Blaine entered the court and shortly afterwards District Attorney Corkhill opened his address to the jury. It was very lengthy, and fully set forth the facts of the case, which are so familiar to all.

The prisoner assumed an air of apparent indifference and devoted himself to the morning papers, scanning them hurriedly. The argument was delivered by Corkhill in a very effective manner, tears filling the eyes of many in the audience, but the countenance of the prisoner remained unchanged. Toward the close of the argument he laid his newspapers aside and leaned back in his chair, covering his eyes with his hand, evidently endeavoring to conceal the emotion he undoubtedly felt. He then drew a package of manuscript from his pocket and commenced writing in a hurried, nervous manner. The prisoner constantly shook his head in approval or disapproval of the statements made in the argument of Corkhill. At one that no improper means are employed in the argument of Corkhill.

NEW BLOOD NEEDED.

If, as is generally believed, Sir John A. Macdonald is feeling the public pulse with an eye to putting his house in order for a in which more or less premature appeal to the country, some of his friends should suggest to him the necessity for an infusion of new blood into his cabinet. All his colleagues are of the old order, and they are not examples of the survival of the fittest. The seamy sides of their public characters are well known. One or more of them is confined to bed all the time by the ills that afflict | in this province should support Mr. Mowat the aged, and another of them, who recently figured disadvantageously in the courts, the particular class which he ostensibly of the province. It must not be forgotten

Sir John himself never grows old in the eyes of his admirers. He seems to have discovered and tasted the waters of perpetual political youth. His buoyant bearing and brilliant manners go far to conceal the ravages of the tooth of time, and to win the admiration of those who can never be are not similarly favored. They are either old in years or worn in reputation. If anything were to occur to lay the premier upon the shelf, there is not one of them capable of retaining the suffrages of the younger delegate to the convention will remind opinion that it ought to be kept alive, Sir John of all this. It is the misfortune of great men to never hear the truth from a friendly quarter. These be truths, neverpossible the victory of '78, should have representation in the cabinet. From their ranks could be easily drawn the new blood that the administration stands so sadly in need of. They have been given representation upon the delegations to which the cutand-dried resolutions will be submitted. But there is a barren ideality about this empty honor that will not suffice for practical purposes. They should be given representation in the cabinet.

THE MONKEY'S CHESTNUTS.

The tory organs and touters have been instructed to wheedle the young men into line and harness them to the party chariot. This sort of thing is always attempted before a political battle. Then the young men and the workingmen become the daring objects of the politician's solicitude. They are flattered as "the hope" and "the bone and sinew" of the party, but when the battle is fought and won, and the fruits of victory come to be divided, neither class is deemed worthy of further notice. If a landing-water is to be appointed, the influences of the local boss decides the choice of the appointing power. Recollections of the Toronto amphitheatre of 1878 may survive with sufficient vigor to prevent the workingmen from being again imposed upon. Some young mer, lacking experience of party gratitude, may rise to the old, old bait, but none familiar with our politics and politicians will

WORTH MAKES THE MAN

A morning contemporary, noted for its aristocratic proclivities, is of the opinion that it is just as natural for a man to de-Canadian statesmen have refused titles others will soon follow. We give to-day

The noble lord further forgets that there on the question should try and keep their are great numbers of Canadians who have letters short and pointed. no desire to become aldermen, and therefore no desire to become aldermen, and therefore can not aspire to be dukes. They have an ambition to be considered manly men.

There are good and sufficient reasons why Canadian statesmen, dependent on the confidence of their countrymen, should not accept titles. By such acceptance they lay themselves open to the suspicion of having their opinions swayed to the right or left when Canadian interests conflict with those of Downing street. By assuming such titles they assume financial and other responsibilities for which few of them are properly prepared. Sir Leonard Tilley is a reputable man, as party politicians go, but he has no national weight, and is not large enough to overshadow his rivals. Sir Charles Tupper has a rude force and a ready vigor that make him formidable in the house and on the stump, but nobody, in Ontario at least, has any confidence in his sincerity of purpose or depth of conviction. The rest are mere chips in porridge. It is not likely that any delegate to the convention will send the discontinuation of political favors. The rage for titles will pass away with the present generation of Macdonalds, Galts and Cartwrights. If the reformers were returned to power to-morrow, the trade policy of the country would not and could not be materially changed.

The effect of this lack of principle upon the popular mind is most deplorably deadening. Our old politicians expect to repose their tottering limbs and failing mentalities in some government birth. Our young men are reared to similar notions. And we are all in danger of coming to regard politics are reared to similar notions. The Only ONE CENT Morning Paper in Canada.

THE TORONO WORLD,

although only recently established as a morning paper, is already read widely, not only in Toronto but in every town and village of any importance in Ontario, as well as in many places in Quebec and Manitoba, and its circulation is advancing by more than one hundred daily. The afternoon edition also continues to grow in favor throughout the city and suburbs and to command an increasingly numerous circle of readers. The large and rapidly-increasing circulation of THE WORLD on the one hand, and its reasonable rates on the other, must commend it to all classes of advertisers as a most desirable medium of communicating with the public.

THE WORLD is published every morning at five o'clock. Extra editions are also published whenever there is news of fictient moment to demand them.

All advertisements are measured as solid nonpareil, twelve lines to an inch.

ORDINARY RATES

> THE FIRST SNOWFALL. FOR THE WORLD-BY E. A. S. FOR THE WORLD—BY E. A. S.
> Softly the snowflakes fall,
> Robing the world in white,
> With pure unsullied beauty,
> "Hiding the dark in light,"
> Shrouding our cold grey earth,
> Dispelling her sullen gloom;
> Softening the ice-king's reign,
> Draping fair flowere's tomb.

Drifting in fitful gusts, Clinging to shrub or bough; Sparkling with sunny glint,
Holding high revel now.
Lying in silent grace,
On quiet lonely grave—
Crowning far distant, fills,
Hushing the restless wave. The sambre pines are bowed,
"Neath weight of fallen snow;
Leafless trees seem brightly gemmed,
Glistening in sunset glow.
The birds weet carols are bushed,

Fer "Winter reigns alone," And merry songsters of summer To sunnier climes have flowed. Slowly the sunset pales;
Crimson, purple and gold,
Melt in the amber mist,
As starry gleams unfold.
Gently the twilight darkens,
Flickering monbeams 121,
On quiet, restful dreamers—
The pure white snow o'er all. 117, 119 AND 121 KING STREET EAST, TORONTO.

Perhaps I am not a legitimate heir after all.—Oliver Mowat.

Who fid it?—Judge Mackenzie.

Is proud to believe that the baby boy over whose cradle she bends may one day fill the seat of Lincoln, the rail splitter, and Garfield, the canal boy; but the Canalian boy is destined to grow up and help pay the expenses of a mimic court held by foreigners who more or less heartly despise him and the canal boy is destined to grow up and help pay the expenses of a mimic court held by foreigners who more or less heartly despise him and

Montreal Star : Loyal to ourselves, loyal Montreal Star: Loyal to ourselves, loyal to the land we live in, loyal to its interests, loyal to its hopes, and loyal to its laws. That is the first duty of every citizen of the Dominion, and the "Canadian" who declares that he is royal to the empire before he is loyal to the Dominion, is a traitor to responsible government and no true friend of the land that gives him a home.
