bases its prospective success upon these facts:—
1. It owns the exclusive right to build asbestos-fabric tires instead of the usual cotton-fabric ones. ASBESTOS is a mineral and COTTON is a vegetable, and YOU know which will prove to be the better Tire.
2. All Tire companies are oversold, hence there is lots of room for another tire company that didn't even own an exclusive feature.
3. The automobile and tire age is only in its infancy.
4. Many more by-products can be created by the use of Asbestos than other tire concerns now manufacture.
5. Unlike previous tire companies, it begins business with ample capital, modern machinery, spacious factories and an established market.
*There are many more reasons why. Let us tell YOU about them.

CHAPTER IX

"Tell me!" she said, eagerly. "Was he wounded?"
 He nods.
 "Yes; it was just at the finish. We were charging the enemy's guns, and somehow I got unhorsed; " somehow" was by a slashing cut from a sabre. "Nigger ought to have bolted and got scot-free back to the lines, but the dear old fellow wouldn't leave me, and when I came to, I found him standing there trembling and panting, with a shot wound in his neck. Do you see the furrow?" and he lifts the mane.

Dulcie looks.
 "I—I can't see," she says, and very naturally he takes the hand that is so near his, and gently passes the white fingers over the little rough line on the smooth neck.

Dulcie bends her head, so that the horse hides her face—for some reason it has grown suddenly crimson.
 "I can feel it," she says, softly.
 He loosens her hand.

"Fortunately it was only a mere scratch; an inch nearer!— But it is always just an inch on the right side," and he smiles.

Dulcie looks up at him.
 "And you?" she says. "You were wounded?"

"Yes," he says, carelessly, as he puts the cloth on. "A mere nothing. A sabre cut."

"A mere nothing, and it knocked you off your horse and made you insensible," she says with a smile. "Where was it?" in a low voice.

"On the arm," he says. "I must have got it early in the day, and not noticed it. Loss of blood, you know."

She stares at him open-eyed, her lips apart with eager awe.
 "I have never heard anything like it," she says, meditatively. "Show me the scar."

He stares at her, then naturally, as if it were a matter of course to obey, and make little of it, he slips up his sleeve, unfastens his gold sleeve-links and shows a long red scar across his arm.

Dulcie leans on the horse's back and looks at it, and shudders.
 "How dreadful!" she says. "And that will never go away?"

You may want to change your automobile, or your piano, or even your home—but you will never want to change the COFFEE, when once you taste the delectable flavour of Chase & Sanborn's "SEAL BRAND" COFFEE.

companion; but Dulcie takes no notice of the hand, and hurries along at his side, a little apprehensive, notwithstanding her courage, of the reception they will meet at the hands of Lady Falconer.

"You needn't hurry," says Sir Hugh. "They will have begun and have eaten all the warm bacon and most of the eggs."

"I hope not," she retorts, "for I am fearfully hungry. It is the morning or—the pigs, I suppose."

They enter the hall, and Sir Hugh flings his soft cap on to a table, and they go into the breakfast room, if not hand in hand, at any rate very close together, and as far as Dulcie is concerned looking rather guilty.

It is rather a formidable sight; the tall, stately old lady at the head of the table, and Maud, more stately and prim than her mother, at the bottom. In the middle is seated Aunt Fermor looking very small and helpless, and with the usual look of anxiety in her face.

"My dear," she says, reproachfully, "how late you are!"

"Yes, aunt," says Dulcie, with novel weakness. Then she exchanges "good-morning" with the rest, and sinks into the seat beside Sir Hugh, who has shaken hands with Mrs. Fermor, chucked Edie under the chin, and nodded comprehensively to the rest.

"Where have you been, my dear?" asks Aunt Fermor, to give her an opportunity to apologize.

"I've been to see the pigs, aunt," is Dulcie's prompt response.

Lady Falconer stared.
 "The—the what, Miss Dorrimore?"

"The pigs," says Dulcie, "and the horses. It is such a lovely morning."

"But—but—surely you have not been outside!" ejaculates Lady Falconer, with stately astonishment, "and without your hat!" As if pigs and horses were kept in one of the inner rooms.

"Oh, yes," says Dulcie, cheerfully; "I am used to running about without my hat; it doesn't hurt me."

"You never suffer from neuralgia?" says Maud, who is a martyr to influenza and similar complaints, and would no more think of going out without her hat than without her shoes and stockings.

"Never," replies Dulcie, emphatically. "What is it like?"

At this question there is a profound silence, Maud contenting herself with a long-suffering smile and sigh; and Sir Hugh strikes in to restore harmony.

"It's a very fine morning, mother," he says; "what shall we do? The girls would like a ride, perhaps."

Edie looks up with a bright eagerness, but Lady Falconer turns to Dulcie.

"Can you ride, Miss Dorrimore?" Dulcie shakes her head woefully.

"I can't; I'm sorry to say I never rode anything except a donkey," at Hampstead," she is going to add, but pulls up in time, "and that only once."

"Never mind," says Sir Hugh, cheerfully, "it is not too late to learn. Perhaps you'll let me give you some lessons some day."

"Will you?" she says, turning her beautiful eyes on him. "Really?"

"Really," he says, with a smile. "It will be an awful bore," she says. "I shall probably break my neck."

At this there is a murmur, though in her heart of hearts Lady Falconer doubtless thinks that the calamity would not be very deplorable. "But I'll chance that," says Dulcie, blandly.

"I think," says Lady Falconer, "that we had better go for a drive. Mrs. Fermor would like to see the country; the scenery is very beautiful. It is rather a cool morning, and we had better have the chariot."

Sir Hugh's face looks rather blank, Edie's grows long, but Maud smiles complacently. Dulcie stares with a wild attempt to look pleased. To be shut up with three or four persons in a close carriage on a day like this! The prospect was appalling.

Sir Hugh coughs and chinks his tea-spoon against his cup.
 "Perhaps," he says, with an air of merely suggesting the idea, "some of the young ladies would like to have an open trap. If so," he says, "I'd drive the dog-cart—or the mail phaeton."

Edie's face broadens with a smile. "I shouldn't mind the air at all,"

she says, "but perhaps Dulcie—"
 Dulcie is about to remark that she would infinitely prefer it, when Lady Falconer cuts in, primly:

"I am sure it would be dangerous for Miss Dorrimore. You forget, Edie, that she has just come from a warm climate. The air is very keen and treacherous this morning."

Dulcie glances at the window, through which the bland sun is streaming, and is silent.

"Well," says Sir Hugh, rather impatiently, "at any rate, there won't be room for all of us in the chariot, unless we sit on the top of each other. I will take the dog-cart, and Edie can start with me, if Maud—looking, however, at Dulcie—or anyone else would like to change, why—they can."

Edie claps her hands under the table and feels for Dulcie's feet, Lady Falconer murmurs something about not troubling Hugh if he wishes to see to anything at home, but Hugh apparently does not hear, for he finishes his breakfast and rises, remarking that he'll go and see to the nags being put in.

In about two hours' time they are ready to start and make their appearance in the hall, Maud attired as if about to start on an arctic expedition, with a sealskin jacket, and a fur cape, with a huge muff, and sealskin gloves.

"Mamma says," she says, addressing Mrs. Fermor and Dulcie, the latter wearing her tight-fitting jacket, and looking particularly slim and graceful beside the fur-expanded Maud, "mamma says will you excuse her, dear Mrs. Fermor; she has rather a headache, and thinks she had better stay at home."

Which decision Dulcie, in silence, quite agrees with; a close carriage, shared with four other persons, is scarcely to be regarded in the light of a restorative.

"And mamma says if you or Miss Dorrimore would like any fur wraps—"

But Lady Falconer turns to nudge Dulcie in the bud.

"Oh, no, no," she says; "we shall be only too—I mean quite warm enough."

"Then," says Maud, with the air and tone of one about to start on a formidable journey, "perhaps we had better start."

As the horses have been tearing up the smooth gravel path for the last twenty minutes, Dulcie certainly thinks they had better start.

They go down the steps to find Sir Hugh and Edie perched up in a particularly high dog-cart; Sir Hugh, with a not very amiable look on his handsome face, occupied in attempting to keep the tandem horses from climbing up the front of the Castle, Edie beaming, and sparkling, and happy.

"What a time you have been, Maud," he says, rather impatiently; "I thought you had given it up. Where would you like to go, Mrs. Fermor?"

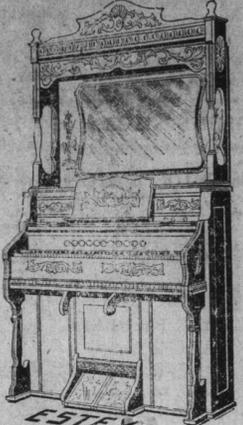

This rather-useless question, seeing that poor Aunt Fermor has only passed through the Holme country in a close carriage on the preceding night, she refers to Maud.

"Oh!" says that young lady, "if we should go to the Abbey—"

"All right," he says. "Pray get in and tell Jobson to hurry those snails along, or Edie and I shall be there an hour and a half before you. Here, hold on!" he says to the groom, and jumping down, he assists them into the old-fashioned Noah's ark, harnessed to a pair of fat, tub-like horses.

As he puts Dulcie in, he holds her hand a minute.

How They Control Food Prices in England

The Beginnings of Food Control—Lord Rhondda Means Business.

Lord Rhondda has proceeded rapidly and with decision against the over-manning of the local Food Committees by food traders. He has written to at least one local authority pointing out that "the presence of an excessive number of traders on any committee may in itself cause a lack of confidence among the consumers whose interests they are to protect, and he has asked that committees so constituted shall be reorganized. We take it that such a request is not one that can be disregarded and that the public will take care to see that it is carried out. In this imperfect world the disinterestedness of the small trader in his dealings with his customers has yet to be recognized; and it is all to the interests of the traders themselves that it should not be exposed to too great a strain.

Lord Rhondda has now taken under his control most of the principal markets in foodstuffs. Fixed and official prices now obtain for wheat and cereals, for meat, sugar, bacon and ham, lard, butter and cheese, dried beans and peas, chocolates and other sweets, jam, milk, and plums for jam. The price of tea and of Norwegian herring is regulated by arrangement with the trades. Fish, poultry and game, eggs, fruit and vegetables are still uncontrolled. Margarine and the food in cold storage are still outside, but are likely soon to be inside, the official net.

Besides this the Food Controller is setting up a single agency in the United States for the purchase of hams and lard, and the importation of these commodities into the United Kingdom except under a Board of Trade license is forbidden. This step will necessarily be followed by the issue of licenses for retail traders in all the controlled goods; and as the licenses will be held subject to the observance of the Food Ministry's regulations, and can be withdrawn if those regulations are ignored or departed from, an effective check ought thus to be provided on exorbitant charges. In the butchers' shops the official price-list is to be publicly displayed and aggrieved customers can appeal either to the Local Committee

The Beginnings of Food Control—"Lord Rhondda Means Business."

Lord Rhondda has proceeded rapidly and with decision against the over-manning of the local Food Committees by food traders. He has written to at least one local authority pointing out that "the presence of an unnecessary number of traders on any committee may in itself cause a lack of confidence among the consumers whose interests they are to protect," and he has asked that committees so constituted shall be reorganized. We take it that such a request is not one that can be disregarded and that the public will take care to see that it is carried out. In this imperfect world the disinterestedness of the small trader in his dealings with his customers has yet to be recognized; and it is all to the interests of the traders themselves that it should not be extended to too great a strain.

Lord Rhondda has now taken under his control most of the principal markets in foodstuffs. Fixed and official prices now obtain for wheat and cereals, for meat, sugar, bacon and ham, lard, butter and cheese, dried beans and peas, chocolates and other sweets, jam, milk, and plums for jam. The price of tea and of Norwegian herring is regulated by arrangement with the trader. Fish, poultry and game, eggs, fruit and vegetables are still uncontrolled. Margarine and the food in cold storage are still outside, but are likely soon to be inside, the official net.

Besides this the Food Controller is setting up a single agency in the United States for the purchase of hams and lard, and the importation of these commodities into the United Kingdom except under a Board of Trade license is forbidden. This step will necessarily be followed by the issue of licenses for retail traders in all the controlled goods; and as the licenses will be held subject to the observance of the Food Ministry's regulations, and can be withdrawn if these regulations are ignored or departed from, an effective check ought thus to be provided on exorbitant charges. In the butchers' shops the official price-list is to be publicly displayed and aggrieved customers can appeal either to the Local Committee or direct to the Food Controller's office, and with the certainty in either case that their complaints will be investigated by the District Commissioners, and that proceedings, if necessary, will be taken against the offending trader.

We regard, and believe the public will regard, these measures as a proof that, in the words of Mr. Clynes, "Lord Rhondda means business." The public—that is to say, the purchaser—must support him. The work of watching over the operations of the Local Committees and of keeping an eye on the traders, who may or may not be members of the committees, can well be carried out by the individual consumer. Lord Rhondda has furnished him with the machinery for his protection, and it will be his own fault if he does not use it.—Daily Mail.

Everyday Etiquette.

"Should I write to a young man I met while on a vacation this summer and whom I like very much?" asked Myrtle.

"A girl does not write to a young man whom she has met on a summer vacation unless the agreement has been made between them before separating. The man will ask the privilege of writing to her first," advised her mother.

The floor mop should be boiled in lye and thoroughly rinsed and dried once a week.

The Nfld. War Contingent Association

58 Victoria St., Westminster, 6th September, 1917.

Sir— Having in view the unnecessary labor, delay and expense incurred towards the end of last year by lack of knowledge of the proper method of forwarding parcels from Newfoundland to the men who are serving with the forces in France, in the Navy, and who are Prisoners of War in Germany, I have the honour to suggest that the widest possible publication should be given to the substance of the accompanying memorandum on the subject and that copies should be given to the Patriotic and other charitable Associations that undertake the despatch of parcels for the friends and relatives of the men in question.

The method adopted in 1916 of enclosing hundreds of parcels in bulk, packed in barrels, cases, or in smaller packets by post, addressed to the care of this Association, entails in the first place considerable delay:—(a) in awaiting discharge from a ship with other cargo; (b) in the docks; (c) in transport to London, and in delivery by the Railways at the warehouse, owing to the congested state of goods traffic all over the United Kingdom. A further delay is incurred in obtaining the services of a Customs Officer for examination in unpacking, checking, or making lists where none are sent, of the contents; the transfer of the lists to the Pay and Record Office for the locating of the addressee; and in sorting the parcels for the several destinations and completing the addresses. Finally the parcels for the men in France are baled and forwarded, while the other parcels are posted singly and after much unnecessary delay, labour and expense, reach the recipient of the present, two or three weeks later than those sent singly by parcel post from Newfoundland which arrived by the same steamer at Liverpool.

It is almost unnecessary to add that while the Association is only too pleased to do any and every thing to preserve the home touch and the links between the men who are fighting, and their relatives and friends in the Colony, the irregularity in the delivery of parcels from Home, to avoidable delays described above, naturally give rise to discontent and complaints from some, of non-arrival of parcels which have been advised in their letters, while parcels for other men arrive with the letters that were posted with them; and it is with the hope of avoiding the errors of the past Christmas that the attached Memorandum has been prepared.

I have the honour to be,

Sir,
Your obedient servant,
(Sgd.) HENRY REEVE,
Hon. Secretary.

To Hon. The Colonial Secretary, St. John's, Newfoundland.

MEMORANDUM.

ON THE FACILITIES FOR SENDING PARCELS TO

I. Prisoners of War in Germany.
II. The Men of the 1st Newfoundland Regiment.

III. The Royal Naval Reserve Men.

I. PRISONERS OF WAR.

There are no means of sending private parcels to Prisoners of War in Germany at the present time. The Regulations now in force forbid any further supplies reaching Germany other than those forwarded through the official channels now under the strictest supervision. Parcels that have been sent to the care of the Association since these Regulations came into force have been returned by the packing Committees and the Central Prisoners of War Committee and are lying in the office awaiting authority from the senders to deal with them by distribution to the men in hospitals or in convalescence.

II. THE NEWFOUNDLAND REGIMENT AND THE 1ST. BATT. IN FRANCE.

All parcels for men on the Regimental Roll should be sewn in linen or canvas and partly addressed by giving the full name and number of the men in question printed thereon in ink with the following addition:

Nfld. War Contingent or N. W. C., c/o Pay & Record Office, 58 Victoria St., London, S.W. 1.

The parcels should be stamped and posted in Newfoundland in the ordinary way so that they may form part of His Majesty's Mails. They are then dealt with immediately on arrival in Liverpool and are despatched to the General Post Office, London, after having been examined and passed by the Customs Officers attached to the G. P. O. They then reach the Pay and Record Office and receive the final address and return to the Post Office for delivery in France or the United Kingdom without additional stamps.

It will be recognized that following this direction a parcel will reach the addressee almost as quickly as a letter as the tremendous output of the G. P. O. demands the greatest celerity in dealing with all postal matters to guard against congestion.

III. THE ROYAL NAVAL RESERVE.

Parcels for the men serving with His Majesty's Navy should be sewn up in linen or canvas and partly addressed by giving the full name of the man in question and his number on the Roll of the Newfoundland Royal Naval Reserve, with the following addition:—

Nfld. War Contingent Association, or N. W. C. A., 58 Victoria Street, London, S. W. 1.

In this case also the parcels should be stamped and posted in the ordinary way in Newfoundland, to ensure rapid delivery at the office where they are completed by adding the latest known ship or depot of the addressee and returned to the G. P. O. for delivery. Should the man have exchanged his ship or depot, the parcel follows him until delivered. There is a strict secrecy as to the station of any ship but the Admiralty furnish the Association with the addresses of our men when their ship is in port, and there is also a standing order under which the Commander of any ship carrying our men applies to the Association for any parcels awaiting the Newfoundland men under his command as soon as the ship is in touch with the Postal Service.

Too Nervous to Sleep.

Nerves Wrecked by Accident—Was Afraid to Go in a Crowd or to Stay Alone—Tells of His Cure.

London, September 28th.—Much sympathy was felt in this city for Mr. Dorsey, who met with a distressing accident when his foot was smashed in an elevator.

The shock to the nervous system was so great that Mr. Dorsey was in a pitiable condition for a long time. He was like a child in that he required his mother's care nearly all the time. He feared a crowd, could not stay alone and could not sleep because of the weakened and excited condition of his nerves.

Detroit doctors did what they could for him, but he could not get back his strength and vigor until he fortunately heard of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

It is no mere accident that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food proves to be exactly what is needed in so many cases of exhausted nerves. It is composed of the ingredients which nature requires to form new blood and create new nerve force. For this reason it cannot fail and for this reason it succeeds when ordinary medicines fail.

Mr. Laurence E. Dorsey, 33 Stanley street, London, Ont., writes: "About three years ago I got my foot smashed in an elevator in Detroit, which completely wrecked my nerves. I doctored with the doctors there, but they did not seem to be able to help me. My nerves were in such a state that I could not go down town alone, or go any place where there was a crowd. Sometimes my mother would have to sit and watch over me at night, and sometimes I could not get any sleep at all. But one day last winter I commenced using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and before I had completely used the first box I could see a difference in my condition. I continued using these pills for some time. The result was splendid. I feel so much better, can sleep well at night, can go out on the street and attend gatherings like the rest of people. I am so pleased to be able to tell you what Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has done for me, and to recommend it to other people."

At the Crescent.

Another first class Variety Picture Programme is on at the Crescent Picture Palace to-day headed by a great Essanay Black Cat feature entitled "What Would You Do," featuring Ernest C. Travers and Ernest Maupain. "It's All Wrong" is a fine feature comedy drama with Harry Myers and Rosemary Theby. The daring Helen Gibson is featured in "At the Risk of Her Life," an episode of the "Hazards of Helen" railroad series, and the funny picture is entitled "The Waiting Game." A first class musical programme played by Professor McCarthy accompanies this big show. Don't miss it.

'HEAD' DAVE OFF AGAIN.

Head Constable Dave, who was in a Northern Bay on special duty and returned home to attend the funeral obsequies of his wife, left town again yesterday to resume his duty.

Your Boys and Girls.

A table for the baby, just learning to walk, will be found useful. Just as soon as a child finds its feet and legs will support it, those feet and legs are put to use constantly. There is nothing a baby loves more than to make the circumference of a table, supporting the wobbly little legs by the aid of its hands, provided the table is low enough.

Children are often backward in learning to walk, through lack of confidence, though they will stand if you give them something to support themselves with, such as a chair. The low table will be found to be of great advantage, as it does not move so readily from under the child, and the child does not have to stoop to reach it.

A toy placed on a table just the right height will so interest the child that it will unconsciously support it.

self and take the first steps and it is better than a patented walking machine. Care should be used not to let the baby stand too long.

The Autumn Offensive.

The renewal of the British attack in Flanders last week and its continuation almost without pause during the past few days have come as a relief from misgiving to some, as the fulfilment of expectation to others. There had been quiet, engendered by simultaneous quiet on all fronts, that the campaign for the year had passed its zenith and would be permitted to peter out without any further great results. It has been a mistake; if no great results are achieved, there is little doubt that they will be attempted vigorously before winter interposes its ban. Haig is now engaged in bringing into his possession the last important high ground facing the British along the entire extent of their front. When he has taken the last ridge he will have a jumping-off ground from which it is likely the most stupendous attack of the war will be launched. It is more than possible that it will be launched this autumn.

The Toronto Star well summarises the salient reasons that favour such an effort on every front before winter. They are as follows: (1) The enemy's resisting power is strained to the utmost, and should be hammered hard before winter gives him time to recuperate. A year ago the weather just saved the Germans on the Somme from a debacle; it came, but softened by intense preparation, in March. The Allies through their victories on the Messines, Vimy, Aisne and Moronvillers heights are this year in a far more favourable position. (2) A great effort might drive the Germans, at a psychological moment, from their submarine bases in Belgium, compelling them to remove them far back to the German coast. (3) A smashing blow on the West front would weaken the aid that Germany could give to Austria on the Isonzo, where the Italians are almost within reach of the greatest victory of the war. (4) Attacks on these fronts would distract Germany from Russia, and prevent her from pressing home her present advantage there. (5) Events during the war may leave Russia impotent next year and permit Germany to transfer all her troops westward. This by no means fanciful danger points the value of improving the western position to the utmost now. (6) Generally, Germany will work feverishly this winter upon the Russian situation and war weariness among the other Allies to manoeuvre the acceptance of her peace proposals. The surest antidote is military victory of a sort which will bring the final triumph far more clearly into view.

Can that victory be achieved this year? What remains of the fighting year will rapidly tell. Meanwhile the desperate nature of the resistance the enemy is offering is an infallible index of the importance he attaches to the retention of the positions wrested one by one from his grasp. The keynote of final victory is in three words "wastage of reserves," the words in which General Maurice sums up the effect of the present offensive upon Germany. It must be remembered that the war will end in one way, for one reason, alone—the depletion of enemy man-power. The day that Germany's effective reserves fall to repair the inroads upon her armies, that day the war will be as good as won. It may be near or far—no-one knows—but it will be found in the end that the victories of Vimy, Messines, Ypres, Chemin-des-Dames and Verdun have been of far less value in the ground they redeemed than in their effect in hastening that day. Haig brings it yet nearer with every powerful blow that he delivers.

Holyrood Welcomes Home Lieut. T. R. Dwyer, M.D.C.M.

Lieut. Dwyer arrived on leave at Holyrood by Monday's express. He was met at the station by the Officers of the Star of the Sea Association in regalia and a deputation of the Holyrood Knights of Columbus and presented with an address of welcome. President Walsh read the address to which Lieut. Dwyer briefly and aptly replied. Bunting was generally displayed and was floating gaily to the breeze. The cannon belched forth its thunderous welcome and volleys of guns greeted the returning soldier. Three hearty cheers were called for by President Walsh and lustily given. He was then escorted to the home of his father, Mr. R. Dwyer, J.P., by the deputation, the firing serenading him in the meantime.

Before enlisting, Lieut. Dwyer spent a year in one of the leading Canadian Hospitals as Home Surgeon, and since enlisting in the C.A.M.C. he has been doing transport duty for the Canadian Admiralty Service. After a brief holiday he leaves for Bramahot, England, to do overseas service.

Holyrood, Sept. 26th, 1917.

Don't Scold, Mother! The Cross Child Is Bilious, Feverish.

Look at tongue! If coated, clean little stomach, liver, bowels.

Don't scold your fretful, peevish child. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with sour waste.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, indigestion, diarrhoea, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the food passes out of the bowels and you have a well and playful child again. Children love this harmless "fruit-laxative," and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to make their little "insides" clean and sweet.

Keep it handy, Mother! A little given to-day saves a sick child to-morrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Remember there are counterfeiters sold here, so surely look and see that yours is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.

Kellogg invades Newfoundland Market.

Mr. W. S. Ware, Canadian manager of the Kellogg Toasted Corn Flake Co. spent last week in St. John's in the interest of his company, introducing Dominion Toasted Corn Flakes, Wheat Flakes, Wheat Biscuits, Krumbies, Drinket, Rice Flakes and Bran, all of which are products of the original Kellogg Toasted Corn Flake Co. of Battle Creek, Mich., U.S.A., and Toronto, Canada.

On account of the persistent demand for the "Original" Kellogg's cereals, Mr. W. K. Kellogg, president of the company, found it necessary during 1916 to erect a branch factory in Toronto, Canada, from which to supply these delicious and health-giving cereals to the Canadian and foreign markets, and as soon as the St. John's dealers receive their shipments of goods the public will then be able to secure the above original W. K. Kellogg products, which heretofore they have been unable to do. Every original W. K. Kellogg product is packed WAXTITE, which keeps the good favour in and all other flavours out, so the public should demand W. K. Kellogg cereals packed WAXTITE if they wish to secure the original products.

Hearty Welcome Accorded our Returned Heroes.

A whole-souled and enthusiastic welcome was given our battle-scarred soldiers, who reached the city to-day at noon in charge of Majors Carty and Paterson. Virtually all the heroes are suffering from severe wounds and are unfit for further active service.

Names of Heroes.

Lieut. Bemister, Lieut. Lewis (C.E.F.), Corporal O'Reilly, Lance Corporals Manuel and Ryan, Privates Fitzgerald, Brazil, West, Coombes, Sparkes, Sheppard, Kenny, Benson, Morrissey, Whelan, Redstone, Tracey, Moss, Rees, Dunn, Ryan, Humphries, Grieve, Shears and Bradbury, and 6 wives of the soldiers and two children.

The returned soldiers on arrival were met by the Ladies' Reception Committee and Hon. Dr. Lloyd, Acting Premier, who, on behalf of the people of Newfoundland and the Government, extended a cordial welcome home to the men who had done their duty well both in Gallipoli and France for their King and Country. In a stirring address Dr. Lloyd made a stirring recruiting appeal to the men, exhorting them on their return home in the different districts in the Island to instil patriotism into their friends and get them to enlist and take their places at the front. At the close of his speech Dr. Lloyd called for three cheers for the returned heroes and the response was vociferous from a dense crowd of people. Following hearty cheers for the Acting Premier, the returned soldiers were treated with cigarettes by Mrs. Winter of the Reception Committee, after which they were driven in carriages to Government House where they were again cordially received and welcomed by His Excellency the Governor.

The following first class passengers got off here with returned soldiers:—From New York:—J. H. Dwyer, J. R. Fox, Mrs. N. Fox, Mrs. W. Kennedy, Misses Kennedy (3), Miss W. Harvey, Miss W. Templeman, Mrs. P. Templeman, Mrs. S. Facey, P. Phelan, E. Warren, H. Wheeler, F. Crane, Rev. Bro. Kelly and 15 second class. From Halifax:—C. Silver, C. Patheringham, C. P. Fleming, R. Smith, H. Cockburn, G. Angelson, R. B. Mrs. and Master Brown, J. J. Norris, H. Prowse, M. Channing, J. R. Saunders, Mrs. J. Rossley, F. Rice and child, N. P. White, Mrs. Olsen, Mrs. M. Mitchell, Miss Hanlon, E. Howe and 33 second class.

Discourtesy or Bad Management.

We would again draw the attention of those responsible for the discourtesy meted out in a certain quarter to newspaper men generally, such as was in evidence to-day at the arrival of our returned soldiers. Some people seem to think that when a reporter tries to get as near as possible to any live event of public interest that is going on he is looking for something for himself. On the contrary, his sole object is to get "copy" to give to the public. At to-day's ceremony newspaper representatives were given the last consideration and kept furthest away from the premises. In support of our argument we might point out that we actually saw certain reverend gentlemen not being accorded the privilege and courtesy they were entitled to, in other words, getting "turned down," whilst at the same time we also had ocular demonstration of some fops and non-descripts being given a "front seat." We trust that the complaint will be remedied.

Gentlemen:—

The Royal Stores, Ltd., have a splendid line of Cigars and Tobaccos. They are selling Queed, a very fine quality of Plug Cut Tobacco, manufactured by Mr. Patterson of Virginia, who eliminated the bite and made pipe smoking a luxury. Try a package of Queed, it will please you.

Soldiers Get Government Positions.

During the past month three invalided and discharged soldiers have been given positions in the Postal service: Private Brett as clerk in the Postmaster General's office, Private James Curnew as letter carrier, and Private Frank Levinge as night watchman. The P. M. G. is, we understand, endeavouring as far as possible to fill all vacancies in the Postal service with returned soldiers. This is a practice that for long has been carried out in England, especially in the letter carrier department.

Busy Session of the City Council.

A breezy session of the City Council was held last night. Reference was made by Councillor Yinnicombe to the convictions and fines which were handed out during the week at the Magistrate's Court against people who had failed to have water and sewerage installed in their houses. The Councillor mentioned that some of the parties brought before court had been done injustices. He went as far as to say that they had been outraged, the work of officious servants whom he scathingly criticized. He cited instances of people having been dealt unfairly with and moved that the fines they paid be refunded.

On motion of the Mayor, a Committee was appointed to hold an investigation. Councillor Brownrigg was strongly in favour of seeing the law properly enforced, but thought that haste should be made slowly, as he knew of injustices having been done and stated definite cases.

The Mayor advocated a firm stand if the city was to be improved, though he was not in favor of dealing harshly with any one. The Council were prepared to help certain persons, who were not well-to-do, under the Small Homes' Act, but he told of cases where people had become dilatory and refused to make connections, after petitioning and putting the Council to expense and trouble.

The Colonial Secretary stated he would lay Council's letter before the Government re reservation of ungranted lands on Signal Hill.

The Secretary of Public Works complained of the small opposite the Inspector General's residence, Council disclaims responsibility.

Hon. M. G. Winter did not want his building, now a military hospital, exempt from taxation and forwarded full amount of tax.

Solicitor Carter stated that after deep research he found that only one grant of land had been given near George's Pond, that being to a man named French. The Solicitor pointed out that, if desired, the land could be taken again by the City after six months notice. The Council will take steps, as advised by the Solicitor.

Councillor Yinnicombe said that he knew that land could be got for the mere asking at the Crown Lands Office and that people were told to stake off land without applying for grants.

The Solicitor also wrote regarding the prosecutions before court. He said there was a discrepancy in the Act, no alternative term of imprisonment being allowed for in lieu of a fine. He enclosed $40 the amount of fines paid into court.

Councillor Yinnicombe asked if fines had been previously sent the Council and the Secretary said very rarely.

Councillor Tait asked if the Council had the power to take over any land where undesirable houses were located by paying market value for it and then build on it themselves or let it to others to build on, the same law as was in being in England.

The Mayor said that the Council had not the power.

Councillor Ayre remarked that with the present demand the housing problem would not be properly solved until some concern built 50 or more houses fit for human habitation. Legislation as it was being enacted was of no direct benefit, he thought.

After a considerable amount of routine business was done, the meeting adjourned.

Died of Wounds.

Word has been received by Mr. Charles Roudie of the City, informing him of the death of his brother Thomas, who was with the 49th Battalion of the Australian Imperial Force. He died of wounds at the 68th Scottish General Hospital, St. Omer, France, as a result of a motor accident. He was a son of the late Capt. and Elizabeth Roudie. To his bereaved brothers and other relatives and friends much sympathy will be extended.

Seaman Stricken With Paralysis.

A member of the crew of the schr. Arcona, now at the Gorton Pew Co's premises, was taken seriously ill yesterday. Dr. Campbell was immediately summoned and quickly responding pronounced the man to be suffering from paralysis, all one side of his body being afflicted. The ambulance being called out, he was conveyed to the General Hospital and it is not likely he will be able to rejoin his ship.

RESUMES COMMAND—Capt. Joyce has again resumed command of the Neptune, replacing Capt. Faulke, who is waiting for the Thetis to finish up the Labrador service.

The Peremptory Auto Owner.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

A neighbour of mine was invited to spend a week end with some cousins who live about forty miles away.

Some mutual cousins who own a automobile were also invited.

They communicated with my neighbour who had planned to go by train, and I graciously asked her to go in their machine. The day beforehand they called up again and told her to be at a certain point at half past nine.

For my neighbor to go to that point by electric takes half an hour and requires a change of cars. For the people with the machine to call at her home would have taken them perhaps ten minutes out of their way.

And They Waited An Hour and Ten Minutes.

The next day dawned with a howling rainstorm, the kind that laughs derisively at umbrellas. My neighbor and her husband had to carry besides their umbrellas and valise, the inevitable extra wraps which one does not need on a trolley but does need for a long machine ride. To be early of being on time they took an early car and arrived ten minutes early. And they waited an hour and fifteen minutes, wet an uncomfortable. When the autists finally arrived they explained with no great concern that they had had a flat tire.

Now, to be sure, they could not have helped that, but on the other hand if their guests had been ten minutes late on account of a delayed electric I think there would have been some fireworks.

And as to the matter of not calling for them, that seems to me the tackiest kind of performance. And yet a great many automobile invitations are given in just that graceless fashion. Of course there are many times when it would be just as easy for the guest to meet the auto as for the autist to call for him. That is another thing. But where it means a ten minute hindrance for the autist and a half hour's for the guest, I should think courtesy would dictate the lesser inconvenience.

The Guest Must Wait With His Coat On.

Again, many motorists expect the guest for whom they call to be ready with his motoring rig all on, the second they appear before the door, and seem to regard a minute's delay while he gets on his outer coat as an outrage. Of course the guest who keeps a machine full of people waiting five minutes while he makes a leisurely get-away is a nuisance, but there is some fair mean between these two extremes.

The Automobilist Thinks Beggars Shouldn't Be Choosers.

The automobilist's feeling is "I am giving all this pleasure to this person, he ought to be willing to wait on my convenience." Perhaps he had. But that doesn't seem to me exactly a gracious way to give.

And now, lest you think I am prejudiced against the automobile owner, let me tell you one type of automobile guest for whom I have no use. And that is the person who thinks because a friend supplies the auto he should supply all other incidentals for the trip such as dinner, etc. I should think such social parasites would find their invitations few and far between.

THE STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE.

The strawberry shortcake is an appetizing compound which is prepared with infinite labor by woman and eaten in appreciative gulps by man. It requires the average housewife about two hours to prepare one of these shortcakes so that it will look like something to eat, and yet her husband and one stout, unbridled son can remove it from the scenes of this earth while the town clock is striking twelve. There is not much justice in this arrangement, and the fact that woman puts up with it year after year shows that many a man has married an angel in curl papers and a torn apron.

strawberries are put on top, where they can be reached without having to unlace the lower layers with a hopeful look.

One of the most tempting recollections that lingers in memory's halls is that of the old-fashioned thick-chested shortcake which mother used to make when strawberries were four cents a quart. Many a married man whose life has been happy in other respects looks back upon that shortcake and heaves a long, surging sigh of regret over the demise of the art of cooking. This particular shortcake was always made with real butter and stood seventeen inches off the floor. When a free-hearted school boy had placed underneath his calico short a quarter section of such a shortcake as this, he was obliged to breathe in short, fitful gasps until bedtime. There have been many imitations of this work of art offered to the public, but nobody has ever made a successful carbon copy of it.

The restaurant shortcake is a lean, short-waisted disappointment which is covered with whipped cream and padded with blighted pepper. Nevertheless, it is eaten with a prayer for forgiveness by many a man whose wife knows how to manufacture the real article.

This is to certify that I have used MINARD'S LINIMENT in my family for years, and consider it the best liniment on the market. I have found it excellent for horse flesh.

GRIEF CULTURE.

WALTON MASON

Neglected a sorrow and a thrives; they must be nursed if they'd survive. I sometimes sit around and mope, like one who's said farewell to hope; I grouch around and scowl and sulk, and dish up sighs and groans in bulk. If people note this woe of mine, and try to stop the flow of brine, I sigh more deeply than before, more furiously walk the floor. There is no fun in being blue, if no one stops to pity you. If, when I grieve and tear my hair, the folks around me do not care, but say, "We wouldn't give a cent for any sulky skate's lament," I wipe the tears from my face, and leave the well-known walling place. I plant my sorrow right away, and smiling greet the sunny day. No permit ever has the peevish; no hermit ever sulks and grieves. There must be company for gloom; a lonesome sorrow will not bloom. The man who sulks and broods at home, like Manfred in a Byron poem, would quit it if his kids and wives would just pursue their workday lives, and give no heed to his despair, and act as if he were not there.

The old-fashioned shortcake which mother used to make when strawberries were four cents a quart. There are twelve or fifteen distinct varieties of strawberry shortcake, most of which can be recognized from the outside. It is customary to provide each shortcake with enough strawberries so that people will not take it for biscuit batter and turn away with some polite remark about having had a great plenty. The first shortcake of the season is always short of everything except dough, although a careful search will sometimes reveal the sty head of a frost-bitten strawberry peeping coyly out of its secluded retreat. As the season advances and the market drops a few

Enjoyable Dance.

A very successful dance was held last night in the new hall of the C. C. C. in aid of the W. P. A. Red Cross Fund, the attendance being exceptionally large. The C. C. C. Band, famous for its dance music, rendered a number of new selections, which took well with the dancers. During the evening teas were served and an enjoyable time spent. The young ladies who promoted the affair are to be congratulated on the success achieved.

Wedding Bells.

EVANS—MURPHY.

A quiet but pretty wedding took place at St. Patrick's Oratory, Riverhead, Wednesday morning, when Mr. John J. Evans, eldest son of Mr. John J. Evans, Proprietor "Nfld. Quarterly," led to the altar Miss Elizabeth Murphy, daughter of Patrick Murphy, Esq., West End Road Inspector, Rev. Fr. Pippy officiating. The bride was attired in a handsome travelling costume, was attended by her niece, Miss Nellie Murphy, and Miss Mary Evans, sister of the groom, while the latter was supported by Mr. John Walsh. The bride and bridegroom were the recipients of many handsome presents. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was partaken of at the residence of the bride's father and the happy couple drove to Waterford Bridge where they entrained for Holyrood where the honeymoon will be spent. The Telegram wishes Mr. and Mrs. Evans many years of wedded happiness.

Vegetable Sale.

The vegetable sale at St. Joseph's Parish schoolroom was largely attended yesterday afternoon and night. The stalls, which were laden down with a splendid display of kitchen garden produce, were quickly relieved of their burden, as buying was brisk. At night a very successful concert was held, the programme consisting of songs by Mrs. (Capt.) Martin, Miss Rose Brophy, Miss Ida Howlett, Miss Brown; Messrs. P. F. Moore, H. Brophy, F. Bradshaw and Sullivan; whistling solo by Mrs. Strangier; piano solo by Miss L. Brown; drill and chorus by the children of St. Joseph's; instrumental selection by Misses Power and Taylor, and Hawaiian numbers by Messrs. F. Devereaux, Penman, Vavasour and F. Armstrong. Messrs. Howlett and Brown acted as the accompanists.

Mr. J. Clooney, Vice-President of St. Joseph's Institute, presided. Rev. B. Kitchin in a brief address thanked all who assisted in making the affair a success, particularly the ladies who conducted the sale.

The members of the W. P. A. are reminded that the annual meeting on Saturday, the 29th, will be the last public occasion in connection with the Association at which Lady Davidson will be present. A farewell address will be presented to her, and it is hoped that a very large number of members will make a point of attending the meeting. A. N. GOSLING, Hon. Sec. sep27,17

HOSTILE ATTACKS REPULSED.
 LONDON, To-day.
 The text from the British headquarters reports that after all our objects were gained yesterday several powerful hostile counter attacks made in the afternoon and evening were all repulsed with heavy losses to the enemy. The total prisoners captured in yesterday's offensive are 1,614, including 480 officers. Our casualties were light. On the battle front to-day we improved our positions slightly south of Polygon Wood. There was considerable artillery activity on both sides to-day.

RUSSIAN REPORT.
 PETROGRAD, To-day.
 An official report from general headquarters says: On the north-west, southwestern and Roumanian fronts there have been fusillades and reconnaissances. On the Caucasian front in the region of Satahko our reconnoitering parties had an engagement and drove the Kurds to Orumuru, two miles N.W. of Rua, and captured prisoners and herds of cattle. On the Baltic on Tuesday the enemy air raided the region of the Gulf of Riga. He did so with the object of ascertaining the exact position of our naval forces. Enemy airplanes kept themselves beyond the reach of our naval guns and coast batteries. On Monday on the southwest front our airmen brought down one enemy machine. Pilot Ensign Smirnov was his sixth air battle.

THE GERMAN METHOD.
 LONDON, To-day.
 A British official, with reference to statements contained in the German official text, says: To-day's German communication says that the British gained less territory on the 26th than on the 20th. This is perfectly true. The attacking troops gained all their objectives on both days, but the object set for yesterday was smaller than those of the 20th. In sentences which are purposely misleading Von Ludendorff describes the fighting near Zonnebeke and Ghelvelt. He omits to state that Zonnebeke was lost by the Germans, but emphasizes the retention of Ghelvelt, which was not one of the British objectives.

RUSSIAN DEMOCRATIC CONGRESS.
 PETROGRAD, To-day.
 The Democratic Congress held its first session last evening. 1,200 delegates from all parts of Russia being in attendance. All the members of the Provisional Government, headed by Premier Kerensky, were present. Several members of the diplomatic corps occupied a special box. Tchelds, President of the Council of Soldiers' and Workmen's Delegates, in opening the Conference explained that the extremely grave situation of the country necessitated the constitution of a strong revolutionary power responsible to all elements. Avksentief, President of the Council of Peasants' Delegates, said that the moment had arrived for democracy to gather all its political wisdom to save the conquests of the revolution, which were threatened with an irreparable catastrophe if not safeguarded now.

NEW GERMAN OFFICE.
 AMSTERDAM, To-day.
 The Main Committee of the Reichstag, a despatch from Berlin says, yesterday passed the first reading of the Bill creating the post of Imperial Vice-Chancellor.

THE DEBATING SOCIETY.
 AMSTERDAM, To-day.
 The Constitution Committee of the Reichstag, according to a despatch from Berlin, by a vote of 15 to 12 yesterday adopted a proposal to cancel the concluding sentence of article 9 of the Imperial Constitution, which debar members of the federal council from simultaneous membership in the Reichstag. The committee adjourned, after passing an order of the day which declared that the Reichstag will co-operate in the event of the conclusion of peace.

BOMBING RAID.
 LONDON, To-day.
 An official communication issued by the Admiralty says: A naval aircraft squadron carried out a bombing raid yesterday on the St. Denis western airdrome. Bombs were dropped on the sheds and on fifteen Gotha machines lined up in the airdrome, direct hits being observed on the latter. All our machines returned safely.

GETTING AFTER LENINE.
 PETROGRAD, To-day.
 The Minister of the Interior has ordered the arrest of Nickolai Lenine, the extremist leader, if he is found in Petrograd, but he is not to be taken into custody in the hall of the Democratic Congress. The Reich to-day reports the re-organization of the revolutionary militia known as the "Red Guard." The re-organizers are negotiating with a factory for 12,000 rifles and several machine guns and ammunition in proportion.

NEW ENGLISH BONDS.
 LONDON, To-day.
 The issue of a new class of war bonds is announced by the Bank of England. On and after October 2nd and until further notice, the Bank is authorized by the Treasury to receive applications for five per cent. bonds as follows: Bonds repayable in 1922 at 102, bonds repayable in 1924 at 103, bonds repayable in 1927 at 105, and the issue of four per cent. bonds repayable in 1927 at par. These bonds will be styled National War Bonds and will be issued at par. The five per cent. will be subject to the income tax; the four per cent. will be free of income tax.

ARE THEY WORTH IT?
 LONDON, To-day.
 David Lloyd George is commencing proceedings for libel against certain newspapers which announced that on the occasion of last Monday night's air raid the Premier left London for his house at Walton Heath. The fact is, the Premier started for France that night.

GERMAN MUNITION WORKS BURNED.
 LONDON, To-day.
 A big German munition works at Immishafen, near Constance, Baden, was destroyed on Wednesday night by fire.

NOT SURPRISING.
 PETROGRAD, To-day.
 The arrest of seventeen agents of an important German military espionage organization is announced. The agents are all of the Swedish nationality.

DARING AERIAL FIGHTING.
 LONDON, To-day.
 Referring to aerial battles on the British front, an official statement issued last night says: The weather was misty Wednesday morning and later the day was overcast with a strong west wind. In spite of this our airplanes were extremely active in co-operation with the artillery and infantry. In the battle area the enemy's troops on the entire line and his reserves in the rear were harassed with machine gun fire throughout, rounds were fired from altitudes of one hundred feet and upwards and many parties of German infantry were dispersed with casualties. On one occasion three of the enemy guns were fired on while moving. The teams of two of the guns bolted and the third gun was overturned. Strong opposition was encountered from the enemy's fighting machines and a very large number of combats occurred at low altitudes. Heavy casualties on both sides resulted owing to the difficulty of regaining control of damaged machines when flying near the ground. The weather prevented any extensive bombing operations during the day time, but at night over two tons of bombs were dropped on enemy reserves near the battlefield. Seven hostile machines were brought down in the air fighting, three were driven down out of control and five others were brought down by infantry fire. Thirteen of our machines are missing.

Glencoe's Passengers.
 The following first class passengers reached Placentia by the S. S. Glencoe last evening:—
 J. A. Carmichael, J. J. Tibbo, Mrs. Tibbo, M. Flynn, F. Doyle, A. J. Inkpen, S. H. Crochell, S. Spencer, A. Pike, G. Chant, F. Brocklehurst, A. Holman, Mrs. R. G. Pike, Mrs. C. Butler, Mrs. B. A. City's Health.
 Two cases of diphtheria were reported within the city limits during the past week and two houses disinfected and released from quarantine. There are in the Fever hospital 15 persons suffering from diphtheria, 1 of scarlet fever, 2 of infantile paralysis and 4 of typhoid; under treatment at home, 2 infantile paralytic and 2 typhoid patients.

The Circus.

AN APPRECIATION.
 A most edifying sight took place at the so-called Wonderland Circus last evening when a small kid, certainly not more than eight years of age, "pinched" a ride on the "Merry-Go-Round." The great hulking lout (the language may be excused—it is the only description to fit the individual in charge of that attraction) waited until the machine was going full speed and then taking the youngster by the nape of the neck and the slack of the pants heaved him off on his face on the floor, severely cutting him. The spectators of this little incident were somewhat indignant and a scene was narrowly averted by the intelligence (save the mark) of the police officer in charge of the "circus" who had, of course, seen nothing of the incident but who then came along, listened to one side of the story—that of the hulking bully in charge of the Merry-Go-Round—and expelled the kid from the circus.

In the words of the poet, "What fools we mortals be!" This so-called circus, (and I say "so-called," because from the days of our picture-book childhood we know that circuses contain lions and tigers, bears, elephants and all the rest of the animal kingdom, and what does this show consist of?—a few frightened-to-death looking monkeys, some toothless snakes and a lot of third-rate side-shows to catch the "suckers")—plays this town for two weeks and we are all delighted. They go off with from five to ten thousand dollars of Newfoundland money while the fund for sending Christmas boxes to our boys in the trenches, which the organizers wish to close in a couple of days' time, still remains not half subscribed.

And what an interest we take in the personnel of the outfit! Yesterday in one of the evening papers we were edified to learn that "the young lady in charge of the snakes" had a falling out with the management and had been fired! To-morrow this show leaves to take another few thousand dollars or so out of Grand Falls before, with a wink and a sneer, wiping the dust of Newfoundland off their feet. No doubt there will be lots of eulogistic accounts in some of our papers of how sorry we are to have them go. I, therefore, wish to place this testimonial on record of what I consider the most third rate show we have ever had unloaded on us, and we have stood for a lot. Wake up, fellow Newfoundlanders! Don't be too green to burn all your lives, and don't fall for everything because it comes from "away."

Acids in Stomach Sour the Food and Cause Indigestion

"Pape's Diapepsin" fixes sour, gassy, upset stomachs in five minutes.
 If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach, headache, you can surely get relief in five minutes. Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula, plainly printed on these fifty-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will understand why dyspeptic troubles of all kinds must go, and why it relieves sour, out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. "Pape's Diapepsin" is harmless; tastes like candy, though each dose will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite, but what will please you most, is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

This city will have many "Pape's Diapepsin" cranks as some people will call them, but you will be enthusiastic about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever take it for indigestion, gas, heartburn, sourness, dyspepsia, or any stomach misery. Get some now, this minute, and rid yourself of stomach misery and indigestion in five minutes.

From the Wreck.

The wrecked Belgian relief ship, which is breaking up at Portugal Cove, Trepassey, was the centre of much attention yesterday, so we are informed by a gentleman who returned from that place. The work of picking up the floating packages of milk, bacon, lard, etc. was being carried out at great risk to the fishermen, one of whom had a narrow escape from being crushed beneath a 350-lb package of lard. The man in question was assisting in getting the package ashore when he was taken off his feet by a receding wave, and before he had time to regain his footing a giant sea lifted the heavy package over his body only missing his head by a few inches. The water for miles around was strewn with the ship's cargo. There is yet quite a quantity of lubricating oil to be salvaged. A dog owned by a fisherman of the place brought to shore upwards of one hundred dollars worth of bacon and milk.

September 30th.

We draw the attention of our readers to the advertisement in to-day's paper respecting the termination of the Daylight Saving Act, 1917, and publish the following extract from a notice published by the authorities in England which may be of interest:—"The hands of ordinary striking clocks should not be moved backwards; the change of time should be made by putting forward the hands eleven hours, and allowing the clock to strike fully at each hour, half-hour, and quarter-hour, as the case may be. The hands should not be moved while the clock is striking. An alternative method, in the case of pendulum clocks, is to stop the pendulum for an hour."

Our Local Lochinvar.

"Young Lochinvar has come out of the West,"
 Wherever he rambled his boots were the best;
 He fished in the Humber, his feet were at ease,
 Though he stood in the water right up to his knees.
 "Oh, the boots that I wear can't be jammed now by far,"
 "There's none like the Buddy," says young Lochinvar.
 Broad rivers he crossed rushing mad with a flood,
 Where other boots didn't prove one bit of good.
 While as light as a bottle the Buddy's boots were shown,
 And his feet all the while were as dry as a bone;
 Whenever you'll travel, be it near or far,
 "You'll hear of the Buddy," says young Lochinvar.
 He went through the forest, up hill and down dale,
 The crest of the mountain with Buddy's he'd scale,
 Through morass and marshes and highland and moor,
 He found them the best boots that ever he wore.
 "I wonder," said he, "if they wear them at war,"
 If they don't, now they "ought to" says young Lochinvar.
 "They talk of their spots on the crackle," said he,
 "But a comfortable boot is the best thing for me";
 There's nothing, like taking our grandfathers' rule,
 To keep our feet dry and to keep our heads cool.
 Oh, the boots that I wear can't be jammed now by far,
 "There's none like the Buddy's," says young Lochinvar.

Wedding at Petty Harbour.

A happy wedding took place in the Church of St. Andrew, Petty Harbour, on the morning of Wednesday, Sept. 26th, when the Rev. Herbert Mackay, Incumbent of Tilt Cove, was united in the bonds of holy matrimony to Miss Dorothy Bishop (Doss), daughter of Henry Bishop, Esq., of Petty Harbour. The happy couple were united by the incumbent of Petty Hr., the Rev. John Hewitt, assisted by the Rev. Conrad Barton, M.A., Principal of Queen's College. Immediately after the marriage and as forming a part of the service and in compliance with the Prayer Book Rubric to that effect, there was a celebration of Holy Communion with a large number of communicants.
 The bride was given away by her father, the maid of honor being the bride's sister, Miss May Bishop; Mr. Gosse, student at Queen's College supporting the groom. After the ceremony a bounteous repast was provided by Mr. and Mrs. Bishop and partaken of by a large number of guests. The health of the happy couple was proposed in a neat speech by the Rev. Mr. Hewitt to which the groom made a suitable reply and then proposed the health of the bridesmaid, thanks for which were given by the best man, Mr. Gosse. It then fell to the lot of the Administrator of the Diocese, Rev.

Canon Smith, to propose the health of the parents of the bride and bridegroom. Canon Smith made allusion to his long and happy acquaintance with Mr. and Mrs. Bishop. That they were his old and valued friends that in April, 1881, he had had the pleasure of joining them in Holy Matrimony at the church at Fortugas Cove, and that he felt special pleasure in being present at the marriage of their daughter. Mr. Bishop in a few eloquent words tendered thanks of his own behalf and that of Mrs. Bishop. Rev. Mr. Barton, under whom the bridegroom had studied for the ministry, spoke in praise of Mr. Mackay and the bride. Rev. S. M. Stewart of Ungava, another old friend of the family spoke happily to the same purpose.
 The bride was the recipient of many valuable presents including a purse of silver from the school children of the C. C. C. S. school in which she formerly acted as head teacher. The Telegram wishes Mr. and Mrs. Mackay many years of wedded happiness.

MAJOR MORRIS DISCUSSES SITUATION IN FLANDERS.

LONDON, Sept. 27. On returning from his visit to the Italian front, Major Maurice, of the War Office, Director of Operations to-day discussed with the Associated Press correspondent, the situation during the past month in Flanders. There has been a pause, thanks to rain and mud, in Flanders, which made necessary more ample preparation than ordinarily for an advance. The preparations were equivalent to launching a new battle and the result has justified the same, and instead of, as previously, gaining the object only after protracted fighting, we yesterday were in possession of the whole of the same before eight a.m. There is a good deal more to be said of yesterday's fight than what we gained. Officers who have been with the army from the beginning all agree that the slaughter of the Germans is only comparable to the battle of Ypres. Dozens of their counter-attacks in massed formation were swept away with terrible loss by our fire.

The most important part of the Flanders battle is summed up in the words, "Wastage of Reserves," said Major General F. B. Maurice. The Germans have done their best to keep us off the series of ridges. When we finish getting these ridges we shall claim victory.

RUSSIAN REFORMS.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 27. Activity of the Government in promulgating reforms continues, notwithstanding the uncertainty of the situation. The Minister of Education has issued an order that instruction be given in the local language in the elementary schools of the Baltic Provinces. The Prison Department has prepared a law providing for the training of culprits instead of imprisonment. A decree has been issued legalizing an easy form of oath for Jews. The Finance Ministry has submitted a project for the sugar monopoly, permitting the State only to import, export or sell this commodity. Another decree establishes a general inspectorate of the oil industry at headquarters in Baku and Croenay in the Caucasus, the functions of the same to be economical and technical. Scientific inspectors will prospect for new oil deposits, regulate the use of gas and electricity, and exercise compulsion over the owners of the oil fields.

AMERICAN FINANCIERS WARNED.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., Sept. 27. American financiers were warned against a speedy peace by Lord Northcliffe at the American Bankers' Association to-day. America and the Entente in the same boat should pull together, with Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo acting as stroke. I believe America will even surpass her magnificent record. The food situation of Germany and Austria was better than a year ago, he warned. Financially, Germany lives in a circle, and can go on for a long time spending her own money among her people. The length of the war he associated with thrift, and he predicted that while newspapers were essential in the conduct of the war, publishers will find raw material, power and labor diminishing, and the size of the newspapers may be reduced. I am convinced that one-third of the paper used daily is wasted. Conservation of raw material, transport power and labor as relating to the newspaper, may apply also to other industries, he said, and is one way of shortening the war.

CONDITIONS IN RUSSIA.

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 27. An American who has spent ten years in European capitals, whose position compelled him to take the viewpoint of an impartial observer, reached here to-day after six weeks in Petrograd, and gives a pessimistic report of the fighting spirit in Russia and political and industrial conditions there. He says there is no fighting spirit except among the Cossacks and Caucasians, and that seems to be wanting. A Caucasian said there are no real fighting men left in Russia, except us, and we are not Russians, thank God, but Caucasians and Mohammedans. Interior cities and villages are armed with Russian troops who refuse to go to the front. Young Russians of the better class are hunting the streets of Petrograd for men who are willing to become officers, but since the murder of officers by their men become a daily occurrence, only the most fervent patriots will run the risk of taking commissions. Reports of open disobedience by troops at the front, and deeds of violence committed by them are countless. Railway travel in many places especially in Southern Russia, is unsafe at many places, and soldiers loot trains, steal luggage material, and even murder those who resist. I sat in the war office at Petrograd when the report was received of the murder hourly of one hundred officers at Viborg, and of the preparation of proscription lists against officers in Tammorfors. The papers carry daily accounts of military deeds of violence, and the murder of officers and civilians often accompanied by robbery. The Government has not dared to do more than announce that these matters will be carefully investigated. The Bolsheviks are gaining the upper hand in Petrograd and are increasing in strength at Moscow. I venture to predict their eventual supremacy. I know this means almost elimination of Russia as a factor in the war and places new burdens on America. The Government's utter powerlessness was recently shown in connection with its exile of a number of dark forces. The Bolsheviks take them from the train at Viborg and are now sending them back to Petrograd. The Government does not dare to insist that the deportation order be carried out. The Bolsheviks' demonstration of joy over the fall of Riga, held in front of the war office was suffered by the Government in silence. Such facts, together with the Government's rapid change in its personnel form and policy demonstrate the seriousness of the situation. When Korniloff issued his ultimatum the news was received with joy by the great proportion of substantial citizens. Even men in the Government departments told me their secret hope was that he would come to Petrograd. Comments in the English and American papers, rejoicing over Korniloff's failure were received with amazement by these people, who saw in his success the only possibility of saving Russia.

ALL LOST ON STEAMER WENTWORTH.

AN ATLANTIC PORT, Sept. 27. A report that all persons on the British steamer Wentworth were lost when she was sunk by a German submarine, was brought here by passengers on a British steamer which arrived here to-day. The Wentworth, 2,281 tons, was on a voyage from New York to Bordeaux, when, as reported last week, she was destroyed on Sept. 8th off the Irish coast. The records at the Shipping Commissioner's office here show that there were 35 persons aboard the Wentworth, including Captain McKenna, all of whom were British citizens.

HOLLAND'S EXPLANATION.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27. The Netherlands Minister to-day presented an explanation which the State Department accepted as satisfactory of references recently in the Von Igel papers of sales of ammunition by Germany to Holland. The Von Igel papers contained a despatch signed by Prince Hatzfeldt, formerly Counsellor of the German Embassy here, transmitting the authorization of the sale of cartridges and gunpowder. The Netherlands Minister's explanation is presented in the form of a statement, which declared the ammunition was in part bought up in the U. S. by Germans at the beginning of war to keep it from the Allies, but the Netherlands Government decided finally to buy none of it. The munitions were later offered for sale, and some were sold to other governments.

PEACE BY UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER.

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 27. Members of the American Bankers' Association launched into vehement expressions of approval when Nicholas Murray Butler, President of the Columbia University, addressing them on changing the world, demanded that Congress expel from the U. S. Senator LaFollette. We are repelling attacks upon the American people, institutions of two kinds. We are fighting across the sea and fighting evil minded suspicion, cowardice and treason which have raised hands at home. Soldiers can fight soldiers. You and I got to fight sedition and treason here. Have the American people lost their capacity for corporate indignation? There is a provision in the constitution providing that Congress may expel a member on a two-thirds vote. What are they thinking of to sit there and permit themselves to be contaminated by LaFollette? (Cheers of approval). Gentlemen, you might just as well poison every boy's food that goes in his transport as to allow this man to make war upon the nation. I am a

EXTREME WEAKNESS AND SUFFERING

Read How Mrs. Goodling got Relief and Strength.

York, Pa.—"I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and found it to be all I needed. I was so sick that I could not stand at my sink to wash dishes and I could not sit without a pillow under me. I had the doctor every few days but since I have taken the Compound I don't have to send for him. I have had three children and could not raise any of them, but since I have taken the Compound I have a bright baby boy. I advise every suffering woman to try it and get relief. It has done wonders for me."—Mrs. CATHERINE GOODLING, 138 E. King Street, York, Pa.

When a medicine has been successful in bringing health to so many, no woman has a right to say without trying it. "I do not believe it will help me." There must be more than a hundred thousand women in this country who, like Mrs. Goodling, have proven what wonders Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound can do for weak and ailing women. Try it and see for yourself. If there are any complications you don't understand, write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass.

native of New Jersey which has two patriotic sons in the Senate. I call upon them to take the lead. I am a citizen of New York. No single act would go so far to shorten the war. (Again cheered). Hundreds of millions of dollars are being expended, and thousands of lives are being lost because we sit by indignant and supine. Speaking of peace: do you see the significance of the cooling for peace coming from Berlin, that are intended to weaken our efforts before the new world, in which we are in search, has been discovered, the world for which free nations have been armed for a contest that will not cease till this world has been found. Any human being who asks peace on any terms other than that of unconditional surrender, is asking for a still greater war. Peace will only come when we have supreme confidence. The Germans have been the instrument of war, and their world dominating aims being brought to defeat, is the only road to peace.

BRITISH MAINTAIN THEIR POSITION.

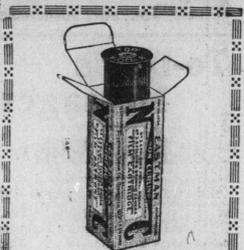

BRITISH FRONT, Sept. 27. The British are maintaining their new hold strongly. The new battle to-day was in the neighborhood of Camone house, south of the eastern extremity of Polygon Wood, where the Australians are pressing the Germans hard. The situation as a whole is virtually unchanged. Northwest of Zonnebeke heavy fighting continues in the region of the elevations which dominate a considerable extent of territory. From the British standpoint the situation resulting from the new offensive is exceedingly satisfactory.

SINN FEINER DEAD.

DUBLIN, Sept. 27. Thomas A. Shea, Sinn Fein leader, has died in hospital here as a result of a hunger strike, upon which he entered some time ago.

Obituary.

There passed peacefully away on the 17th inst., after a long and painful illness, Geo. T. Bond, of Little Bay East, perhaps more familiarly known as Capt. Tom Bond. For many years he prosecuted the bank fishery with great success, and was known as Little Bay's most successful fisherman. In 1909 he gave up the fishery and bent his energy to the building up of a business at S. Cove and Little Bay. In February, 1916, he was crushed between two schooners at Belleoram and sustained severe internal injuries which led up to an early decease. He was of a kind and most generous disposition, always on the alert to render a kindly act to some one. During his fishery career many were the feats of daring and bravery done for the safety of his men. Great sorrow prevails through all Little Bay as well as in many other parts of the Island, through the passing of G. T. Bond. His brother Capt. Am. Bond, of the Flora S. Nickerson was at Grand Bank when he heard the sad news. He at once proceeded to Little Bay East, and on Tuesday conveyed the remains in his vessel to Stone's Cove for interment, where it was accompanied by many relatives and friends. He leaves a widow, two sons (Stanley and Frank) an adopted daughter (Gladys), mother, four brothers, Ambrose, William and John of Stone's Cove, Isaac of Belleoram, two sisters Mrs. George S. Leander, English Hr. West, and Mrs. (Capt.) J. R. Critchell of Belleoram, and numerous friends to mourn their sad loss.

Household Notes.

An onion boiled with the cabbage gives it a good flavor. All fruit will can better if picked before it is thoroughly ripe. All fat not used for cooking should be saved and made into soap. Sweet milk instead of water is a good polish for a kitchen stove. Cereals and nuts are richer in energy than milk, eggs or meat. If you stone cherries before canning, try not to waste the juice. Wash scratches or cuts in warm salt water before dressing them.

Further Proof of Germany's Perfidy.

Explosives and Deadly Microbes Hidden in Legation at Bucharest.

Washington, Sept. 23.—How Germany "shamefully abused and exploited" the protection of the United States by secreting in the German Legation at Bucharest, after the American Government had taken charge of Germany's affairs at the Roumanian Capital, quantities of powerful explosives for bomb plots and deadly microbes, with instructions of their use in destroying horses and cattle, was revealed to-day by Secretary of State Lansing. It was another of the series of Mr. Lansing's disclosures of German intrigue, made public without comment in the same manner as the Von Luxburg telegrams, which have brought Argentina to the verge of war with Germany, the Von Fokhardt letter from Mexico City and the Von Bernstorff telegram asking the German Foreign Office for authorization to spend $50,000 to influence Congress. The latest story is told in a report to the State Department from William Whiting Andrews, Secretary of the Legation at Bucharest, and a letter from Foreign Minister Forumba, of Roumania.

Hidden in Consulate;

Parcels and boxes taken into the German Consulate at Bucharest with display of great precaution aroused the suspicion of the Roumanian Government. On Aug. 17, 1916 the evening prior to the date of Roumania's declaration of war, some of the cases were taken to the German Legation, located in a different building from the Consulate. Convinced that the boxes were not taken away from the Legation by the German diplomatic mission on its departure from Bucharest, the Roumanian authorities later ordered the police to find and examine their contents. The police communicated with American Minister Vopicka, then in charge of the German interests, who reluctantly assigned Secretary Andrews to observe the search. The boxes were found buried in the garden of the German Legation. Mr. Andrews report says: Upon my return from the examination which resulted in the discovery of the explosives and of the box of microbes, both of which the Legation servants admitted having placed in the garden, the former confidential agent of the German Minister, Dr. Bernhardt, who had been left with the legation at the German Minister's request to assist in the care of German interests, admitted his knowledge of the explosives placed in the garden; told me that more were in the garden than had been found; that a still larger quantity had been buried in the house of the legation; and that still worse things than this box of microbes were contained in the legation, and insinuated that they would have been found even in the cabinets of Dessiers, which I had sealed.

Under U. S. Protection.

"Dr. Bernhardt also stated that all these objects had been brought to the German legation after our legation had accepted the protection of German interests, which agreed with the statement of the servants. A similar confession was made to the Minister by this man."

"The protection of the United States was in this manner shamefully abused and exploited. In this instance, at least, the German Government, cannot have recourse to its usual system of denial."

Fifty-one boxes were taken from the ground in the garden. Fifty of them contained each a cartridge filled with trinitrotoluene saturated with monitrotoluene, among the most powerful explosives known, one-fifth of each of one being sufficient to tear up a railway track. In the box were bottles of liquid found to be cultures of the microbes of anthrax and glanders. It bore a seal showing it came from the German consulate at Kronstadt, Hungary, and inside was found a typewritten note in German saying: "Enclosed four phials for horses and four for cattle. To be employed as formerly arranged. Each phial is sufficient for two hundred head. To be introduced, if possible, directly into the animals throats; if not into their fodder. Please make a little report on the success obtained there; in case of good results the presence of Mr. Kostoff for one day here would be desirable."

Household Notes.

Salt makes an excellent tooth powder.
Make croutons for soup in the corn-popper.
Iodine will remedy the poisonous effects of stings.
A regulated amount of candy is good for children.
Boil jars before packing fruit or vegetables in them.
Delicious cookies are made with oatmeal and raisins.
An entire baked dinner can be planned for the day the ironing fire is going.
