CHAPTER XI
The Indian Maid.

Then he rubbed his own hands and face with melted snow, sat himself down by the fire, and proceeded to enjoy the first meal he had tasted since the morning.

The supper over, he piled fresh logs on the fire, and took out his pipe, he hesitated a moment ere he filled it, for a glance at his beaver-skin pouch showed him the smallness of the supply, and he knew that there was a fair chance of his requiring a pipe in lieu of to-morrow's dinner.

"We'll save that, I think, Judy, in case the larder should run out," he muttered, nodding at the horse; and, replacing the pouch in his pocket, drew the ears of his cap over his face; and lay down to that repose which a long, wearisome ride had honestly earned.

An hour, perhaps more, passed, when the recumbent figure rose quietly but sharply on its elbow, and stretching out one hand for the long rifle which had been resting beside him, listened intently.

A slight noise in the bush by his right—so slight that nine months ago it would not have attracted his attention, though he had been ever so wide awake—had not only aroused him, but put him on the alert.

A bed beneath the yuh-bah trees in the Rocky Mountains is not quite so free from interruption as one in the Albany Chambers, and the interruption generally comes in the shape of a dusky, moccasin-clad two-footed foe, or not less treacherous four-footed one.

Whatever occasioned the noise, the horse heard it, too, and with straightened ears, stood as if carved in stone.

Again! This time the hunter took to his knees, and holding his rifle on the trail, ready for instant aim, crawled cautiously toward the direction in which the sound had arisen, murmuring in a coaxing, reasoning voice:

"Quiet, old lady! This is just what I expected. Well, a little excitement will help to keep the ball going. Now, Mr. Grizzly—if you are a grizzly, and I can't see what else you can be, here's lead for supper!"

And, bringing his rifle to the aim, he felt for the trigger.

Before he could fire the first barrel, with the intention of bringing his foe out into the open for the reception of the contents of the other, a light, not unmusical yell rose from the darkness, a small figure leaped to the right of the bush in one bound, and in another sprang into the circle of the firelight.

With an expression of surprise and—yes, disgust—for no one likes to be deceived in his expectations of evil or good—the hunter lowered his rifle; not incautiously, however, and stood staring at the apparition. For a moment he could scarcely believe himself awake, he could not but think that this was a trick of the elf, Sleep, for there in front of him stood a young Indian girl, straight and lithe as a sapling, defiant as a panther-cub, glittering-eyed as a serpent.

The glittering eyes were fixed with a half-supplicating, half-questioning gaze upon the hunter; the childish hands, small and thin, were clinched at her side; the head poised like a fawn's, the straight, shapely bust rising and falling with the fear which the young soul tried so hard to conceal.

Now if there was anything in the wide world of emotion which Percy Chester disliked and loathed it was that weakness which is known as the embarrassment of surprise.

For a moment he looked hard and inflexible, then he nodded, and with a slight, sarcastic reflection muttered "Indeed!"

The Indian girl nodded in answer to his nod, but remained immovable.

"Now," said Percy, as coolly as if he were propounding a question at whist, "is this an ambush—are there half a hundred of your villainous relations behind taking careful aim, and speculating on horseflesh and my scalp, or is it a case of founding hospital? Come, young lady, drop that statuesque, and let us go into the question." And with a gesture of command he pointed to the fire.

The girl, still keeping her eyes on his face, walking slowly, ah, with such a grace!—no, civilized young lady, you could not learn that light half-swing, half-glide if all the darning masters in France were to take you in hand!—it belongs to the Indian, and though we have taken all else from him we palefaces cannot rob him of that—came slowly to the fire.

"Good," said Percy Chester. Now, stand there—oh, yes, you can warm yourself while I look round." And with a significant nod which said, as plainly as a nod could say, "don't move," he went cautiously to the outside of the circle to hunt for treachery. All, however, was silent as the grave, no flight of poisoned arrows or uplifted tomahawk broke the charm; and convinced that the child was indeed, like himself, belted, he returned to the fire—not, however, without many a backward glance—and stirred the embers into a blaze.

There was opportunity now for a further examination of the visitor, and Percy Chester scanned her somewhat curiously. His curiosity increased by what the firelight showed him.

She had thrown herself, or rather dropped, down beside the fire, and was leaning on one dusky elbow, her upturned eyes gravely regarding him with that calm self-possession which is the characteristic of the higher race of Indians. As the firelight fell upon her face Percy Chester felt that inward sense of satisfaction which all of us experience at the sight of anything beautiful.

It was a beautiful face, almost faultless but for its color, and as the hunter examined it with still greater curiosity, he was fain to admit that even its hue did not detract, but absolutely added to the peculiar charm of the clear, regular features and dark, fawn-like eyes. The hue was neither the dusky red nor the deep sorrel brown of the North American Indian, and, for the moment, the hunter half believed that she was half-caste, but a second glance at the tiny feet and hands seemed to upset that theory, and with a nod of critical satisfaction he gave up the riddle.

"Hem," he muttered. "Race unknown, parentage ditto, age probably twelve, possibly thirteen, temper vicious, appetite great, temperature cold."

All this he muttered to himself as he poked the fire, then, taking off his cloak, he threw it round the girl, pulled out his wallet, cut off a slice of buffalo, and perfectly aware that a sandwich would be treated with contempt, stuck it on a thick "hunk" of bread and handed it to her. Without a word, but with the same fixed gaze, she stretched out a little brown paw and took it; but, Indian like, though she was half starving, toyed with the food with an air of indifference for at least three minutes before she commenced to eat.

With a delicacy which was not thrown away the dispenser of the feast turned away to gather some fuel, and the result was made evident by the increased rapidity with which the little sharp teeth clicked through the tough pemican; the moment he turned toward her again she ate slowly.

"Indian to the backbone," he murmured; "and now I wonder whether she knows what this is," and he pulled out his spirit flask and poured out a small quantity in the tin cup.

With sublime gravity she watched him, took it without a word, and drank it with intense, but carefully suppressed enjoyment.

Then, as she returned the cup, she smiled for the first time. Now he it known that an Indian rarely or never laughs, and that a smile may be reckoned a great concession to the human weaknesses, and Percy Chester, who had seen enough of their kind to be aware of their disinclination to exercise the risible faculties, thoroughly appreciated this mark of friendliness and gratitude.

"Come," he said, replacing the flask, "that is better, now, if your young ladyship has no objection, suppose we devote the remainder of this eventful night to the rest which we are both greatly in need of." Allow me to arrange the cloak and make you as comfortable as—ah! and he broke off suddenly, for as he touched the cloak he felt her wince, and looking down at her hand he saw that it was smeared with blood. Instantly the half-sarcastic and caustic manner vanished, and the tenderness which is so greatly the portion of every strong, true man, came uppermost.

"Let me see!" and he took hold of

WOMEN'S STOMACH TROUBLES

The Great Woman's Medicine Often Just What Is Needed.

We are so used to thinking of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a remedy exclusively for female ills that we are apt to overlook the fact that it is one of the best remedies for disorders of the stomach.

For stomach trouble of women it is especially adapted, as it works in complete harmony with the female organism, since it contains the extracts of the best tonic roots and herbs. It tones up the digestive system, and increases the appetite and strength. Here is what one woman writes showing what this medicine does:

Newfield, N. Y.—"I am so pleased to say I can recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as an economical and beneficial remedy in most ailments pertaining to women. At least I found it so by only taking two bottles. I had indigestion in a bad form and I am now feeling in the best of health and owe it all to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. BURN WILLIAMS, R. D. No. 23, Newfield, N. Y.

Many women suffer from that "all gone feeling," and "feel so faint," while doing their work. Ten chances to one their digestive system is all out of order. A tablespoonful of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after each meal should completely remedy this condition in a few days.

her arm gently, "a cut with a tomahawk—that's bad; on the fleshy part of the arm, so far that's good. No arrowheads sticking anywhere about? No. Now we'll wash that! Don't shrink, my child! Ah, no, I forget you're Indian, and you wouldn't wince if I cut your arm off instead of binding it up. How's that—oh?" he muttered, as, with dexterous fingers—that were as gentle as a woman's—he washed the ugly cut and bound it up with his silk handkerchief.

"That's better, isn't it? Why, what's the matter?"

For, to his intense surprise, the girl held out her arm as stiff as a poker, and glared at him with an astonishment beyond description.

Then for the first time the clean-cut little lips opened for speech, and with slow, speculative, and deeply-satisfied tones, she said:

"Pale face be good! He no want scalp!"

"No, thank you!" retorted the hunter coolly, "I think not. So you thought I was going to feed you and then skin and roast you, after the amiable manner of your sweet friends—eh? And like the plucky daughter of Wild Hawk or Warpaint Peacock, or some such great warrior, you mean to die game without a word of palaver!"

And he smiled.

The girl looked at him with a puzzled and only half-assured confidence. "Paleface, no smoke!" she said, intimating that her companion had omitted the ceremony which invariably accompanied friendly intercourse.

"Exactly, excuse my rudeness, and put down the omission to the shortness of tobacco, and not a lack of friendly intentions. Here goes, and with a nod to reassure her, he drew out his pipe, filled and lit it.

As the smoke rose between them, the face of the girl grew less constricted, and presently the smile which had welcomed the warmth-giving whiskey reappeared again.

System Was Full of Poison; Pains in Side and Back

Had Constipation for Many Years, but Was Entirely Cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

The most common ailment and the greatest cause of disease and suffering to-day is constipation. Artificial food and sedentary indoor life combine to induce torpid, sluggish action of the liver, kidneys and bowels. As a result poisonous waste matter remains in the system and gives rise to pains and aches and affords a starting point for serious disease.

Infectious and contagious diseases are little known to persons whose liver, kidneys and bowels are kept in healthful activity, for there are no suitable conditions for disease germs to thrive in. Even common colds usually take their start when they find the system in a constipated, poisoned condition.

Mrs. Ed. Miller, West Flamboro, Ont., writes: "I can truthfully say that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have cured me of constipation. I suffered with constipation almost ever since I can remember, and for four years had pains at the left side of the back. If I walked across the kitchen floor I would have to sit and heat. That, I think, was terrible for a woman of twenty years. The condition of my blood was shown by pimples breaking out on my face. I suffered so much from pains and stiffness in the back, I am sure my system was full of poison. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have entirely cured me, and I feel better than I have felt for many years."

As a cure for constipation Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills stand alone, for by their action on the liver they awaken the activity of this organ, cause a good flow of bile, and hence remove the cause of indigestion, for bile is nature's cathartic. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Early Shackletons.

Former Dashes for the South Pole. The unfortunate news about Sir Ernest Shackleton's Antarctic expedition has lost a good deal of its gloom owing to the fact that the leading explorers are of the opinion that Sir Ernest's brilliant qualities will enable him to win through.

Although it is only in recent years that really scientific steps have been taken to explore the Antarctic regions, attempts to reach the South Pole were made as far back as the Middle Ages. It was believed at that period that a vast continent existed in the Antarctic, and in 1567, Alvaro Mendana, nephew of the Governor of Peru, sailed from the port of Callao in search of it. About thirty years later another determined expedition, under Pedro de Quiros, set out for the Pole, and in the following year discovered land which is now known as part of the New Hebrides.

What Other Explorers Have Done. The most famous expeditions of early times, however, were those made by the celebrated Captain Cook, in January and December, 1773. He discovered a good deal of hitherto unknown land and met with unexampled difficulties.

In 1820, Cook's record for getting Farthest South was beaten by a Russian expedition, under Bellingshausen, which discovered two new islands, which were named Petra and Alexandra. Nineteen years later, Dumont d'Urville, a Frenchman, t ravelled south from Tasmania, but beyond discovering two islands, he accomplished little. It was left to British enterprise to get nearest the Pole before it was finally reached by Roald Amundsen, in 1911. From 1839 to 1843, Captain James Ross undertook the most scientific and elaborate explorations with two vessels, the Terror and the Erebus. Ross discovered vast tracts of land, and in February, 1842, the expedition reached a latitude of 78 deg. 11 S, being nearer the South Pole than any previous explorer had been.

Accompanied Captain Scott. Coming to more recent times, the ill-fated Captain Scott advanced southwards over the ice in 1902, when the British flag was planted on ground nearer to the Pole than had ever been trodden by the foot of man. With Captain Scott on this momentous journey was Sir Ernest, then plain Lieutenant Shackleton, and the wonderful success of the enterprise determined him not to rest contented until he had beaten Scott's record.

Nineteen hundred and seven saw him with his own expedition, and in 1909 came the news that he had reached the Southern Magnetic Pole, only 111 miles from the South Pole itself.

As mentioned above, the South Pole was actually reached by Amundsen in 1911, and it was again "discovered" by Captain Scott on January 18th, 1912. The tragic return journey of Scott's little party will go down to history as one of the few really moving stories in the world.

Science Deals With Corns

Let Us Convince You

Let us prove to you tonight that every corn is needless. Get Blue-jay at your drug store. Apply it in a jiffy. The pain will stop forever. And in 48 hours there will be no corn.

That is due to a chemist who has studied corns for 25 years. He has found a gentle, certain way to end them. No soreness, no inconvenience. Blue-jay is a wax set in a protecting plaster. Millions of people never have corns, simply because they know Blue-jay. They stop them as soon as they start. Blue substitutes won't do that.

How Pneumonia Starts, and How Often Prevented

You catch a little cold to-day, and by to-morrow it has reached a throat, next day the lungs are affected and you wish you had used "Carrhazone" which kills colds in ten minutes. In the first place Carrhazone soothes the irritated membranes and relieves congestion—it cuts out the phlegm and destroys the germs. It enables the blood to retain a natural supply of oxygen, lung-food, and vitality. In any case bronchitis or Catarrh, it's guaranteed to positively cure. Beware of the gerosus substitutes offered under misleading names for genuine Carrhazone which is sold everywhere, keep size containing two months treatment costs $1.00, small size, 50c; trial size, 25c.

GERMANS CAPTURE FORT VAUX.

PARIS, June 8. The desperate defense made by Commander Raynal, with the small contingent left at Fort Vaux constitutes one of the most noble incidents in the Verdun campaign. The fort had been gradually pounded to pieces in a terrific seven days bombardment, while infantry rushes were repeatedly launched during this period against its slopes, its ditches and outworks. Early yesterday General Raynal's forces were cut off for the first time from communicating with the French trenches only 300 yards south. The means of transport of provisions and shells had been previously destroyed, and the stock of food in the garrison was exhausted. In the meantime the Germans brought up two fresh divisions and hurled them forward in five successive massed attacks, which in spite of fearful losses, caused by the French artillery, finally resulted in the Germans gaining the inner and exhausted defenders. No word has been received from General Raynal since communication was cut, and nothing is known of his fate or of that of his men. Whilst the prolonged bombardments destroyed the usefulness of Vaux, as a fortification, yet its possession is important, as it is one of the dominating heights which, for posting artillery, is advantageous. The French lines now embrace a circle of inner forts and trenches lying south of the Fort Vaux lines, constituting a semi-circle of defences from five to six miles outside of Verdun.

GERMAN LOSSES IN NAVAL BATTLE.

LONDON, June 8. A naval officer of high rank, who has just returned from a visit to the battle cruiser fleet, informs the Associated Press to-day that participants in the North Sea battle estimate the total German losses as follows: Two battle cruisers, three battleships, five light cruisers, eight or nine destroyers, and one submarine. This officer said he was convinced from the evidence he had obtained, that the unidentified battle cruiser said to have been sunk, was the Hindenburg. This estimate of the German losses is somewhat larger than that made in the latest official British announcement, issued Sunday. At that time the Admiralty gave the German losses, not all authenticated, as two battleships, two dreadnought battle cruisers, four light cruisers, nine destroyers, and a submarine. It was reported previously that the Hindenburg was destroyed, but this has been denied officially from Berlin.

DAILY TELEGRAPH'S PROPHECY.

LONDON, June 8. A special despatch to the Express says the Russian successes against the Austrians are far more important than appear from official announcements. The Daily Telegraph's correspondent ventures to assert on the authority of a prominent Russian expert, that all the five armies of Austria are on the eve of a general retreat, and that Lemberg is in great strategic danger.

WASHED ASHORE ON RAFT.

LONDON, June 8. One warrant officer and 11 men, survivors of the cruiser Hampshire, which went down off Orkney Islands with Kitchener, have been washed ashore on a raft, according to an Admiralty announcement to-night.

A DEMOBILIZATION DECREE.

ATHENS, June 8. The Greek Cabinet has decided to publish immediately a demobilization decree disbanding 12 senior military classes.

BODIES BROUGHT TO SCOTLAND.

THURSO, Scotland, June 8. Several bodies from the cruiser Hampshire are being brought here, among them that of Lt. Col. Fitzgibbon, Private Military Secretary to Kitchener. There is no confirmation of the rumors that some survivors of the sunken Hampshire have been found, and these rumors are believed to be unauthentic.

GREEK VESSELS REFUSED CLEARANCES.

LONDON, June 8. It was announced officially to-day that restrictive measures affecting the Greek ports are being considered to prevent supplies from reaching the enemy. Certain precautionary measures affecting Greek shipping are under way. Press despatches from Cardiff say that port officers at Wales have been instructed to refuse clearances to Greek vessels.

VOTES OF CONDOLENCE.

PARIS, June 8. The Senate and Chamber of Deputies to-day unanimously voted condolences with the British Government and people on the loss of Kitchener.

CONCERNING LOCKOUTS AND STRIKES.

LONDON, June 8. An official announcement given out to-day says that the Government has decided to apply to the Liverpool Docks that section of the Munitions Act, which provides that no employer may declare a lockout, and that no employee may go on strike.

RELEASED AND ORDERED TO LEAVE DUBLIN.

LONDON, June 8. Count and Countess Plunkett, who were arrested early last month, shortly after the suppression of the Irish rebellion, were released from custody last Wednesday and ordered to leave Dublin by next Saturday, according to a Central News despatch from Dublin to-day.

A Paris Chemist Has Discovered How to Grow Hair.

In Paris the ladies have entirely abandoned wearing hats, which is due entirely to this new discovery. It has been proven that Henna leaves contain the ingredients that will positively grow hair. That they contain this long-sought-for article is proven every day. The French are now placing on the market a preparation containing the extract from Henna leaves, which is having a phenomenal sale. This preparation is called SALVIA and is being sold with a guarantee to cure dandruff and to grow hair in abundance. Being daintily perfumed, SALVIA makes a most pleasant dressing, and is sold by your druggist. A large, generous bottle can be purchased for 50 cents.

J. C. Parsons, the Photographer's NEW BUSINESS STAND.

It is always a pleasure to see the old familiar business places of the city maintaining their position and prestige; it is equally a pleasure to see a younger generation entering commercial life to battle with fortune, and we are especially pleased to notice that Mr. J. C. Parsons, the photographer, has notified all and sundry that he has started in business for himself and may be found in the top flat of the Bank of Montreal Building, having taken over the quarters lately occupied by Mr. James Vey, photographer. Mr. Parsons has engaged a suite of rooms, which are elaborately fitted and handsomely furnished. They present a strikingly attractive appearance and would please the most fastidious customer. The studio and equipment are modern in every sense of the word, containing the most up-to-date improvements; the apparatus operated by electricity, for taking pictures and finishing them being the very latest obtainable in the photographic line. In fact the appointments in their entirety are simply perfect and the products of the new business in style and finish are not inferior to what can be seen in more pretentious towns. The stock was the personal selection of the proprietor when he visited the Canadian and American markets recently. No expense was spared in getting the best and the most careful attention was given to the most minor detail. A specialty of the new business is an electric lamp, which was secured at considerable cost, for taking portraits during night time. We saw this machine operated and demonstrated and the work turned out in poses, shading and general artistic effect, can compare favourably with anything seen in North America. While not wishing to detract any from the capabilities of others in the photographic business we feel confident in asserting that no better or more satisfactory work can be produced than that by Mr. Parsons. With characteristic enterprise and go-ahead-ness he is sure to do a thriving business. We bespeak for him a good slice of public patronage and wish him a full measure of success.

Numerous icebergs in the Straits, but no field ice. Prospects good for early fishing."

Cowan Mission Annual Meeting.

The 23rd annual meeting of the Cowan Mission took place yesterday, the attendance being fairly large. The reports for the past year were read and adopted, and showed that a large amount of work was accomplished by the mission. The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Mrs. Harvey. Vice-President, Mrs. Gillard. Treasurer, Mrs. Paterson. Secretary, Miss Browning. All the Directors of last year were re-appointed.

A Man's Worth

depends upon his power to produce what the world recognizes as of value.

And when you skirmish around you'll find that this power—which is just power of mind and body—depends to a remarkable degree on the food one eats.

For highest accomplishment one must have the best values in food—food which builds well-balanced bodies and brains.

Grape-Nuts FOOD

has that kind of value. It contains all the nutriment of whole wheat and barley, including the important mineral elements so often lacking in the usual dietary.

Grape-Nuts comes ready to eat, is easy to digest, nourishing, economical, wonderfully delicious—a help in building men of worth.

HOUSEHOLD NOTES.

Low, open collars are most favored for blouses.

Silk fringe is a pretty garniture for charmer dresses.

Button trimming is used along the edges of millinery bows.

Satin will probably be a leading fabric for evening gowns.

The smartness of a coat is judged by the size of its pockets.

Tight-fitting jackets are apt to have wide director collars.

The high-crowned, looping Gainsboro hats are with us again.

A brilliant mohair, braided outlines some of the large picture hats.

Blue serge is the most favored material for woman's top coat.

Hand work is introduced wherever it is possible on the latest suits.

A soft shade of yellowish old rose is appearing in blouses and hats.

There is a distinct Chinese influence in dresses, silks and hats.

Dainty and chic is the frock of white net, bordered with black net.

The Russian Offensive.

It would not be well to put too much credence in the reports that are coming of the Russian activities against Austria until their rigid censorship has permitted something more definite to be published to the world. Enough, however, has been made known to indicate that the movement is not an isolated one, but of huge proportions, extending along the entire Austrian frontier.

Almost exactly twelve months ago the Russians were in full retreat before the tremendous onset of the combined German and Austrian forces. The terrific bombardment of Przemyśl and its almost instantaneous fall, contrasting so strongly with the long-drawn out siege that gave it to Russia, will be well remembered. It was followed naturally by the loss of Lemberg, which is now mentioned as once more being in imminent danger of recapture by the Russians. This is probable enough, if to-day's news can be trusted, that the Russians have arrived within the vicinity of the line of the Strypa River. At the same time they are keeping the Germans busy in the northern zone, and it is unlikely that these will be able to lend the Austrians much assistance.

Accepting with reserve the Russian version of their successes and the extent of the Austrian losses, the news is yet most encouraging. The most important effect that any large success by our Allies here would have is the immediate relaxation of the strain to which Italy is being subjected. Although the Austrians have not progressed much of late in their drive along the Trentino, the vigor of their attack has not been diminished in the least, and the Italians have been sore put to it to hold the line before Vicenza. But Austria has committed herself to a great offensive here, which her losses in Volhynia and Galicia may now compel her to abandon. Withdrawal of large numbers of Austrian troops to the East frontier would inevitably be followed by renewed activity of the Italian armies, both in the Trentino itself and in the region of the Isonzo and Gorizia. The whole conditions of the present situation are such that changes in one part of it may produce rapidly corresponding changes in another. For this reason the great movement now under way in the East is of the first importance in the West, and is probably the herald of great events.

The annual meeting of the Old St. Bonaventure's Football Club will be held on Sunday, the 11th, at noon, in the College. A full attendance is requested. Schr. Lark's Trying Experience.

The coastal schooner Lark, Capt. M. Lane, had a trying experience yesterday in an attempt to make this port with a cargo of fish from Petty Harbor. On leaving the latter port the ship encountered a heavy southeast gale with running sea, and being on a lee shore made matters more difficult. Under double-reefed foresail and mainsail the ship was behaving splendidly, when all of a sudden a terrific squall struck her with full force and carried away the foretopmast and mainmast, leaving the ship at the mercy of the raging sea. The unfortunate craft was soon drifting toward Petty Hr. Motion, the spot near which the ill-fated steamer Regulus went down with all on board. Some fishermen belonging to Petty Harbor went out in two large motor boats and towed the schooner into that port. A tug from the city proceeded to the place mentioned early this morning and assisted her to St. John's.

This Store has put forth an endeavour never before equalled to offer extraordinary values in seasonable high-class Merchandise of Character, Style and Quality, during this their Fourteenth White Sale. And as a result of the sharp concessions from regular prices on our own distinctive stock, in addition to the unprecedented values in desirable lines purchased specially for this Sale, great selling activity is expected, exceeding that of any previous Sale.

Our June Sale of Ladies' Whitewear brings you the sort of garments you want, at less than you can buy them anywhere else. Not only lowest prices, but lower prices coupled with better qualities. This is the keynote of our June White Sale of Misses', Children's and Women's White Underwear. No cheaply made or inferior goods, nothing that won't give good service, but plenty of good-looking, well-made, perfect-fitting, long-wearing garments. That's what you'll obtain here at surprisingly little prices.

The Grind.

RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

I asked the niece of a neighbor of mine the other day what a she thought of another girl who is in her class in college. "She's a terrible grind," she said. "Exactly what do you mean by that?" "She studies all the time. She makes us tired." "Doesn't she go in for any of the other college activities?" "Oh, yes," grudgingly; "but she always has her work done just the same."

It was evident that she regarded such devotion to the purpose for which colleges were originally founded as a cardinal sin. Sixty Per Cent. Of Undergraduates Look Down On The Grind. If her point of view were unusual I shouldn't challenge it. But is it? Don't sixty per cent. of the college undergraduates look down upon the student who puts his studies first and who succeeds in them by dint of good hard work?

The brilliant scholar is tolerated. If a man can get high marks without working, he is forgiven. But let him display that "infinite capacity for taking pains" which by some wise heads has been ranked above brilliance, and he is at once dubbed a grind and shunned.

Now do people look down upon a lawyer or a doctor when he succeeds because he has worked hard at his profession?

Do People Sniff At The Man Who Makes A Million? Do people sniff at the man who makes a million in business because he puts his heart into it? No, of course they don't. Why then should it be thought disgraceful to succeed in college by dint of learning the hardest lesson in the world, how to concentrate and keep on concentrating?

When you analyze the feeling you can find several causes behind it. In part, it is a reaction against a scheme of college life which laid stress on mental education to the belittling of the needs of the body and the importance of social life.

Are We Afraid We Shall Seem To Take Life Seriously.

Again, it represents our queer American habit of being ashamed of serious things, religion, love, education, etc., and the fear we all feel, lest we shall be thought to be taking life too seriously.

And somewhere in its composition is a pinch of that instinct to belittle a success we are too lazy to have achieved ourselves.

I admit that if the grind is a prig that is a perfectly good reason for not admiring him. But all grinds are not grigs, any more than all students who get low marks are free from the taint of some kind of priggishness.

A college girl who was explaining her dislike of the grind once said to me, "But they work for marks."

To work only for marks, to be indifferent to what you actually learn, so that you get good marks for appearing to have learned, or to sacrifice breadth of course to marks, is futile and small. But marks in college stand for recognition, and who doesn't want recognition?

Honor to whom honor is due. Give the grind his share. You only show your littleness by withholding it.

THE MISFIT.

WILT MASON

Breathes there a man with soul so true, that when the home team wins a game, he doesn't throw a fit? Who doesn't help to make a noise, or take his place among the boys who on the bleachers sit? If such there be, go set him down as an incubance to the town, a brake upon its wheel; for any fellow is a crime who doesn't at the baseball time a glow of rapture feel. If he can view unmoved the score which shows us how the home team hory the fomen of the map, the soul within him is decayed; our coun-tilmen should take a spade and plant that kind of chap. For he's the man who always grupts when we'd put on improvement stunts, and pave the village streets, who always beefs about his tax, and sticks to pennies tight as wax, and prices downward beats. He is the skate who never gives much satisfaction while he lives, whose worth we can't discern; but when at last he cashes in, the people raise a joyful din, and toasty fireworks burn.

High Price of Meat.

New York, May 31.—A special cable to the World from London under yesterday's date, says:—"The high price of meat, which was admitted in the House of Commons to be a serious matter, is stated by the Evening Star to be the result of the manipulations of the American Beef Trust. The line of action which the country will expect the Government to take will be in the direction of discovering whether food supplies are being held up, and if so, by whom. The serious thing about the beef trust is that it controls not only the roast and boiled meat of commerce, but has its hands on all possible substitutes."

The Discovery of Daylight Saving.

Who originated the daylight-saving movement? One New York paper claims that it originated with Benjamin Franklin. In April, 1784 (while in France on a mission for the United States), he wrote to the 'Journal de Paris' as follows:

"I have just made an important discovery. About six o'clock one morning recently, being awakened by a noise, that my room was already quite bright. At first I thought that a dozen or more lamps had been lit without my knowledge, but on rubbing my eyes I was surprised to see that the light came in through my window. I looked out and found that the sun was just rising above the horizon and was filling my room with a flood of light."

This unaccustomed sight led him to consult an almanac, and to his surprise he realized that it was broad daylight hours before people thought of getting up. Quite in the modern statistical vein he proceeded:

"The six months from March to September have 183 nights. I multiplied this number by seven to arrive at the number of hours during which we use candles and tapers. This gave me 1,281. As there are 100,000 families in Paris, I arrived at the figure 128,100,000 light-hours consumed, representing an annual expense of bees' wax and tallow (more than a hundred million francs) for the city of Paris alone."

How to get the people to utilize the daylight, however, was a problem. Apparently he never thought of the simple expedient of moving forward the hands of the clock. He had much more heroic measures, namely:

"I propose the following regulations: (1) A tax of a louis on every window having a shade that keeps out light after sunrise.

(2) The chimneys in all the churches are to sound at sunrise, and if that proves insufficient, then there is to be a salvo of artillery fired in every street.

"This discovery cannot hitherto have been made known to the people of Paris, who are as wide awake as any in the world. . . . it is impossible that such a people should have this long time been burning sooty, unhealthy, and expensive bees wax and tallow candles, had they known, as I do now, that they might be burning the pure and graceful light of the sun!"

"MEASLES."

Hundreds of children are suffering from "Measles" at the present time, and one has to be very careful in trying to avoid the complications that often follow them.

A heavy "Cough" is very prevalent during the present epidemic, and "Pneumonia" is the great danger. Avoid this by keeping a bottle of "Stafford's Phoratoxine Cough Cure" on hand.

Stafford's Drug Store (Theatre Hill) is open every night from 7.30 to 9.30. The above preparation is manufactured only by Amusements.

AT THE CRESCENT.

Don't miss the big week end show at the Crescent Picture Palace to-day. Richard C. Travers appears in a great two reel comedy drama produced by the Essanay Company entitled, "Fish Sly." The Lubin Company presents "The Discontented Man," a strong society drama. The Snakeville Comedy Company presents "When Snakeville Struck Oil," a very laughable comedy. The musical programme for this big show is new and classy arranged by Professor McCarthy. On to-morrow there will be extra pictures for the children at the big matinee; send them to the popular Crescent.

THE PRETENDERS AT NICKEL THEATRE.

The week-end performance at the Nickel Theatre to-day is up to the usual standard, and all patrons will be anxious to attend and see the splendid show. The Broadway favorites present the beautiful four-act drama, "The Pretenders," introducing Crutard Kent and Margaret Court. This is an appealing love story with attractive settings and splendid acting. The Selig artists sent the powerful two-act melodrama—"The Runt," in which Wheel or Calkin is featured. The comedy is "A Safe Investment," by Sidney Drew, and the Vitagraph Co. Bert Stanley will sing another comic song. The usual big matinee for children takes place to-morrow afternoon. The little ones should go early and spend a pleasant afternoon.

Here and There.

VIKING SAILS.—The S.S. Viking sails this afternoon for Sydney to load coal for Bowring Bros.

PERSONAL.—His Lordship Bishop Power, who was on a short visit to the city left for St. George's by last evening's express.

BROUGHT COAL CARGO.—The S.S. Bloodhound, 2 days from Sydney, arrived here this morning with a cargo of coal to Baile Johnstone & Co.

DURANGO ARRIVES.—The Furness liner Durango reached port this morning from Liverpool after an excellent run of nine days, bringing 20 packages of mail matter and 1470 tons of cargo. An iceberg was sighted by those on the ship 20 miles off St. John's.

POLICE COURT. (Before Mr. F. J. Morris, J.P.)—One drunk and disorderly was fined $2 or 7 days and another was released on furnishing bonds to keep the peace. A teamster summoned by Head Constable Sparrow, for being drunk in charge of a horse, was fined $1 or 3 days. Several civil cases were disposed of.

At the City Hall.

The weekly session of the Municipal Board was held last night, Chairman Gosling presiding.

The Colonial Secretary stated that the city would have to pay for the Municipal elections and asked for $400 on account to give the Returning Officer.

The Direct Agencies wanted to buy second hand 6 inch pipe for sale. The Council has none to sell.

Mr. W. A. O'D. Kelly's offer of concrete, lawn and garden urns was referred to the Park Committee.

The Engineer will report on the complaint of Mr. Solomon Butt.

Plans of proposed garage, Adelaide Street, submitted by Mr. W. J. Ellis, were approved of.

Mr. J. P. Blackwood wrote re J. P. McLoughlan's property, LeMarchant Road. The Solicitor will be asked to draft an agreement between the city and the owners of the land.

The request of the residents of Power and Pleasant Streets for a water fountain was referred to the Engineer.

Plans of proposed building on British Square, were submitted by E. Williams, and referred to the Engineer.

J. W. Taylor was granted sewerage connection on Topsail Road, he to pay proportionate cost.

The Nfld. Knitting Mills Co. were given permission to build a coal shed on Alexander Street.

The Engineer was asked to report on the condition of certain streets.

Mr. Mullaly asked that band concerts be given in Bowring Park on holidays. Under consideration.

The meeting adjourned with the passing of pay rolls, etc.

Citizens' Committee.

The Citizens' Committee met in the Board of Trade Rooms last night, Chairman Soper presiding. The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted.

Communications were received from the Colonial Secretary in relation to the qualification of voters, and from the Secretary of the Municipal Board, acknowledging receipt of letter asking for plan of houses not connected with water and sewerage. The Council will prepare a plan and furnish it.

Mr. Joyce on behalf of the deputation that called on the Colonial Secretary and Minister of Justice about the qualification of voters, reported that any person who occupies a dwelling house, or any person paying a tax to the city, not in arrears, is entitled to vote. The coal duties not being collected direct by the city are not considered a tax.

Mr. Barter submitted an extract from the list of voters recently taken in the city, which shows a shortage of 772 names compared with 1910 despite the fact the population has increased 9.75 p.c.

Mr. Peel who withdrew his motion made at the last meeting in relation to candidates from the Citizens Committee entering into the forthcoming election, announced his intention of supporting Mr. W. A. O'D. Kelly for Mayor.

Mr. Barter strongly opposed the Committee having anything to do with politics, municipal or otherwise.

The meeting closed at 10.30 and will meet again at 8 o'clock on Monday night.

C. L. B. Will Hold Camp This Year.

The C. L. B. paraded at headquarters last night, it being their regular night for drill. Major Goodridge told the lads before dismissing them that the brigade would hold the annual camp this summer at Topsail, the time for the event to be made known later. The announcement was received with delight.

Private Barnes was promoted to Lance-Corporal.

After drill the annual meeting of the Athletic Club in connection with the brigade was held. Election of officers was held and resulted as follows:—

President—Lt.-Col. Rendell.
 Vice-President—Major Goodridge.
 Secretary—L. Cpl. Saunders.
 Treasurer—Corpl. Rendell.

Bait Scarce.

The Board of Trade has just received the following report: ("Rose Blanche to Hr. LeCon): "The total catch is 9,960 qts. with 40 fish last week. No traps, but 14 holes and skiffs are fishing. Prospects are very poor and there is little herring for bait. All our boats are getting ready to start for the Cape Breton fishing grounds, off St. Paul's Island."

England, German, and Irish.

From a Speech Delivered at a Mass Meeting of the American Rights Committee.

(By Lawrence Godkin, in the "Outlook," New York.)

By paternal ancestry I am an Irishman. My father was Irish-born in County Wicklow. My grandfather was Irish and was an active member of the revolutionary "Young Ireland" party of 1848. His memory in that movement was maintained at great self-sacrifice. There was nothing pro-British in my grandfather.

On the other hand, my maternal ancestry was of the New England Yankee stock. My mother's forbears were revolutionists against King George III. and British misrule. There was nothing pro-British about my maternal ancestors.

I myself think the blackest page in England's history is that which records her treatment of Ireland. There is every reason why I should not be pro-British.

And yet to-day my heart goes out to England and the thousands of Irishmen who are fighting under her standard in the trenches. For she and they are fighting the battle of freedom and civilization against Prussian "frightfulness."

Irishmen have gone to every land in the world and have distinguished themselves in every land in the world but one. You will find great Irish-

One Little Boy.

By Heaven's first law my house was kept.
 The brass was polished bright,
 Each room was dusted well and swept,
 It was a pleasant sight.
 But now mud-tracks are on the floor,
 And with them many a toy,
 And finger-marks upon the door
 Led by one little boy.

Once quiet reigned, or silvery sounds
 Of music filled the air;
 Now tramp of many feet resounds,
 And clanging up the stair,
 March martial bands, with fife and drum,
 All flushed with pride and joy,
 Behold at "double-quick" they come,
 Led by one little boy.

Time was I pondered Browning's verse
 And Walter Pater read;
 Of Ibsen I could once converse,
 But now—a tired head
 Is cuddled close at "story time"
 When evening shadows fall,
 And I am wise in nursery rhyme
 And fable that is all.

Once, when I tucked him into bed,
 He hugged me tight, and then
 "What would you sell me for?" he said—
 I kissed him once again
 And answered, "Not for diamonds,
 pearls,
 Nor gold without alloy;
 Nor all the wealth of all the worlds
 Would buy one little boy."

TO-DAY'S Messages.

St. Pierre Bulletin

PARIS, June 8. (Official.)
 In Argonne a German mine exploded this morning at Hill 235. Heavy Chevaches, without causing us any damage. We occupied the southern side of the excavation. On the left bank of the Meuse intermittent bombardment of our second line of trenches; on the right bank of the Meuse fierce artillery struggle. In Thiaumont Douaumont district, after seven days of desperate fighting against assaulting troops, continuously renewed, the garrison of Vaux fort, reduced to its minimum of defenders, could not keep the onslaught of Germans from occupying the shattered fort. We still hold the borders of it, and also the trenches, right and left, from this work, which the Germans are furiously trying to capture, but without success, being mowed down by our curtain of fire. Calm on remainder of the front, apart from Hartmannvillekopf, where artillery continues very active.

GERMAN NAVAL LOSSES.
 LONDON, To-day.
 British official last evening:—In the German official account of the North Sea battle which appeared in the Dutch papers this morning, the loss of the Lutzw, Rostock and Elbing are admitted in addition to the Pommern and Grauenloob which was announced in the German official of June 1st, but the loss of the Wiesbaden which was announced on the first of June is now withheld. German official account repeats that the Warspite, Princess Royal, Birmingham and Marlborough were sunk. They are not sunk, but safe in port. The repetition of this false statement compounds the repetition of the former statement by the British Admiralty of the sixth June. The complete list of British losses has been made public.

STORIES OF THE JUTLAND BATTLE.

LONDON, To-day.
 "It is a tonic to visit Beatty's battle cruiser fleet from which I have just returned," said a naval officer of high rank, to the Associated Press to-day. He added: "The officers and men are in splendid form. Instead of feeling depressed they are inclined to feel sorry for the poor Germans. It is impossible to visit the ships and see the officers and men of our destroyers, who were simply wonderful. They consistently held the upper hand in the greatest battle ever engaged in, by these little war craft. Until we have Jellicoe's full report, which is being collected and digested as rapidly as possible, it is quite out of the question for me to give any more connected details of the battle than have been published, but I can relate a few incidents and give some impressions which may show the spirit of our men. As for the fleet itself, it is quite ready for another battle as big as the Jutland action. One destroyer, fifth in the line, saw her four file leaders one by one, put out of action but kept friend—whether in training, or already at the front—needs Zam-Buk. It cannot be equalled for the many small injuries and ailments incidental to a soldier's life.

 Sergt. F. Bremner of the 8th Canadian Mounted Rifles, writes: "For healing cuts, sores, blisters, etc. Zam-Buk cannot be beaten."
 Corp. Fremlin of the 10th Field Ambulance, writing from France, says: "We find Zam-Buk splendid for injuries and ailments, but we haven't enough of it."
 Every soldier should carry a box of Zam-Buk, as nothing ends pain and stops itching so quickly; it also prevents blood-poisoning. 50c. all druggists, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

ahead without swerving, got all her torpedoes home. She then discovered a great German battleship looting on the mist, so closely that when the enemy fired her big guns their blasts blew over the funnels and masts of the little ship. She escaped without further damage. Another marvellous escape of one of our destroyers was discovered when a stoker reported, himself wounded, but as no shells had struck the ship, her Commander declined to believe the man. He, however, reported himself again next morning; he casually showed the Commander a 12 inch unexploded projectile, which had dropped through the hatchway into the hold. There were similar incidents aboard the Lion, where two junior officers from a fighting post saw an unexploded 12-inch projectile lying on the deck in some burning debris. These officers ran to the fire, extinguished it and threw the projectile overboard. I was surprised on my return here when I saw for the first time the official German admission of casualties in personnel, which show from the numbers known to have been engaged, that the losses of German ships must have been greater than our estimates. Our officers admit the German gunnery was good, but not as effective as ours. The light was much in their favor, but toward the end our maneuver changed this. The result was in the general opinion of the officers and men of our ships, which were engaged in the action, that the German fleet received such a straining as not likely to take to the sea for six months."

RUSSIAN VICTORY IN GALICIA.

PETROGRAD, To-day.
 On Tuesday we developed our offensive in the direction of Kovno and Kovel, keeping on the heels of the overthrown enemy and following on to the battle region of Lutsk. We occupied the British, and the Austrians have seized not only the lines of the rivers Ikwa and Styr, but have crossed them and continued our offensive. In the capture of the Strypa River, supported by artillery fire captured a number of powerful enemy organized positions on the front of Krzylow, Jazovetz, and other points quite near the line of the Strypa River. In addition to the 40,000 prisoners previously taken, we took in the course of yesterday's fighting 58 officers and 1,000 men and a large number of guns, machine guns and a quantity of other weapons, field kitchens and telephone material. The results of the engagements from the fourth to the seventh in Volhynia and Galicia permits us to consider we have already gained an important victory which is crowned by a great breach in the enemy fortified front. On the Dvina front and in the Lake Region south there have been violent fusillades in many places. Germans bombarded by concentrated fire the Iskull bridgehead. The repeated attempts to advance in the region south of Smergen were frustrated by our fire. South of Krevo the enemy artillery fired gusts at our positions. In the Caucasus the situation is unchanged.

MINE WARFARE ON BRITISH FRONT.

LONDON, To-day.
 A British official statement issued at midnight says: "The principal activity of the past 24 hours has been in a sector between Vimy ridge and La Basse Canal. Here mine warfare is particularly in evidence. Six mines were exploded with results generally speaking in our favor. Near Hohenzollern redoubt an explosion of one of our mines considerably damaged the enemy defences. After the explosion our snipers accounted for 9 of the garrison. Around Souchez there has been a good deal of work with trench mortars. Along the whole sector artillery on both sides bombarded actively. Just south of La Basse Canal we carried out a successful raid last night, inflicting losses on the enemy. The garrison of the raided trenches fled, leaving dead on the ground. The situation at Hooge is unchanged. There have been no infantry actions to-day. Artillery on both sides shelled intermittently both day and night. Elsewhere on the front there was no special interest and the day passed quietly."

PROGRESSIVES WANT TO GO BACK TO REPUBLICAN CAMP.

CHICAGO, To-day.
 The Republican convention to-day accepted the invitation of the Progressive Convention for a conference for harmony. A proposal to that end was adopted first in the Progressive convention and only in the Republican convention and adopted with a few scattering naes. Virtually there was no demonstration.

AUSTRIANS LOSE TWO HUNDRED THOUSAND MEN.

LONDON, To-day.
 It is asserted that a strategic breach 100 miles wide has been blown on the Austrian front, involving the armies of General Von Bethmer and General Von Boehm Ermeil and part of that of Arch-Duke Joseph Ferdinand. According to another despatch the Russian success is largely due to the unprecedented use of artillery, surpassing in intensity any previous efforts on either side on the east front. The retreat of many Austrian trench detachments was completely cut off by a curtain of shrapnel through which it was impossible for any living thing to pass. The Austrians were thus compelled to surrender en masse. The Times estimates the Austrian losses at 200,000.

SUGGEST NEUTRAL COUNTRY FOR PRISONERS.

LONDON, To-day.
 The Daily Graphic, discussing the alleged hardships of British prisoners in Germany, suggests that prisoners of all the belligerent nations be transferred to a neutral country, the cost to be paid for by the respective Governments. The Graphic urges the United States to take up the matter to the extent of making a special appeal to the German Government to agree to such an arrangement.

ON ALL FRONTS.

LONDON, To-day.
 Having recaptured Eutsak, one of the triangle of Russian forts in Volhynia, from the Austro-Hungarians, the Russians are pressing their adversaries westward. In numerous places, not only have the Russians made gains on the banks of the Ikwar and Styr Rivers, but they have crossed these streams and continued their offensive against their foes. In the region of Kovel, midway between Kutzk and Brest Litovsk in the vicinity of Rovno, southeast of the fortress the Russians have begun actions against the Austro-Hungarians. Likewise, in Galicia there has been no let up in the Russian attacks against the soldiers of the Dual Monarchy from whom they have captured along the lower reaches of the Strypa River, heavily fortified positions. In the fighting the Russians have materially added to their prisoners and stores captured, guns, machine guns and war materials. With the capture of Fort Vaux, northwest of Verdun the Germans have attempted to advance their lines against the French east and west of Thiaumont Farm, and south of Douaumont, the French barriers of fire, however, held them back. Northwest of Verdun around Hill 303 in the region of Chantarcourt, artillery duels are still intense. Intermittent artillery duels have given way to vicious infantry attacks and counter attacks by Germans and British around Hooge. Sapping operations between Vimy Ridge and LaBasse Canal near Hohenzollern Redoubt were to the advantage of the British, and the Austrians have been driven back. Further south, in the Chiese Valley, they repulsed Austrian offensives.

EXPORT OF COAL TO GREECE FORBIDDEN.

LONDON, To-day.
 All exports of coal to Greece have been prohibited. This is probably in line with the announcements that the Entente Allies were considering restrictive measures against Greek commerce in order to prevent supplies reaching the enemy.

SANK IN DEEP WATER.

ABERDEEN, Scotland, To-day.
 The cruiser Hampshire sank in deep water, two miles from land between Marwick Head and Brough Bissay, on the west coast of the Orkneys.

WANT FIRM HAND WITH GREECE.

LONDON, To-day.
 It is not known what demands have been made upon Greece. The Daily Telegraph and other morning papers express the hope that they are nothing short of the demobilization of the Greek army. The Post says Greece is confronted with a serious emergency. It is in the power of the Allies to close the sea against her. Many of her rich island possessions may become endangered. The Daily Telegraph says: "If lesser measures are insufficient to prevent Greece from aiding the enemy, we shall doubtless proceed to a full blockade of the Greek ports, and the Entente Powers would not be allowed to occupy Greek forts unless the Greek Government virtually decided to throw its lot in with the Central Powers. The report of the Entente Powers will be prompt and decisive."

THE POSITION AT VERDUN.

PARIS, To-day.
 The fall of Fort Vaux with its gallant band of defenders, is regretted.

BLOCKADE OF GREEK PORTS.

LONDON, To-day.
 A despatch to the Post from Salonika, says: "The announcement of the commercial blockade of all Greek ports caused great excitement among the population here. Anger, however, was directed not against the Allies but against the present Athens Government. Some leading Venizelists assure me the Entente Powers have at last adopted the only effective method to force the country to declare itself one way or the other. They anticipate that the blockade will not last over a week."

In Memoriam

Death of Lord Kitchener (K. of Khar-toum).
 My muse has a theme, which she got from Apollo,
 It is not a wall, though her words are of death;
 Bold and defiant and far from being hollow,
 She sings of the brave with a patriot's breath.
 Each father and mother
 Each sister and brother
 Will keep his name green, with the many who knew him,
 No braver in battle
 When cannon did rattle,
 With a heart stout as metal, was K. of Khar-toum.
 He first saw the light on the green sod of Erin,
 His birthplace was Kerry, its mountains among
 He wandered and read of his countrymen's darin',
 And heard her sweet songs in the old Gaelic tongue.
 And as he grew older
 No heart was more boldier:
 The world's greatest soldier in man-hood's full bloom,
 His name we will cherish,
 His fame it won't perish—
 Your memory will flourish, brave K. of Khar-toum.

Empire Day Red Cross Fund.

We have been asked by the Secretary-Treasurer of this fund, Mr. F. H. Steer, to request all parties who have subscription lists in connection therewith, to be so kind as to endeavor to get them in, as soon as possible, and the same request is addressed to those in the outposts who have been taking up collections for this fund. Mr. Steer asks us to add that if another $1,700 could be secured, it would enable the fund to reach four thousand pounds sterling, and it is the desire of the committee to secure this amount if possible, and to have it in hand as early a date as may be convenient for those who have charge of the various lists.

Fashions and Fads!

Blouses are inclined to be much trimmed.
 Greater fullness is seen at the top of all sleeves.
 Plain and dotted net are used for wash blouses.
 Dancing frocks lean to the Dolly Varden style.
 Emeralds at present are a much favored jewel.
 Satin is being used for some of the long coats.
 Old gold with ash-gray is a lovely color scheme.
 Black mohair tailored suits are stitched in white.

Investiture at Buckingham Palace.

LIEUT.-COLONEL A. L. HADOW, C.M.G.

Lieut.-Colonel A. L. Hadow, Officer Commanding the 1st Battalion of the Newfoundland Regiment in the Field, was invested on May 20th at Buckingham Palace with the insignia as a Companion of the Most Distinguished Order of Saint Michael and Saint George.

CAPT. J. J. DONNELLY.

An event, unique in the history of Newfoundland, took place at Buckingham Palace on the morning of May 20th, when His Majesty pinned the Military Cross on the first Newfoundland-lander to receive this coveted distinction. Capt. Donnelly had previously been decorated with the ribbon by General de Lisle, Commanding the Immortal 29th Division. It rested with His Majesty to confirm the honor and to hand over the silver medal—the emblem of "conspicuous gallantry." His Majesty, when pinning on the Cross, warmly congratulated and thanked Capt. Donnelly, who, as it happened, was the only Colonial Officer present to receive such an honor.

Mission Yacht Lost.

The following message from St. Jacques was received by the Deputy Minister of Customs, Mr. LeMessurier:

"Rev. G. S. Templeton, Church of England minister at Belleoram, arrived here from St. Pierre by the schr. Warren Culp. He left Belleoram for St. Pierre in the mission yacht St. Augustine taking with him Mr. Chant, C. of E. teacher and Pilot Hanham. During a dense fog they missed St. Pierre and lost the St. Augustine at Cape Boue, Miquelon. The Rev. Mr. Templeton estimates his personal loss at over $120; Mr. Chant at $8 and Mr. Hanham at $20. The yacht was uninsured."

It is happenings such as this that now and again remind us of the great hardships endured by the Ministers of God in preaching the Gospel along our rugged coast.

Your Boys and Girls.

I believe this is the best idea for a baby's outdoor bed, the best I ever heard. My husband made a boxlike framework, 2½ feet long, 2 feet deep and 2 feet wide resembling an orange crate. This he covered with wire screening, lid and all, and I covered the bottom with a thick excelsior mattress. Then we suspended the box with chains—strong rope would serve—from the porch ceiling. In this I kept my two-month old baby most of the time. I can go about my work knowing that she is perfectly safe from bird, beast or reptile—a security not felt when leaving her in the baby buggy on the porch. I sometimes suspend the swinging crib in a tree, covering the top with a dark cloth to cut off the glare of the sun.

When the Appetite Strays.

During the summer months there is such a temptation not to eat.

The ap often entirely gone, and in most cases fastidious and it is then that one nibbles on a salad or a piece of French pastry.

But one cannot live for weeks on lettuce leaves or ice cream, so it is not always wise to honor the fickle appetite too much. The body requires nourishment in summer, as at other times, perhaps more so because the energy is sapped by excessive heat.

After a constant diet of salads and light refreshments of the same nature, one begins to wonder why one has such a weak and tired feeling.

Go back to the diet of meat and hardy vegetables? No, that is not necessary if one's willing to take a substitute. I wish more people realized the value of raw eggs. They are very simple to take, much less work than preparing a heavy meal, and just as nutritious as meat.

One must, of course, be sure that the eggs are strictly fresh. Break one in a glass, taking care not to let the white and yolk separate. Tip back the head and quickly swallow the egg whole.

Practice makes this very easy, so do not be discouraged if it seems difficult at first. Two eggs taken in this way before a meal give one nourishment, while the lettuce and tea that follow please the taste and are refreshing.

For those who find it difficult to acquire perfection in swallowing the eggs, another method may be suggested. Put a little vinegar or lemon juice in the bottom of the glass before the egg is broken into it.

This covers any unpleasant taste. Also the egg may be disguised in grape juice. Beat it thoroughly with an egg beater; then add sufficient juice to make the disguise complete. This makes an invaluable drink for invalids.

LIGHT, HEAT, COMFORT!

The proprietor of one of the best known multiple shopping systems is credited with saying, "Give me any old shop, in any old street, and I'll guarantee to make it in twelve months the most widely known and best frequented shop in the district." He was asked to explain. Holding up three fingers he said, "I believe in the trinity of LIGHT, WARMTH, COMFORT. I should dazzle the moths until the candle drew them. I should bring them into a warm, comfortable shop, filled with a soft, pleasing radiance, and the rest is—well, mere child's play."

Mixed metaphors, perhaps, but expressive. Now we can more than imagine the kind of shop this well-known individual would open, for we pass it in almost every town—always a landmark to the street. No one fails to notice it. There is an indefinable air of welcome and invitation as one stands for a moment on the pathway and lets one's gaze travel inside it. The subdued, restful lighting effect that so charms because of its very unobtrusiveness, the absence of dark corners, the intangible feeling that if one would step inside one would be sure of experiencing a delicious sense of warmth and comfort and cheerfulness—all these are part of its appeal. Truly a shop with an individuality.

We cordially invite all progressive business men to visit our showroom and see our latest Lighting and Heating Appliances, by the adoption of which the ideal outline in the above extract from a London paper may be easily secured. Our new RADIO X Lamp and GASTHEAM Radiators fill all light and heat requirements.
