a farm of two hundred acres. I like driving horses and I help papa in with the harvest in the summer. I milk the cows sometimes. Well my letter is getting long so I will have to close.

Dear Farmer Lad:
You shall have a badge. I am glad that you want to improve our page. You must have a fine farm, I think. There is always plenty of helping to do on a farm, I know, and always say "Hurrah for our farm members."

Dear Aunt June:
This is the first time I have written. I have been a reader of "Our Boys' and Girls' Corner" for some time. I am eleven years old. I wash the dishes and help my mother all I can. I sweep the floor. I help milk the cows. I carry in the wood, and get the cows in the summer time. I live on a farm about one mile and a quarter from the village of Barwick. I hope I will receive a badge.
MARY SMITH.

Dear Mary:
I wonder if you wrote this letter by yourself? It is very neat and well written. When you tell me that "you help mother all you can" I know that you are a true helper, for no one can do more than their best. I am very glad to hear from you.

Dear Aunt June:
I have been a reader of the Boys' and Girls' paper, and have enjoyed it very much. I should like to join you, Helpers' League of Service. I have one sister and brother. I help my mother a lot. I wash dishes, set the table and do other things. When mother is sick I do the housework. I make the beds, and sweep the floor. I am sending three cents for a badge. Love to Aunt June.

FRANCES REIBER.

Dear Frances:
I am glad that you have a sister and a brother, and also to find yet another helper who loves to do things for mother, I hope you will like your badge.

Loving thanks to the following helpers for interesting letters. I am so glad to read of your pets:
Caledonia, Ont., R. R. No. 3.
Dear Aunt June:
I have signed the pledge and will try to be a faithful worker. I am sending a three-cent stamp and the pledge and hope to receive my badge soon. I can make a tire, wash and dry dishes, wash the separator, sweep floors, get meals and milk if necessary. I am thirteen and passed the entrance last June. I have a girl cousin, Alma Hagan, who passed the entrance the same time as I, and she is going to sign the pledge too as she wishes to be one of your club. Wishing your club success. I remain
RHEA BUNDY.

Dear Aunt June:
I have signed the pledge and I hope I will receive a badge. This is my first letter to your corner. I wash the dishes, help to milk the cows, bring the water, sweep the floor, make the beds, I live two miles from school. I always take my dinner to school. I am eleven years of age. My birthday is on the seventeenth of April. For pets I have a dog named Major and a calf named Lay. There are only twelve scholars in our school. We have no teacher at our school yet. I am going to teach my brothers at home. I will close. I am sending five cents for the badge.
MARY E. PURDON.

Dear Aunt June:
I would like to join your League. Please send me a badge. I am fourteen years old. I go to school; I am in the senior fourth class. I have a number of pets. I think my favorite is a cat, her name is Jess. I got first prize and a special for her at the fall fair. I help dad milk the cows. We have three little calves; I feed them. I will ring off for this time. Hoping to see this in print. Yours truly,
DAD'S BOY.

Notice: If your letter is not in the corner this week, please look for it next week. Many thanks to all who have written from yours lovingly.
AUNT JUNE.

CHICKEN HOUSES SHOULD ALWAYS BE KEPT CLEAN

CONCRETE HELPS TO IMPROVE CONDITIONS AND FREE IN-FORMATION IS BEING DIS-TRIBUTED TO FARMERS.

Farmers and others who have been reading the articles in this paper from time to time on the care of poultry and how to get more eggs from their hens, have been told in nearly every article that the first essential for healthy poultry and more eggs is cleanliness. Chicken houses should be clean. The best way to keep them clean is to prevent the accumulation of dirt. And the easiest way to do this is to have the floors at least, in every chicken house, built of concrete. And there are many other things around the farm that could be done with concrete. Buildings of all kinds can be improved, and at little cost, by the aid of concrete, which makes a permanent job. In order to assist all farmers to make improvements, and to give them ideas on concrete building, the Canada Cement Company has issued a book, "What the Farmer Can Do With Concrete" which will be sent free to anyone who writes to The Canada Cement Co., 1091 Herald Building, Montreal. The book is well worth having and as it is free we would advise everyone to write for a copy.

Advice to Girls

By Miss Rosalind

Registered according to the Copyright Act

Miss Rosalind welcomes letters from young women asking for advice on any subject. All you have to do is to address your letter to

MISS ROSALIND,

34 King William St., Hamilton, Ont.

Dear Rosalind:

I have always taken an interest in reading your Advice to Girls. I am a boy of 20 years; I have come back home after been west for a few years and I seem out of place here; I am fond of girls' company. I came east thinking to have a good time but the young people around here seem to have their steady friends so I am writing to you to see if you can put me in touch with some nice girl. Hoping to hear from you. Yours truly,

TINY.

Dear Tiny:

We have a correspondence club for lonesomes in the column. Through it I exchange names and addresses if any readers send me addressed and stamped envelopes. The object of the club is to encourage good letter writing and give our girls and young men something to do in hours that would otherwise be very lonely. I take it for granted that young people wishing to correspond with each other through this column do so with the approval of their parents. I shall forward your address with pleasure to girls or boys asking for it and sending me a self-addressed, stamped envelope. With best wishes that you may make many friends.

ROSSALIND.

Dear Rosalind:

I am a young girl of eighteen years and in love with a boy who is attending college a considerable distance from here. He has been home for a vacation and does not expect to be back till next Christmas. Do you think it would be proper for me to keep company with any other boys in his absence. I know he loves me as he has told me so and thinks that I shouldn't go out with any other boys. No doubt he will be lonesome as he does not go out with any other girls. Wishing for the coming year, I am

AMBITION.

Dear Ambition:

Don't you think you are rather young to talk of being engaged. And don't you think you will miss a lot of good times between now and next Christmas if you stay in the house all the time. If I were you I would have all the friends and all the good times I could have and would advise the young man to do the same. Thank you for the nice New Year's wishes.

ROSSALIND.

Dear Rosalind:

I have been reading your advice lately and I think it very helpful to girls. I am a girl of eighteen. Am quite a sport; in fact I enjoy any kind of sport.

I go to quite a few dances during the winter where I usually meet a number of strange fellows. You meet a fellow who seems very friendly to you, he asks you to dance several times, you also eat supper with him and finally he asks to take you home. Is it proper for you to allow this strange fellow to take you home? Should a girl present a fellow with a Christmas present first or should she wait till she receives one from him first.

I am very fond of corresponding so if you could I would ask you kindly to send me a boy's address between the age of eighteen or twenty so I could write to him.

I will close hoping to hear from you soon and wishing you a very prosperous New Year. I remain,

PEGGY.

Dear Peggy:

What do you mean by "met a fellow at dances." If you mean that at a properly chaperoned party you meet a new friend by means of an introduction through a friend, then it is quite correct to dance with him and have supper and let him take you home. It is not always wise to let a very new friend monopolize too much of your time, until you know more about him. Girls do not give presents to young men unless engaged to them except trifling little home-made gifts perhaps to friends of long-standing. Send me your envelope stamped and address.

ROSSALIND.

Dear Rosalind:

I am just a boy of eighteen and would like awfully well if you would please tell me what I am to do. I go with a girl friend here and I like her awfully well. She uses me fine only when a boy her sister used to know comes up. Then she goes out with him and shuns me. I would like you to tell me what you would have me do. It is awfully lonesome up here, and would like to correspond with anyone my own age. Hoping to have you answer my letter soon.

A LONESOME LAD.

Dear Boy:

Just be as friendly to the girl as you can be; and try to be a pleasant companion to every person. Do not consider the girl you speak of as the only girl you should go with; and take it for granted that she may find pleasure in the society of other young men. Try to make your friendships general. You did not send me your full name and address. How did you think I could forward letters to you? Send it to me right away and I do hope there will be a bushel of letters to send to you.

ROSSALIND.

Dear Miss Rosalind:

I read in the paper every week, Advice to Girls. I think it is very helpful to us all. This is my first letter to you, but I hope not my last. I am going with a young fellow that is two years my senior. I love him very much but there is someone that I love better. Should I tell him that I like someone better or should I try to forget this other fellow. How can I forget this other fellow who does not care anything for me any more, but I still do for him? Should I go back with this other fellow when we have had several bust-ups. No words or anything, just drop-out like but I think he likes me and I think very much of him. Is it right to let him kiss me at parting? I think he would feel very much hurt if I didn't.

When a fellow asks you to write to him and you do so and he does not answer should you write again to him? Well I think I have taken up too much of your valuable space already so hoping to see my answer soon.

DISCOURAGED.

My Dear Girl:

I'm not just sure that you are so very much in love as you think. I think you should play for awhile before settling down to the serious business of loving. Keep the friendships of your two friends. Time will tell you which is the right one. Avoid foolish little quarrels. They are not much in themselves, but sometimes things are said that hurt and cause bitter feelings; and these are to be kept out of our lives as much as possible. A nice girl does not kiss a man she is not engaged to unless he happens to be a relation and that's different. I would not write again in that case. I am glad to answer your queries. Come again.

ROSSALIND.

Dear Rosalind:

I often read your advice to girls and some of it I think is real common sense if followed out. In this week's paper I read that there is a young lady who wishes to have a boy friend. Do you think she would be willing to correspond with me. I am at present kind of lonesome and I would enjoy corresponding to some young lady as I think it helps both parties in more than one way. I am a returned man, twenty-two years of age, kind of quiet, but in spite of all I've plenty of fun in me if reach in the right way. I hope I do not offend either you or the young lady by my abrupt question of corresponding. I hope to hear from you soon.

TOM B.

Dear Tom:

Come right in to our cozy circle. We are very glad to have you and I sincerely hope you will like your shadow friends. I need not say more

ONE shoe off, and one shoe on,
Hurry up your dressing, my son John;
Breakfast is ready, steaming on the table,

WINTER WEATHER HARD ON LITTLE ONES

Our Canadian winters are exceedingly hard on the health of little ones. The weather is often so severe that the mother cannot take the little one out for an airing. The consequence is that baby is confined to overheated, badly ventilated rooms; takes cold and becomes cross and peevish. Baby's Own Tablets should be given to keep the little one healthy. They are a mild laxative which regulate the stomach and bowels and thus prevent colds. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SCALY LEGS.

This infectious trouble is caused by a very small mite burrowing under the scales of the leg. The scales of the legs become large and rough. The mites are easily killed by soaking and removing the scales with warm water, and applying an ointment of five parts vasoline to one part oil of caraway.

The situation to be created by the retirement from the Ontario License Board of J. D. Flavell, chairman, which, according to Mr. Flavell will take place by June 1st at the latest and earlier if possible will in all probability be a matter for the consideration of the Government supporters in caucus. There is some opinion among the members in favor of doing away with the Board and placing the administration of the O. T. A. directly under the Attorney-General's Department.

Useless Information.
We always devour all the statistics we can find, says an exchange. They are wonderful. Listen:
If all the phonograph records made in one year were thrown from the top of Brock's Monument they would break.

It would take four men some time to lick all the postage stamps made in Ottawa in one year, but we don't know just how long.

If all the telephone conversations from corner drug stores in one year could be recorded on a phonograph, nobody could listen to them.

A mule can climb to the top of Mt. Popocatepetl in five days. He can descend in five seconds.

If all the doughnuts made by the Salvation Army could be linked together in one chain, they would reach from Paris to Somewhere in France.

Tries to Prevent Swearing.

Thorold is leading in the Forward Movement. The town has been placarded with the following:

"Attention! Cursing, swearing, blasphemy and obscene language are against the laws of God. It is also a violation of the laws of your country. It is the language of vulgarity. Do not forget yourself, but do all you can to prevent the use of profane talk."

Salmon Fishing.

Fishing for salmon is prohibited at the present time in nearly all the rivers of Alaska and altogether in the southeastern part of the territory. Meanwhile the fishery goes on, but it is marine fishery. The salmon are caught on their feeding grounds out at sea with purse seines, gill nets, floating traps and fish lines. Trolling for salmon is great sport and is particularly fine off the straits of San Juan de Fuca.

Our Wheat.

Canada's most important cereal crop is wheat. It covers 36 per cent. of the land in crops, and forms 25 per cent. of the value of all crops. Saskatchewan alone has more than half of the wheat acreage of the Dominion. Yield, 1919, 182,260,400 bushels; value, $360,573,000.

Exhibition Trains.

An exchange of exhibition trains for showing in one country the products of another is a recent trade-extension project that is attracting attention in Canada. The Canadian National Railways have arranged for the transportation of exhibits of French goods through Canada, and Canadian manufacturers will be able to secure a similar exhibition of their goods on a train that will be taken through the principal cities of France.

Lent, Good Friday and Easter Day, 1921

To the Members of Grace Church:

Herewith please accept the Programme of our Services for Lent and Easter. Our motto this year is taken from the Ash Wednesday Collect. There are three series of sermons. During the week nights we will consider the Lord's Prayer. In the Sunday morning services we deal with the Sermon on the Mount from St. Matthew's Gospel, while on Sunday evenings certain phases of religion are considered. Your Rector earnestly asks for the co-operation of all our members and sympathizers.

It is a splendid opportunity for us all to withdraw for a period and meditate upon eternal things. The Bible and the Church have set before us the necessity for definite times of spiritual refreshment. A time and place for daily food is necessary for our bodily existence. A time and place also for spiritual food is just as necessary and more urgent for the Soul's life both here and the world to come.

Death has reaped a heavy harvest this year in Waterdown and vicinity. Those of us who survive cannot say we have not had enough warning. Your pulpit also sounds forth the exhortation from the watch towers of Zion, "Prepare to meet thy God." Death has overshadowed our own congregation and has taken from us a most useful member whom we love. He held aloft the torch lighted by the Light of Life. Let us not fail to grasp it from his failing hand and wave it with new determination and renewed activity in the Lord's victorious conflict. Come let us rally around the Throne of Grace with new and contrite hearts.

Yours faithfully,

H. J. LEAKE.

N. B.—Weekly letters will appear (D. V.) in this paper by the Rector of Grace Church. Complimentary copies of the Review are being sent to members of our church, who are at present non-subscribers, ending with the last issue in March. It is hoped that these subscriptions will be continued and thereby help one of our town institutions.

Revisiting No Man's Land.

Many a Canadian who fought in the war is wondering what the front looks like now, a year and more after the last shot was fired.

A newspaper writer, who was recently over the ground, states that one actually sees much less change than would be expected. It is so easy to destroy, so difficult to restore.

From the Ypres-Bailleul road, from Hell Fire Corner, from the La Bassée-Lens road, from the Arras-Douai road, and from many other such points, one might almost imagine that the armies had withdrawn but yesterday from their lines.

Everything easily lifted has been picked up and carried away by the seekers of souvenirs, but the change that most impresses the soldier is the silence, the now vacant highways once crowded with war traffic. The noise of war is gone, and the color of khaki is seldom seen. You look out over regions that seem to be forever reduced to silence and sterility.

The restoration of France and Belgium is going to be a long job. Those know best how complete the destruction was who were present and saw it done.

Eight thousand girl workers are members of the trade union movement in Toronto. The membership is drawn chiefly from among the female stenographers, clerks and accountants in the railway offices.

Spider Webs Cause Short Circuits.

Hall Insurance.

Hall insurance is practically only a term in Eastern Canada, but in the West it signifies something of vivid importance. Measures known as Municipal Hall Insurance Acts are in force in each of the Prairie Provinces. These acts provide a system of mutual insurance under which rural municipalities can operate to tax each other for the granting of compensation to individuals for losses incurred by hail, which are often very serious. How the system works out, and the extent to which it operates in Saskatchewan and Alberta, are set forth in the November number of the Agricultural Gazette of Canada. Each claimant is entitled to receive not more than five cents per acre for every one per cent. of damage from hail he has sustained. To some this may not appear a very liberal provision, but when it is understood that the number of claims filed in 1919 in Saskatchewan was 7,838 and that the total indemnity paid amounted to $1,911,775, a different view will obtain. For one storm alone that occurred in July of the year referred to claims amounting to $1,100,000 were satisfied. In Alberta the total losses for the same year were $506,000, against a valuation of $12,000,000 insured. Besides the system under Government supervision, there are 36 companies in Saskatchewan that accept hail insurance, and that paid out $1,750,000 in 1919 for losses caused by hail.

The Wild Gooseberry.

The gooseberry when compared with other cultivated fruits is not as important in America as it is in North Europe, and especially in the British Isles where it has long been very popular, and a wonderful improvement has taken place in its size during the last two or three hundred years. When it was first cultivated in Europe—probably in the sixteenth century—the wild fruit, if it was like what it is now, would be only about one-half an inch in diameter and less than one-quarter of an ounce in weight. The largest gooseberries which have been produced in recent years average several times this size, some specimens two ounces or more in weight having been recorded. The English and European gooseberries are derived from a species native of North Europe, called Ribes Grossularia.

As the gooseberry is a native of Canada and is found growing wild almost or quite to the Arctic circle, its culture will eventually no doubt be extended very far north.—W. T. Macoun, Dominion Horticulturist.

THE MAELSTROM

By FRANK FROEST.
Late Superintendent of the Criminal Investigation Department of Scotland Yard.

Draftsmen made plans to scale of the room and every article in it. A fingerprint expert peered round searchingly, scattering black or gray powder on things which the murderer might have touched. In the top-most rooms Congreve, Menzies's right-hand man, had begun a hasty search of the house, that would become more minute the next day.

Menzies had occupied a morning room at the back of the house, and was deep in consultation with Sir Hilary Thornton, the grizzled assistant commissioner, and Heldon Foyle, the square-shouldered, well-groomed superintendent of the criminal investigation department. There was little likeness between the three men, unless it lay in a certain hint of humor in the eyes and a firmness of the mouth. A detective without a sense of humor is lost.

Now and again Menzies broke off the conversation to issue an order or receive a report. Thornton observed for the first time the characters in which he made a few notes on the back of an envelope.

"I didn't know you knew Greek, Menzies," he remarked.

The chief inspector twiddled his pencil awkwardly. "I used it now and again, Sir Hilary. You see, if I should lose my notes by any chance it's odds against the finder reading them. I used to do them in shorthand, but I save it up. There are too many people who understand it, see, what is it, Johnson?"

The man who had entered held out a paper. "Addresses of the cook and housemaid, sir. One lives at Potters Bar, the other at Walthamstow."

"Have them fetched by taxi," ordered Menzies curtly.

"Couldn't you have statements taken from them?" asked Sir Hilary mildly.

"It's rather a drag for women in the middle of the night."

Menzies smoothed his moustache. He didn't know what may develop here sir. We may want to put some questions quickly.

While thus Menzies was straining every resource which a great organization possessed to gather together into his hands the end of the case, Jimmie Hallett awoke once more. The throbbing in his head had gone, and he lay for a while with closed eyes, listlessly conscious of the mutter of low voices in the room.

He sat up, and at once a dapper little man was by his side. "Ah, you've woken up! Feeling better? That's right. Drink this. We want you to pull yourself together for a while."

"Thanks. I'm all right," returned Hallett mechanically. He drank something which the other held out to him in a tumbler, and a rush of new life thrilled through him. "Are you Mr. Menzies?"

"No, I'm the police divisional surgeon. Mr. Menzies is in the next room. Think you're up to telling him what has happened? He's anxious to know the meaning of all this."

"So am I," said Hallett grimly, and staggered to his feet. "Just a trifle groggy," he added as he swayed, and the little doctor thrust a supporting shoulder under his arm.

The three in the next room rose as Hallett was ushered in. It was Foyle who sprang to assist Hallett and lifted him bodily on to the settee, which Menzies pushed under the chandelier. The doctor went out.

"Quite comfortable, eh?" asked Foyle. "Let me take that cushion a bit easier for you. Now you're better. We won't worry you at present more than we can help, will we, Menzies?"

The three great detectives, for all that their solicitude seemed solely for the comfort of the young man, were studying him keenly and unobtrusively. Already they had talked his over, but any suspicions that they might have held were quite indefinite.

At the opening stage of a murder investigation every one is suspected. In that lies the difference between murder and professional crime. A burglary, a forgery, is usually committed for one fixed motive, by a fixed class of criminal, and the search is narrowed from the start. A millionaire does not pick pockets, but he is quite as likely as any one else to kill an enemy. In a murder case no detective would say positively that any person innocent until he is absolutely certain of the guilt of the real murderer.

Hallett, whose brain was beginning to work swiftly, held out his hand to the chief inspector. "Please to meet you Mr. Menzies. I've got a letter of introduction to you from Pinkerton. That's how I came to ring you up. My name's Hallett."

Menzies shook hands. Pleased to meet you, Mr. Hallett. This is Sir Hilary Thornton—Mr. Heldon Foyle.

"And now," said Jimmie decisively, when the introductions were done, "do you people think I killed this man, Gregey-Stratton?"

The possibility had been in the minds of every one in the room, but they were taken aback by the abruptness of the question. Weir Menzies laughed, as though the idea were preposterous.

"Not unless you've swallowed the pistol, Mr. Hallett. We've found no weapons of any kind. You were locked in, you know. Now tell us all about it. I couldn't hear a word you said on the telephone."

They all listened thoughtfully until he had finished. Thornton elevated his eyebrows in question at his two companions as the recital closed.

"Where are those checks?" asked Foyle. "They may help us."

Hallett patted his pockets in rapid succession. "They're gone!" he exclaimed. "They must have been taken off me when I was knocked out!"

"Him," said Foyle reflectively. "Can you make anything of it, Menzies?"

The chief inspector was gnawing his moustache, a sure sign of bewilderment with him. He shrugged his shoulders. There's little enough to take hold of," he returned. "Could you recognize any of the people you saw again, Mr. Hallett? The girl, the man who was running after her or the chap in the house?"

"I haven't the vaguest idea of what the face of either of the men was like," said Hallett.

"But the woman—the girl?" persisted Menzies.

Hallett hesitated. "I—I think it possible that I might," he admitted. Then an impulse took him. "But I'm sure she's not the sort of person to be mixed up in—"

The three detectives smiled openly. "In this kind of mess, you were going to say," finished Menzies. "There's only one flaw in your reasoning—she is."

Wrung as dry of information as a squeezed sponge of water, Hallett was permitted to depart. The courtesy of Sir Hilary Thornton supplied him with a motor-car back to his hotel, the forethought of Menzies provided him with an escort in the shape of a detective sergeant.

Hallett would have been less pleased had he known that the before-mentioned detective sergeant was to be relieved from all other duties for the specific purpose of keeping an eye upon him. Weir Menzies was always cautious, and though his own impression of the young man had been favorable enough, he was taking no chances.

All through that night Weir Menzies drove his allies hither and thither in the attempt to bring the end of the raveled threads of mystery into his hand. No one knew better than he the importance of a first hot burst of pursuit. An hour in the initial stages of an investigation is worth a week later on.

His irritation at being kept out of bed had all vanished now that he was on the warpath. He could think would be forced to absent himself.

Scores of messages had been sent over the private telegraph and telephone systems of the Metropolitan Police before, at seven o'clock in the morning, he took a respite. It was to an all-night Turkish bath in the neighborhood of Piccadilly Circus that he made his way.

At nine o'clock, spruce and ruddy, showing no trace of his all-night work, beyond a slight tightening of the brows, he was in Heldon Foyle's office. The superintendent nodded as he came in.

"You look fine, Menzies. Got your man?"

The other made a motion of his hand deprecatory of badinage. "Nope," he said, "but I've got a line on him."

Foyle sat up and adjusted his pipe. "The deuce you have. Who is he?"

"His name is Errol," said Menzies. "He's a stepson of Gregey-Stratton, and was pushed out of the country seven years ago."

"Menzies," said Foyle, laying down his pipe. "You ought to be in a book."

MARVELOUS TREE

MANY FARMERS IN CANADA WANT SUPER-SILK TREES.

Not since the advent of tobacco as a staple crop in Ontario has there been so much interest displayed in a new product as is evidenced by farmers all over Canada in the Osigan Super-Silk Tree. Large orders have been placed with the Osigan Silk Corporation, of Canada, Limited, Room 29 Sun Life Building, Hamilton, Ont., for these trees, which will be planted on many farms in Ontario in May of this year. The company guarantees each tree, and will replace free every tree that fails to grow.

In addition to this the firm supplies free to each purchaser of trees a hatching of silk worms, which starts the farmer in one of the best paying ventures ever introduced into Canada, which will give returns the first year of at least $50 per acre, and which will increase in a short time to $500 and $750 per acre. It has been conclusively demonstrated that silk can be grown in Canada superior to that of any other countries which is made possible only by the use of the Osigan Super-Silk Tree. An interesting club has been formed, and thousands of farmers, as well as city and village residents are enquiring. Full particulars are sent on application to the company at their Hamilton headquarters, 29 Sun Life Building.—Advt.

A Woman Likes To Be Admired, No Matter How Old She May Be

Nature undoubtedly made woman to be admired, and man to admire her. No woman ever gets so old that she doesn't want admiration, and no man ever gets beyond admiring her. Good looks in woman do not depend upon age, but upon health. A woman's health depends more upon the distinctly feminine organism than upon anything else. Between that organism and her beauty there is the closest connection. You never see a good-looking woman who is weak, run-down, irritable, out of sorts, fidgety and nervous. Headaches, backaches, dragging-down and troubles of that sort are all destroyers of beauty. Men do not admire sickness.

It is within the reach of every woman to be well, healthy and strong if she will take Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is the safest woman's tonic because it is made entirely of roots and herbs, without alcohol. (Ingredients on label.) It is fifty years old, and its age testifies to its goodness. A medicine that has made sick women well for half a century is surely good to take. Women from every part of Canada testify to its merits.

Send ten cents to Doctor Pierce's Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for a trial package and confidential medical advice.

POEMS You Should Know

JERUSALEM, THE GOLDEN.

Jerusalem, the golden,
With milk and honey blest,
Beneath thy contemplation
Sinks heart and voice oppressed;
I know not, O, I know not,
What joys await me there,
What radiance of glory,
What bliss beyond compare.
They stand, those halls of Zion,
As jubilant with song,
And bright with many an angel,
And all the martyr throng;
The Prince is ever in them,
The daylight is serene;
The pastures of the blessed
Are decked in glorious sheen.

There is the throne of David;
And there, from care released,
The shout of them that triumph,
The song of them that feast;
And they who, with their Leader,
Have conquered in the fight,
Forever and forever
Are clad in robes of white.

"Reds" Like Canada.

All that remains of the Finnish Foreign Legion, which, under British leadership, fought the Germans on the Russian frontier, but would not fight the Bolsheviks because they were revolutionaries themselves, want to come to Canada. Away up in the Baltic are these would-be Canadian citizens, who helped the allies against the Teutons, but have been a problem ever since. These are strange allies since the legion was recruited from none other than former members of the Finnish Red Guard who were expelled from their country after the last change of Government there. Men without a country, they were formed into a foreign legion, 14,000 strong, and under British and Canadian officers did good work against the Germans, who tried to cross the Russian frontier to reach Murmansk. After the armistice, however, they refused to fight the Bolsheviks. They were all but Bolsheviks themselves. Through the efforts of Britain most of the legion was finally repatriated, but there was a certain element too steeped in revolutionary ideas for the Finnish Government to allow re-entry. They were blacklisted men. They were formed into details and placed under Lieut. T. S. Wetton, of Winnipeg, a Canadian who went out with the Siberian force as an officer in the Devonshires. Wetton protests they are not Bolsheviks, although a little radical in tendency. He says they are anxious to come to Canada, and he has made representations to the Dominion immigration authorities in that respect. However, it is scarcely likely that Canada will see the matter in the same light. Wetton's following are the very cream of Finnish revolutionism, Oskari Tokoi, former Red Prime Minister for Finland, being an N.C.O. and a number of other prominent wavers of the red flag ranking as mere privates.

"Autumn" or "Fall."

Both are correct, "autumn" being rather more classic and generally used in England, while "fall" is now distinctly American and more expressive in its reference to the time of falling leaves. In England, the autumn is still sometimes called "the fall of the leaf." An English writer says: "Fall is better on the merits than autumn, in every way; it is short, Saxon, picturesque; it reveals its derivation to everyone who uses it, not to the scholar only, like autumn; and we once had as good a right to it as the Americans, but we have chosen to let the right lapse and to use the word now is no better than larceny." But if "fall" is more expressive, "autumn" has sanction of long usage and classical approval. The poets all give it the preference. Different ones speak of "congenial autumn," and "yellow autumn, weather with nodding corn."

Prince an Indian Chief.

"Dawn of Day" is the latest distinctive title to be conferred upon the Prince of Wales, who was invested with a chieftainship in the Six Nations (Iroquois) in the course of five hours spent in Grandford. At the Mohawk chapel the prince signed the register which contains the signatures of his grandfather and great-uncle the Duke of Connaught. He was particularly interested in the Bible presented to the Six Nation Indians by Queen Anne. The women of the tribe requested that he convey to his royal mother the Queen an address from them. The prince unveiled a bronze tablet inscribed with names of the 36 members of the Six Nations who died overseas.

Dr. Johnson's Prejudices.

Dr. Johnson's prejudices against novelty never quenched his intellectual curiosity in regard to mechanical inventions, which in his later life were giving the country a new distinction. In his romance of "Rasselas" he shrewdly argued out the possibilities of mechanical flying: "He that can swim need not despair to fly." He foretold the day when "the pendent spectator would survey with equal security the marts of trade and fields of battle"; but he deemed it needful, says Sir Sydney Lee in the London Times, to restrict the knowledge and practice of the art of flying to people of virtuous instincts, who should apply it solely to purposes of peace. With horror Johnson imagined "a flight of northern savages," who should "hover in the wind and light with irresistible violence upon the capital of a fruitful region." On the first experiments in ballooning, which were made in Johnson's latest year, Johnson remarked that balloons would serve no use until we could guide them.

Still Poor.

"This multimillionaire was once a poor boy."
"The adjective still clings to him."
"How is that?"
"People say, 'Poor old duffer! With all his money he can't buy a farm hand's appetite.'"

Not at Athens.

There will be no exhibit by Canadian manufacturers at the Athens Fair this year. It has been decided the notice was too short for anything but a Canadian Government exhibit, but arrangements are being made between the Government and the Canadian Manufacturers' Association for future exhibits to be made at short notice in connection with the Dominion's bid for European trade.
