THIRTEENTH YEAR.

MERCIER'S EARNEST APPEAL

HE DEMANDS AS A RIGHT SPEEDY TRIAL OF HIS CASE.

Following His Counsel He Addresses the Court in His Own Behalf, Saying He Had His Honor to Defend and the Honor of His Country to Maintain.

QUEBEC, Oct. 20.—A large number of citizens were in court to hear the Mercier trial. Mr. Mercier occupied a seat in front of his counsel and in rear of the sheriff, Hon. Mr. Ogden.

Mr. Dunbar, Q.C., moved that the case of the Queen v. Morissette, charged with forgery, be proceeded with.

Mr. Greenhalgh, Q.C., on behalf of Hon. Mr. Mercier, arose from his seat and stated that the case of the Queen v. Hon. Mr. Mercier and Ernest Pacaud take precedence. He said that all the witnesses for the Crown were present.

Mr. Dunbar said that the Crown considered it their duty to first proceed with the trials of those in jail, which was a public duty.

Mr. Greenhalgh, in answer, said that he was informed that there were more important trials than that of the Mercier case, but that the Mercier case was a thing which would not be tolerated in England and France.

Laminé followed in a forcible speech, advocating the same right of justice. He quoted the trials of McCreary and appeared to the judge's intelligence and respect.

Hon. Mr. Mercier next addressed the court, saying that he received a telegram in Montreal last night informing him that his trial would not proceed to-day for reasons best known to the Crown.

He said that he was not a man who would be his trial to be proceeded with at once, but that he would be his trial to be proceeded with at once, but that he would be his trial to be proceeded with at once.

Mr. Fitzpatrick followed in the same strain. Mr. Sturtevant, Q.C., associate Crown prosecutor, said that the defendants were on the same footing as the witnesses for the Crown.

Judge Blaiseth in rendering judgment said that it was not a political case and that the right to a speedy trial was a thing which the Attorney-General and he ruled that the case of the Queen v. Morissette be proceeded with.

Mr. Greenhalgh asked the court to fix a date for the trial, when Saturday was named.

THE BORDEN CASE

The Man in Custody at Richmond Through the Case of the Emperor.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Oct. 20.—The description of John Wood, alias Henry Wood, alias Henry Baber, who is under arrest at Richmond, Va., tallies with that of a man whose aliases are easily explained, who boarded with Mrs. Houghton and also with the Borden family.

He worked in a hat factory last year, but was not in the vicinity of Fall River when the Borden murders were committed.

The police report that there are strange detectives here at work on the Borden case. It is known that they are not in the Government employ.

The woman who figured so conspicuously at the hearings is again registered at the Mallory street and again attracting local attention by her lively movements.

A Hamilton Fireman Injured.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Cyrus Miner, a fireman at the Ontario Hotel, was seriously injured yesterday afternoon. Shortly after 4 o'clock the firemen were called out to a chimney fire at 45 Davenport street.

When returning to the station Miner was standing on the platform of the book and ladder truck, and in turning out the truck it tipped and the fireman was thrown off.

The front wheel of the heavy truck passed over his right thigh, crushing it severely. His ankle was also broken.

Miner was taken to Dr. Philip's office and received immediate treatment. He was afterwards taken to the Ontario Hotel, where he is now lying in bed.

The Fire Has Burned for a Week.

WILMINGTON, Oct. 20.—Advices from Millford, Del., state that the fire in Cypress Swamp, which broke out last night, is still burning and advancing toward the small settlement of Parkerswood. It has destroyed thus far $15,000 worth of property and eight small houses.

The way to quench the flames until rain falls, the order of the fire department is to use water in this city last night, a hundred miles away.

Edwin Booth's Condition.

LAKELAND, N.J., Oct. 20.—Inquiry at the Laurel House at this place to-day as to the condition of Edwin Booth, the actor, revealed the fact that there was no change in Mr. Booth's condition since yesterday.

Mr. Grosman, the daughter of Mr. Booth, said that although her father is weak he is not confined to his room, and no physician is attending him. He appears at the dining room regularly for his meals.

For that languid feeling after eating was Adams' first symptom. It is an absolute cure for indigestion, sold by all druggists and confectioners, 5 cents.

OTTAWA, Oct. 20.—The Railway Committee of the Privy Council had a meeting to-day and considered a dozen or more cases argued recently, including the Queen street subway and Don Improvement crossing. Decisions will not be made public until the meeting of the committee next week.

A NEW STREET CAR ROUTE

From Union Station Through the Park and Up Avenue Road—The Ontario Government Favor the Line.

A new street railway line is mooted that will be one of the most direct routes and the most convenient public convenience, though it may meet with some objection because it runs through the Queen's Park.

It is proposed to run a direct line from the foot of York street, that is right from the new ferry docks, which are to be located there, thence over the new overhead bridge that is to be and straight up York street to Queen; then up Queen to University street; then up University street to College street, taking the left hand side of the street, and then proceeding up Avenue road to the Parliament buildings and on up through the Park to the Bloor-street gate and thence direct north up Avenue road to the northern city limits.

Provision has already been made for the construction of the Avenue road route, leaving exactly a mile and a quarter of road to build from Queen to Bloor-street. There may be some objection to the proposed route, but the Ontario Government and the University are the principal parties interested.

As it is understood that the Ontario Government desire the improvement, it is likely that they will counteract any opposition of this nature.

The route is a direct north and south line through a territory hitherto unimproved, in the next place it is a direct route from the Union Station and the boats up York street to the hotels at the corner of King and York streets, where a transfer can be had to the King street west line; in the next place, a great many people who come to the city and have business at the University will be able to get to the University by a direct transfer to the Queen street west line; in the next place, it will give a transfer to College-street line, and then after that will pass right by the new Parliament buildings, proving a great convenience to members and other who wish to get up and down rapidly; next it will give a direct route to the University, which is a stone's throw from the School of Practical Science and the University building and Wyllie College and McMaster Hall; at Bloor street it will give a transfer to Bloor street and then proceeding up Avenue road to either side of that thoroughfare. The advantage of the route are such that it is bound to carry through the council when ever it is brought up.

In conversation last night with a prominent member of the Ontario Legislature the World learned that the members of that body would press for this improvement, and that the Ontario Government would be the only way in which members could live at the downtown hotels and reach the public buildings any and all times with comparative ease. If the University offer any opposition he thought the Government would be able to compel them to change their views and, if necessary, he said, bring the matter up in the House as soon as the new quarters were occupied by the Legislature.

CHICAGO'S GRAND PARADE

AN IMMENSE PROCESSION THROUGH THE CITY.

Thousands of Men in Line, Representing All Sections of the Country—A Great Military Reception and Ball at the Armory in the Evening Which Was a Delightful Affair.

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—The people in town were early astir to-day, though the booming of the cannon to signal the start of the procession was not heard until 11 o'clock. From the crowded hotels and from the boarding houses of the outskirts the people came long beforehand and even before sunrise. The morning trains of the early morning brought other thousands from near-by and far-distant places. These flowed into the quickening thoroughfares.

The police, as early as 7 o'clock, closed all the bridges which cross the Avenue and Bloor river, so no craft might have the avenue blocked for their passing until the parade should have passed.

When 10 o'clock had come the great stretch of pavement was cleared like a billiard table between the banks up through the avenue north to Van Buren street, west on Van Buren to Wabash street, west on Wabash street to Lake street, west on Lake to State street, south on State to Adams street, west on Adams street, south on Franklin to Jackson, and east on Jackson to State, where the procession was to disband.

The sun, which in the gray dawn had risen beyond the waters of Lake Michigan, soon disappeared from the sky and a searching wind swept through the streets between the great buildings, and people gathered wraps closer about their necks. But the overcast sky was so scarcely forbade rain, and nobody cared for the autumn chill in the gusty air. The clouds had mounted to their places in the grand stand of the official review, the dignitaries of many nations, the men of place and power, and Vice-President Morton under civil escort, had taken their positions at 11 o'clock.

Signal For the Start.

All was ready then and the waiting was not long. On the lake from the south side of the city three million booming guns spoke out the signal for the start. Then appeared at the starting point the chief officers of the day, and the police ahead of him led the way, the various bodies falling in from the streets opening into the route of march. At the head of the parade to hold the steady column which thronged the sidewalk and forced itself into the streets came the mounted police. Directly behind them came Sousa's marine band, acting as escort for the Mexican National band. The vastion from beyond the Rio Grande were a warm welcome.

At the heels of this band was Major-General Miles, the grand marshal of the parade, and then proceeded the various bands of the day, and the police ahead of him led the way, the various bodies falling in from the streets opening into the route of march. #### THE EVIDENCE IS ALL IN

WILL DOES NOT OFFER AN ANSWER IN DEFENSE.

Prisoner's Counsel Asserts That the Identity of the Writer of the Letter to the Clover Girl Has Not Been Established—The Verdict Not Known Yet—Time of Going to Trees.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—The Old Bailey was again crowded to-day with people anxious to listen to the fourth day proceedings in the Neill murder trial.

Laura Substantia, formerly Neill's fiancée, who testified yesterday, arrived early and secured a seat from which she could hear and see everything.

Dr. Thomas Stevenson, the Government analyst, who testified Tuesday regarding the discovery of strychnine in the organs of Miss Clover, was called again by the prosecution. He testified at great length on the results of the analysis and his discoveries, etc.

Sir Charles Russell, who represents the prisoner, in the prosecution, then announced that the case for the Government was closed.

Mr. Geoghan, of counsel for Neill, said he did not propose to call any witnesses for the defense, but wished to corroborate certain statements by witnesses for the prosecution. He then turned and began his address to the jury.

He admitted that the writer of the letter to the Clover girl had lured the girl to her death. He contended, however, that it had not been proved that Neill was the writer of this letter. He then debated upon the relations that had existed between the Clover girl and the man "Fred" her paramour.

Mr. Geoghan occupied almost the whole afternoon with his address. He dwelt at great length upon the insufficiency of the evidence of the witnesses to establish the identity of Neill.

Sir Charles Russell then began the speech for the prosecution.

OSGOODE HALL NOTES. Cases of Local and General Interest Before the Court.

Before the master-in-chambers yesterday a motion was made on behalf of the city to set aside the order made a few days ago for the examination of Dr. Norman.

At the time the order was made the city was not represented on the motion. It is claimed that Dr. Allen is not an officer of the city within the meaning of the act which provides for the examination of the discovery of officers of a corporation.

Mr. Winchester yesterday made an order allowing Dr. Allen in his suit against the Dominion Bank, for the recovery of a $7000 bond, to issue a commission to New York for the examination of the bank.

Mr. Justice Meredith yesterday handed out judgments in the case of W. F. Clary against D. M. Deane, tried at the last Chancery sittings here.

The action was for the recovery of $5000 damages for injuries to the warehouse in Adelaide-street. His Lordship dismissed the action with costs.

The action of McGraw v. the Kellogg Iron Company came up yesterday before the master by way of a writ of habeas corpus.

The claim was for money lent to the company while under the management of its late president and books. Reidpath is now living in the States.

Chief Justice Galt yesterday delivered judgment refusing to quash the by-law of the village of Lanark appropriating $4000 for the purchase of a water supply.

The Court of Appeal finishes its present sittings today. Experts give their opinion in Court. The Judge Will Revisit the Nursery.

At the Civil Assizes yesterday the action of Leslie v. Wagstaff was heard. The plaintiff, a surveyor, is suing for damages incurred by his trees from the smoke and heat generated by the defendant's brick kilns.

The evidence was largely supplied by experts in landscape architecture and brick-making. Leslie obtained an injunction last June preventing Wagstaff from operating his kilns, the plaintiff taking action to make the injunction perpetual and to recover damages for injuries already sustained.

The judge took the case from the jury at 5 p.m. and dismissed them. Mr. Englehart, who moved his earlier testimony in matters pertaining to nature at the hands of Humboldt and other naturalists, gave evidence for the plaintiff. His testimony was rather amusing in parts owing to his imperfect pronunciation of the English language.
