RECIPROCITY BOOM IN NEW ENGLAND

How Reciprocity Appeals to Our American Cousins.—Congressman Foss Elected by an Overwhelming Majority on the Reciprocity Platform.—Would Take Down the Tariff Wall Whether Canada Does or Not.

Now that the air seems to be impregnated with "Reciprocity" ozone and rumors are flying around as to future meetings of the great Canadian and American political leaders to discuss the question, it will be interesting to Canadians to know just what the American idea of the reciprocity policy embodies and where this policy had its origin on the other side of the border, says the Boston correspondent of an exchange.

New England was undoubtedly the storm centre of "Reciprocity," and Eugene N. Foss, Democratic Congressman for the 14th District of Massachusetts, is its apostle. It was on the wave of "Reciprocity" that Mr. Foss sailed into the port of victory last spring. He is one of those dogged individuals who never know when they are beaten, and ultimately came out on top. Born in West Berkshire, Massachusetts in 1858, he became a commercial traveler in 1878, and moved to Boston in 1882. Becoming treasurer and general manager of the B. F. Sturtevant Company in 1890, he entered the political arena in 1892 and was defeated for Congress in the 11th District of the State on the Republican ticket. Nothing daunted, he again ran for Congress in the same district and was again defeated. In 1896 he denounced Republicanism and was an unsuccessful candidate for Lieutenant-Governor of the State on the Democratic ticket.

ELECTED ON "CANADA" SLOGAN

A few months ago Mr. Foss once more became a candidate for Congress on the Democratic ticket, and was elected by an overwhelming majority. "Reciprocity with Canada" was his slogan and it carried him to victory.

During an eight months' residence in the New England States, I took an intense interest in the "Reciprocity" movement, which was gaining much headway. During that time I interviewed Mr. Foss, as the leader of the movement, and also heard him outline his policy at numerous public meetings, and the way in which he denounced the Payne-Aldrich Act must have been particularly edifying to Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, the man who, next to Senator Aldrich, was more responsible than anyone else for the outrageously high duties on cottons and woollens. Mr. Foss told me that Senator Lodge made only one speech in his (Foss's) district. If he had made another, he said, his (Foss's) majority would have been 10,000 instead of 5,000 and while Lodge and Aldrich claimed that the Payne-

Baptist Quarterly Meeting Held at Inglisville

A very helpful gathering of the Annapolis Co. District Meeting of the Baptist churches, met in quarterly session with the Inglisville section of the Lawrenceton church, of which Rev. H. G. Mellick is the esteemed pastor, on Monday and Tuesday Oct. 17th and 18th, convening on Monday at 3.30 p.m. From the first meeting, led by Pastor Mellick, to the closing one on Tuesday evening led by Pastor L. F. Wallace, there was a manifest rising of the tide of Spiritual power, until all present found themselves in the enjoyment of the blessings of "Higher Ground."

Encouraging reports were heard from the six churches represented. Lawrenceton, Paradise-Clarence, Bridgetown, Nictaux, Upper Wilnot and Springfield. The only note of regret sounded was at the death of conversions reported—only two baptisms on Pastor Smith's field.

"A half hour with the Bible" was greatly enjoyed by those present, given by Pastor H. B. Smith, based upon the conversation between Jesus and the Samaritan woman as found in John iv. In the afternoon a discussion was opened by the writer in answer to the question: "Why do we not have more conversions?" which was participated in by Rev. J. H. Balcom, Pastor H. G. Mellick, Brother S. N. Jackson of Clarence, Pastor C. H. Haverbeck, Deacon Morse of Nictaux and Rev. Mr. Hart, Methodist minister of Lawrenceton. Every one enjoyed having Brother Hart present and appreciated very greatly his practical, sympathetic remarks.

The sermons were preached by Pastor Haverbeck of Nictaux from Luke xiv. 10, "Friend go up higher," and Pastor McLaren of Springfield from Rom. v. 1 "Being therefore justified by faith," etc. and proved stimulating and strengthening in a very marked degree.

A profitable session of the W. M. A. S. was led by Mrs. Mellick, and encouraging addresses were given by Mrs. McLaren of Springfield and Mrs. Phelps of Lawrenceton.

These exercises brought our quarterly to a close to meet in its winter session at Centrella.

Halifax Old Home Week

(Halifax Herald.)

The public meeting tonight at the board of trade rooms promises to be one of lively interest to citizens. During the past week or ten days many valuable suggestions have been made regarding the big celebration proposed for next year. The events of the program have yet to be decided upon and arranged, and the committee will have the following suggestions received from several sources to choose from—

Opening of parliamentary memorial tower, erected by Canadian club, if possible by Canadian club, if possible by the Duke of Canning. Old home week or celebration. Labor Day celebration, Sept. 4th. Regatta, perhaps two—open to the world—on harbor and North West Arm. Yacht club race day. Firemen's tournament. Naval Review. Military Review—all the troops in Nova Scotia. Grand attack on the city's lines of defense. Illuminations: city, harbor and residences. Dartmouth Natal day—with regatta on lakes, etc. Athletic championship tournament. 63rd Rifles jubilee celebration. Provincial exhibition with special attractions before the grand stand. A marathon race. A made-in-Halifax exhibition. A big day in the city churches with addresses by ex-Haligonians. Harbor excursions. A week of celebrations in all Nova Scotian towns. A maritime golf club tournament. Visits to the industries of Halifax. A week of horse racing, open to all Canadian and United States horses.

Our New Lieut.-Governor

(Halifax Herald)

As announced in these columns, the Honourable James D. MacGregor is the new lieutenant-governor of Nova Scotia. The selection has been made without anxiety and much consultation. The government trusted "the party" and the party carefully considered the demands of certain ambitious partisans, as well as the "fitness of things." We are sure that in the circumstances a better selection could not have been made.

Personally, Hon. J. D. MacGregor is a man of stainless reputation. His record in politics is well understood and is consistent. He has been a strong-party man, unswerving in his efforts to win every day in Pictou county wherever his influence extended, and the party carefully considered the demands of certain ambitious partisans, as well as the "fitness of things." We are sure that in the circumstances a better selection could not have been made.

Of course the senator was an active anti-confederate, but that is an old story; he was a free trader, but that is also a story decidedly out of date. He is, and has been, all his life, a successful business man; no orator, no blooming philosopher; never forgetful of his friends. He does not even remotely fill the place as a man of popular address and rhetorical grace and power so marked in his lamented predecessor; but he possesses qualities that doubtless justify his appointment to the distinguished office to which he has been called.

The Herald is well assured that Senator MacGregor was not in any determined effort and strong endeavor had enabled him to continue at his work. He was in his fifty-fifth year.

Hardly a year has passed but he has visited old friends in Bridgetown, keeping in touch with the interests of his former congregation and friends, all of whom will deeply regret to learn of his demise.

Cruiser Reaches Halifax

Halifax, Oct. 21.—The Canadian cruiser Niobe, arrived early Thursday afternoon. The flagship was met at the mouth of the harbor by the Canada, on which were Hon. Mr. Broden, minister of marine and fisheries, Deputy Minister Johnston, Governor MacGregor, Mayor Chisholm, General Drury, D. McGillivray, George E. Beak and the special government committee. Admiral Kingsmill hoisted his flag on her before she entered the harbor. Governor MacGregor presented the plate to the ship's officers and Mayor Chisholm presented an address on behalf of the city.

Governor Sworn In

With formal and dignified ceremony Hon. James Drummond MacGregor, of New Glasgow, was sworn in as Lieutenant-Governor of the Province. Friday morning at eleven o'clock.

SPRINGHILL MINES, Oct. 16.—Today witnessed the first blood shed since the beginning of the long strike. Daniel McKay, aged 20, while on his way home was stabbed in the back by an Italian. While McKay was receiving medical treatment at the Crescent Club rooms, another young man, George Crummie, was brought in suffering from a pistol shot in the face. The assailant of these men has not as yet been captured.

Daniel McKay, with a companion of his own age, while homeward bound to his residence on Clarence Street, between eleven and twelve o'clock this morning was approached by an Italian. McKay and the Italian held a short controversy, during which McKay felt a sharp blow on his back and turning about saw the Italian fleeing. Shortly afterwards it was discovered that McKay had been stabbed in the back.

The two companions at once set out for medical aid, but through McKay's weakness were unable to proceed further than the Crescent Club rooms. Dr. Murray being summoned, ordered the wounded man to be taken to the hospital. On examination, the stab wound proved to be about one inch long, and to have penetrated his lung. McKay passed a restless night at the hospital.

While McKay's wounds were being attended to, Frank Crummie was brought in suffering from a pistol wound. Crummie relates that while proceeding to town and in the vicinity of No. 2 gate, he drew near to an Italian, who was engaged in a heated argument. The Italian drew a revolver and fired five shots. One of these shots pierced Crummie's cheek.

Death of a Former Pastor of Bridgetown Baptist Church

Rev. F. M. Young, who went to Pictou for medical treatment, was operated on in the Baptist Hospital in Brookline on Tuesday last, his malady being gall-stones. The operation was apparently successful, but the information conveying this news to his family was followed, a few hours later by a telegram announcing his death.

Mr. Young was born in St. George, N. B., and was educated at the University of New Brunswick, afterwards taking a theological course at Newton Theological Seminary, where he received the title of B.D. One of his successful pastorates was in Bridgetown and several of his children were born here. He was twice married, his second marriage taking place during his stay here, and had five children by the first marriage and two by the second, all of whom with his widow survive him. He is also survived by a brother in St. John and a sister, Mrs. Lynott, of Richibucto.

After leaving Bridgetown some ten years ago he went to Parraboro, where he held the pastorate at the time of his death. The body was brought to Parraboro on Monday, but interment will take place, probably today, at St. George, in the family lot.

Mrs. Young and his daughter, Rita, were with him at the time of his death and accompanied the body home. The medical examiners at the hospital were of the opinion that he had been ill for some time and only determined effort and strong endeavor had enabled him to continue at his work. He was in his fifty-fifth year.

Hardly a year has passed but he has visited old friends in Bridgetown, keeping in touch with the interests of his former congregation and friends, all of whom will deeply regret to learn of his demise.

BLUE MONDAY.

Look a-ber Mary Ann,
You stop your complainin'
I know it's a-rainin'
As hard as it can.
But what are you gainin'
I know it's a-rainin'
Well—He ain't explainin'
His reasons to man!

Look a-ber Emmy Lou,
I know it's a Monday,
But in six days comes Sunday,
So quit bein' blue!
You'd think by the whinin'
There warn't no bright linin'.
Wasn't yesterday shinin'
Ain't Zeb courtin' you?

Life's chock full o' Sundays
To make up for Mondays!

STEAMER FOUNDERED OFF ST. JOHN'S, Nfld.

Sydney, Oct. 24.—News reached here tonight of the foundering of the steamer Regulus, Capt. Wakeham, off St. John's, Nfld., on Sunday night, during a heavy storm, with all hands lost.

The Regulus was 1,367 register, and 859 net tonnage, and was owned by Harvey and company, of St. John's, Nfld., where she was registered. She carried a crew of about twenty-three, and was built in England thirty-two years ago.

EDMONTON AND CALGARY

The Rival Cities of the Western Prairie.—New Parliament Buildings in Edmonton to Cost Two Million Dollars.—Wonderful Fertility of the Prairie Soil.—Town of Calder, Named for Former Annapolis County Man

On our return trip from Victoria, B. C., we intended crossing the mountains by the Crow's Nest Pass, but the great forest trees now raging in Idaho and Washington States had so filled British Columbia with smoke that it was impossible to see anything beyond the railroad fences, and the whole scenery was shut off and quite as obscure as if in a Bay of Fundy fog. It was so dense that the little lake steamers in British Columbia were obliged to use their search-lights throughout the whole day. We therefore crossed the mountains by the main line to Calgary and from there took advantage of the Excursion, offered by the C. P. R. to go to Edmonton, one hundred and ninety-five miles north, thence to Saskatchewan, three hundred and seventy miles east, then south and east through Saskatchewan and Manitoba to Winnipeg, five hundred and thirty miles or about eleven hundred miles in all.

The C. P. R. are so anxious for visitors to see this great expanse of new country that this side trip of the main line is given us for $6.75 additional.

The railroad from Calgary north to Edmonton is one of the first branch-lines built, and a very important one. Three daily express trains run each way between these two cities and give ample accommodation to the travelling public. The route is very little less than the D. A. R. line, from Halifax to Yarmouth and there are not as many people along it as along our line yet they seem to be better provided with train accommodation.

Leaving Calgary and proceeding north we soon run beyond the arid and parched sand-hills of that vicinity and pass into a much improved section of rolling prairie. The hills are low and heavily swarded and seen for the most part quite green compared with those on the main line of the C.P.R. east of Calgary or toward Medicine Hat.

Our first stop is at Aldrie, a small station with the usual agricultural implement shop and lumber yard. Twenty miles further on and through some good wheat fields we reach Carstairs, a smart little town with five large elevators by the station and three churches quite near. This is where Dr. Robinson, of Annapolis, came a few years ago. That was at the time of its beginning. It has now grown to quite a busy town and judging by the many two-horse teams hitched along the business front, it is quite an important station.

We have now passed quite beyond the cultivated lands of the valley of Alberta. The dry, rainless regions of Southern Alberta and the whole view from the rear of the train has changed and we see east, west and south for twenty miles or more, the rolling prairies with large fields of wheat and oats. Some has been cut and stands in stooks. Some is still quite green. Again we pass by many acres just plowed; the soil, intensely black after a recent rain, is smooth and looks very fertile. In some places the winter wheat has been sown and many acres are seen with the 1911 crop about two inches high. The homes are very scattering. We pass some with quite nice farm buildings but the typical prairie black still predominates.

Further on we pass some potato fields that are black, having been already killed by the frost (Sept. 3.) My seat companion, an Edmonton man, tells me the frost occurred last week and was quite heavy in some sections but had not done any serious injury but it being Exhibition week with them had made the footing particularly sticky.

At the small stations we drop many milk cans that have come from Calgary and we notice lots of cattle along the track grazing in the best of feed. Passing Didsbury, Olds and Innisfail (all as large or larger than Bridgetown, but very different in appearance, from the absence of trees of any size,) we reach Red Deer, half way between Calgary and Edmonton. The town has a population of nearly 2000 and is an important grain shipping depot. They have also several industries, a brick yard, concrete works and a creamery or two. The town is situated on a river by the same name and the river marks the boundary between Southern and Central Alberta.

Every station on this line has a number of elevators indicating a good grain growing region and as the cultivated lands here extend forty to sixty miles back from each side of the track and all the grain must be brought to these stations for shipment we can easily see that every station is very busy at harvest season. It is as if our whole valley from Bridgetown to Weyburn had to haul their fruit to our Bridgetown station for shipment, for every station here must be an outlet for that extent of country. It is this continual sea of rolling plains all alike and equally capable of cultivation and production at centre, circumference or any of its four corners that impresses itself on one that has just passed from the limited valleys of British Columbia or been accustomed to our limited

Nova Scotia Horticultural Exhibition at Windsor

(Hants Journal)

The united counties Exhibition of Hants, Kings and Annapolis known this year as the Nova Scotia Horticultural Exhibition, was a most successful one, and well attended. Conducted, the Secretary, J. D. Currie, and his assistant Frank Burgess being untiring in their efforts to make matters run smoothly, in the department under their control; while President Wm. O'Brien, W. H. Roach, Vice-President, and other members of the Executive Committee as well as many others in charge of exhibits in the several departments, were indefatigable in their efforts to matters running smoothly and satisfactorily.

As stated in our last issue there was a grand display in all departments, including the Domestic, which was well looked after by Mrs. Ruth Curry, Mrs. Tremain, Mrs. W. M. Christie. The ladies' Auxiliary of the Payant Memorial Hospital served lunches in a tent on the ground, and were well patronized. What was needed most was a place on the ground where hot meals could be served. The hotels and other places in town could not and did not meet the demand, and there were a number, who after waiting a long time, failed to get dinner. Wednesday was a very cold day, and a hot meal on the grounds would have been greatly enjoyed.

The opening took place about 2.45 p. m. on Tuesday, when excellent addresses were made—first by President William O'Brien, who showed the great benefit to be derived from holding such Exhibitions, bringing into competition with each other in fruits, vegetables, etc., learning lessons of value which could be used to advantage. He said among other things that the Prov. Govt. fully recognized the importance of this Horticultural Exhibition, and had made a generous grant to aid in carrying it on successfully. He then called upon A. K. McIsaac, Esq., Attorney-General, who gave a fine address. He said he had been at a number of exhibitions, and congratulated the management upon the display of the orchard and field products, etc. He had never seen such a display of fruit, and the farmers in these three counties were to be envied, for being able to make such a grand display, and all concerned had reason to be proud of the general exhibit, due in no small measure to President O'Brien, whose active interest in everything connected with agriculture was well known and appreciated. These western counties had made wonderful development in the growth of apples, which had not yet reached the limit, for experts were of the opinion that in ten years the production would increase to 3,000,000 barrels annually. New markets were opening up, and he trusted the advent of the C.P.R. into the eastern section of the Province would result in the extension of our apple business westward.

One of the undesirable conditions was that we have really not a prof. idea of the true value of agriculture to the country, and as a result farmers do not take the interest they should in their noble occupation. Years ago a farmer was more of a trader—now he is more of a business man, conducting his work on better business principles. The markets are good, and prices were not likely to decrease, so that prospects are bright for the farmer.

We frequently hear talk about our vacant farms and what a pity that such should be the case. That is so, but some of these vacant farms should never have been made—better remained forest lands. This is where scientific knowledge is of value. But while talking about our vacant farms, he wished our people to know that other countries have the same trouble to contend with, for in the State of New York today there are 15,000 square miles of vacant farm lands.

The Attorney General made reference to the Agricultural College at Truro. Five years ago 67 students attended. Last year there were 400. The farmers should send their sons to a college, if only for a week, to get new ideas and inspiration to make him a better farmer and incidentally a better man. The College has a fine staff, one of was in all has a fine staff in all respects.

Prof. Cumming said that this is one of a dozen Exhibitions held throughout the Province this season, and every effort was made by the Department of Agriculture to make them successful and beneficial. A few years ago a few hundred dollars were given in their aid—this season between three or four thousand, and as far as possible representatives attended from the College at these Exhibitions to give help and encouragement. Contrasts were sometimes drawn each other. However, here we have a splendid country, beautifully endowed by nature, with all the conditions to make a happy progressive and moral people—and with wonderful possibilities, which he hoped would be taken advantage of to the greatest extent possible.

Rev. G. R. Martell, who was called upon to say a few words, made a very brief address. He said it was certainly true that we did not raise enough good animals to sustain us, and the farmers could very well change this condition of affairs with benefit to themselves and the province generally. This year we have a splendid crop of hay, much of which will be sold because we have not stock enough to consume it, and which would produce the animal fertilizer so much needed for the production of fruit and general crop. He hoped the farmers present would profit by what they had heard today, and spread the information so that a laudible effort will be made to produce more beef, enough to supply the local market for which we would pay Nova Scotia price for it and not that of the United States.

He felt sure the Exhibition would be a success, and lead the producers on to do better things than they had ever done before. (Applause.)

The attendance was not quite up to that of three years ago, but when we consider the high wind and cold weather which prevailed, the wonder is that so many did attend from outside points, it is known that numbers who intended to come were prevented on account of the disagreeable weather.

The total gate receipts amounted to $326.50 as compared with $335.75 in 1907, a difference of $8.25.

In the evening of the last day, the President, Wm. O'Brien, was presented with an address (which was read by Col. Spurr) accompanied by the gift of a gold-headed cane, as a slight token of appreciation of the good work done in promoting the exhibition, connected with which there is always a great amount of work to be done, and of which the President assumed his full share, ready at all times to do his best with the other members of the executive, to make matters run satisfactorily. We have not yet been favored with a copy of the address.

The record attendance was on Wednesday, when two thousand, three hundred visitors were present.

On the day there was a show of horses and dairy cattle, and a pulling contest, which materially to the interest of the day's proceedings.

Concrete is the Best Material

—from every standpoint—where with to build things about the farm. This recently-published book, "What the Farmer Can Do With Concrete," will prove to you the superiority and "in-the-long-run" economy of "CONCRETE" as a Building Material.

You, as a progressive farmer, owe it to yourself to read this book before you attempt any further improvements.

The retail price of the book is 50 cents—but we will send it, absolutely free, to any farmer who will fill out and send to us the coupon below.

FOLKS 'AT COME T'OUR HOUSE

Ever' c'u 'at comes t'our house talk like the same! 'Hullo, I'll get it,' they say, 'an' what's your name?' 'What, what a pritty name!' they say, an' then Bimeby they ast me what's my name again. An' then, when I feel silly for them, why, they say, 'Oh, dear, I do believe it's shy.'

HALIFAX WINS.

The Times' new reporter was compelled, this morning to withdraw hastily from the field in a dispute with a Halifax man over the question whether St. John or Halifax displayed more of the new and progressive spirit of the east.

'Look here,' said the Times' new reporter boastfully, 'St. John is about to construct a new school building on the Weiden Lot. The corner stone has not yet been laid, but ready there are six applications for the position of janitor.'

CORRECTED.

A newly-made magistrate was gravely absorbed in a formidable document. Raising his keen eyes, he said to the man who stood patiently awaiting the award of justice: 'Officer, what is this man charged with?'

IMPOSSIBLE.

In a certain Scottish village there lives a character who was recently employed by a farmer to do odd jobs on a farm. A duck was missed, and the farmer suspecting Bob of being the guilty party, called him to him and remarked:—

'Bob, what did you do with the duck you took last night?'

'Me!' said Bob, 'I took no duck.'

'Oh, but you did,' said the farmer, 'picking the game of bluff, for I heard it quacking beneath your jacket.'

Bob fell into the trap. 'You couldn't have done that, gov'nor,' he said, 'for I'd cut its bloomin' head off.'

The Tables Turned

(Yarmouth Herald)

Recent statistics from Washington inform us that at present Canada is a larger buyer of United States products than Germany. The latter country has held the second place with the trade with the United States as a purchaser of its products, but now Canada holds that position.

The sales to Canada for the first eight months of the present year are reported at $158,000,000, while those to Germany were $133,000,000. The articles showing the chief gain in the classified report of Canada's purchases during the first seven months of the year are raw cotton, with an increase of $600,000; machinery, $600,000; electrical appliances, $500,000; books, $500,000; corn, $300,000; automobiles, $2,000,000; lumber, $1,800,000; horses, $900,000; electrical machinery and appliances, $1,100,000; unmanufactured tobacco $400,000.

This, however, only accounts for about a quarter of the increase, the remainder being scattered in comparatively small sums throughout a long and varied list of purchases. Compared with the same period of 1909 Germany's purchases are larger, while sales to the United Kingdom, France, Belgium, Italy and the Netherlands are smaller. Sales to Canada in August were nearly double those to China from January last. For the eight months Canada bought ten times as much as did Japan, twice as much as did the whole of Asia and Oceania combined, and about eighty per cent as did all the rest of the Western Hemisphere. Canada bought in that time three times as much as did France, five times as Italy, and considerably more than half as much as the United Kingdom. In August sales to the United Kingdom were $30,000,000, and to Canada $25,000,000.

The New York Sun remarks that all this is important in view of the pending negotiations for closer trade relations between the United States and Germany. The figures show that in the eight months United States purchases from Canada increased from $32,000,000 to $23,000,000, and under more favorable conditions even larger and more profitable business will be done. These figures are of great importance just at this time, when arrangements are in progress looking towards a reciprocity treaty in several articles between the two countries. Ottawa has spoken in no uncertain manner on different occasions that Canada will never go to Washington again asking for reciprocal favors, after being turned down so coolly on previous occasions. She has also said that concessions must come from Washington.

It sounded a little harsh and independent at the time, but as the seasons have rolled round these expressions have become more emphatic and appropriate, until now Washington has become aroused and is looking for the favors asked four years ago by Canada. Nothing could be better for the business of both countries than such an arrangement and the sooner it is accomplished the better will it be for all concerned.

ALBERT OIL AND GAS.

The gas and oil discoveries in Albert county are the subject of an interesting article in the Victoria Colonist, evidently from the pen of Mr. C. H. Lugin, who was once editor of the St. John Telegraph. Noting the fact that gas and oil have been found in Albert, and that pipe lines will be laid to Moncton and St. John, the Colonist writes:—

GREAT WOMAN FOET AND AUTHOR PASSES AWAY.

PURIFIED HIS BLOOD

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills Healed Mr. Wilson's Sores

When the sevens of the body—bowels, kidneys and skin ducts—get clogged up, the blood quickly becomes impure and frequently sores break out over the body. The way to heal them, as Mr. Richard Wilson, who lives near London, Ont., found, is to purify the blood. He writes:—

'For some time I had been in a low, depressed condition. My appetite left me and I soon began to suffer from indigestion. Quite a number of small sores and blotches formed all over my skin. I tried medicine for the blood and used many kinds of ointments, but without satisfactory results. What was wanted was a thorough cleansing of the blood, and I looked about in vain for some medicine that would accomplish this.

THIRD VICTOR FOR ABBIE WOOD.

Defeated Fred Cameron in Twelve Mile Race Saturday by Four Feet.

St. John, October 15.—Saturday's twelve-mile race was the old story of Cameron running the poll for the entire distance and getting beaten out in the last lap by Abbie Wood. Three times has the Montreal winner done this, and there is no doubt that hereafter he will be looked upon as the better runner. The time was fast, the first five miles being run in 23.31, and the ten in 45.15. For the twelve miles the time was 1.03.6. Cameron led from start and Wood followed until near the finish before passing him. At the completion of the fifth mile the Montreal man made a dash for it, and Cameron quickened his pace and maintained the lead. In the last lap, however he failed to repeat this performance, and Wood won by about four feet.

WISDOM TOMMY.

'Mamma, may we play at keeping score in here?'

'Yes, but you must be very quiet.'

EVERY MOTHER SHOULD REALIZE THAT THE SKIN OF HER BABY IS SO TENDER THAT THE SECRETIONS OF THE BODY OFTEN LEAD TO Eruptions, etc., all of which may be removed by Zam-Buk. Scores of restless, crying babies, upon examination, are found to be suffering from some form of skin irritation or "heat." Don't let the little one suffer when Zam-Buk will cure!

Mrs. L. Lio-d., 47 Alexander Avenue, Winnipeg, says: 'I have proved the value of Zam-Buk from applied to my children's sores. Some nasty sores broke out around my baby's mouth, and despite all the preparations used, they refused to heal. I took him to St. Boniface hospital, and he remained there for two weeks. At the end of that time he was no better, and we again took him home. I was then introduced to Zam-Buk and obtained a supply. The effect of the first few applications was very gratifying. A little more time and the sores were completely cured.'

CAPTAIN SCOTT'S EXPEDITION.

It is a Matter of Personal Interest to Rear-Admiral Kingsmill.

Rear-Admiral Kingsmill, the Canadian officer of the Royal Navy Staff, is an old shipmate of several of the officers of "Terra Nova." Antarctic expedition, and is naturally much interested in the accounts of the fitting out and departure of the expedition. Captain Scott chose the "Terra Nova" for the expedition in preference to his old ship the "Discovery," to which he was greatly attached. The first time Capt. Scott ever saw the "Terra Nova" he resented her appearance. He was out in the lonely Antarctic then, cut off from the world. It was on a sunny morning in January six years ago, the "Discovery" was fast in the ice, and her situation and chances for the whole expedition, was a little serious. The Government had guessed this, and had sent this and two other whaling vessels in a row through the Mediterranean and Suez Canal, until with the other relief ship, the "Terra Nova," she came up to the edge of the Antarctic ice pack. Captain Scott and some of his friends were discussing after breakfast the plans for the day, when suddenly they saw a ship. Then they saw another, and another, and there was the "Terra Nova." The sight meant safety and home again, but there were considerations which made the reflection not completely delightful. Before he turned in that night, Capt. Scott wrote in his diary: "In spite of the good home news, and in spite of the pleasure of seeing old friends again, I was happier last night than I am to-night."

The "Discovery" was accorded the rank of the flagship of the Royal Navy and flew the naval ensign. The "Terra Nova" does not fly that, but by a special grant of privilege, which is very useful as well as ornamental, she becomes a member of the Royal Yacht Squadron and flies its white ensign. She has officers and men aboard her who are of the navy, being taken on by the Admiralty and remaining on full pay, so that they may wear their uniforms abroad. They could not be sent to the "Terra Nova," which has no place on the Admiralty lists, but use is made of the imaginary rank of the ship in the service of which they are to do while they are in the Antarctic. Admiral Kingsmill is a special grant of privilege, which is used as it is, to accomplish complete success.—Chesterfield in the Family Herald.

Resigned Portfolio as Protest.

Mr. Ezra Housfield Riley, the member of the Alberta Legislature who resigned as a protest against the composition of the new Cabinet, has been described in some papers as "the act of an enthusiastic crank." He resides in the city of Calgary, where he is a level-headed man but a cultured Christian gentleman. He is one of the most enthusiastic and devoted champions of the cause of the diocese of Calgary, a delegate to the diocesan synod and a member of the diocesan executive committee peculiar to Calgary diocese. In business he has been in the Alberta Legislature ever since the creation of the province. He is of English parentage but was born and educated in the United States. His father, who appears, is that Mr. Cushing, the former Minister of Public Works, who resigned his portfolio as a protest against the Alberta and Great Waterways Railway bargain, was not taken into the cabinet by Premier Sifton. It seems that Mr. Cushing is as devoted a Methodist as Mr. Riley and that their work together in church and benevolent work, particularly in connection with the laymen's Missionary Movement, has earned him a strong bond of friendship with them.—Family Herald and Weekly Star.

A Generous Turf Patron.

The Earl of Lanesborough, military secretary to the Duke of Devonshire and General, and for a long time before coming to Canada a member of the staff of the Duke of Devonshire, is one of the most skillful horsemen and authorities on horses in Ireland. He has, of course, many horses and is a very successful breeder. His hobby is that of the former Tammany Boss, and describes him as a most generous patron of the turf, whose going to Ireland has done much to encourage horse breeding and horse racing. His lordship, the other day, was present at the Rides Club in Ottawa, a characteristic article from an American paper, dilating upon the supposed high place Mr. Croker has attained in fashionable society in Ireland and describing his pending departure from that immense. His lordship read the article through and remarked: "I am not surprised that Mr. Croker was anxious to leave his own country if they publish such a lot of stuff as that. He does not even aspire to what is really the highest Irish society, but no doubt enjoys himself with his moneyed friends who have similar tastes to his own, and who can blame him?"

A Canoe for Regina.

Even the city states in German Europe have diplomatic corps—gentlemen with Vandylé beards and monocles, whose main function is to dance and dine and, on the side, keep the ice to the heated brows of rambunctious nationalists. Regina has gone in for a consulate—a new sign of progressiveness indeed. Dr. Jones, American Consul-General for Canada, has told Washington to despatch a diplomat instantly to Saskatchewan's capital. As yet the name of this diplomat of the plains has not been announced. He will have at least one distinction—he will be first in the business west of Winnipeg.

Finlanders For Hudson Bay.

The Canadian Associated Press says it is probable that an early date an exodus of natives of Finland to Canada will be commenced. The Canadian Government, it is understood, is prepared to afford them facilities to settle in the Hudson Bay region.

THE FATAL CONTINENT

AFRICA HAS BEEN THE GRAVE OF DARING EXPLORERS.

Many intrepid Britons have perished trying to unravel the secrets of the Dark Continent.—Lieut. Boyd Alexander, who was killed in the Rubber Country, is the latest victim in the queue.

We still call Africa the "Dark Continent." We might equally well term it the "Fatal Continent," for it has claimed the lives of a greater number of explorers than all the rest of the wild regions of the earth put together. The latest victim of the African savage is an Englishman—Lieut. Boyd Alexander, a dashing and intrepid rubber country of the Wadai. He is the last stronghold of the slave trade, and is controlled by the dangerous Mohammedan secret society known as the Senussi. Lieut. Alexander was on his way to the Wadai when he was attacked by a party of Senussi warriors. He was killed by a spear through the heart. His death adds one more to the long list of British martyrs to the cause of civilization.

"I mean," wrote Mungo Park, more than a hundred years ago, "to sail eastward and discover a new route to discover the termination of the Niger, or perish in the attempt." He did perish in the attempt. Mungo Park, the natives made a fierce attack upon his expedition, and Park was obliged to fly down stream, taking the risk of being captured by the Senussi. His canoe struck a rock, split in pieces, and flung him and his companions into the raging waste of foam. Park made a desperate effort to swim ashore, but was swept away and drowned.

Twenty years later, in 1836, Major Alexander Laing, another hardy Scot, made a similar attempt to visit the mysterious city of Timbuktu. Before he reached it he was set upon by Tuaregs—those nomadic warriors of the desert—who left him for dead. But though covered with wounds, he pulled himself over the rocks to Timbuktu, and stayed there for some months until the fanatic inhabitants drove him forth into the desert. He reached El Aruan, a small oasis in the Sahara, and there was literally cut to pieces.

The greatest of all African explorers was the Englishman David Livingstone, whose experiences of the "Dark Continent" are familiar to all. He was born in Scotland in 1813, and spent his early years in the study of medicine. He was a man of extraordinary energy and courage, and his adventures in Africa are the stuff of legends. He was the first to reach the Cape of Good Hope from the east, and his discovery of the Victoria Falls is one of the most famous in the world. He was a true explorer, and his life was a constant struggle against the elements and the savages of the continent.

What is perhaps the most dreadful disaster in all the records of African exploration befell the French expedition of 1881 under Col. Flatters. After passing safely through the worst parts of the Sahara Desert, the treacherous Tuaregs swept down upon them, and killed nearly all his men, including his thirty camel-drivers, and drove off all the camels. The survivors, numbering fifty in all, started back across the sandy desert known as the "Thirst Country," pursued and harassed day and night by their Tuareg enemies. They met a tribe who professed to be friendly, and who sold them dates. The fruit was poisoned, and many died in agony.

At last they reached the wells, but there were held by the enemy, and in the fight that ensued all the Europeans but one—Lieut. Fournier, by name—were killed. He struggled on with a few native porters. But now there was no food. The starving men went mad, fell on one another, and the fate of poor Fournier is too ghastly to be here described. Eventually, four sharpshooters reached the town of Wargha, the sole survivors of 88 persons who had set out full of hope a little more than five months previously.

Campbellton, Oct. 15.—With snow falling heavily all day Friday, the homeless people were given an unpleasant taste of the many sufferings and discomforts which the approaching winter months hold in store for them. Despite the fact that the relief committees are doing their best with the funds at their disposal, to provide lodging accommodations and attend to the other innumerable wants, one hundred tents still remain occupied. This means that there are hundreds of people in destitute circumstances.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1910

Halifax and Yarmouth are making preparations toward an "old Home Week" next summer. The Monitor has, a number of times, made the suggestion that such a celebration would be an excellent thing for Bridgetown.

In times gone by Bridgetown was among the most forward in arranging celebrations for special days, and was always successful in drawing good crowds and providing them with entertainment. Of late years there has been no effort to arrange any special attractions for holidays or any other occasion and the town has missed material advantage that might have been gained by the organized effort of our citizens to attract outsiders to visit our town.

In these days a town that is not kept "in the lime-light" is bound to be relegated as a back number. Are Bridgetown's citizens satisfied that she should be regarded as a back number?—Are the citizens of this younger generation willing to admit that they are slower than their forefathers were?

What Bridgetown needs is more public spirit,—more cohesive effort,—more fraternalism among her citizens. Nothing would develop this as effectively as an Old Home Week. Now is the time to talk it up. Later the Monitor will suggest some features that might be adopted.

THE FUTURE OF FARMING

(From the Troy, (N.Y.) Record)

It is evident that the future of the rural regions in this country depends on the ability of those who live there. The decline of population cannot continue. The cities need men now more than the country because the land produces all the standard crops the nation needs. But this day is passing. Other lands cannot supply many food products, for they are needed at home. Even Russia will cease to export at no distant day. The result will be that America will fall back on itself for most of the food. To meet this shortage the nation must rear farmers who will treat their life as a profession; who will study the latest volumes on the subject and consult the current Government charts; who will not look down upon their calling but honor it as the first in the land; who will make land hitherto almost arid, fruitful; and who will supply the needs of the overgrown cities. To this end the Government is struggling; and the farmer of today who is laying by money and buying more land is the man who is following the Government's lead and adopting advanced ideas.

BOYS AND GUNS.

A shooting accident occurred in Weymouth Friday evening, 14th inst. A young son of Norman Ruggles was playing with F. Nichols' boy and they were shooting at a target. It seems that after young Ruggles fired at the target he ran up to see how near he had come. Young Nichols was not looking about carefully and when Ruggles got quite near he pulled the trigger and the twenty-two shot entered young Ruggles' stomach. Dr. E. O. Hallett was called. At late reports Ruggles was doing as well as possible.—Yarmouth Herald.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES PAIN

areas in Nova Scotia available for profitable cultivation.

The signs of rural life however, are still very far apart along the line of railroad between the stations. Occasionally we pass a field of grain that seems to have been spoiled by the dry weather early in the summer and the later rains have started it growing again and we now see a green shoot and a dry branch and head from the same stock. With us this could be used for fodder but here it is not needed for that purpose and will be ploughed under. Twenty miles beyond Red Deer we reach Lacombe where a branch line makes off into the wheat regions to the east for a distance of eighty miles to a place called Castor. This line is to be continued on eastward and south until it reaches the main line at Moose Jaw. These railroad lines seem necessary every twenty miles or less to give this country adequate transportation facilities for their grain and it is wonderful how rapidly the railroads are being built in all directions.

Forty miles more and we pass Wetaskwin, another small town with a population put down at 3000. It has large railroad yards, elevators and is noted for its grain and dairy products. Near here are many Scandinavians, who are very successful dairymen.

From here another branch of the C. P. R. makes off to the east to Saskatoon, three hundred and twenty-five miles distant. Passing now through thirty miles more rich and productive fields with here and there wooded areas where our common poplar seems to thrive and be at home, we reach the end of our line, at Strathcona.

Strathcona and Edmonton are separated by the North Saskatchewan river, a stream hardly larger than our own river at Bridgetown and set deep down in a narrow valley. Strathcona, on its south side Edmonton on the north bank. Both places have a lower town on the immediate river bank and an upper portion high above the river level, much the same as the situation at Quebec. This deep river valley has so far kept the C.P.R. out of Edmonton and compelled them to carry their traffic to Strathcona, but the Canadian Northern Railway and Grand Trunk Pacific have both entered it by crossing the river beyond the city and now the C.P.R., not to be out-done, have begun a great high level bridge that will pass from the highlands of one to the highlands of the other, spanning the river and lower sections of both cities. This great piece of modern steel work is to cost $1,500,000, and is to be for both railroad and passenger traffic.

Edmonton, which is the capital of Alberta, has a population of 30,000. Its great rival is Calgary. The two places differ in almost every particular. The latter is situated in an old river bed, is compact and surrounded by hills and its river flows through it. Edmonton is high above the river, for the most part is east-ward and laid out on a very extensive scale. Its main business streets are very wide, indeed, Jasper Avenue, the leading business thoroughfare is the widest street we saw in the west and is so wide that a four or five story building looks flat and small. In my stay of one day there I was not particularly impressed with its great business activity at present and it seemed to me it felt the quietness of being off the main line of travel. Later on when the two great trunk lines, the Canadian Northern and the Grand Trunk Pacific are in full swing and the millions of acres of new country both west and north of Edmonton are opened up and settled, the city will then be to this district what Winnipeg is to the eastern region of the prairies.

The Fence River country lies north from here and is said to be full of possibilities equal to any yet found. Its natural gate-way is Edmonton. The soil here is very black and very sticky. Street car floors, paved side-walks, hotels and shops all suffer from it after a rain, as it is very adhesive. Even one clay and mud would have to take a second place compared with this shiny black loam in wet weather. The city owns its street car service, electric lights, telephones and numerous coal mines, the latter inside the city limits. The telephone system is a modern one and instruments are so regulated that you call the party wanted, direct by ringing his number, thus doing away with a central office.

The new provincial buildings are now in course of erection, the Parliament building occupying a commanding position overlooking the river. These are to cost upwards of two millions and will compare favorably with any in Canada.

The city on a whole is not as well groomed as Calgary; lawns, school-grounds and streets are not yet as well-kept and in many sections the buildings are small and are occupied by non-English speaking people, who have thus early secured general loam and are sharing in the general boom.

Strathcona, with a population of 7000, is a hopeful little city, laid out on a large scale but is so far behind its neighbor across the river that it does not aspire to a great future of its own. Its destiny would seem to be to unite with Edmonton and form South Edmonton and the two places could then soon rival or out-class Calgary. Having a common river linked by bridges and a street car service and many other ties it is more than likely with union and combines on all sides that these two will unite.

Strathcona is the seat of the Alberta Provincial University and the main building is now in course of erection and is to cost half a million and occupies a slightly position nearly opposite the new parliament buildings on the highlands of Edmonton. Strathcona also has coal mines within its limits, which makes this necessary commodity very cheap here.

The surrounding districts of these two cities is particularly good for agricultural purposes and is as good a wheat-growing section as can be found in the whole west. They boast here of just what I could not find in British Columbia—a clay subsoil—and in this respect the whole district differs from Southern Alberta, where the coarse gravel and sand underlies much of the prairie.

At Strathcona I was very glad to meet our former citizen, Mr. Hugh A. Calder. Mr. Calder came here about six years ago and from all appearances has been very successful. He is interested in many enterprises of both cities and also has the distinction of having a new town near Edmonton, named for him. This coming city bears the name of Calder, and will some day be the home of many a successful man.

Mr. Calder also owns a large farm of four hundred acres, about two miles outside of Strathcona, and has his one hundred acres or more of wheat this year and also a field of ten acres of potatoes that he expected would yield four hundred bushels to the acre.

All of this, it must be remembered, is done without fertilizers of any description. In many places through this whole country I have seen men hauling manure to the rivers or to dump heaps and from all being put on the land. One man told me the farmers were afraid it might bring weeds to their fields so they cast it into the rivers.

Mr. Calder is a member of the City Council of his young city and I learned a very interesting and respected member of the community. The whole Edmonton district differs from other parts of the prairie country we have passed through in that it has considerable timber and wooded areas. Spruce and poplar, or larch, as they call it here, predominate. Several saw-mills are to be seen in these two cities on the river side. Rains are also frequent enough and sufficiently steady to ensure crops from year to year, and they do not suffer from droughts as in the southern portions of the province, consequently the grain this year comes pretty well up to an average crop and much better than in southern Alberta.

Obituary.

LUCY MITCHELL

In the demise of Lucy Mitchell, which took place at the County Home, on the 18th inst., Annapolis County loses an historic personage. It is some years since "Lucy" resided in Bridgetown, but those of the older generation will readily recall her and her many quaint doings. Previous to entering the County Home, some two or three years ago she lived in Granville and Belleisle, and all who knew her (and who did not) liked Lucy, for in spite of her certain infirmities she always evidenced such a thorough faithfulness, devotion and affection to those whom she served, as to be remarkable. In matters of religion too, she showed such a decided reverence as to be an outstanding example to all who attend the house of God. Her end was as the natural falling to sleep of a child at the end of a happy day. She remembered many who had been kind to her during her day of life and talked of them in her own peculiar way, not forgetting the Superintendent of the Home and Mrs. Myers, who had done so much to make her "green time" pleasant. She had attained a great age, so one knows exactly how old but careful enquiry leads the writer to suggest about ninety years. Interment took place in the Bridgetown cemetery on Friday, 21st inst., the Rev. E. Underwood officiating.—COM.

MISS FANNY GOLDSMITH

Annapolis Royal, Oct. 14—The death of Miss Fanny Goldsmith, an elderly lady, occurred at the residence of her niece, Mrs. Guy Tufts, yesterday morning after a brief illness aged seventy-four. The deceased was a sister of the late Hugh Goldsmith, for many years a resident of this town. She is survived by four brothers, William, of Perotte, Benjamin, of Digby, George, of Yarmouth, and Henry, out West, and one daughter, Mrs. James Spurr, of Round Hill.

LOCAL AND SPECIAL

Monday next is Thanksgiving Day throughout Canada. It is also Hal-low 'E'en.

The west-bound D. A. R. express now arrives at 12.21 p.m., the east-bound at 1.46.

Changes are announced in the D. A. R. and the Halifax and South West-ern time tables this week.

B. Jacobson is selling out his stock, preparatory to leaving Bridgetown, ill-health unfortunately necessitating the change.

Lieut. Col. J. A. Sponagle, M.D., has moved from Middleton to Halifax, where he takes charge of the Military Hospital.

Advertisers will oblige by handing in any changes of copy not later than Saturday noon of this week, Monday next being a public holiday.

The farm of A. Rhodemer, at Beals' Mountain, sold at sheriff's sale on Saturday last was purchased by Allister A. Taylor, of Bridgetown.

The Annapolis Valley Cider Co., Ltd., and the M. W. Graves and Co. are both paying twelve cents per bushel for cider apples delivered at the mills.

Fred Waunce has sold his place to W. S. Spurr, of Annapolis County. Mr. Spurr intends to move right away with his family.—Hantsport Advance.

The man who has a good article to sell benefits others as well as himself by telling of it. If he does not tell them how can he expect them to find out.

F. F. Randolph, of Round Hill, is advertising a few head of stock in this issue. Mr. Randolph owns sixteen head of cattle of the Durham breed, and finds them very profitable stock.

Hon. J. W. Longley, of Halifax, will lecture in the Methodist church, Lawrencetown on Thanksgiving night, Oct. 21st. Subject, "The four greatest men of modern times." Proceeds for church purposes.

On Monday evening last the annual meeting of the Annapolis County Recreation Association in connection with the charitable institutions was held. A full report of this will appear in our next issue.

B. F. Chesley, Mrs. A. C. Chesley H. E. Bent and S. C. Hall were among the prize winners in the fruit competition at the Horticultural exhibition. Mrs. S. C. Hall was also a prize winner in preserved fruits.

The amalgamation of the Union Bank with the Royal is completed this week. Officials of the Royal are now stationed in each branch of the Union assisting in the change. Messrs. H. Waite and F. MacDonald are the representatives of the Royal in Bridgetown this week. After Nov. 1st the present Union Bank will be known as the Royal.

Mr. J. A. Cameron, who bought out the tailoring business of the late I. M. Otterson last spring, has sold out his interests to Mr. Thomas Marshall, for a number of years owner in the tailoring establishment of E. L. Fisher. Mr. Cameron goes from here to Charlottetown, P.E.I., and while regretting the departure of a good citizen from Bridgetown many will unite with the Monitor in the hope that prosperity will follow him.

A very pleasant occasion was the "at home" given by the ladies of the Baptist Women's Missionary Aid Society on Thursday evening. About one hundred were present including the members and their guests, although the evening was rainy. The program included readings by Mrs. Harlow, and musical selections by Miss Gladys Reed and Rev. N. A. McNeill, a ladies' trio by Miss Reed, Mrs. B. Chute and Mrs. Brown, and a men's trio by Will Dargie, Vinton Lloyd and Parker Munro, following which a dainty collation was served.

Under the auspices of the Epworth League in the Methodist vestry last Friday evening a fine collection of C.P.R. views was shown by magic lantern slides. These slides were sent to Dr. Armstrong from the head office of the C.P.R., a number of copies of the Monitor containing Dr. Armstrong's description of his trip having come to the notice of some of the railway officials. Dr. Armstrong explained the views as they were thrown on the screen by Rev. W. H. Warren. The vestry was packed with spectators. The entertainment was repeated in Bertville Methodist church to a large audience. It is learned that an effort will be made to have the pictures again shown in Bridgetown.

PERSONAL

Ralph Conrill and Harlow Lowe leave today for Portland, Me.

Mrs. A. R. Bishop has returned from a fortnight's visit with friends in Halifax.

Miss L. A. Milner, of Boston, has been spending a fortnight's holiday with her mother at Round Hill.

Joseph Troop left for Lynn on Saturday, where he will be employed in the Lynn Electric Light Works.

Mr. F. G. Dodge, of Lunenburg, was the guest of his sister, Mrs. Joseph MacLean during the week.

Horace Everett and Vernon Bauckman shipped on a lumber vessel from Annapolis for Buenos Ayres, last week.

Misses Annabel and Lizzie Marshall who have been visiting their sister, Mrs. Byron Chesley, Clarence, have returned home.

Postmaster Brown, Councillors De Witt and Dixon were among the successful partridge hunters in the south woods last week.

Miss James, of Lawrencetown, has been assisting in the Post Office during Mr. Brown's absence, and was the guest of Mrs. Brown.

Mr. Thomas Foster has been quite ill during the past fortnight. His daughter, Mrs. Templeman, will remain with him this winter.

Mr. and Mrs. J.G.F. Randolph and daughter, who spent a part of the summer in Bridgetown, have returned to their home in Chelsea.

Freda M. Brooks returned home on Wednesday from Westfield, Mass., where she has been visiting her sister, Mrs. F. B. Sizer, for a few weeks.

Miss Emma Dargie, of Lynn, Mass. who has been spending her vacation here for the past several months, went to Halifax on Tuesday to stay several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Clair B. Bent will be "at home" to their friends Wednesday and Thursday afternoons and evenings, 26th and 27th inst., at Tupperville, N. S.

Mr. John Dearness, of Rochester, N.H., visited his mother and sisters here during the past week. Mr. Dearness holds a responsible and lucrative position on a dairy farm, supplying milk to the city of Boston.

Municipal Elections

Municipal elections are simmering. There are few wards where there will not be a contest. D. M. Outhit, Sylvester Bent, W. W. Clarke, Wm. Healey, T.G. Bishop and A.D. Thomas are the present members of the Council, who are unlikely to have opposition. John Charlton has retired and F.R. Elliott is named as a candidate in Ward two. F. Fitch will likely be opposed by Herbert Starratt; J. I. Foster by John Titus; Wm. E. Armstrong by Joseph Wilbers; Capt. E. Rawding by Moore McCormick; John Piggott having retired in Ward eleven, Frank H. Willett and Arthur T. Morse will be the candidates. Wesley Armstrong will oppose Stanley Brown, J. C. Grimm will be opposed by C. C. Durling, J. J. Buckler having retired. Myer Gibson and Bartlett Cullen will be candidates in Ward fifteen. David Hayden will oppose E. H. Porter in Ward seven. The nominations will take place November first.

Sentence of Death for Crippen

London, Oct. 22.—Dr. Hawley H. Crippen was today found guilty of having murdered his wife, known on the stage as Belle Elmore. The case was given to the jury at 2.17 o'clock this afternoon, and the deliberations were brief. The jury was out just thirty minutes. Immediately after the verdict Lord Chief Justice Alverstone pronounced sentence of death upon the prisoner. He will be hanged Nov. 8th.

ALMOST A CENTENARIAN

The death occurred at her home in Digby on Wednesday morning at 9.30 of Mrs. Sarah Martyn Viets, one of the oldest and most respected citizens of the town, and widow of the late Hotsford Viets, at the advanced age of ninety-eight years. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Wiswell Smith, of Greenock, Scotland, and Miss Adelaide, who resides at home. She also leaves nine grandchildren and several great grandchildren. The deceased was the daughter of the late Michael Amherst Martyn, of Nictaux, Annapolis Co. She was the mother of the late J. M. Viets, for many years customs officer at Digby, who died suddenly last March, and the grand-mother of H. A. P. Smith, High Sheriff of Digby County.

Paradise

Mr. J. A. McPherson has purchased a home in Lawrencetown.

Mr. Chas. Armstrong, of Nictaux, was a guest at the Parsonage on Wednesday.

Rev. and Mrs. L.F. Wallace were called to Aylesford on Monday last to visit a friend who was ill.

Mrs. F. W. Bishop spent Sunday in Granville.

Mrs. W. H. Phinney is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Crisp.

Mrs. J.C. Moore and Ewart are expected home this week from Lynn, where they have spent the last month.

Mrs. Avarid Longley, of Wolfville, who has been ill has sufficiently recovered to enable her to visit her sons here. She is now the guest of Mr. and Mrs. H.W. Longley.

The annual meeting of the Agricultural Society will be held on Tuesday evening, Nov. 8th.

Runaway Boys Captured

The disappearance of three boys, lads of about thirteen years of age, on Friday last, caused quite an excitement in their homes. It was at once suspected that they had undertaken to run away, especially as a sum of money was missing from one of the homes. The police east and west were notified and two of them were found in Digby and lodged in jail over Sunday. The third had left home and came to visit a relative in Lawrencetown. The two boys found in Digby were returned to their homes on Monday, sadder if not wiser for their experience. They have been reading dime novels and other books of that class and were inspired to follow in the footsteps of their favorite heroes. Firm home discipline and a watchful supervision over their reading and amusements, with a wholesome amount of work to do after school hours should prevent the re-occurrence of such episodes.

ST. JAMES' CHURCH.

Monday next being the day appointed for general Thanksgiving, the service in St. James' on Sunday evening will be of a Thanksgiving nature, the special preacher, Rev. John Reeks, rector of Round Hill. On Monday, Thanksgiving Day, there will be a celebration of Holy Communion at 10.30 a.m. The service on Sunday and Monday will, according to custom, be for the Diaconate, Clergy, Widows and Orphan Fund. There will also be a celebration of Holy Communion on Tuesday, Nov. 1st, being All Saint's day, at 10.30 a.m.

The pleasant purgative effect experienced by all who use Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, and the healthy condition of the body and mind which they make, makes one feel joyful. Sold by all dealers.

NOVA SCOTIA CAR WORKS.

A syndicate of which F. B. McCurdy is the head, and which includes some of the strongest financial men in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, have secured a majority of the stock of the Shilker Co., and are now forming a new company, which will be known as the Nova Scotia Car Works. This latter Company is now being organized under the Nova Scotia Company's Act.

Digby, N.S., Jan. 2nd, 1910. Mr. E. P. Hanson, mill owner and lumberman of Tunket, N. S., says: For several winters past I have been carrying on a large lumber business in the New Brunswick woods. In making up our supplies we never forget a case of Empire Liniment. We simply cannot do without it. Our men use it constantly for colds, sprains, chaps, etc., and it never fails.

CARD OF THANKS.

Mr. Thomas H. Foster and family desire to express their gratitude to the many friends who by their attention and kindness to Mrs. Foster helped to lighten the weary hours and ease the suffering of the invalid. Also to acknowledge the sympathy and kindness shown the family in sad bereavement.

THANKSGIVING STORY The Lost Turkey

(Sarah Orne Jewett, in Youth's Companion.)

There were only two persons in the kitchen, a woman and a boy, who had spread his school books on the table by the window, and set a determined elbow on either side of his slate like buttresses for failing energy. The arithmetic was wide open above the slate at an early page of fractions.

The boy's mother, a sad-looking, pretty woman, was busy getting supper, but she hovered near the table and cast many a loving glance at her son's distress. She had been a quick scholar herself, and such sums were as easy as plain knitting. One often heard of the sorrows of boys that have hatched ducks, but Mrs. Sarah Jones knew the more painful sorrows of the duck—the swimming bird who must see her feathered darling balked and landlocked upon the shore.

"I thought they looked easy, Johnny," she ventured, timidly. "If I didn't know 'twas best for you to puzzle 'em out alone, I'd—" "If I can only do this one!" said Johnny, in a dreamy tone, as he figured away with no hopefulness. "There, you see here mother!" and he held up his slate.

"Yes, you've got it!" she cried, joyfully, as her eager eye found its way through a queer maze of stumbling figures. "Yes, that's all right. Now you've got the idea, you won't have so much trouble." She looked the prouder because he could not see her as she stood over him. Johnny had shown first-rate pluck and courage, and had been pleasant, too, as she reminded her affectionate heart, all through his great emergency.

"Now you won't find the rest of them so hard," she said, as she turned away and stooped down to open the oven door. "How good my supper's going to taste!" exclaimed the boy. "Fred Hollis says they're going to have a lot from out west at his house to spend Thanksgiving."

Mrs. Jones sighed, and a quick flush of color came into her face; she thought she had burned her hand at the oven. "No, I ain't hurt," she said, seeing his troubled face. "No, I was only thinking of your Thanksgiving day. I am afraid I ain't going to have anything nice to give you. I hoped to have some kind of a treat, Johnny, but having to have to pay for shingling the house has taken away every mite of money I had, and I'm owing four dollars yet. We've got to do with what there is in the house."

"You need a younger woman there to help her, Henry," said the doctor. "She needs somebody there while you are away at work. I thought the other day that she was drooping from being so much alone, and from brooding over the past," he added in a low voice. "I want to have a talk with you some of these days. You know I mean your good as much as hers. Why don't you let bygones be bygones?"

"You can't make believe if the right feelings aren't there," said Henry Jones. "If you are alluding to my family, I can only say that that woman my son married has expressed her feelings once for all. She probably feels the same way now."

"How Henry," said the doctor, pleasantly, "you know that we went to school together, and have always been friendly. I've seen you through a good many troubles, and before I die I want to see you through this biggest one. That's a nice boy growing up, and he's got a good mother and a good father, and yet you wanted to rob kindness, and yet you wanted to rob her of all she had to live for. She turned on you that day just as any creature will that fights for her young. You took the wrong way to do the right thing, and you must get your eye for it. You must put your pride in your pocket and go and tell her you're sorry and want her to come right home and bring Johnny and spend the winter. You've got a better teacher in your district than this year than there is in theirs."

The old man shook his head. "You don't understand nothing about it," he began, dolefully. "I don't see what I can do. I wish there was peace amongst us, but— And at this point the doctor moved impatiently away.

"I had to buy a turkey for Thanks giving this year," he heard the old farmer complaining to a fresh arrival. The store was full of neighbors now, who had seen the mail-carrier arrive. "Yes, I had to buy a turkey, first time I ever done such a thing, and there's nobody but wife and me to eat down to it. Seems hard; yes, but 'tis one of them Vermont turkeys, and a very handsome one, too; I don't know's 'twill equal those we've been accustomed to."

The doctor sighed as he looked over his shoulder and saw Henry Jones' stolid face, and saw him lift the great turkey with evident pride because it was the best and largest to be bought that year; the doctor could not help wondering what Johnny and his mother would feast upon.

There was a good deal of cheerfulness in the store—jokes and laughter and humorous questioning of newcomers. The busy storekeeper and postmaster was not averse to taking his part in these mild festivities of Thanksgiving eve.

As Mr. Jones approached to take his evening mail of the weekly newspaper, the doctor called to him. "I found another a circular or two he found another a small budget pressed into his hand. 'You're going right by, an' I'm going to close early. I expect you'll be willin' to leave it. 'Tis for your grandson, Johnny. He'll want his little paper to read tomorrow. It's got the doctor's name on it, and the storekeeper, boldly, 'You just give a call as you go by, an' they'll come right out.'"

AWAKENING OF SCIENCE

TO THE VALUE OF FRUIT What is "FRUIT-A-TIVES"?

Medical men are just beginning to realize the possibilities of fruit in curing disease. Its action on the liver, kidneys and skin is wonderful. Yet fruit in its raw state is impracticable in treating disease because of the minute quantity of the active or curative principle contained in fruit juice.

A physician in Ottawa, after years of patient work, discovered a process, whereby the medicinal or bitter principle of fruit juice is increased in quantity and thus a more active and more valuable substance is obtained. "Fruit-a-tives" is the only medicine in the world made of fruit.

Hundreds of prominent people in every section of the Dominion owe their good health to "Fruit-a-tives." Hundreds more are daily becoming stronger and better by taking them. "Fruit-a-tives" is daily proving its inestimable value as a natural cure in all cases of Constipation, Biliousness, Torpid Liver, Backache and Headache, Neuritis, Rheumatism, Kidney and Skin Troubles.

When Johnny's mother saw the old man and the little boy ploughing along in the old sleigh, and saw how they were talking and even laughing together, she thanked heaven for this sudden blessing. "I wasn't going to be slow about taking the next step when an old man like him had taken the first one," she said, to herself.

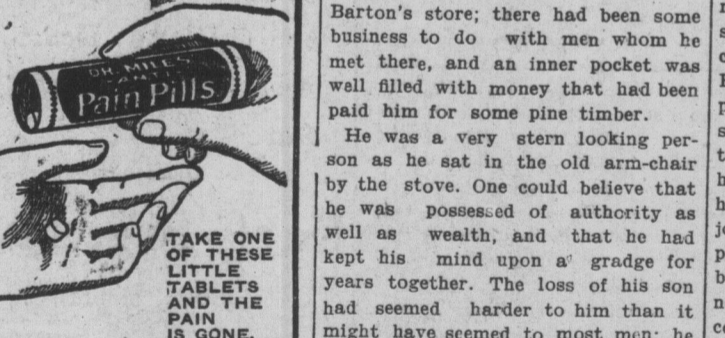

As for the lost turkey, it was already in the oven at that moment; but the true Thanksgiving feast that year was the feast of happiness in all their hearts.

"O my!" exclaimed Johnny early that afternoon, as he leaned back in his chair. "Grandma, aren't you glad this turkey didn't wander in the wet grass and die when it was a chick?"

Do You Have Headache

TAKE ONE OF THESE LITTLE TABLETS AND THE PAIN IS GONE. "My first experience with Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills was a sample package handed me. They relieved the pain so promptly that I have never been without them since. I have given them to many friends when they had headache and they never failed to relieve them. I have suffered with neuralgia in my head, and the first one I took relieved me. They have cured me of neuralgia. I would not be without them."

THE HOME

CHEERFULNESS AT THE TABLE.

An old lady who looked as though she might have belonged to the "Sunshine Society" all her life, was asked by a friend for the secret of her never-failing cheerfulness. Her answer contains a suggestive lesson for parents. "I think, said the clever lady, 'It is because we are taught in our family to be cheerful at the table. My father was a lawyer with a large criminal practice; his mind was harassed with difficult problems all day long, yet he always came to the table with a smile and a pleasant greeting for everyone, and exerted himself to make the table hour delightful. All his powers to charm were freely given to entertain his family. Three times a day we felt this genial influence, and the effect was marvellous. If a child came to the table with cross looks, he or she was quietly sent away to find a good girl or boy, for only such were allowed to come within that loving circle. We were taught that all petty grievances and jealousies must be forgotten when mealtime came, and the habit of being cheerful three times a day under all circumstances had its effect on even the most sullen temper. Grateful as I am for all the training received in my childhood home, I look back upon the table influence as among the best of my life.'"

Much is said and written these days about "table manners." Children in well-bred families are drilled in knowledge of "good form" as to the use of the fork and napkin; proper methods of eating; the various courses are decanted upon; but the influence of the table, in the most important sense, is that of cheerfulness at the table, is often neglected.

The Orientals had no family ties of affection until they began to eat at a common table. Let the gathering at a mealtime be made the most happy hour of the day, and the influence on the children may be beyond estimation.—Northern Christian Advocate.

NOT BEGGARY, BUT COMMUNION.

"Yes, pray for me," she said to the friend who called to see her in the hospital. "But not in supplication. God knows what I want; he knows what is best to give. Don't ask him for anything; just help me lift up my soul."

"And yet Jesus said, 'Ask, and ye shall receive.'"

"Yes, I know; and I have asked, and shall continue to ask. But I am just learning that asking for things is a very small part of prayer. And this has come upon me so suddenly, so bewilderingly. I do not feel at all sure that I know what I ought to say. Just thank him, and help me to look up."

So the friend prayed a prayer of gratitude and trust, and the weary, sick, but unconquered soul looked up and trusted.

Sweet are the words of a Canadian poet:
Lift up thy heart! Not as a beggar blind,
With trembling hand holds up his cup,
Abject, appealing for the uncertain dole;
But as the throbbing flowers receive the dew
And draw from out the sun, toward which they lean,
Its gold, transmitting these in turn
To beauteous forms, to fragrance flung
Upon the air, freely, to glad the sedate passer-by.

LITTLE PETERKIN.

Come hither, little Peterkin, and hearken to my spiel; I've sat and watched you playing there with ball and hoop and reel; and thrice your mother, at the door, hath called you to her aid, for she is busy canning prunes, and making marmalade. And thrice you answered: "I'll be there in just a brace of shakes," which answers if not brazen lies, at least were daisy fakes; and here you play and hoop and reel, and gambol like a lamb, while mother wrestles with the stove and stirs her blamed old jam. I tell you, little Peterkin, you're starting all wrong; when mother calls, a little lad should line up for her strong. You have a lot of years ahead in which to romp and play, but mother's feet are drawing near the ending of the way. I've lived about a hundred years, and I've forgotten lots; the memory I carry round is kind o' blank in spots; but I remember mother well, and when she called I flew and left my play on eager feet, and gambled her to do; and had I done the other thing in those dim, distant years, I could not speak of mother now without some bitter tears. So throw away the ball and reel, the hoop and skipping rope, and help your mother feed the stove and stir the toiling dope.—Walt Mason.

AFTER A DAY'S WORK.

Every one who possibly can should make her toilet in the afternoon when her work is done. It is very depressing to the husband returning home after a long and strenuous day to find his wife in a dress which is careless, slovenly or unbecoming. As his fiancée she did not think it too much trouble to dress beautifully that she might please him. Surely a husband is worth as much pains and care, and should be greeted by his wife in as becoming a dress as she can achieve. On his part, he should not consider it a burden to make some sort of preparation, and perhaps a change of dress, before sitting down to an evening meal.

Children care more than mothers sometimes think about the way their mothers look. A little chap of six gazed pensively at his mother one day, and finally said: "Don't you think, mamma, that you would look as pretty as Fred's mother if you only had some pretty clothes to wear?" The mother took the hint and afterward dressed more charmingly for the satisfaction of her little son.—Portland Express.

HAPPINESS AND MARRIAGE.

Happiness is simply an incident in marriage and it cannot be made the supreme end without arriving at the intolerable position that couples may, part as soon as their happiness ceases. The great end of marriage is the perpetuation and development of the spiritual life of the race. The good of society demands that we consider marriage a permanent bond. The individual's happiness is not of as much account as the welfare of the race. The best happiness is that which comes incidentally in the pursuit of growth and development. The best thing that husbands and wives can do for one another is to bring out the highest manhood and the highest womanhood each in the other. The social side of marriage and the individual side of it are not contradictory of each other. It must not be said the individual is sacrificed to a social end. The individual achieves his own highest good here as elsewhere in serving the social good.—Felix Adler.

TOMORROW'S BRIDGE.

There's a stream of trouble across my path
It is black and deep and wide,
Bitter the hour the future hath
When I cross its swelling tide.

But I smile and sing and say:
"I'll hope and trust all day;
I'll bear the sorrow that comes to-morrow;
But I'll borrow none today."

Tomorrow's bridge is a crazy thing;
I dare not cross it now.
I can see its timbers away and swing
And its arches reel and bow.

O heart, you must hope all day;
You must sing and trust and say;
"I'll bear the sorrow that comes to-morrow;
But I'll borrow none today."

TO CHANGE ATMOSPHERE.

If the odors from cooking are unpleasant in any room of the house, try the following, which has been found to act like a charm.
Put in a bowl-shaped vessel about ten cents' worth of salts, such as used in "smelling salts," and cover, either with alcohol or ammonia. Keep this covered when not in use, as the liquid evaporates.
Such a bowl put into a smoking room or "den" will make the atmosphere breathable by absorbing or destroying the odor of smoke and tobacco. One may cook onions or cabbage without the unpleasantness, and the smoker need not fear to sit in the "best room" and smoke.

CARROT A BEAUTY FOOD.

London, Sept. 20.—The health-giving virtues of the homely carrot are now extolled by food experts. The carrot, it is said, brings sleep to the insomnia sufferer. It is excellent as a nerve tonic and mental stimulant. It is also excellent for the complexion because of its tonic effect on the blood.
But it should be properly cooked. It should be cut in strips and allowed to simmer, with butter, in a double boiler. By this method the tonic properties of the carrot are retained; no cooking and no water should be added of being thrown with the waste.
Baked apples may be varied in several delicious ways. A little honey and butter can be buried in the hollows after removing the cores. Chopped nuts, mixed with thin strips of lemon and orange rind may

Little Girl's Narrow Escape

Daughter of Mr. Clifford Thompson was shot last week.—Mr. Thompson and another Thompson and a Closser have been shot. Call—Some One's Carelessness.
(Sackville Tribune)

While standing outside her home last Thursday, Carrie, the daughter of Mr. Clifford Thompson, Mount View, was struck by a bullet from the rifle of some unknown person and Mr. Thompson himself narrowly escaped serious and perhaps fatal injury from a second bullet from the same weapon. The girl was struck in both limbs and one of the wounds inflicted is quite a nasty one. It is supposed that the shots must have been some distance away. Another of Mr. Thompson's daughters, Eva, was also with her father and sister at the time.

Mr. Thompson was putting some potatoes into his cellar through a window when the bullets came. His daughter was standing beside him. As stated, one bullet struck the girl passing through the calf of one limb and cut into the other. The other bullet struck behind the two people and was imbedded in the house. Had the second bullet been but a foot or so more to one side there is no doubt that Mr. Thompson too would have been shot and from the direction which it took it is probable that had he been struck it would have been in the region of the stomach and a bad injury inflicted. Certainly, both Mr. Thompson and his daughters had very narrow escapes from grave injuries. Providence, alone and not any care on the part of the person handling the rifle, prevented a tragedy.

This is the second case within a couple of weeks in which people have nearly met with a serious injury because of the carelessness of others in handling firearms. Surely, the occurrence of last Thursday and the earlier occurrence at West Sackville should teach hunters the great necessity of every precaution in their search for sport.
