

CIHM/ICMH Microfiche Series.

CIHM/ICMH Collection de microfiches.

Canadian Institute for Historical Microreproductions / Institut canadian de microreproductions historiques

19 19 19

Technical and Bibliographic Notes/Notes techniques et bibliographiques

The Institute has attempted to obtain the best original copy available for filming. Features of this copy which may be bibliographically unique, which may alter any of the images in the reproduction, or which may significantly change the usual method of filming, are checked below. L'institut a microfilmé le meilleur exemplaire qu'il lui a été possible de se procurer. Les détails de cet exemplaire qui sont peut-être uniques du point de vue bibliographique, qui peuvent modifier une image reproduite, ou qui peuvent exiger une modification dans la méthode normale de filmage sont indiqués ci-dessous.

Coloured covers/ Couverture de couleur	Coloured pages/ Pages de couleur
Covers damaged/ Couverture endommagée	Pages damaged/ Pages endommagées
Covers restored and/or laminated/ Couverture restaurée et/ou pelliculée	Pages restored and/or laminated/ Pages restaurées et/ou pelliculées
Cover title missing/ Le titre de couverture manque	Pages discoloured, stained or foxed/ Pages décolorées, tachetées ou piquées
Coloured maps/ Cartes géographiques en couleur	Pages detached/ Pages détachées
Colourad ink (i.e. other than blue or black)/ Encre de couleur (i.e. autre que bleue ou noire)	Showthrough/ Transparence
Coloured plates and/or illustrations/ Planches et/ou illustrations en couleur	Quality of print varies/ Qualité inégale de l'impression
Bound with other material/ Relié avon d'autres documents	Includes supplementary material/ Comprend du matériel supplémentaire
Tight binding may cause shadows or distortion along interior margin/ La re liure serrés peut causer de l'ombre ou de la	Only edition available/ Seule édition disponible distortion le long de la marge intérieure Blank leaves added during restoration may appear within the text. Whenever possible, these have been omitted from filming/ Il se peut que certaines pages blanches ajoutées lors d'une restauration apperaissent dans le texte, mais, lorsque cels était possible, ces pages n'ont	Pages wholly or partially obscured by errata slips, tissues, etc., have been refilmed to ensure the best possible image/ Les pages totalement ou partiellement obscurcies par un feuillet d'errata, une pelure etc., ont été filmées à nouveau de façon à obtenir la meilleure image possible.
pas été filmées.

Additional comments:/ Commentaires supplémentaires;

This item is filmed at the reduction ratio checked below/ Ce document est filmé au taux de réduction indiqué ci-dessous.

The copy filmed here has been reproduced thanks to the generosity of:

Library of the Public Archives of Canada

The images appearing here are the best quality possible considering the condition and legibility of the original copy and in keeping with the filming contract specifications.

ils

iu lifier

-

age

rata

elure,

Original copies in printed paper covers are filmed beginning with the front cover and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression, or the back cover when appropriate. All other original copies are filmed beginning on the first page with a printed or illustrated impression, and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression.

The last recorded frame on each microfiche shall contain the symbol  $\longrightarrow$  (meaning "CON-TINUED"), or the symbol  $\nabla$  (meaning "END"), whichever applies.

Maps, platse, charts, etc., may be filmed at different reduction ratios. Those too large to be entirely included in one exposure are filmed beginning in the upper left hand corner, left to right and top to bottom, as many frames as required. The following diagrams illustrate the method:

L'exemplaire filmé fut reproduit grâce à la générosité de:

La bibliothèque des Archives publiques du Canada

Les images suivantes ont été reproduites avec le plus grand soin, compte tenu de la condition et de la netteté de l'exemplaire filmé, et en conformité svec les conditions du contrat de filmage.

Les exemplaires originaux dont la couverture en papier est imprimée sont filmés en commençant par le premier plat et en terminant soit par la dernière page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration, soit par le second plat, selon le cas. Tous les autres exemplaires originaux sont filmés en commençant par la première page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration et en terminant par la dernière page qui comporte une telle empreinte.

Un des symboles suivents apparaîtra sur le dernière image de chaque microfiche, selon le cas: le symbole → signifie "A SUIVRE", le symbole ♥ signifie "FIN".

Les cartes, planches, tableaux, etc., peuvent être filmés à des taux de réduction différents. Lorsque le document est trop grand pour être reproduit en un seul cliché, II est filmé à partir de l'angle supérieur gauche, de gauche à droite, et de haut en bas, en prenant le nombre d'images nécessaire. Les diagrammes suivants illustrent la méthode.

1	* 2	. 3
4	5	6

TOTHE

TER

A

C

L

E

EARL of CHATHAM,

ONTHE

QUEBEC BILL.

LONDON:

PRINTED FOR T. CADELL, IN THE STRAND. M DCCLXXIV.

Mr LOR Darrellar a litra Mr LOR Darrellar a litra A LI sal austrilian constant

HE bill for the government of Quebec, whilft it engages the attention of the public, cannot But bring back to our minds that glorious ara when Canada was added to the British empire by the faccefs of his Majefty's arms, as they were then directed by the genius, and animated by the vigour of your councils. It has too often happened that national wifdom has flept, while the fpisit of conquest has been awake; whilft therefore the spirit of this nation was filling the vefiel to the brim with her treasures, the handle in your hand ready to pour them out on any

Togeth Frencher Challen Tate That &

end of a case course to mode a

123 1, 28 F

a state

· FLUE CORST LORDER D. . .

what is sout site it as the any foil where your ideas could fuggeft a return of glory, in that feafon, my Lord, it is no wonder that the low and still voice of jurifprudence was never heard : but, at length, is the time come when a fystem of government is to be formed for that extensive country, differing from our own in her religion, her laws, her habits, and her customs. Had the question once occurred to your Lordship how that ought to be done, the poffeffion of Canada might not perhaps have been the first object of your care in preference to Guadaloupe, Martinique, and the other rich iflands which were reftored to the French and Spaniards in the West Indies. But it does not appear that the civil establishment of Canada had ever a place in your thoughts; because, after thirteen years possession of the country, your mind was to entirely vacant on this subject, that I don't find your Lordship proposed one idea of your own, either for the framing of any luggest 1 ny Lord, and ftill r heard ; e when formed differing er laws. Had the Lordship the pofperhaps our care tinique, ch were iards in not apof Caoughts; offeffion fo en-I don't ne idea ming of any

any law, or for the amendment of that law which has lately received the royal affent.

If ever there was an event on which the public might demand an opinion, it had a right to yours on the fettle-ment of Canada. From your rank and experience in the flate, your importance in your country, and, above all, as the atchievement was yours, the manner of maintaining it should have been yours alfo. You was the minister, the uncontrolled and uncontrollable minister, when Canada was conquered. When you returned to power a fecond time, you proposed no legislative act for its regulation and government; must I then fay to you my Lord, "Vincere " scis, victoria uti nescis."-If your abilities are confessed, who can excuse your neglect? Or if, in this bufinefs, either inaccuracy of head, inattention of mind, incorrectness of judgment, or in-B 2 fufficiency 1100 fufficiency of reason, may be imputed to any man, on whom can that charge fall more justly than upon your Lordship? Why then did you choose this peculiar moment to break forth from your retirement? Surely, my Lord, your condescension is not such as to lead you to become the meer harbinger of my Lord Mayor, and his address within the palace, and of his co-patriots without, who attended his Majesty from St. James's to the parliament.

The doors of the house of lords are shut, but Lord Chatham's expressions are not (nor are they meant to be) confined. I mean not to comment on your affortment of the epithets by which you described the act of parliament—they were atrocious, shallow, inept. Popery, you faid, was established, the Protestant church devoted, and the veil of its temple rent as a that the King's ministers might as well begin to pull down rge fall dhip? eculiar ur. re-Ir conyou to y Lord the part, who James's 1 " . 1. . A Sugar rds are reflions e) conn your ch you _they opery, testant s tem-King's p pull down down all the protestant steeples; and that these ministers had at length thrown off the masque, and opened their plan of despotism.

ated to

This plan of despotism, my Lord, is the fubstitution of an act of parliament in lieu of a government by proclamation; a proclamation which at first was dictated, has been often varied, and till this time has fublished by the meer will and pleafure of the crown. It was imperium bominis that has governed the Canadians fince the peace; it is imperium legis that is to govern them hereafter. Is it necessary for me to explain to your Lordship which is a state of liberty, and which of tyranny? Converfant with the hiftory and fate of pations, your Lordship knows that all those unhappy people who have lost their liberties, have feen those liberties end precifely where the government of will began. But your Lordship is pleased to reverse reverse this proposition; and you, who in your love of paradoxes formerly told us that Canada was conquered in Germany, now tell us that this fame Canada is enflaved, because it is no longer to be governed by proclamation, but by law,

N. 1. 1. 1. 1.

a main and the state

Let us ftop for a moment, to fee what the government of Canada was, under the proclamation which you wifh to perpetuate,—it comprehended Eaft Florida, Weft Florida, and the Grenades, together with Canada, countries as different in their eftablifhments as in their foil, and in their climate; various therefore were the inftructions given to the feveral governors, and afterwards changed according as information and experience pointed out new fystems, In Canada, the French laws alone prevailed till 1764, then the English laws got who y told Gere Calonger 1, but to fee was. you nended d the counments imate ; actions afternation ftems.

e prelaws got

[7]

got fome footing. The governors and officers of justice always doubtfor which to take for their guide, fometimes preferring the English, sometimes the French laws, as each feemed applicable to the cafe before them-One year a proclamation, another year an infruction to a governor, another year a local ordinance, changed the principle, and varied the course of their jul iciary proceedings .--In this state of sluctuation, no man knew by what right he could take, or give, inherit, or convey, poffels, or enjoy property; or by what mode or rule he could bring his ight to a trial. One necessary consequence was a frequent refort to the crown for amendment, explanation, and decision ;, " cujus eft " condere, ejus est interpretari."-And what lefs than defpotifm is the power of the crown, when it can create or interpret, interpret, eftablish or destroy laws, by virtue of its own mandates?

8

The condition of thefe wretched people under this government, is deferibed by lord Coke in the very motto which he chofe for his works. " milera " eft fervitus ubi jus eft vagum aut in-" cognitum." I need not tell your Lordhip that the parliament of Henry VIII. gave the king's proclamations the power of law; it must give fome comfort to all fober people to fee the parliament of this day annul the force of a proclamation, in order to establish law .- If therefore I can agree with you, my Lord, in thinking the king's minifters are fo atrocious as to have formed any plan of defpotifm, I must agree with you alfo, that they are more inept and shallow in the execution, fince they have have let go the very power which you fay they grafp at ; and if, my Lord, there could ever be a proper time to infult the king's perfon with a cry of arbitrary power, furely, my Lord, there could have been no time lefs feafonable than that, when he was going to give his affent in parliament to reftore to the Canadians their birth-right in their laws, and to relinquifh that very power which conqueft had put in his hands.

0 1

This proclamation, however, we are told, with the treaty, and other acts of royal authority, was confidered as an engagement, under which the colonifts embarked their perfons, and the merchants their fortunes for Canada, and that the national faith was plighted to form a government as near as may be agreeable to the laws of England; for it

Henry nations fome te the force tabliffi h you, miniormed t with t and they vs, by

1: 2: 19

at les at etched is de-motto

mifera aut in-your have it is faid that none would have embarked or traded thither, without the prospect of English laws, and of English juries. How far the real engagement has been kept, and whether any part of the laws of England, that could be executed, have been with-held, we shall enquire bye and bye; but first let me appeal to your Lordship's knowledge, and the knowledge of every man, whether it is neceffary there should be a trial of jury, wherever cur merchants export their manufactures? In all our great foreign markets there are no juries : in America there are juries; but if you will ask the merchant whether he expects a furer payment from Hamburgh, &c. or from Boston, I don't believe he will answer for the Bostonians. It would be impertinent, my Lord, to introduce what I fhall ve emout the f Engengageier any it could eld, we first let knowry man, fhould ur merctures ? ts there are juerchant ayment Bofton, ver for imperwhat I fhall fhall take the liberty to fay upon juries, with any panegyrick upon that bleffed inftitution.—Its praifes are written in our hearts: but the conftitution of juries may be compared to a fabrick, where every minute material is effentially neceffary to the fafety, ufefulnefs, and beauty of the whole. Permit me then juft to mention what an Englifh jury is, before I afk what a Canadian jury must be.

F 10 1

II ·

In England, the fheriff in a public manner takes the names out of the lift of freeholders, as chance has placed them. He may return fix panels, which are feventy-two jurors, and he cannot return lefs than four, which are fortyeight at every affize; and, that these jurors may not become hackneyed in their office, or marked for seduction, none C 2 are are to be returned, but who have not ferved for two years before, (except in Middlefex, where the law has been altered, perhaps for the worfe, for Middlefex juries though better practifed, are not more refpectable than other juries;) and in Yorkshire, because of the largeness of the county, freeholders cannot be returned but once in four years.

12

Thus, my Lord, the uncertainty of who shall be jurors, and the nature of the office itself commencing instantly, and ending instantly in public court, gives no possibility of previous solicitation or seduction; but still there follows a right of challenge, to exclude every man against whom a suspicion lies of partiality or prejudice, whether from affection, affinity; or interest.

Let

[ 13. ]

ve not cept in een al-Midled, are juries;) largecannot ars. inty of ature of. aftantly, court, folicil there exclude cion lies er from

Let us now, my Lord, fee what is the fund for an English jury in Canada; the number of freeholders, (I do not fay there are none) is fmall indeed; but there are about three hundred Englishmen, who are house-keepers, and of thefe, perhaps thirty or forty are of the rank of merchants and tradefmen; the reft are difbanded foldiers, most of them futlers; and it is a melancholy confideration that their chief traffick is in fpirituous liquors, of which they share pretty largely with their cuftomers the common foldiers. The courts of justice fit once a week. The number of the better fort of English will not afford one legal panel in the whole year, and infufficient to do the bufinefs of juries; even supposing them to give up their time, and every other occupation to that, fervice only : Mr. Maleres therefore admits mits that the burthen of attendance would be intolerable without pay; and he proposes five shillings a head for every time they ferve: thus the office of jurymen would become a trade, a trade indeed, that none of the better fort will follow, but must fall of course upon those veterans who have left the army for the gin-fhop: fuch must be the English jury in Canada, without freeholders, without challenge, without change, and in fhort without one attribute of an English jury. Corruptio optimi fit peffima, is a true old adage, and I fpeak it as a proof of the perfection of an English jury, that in an imperfect state it would be the worst way of trial upon earth. But it may be faid there are above an hundred thousand Canadians qualified to ferve upon juries; why not take your juries from them? Becaufe

Let

[ 14 ]

[ 15 ]]

Because your Lordship will hardly truft the property of your countrymen to a jury of Canadians only. But the juries may be mixed, -- in what proportion? If you take an equal number of English and of Canadians, how are they to decide at all ? Or take an unequal number, and decide by the vote, (as in courts martial) then if the majority of the jury be Canadians, the verdict will be the fame as if the whole was Canadian. or if you throw the majority on the fide of the English, where is the impartiality, on which the Canadian can depend ? al so so a soile up sub ods A best the state of initial of the

Befides, the civil law of France, and the trial by jury in England, are fo diffonant, that the forms of one can never be blended into proceedings of the other; the rules in respect of tenures, and ndance y; and ad for office rade, a ter fort le upon e army be the ut freewithout one atorruptio age, and rfection imperway of be faid houland i juries; them ? Becaufe alignations, dowers, and inheritances are quite different; how could the law go on in the two different languages ? If the Canadian thould have a caufe to try, how can his advocate prepare the process for an Engliffs jury ? Or if he goes to an Engliffs jury ? Or if he goes to an Engliffs attorney, how is the latter to fettle a proceeding according to the laws of Paris?

[ dus. ]]

But in eriminal law the cale is different; for to the fact of guilt or innocence, one man is as competent as another; and in our own courts, it is the actual practice, where a foreigner is to be tried, to have a jury de medietate lingue, one half English, one half Foreigners. I mean not, my Lord, a general defence of the criminal laws of England, as they are of late years multiplied and extended. ances are c law go Polf the try, how procels goes to hes latter gite the (15.23 le is difilt or inpétent as rts, it is eigner, is medietate half Fo-1. 51 neral de-England, blied and xtended.

extended. For if a moiety of those who are condemned were to fuffer death. their blood would cry out for vengeance; and I am perfuaded, that the frequency of pardons, even where mercy is due, gives rife to nine in ten of the thefts and robberies that are committed. But the French law of torture to procure confession, is to us unknown. On the contrary, the acculed perfon is, or ought to be, warned from injuring himfelf by his own confession. It is but modern law that any man could be convicted on his own confession, and even now confeffions ought not to be admitted without the greatest caution.

1 17 1

To us is unknown likewife all cruelty of punishment; no racks, or wheels, or instruments of barbarity and tyranny are to be feen in our executions. From these D appendages appendages of despotism are the Canadians now delivered, and may live protected in their fortunes, their honours, and their lives, under what I trust will stand for ever, the impregnable fortress of an English jury.

In the course of all the evidence that has been laid before the public, we find that the Canadians have expressed one constant uniform with to be governed by their own laws, and that the English have as fervently defired to be governed by the laws of England. The Canadians are above 100,000, the English not more than 2000 men, women, and children. The legislature was therefore to consider whether the law and government ought to be adapted to the many or to the few.

ter i tradest a de la bar

• · · · · · · · · · ·

There

[ 18 ]

live prohonours, truft will c fortrefs ence that we find effed one governed English overned Cana-English en, and therelaw and i to the

There

[ 19 ]

There can be no rule for the compoling of laws, but the fentiments and inclinations of those who are to be governed by them.

In a state of nature, liberty knows no bound but that of superior force.

" Jura inventa metu injusti," and that portion of liberty which each man is willing to give up for the convenience, fafety, and protection of individuals, of families, of focieties, and of states, is the first principle of law. It is true, the multitude do not compose the form, but it must be framed to correspond with their genius and temper, so that their understandings may be prepared to meet, and their hearts ready to embrace it.—The habits, customs, and manners of a people, are the mirror in which D 2 alone alone their general disposition may be feen; even regard must be had to their prejudices and their weakness; for law must be enacted (as Grotius has expressed it) " cum sensure imbecillitatis." When Solon was complimented on having given good laws to his countrymen, his reply was, " They are only such as " the Athenians are capable of receiv-" ing." Even the law of God, as proposed by Moses, was submitted to the judgment of the people before it was adopted by them #.

But if these rules are indispensable in the formation, they apply much more forcibly to the actual establishment of law. If nothing but violence can impose law, it would be still greater tyranny to rob a nation of that law which they approve

Exodus.

[ 21 ]

nay be their or law breffed tatis." n havymen. uch as eceivs proto the t was ble in more ent of n imranny they prove approve upon experience, and which is endeared by habit. Allowing then that the Canadians prefer a worfe law to a better, even that bad choice is decifive upon the conduct of Great Britain. They' yielded themfelves up to our protection and our faith. How then can we deprive them of the first rights of human nature ?

We are now come to that part of the bill which relates to their religion; and knowing, my Lord, how much you are an admirer of civil liberty, and can reprefent it with fo many graces and advantages, I fhould have been glad to have heard that your Lordfhip, with equal grace and dignity, had fupported the caufe of religious liberty. But it feems you declared that no true Protestant could fupport this bill.—No true Protestant, my Lord, can be be a perfecutor; no true Protestant can harbour any fuch idea as that of establishing religion by force. Is the Spaniard in Mexico to be an example for a Protestant legislature?

22 ]

Religious liberty is nearer to the heart and conficience than civil liberty; forwhy are Roman Catholics deemed enemies to our conftitution? Not becaufe they don't love liberty, (we owe Magna Charta to them) but becaufe, without fubverting the conftitution and the law, the Romifh religion can never be reftored.

The Reformation was not the work of force.—Science had begun to dawn, and to difpel fuperstition. The tyranny of Rome was become hateful, and her authority contemptible, when that great event

1 23 ]

effant can t of eftathe Spatple for a the heart erty; for emed ene-Not be-(we owe becaufe, tution and can never the work to dawn, e tyranny , and her that great event event took place. The defires and oplnions of the people co-incided with the humours of the King; and the moment parliament had eftablished the Proteftant religion, it became not the voice only, but the act of the whole nation. The cafe of Canada is totally different. The people there adhere to their religion, and did not furrender without a ftipulation and folemn engagement for the free exercise of it. Your Lordship was minister when the capitulation was granted by Sir Jeffery Amherst, and you found no fault with that able General for that prudent and humane conceffion. This freedom was again infured at the peace, approved and confirmed by parliament; nor did your Lordship, in your long difplay of eloquence * on that oc-

• Lord Chatham spoke three hours and a half against the peace.

fion,

3

[ 34 ]j

flon, once blame that part of the treaty. But you are now pleafed to call the measure atrocious, Shallow, and inept, because it has secured to the clergy their property, and because it has fubfituted an oath of allegiance initead of that of supremacy as required by the rft of Elizabeth: of The Beft diffingtion T know between eftablightpent and toleration is that the greater number has a fight to the one, and the leffer to the other. The public maintenance of a clergy is mhereut to efablishment : at the Reformation, therefore, as much of the church eftates as were thought neceffary for its support, were transferred to the Protestant church as by law effablifhed. Surely then, when the free exercise of the national teligion was given to the Canadian nation, it could never be understood that they were to be the treaty: o call the and inept, the clergy thas fube inflead of by the rft iffinction! I and oleumber has fer to the Dance ofra hment ; at s much of hought netransferred v law eftathe free ligion was , it could y were to be be deprived of their clergy; and if not, a national provision for that clergy follows of course.

[ 25 ]

It has also been afferted, that the Protestant religion is rooted out of Canada by this bill. The reverse is the truth; for no man who is, or who may become a Protestant, is to pay tythes or any church dues to the Romish establishment, but the money is still to be collected, in order to constitute a fund for the raising and supporting of a Protestant church in Canada.

Some have doubted whether those claufes of the r Eliz. which establish the oath of supremacy, extend to any of his Majesty's present dominions but such as belonged to the crown when that memorable statute was made. If E this this construction is a true one, the Canadians were not obliged to take the oath of fupremacy; and the new oath which the Quebec bill has established, is to far an acquifition, and advantageous to the caufe of protestantism, as it adds to the common oath of allegiance, and obliges every Catholic of Canada, who shall from henceforth exercise any function, civil or religious, to renounce all pardons and difpensations from any power or perfon webomfoever contrary to that oatbard But if we are to fuppofe the above-mentioned construction to be falfe, and that every part of the ift of Eliz. extends to all his Majefty's prefent dominions, I will venture then to affert that the Roman Catholic religion would nothave had in Canada even the advantage of a toleration, if the oath of fupremacy had not been repealed. For no honest Roman

26 ]

the Cake the w oath blifhed. tageous it adds ce, and a, who y funcunce all y power to that ofe the tobe inft of prefent affert would antage emacy honeft oman that oath in the true fense of the words in which it is expressed; and if he ventured to exercise any ecclesiaftical function without having taken it, he would have been fubject to all the penalties and difabilities which the law has in fuch date inflicted and that there are perfons in Canada ready to commence profecutions against every offender of this kind, we can hardly doubt, when we recollect that one grand jury thought it their duty to make a public prefentment of every Roman Catholic of the province ; and muft therefore have confidered them not only as perfons not under the protection of the law, but as offenders against it. But though the legislature has thought fit to repeal the oath established by the 1st of Eliz. and to fubilitute another oath in the place

1 27

Roman Catholic Prieft could have taken

E 2

of 4 4 4

of it, which in truth is no more than what has been frequently done before; yet the King's fupremacy is not on that account in any danger, as has been igporantly and abfurdly supposed. The Quebec bill, instead of giving on his Majesty's supremacy, afferts it as establifhed by the aft of Elizathat is, in all cafes, ecclefiaftical as woll as civil; no ecclefiaftical officer of minister can exercise in Canada any authority or jurifdiction that is not derived from the crown : and if any man thell thereafter prefame to exercife therein any powers derived from any foreign authority for jurifdiction what never, or fish malicioufly and advifedly endeavour, to advance or support the claims or pretenfions of the Pope, or of any foreign prince or flate, he will fill be fubject to the fame penalties to which he would , have

[ 29 ]

have been liable if the Quebec bill had never paffed; and the law of England has ftill in flore punifhments fully fufficient to deter the most scalous Catholic of Canada from the commillion of fuch an offence! With the basher lide scalar an offence! With the basher lide scalar an offence! With the basher lide scalar

Since then your Lordship has been to very fevere in your Arictures on this part of the Quebec bill, let me again implore you to tell us what plan you yourfelf would recommend, Would you now confision the free exercise of religion to be left than the Ganadians thought it when they threw themfelves upon your faith? Would you now become their perfection? Or would you ftill fuffer them to enjoy their religion, with its confequential property; but enjoy it not by the conflictutional authority of an act of parliament, but by virtue of an actual exercise ore than before ; t on that been igday. The up bis as citaabris: in as civil; fter can Aciuria omithe eseafter DOWCIS tityotor 1 malito ad. preten foreign fubject: would. have

[ 30 ]

exercise of a dispensing power in the crown? to very that I a bulbet are m -nal of the store and in so of the limit to the Your Lordship is faid to have afferted thefelitwoothings; that the bill was intended to raife a ftrength in Canada, in order to intimidate other parts of America; and then shat the bill was injurious to the Canadians, a drach aits bout sel which service Druste Danian "The imputed injury is, that the law of France which is defpotifm is entailed, and the law of England which is freedom, annulled. an main and harden 130 College Sie Bio Dia Dia Man Molto Contro There is e diffinction to be made between the laws of France, and the government of France. The one is the other is not, defpotic. The law of France originated in freedom. The Franks were a people of Germany, who came

[ 31 ]

r in the 1. 1. 1. In 12111. 2. 11 have af the bill ength in te other the bill that for the se Panasa the law n'is endiswhich in hairs offic (Bart) be made and the none is. law of The iny, who came came and fottled in Gaul: their kings were elective, and their power fo limited, that all their authority was derived from their merit and virtue *. They preferved their liberties till the 19th century, when they were deftroyed by the contrivances of Engeraurd de Marighy, the minister of Philip the Fair. At this period, the defpotifm of France began; from thence may be dated the fluctuations in the administration of their justice, the instability of property, the banifhments of their parliaments, together with their lettres de cachet, none of which, my Lord, are the inflitutions of law, but the excelles of that power, which has arisen upon the demolition of law. What a glorious and happy revolution would France experience, could you at this moment reftore her ancient laws, free from the controul of power!

• Reges ex nobilitate; duces ex virtute fumunt; nec regibus infinita vel libera poteftas. Et duces exemplo potius quam imperio præfunt. Tac. happy

3

2201 201

[ 38 ]

This is the very bleffing in which the Quebec bill inftates the Canadians, not torn from the church, but feparated from the ftate of Rome; they are in poffeffion of the law which they love, under a government that must take that law for its guide, where the ministers of the crown can neither iffue a general warrant, nor imprison by a lettre de cachet, but every illegal or opprefive act that would be impeachable and punishable against an Englishman, will be equally criminal, in respect of the Canadians.

One word to the policy of this bill, and I have done. I do not mean to confider ent reich the ns, not ed from poffefunder nat law s of the al warcachet, ct that nifhable equally dians.

nis bill,

[ 33 ]

confider the general policy, whether England had better have refted upon her natural innate ftrength, or have become the head of a divided empire, over different nations of different faith. Her former ftate, as in the days of Queen Elizabeth, was the theme of poetical rapture. and here of a state of the state of t

Oh England, model of thy inward greatness, Like little body, with a mighty heart.

Wat Thus offat "Luca fant" Instrument

Was the lame poet to celebrate your administration, he would speak of England as; Beltriking the world Like a Colofius.

But, my Lord, whomever we pretend to govern whether natural-born fubjects fubjects or adopted ones, this is certain, that that policy is beft, which is beft calculated to unite them all in one common bond, of intereft; affection, and duty.

[ 34 ]

Here, my Lord, let me afk what was your object in acquiring, what in retaining Canada, but that France might not have at her command a body of men, either is attack our American fettlements in time of war, or harafs them in time of peace, by inciting the native Indians to invade them? Would you wifh, my Lord, to fpoil the fruits of your own conqueft in the worft manner poffible? Which would be, to keep the hearts of the Canadians devoted to France, whenever the might call them to arms.

an example and a star s certain, is best one comion, and na 300°S. 1 1954 1 what was at. in rence might body of American or harafs citing the ? Would the fruits vorit mane, to keep devoted to call them

But

[ 35 ]

But there is another confideration which makes the affection of the Canadians still more defirable .--- I should be afraid to mention it, if your Lordship had not proclaimed it already; it is the present state of Boston : Should, my Lord, (which God avert) a fatal necessity arise, (as your Lordship has been too apt both to prognofficate, and to advise) to coerce America ; do you with, in that melancholy event, to combine the heart of the Canadian with that of the Bostonian? Was Canada now in the poffession of France, and should the Bostonian resolve upon rebellion, there can be no doubt whither he would look for fupport, and for encouragement. But the lofs of the hope may happily dispose him to better thoughts.

If then, my Lord, the Quebec bill is founded in that first principle of all law,

the

[ 36 ]

the concurrence and approvation of the people, and if its end is that, for which all government ought to be inftituted. the bappiness of the governed, then will this bill which your Lordship thought atrociuus, Iballow, and inept, appear confonant to juffice, wildom, benevolence, and policy; and the degiflature of this country will have followed an illustria ous example of antiquity bin making fuch regulations for the Canadians ; "ut 12 in fuâ ripă legibulque fuis, mente moque nobilcum agant hada www France, and Brould the Poftanian tofon upon robellion, there cin ba no d'abe whither hearrend look for fergore, and the 'our of that hope may happing difficity and better thoughts.

E Ist then, my Lord, the Quebec hill it founded in that frint, but the founded in that first print fat of off from

