Caused by Koumiss

Over 1,000 Persons Poisoned at a Summer Resort.

Lord Aberdeen Sails for Canada on Sept. 17.

Renewal of the Franco-Siamese Trouble—The French Entrenching Themselves—Riots in Spain Renewed.

The Coal Miners' Trouble.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—There is reason now to hope for an amicable settlement of the troubles in the South Wales and Monmouthshire coal fields. Fifty thousand miners are expected to resume work.

A Hundred People Poisoned.

MOSCOW, Aug. 29.—More than 100 persons at Shelesnovodsz, a summer resort in Caucasus, have been poisoned by koumiss. The rest of the summer visitors have left in a panic. But for a few persons too ill to be moved the hotels are deserted.

Lord and Lady Aberdeen.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—Lord Aberdeen will sail on the Sardinian on Sept. 7. Lady Aberdeen's little book, "Through Canada With a Kodak," is evoking much interest. It speaks most warmly of Canadian kindness and the resources of the country.

The Franco-Siam Trouble Renewed.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—The Times' Bangkok special says the French troops at Chantibun are making entrenchments and throwing up earthworks.

BANGKOK, Aug. 29.—France threatens to send back gunboats to the Menam before Bangkok if her new demands are not granted immediately.

Rioting in Spain.

MADRID, Aug. 29.—Rioting in San Sebastian was renewed last night, the orchestra again refusing to play the Basque Hymn. The troops fired, wounding many civilians. The streets were patrolled by military all night. Two dynamite cartridges were exploded at the Hotel Londres, where Signor Sagasta is staying. The mob set up a shout, "Long live Fueros; death to Sagasta." The civil guard fired upon the crowd, killing two men and wounding nine others. There is a rumor to the effect that the infant King, the Queen Regent and Signor Sagasta have taken refuge on board a cruiser.

Hon. Edward Blake.

LONDON, Aug 29.—Hon. Edward Blake is to leave Liverpool on the second day of September, for Quebec, by the Beaver Line steamship Lake Huron. The Irish party are to give a farewell dinner in Mr. Blake's honor to-night. The Pall Mall Gazette (Tory) says that the Canadian statesman is not likely to represent South Longford during the next session of Parliament. This statement, however, is only conjecture. Mr. Blake has received marked attention from Mr. Gladstone during the home rule debates and the former's Canadian experience has been of great service helping the bill along over the knotty obstacles that have been cropping up.

Another dispatch says: The colleagues of the Hon E. Blake, M.P., have arranged to dine him to-morrow evening. It is expected all of the Irish Home Rule members will be present, and several prominent Liberals will be among the invited guests who attend. Mr. Blake will sail for Canada on the steamer Oregon on Saturday next.

"Punish the Kaiser's Son."

BERLIN, Aug. 29.—The suicide of a private in a Guards regiment in Potsdam has revived public discussion of bullying and abuse in the army. The private was the victim of his corporal, whose inhuman practice he described in a note left for his family. The Vorwaerts, organ of the Social Democracy, is quick, as usual, to turn the incident to its own account. In a long leader it directs attention to the fact that the 11-year-old Crown Prince commands the company to which the dead private belonged, and therefore, according to military law, is answerable for the whole affair. The Crown Prince ought to be court martialed, says the Vorwaerts, and condemned to rigorous arrest for several months. He must not be allowed to escape punishment on account of his youth, thinks the Social Democratic editor, for, if too young to bear the blame he is too young also to command. It is said that every effort was made in Potsdam to keep the suicide secret, and that the body was hurried under ground without even a pretense of religious services.

German Army Maneuvers.

BERLIN, Aug. 29.—The army maneuvers in the annexed provinces next month will be stern work for the soldiers, taxing their energies hardly less than would actual war.

Exacting movements will be made on every day from the 2nd to the 15th, not even excepting Sundays.

Military men are especially interested in the effect of the new cavalry rules, introduced provisionally at a recent date and to be tested and reported on regularly until Jan. 1, 1895.

The use of dogs to carry messages and look up the dead and wounded after battle will be tried on a larger scale than ever before. The trainers have been out with the dogs near the Tempelhofer Field for months, in preparation for these experiments, and they are said to have reported remarkable success.

The refusal of France to be represented by a military attache, as formerly, at the maneuvers is still the subject of much comment. In view of France's action, general attention is directed to the coincidence that Sept. 15, when the grand final parade of the manoeuvering division will take place on the battlefield of Hagenau, is the day chosen for the fraternization of the French and Russian fleets at Toulon.

The British Navy.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—During the discussion of the navy estimates in the House of Commons last evening Sir Edward James Reed, who was at one time chief constructor of the navy, and who is the author of several works on naval shipbuilding, declared that the disaster to the warship Victoria was just what was expected of that class of vessels years ago. There remained in the navy other vessels of the same type, and he wondered how many more would capsize before the admiralty could be induced to abandon the use of that description of war vessel.

Admiral Field said that the standard for the navy should be based upon the work that the navy had to do. This was not taken into consideration by the framers of the naval estimates. Ten more first-class ships were required, especially effective rams. A large sum of money had been spent upon vessels that looked like rams, but that did not deserve the name, and that could do no more execution than a man tilting against a stone wall with a thimble on his hose.

The Right Hon. J. G. Goschen said that such an assertion could not be passed over, and he demanded that the Government institute a searching inquiry into the construction of all vessels of a similar type to the ill-fated Victoria.

POETS' DAY AT THE FAIR,

But the Skies Were Unpropitious for "As You Like It" Out of Doors.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—Tuesday, Aug. 29, is down on the official list as "poets' day," yet poets' day does not really begin until 8 p.m. Even then, unless the weather moderates, the production of "As You Like It" in the open air over near the lake in the north part of the grounds will not be given. Those in charge of the production announce that the performance will be postponed from day to day until the evening is propitious.

MORE CANADIAN PRIZE-WINNING LIVE STOCK.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—Dr. J. B. Hall, of Toronto, swept the prize list for American Arab horses, taking 1st for stallion 3 years old and under; 4th with Fezy; 2nd in the same class with Aldebaran; also 1st for mare 3 years and under; 4th with Keturah. He also took the sweepstake for the best stallion and mare, any age, with the same animals.

Other Canadian prize winners were as follows:

Clydesdale mare, under 1 year—A. B. Scott & Son, Vanneck, Heather Bloom.

Aberdeen Angus cattle—Young Hero, 5, R. Craik, Montreal.

Two animals, produce of one cow—Same owner.

Galloway cattle, sweepstakes best cow on the ground—W. Kough, Owen Sound.

Two animals, produce of one cow—W. Kough.

In the young Galloway herds three were sent back to the barn, the judge being unable to decide between them until associate judges were appointed. One of these was the Kough herd.

MONDAY'S ATTENDANCE.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—Paid admissions to the World's Fair yesterday were 129,488.

A PREY TO FLAMES.

DELAVEN, Wis., Aug. 26.—Two acres burned over in the business center of this city last night. This morning the town is without an hotel, a livery stable or postoffice. The loss is estimated at over $40,000.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Fire started at Rockaway Beach at 2 o'clock this morning and destroyed the railroad station, Daly's hotel and the Seaside House. The guests panicked, but there were no fatalities, though several persons were painfully burned.

MONTREAL, Aug. 29.—Fire broke out this evening on St. James street in the building occupied by Marcotte Freres, auctioneers. The flames gained considerable headway, but after two hours' hard work they were got under control. Mrs. Mason, 70 years of age, is supposed to have perished in the burning building. She was last seen sitting in her room, and owing to the sudden spread of the flames no timely assistance could be given. The loss by fire is estimated at about $75,000; covered by insurance.

ROSSEAU, Ont., Aug. 29.—John Haun & Son's mill and lumber at Ten Mile Lake, was totally destroyed by fire last night. Loss, about $3,000.

Took Hold of a Live Wire.

PORT HURON, Mich., Aug. 29.—While playing on Elmwood street Sunday afternoon, Eddie, a 9-year-old son of R. H. Morris, caught hold of a live electric light wire that was dangling among the trees, receiving a severe shock. His left hand, left breast and right leg were badly scorched, and fears are entertained for his recovery.

THE TURF.

RACING AT SHEEPSHEAD BAY.

SHEEPSHEAD BAY, Aug. 29.—Domino proved himself to be the worthy son of a noble sire to-day by winning the great Futurity stakes from a field of nineteen competitors. He carried the top weight, too, and was delayed at the post nearly half an hour. Besides the track was heavy and sticky. In short it was just the day for a light weight, but he vanquished all of them, though one Galilee gave him a hard fight for over a furlong and was only a head behind at the finish. It was the sixth of the Futurity series of races and the best of any of them. It was the richest too, for the gross value of the stake was $65,665. It was divided as follows: $50,165 to Domino and $4,000 to his breeder, $5,333 33 to Galilee and $2,500 to his breeder, $2,666 67 to Dobbins and $1,000 to his breeder. Domino was the public favorite, and though nearly every horse in the race was well backed, he carried the bulk of the public money, and as much as $7 to $5 was laid against his chances. Tarzi, who rode the winner, was presented with $5,000 by the Messrs. Keene.

SHEEPSHEAD, Aug. 29.—First race, 5 furlongs—Minnehaha 1, Perrier Jouet 2, Tormentor 3. Time, 1:02 4-5.

Second race, Futurity course—Factotum 1, Ascot 2, Tear Drop 3. Time, 1:14 4-5.

Third race, 1 1-16 miles—Ramapo 1, Conut 2, Pickpocket 3. Time 1:48 1-5.

Fourth race, Futurity stakes, Futurity course—Domino 1, Galilee 2, Dobbins 3. Time, 1:12 4-5.

Fifth race, Futurity course—Roche 1, Hammie 2, Chicuo 3. Time, 1:12 3-5.

Sixth race, 1 3-16 miles, on turf—Orella 1, Madrid 2, Alden 3. Time, 2:09.

The Worst in Years!

Widespread Destruction Caused by the Gale.

Its Terrible Effects Experienced in All Sections of the Country.

Growing List of Fatalities Reported from Georgia.

Scores of Vessels Either Lost or Disabled—Devastation Marks the Track of the Storm Both on Land and Sea.

FIVE MINUTES OF DESTRUCTIVE WORK.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—A special from Kernersville, N. C., says: A hurricane passed through this place at 4:30 p.m. yesterday. It lasted only five minutes, but left a path of ruin four miles wide. Three hundred buildings, mostly residences, were wrecked. The house of William M. Phillips was swept off its foundation. Mr. Phillips' daughter was killed. No other deaths are reported, but ten persons are severely hurt and the list of slightly injured is very long. In the country orchards were swept out of existence, corn fields leveled, giant oaks snapped, and what remained after the hurricane was damaged by water. This section is deluged.

COTTON SUFFERS SEVERELY.

A special from Aiken, S.C., says: Fifteen hours of rain and wind in this section has cost cotton planters from 15 to 20 per cent. of their crops.

NUMEROUS FATALITIES.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Aug. 29.—The fatalities so far reported as resulting from yesterday's hurricane are as follows:

A. C. Ulmer, assistant-cashier of the Central Railroad bank on Hutchinson's Island, drowned.

Miller, his dairyman, presumed to have been drowned.

Tony Holmes (colored), crushed in a house on Hutchinson's Island.

Unknown negroes drowned on Brampton plantation, four miles from city.

Louis Garnett (colored), ran into a live trolley wire and was killed.

Tatler Squier, a 6-year-old boy, drowned on Hutchinson's Island.

John Williams, Mary Butler and Sarah Green, drowned on a rice plantation south of the city.

Two unknown sailors drowned at Tybee Island.

There are 40 or 50 others who are reported missing.

VESSELS BLOWN ASHORE.

Twelve barks and barkentines were blown high and dry upon the marsh.

The ruin at quarantine is complete. The wharves are gone, the new fumigating plant which has cost the city so much money is in the bottom of the sea, and nine vessels which were waiting there for release to come to the city are high and dry in the marsh, and no doubt will be total wrecks.

TWELVE MORE VICTIMS.

The tug Paulson, from Tybee, reports four negroes engaged in clearing the railroad tracks and a sailor and cabin boy on the schooner Harold are drowned.

It is reported that eight of the crew of a terrapin sloop which went ashore on the south end were drowned.

The storm was worse on Tybee Island, which is at the mouth of Savannah River, and is the port of the city.

A GROWING LIST OF FATALITIES.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Aug. 29.—The list of fatalities is gradually increasing and it is impossible to tell to what extent it will grow. Several bodies of drowned persons have been picked up and search is now being made for others who are missing. Every hour brings some new story of a death as a result of the storm. The drowning of Mr. A. G. Ulmer, assistant cashier of the Central Railroad Bank, was one of the most unfortunate fatalities of the storm. Mr. Ulmer owns a farm on Hutchinson Island, opposite the city, and had gone over to pay off his hands and attend to other duties. Miller, his dairyman, has not been found, and it is supposed that he was also drowned. The other fatalities so far reported are as follows:

Tony Holmes (colored) crushed in a house on Hutchinson's Island.

Lewis Gagnett (colored) ran into a live trolley wire.

A 6-year-old colored boy drowned on Hutchinson's Island.

John Williams, Mary Butler and Sarah Green, drowned on a rice plantation south of the city.

Two unknown sailors were drowned at Tybee Island. Forty to 50 persons were reported missing. The tug Paulsen brought about 60 passengers from Tybee. Mr. Revers, one of them, stated that four negroes engaged in clearing the railroad tracks were drowned. A sailor and a cabin boy on the schooner Harold, which is on her side on north beach, are drowned. The Knights of Pythias club house was washed away. Water swept with tremendous force over this part of the island, the railroad tracks being carried from 200 to 500 feet. The Chatham's clubs house is badly damaged. The pavilions on the beach are gone; so is the switch back. An empty train is in the woods. Trains on all the roads are coming in irregularly. The church steeples are demolished.

GALE ON LAKE HURON.

SAND BEACH, Mich., Aug. 29.—A heavy north gale prevails here to-day. The schooner Crosthwaite, with coal for Chicago, came in leaking badly. The barge Mary lost part of her deck load of lumber. Four whalebacks are anchored outside, and the Osceola, Wooaken, Wilhelm, Nirtana and Chappell are sheltered in the harbor.

IN SOUTH CAROLINA.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Up to 2 p.m. the only dispatch of any kind from South Carolina received at the United Press office in Washington was a telegram from Florence, S. C., a little railroad town between Charleston and Wilmington, and not very far from Columbia, S. C. The dispatch reads as follows: "FLORENCE, S. C., Aug. 29.—In a cyclone at Sullivan's Island yesterday a man by the name of A. Bryan and his wife were drowned, and Mrs. G. Holland (white) was killed by a falling house. Fifteen houses were swept away and every one on the island was more or less damaged." Sullivan's Island is in the Atlantic Ocean, seven miles east of Charleston, and is the site of Fort Moultrie. Florence is a junction 100 miles north of Charleston. They probably received news of the disaster there by train. The dispatch is without signature, but is forwarded evidently by a regular press correspondent.

SEVERE STORM AT CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 29.—A very severe wind storm passed over this section of the country last night. But three boats left port during the night.

A HUNDRED HOUSES BLOWN DOWN.

RALEIGH, N. C., Aug. 29.—Kernellsville was struck by the cyclone. Four people were killed and 100 houses blown down. There was frightful destruction and loss of life south of here.

CLOUDBURST IN TEXAS.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 29.—A special from Sevierville, 27 miles up Pigeon River, says a cloud burst in the cove above that place yesterday, caused terrible destruction to property and crops. No lives were lost.

THE STORM IN NEW YORK.

ROCHESTER, Aug. 29.—The storm here is unprecedented in the amount of rainfall. The greatest damage is to the fruit crop.

LOCKPORT, Aug. 29.—We have no apple crop here to be damaged by storms. Many pears were blown off. In the peach-growing sections much of the fruit was blown off, and grapes have suffered in exposed situations.

BROOKLYN, Aug. 29.—The storm was severe here. Thirteen houses in course of construction were destroyed by wind this morning.

IN NEW JERSEY.

ROCHELLE, Aug. 29.—Last night's storm cut of all railroad communications between Long Branch and other resorts along the Jersey coast. A high wind prevails to-day and a heavy sea is running in New York Bay.

It is reported that the cup defender, Vigilant, has gone ashore in Long Island Sound.

ACRES OF GRAPES DESTROYED.

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 29.—A terribly destructive gale swept over Erie last night, and while the wind did not register more than 25 miles, it came in such fitful gusts that it did untold damage. The parks are full of dead sparrows. The damage to fruit crops cannot be estimated. Thousands of acres of grapes have been wrecked and fruit dashed from the vines.

BAD FOR THE WIRES.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 29.—A general storm in midwinter could scarcely have wrought more damage to the telegraph companies than did the gale of last night. Business in the Atlantic States and this city is very nearly paralyzed. The great network of wires of the Western Union company suffered to an alarming extent in places east of Buffalo and along the Baltimore and Ohio and Washington, the ravages of the storm were responsible for the wholesale destruction of wires. Line repairers fairly swarm over the storm-swept territory, and the information comes from the western side of this zone of destruction that their work is going to be the most difficult in years. Poles are down in stretches of five miles and the wires are snapped, bent and lashed into useless tangles of inextricable puzzles.

MANY YACHTS WRECKED.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—The storm at Coney Island was very severe and did much damage along the beach. The shore of Gravesend Bay is littered with wrecks of yachts and small boats. Along the Lower Hudson it was the worst storm experienced for many years. Two canal boats are reported wrecked near Rockland Lake and several lives lost.

IN CANADA.

HEAVY RAIN AT OTTAWA.

OTTAWA, Aug. 29.—The heavy rain which set in last night continued until this evening, the downpour being the heaviest this year so far.

DOWNPOUR AT KINGSTON.

KINGSTON, Aug. 29.—Shortly after midnight one of the greatest wind and rain storms this city has experienced in years burst over it and surrounding districts. In intensity and duration it has exceeded previous storms in recent years. Shade trees were stripped of their branches, signs blown down, sewers choked and some telephone and telegraph wires down. A plate glass window in King's drug store was destroyed. No marine disasters are reported as yet. By noon to-day the storm had abated.

AT NIAGARA-ON-THE-LAKE.

NIAGARA-ON-THE-LAKE, Ont., Aug. 29.—The steamer Carmona and the yacht Majil, both of Toronto, are ashore down the United States side.

THE WORST IN YEARS.

TORONTO, Aug. 29.—The storm to-day in this region was one of the worst for years. The rain was heavy and trees were blown down in many places. A good many of the excursion boats abandoned their trips altogether.

The steam barge Niagara, owned by J. & T. Matthews, this city, is ashore three miles off Oshawa.

IN LABOR'S FIELD.

35,000 Unemployed—Sad Condition of Affairs in the State of Colorado.

DENVER, Col., Aug. 29.—State Labor Commissioner Brentlinger estimates that there are 35,000 unemployed men in Colorado as the direct result of the recent closing of the mines. Not all are miners, of course. He estimates that the army of unemployed will be augmented by 15,000 men within 30 or 60 days. Many of those men are now employed by farmers or fruit raisers. The work of discharging the farm laborers has already begun.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 29.—A special from Nashville says that there will be a general strike of all the machinists of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad system from Cincinnati to New Orleans, beginning Friday. This action is due to the 10 per cent. cut in wages.

Plainly Put.

Hon. David Mills Talks to His Bothwell Constituents.

The "Facts" That Have Proclaimed Canada's Political Retrogression.

Class Legislation and Unscrupulous Means Used to Retain Office.

The Simple Lesson to be Drawn From Past Failures.

Removal of the Public Burdens by Unalterable Adherence to the Principle of a Tariff for Revenue Only.

[By the ADVERTISER'S Representative.]

THAMESVILLE, Aug. 29.—"We have, in the greatest and most influential convention ever assembled in Canada, committed ourselves as a party to a tariff for revenue only, and to that principle we shall unalterably adhere." This was the remark to which a speech of the Hon. David Mills, delivered here last evening, converged. That the sentiment met with the approbation of his auditory was immediately apparent. The tidal wave of enthusiasm which had been ebullent during the preceeding portion of his address, here reached its height. Mr. Mills' observations were confined to about an hour's duration. The listeners, numbering among them nearly every prominent resident, Liberal and Conservative, were attentive and appreciative.

Mr. Mills spoke throughout in that easy, conversational style so characteristic of him. In opening he referred to the long and harmonious relationship which had existed between himself and his constituents. The old-time Reformers—their loyalty to freedom and good government; their disinterested service to their country—were glowingly eulogized. The political retrogression, as far as a falling off in public morals was at the present time concerned, was deprecated. The Pacific scandal and the subsequent financial depression, under which the Mackenzie regime suffered, received treatment. Sir Charles Tupper's "charlatan statements" in this connection were alluded to with scorn, "May we not hope," continued the speaker, giving expression to an anticipatory remark which evoked affirmative plaudits, "that at an early day in this country such political adventurers shall become an extinct race." Public buildings in Canada, Mr. Mills maintained, were not built for purposes of general utility — were often placed where no need existed—but were distributed according to the party advantage to be derived. The domination of the Government over constituencies was denounced. "No one can deny that, in the matter of railway subsidy, we have gone far beyond the requirements of the hour." Alluding to the fiscal question Mr. Mills said: "The tariff is in every respect a piece of class legislation." Mr. Mills closed by predicting a large Conservative support to the doctrine he expounded at the next general election.

Mr. Robert Ferguson, M.P.P., took the chair precisely at 8 o'clock. His remarks were spirited and interesting. He spoke with unusual fluency. Mr. Mills' services in the House of Commons had been, he affirmed, long and disinterested. They had been fraught with increasing good to the constituency. He was sure that they would all be pleased to hear an address from one whose distinguishing abilities had made him known throughout half a continent. It would be useless, Mr. Ferguson said, for him to refer to the record of the Ontario Government. There was nothing to criticise there. This was not the case in regard to the Dominion authorities. Their career was stained and unenviable; their policy was discredited and beyond reformation. The history of the Federal Government in the past fifteen years was an iteration of buried opinions, exploded theories and disgraced doctrines. Mr. Ferguson concluded by a reference to the lamentable failure of the alleged National Policy.

Among those noticed in the audience were: William Watts, John Coutts, Markham Minshall, L. Sherman, D. McFarlane, Geo. Sherran, Rev. Mr. Beckett, Rev. Mr. Moore, Alex. MR. MILLS' SPEECH.

Mr. Chairman, ladies and gentlemen,—It is now more than 20 years since I first addressed a political meeting in this town, and more than 26 years have passed since I first sought your support with a view to represent you in the House of Commons. When I look over this large assembly, I am impressed with the exclamation of a great statesman—"What shadows we are, and what shadows we pursue." What changes, gentlemen, have taken place in the quarter of a century since I first became the representative of Bothwell. How few of the old men and true, who then gave me their warm-hearted sympathy and their active and generous support, now remain. I look over this large meeting in vain for faces once familiar; I listen in vain for voices once so gratifying to me, for they spoke words of friendship and encouragement, the honest sentiments of hearts as sincere, as true, as ever beat in the breasts of free men. They were free men indeed; men who had courage to support the opinions which they were not afraid to avow. They cut down the mighty forests, cleared the fields, and earned their bread by severe toil. So far as they could they avoided debt; they owed no man anything. They wanted their own; they rendered to every man his due. They were possessed of genuine public spirit. They were as little disposed to look with indifference on public affairs as they were upon their own private affairs. No effort was needed to awaken them to the call of duty. They were not content with bare toleration, they strove for equality; they labored ardently to remove abuses, and to found our political institutions in honesty, in truth, and in equality before the law. The motto of the sovereign—"God and my right"—was indeed the motto of each one of them, not engraven upon any coat of arms, but upon the tablets of their hearts, and there it remained until those lives, long and honorable, were here closed forever.

OLD-TIME REFORMERS.

What Reformer of the olden time still remaining can forget the services of the Shaws, the Shermans, the Phillipses, the Minshalls, the Hills, the Pickards, the Ingalls, and many others. They rest from their labors. They died in the harness and at the posts where freemen should ever be found. But the memory of their public spirit, their sufferings, their sacrifices, their devotion to duty, and their undaunted courage, still survives, to contend against wickedness in high places—still lives to make war on wrongdoing in the conduct of public affairs, still contributes to purify, and to exalt public life.

There were among them men to whom the memory of Bidwell and Baldwin, Mackenzie and Rolph, Robert Gourlay and Malcolm Cameron, Perry and Sullivan were dear, and these men, amidst trials and discouragements, were buoyed up to renewed exertion, and kept in good cheer by those who suffered in property and in reputation, and not a few of whom were sent to prison, or driven into exile, rather than deny or desert a cause, which was to them as dear as life itself.

MANLY MOTIVES.

Their loyalty to freedom and good government, was not the outcome of any mercenary consideration; it was not because they would be wealthier, or politically more important, or socially more influential, but in order that all men, of every race, and of every religious denomination, might, alike, enjoy the blessings of freedom. They labored to establish here, under the English Parliamentary system, political institutions worthy of Christian free men. They aimed at making the people of Canada a self-governing people. They were ready to accord to others, however different in their opinions, the same rights and privileges, the same liberty of action, which they claimed for themselves. They aimed to make the Government of their country, honest, pure, impartial and free, and they, for a time, fondly hoped that this object had been fully accomplished.

Well, gentlemen, I must say to you that we have fallen far below the standard of attainment which those old veterans of freedom, who have fallen asleep, and whose dust lies interred in the neighboring churchyard, implicitly believed had been reached in their day. And were it not for matters of great practical importance, calling for consideration, it would have been a source of satisfaction to me, and I hope of public advantage to you, to have for the hour considered how it came that we seem to have how it is that so many regard with seeming indifference, acts of a character so reprehensible, which if done in the mother country, would have provoked revolution. This fact remains, that we have deeds done and defended which, if 30 years ago, they had been harbored even in thought, that thought would not have found expression among friends; for the man who would have suggested the possibility of doing these things would have lowered himself in the estimation of those to whom he had given a glimpse of what was passing within his mind. I cannot but regret what has happened, because I know Canada has refused to profit by great opportunities which can never return. But I also know that we are still the master builders of our own fortunes. No other country, no adverse circumstances, can keep from us that need of prosperity, which may by honesty, industry, and public virtue, still be earned. It has been well said by a great poet:

"For freedom's battle once begun
Bequeathed by bleeding sire to son
Though baffled oft is ever won."

And I doubt not, though it be by a painful experience and by evil fortune, our political education will go on and we will advance.

Let me refer you, not to the causes of this moral retrogression, but to

THE FACTS.

You remember the event known as the Pacific scandal. I refer to it, not to discuss it, but to recall the state of the public feeling at that time upon the facts becoming known. These facts were, in part, made public. There was an effort on the part of the guilty parties to conceal them. That effort was not successful. An election was had; the country condemned these transactions and ranged itself on the side of honest government. Whatever may be thought of the capacity or the fitness of those intrusted with power at that time, the aim of the public disclosed a healthy

IS YOUR GROCER ALIVE

TO YOUR INTEREST AS WELL AS HIS OWN?

If so, he is never tired of recommending articles which are a mutual benefit, for he knows well that nothing he sells gives more satisfaction or pays the buyer and seller better than C. W. C. It is all that can be desired for washing and cleaning, as it makes labor light, clothes bright, saves money, and is perfectly safe to use. ASK YOUR GROCER FOR THIS VALUABLE COMPOUND.

THE McKEE CASE.

Investigating Charges Against the Well-Known Detective.

WINDSOR, Aug. 29.—The investigation of the charges made by R. S. McDonald against Detective McKee, and of those to be made by Benjamin Pacaud against McKee, was resumed before Police Magistrate Bartlet yesterday morning. Mr. Hanna intimated that the particulars of the charges made by Pacaud against McKee had not been furnished by the defense, as ordered by the court.

While Mr. Sutherland admitted that there had been no particulars furnished, he thought they were not obliged to furnish them. This was a commission and not a trial, and he thought that the commission should go into all the evidence.

Mr. Bartlet thought it unfair to go ahead without having furnished the defense with particulars of the charges. He would, however, advise Mr. McKee to proceed without them. When Mr. Bartlet asked for a copy of the charges made by B. Pacaud, Mr. Sutherland said that Pacaud had withdrawn his name from the charges, but that they would be submitted in due time with another name attached.

The charges, as made by McDonald, were then gone into. R. S. McDonald said that McKee had run an open account with the firm of Straith & McDonald since May 19, 1890. The total amount of checks received from the Ontario Government since that time by this firm for clothing was $153 50, while the total amount purchased by McKee was $144. So the firm received $9 50 from the Government more than the price of clothing got by McKee.

After several other witnesses had been examined the investigation was adjourned until Monday, Sept. 4.

Peary Can't Get Dogs.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., Aug. 29.—Further discouraging news concerning the Peary expedition comes from Labrador by the mail steamer. According to the last report, Peary was at Davis Inlet on Aug. 2, and on the 5th had reached Nain. There he tried again to purchase dogs, but failed, because he refused to pay the prices asked. He had not at last accounts purchased dogs, although he had tried several places. The dogs are worth $4 or $5 apiece, while Peary offers but 40 cents.

Like Lightning.

The rapid action of the "great pain cure," Polson's Nerviline, in relieving the most intense pain, is a matter of wonder to all who have used it. There is nothing surprising in its results, for it is made of the strongest, purest and most efficient remedies known in medicine. Nerviline cures toothache instantly; cramps in five minutes; neuralgia after two applications; rheumatism is at once relieved by its use; and the same may be said of all kinds of pain. Sample bottles, costing only 10 cents, at any drug store. The large bottles only 25 cents. Polson's Nerviline sold only by druggists and country dealers.

DEATH REVEALED THE SECRET.

A Young Husband of Newark Not Allowed to See His Dead Wife Until Marriage Was Proved.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 29.—Not until after the death of Emma Puff, 22 years old, at the home of her parents, No. 202 Springfield avenue, Newark, last week, did her family know that she had been married. Her husband is Edward Lamanyer, 23 years old. The young man heard of his wife's death and went to the home of her parents. The mother refused to allow him to enter the room where the body lay. Then he announced that he and the dead girl had been married on July 4 last. The mother refused to believe this at first, but the young man gave the necessary proofs. He was not allowed to enter the house, however, until his story was verified. Young Lamanyer had known Miss Puff several months before he married her. He made known his intentions to the girl's parents, and they forbade him to think of it, as he was not earning sufficient money to support a wife. The young people managed to meet from time to time, and on July 4 they were secretly married. They decided to keep the matter quiet until the young husband was in a position to assert himself. His wife was taken ill some time ago with hasty consumption, which caused her death.

CANADA AND AUSTRALIA.

A Ten Year's Contract With the Australian Steamship Company—A New Fast Vessel.

OTTAWA, Aug. 29.—The Government have made an absolute contract for ten years with James Huddart as managing owner of the steamships of the Canadian-Australian Steamship Company. A third swift and large steamship is to be immediately added to the line, and the number will be further increased and the service made more frequent as the traffic increases. Mr. Huddart has obtained permission from the Dominion Government to make Kepple Bay, Queensland, the last point of departure and the first port of call from the time that the third steamship shall be running, provided that the Queensland Government contribute their proportion of the necessary subsidy.

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company have entered into an agreement for ten years with Mr. Huddart to act as agents for his company in Canada and the United States and in Europe. Mr. Huddart is appointed agent in Australia and Sandwich Islands for the C. P. R. Company. The new line is considered to be an assured success.

Burglars Taken Care Of.

ST. THOMAS, Aug. 29.—Alex. Owens and Jas. Anderson, Minneapolis, were sentenced to-day to 25 months each in Central Prison for burglarizing Hockin & Pool's store, Dutton, and Chas. Graham to eighteen months for burglarizing a private residence.

Fatal Runaway at Watford.

WATFORD, Ont., Aug. 29.—Mrs. John Wilson, who lives about four miles from here, in the 4th line of Warwick, was in town this morning with her son-in-law, Mr. Harrower, and had just returned to Mr. Harrower's, when he got out and led the team through the gate and went back to shut it. While Mrs. Wilson held the lines the team started off and ran away, running into the side of the barn, overthrowing the wagon. Mrs. Wilson had her arm and leg broken, and was badly cut about the head and face, and died about an hour afterwards. She leaves a husband and three children.

Windsor District Methodists.

COMBER, Ont., Aug. 29.—The financial meeting of the Windsor district Methodist Church was held here to-day, Rev. A. L. Russell, B.D., of Leamington, in the chair. The meeting recommended the granting of $650 to the Walkerville mission and $500 to the Pelee Island mission. Dates were fixed upon which to hold missionary meetings on every circuit throughout the district. The district was divided into divisions for evangelistic work. It was decided to hold the next district meeting in Kingsville some time in May next, and the financial district meeting in Essex town. Four members were appointed a committee for district temperance work. At 8 p.m. an open meeting and concert was held in the Methodist Church. Rev. W. Godwin gave an address on "What is Success in Sunday School Work." Rev. A. L. Russell spoke on "Epworth League Work"; Rev. S. Salton on "The Parent's Relation to the Sunday School." The addresses, as well as the musical part of the programme, were excellent. The Sabbath school convention to-morrow.

Dyspepsia Cured.

Gentlemen.—I was troubled with dyspepsia for about four years. I noticed an advertisement of Burdock Blood Bitters, so I started to use it and soon found that there was nothing to equal it. It took just three bottles to effect a perfect cure in my case.

There's one thing to be said in favor of the summer. One has warmer friends than in winter.

Parents Must Have Rest.

A president of one of our colleges says: "We spent many sleepless nights in consequence of our children suffering from colds, but this never occurs now. We use Scott's Emulsion and it quickly relieves pulmonary troubles."

"I suppose it just means that he hired 'em out," was the reply of a small Sunday school child when asked what was meant by the expression "And the king rent his clothes."

Naturally enough the calamitists continue to howl with dogged determination.

A Cure for Headache.

Headache arises from constipation, bad blood, dyspepsia or liver complaints. As B. B. B. cures all these complaints it is naturally the most successful headache cure existing. Once the cause is removed the headache vanishes.

Meet in Annual Session at Sarnia.

Two Hundred Delegates Receive Their Degrees.

Opening Ceremonies—Welcome from the Town Authorities—Kindly Treated —High Court Reports.

SARNIA, Ont., Aug. 29.—The seventeenth annual session of the Independent Order of Foresters opened here in the town hall this morning at 10 o'clock, R. W. H. C. R. Bro. A. McGillivray, Toronto, presiding.

The High Court officers present were: R. W. H. C. R., Rev. A. McGillivray, Toronto; P. R. H. H. C. R., David Miller, Toronto; H. V. C. R., C. C. David, Hamilton; H. S., J. B. Halkett, Ottawa; high treasurer, A. Fleming, London; high physician, C. D. Clark, Tamworth; high councilor, L. J. Barclay, Whitby; high chaplain, Rev. F. W. Farries, Ottawa; high senior woodward, L. F. Marter, M.P., Parkdale; high junior woodward, H. A. Collins, Toronto; high senior beadle, M. B. Mallary, M.D., Campbellton; high junior beadle, E. A. Evans, Cornwall; high marshal, Frank Madill, M.P., Beaverton; high conductor, Mayor Lloyd, Newmarket; high messenger, P. Simington, Sarnia; high assistant messenger, F. J. Fitzgerald, London.

BUSINESS BEGUN.

After the usual opening ceremonies the various standing committees were appointed. Two hundred delegates, who had never before attended, had the High Court degree conferred upon them before attending the meeting.

The reports of the R. W. H. C. R., the high secretary, high treasurer, high auditors and High Court inspectors were read and referred to committees.

The Sarnia court tendered an address of welcome to the visiting brethren, also an invitation to an excursion on the steamer Conger on the river Wednesday. The latter was accepted, and the afternoon session cancelled.

This afternoon the mayor and council of Sarnia welcomed the High Court and gave the delegates the freedom of the town.

Dr. Oronhyatekha and other Supreme Court officials were present as visitors to the High Court, and met with a rousing reception. A number of distinguished representatives from England, Ireland, Scotland and the United States were introduced.

Nominations and election of officers will take place to-morrow. Twenty-four delegates will be sent from the High Court to Chicago to the Supreme Court meeting, Aug. 31. Following are summaries of the reports presented:

HIGH CHIEF RANGER.

The report of the high chief ranger, Alexander McGillivray, stated that the total membership of the order was 52,000, and the surplus quite three-quarters of a million dollars. The growth of the membership in Ontario was illustrated by the following comparative table:

Year.	Members.	Courts.
1881	369	15
1882	973	53
1883	1,340	64
1884	1,651	74
1885	2,694	93
1886	3,332	136
1887	4,841	189
1888	6,699	220
1889	9,483	264
1890	11,815	297
1891	14,367	371
1892	17,729	462
1893	21,900	521

The record was one that gave the liveliest satisfaction. The report continues: "In my 106 visits to courts I traveled 10,446 miles; was absent from home 71 nights. In addition to delivering 76 public addresses, I preached 15 special sermons to members of the order; was absent from my own pulpit for this purpose eight Sundays. I conducted the funeral service of three departed brothers. I installed the officers of 13 courts. I sent out 1,125 letters, 300 postcards, and six circulars, aggregating over 3,000." During his term of office he had issued the following commissions: 657 to court deputy high chief rangers, 35 to district deputies, and 78 to provincial deputies. High compliments were paid to the high inspectors, Bros. C. C. Whale and the late Wellington Wallace. Within the past year 63 new courts were instituted, 13 reinstated, and not one become defunct. Ninety-five brothers have "crossed the bar" and brains that planned, and hands that wrought were still. For the twelve months ending July 31, the order received 5,476 applications. The number of lapses showed a decrease in comparison.

THE HIGH SECRETARY.

James B. Halkett, high secretary, presented a gratifying report. His statement regarding the membership of the order was especially so. On July 1, 1892, the number on the roll was 17,729. Since then 4,424 had been initiated. This made a total of 22,153. Owing to deaths (95), suspensions and lapses (913), 1,008 of these had to be deducted. The membership in Ontario was thus 21,145 on June 30, 1893. Forty-eight courts have been instituted, 34 by officers of the Ontario High Court and 14 by officers of the supreme body. The financial position of the order, though not as regards receipts sufficiently in excess of the expenditure to cause apprehension, is not what its friends could wish. The assets are $3,850 47, and the liabilities $4,137 84, making a deficit of $287 37. This indebtedness will, no doubt, be annulled during the coming year.

THE HIGH COURT INSPECTOR.

The report of Mr. C. C. Whale, High Court inspector, stated that the Forestric year ending June, 1893, had been one of unparalleled success throughout the Province. Sixty-three courts had been organized. Up to the present nearly 5,000 members had been added, and thirteen courts had been resuscitated. During the year he had organized ten new courts, assisted at organizing five more, resuscitated eight old courts. He had addressed 27 public meetings, visited 132 old courts in all sections of the Province, and secured 425 applications. These courts he had found in an unusual state of activity—prosperous and progressive.

THE HIGH TREASURER.

Atwell Fleming, of London, high treasurer, read his annual report. It was entirely satisfactory. On June 30, 1892, the balance on hand was $1,754 34. From the high secretary, $15,670 57 had been received up to the end of June in the current year. After all disbursement had been made the balance was $15 17.

DROWNED!

One Boy Seized With Cramps Pulls Down Two Companions.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Aug. 29.—A terrible drowning accident occurred in the Merrimac River here this afternoon. Edmond Bostarouche, aged 18 years, and Samuel and Alex. Bouchard, brothers, aged 18 and 15 years respectively, were swimming, when one of them was seized with cramps, and the other two went to his assistance.

They were both seized in the frenzied grasp of the drowning boy and all three went down together. Their bodies were recovered shortly after.

Mr. W. J. Wilson, age 21, of the Eastern Townships Bank, Sherbrooke, was drowned on Sunday night at North Hatley, on Lake Massawippi. He had gone for a swim in the lake.

IN CONGRESS.

The Senate Finance Committee Go Back on the Wilson Bill.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 29.—The Senate committee on finance decided to report back to the Senate the Wilson Repeal Bill with the recommendation that the Voorhees Bill, already on the Senate calendar, be substituted for it. The committee also resolved to set aside the National Bank Circulation Bill, which is now unfinished business in the Senate, in favor of the Voorhees Bill, and to press the latter measure as rapidly as the temper of the Senate will permit.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—The committee on ways and means will proceed at once with the preparation of a general tariff bill and will hold hearings in the course thereof to persons and parties interested.

CLEVELAND'S CONDITION.

Contradictory Reports Regarding the President's Health.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 29.—A special from Philadelphia says: The Press this morning publishes a four-column article confirming the Evening Post's dispatch from Boston about a month ago, which stated that President Cleveland underwent an operation on the yacht Oneida for the removal of a cancer. The operation required the cutting away of a considerable part of the upper jaw bone, and so far there has been no serious effect. The Press says that Mr. Cleveland is yet a very sick man, and that his physician fears that mortal disease is still lurking in his system, notwithstanding the heroic efforts of surgery to remove it in July.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 29.—The President's private secretary, when asked concerning the report that Mr. Cleveland was a very sick man following an operation performed on his face, stated that so far as he knew there was absolutely no truth in the report.

The objectionable habit of biting the nails is not uncommon. Those who indulge in it should take the following history as a warning. A young girl died from a painful internal disease which baffled medical science. A post mortem was held, and in the vital part there was discovered a large ball, formed entirely of morsels of nail, which were quite indigestible and which had increased gradually.

LONDON. - - CANADA.

If you trust in God and yourself you can surmount every obstacle. Do not yield to restless anxiety. One must not always be asking what may happen to one in life, but one must advance fearlessly and bravely.
—PRINCE BISMARCK.

London, Wednesday, Aug. 30.

—Hon. J. M. Gibson says the talk of an Ontario general election this year is all humbug.

—Russia and Germany are raising their tariff walls at a time when the United States and Canada are about to begin the lowering of the barriers.

—When a church and its pastor cannot agree, there is little to be gained by washing dirty linen in public. The more the laundry is kept in the back-ground the better.

—The House of Representatives at Washington has carried the repeal of the Sherman Silver Act by an overwhelming majority. The Senate majority will not be so large, but 'twill serve.

—The New York World, alluding to Robert Ingersoll's too-profitable blasphemy, says the only thing in which the colonel is perfectly prosaic and orthodox is his method of counting the gate receipts.

—Some of those who assail Rev. Mr. Wrong for petitioning for President Cleveland ahead of Albert Edward, probably take the view of the French marchioness, that surely there will be a special heaven for the nobility.

—While the newspapers of Toronto generally opposed Sunday street cars, what may be called the hand-to-hand, out-from-the-shoulder tussle took place between the News and the World. The News beat it out of sight in argument as in pluck and vivacity. There was no trimming, no sitting on the fence. By this fight the News has distinctly improved its journalistic position.

—We give a hit and a retort from two of our exchanges, leaving the reader to decide which comes off best:

The wonderful lack of harmony and the constant prevalence of dissension among the lady managers of the World's Fair do not argue very strongly for the admission of women into the great legislative bodies of the country.—[Cleveland Leader.

Likewise, the lack of harmony and constant prevalence of dissension among the members of Congress argue very strongly for the exclusion of men from that body in the future.—[New York Sun.

—Our old friend, the slaughter-market scare, is being worked by Ministerial journals. That is to say, we are warned that United States manufacturers are determined to sell manufactures in Canada at low rates; and all are called upon to get out their snicker-snees and weep accordingly. The scare is like an over-worked ghost trick. The awful prediction that Canadians are likely to get too much for a dollar bill, is a prediction that cannot come true too soon.

WILL NOT BE SHIRKED.

The Dominion Premier has returned barrenly from the Bering Sea business at Paris, accompanied by Tupper the Younger, and the venerable Boanerges, father to the latter.

Sir John Thompson is an iceberg as to temperament, but logical and acute withal. The youthful Tupper crows resonantly, taking to himself whatever oratorical advantage comes of defying facts as Ajax defied the lightning. The venerable Boanerges, his fortitude of assertion, his erstwhile lungs of leather—are they not known of all men? But what does he here at this time? Is he a stormy petrel, portending the sleet and hail of an early general election? His own version is that he comes out on private business and to visit his offspring. It is always possible in a given instance that a man may be speaking the truth.

As to the general election, the fact probably is that Ministers have not yet made up their minds whether to risk all on another midnight dissolution, or content themselves with the certainties of the remainder of a term stretched out to its farthest constitutional limit.

In relation to the tariff, they stand between the de'il and the deep sea. If, carrying out reluctant pledges, they make a general scaling down of the tariff, they will hardly win the gratitude of those protectionist manufacturers who have been their stay in many a hard-fought fight. If they do not do so, woe betide when next they encounter the electorate! A middle course may be attempted, that of making a pretense of lopping the mouldering branches away—in reality doing as little as possible. Would this weak-backed course succeed in the present temper of the public? We think not. Not by every one does the dear public like to be humbugged, and Sir John Macdonald, the old Tory chieftain under whom the previous election was carried, has made the last exit, leaving no successor.

No! the tariff issue has got to be faced. The public demand a lower tariff—a tariff constructed on a revenue basis. The Patrons of Industry, a non-partisan body, demand cheaper implements, cheaper binder twine, cheaper everything that is unduly burdened by the tariff. The Liberals in recent convention at Ottawa pronounced solidly for tariff reform. Conservative farmers are beginning to reflect that under the so-called National Policy they have been the dupes of special interests. Every tendency in the United States is toward tariff reduction—a tendency not to be ignored; for while it would always be possible for Canada to maintain a lower tariff than that of our neighbors, it is impracticable to maintain a higher tariff.

Sir John Thompson and the administrative galaxy by which he is surrounded face no enviable task. We repeat, if they reduce the tariff to a revenue tariff basis, they anger men who already mutter they can unmake Ministers as easily as they have made them. If they do not reduce the tariff, the people of Canada from ocean to ocean will spew them out. If they endeavor to humbug both manufacturers and the public, they are like to experience the proverbial difficulty of simultaneously serving God and mammon.

"AND A NEW EARTH."

That some things in the body politic are not exactly right, and ought to be changed, is pretty generally admitted. A recent programme by Dr. Washington Gladden has excited a good deal of attention. Here it is in brief synopsis. With how much of it, reader, do you concur?

1. Free education in state schools.

2. Sanitary supervision, securing pure air and water for all the people.

3. Discouragement, if not extirpation, of parasites on industry, viz., criminals, paupers, gamblers and gambling speculators.

4. Suppression of the saloon and of the liquor interest generally.

5. Prohibition of Sunday labor: "The liberty of rest for each requires the law of rest for all."

6. Limitation of hours of labor in some callings if not for all; protection of the liberty of most against the tyranny of a few.

7. Efficient sanitary inspection of factories, workshops and mines.

8. Peace-making—(1) in all industrial disputes, by models and suggestions, permissive legislation, appointment of district tribunals; by compelling all quasi-public corporations to submit their disputes to such tribunals; and (2) arbitration treaties with every other nation.

9. State control, as of the postoffice, of telegraphs, railroads, street railways, gas, electric light and all virtual monopolies; for their exactions come properly under the head, not of trade, but of taxation, and there should be "no taxation without representation."

10. Control of the economic monster known as "trust," "syndicate," etc.

Sharp limitation of the amount of land which any individual is allowed to control.

Heavy taxation upon all legacies exceeding a certain sum.

So much for better methods. But Dr. Gladden thinks something more may be needed. "We need," he says, "better methods; still more do we need better men."

ONE OR TWO THINGS DEMONSTRATED.

One or two things have been demonstrated by the recent voting on Sunday cars in Toronto:

1. That it is necessary the Ontario Legislature should take such action as may be necessary for the prevention and punishment of personation in municipal and bylaw contests of every sort, the regulations in that regard being shamefully deficient.

2. That no handful of persons proclaiming themselves leaders of labor can carry in their trousers' pockets the votes of those sometimes called workingmen. "Workingman" is a misleading title, however, since all who work, in whatever way, at useful employment, are equally entitled to the honorable appellation.

3. That the votes and efforts of women voters aided powerfully the right side of the contest. After a while, those who seek the best interest of society may recognize what a power women's votes would be in all elections.

4. That, after all, it is not necessary for the reputable part of any community to sit down acquiescently, as is often done, whenever some combination of grog and mammon chooses to make practical assault on cherished moral principles. The latter generally start out full of sound and clamor, sometimes by pure force of assumption imposing upon themselves and others that they are The People. A strong, moderate, straightforward fight along the line of sound moral principle seldom fails, especially under tactful and common-sense direction. Good leadership counts for a good deal. In this connection, the advice of Dr. Caven, after the victory, is sound and to the purpose. He says: "Be cool, be considerate, be thoughtful, be Christian, and, if you keep to high ground, regarding it as a labor, economic, and social question, but having its roots deeply fixed in religious conviction and sentiment—if you regard it in that light, I have no fear of your changing your position. Be sure of this, that there is nothing so strong as a sincere moral conviction. You do not need to advance any dogmatic theology for that. You only need to believe that the day is a great blessing to the community. Let us thank God for the day, and that it is to abide, and by God's grace and good providence it will be retained for ever."

THE OPEN FORUM.

An Interesting Reminiscence.

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER:

Several weeks ago I saw an article in your columns respecting Mr. George Railton, stating that he was in the city calling on old acquaintances, and said that there were but few in London that would remember Mr. Railton of 45 years ago. Mr. Editor, I remember Mr. Railton of 45 years ago, and probably shall do so as long as I live, from an incident that took place at that time. If my memory serves me right Mr. Railton at that time kept asort of variety store on Ridout street, opposite the Court House, and the late Mr. Geo. Tyas kept a general store on Dundas street, on the site now occupied by E. Adams & Co. The late G. G. Magee and myself were employed in Mr. Tyas' store. One evening about 9:30 o'clock Mr. Magee stood behind the counter near the front window, and I about midway of the counter, when in walked a drunken soldier and said to me, "I want a pound of duck shot." I weighed out the shot. "Now," said he, "you will have to trust me, and I will be down to-morrow to pay you." I said, "It is against the rules to trust out goods; you had better hurry home or you won't be out to-morrow. You will be in the guard house; you are after time now." He shoved both hands into his pockets and drew out two pistols and pointed them at my breast, and with an oath said, "They won't confine me." He had stolen the pistols from Mr. Railton a few minutes before he came to the store. Mr. Magee turned to me and said, "John, I wouldn't have given five cents for your life; two pistols to a man's breast in the hands of a drunken soldier is no joke." Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for so much space, I remain, yours, etc.,

J. W. KERN

DROWNED WHILE BATHING.

Sad Fatality at Hamilton Beach—A Son of Rev. Samuel Lyle Loses His Life.

HAMILTON, Aug. 29.—A sad drowning accident occurred at Hamilton Beach today. A young man named James Lyle, in company with several young men, was bathing in the surf in Lake Ontario about 10 o'clock this morning, when he got too far from the shore, became exhausted and went down before assistance could reach him. The body was recovered shortly afterwards, but life was extinct. Lyle was the third son of Rev. Samuel Lyle, pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church, of Hamilton, and was living at the Beach with his parents. He was 17 years of age and was well and favorably known throughout the city.

AGAINST THE POPULISTS.

Fusion Deal in Kansas Between Republicans and Democrats.

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 29.—The latest fusion deal in Kansas has created a great deal of comment among all classes of politicians. Saturday the Republican and Democratic central committees of Seward county met and called a joint convention of the two parties to meet at the court house in Liberal Saturday, Sept. 2, to nominate a county ticket. The call recites that it is time for all law-abiding people to come together on a broad and patriotic basis and unite in solid phalanx against the onward march of anarchy and disorder that threaten to destroy the credit and good name of Kansas and hold her people up to the ridicule and derision of the nation. These references are made against the Populist party that is endeavoring to capture the heretofore Republican counties in Western Kansas. Dispatches from that section say that this Democratic-Republican fusion will probably be made in a score of counties.

What is Eczema?

It is an agony of agonies.

A torture of tortures.

It is an itching and burning of the skin almost beyond endurance.

It is thousands of pin-headed vesicles filled with an acrid fluid, ever forming, ever bursting, ever flowing upon the raw excoriated skin.

No part of the human skin is exempt.

It tortures, disfigures and humiliates more than all other skin diseases combined.

Tender babies are among its most numerous victims.

They are often born with it.

Sleep and rest are out of the question.

THE INTERNATIONAL MATCH.

TORONTO, Aug. 29.—The executive committee of the Canadian Cricket Association met at the Walker House to-night and selected the team that will uphold Canada's honor in the international match to be played with a United States team here on Sept. 11 and 12.

The Old Man Would Have His Joke.

Two boys, who owned a cattle farm out West christened it "Focus," at their sire's request The old man thought it quite a good conceit, For there the sun's rays meet—(the sons raise meat!)

The lads prospered, and they and their families enjoyed the very best of health. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets were always found in their medicine chest—the only positive cure for bilious and sick headache, dizziness, constipation, indigestion and all disorders of the bowels and stomach. Strictly vegetable, small, sugar-coated; only one required for a dose, and their action is gentle and thorough. The best Liver Pill on earth.

Plainly Put!

state of political opinion, the country condemned the sale of a great charter—to the possession of which large areas of land and large sums of money were attached—for ready money to be used as a party election fund.

Then came, along with a change of Ministry, a period of great financial depression, both in Europe and America. This depression was less felt in this Province than it was, perhaps, in any other country having any foreign trade or commerce. The extent of this depression was greatly exaggerated.

THE CAUSES WERE DISHONESTLY MISSTATED.

An inconsequential remedy was proposed. But this was not all. Everything that could be said was said to exasperate the people of Canada against the Ministry, because they had not adopted a policy of retaliation towards the United States. It was said that the Administration of Mr. Mackenzie was truckling to our neighbors; that they permitted Canada to be made a slaughter market for American goods, to the ruin of our own people; that the Canadian people, being denied employment at home, were compelled to go abroad to earn the means of subsistence. Where Christendom was prosperous, no thanks were due to a government for the prosperity of the country at such a time; but what was wanted was a government which could secure to this country a high degree of prosperity when there was great depression everywhere else. "This," said Sir Charles Tupper, "any man worthy of the name of a statesman could accomplish for Canada." I am not going to detain you by any discussion of charlatan statements of this kind. No public men could be found in the United Kingdom who would venture to make them, even though they felt sure they would be believed to their advantage. May we not hope that at an early day in this country such political adventurers shall become an extinct race.

I am not going this evening to discuss the merits or demerits of the sale of the Pacific Railway charter to Sir Hugh Allan. There is nothing to be gained by the discussion. It has passed out of the region of politics into the domain of history; and it is to be hoped that the judgment of history will be a just judgment.

THE POLICY OF PROTECTION, which was confidently proclaimed as a panacea for commercial depression, had its effect. Those who had long experienced the double advantage springing from an unrestricted market and from war prices just beyond the boundary, were made to believe that the reaction which followed a great war was due to the very moderate rate of taxation to which they were subjected. They were persuaded that their business was suffering from the absence of greater fiscal burdens; and so the recent breach of public trust was overlooked, the offense was condoned, and the offenders were recalled and were once more intrusted with the direction of the affairs of the nation.

When they returned, it was in the spirit of the Stuart dynasty—not to enter upon an amended political career, but with the avowed by bringing the moral sense of the country down to the level of their own conduct, and every important measure was introduced and carried with this end mainly in view The system of taxation, the Franchise Act, the Redistribution Act, the appointment of returning officers, the expenditure by the Public Works Department, the aid of local railways, the sums paid to the newspapers supporting the Government, all point in the one direction. Scarcely any of these measures have anything whatever to do with contributing to the prosperity of the country, but they had much to do with its moral degradation. The whole business, from first to last, looks to the employment of retainers, whose chief duty it is to keep a government that has been made. The tariff is, in every respect, a piece of class legislation. It is based upon the assumption, that men who are specially favored, will be found specially grateful; that a fiscal policy of this kind, while it appeals directly to the personal interests of an energetic, active and wealthy few, also appeals to their sense of gratitude, and makes them hesitate to oppose men, who, whatever else they have done which they dislike, have at least aimed at helping them. Then, too, the disciplined force, and the pecuniary aid of such a body, are hardly of less value in a political campaign than a well equipped and disciplined army are in war. But the Ministry did not rest upon these things. There is the irresponsible returning officer, who surrounded himself with deputies, zealous for the Government, and, in many constituencies, he proved himself an important auxiliary.

THE FRANCHISE ACT,

with its list of men no longer qualified, but who were nevertheless retained on the roll, and with its numerous body of absentees, has also served the purpose of its authors. And then comes the Redistribution Act, with its packed constituencies, and its mosaic combinations, designed to make the result of a popular election certain for the Government, no matter though the current of popular feeling may flow in the opposite direction. Besides the direct advantage flowing from this act, there is the indirect advantage produced upon the feeling of timid opponents—that all efforts to defeat the Ministry will be unavailing, and that it is of no use that any efforts should be made to that end. I have already mentioned the injury done to the country, by the expenditure of large sums of money upon works and undertakings, which cannot be justified on the grounds of their public character and general utility. The Public Works Department has, for years, been used to bulldoze constituencies, and to prevent the elections from being a fair indication of the real state of public opinion. In this

VERY SERIOUS ABUSE

the public have not infrequently acquiesced. You know that a portion of the taxes are taken every year to be employed in the building of lighthouses and piers, in the improvement of harbors, and in the erection of custom houses and postoffices. If the public interests were being served, the interests of those concerned in trade and commerce, and in an extensive private business, would be chiefly considered. Two years ago, Parliament, by a unanimous vote, affirmed that expenditures for these purposes should be made first, where the people are the most numerous, where the most extensive trade was carried on, and where the largest amount of revenue was collected. This was a perfectly just rule. It was a rule by the observance of which the public would be best served. There are many places where the use of a private room or building can be secured for a very moderate sum, and where the erection of public buildings should be avoided, because the expenditure, if undertaken, would necessarily be considerable, and where a large sum would be required ever after for lighting, heating, caretaking and repairs. And this would necessitate in many of the villages of the country, a permanent charge upon the public treasury out of all proportion to the revenues collected. I need give you but

A SINGLE ILLUSTRATION.

In the village of Fairfield, situated in a doubtful constituency, a large sum was voted for a postoffice. The constituency was lost. The expenditure was not made. When an election occurred again, the electors were reminded that they had no right to expect any such expenditure, when they did not return a supporter of the Administration. On the last occasion, they returned a supporter, and the sum most improperly appropriated for the erection of a postoffice, but which had been allowed to lapse, was once more put in the estimates. This office cost $20,000. The amount of revenue collected at the office is about $400. The Government were paying $80 a year for the use of a building to a private party so that the revenue they were receiving was considerably in excess of the expenditure. Now see what this erection of a $20,000 postoffice means. The interest upon the cost amounts to $1,000 a year. As it is a public building, no other business will be carried on; so that they will be compelled to pay a postmaster a fixed salary of certainly not less than $800 a year, and for lighting, heating, caretaking and repairs, a sum of not less than $800 more will be required. So you see in this village, where under the previous arrangement the public were receiving something more than they paid, under the new arrangement they will be paying for all time to come many times the amount they receive. I give you this as a single illustration of the way the permanent charges upon the revenues of the country have grown. If all the towns and villages in Canada, were dealt with in the same way, it would require an expenditure of $15,000,000 for postal accommodation alone, and it would add $1,500,000 annually to the costs of government. There is no use in disguising the fact that such expenditures are

TO BUY THE CONSTITUENCY

GROSSLY CORRUPT.

and the villagers who favor such expenditures are seriously impeding the prosperity of this country. There are places, such as Woodstock, with a very large population, where immense sums of revenue are collected, where public buildings would be a matter of public convenience, but where none such are provided. You have a large expenditure proposed at Petolea for a customs house; you have nothing of the sort provided at Sarnia though Sarnia is the more populous place. At Sarnia a much larger amount of revenue is collected. Sarnia, under the rule adopted, should have had precedence. Why has it not been given? Because Sarnia returns to Parliament an opponent of the Government, and Petrolea a supporter. So a rule that Ministers had not the courage to oppose, they disregard. And the public moneys which they hold in trust for the nation, and which ought to be used solely with reference to the public service, are used alone for the

PROMOTION OF PARTY INTERESTS.

The doctrine is boldly avowed that the public revenues may be rightfully employed for the promotion of party interests and aims as a reward to the constituencies that support the Ministry, and as a punishment to those that do not.

The sense of manly party warfare is, indeed, blunted when men will with shameless effrontery, avow that constituencies returning opponents of the Administration, are to be altogether ignored in the expenditure of money for the public advantage. Such an avowal is at variance with the rights of the nation to the moneys collected for the use of the nation. It is at variance with the oath of office which every Minister is called upon to take. It is treating the public moneys as won on the battlefield at the general election. It is not the opponent of an administration that deserves censure, but the supporter who dares to avow so shameless a doctrine and support so corrupt a practice. It is the duty of a representative to bring under the attention of Parliament the legitimate claims of his constituency. These claims ought to be preferred, according to their rank, in the public interest. If they are meritorious, and Ministers of the Crown—because the member is not a supporter—betray their trust and refuse the aid required, it is they, and not the member, who deserve reprobation. They, in effect, say to the electors instead of serving you faithfully we prefer to usurp the position of masters, and we tell you, you must sell your freedom and do violence to your convictions or you cannot have what rightfully belongs to you.

MODERN BRIGANDAGE.

You know that there are bodies of men in some parts of Southern Europe who carry off travelers with their effects, and who insist upon a ransom before they will consent to restore them to liberty; and so we find those who have charge of the public resources and the public treasury, refusing to make in certain sections of the country the necessary expenditures required in the public interest, because the people do not support the administration. And so the body of last resort, the constituent body of the country, is treated as one depending upon the grace and favor of Ministers, and justice is denied them, because they will not yield up their independence to become the political slaves of those in authority. I cannot imagine a state of mind farther away from a proper conception of our constitutional rights and liberties than one in which men look upon the expenditures of public money as the patronage of a party,

INSTEAD OF BEING A GREAT PUBLIC TRUST.

When the majority of the people rightly appreciate the rights and liberties which a constitutional system such as ours is intended to secure to them, no Minister would dare to adopt such a policy, and no supporter could make a threat of this kind without subjecting himself to the just execration of all his fellow citizens. It can never be too strongly impressed upon the minds of the electors, that the advisors of the Crown are not the masters, but the trustees of the nation, and that any attempt to discriminate between one section of the country and another, because of political differences, is so gross an abuse of authority, that it ought not to be tolerated for a moment by a free people. What can be more humiliating to freemen than to be told by those for the time being intrusted with power, "If you want money expended in your riding for necessary public purposes, send to Parliament a man who will vote with the Government; if you don't, your piers may go to decay; your harbors may be closed with sand so that the trade of your town may be ruined; the whole country may suffer loss in consequence, and many of those who can, without serious detriment, may leave the country, but the responsibility is with you, because you do not approve of the present Administration."

THE LANGUAGE OF MASTERS.

This is not the language of Ministers but of masters, who propose not simply to administer a trust, but to punish freemen for the proper exercise of their constitutional rights. The electors of this country possess the franchise through which they may decide by whom they shall be governed and what shall be the policy of the advisers of the crown, and of the Parliament upon certain matters. But the practice has here grown up of using the revenues of the country to induce the electors to prefer the friends of the Ministry to those who agree with themselves, and who, if elected, would give practical effect to the preponderating sentiment of the country. The time has come to rather than to submit your necks to the yoke of those who do not hesitate to abuse the authority with which they have been intrusted. You want the affairs of the country economically conducted. You want the public moneys legitimately and wisely used, but you can have none of these things so long as public support is sought, and sometimes given, on account of unwarrantable public expenditures.

Two sessions ago, in order to put an end to this most improper practice, I proposed in Parliament a resolution affirming that public money should be expended and not as a matter of party favoritism, and that in the erection of public buildings, such as postoffices and revenue offices, and in expenditures on public improvements, regard should be had to the amount of revenue collected and to the amount of public business done. That resolution was supported by the whole House, and received the support of the then Prime Minister, Sir John Macdonald. He said: "I agree with what my honorable friend from Bothwell has stated, that every expenditure of public money should be based on good sound reasons, and that it should not be for the purpose of helping one's friends." But the rule which was thus acquiesced in has not been in practice observed. All kinds of excuses have been given for these pernicious practices but the true one—that the votes of the short-sighted and selfish, who would not otherwise vote for the Government, might be secured, and a majority obtained for a Government candidate in the constituency which otherwise might return a supporter of the Opposition. Let me say from this platform to every elector in Canada: "It is in vain that you lay down a principle by which taxation is to be kept down, and public life is to be kept honest and pure, if, on every occasion in which an offer is made to you, you disregard the public interest and accept what you may think for the present advantageous in your own case. What you think to apply in the case of others must not be departed from in your own." How many large expenditures have been made which cannot be defended in the public interest? How often have Ministers proposed, in the older Provinces, large sums as railway subsidies, which simply entailed permanent loss in the management of the roads built by this aid as well as the loss of the sum so appropriated? They put before their opponents from the districts in which these enterprises were to be carried on the alternative of acquiescing in the waste, or incurring the hostility of a considerable section of those whom they represented. The moral tone of Parliament was lowered, the moral sense of the country was blunted by these proceedings, and so scores of measures entailing burdens, but conferring no lasting benefits upon the country, have been carried in Parliament.

SOLELY IN THE PUBLIC INTEREST

THE TRUE RULE

A SIMPLE TEST.

The rule that ought to be observed in the expenditure of public money, is the same as the one that governs a private individual acting on his own account and in his own interest. No person in the full possession of his faculties, making expenditures for himself would make a permanent charge against his estate of $2,400 a year, when the income to be derived from the expenditure is but one-sixth of this amount. Nor would he erect for himself buildings which would reduce his income by $1,000 a year, if he could rent buildings for one-tenth this sum, which would serve his purpose equally well. Were such transactions engaged in by a private party on his own account, we would at once charge it to his intellectual incapacity, because it would be altogether contrary to human experience, that anyone in the full possession of his faculties should so act against his own interests. What it would be improper for an individual to do in his own case in this respect, would be equally improper for Ministers to do on behalf of the public. But when Ministers do so act, you cannot charge it to want of mental capacity. They are trustees for the public, and there are other motives than the public good, which may come into play—a short-sighted selfishness on the one side, and on the other. Men are tempted to grasp at the offer of a considerable expenditure on account of the temporary advantages which it may afford, although they may be aware that it is a loss and not a gain to the public as a whole. They forget that what is done in their case must also be done in a hundred others, and that in the end they may be compelled to bear the whole of the burden. And they are the worse off, because they have entailed a permanent charge upon the country, of which they must pay their portion. You cannot take for yourselves and at the same time hope to apply the rules of honesty and economy to all others. If you desire light taxation, cheaper living, a more extended commerce and a larger population you must refrain from taking for yourselves what you would refuse to others under like circumstances; you must neither accept favors nor yield allegiance to those who would tempt you and lure you aside from the only course that leads in the direction of lasting prosperity. It must never be forgotten that the Administration have no money in the public treasury which is not

A LOVE OF OFFICE

TAKEN FROM THE POCKETS OF THE PEOPLE, and it is not an honest nor is it a legitimate proceeding to take more than is needed to meet the actual necessities of the State. Of this you may be sure, that the material prosperity of a people is never promoted by the mere act of taxation, and that in the vast majority of cases an expenditure to meet the exigency of party brings with it no public advantage. There are many things which have been undertaken by the Government in Canada that ought to have been left to private enterprise. Private parties are not liable to waste their own money on undertakings which yield them no return as a government is to waste the money of the people. It is always dangerous to which mark the boundaries within which the State should act. It may be proper in a country like ours for a government to undertake some things from which in older and wealthier countries it should abstain. But no one can deny that in matters of railway subsidies we have gone far beyond the requirements of the hour. I do not say that all aid in the future should be withheld. It may be that cases may arise in which it will be expedient. But I do say that we have scattered our population in the Territories most unwisely, and we have depreciated the value of lands in the Provinces by the course which we have taken. We cannot recall the past; we must deal with things as they are; but we can profit by the blunders into which we have fallen and avoid their repetition. You have heard, in times gone by, a great deal about deficits. Let me tell you, gentlemen, there is one thing which may be even

WORSE THAN A LARGE DEFICIT,

and that is a large surplus in the hands of men bent upon the retention of power and ready to strengthen themselves by the use of that surplus. It is an easy matter to increase the expenditures of a country. It may be, indeed, a most difficult matter to reduce those expenditures again to a normal condition. And so long as human nature is marked by great imperfections, just so long will it be true that a large sum taken from the people beyond the requirements of the State will lead to unwise expenditures to permanent increases in the public charges, and to a weakening of the moral sensibilities of the people in respect to public matters. So I say that when an administration finds itself pressed to economize in order to avoid further taxation, you have a much more healthy state of affairs than when it is tempted to launch into enterprises of more than questionable utility, because of the surplus that it has on hand. Whenever the Ministry and the Parliament find that on account of the increase of population or because of the growth of trade they have more revenue than is actually needed, they should at once set themselves to work to consider in what way they can best

REMOVE THE PUBLIC BURDENS,

and so leave in the pockets of the people all moneys not required by the necessities of the public service. And this may be accomplished, either by a reduction of the taxation on certain articles of merchandise, or by putting a number of them upon the free list which were not upon it before. Sometimes we hear it said that if you were to remove customs duties you would lighten the burdens of the people. Under the present system that is indeed true; true, because in the first place, they take from the people a larger sum than is necessary, and in the second place, because they lead to the practical imposition of duties on domestic articles, which the State does not receive. But if the principles of

are kept in view in the imposition of custom duties so that the sums paid in consequence of the tax are received into the public treasury, and the amount so received is a sum which must have been taken from the people in some form for the requirements of Government, the commerce of the country is not restricted by such tax, nor is the purchasing power of the people diminished.

To make this plain, let me suppose that the people have $200,000,000 with which to purchase commodities, and $20,000,000 of taxes to pay. It is clear that there will not be $220,000,000 with which to purchase goods should customs taxes be abolished, since $20,000,000 must, in that case, be retained with which to pay taxes. But where customs duties are imposed so as to raise the taxes in this form, the importations would be valued to the consumers at $220,000,000, because the

of the goods and paid at the time the goods are bought. I am anxious that you should bear in mind that, by adopting the policy of free trade, we do not mean that there shall be no customs duties, but we mean that as far as we can in practice give effect to our theories of taxation, the tax shall be one imposed solely with a view of meeting the public requirements. Of course this is an ideal which may not be at the outset wholly attainable. But it is one at which we should aim, and as the commerce of the country grows and the people increase, we hope that the burdens of taxation may be lightened and a number of imported commodities may from time to time be put upon the free list, and the tax on those that remain subject to taxation may, if articles necessary to the comforts or life, be further diminished. We have, in the greatest and most influencial convention ever assembled in Canada, committed ourselves as a party to and to that principle we shall unalterably adhere. Many, very many, abuses have grown up during the past fifteen years which requires redress, and upon these that great convention has spoken with equal clearness. These are the issues which divide us from our political opponents, and upon which the next general election will be fought.

A TARIFF FOR REVENUE ONLY,

Gentlemen, it is gratifying to me to find, that after fifteen years of trial of the political nostrums of our adversaries, the public have shown such a strong inclination to come to us on the grounds upon which we stood in 1878. Those who arrogantly assumed to themselves at the time of our defeat superior wisdom are to-day in political sackcloth and ashes. They framed their National Policy in 1879. From time to time they have been seeking to remove frictions, to readjust taxes, and to make their machine a polished and perfect instrument. What is their position to-day? Why, they propose to perigrinate the country, to meet their friends, and to inquire of them, whether their instrument is capable of repair, or whether it must not be cast aside and something wholly different must not be provided.

THE NATIONAL POLICY HAS FAILED.

It has impoverished the country, it has driven out the population, it has destroyed self-reliance, and to-day it is, outside of trusts and combines, without earnest defenders. Among the farming population it has no longer any friends. I say to the many Conservatives of Canada, you agreed with us before 1876 on the question of tariff. Up to that time we all stood together. Since then you deserted us, and your new scheme has had a fifteen years' trial. It has failed to accomplish any one of the things which you were led to believe it would achieve. It was which your friends imported across the border. It is dead, and no political incantations can breathe into it again the breath of life and enable you to win by it again. Scores of the Conservative party know they had been deceived, and they gave me a generous support at the last election. I predict that all over Canada we shall receive the support of a very large number of those who have hitherto been political opponents. Why should we not? In 1878 we lost a large number of Reformers who were deluded into supporting protection. As our friends went wrong then, may we not with greater reason hope that a much larger number of Conservatives will go right now? I may say that nothing can be further from us than to wound the sensibilities of those whom experience shows to have taken a mistaken view.

WE ARE STRONG

by the light of that experience. Strong in the justice of the policy which we have all along advocated. Strong by the powerful aid and approval of the great convention. Strong on account of the wrongs which we have endured, and which we now seek by constitutional means to have redressed. The day has dawned, and when the hour of battle comes we shall enter the contest with the most perfect confidence that at its close the victory will be ours, and good fortune the result to the whole county. When I say the victory will be ours I mean it will be a victory for the people and by the people, for I am pursuaded that there are in the ranks of that numerous body which has hitherto opposed us many thousands who feel that a change is necessary, and that the public at large ought to share in the advantages as well as in bearing the burdens of the Government.

At the conclusion of Mr. Mills' speech a vote of thanks, moved by Mr. John Coutts, barrister, seconded by Mr. Henry O'Neil, of Orford, was vigorously indorsed.

Local Market Quotations.

Reported by A. M. Hamilton & Son.

Tuesday, Aug. 29.

To-day's business on the market was light, and nearly all lines sold at the same values as on Saturday. Oats formed the bulk of grain receipts and sold at 95c to 97c; old oats brought $1; wheat quiet and unchanged. In butter the demand for choice small crock was heavy and the bulk of sales were made at 24c and 25c; eggs quiet. The only change in the prices of fruits occurred in grapes; they sold at 7c by the basket and 10c by the pound. Hay was steady at $8 50. Quotations:

Eighty-five packages of creamery butter at 25c, 27 packages of dairy butter at 24c to 25c.

INGERSOLL.

(Special to the ADVERTISER.)

INGERSOLL, Ont., Aug 29.—Offerings of cheese to-day 3,811 boxes, 2,820 boxes last half of July and 991 boxes first half of August. No sales were made, and there was no improvement in the market, salesmen still holding for 9½c.

British Grain Trade.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—The Mark Lane Express, in its weekly review of the British grain trade, says: English wheats are weak and prices have receded 6d both for the old crop and new. There have been large offerings of foreign wheats and prices have declined 1s for American, including Californian and Argentine, and 6d for Indian and Russian. Flour has fallen 6d to 1s per sack. Barley, oats and corn have shared the downward tendency. At to-day's market new English wheat was in abundant supply and there was no recovery in values. Whites sold for 30s per quarter. Some red wheats brought only 25s. Old wheats were in moderate request. Prices were extremely low. Foreign wheats were a shade firmer. Foreign flour was offered at prices that were 6d lower. This induced increased inquiry. Barley and oats were steady. The prices of beans and peas were in buyers' favor. Corn was easy.

Liberal Demonstrations.

Hon. Wilfrid Laurier will speak at Newmarket on Tuesday next, Sept. 5; at St. Catharines on Wednesday, Sept. 6; at Welland on Thursday, Sept. 7; at Aylmer on Saturday, Sept. 9; at St. Thomas on Monday, Sept. 11; at Leamington on Tuesday, Sept. 12. Meetings in other parts of the Province are being arranged.

Cost of L. and P. S. R. Repairs.

The joint report of Engineer Jennings, on behalf of the city, and by Chief Engineer Hobson, of the Grand Trunk, places the estimated cost of putting the Port Stanley Railroad into proper condition at $127,000. This includes new bridges over Mill and Kettle creeks; the raising of the Port Stanley bridge four inches, and of putting culverts into shape.

In Hard Luck.

Thos. Reep, the Mount Clemens, Mich., man who was fleeced to the extent of $900 on the bogus foot race held recently in Courtright, is in hard luck. He fired two shots at the fleeing stakeholder and then handed his gun to a bystander at the Hotel Bedard. He was arrested in the name of the Queen and fined $10. Then when he came back to the hotel his revolver had disappeared. Mr. Reep has written to High Constable Schram here asking him if possible to recover at least the revolver. The men who ran off with the stakes are believed to hail from Chatham or Woodstock and one of the gang is said to be a former Londoner.

Tenders for the L. and P. S. R.

The time expired at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon for the receiving of tenders for the London and Port Stanley Railroad. It is known that up to that time three letters had been received by the board that may be propositions or they may not. One is from Montreal and bears the Grand Trunk imprint, another is dated from Walkerville, and has the legend, "Lake Erie and Detroit River Railway" on the front. This is presumably Hiram Walker's reply. Another bearing no postmark might possibly be a local offer. It is learned, however, from Michigan Central sources that the M. C. R. are not prepared to bid at present, and will ask for an extension of time.

Tournament Toots.

For the great military tournament at Queen's Park this evening the grounds will be light as day. A number of extra arc lamps will assist in illumination.

Carriages will be admitted to the grounds at 50 cents each in addition to a half a dollar a head for occupants—the regular entrance fee.

Mr. Thomas Gillean's jewelry store will be open this afternoon in order that reserved seats may be secured for the evening performance.

Reserved seats are going fast.

A great deal of misunderstanding prevails about the entrance fees. Fifty cents entitles one not only to admission to the grounds but to a seat in the grand stand as well. People may reserve their seats in advance, however, by paying 25 cents extra, and thus get their pick of the grand stand.

Mr. Quinn's Denial.

"Say, Mister, I want you to contradict that fortune story." The speaker was Mr. "Jimmy" Quinn, London's veteran newsdealer, who recently returned after an absence of two years in Great Britain. It was reported that Mr. Quinn's brother had left him a legacy. This Mr. Quinn denies, and in proof of his assertion he has returned to his old vocation of selling papers on the street corner. But the report of the alleged fortune spoils his business, so Mr. Quinn claims. Old customers come up to shake hands and congratulate him, but they never think of buying a paper and the latter is more essential to Mr. Quinn's well-being than the former. Mr. Quinn has not seen or heard from either of his brothers for twenty years, and they may be dead for all he knows. When he heard of his father's death he went over the water to settle up his affairs, he being the eldest son. When they were attended to Mr. Quinn had enough to pay his fare back to London.

Uncle Sam's Financial Horizon Looking Brighter Again.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., Aug. 29.—Indications now are that Sioux City will come out of recent financial troubles in a few days, with practically all the institutions involved in the failures on a sound basis.

DENVER, Col., Aug. 29.—The German National Bank of this city and First National Bank of Canon City will resume business to-day.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 29.—The Bank of New England which suspended about a month ago will resume business next Saturday.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 29.—By the starting up of mills and furnaces nearly 7,000 men have been put to work during the last week.

DENVER, Col., Aug. 29.—The German National Bank, by far the largest of the closed banks in this city, resumed business this morning. This leaves only two suspended national banks here and these will soon resume.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 29.—The Chicago gas companies have declared dividends amounting to $375,000, payable in scrip, bearing interest at 6 per cent. This is done because in view of the monetary stringency the directors deem it prudent to keep in hand all available cash to complete the work of extensions.

A PITCH-IN AT BARRIE.

Two Freight Trains Collide—Engineer Graham and Two Cattlemen Slightly Injured.

BARRIE, Ont., Aug. 29.—A pitch-in between two G. T. R. freight trains occurred here last night. A special freight from the north composed of lumber and several cars of cattle was standing on the Lake Shore track near the station when another special ran into the rear end of the standing train, completely wrecking several cars and killing a number of cattle. One or two cars were thrown into the lake.

The trainmen escaped uninjured except Engineer Graham and two men in charge of the cattle cars who received slight injuries.

Sir Oliver Mowat and party left Port Arthur for home Monday evening.

A Liberal convention will be held at Markham on Saturday next, Sept. 2, to nominate a candidate for the Legislature.

We have no hesitation in saying that Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial is without doubt the best medicine ever introduced for dysentery, diarrhœa, cholera and all summer complaints, sea sickness, etc. It promptly gives relief and never fails to effect a positive cure. Mothers should never be without a bottle when their children are teething.

The Palace Dancing Academy opens for the season next Monday. Messrs. Dayton & McCormick have had the academy thoroughly renovated during the holidays, and everything is in readiness for the accommodation of the large number of pupils who have made application during the past few weeks. The beginners' classes for ladies, gentlemen and children commence next week, as will be seen by referring to amusement column.

BRITAIN'S BRAVES.

Some Information About the Tournament and Its Object.

Nearly Every Man Has Seen Service—The Visit to London.

Now that so much interest has been aroused by the visit of the British soldiers to Canada, many inquiries are made as to how they came to be here and under what auspices the exhibitions are given.

For several years past the annual military tournament at home under the auspices of the British military authorities has been one of the events of the season and never failed to attract large crowds to see the really wonderful feats of skill and arms of which the rank and file of the finest army in the world are capable. Last winter a project was formed to reproduce this tournament at the World's Fair. A private company was formed with a capital of about $1,000,000 to carry out the scheme, and while it was not under the direct auspices of the British army, the project was to a certain extent indorsed by the War Office. Several prominent soldiers are among the chief stockholders, the formation of the company was heralded by paragraphs in the Broad Arrow and the Army and Navy Gazette, and some of the officers got special leave of absence from the War Office to take charge of the detachment. The men forming the force were chosen from the first reserve. Under the present system a man enlists in the British army for twelve years, six of which he serves with the colors and the remaining time in the reserve. In the reserve he has liberty to return to civilian employ, but is liable at any moment to be called on to take up arms. It was from these reserve men that the tournament company was chosen, and nearly every man of them has seen service in Egypt, Afghanistan, South Africa, or all three countries.

It will thus be seen that while not actually sent out and authorized by the British Government, the tournament company has been informally sanctioned as a body of troops worthy in every way to represent the skill and prowess of

The men an' the 'orses what makes up the forces
O' Missis Victorier's sons.

Since the days when the Queen's forces garrisoned all the cities of Canada a generation has grown up who have never seen the British soldier, and these will view with special interest the men of whom they have heard so much, and many misconceptions will be removed. The excellent band of 30 pieces which the tournament company brings with it will be an object of special interest. The programme they play is principally composed of light popular airs and national melodies, but they play them beautifully.

COAL DOESN'T HURT BY KEEPING.

Many other things are perishable, but no sort of weather affects coal stored away.

THAT'S ONE POINT.

Another is that coal is always cheaper in the summer than in the winter—it is easier to get—easier to transport.

THAT'S ANOTHER POINT.

Well, don't you think, or rather don't you KNOW, that you can save considerable on your coal by ordering now?

THAT'S THE BEST POINT.

HIS REPENTANCE.

Mrs. Cray listened as one aroused out of a dream. The Prince ill!—ill unto danger! The prince who had been associated in men's minds as one enshrined in a bright halo of prosperity, in the very sunshine of happiness!—who had looked down from his dizzy height on other men as if he stood above the world! It seemed incredible. Watton gave the details, so far as they were known to the general public; the so few days' illness, the apprehensions excited on the Friday, the fluctuating accounts of that same day; the unfavorable news of the morning, the afternoon's opinion of the medical men at Windsor, that if the Prince could only bear up that one night—all would be well; and now the latest tidings, that he was sinking!

Mrs. Cray forgot her own weakness, her fatigue, in these all-absorbing tidings. But it was as impossible for her to believe in the worst for him as it had been for the public. A few minutes of awe-struck consternation, and hope reasserted its supremacy in her heart. Nay, not only hope, but a certainty that it "would be well." I honestly believe that such was the prevailing feeling in every breast. It was so hard, it was so hard to look upon the reverse side of the picture.

"We had heard nothing of this at Honfleur!"

"And we can't say to have heard much of it here until to-day," was Watton's answer. "It has come upon us with startling suddenness. Oh, if we can but get better tidings in the morning!"

"We shall be sure to do that, Watton, said Caroline hopefully. "Death surely could not come to him."

Watton made her some tea, and she sat over the fire in the sitting-room while she drank it. She could not eat; generally her appetite was good, but fatigue and excitement had taken it away to-night. She told of her residence in the French town, she hinted slightly at their want of success, and Watton looked grave as she spoke of her side.

"You think the London doctors can cure you, Miss Caroline?"—for the old name came far more familiar to Watton than the new one.

"I did think so," replied Caroline, feeling that the strong conviction of this, which had amounted to a disease in Honfleur, had in some unexplicable manner gone out of her. "I seem not to be sure of it, as I was before I came."

"And shall you make a long stay in London!"

"About a week. I have come for advice only, not to stay to be cured. Aunt Bettina's is no house for me; and perhaps I cannot even stay there at all. Capt. Davenal and his wife may have arrived."

She heaved a sigh of weary despondency. Watton urged her retiring; but Caroline felt at rest in the easy chair, and still sat on. It was so long since she had seen a home face, or conversed with a home tongue.

"Who was that gentleman who passed us as I was coming in?" she asked; "he who spoke of the Prince?" And Watton replied that it was Mr. Comyng, a junior partner of the house, and the only one of the partners who resided there.

It wanted scarce a quarter to twelve when Caroline at length went up-stairs to a very high bedroom. Whether it was Watton's room or not, Caroline did not know, but it had been made cheery. The curtains and bed were white and pleasant-looking, and a fire sparkled in the grate. Watton would have stayed with her to help her undress, but Caroline preferred to be alone.

When left to herself she drew aside the window-curtains, and saw that the room faced the front; there stood old St. Paul's, grim and formidable, and apparently so close to her that she might have fancied it within a leap. Letting the curtain remain open, she sat down to the fire, before which was drawn a chair as easy as the one downstairs.

She sat with her head pillowed on the high arm, gazing at the blaze, and musing over present events. Their strangely uncertain life at Honfleur, poor Mark's position and poverty, her own malady, and the curious manner in which she had lost that eager faith in the result of her journey, her reception on the morrow by Miss Davenal—with all these thoughts were mingled more prominently the tidings which had greeted her since her entrance.

Unconsciously to herself, she dropped into a doze. It was a very foolish thing to do of course, for she would have been much better in bed; but none of us are wise always. She dozed placidly; and the first thing that in the least aroused her, and that only partially, was the booming out in her ear of a deep-toned bell.

"St. Paul's clock striking twelve," was the supposition that crossed her mind in its state of semi-sleep. But ere many minutes had gone by she became alive to the fact that the striking did not cease—that the strokes of the bell were tolling out fast and loud, as—as—a death-bell strikes out.

It has not been the fate of many to hear the bell of St. Paul's Cathedral strike out at midnight. Those who have will never forget it during life. Never, never will it be forgotten by those few as it went booming into the air on that still December night, bearing forth its message of woe to the startled hearts of the Metropolis.

For a brief moment Mrs. Cray wondered what was the matter. She sprung out of her chair and stood staring at the edifice, as if in mute inquiry what it meant. And then—when she remembered what had been said that night—and the recollection flashed on her with that heart-sickness that generally accompanies some awful terror—she opened the window and leaned out.

Three or four persons were standing underneath, motionless, still, as if they had collected there to gaze at the dark cathedral, to listen to that booming bell. "What is it?" she called out. "What does it mean?"

Her voice, raised by excitement to unnatural strength and clearness, was heard distinctly. Those standing below looked up. In one of them she thought she recognized Mr. Comyng. He was standing bareheaded, and his whispered answer came up to her in the stillness of the night.

"Prince Albert's gone."

A moment of bewildering suspense, while the mind refused to admit the dreadful truth, and Caroline Cray turned sick and faint. And then the sobbing cry burst from her heart and lips—a cry that was to find its echo from thousands and thousands as the hours went on——

"Oh, the Queen! the Queen! May God help and support the Queen!"

CHAPTER L.

A DESOLATE NIGHT.

Yes, he was gone. Great Britain rose on that Sunday morning to the news, for the telegraphs were at work, and the tidings were carried to the length and breadth of the land. And people did not believe it. It could not be! Why, it seemed but yesterday that he had come over in the flower of youth and promise, to wed the fair young Queen! Dead! Prince Albert dead! None of you have forgotten the wide gap in the litany that Sunday morning, the pale lips of the clergymen compelled to make it, the quivering breathless hearts, that answered to it. But for the remembrance that God's ways are not as our ways, how many of those startled and grieved hearts would have been tempted to question the why of the stroke, in their imperfect wisdom.

But to return to Caroline Cray, for the night was not yet over, and the bell was ringing out. When the first immediate shock had passed, she quitted the window and leaned her head on the counterpane. A solemn awe had laid hold of her, and she felt as she had never felt in her life. Her whole soul seemed to go up in—may I dare to say?—in heavenly commune. It was as if heaven had opened—had become very near. I may be mistaken, but I believe this same feeling was experienced by many in the first startling shock. This was so entirely unlike an ordinary death, even of one of our near and dear relations. Heaven seemed no longer the far-off, mysterious place she had been wont to regard it, but a home, a refuge, all near and real. It had opened and taken him in; in his early manhood; in his full usefulness; in England's need; when that wife and royal lady had learned to lean upon him; when his sons and daughters were growing up around him, some of them at that moment in other lands out of reach of the loving farewell of his aching heart; with his mission here—it so seemed—only half fulfilled!—it had taken him in before his time, and gathered him to his rest. He did not seem to have gone entirely away; he was only hidden beyond reach and sight for a little while; that same refuge would open for her, Caroline, and others, a little later, and she and all would follow him. Heavy as the blow was in itself, incapable as she was of understanding, it yet seemed an earnest of the overruling presence of the living God. Oh, what was the poor world in that night, with the strokes of the death-bell sounding in her ears, compared to that never-ending world above, that heritage awaiting us all, on which he had entered!

Fatigue and emotion did their most on Mrs. Cray. In the morning she was unable to get up, and Watton wisely and kindly urged that she should not rise at all that day, but take a good rest, and go on to Miss Davenal's on the morrow. So she lay where she was, and listened to the gloomy death-bell, as it periodically gave forth a sound; and the bursts of tears, in her bodily weakness, could not be suppressed, but came forth repeatedly to wet the pillow, as she thought of the widowed Queen, and the fatherless children.

The day's rest did her a great deal of good, and she rose on the Monday renovated and refreshed. Watton, when sitting with her on Sunday night, had spoken of a noted surgeon living in Westminster, and Caroline remembered then to have heard Dr. Davenal speak of his skill, and she determined to go to him.

A wonderful new combination is R. Stark's Headache, Neuralgia and Liver Powders, nice to take; perfectly harmless. Mr. Wills, chief of police, Woodstock, says: "A sure cure every time." Ald. Farmer, barrister, Hamilton, says: "I experienced almost immediate relief from their use for sick headaches." Mr. Mercer, contractor, Hamilton, says: "I consider them a very valuable remedy, and far surpassing many others I have tried." Mrs. Gaston, Hamilton, says: "I have derived great benefit from them, having been a long time a sufferer from headache, biliousness and neuralgia." Mrs. Crist, Hamilton, says: "No medicine or doctors did my daughter any good until we used Stark's Headache, Neuralgia and Liver Powders; they have effected a complete cure." Mrs. Keats, Hamilton, says: "Your powders have been the greatest blessing to me." Price, 25 cents a box. Sold by all medicine dealers.

Among the pains and aches cured with marvelous rapidity with Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is earache. The young are especially subject to it, and the desirability of this Oil as a family remedy is enhanced by the fact that it is admirably adapted not only to the above ailment, but also to the hurts, disorders of the bowels, and affections of the throat, to which the young are specially subject.

PLEASANT DAY AT PORT ARTHUR.

Interesting Episode in the Premier's Visit to the Shores of Lake Superior.

PORT ARTHUR, Aug. 29.—Sir Oliver Mowat and party drove down at 9 o'clock yesterday morning to the P. A., D. and W. railway station and boarded the picnic train, which was decked with ornamentations from the pilot to the rear end. The party occupied Superintendent Cameron's C. P. R. private car. Nine cars were filled with the picknickers. When Fort William was reached considerable trouble was experienced in finding seats for the Fort William contingent. In fact, the whole train was packed, platforms and aisles, with an enthusiastic crowd anxious to do honor to Ontario's Premier.

At Stanley Station the party took carriages, and accompanied by all the municipal councils of Port Arthur, Fort William, Shuniah and Oliver, drove to Kakabeka Falls, where the party found a harvest arch erected by the farmers of Oliver.

Addresses were presented to Sir Oliver and Hon. John Dryden by the municipality of Oliver and the Oliver Agricultural Society, which were suitably replied to. Before leaving the river at Stanley the fleet of boats and canoes and 500 people on the bridge were photographed, as was also the train with Sir Oliver's car and the first carload of iron ore taken on at Whitefish. The train arrived back at Fort William West, where the inhabitants presented Hon. John Dryden with a box of cereals, roots and flowers grown there. At night the Northern Hotel was illuminated and decorated with Chinese lanterns from garret to cellar, and after the reception the Premier's steamer was escorted out of the harbor by every boat in the place in Venetian gondola style, all brilliantly lighted. This will be a day to be remembered in the history of Port Arthur.

AFRICAN METHODISTS.

The Close of the Ninth Annual Conference.

TORONTO, Aug. 29.—The African Methodist Episcopal Church concluded its ninth session last evening at Richmond Hall. After passing resolutions of thanks to the citizens of Toronto for their generosity and kind consideration, the press came in for a share of praise. The following resolutions were also adopted:

"That Miss Frances A. Davis, our most worthy and efficient African missionary, has our highest appreciation as well as commendation for the very able and successful manner in which she has presented the claims of Africa to a benevolent public.

"Resolved, that the Ontario annual conference, A. M. E. Church, crave the continued respect and sympathy which has been manifested towards her in her efforts in raising funds to successfully carry on her school work in the Dark Continent.

"Resolved, that we tender our grateful thanks to the numerous friends who so liberally contribute to her appeals."

The following appointments were made by Bishop H. M. Turner, D.D., LL.D.: Hamilton, Rev. A. Sol. Walton, B.D.; Chatham, Rev. J. A. McG. Johns, A.M.; Amherstburg circuit, Rev. L. Pierce; Windsor, to be supplied; Toronto, J. O'Banyoun; Montreal, to be supplied; Oakville, to be supplied.

EAST ELGIN LIBERALS.

Choose Ex-M.P.P. J. C. Dance as Their Standard-Bearer.

AYLMER, Ont., Aug. 29.—The Liberal convention for the east riding of Elgin, to choose a candidate to contest this riding in the next Provincial elections, was held in the town hall to-day and attended by a very large number of electors, who brought before the convention a number of names, any of whom would have been a worthy candidate. The following are the names of those submitted:

W. B. Cole, reeve of Yarmouth.
Mahlon Lyons, ex-reeve of Malahide and ex-warden of the county.
Coll Sinclair, M.D., ex-mayor of Aylmer.
S. S. Clutten, woolen manufacturer, of Vienna.
W. M. Pollock, ex-reeve of Yarmouth.
J. C. Dance, ex-warden and ex-M.P.P.
Wm. Ford, reeve of Bayham.
Granville Haight, of Yarmouth.
John Martin, ex-reeve of Yarmouth.
W. S. Carron, merchant, Aylmer.

All withdrew except W. B. Cole, J. C. Dance and Wm. Ford, the latter not being present, and whose name was submitted without consent of Mr. Ford.

J. C. Dance received the nomination on the first ballot.

At Death's Door.—Dyspepsia Conquered.—A Great Medical Triumph. GENTLEMEN,—My medical adviser and others told me I could not possibly live, when I commenced the use of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY for Dyspepsia. My case was one of the worst of its kind. For three years I could not eat meat and my weight decreased from 219 to 119 pounds. All the food I took for thirteen months previous to taking the VEGETABLE DISCOVERY consisted of milk. I am now entirely cured and have regained my usual weight, can eat anything with a keen relish and feel like a new man. I have sold over 50 dozen VEGETABLE DISCOVERY since it cured me, as I am well-known, and people in this section know how low I was, and thought I could not possibly be cured. They are eager to try this grand medicine. It certainly saved my life, as I never expected to recover when I first commenced using it. I am not exaggerating anything, but feel glad to be able to contribute this testimonial and trust it may be the means of convincing others of its merit as a certain cure for Dyspepsia. JEAN VALCOURT,

MIDGET DOYLE

Locked Little Before the Footlights, But He Fooled the Gerry Society Agent.

(New York Advertiser.)

Actors and actresses, young and old, were yesterday relating with intense gratification a joke played upon the Gerry Society. In "The Span of Life," the play now running at the Grand Opera House, a little boy is one of the characters. Master George Ferris was booked for the part, but as he is only 7 years old, permission had to be obtained from the S. P. C. C. before he could appear on the stage. Commodore Gerry was out of town, but the superintendent of the society said that Mayor Gilroy had issued orders that no children should be allowed to act on the stage until Sept. 1.

Manager H. S. Taylor says he went to see the mayor and discovered that Commodore Gerry had written a letter to the mayor asking that Sept. 1 be named as the first date upon which children might appear.

Well, the play was produced. In the third act the heroine appears in a thrilling scene bearing her little boy in her arms. Immediately after the boy left the stage, Agent Stockton, of the society, appeared behind the scenes to arrest him. Such a barefaced disobedience of the law he declared he had never seen. Virtuous indignation stood out in bumps all over his countenance.

There stood the golden-haired boy, waiting for his cue to go on again. The agent is on old hand at his business and prepared to use diplomacy. Placing his hand upon the boy's head he patted the golden curls and in a fatherly voice said:

"My little man, how old are you?"

"The boy looked up "childlike and bland." Seizing the agent's hand the boy actor rubbed it against his cheeks.

"Great Scott! What's this!" exclaimed the agent. "Bristles! Whiskers, I declare! Why—why—my son—how—how is this?"

"Oh, I haven't shaved since yesterday morning."

"Shaved! How old are you?"

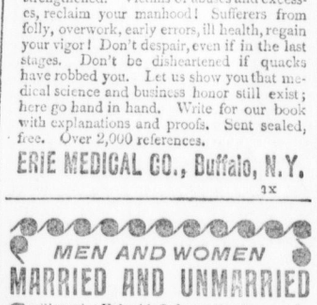

"Twenty-four, an' please you, sir."

Then the child removed his blond wig and displayed a head of short cropped hair.

Manager Taylor has secured the services of Jimmy Doyle, the midget, from a museum.

What is
CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

Ripans Tabules

Act gently but promptly upon the liver, stomach and intestines; cleanse the system effectually; cure dyspepsia, habitual constipation, offensive breath and headache. One TABULE taken at the first indication of indigestion, biliousness, dizziness, distress after eating or depression of spirits, will surely and quickly remove the whole difficulty.

Disease commonly comes on with slight symptoms, which when neglected increase in extent and gradually grow dangerous.

If you suffer from Headache, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, TAKE RIPANS TABULES
If you are Bilious, Constipated or have a Disordered Liver, TAKE RIPANS TABULES
If Complexion is Sallow, or you Suffer Distress after Eating, TAKE RIPANS TABULES
For Offensive Breath and all Disorders of the Stomach, TAKE RIPANS TABULES

Ripans Tabules are prepared from a prescription widely used by the best physicians, and are presented in a form acceptable to the stomach. An infallible cure if given a fair trial. Contain nothing injurious.

THE STEAMER SARNIA.

What Her Captain Said—She Was Spoken by the City of Ripon.

OTTAWA, Aug. 29.—Senator Clemow, whose daughter is married to Rev. T. Bailey, of St. Barnabas, who is a passenger on the missing steamship Sarnia, has received a letter from Miss Bailey, of Brighton, Eng., inclosing a message which reached her from Rev. Mr. Bailey by the steamship City of Ripon, which spoke to the Sarnia in midocean on Aug. 7. In the message Mr. Baily said Captain Cooch of the Sarnia said there was no danger, and the Sarnia would reach port in ten or twelve days. Now the Sarnia has been out 22 days since that time. Rev. Mr. Smith, of the Anglican Church of Hull, is also on board.

The Sarnia is 31 days out to-day and there is still no news from her.

TO FEED THE HUNGRY.

Soup Houses for the Starving Michigan Miners.

IRONWOOD, Mich., Aug. 29.—Soup houses will be opened here at once by the county poor commissioners. Finns and Poles, 500 of whom claim to be suffering from hunger, will be fed at public expense.

Many of the unemployed have indulged in threats of violence and riot during the past three days, and citizens will organize to prevent looting and to suppress any outbreak that may occur.

Investigation shows that many of the alleged sufferers flocked in here during the past 60 days from the Wisconsin and Minnesota mining fields. They will be forced to leave the city.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY.

August 30.

30 B. C.—Cleopatra of Egypt, while a prisoner at Alexandria, killed herself by applying an asp to her bosom.

525—Theodoric, the Gothic king of Italy, died at Ravenna.

1181—Pope Alexander III died.

1743—Archdeacon William Paley, writer on "evidences," etc., born at Peterborough, England; died 1805; it has recently come to light that his most famous work, on "Natural Theology," was plagiarized from a German writer.

1850—Professor John White Webster was hanged at Boston for the murder of Dr. Parkman.

1852—Death of John Camden Neild, eccentric miser, who left his fortune of $2,500,000 to Queen Victoria.

1861—End of the second battle of Bull Run; the Federals having lost 8,000 men retired to Centreville.

LONDON AND ENVIRONS.

—"Where are you going, my pretty maid?"
"I'm going a milking, sir," she said.
"What is your fortune, my pretty maid?"
"A million in bank stocks, sir," she said.
"I want to marry you, my pretty maid."
"Nobody axed you, sir," she said.

—Tournament to-day at 3 and 8 p.m.

—Mrs. C. H. Collinson, of Cameron avenue, Detroit, who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Cater, William street, city, has returned home.

—Mr. John Dearness, of this city, public school inspector of East Middlesex, is at present looking after the Ontario educational exhibit at the World's Fair.

—A river trip and supper and dance at Wonderland were treats furnished a large number of their friends by Messrs. W. H. Baker and D. W. McIntyre Monday evening.

—The baseball team in connection with Dominion Lodge, No. 48, I. O. O. F., go to Ingersoll to-morrow afternoon to play the brethren there, and in the evening will confer a degree in Samaritan Lodge there.

—The many friends of Mrs. Hume, formerly of York street, city, will regret to learn that her property was all destroyed by the recent fire in South Chicago. The loss was partly covered by insurance.

—Some two weeks ago the boxes and the Sunday school drawer in the King Street Methodist Church were broken open and the contents abstracted. The trustees have secured a clew to the perpetrator and will wait for a few days to see if the money is returned. If not they will take proceedings through the courts.

—The London bankers are coming down on Saturday to play a cricket match with the Woodstock bankers. That astute cricketer Billy Snell, late of the Molsons Bank here, will captain the financial aggregation from London, and it is said they are in good form and are coming down with a fixed determination to defeat the home players this time.—[Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

—Trustees Dewar, D. W. Blackwell and Dr. Campbell, Principal Merchant, Secretary McEtheran and Inspector Perry held a special meeting last evening to arrange for the opening of the Collegiate Institute. The public opening will not take place until Sept. 27, as everything will not be in readiness until that date. The institute will open, however, for pupils on Wednesday next. A telephone will be placed in Principal Merchant's office.

—The Misses Beatrice and Lillian Shand have returned home from Toledo and leave again on Thursday to fill an engagement in Montreal. The Toledo Blade has this to say of their engagement at Presq'ile: "The Misses Beatrice and Lillian Shand, after a successful engagement at Presq'ile, left with their mother for home on the steamer Greyhound. They live in London, Ont. Before they left the Isle Miss Lillian was presented with a costly gold ring. These little girls are unsurpassed in their specialties—Scotch dances and singing. They pleased everybody at Presq'ile. They will appear soon in Montreal, at which place the same high favor will be met with that they had here."

The Grand Trunk's Chicago Service.

The following is a copy of a telegram received by the Grand Trunk Railway from Hon. John McIntosh, commissioner to World's Fair, Chicago. It has reference to the Canadian exhibit of horses and cattle for the World's Fair, the shipment comprising a train of twenty cars: "Thanks for speedy transit of cattle to World's Fair. Cattle in splendid condition."

A Great Catch.

Charley W. Norman is the proudest man in town. Charley's pride found its justification at Byron yesterday, when he caught a pike 30 inches in length and weighing 7 pounds 3 ounces. This was not enough glory for one day, for a 2-pound pickerel and a 1-pound bass followed along the same line as the pike. "You may talk about your fishing reserves at Dorchester and Ilderton, but the Thames at Byron is plenty good enough for me," said Mr. Norman last night to the group of envious sports who surrounded and were admiring the catch.

Funeral of the Late Chas. Lilley.

The funeral of the late Charles Lilley took place yesterday afternoon from the Memorial Church. Family service was held at the house of the young man's parents. The funeral cortege was large and the mourners many. Among the latter from a distance were Frank Lilley, brother of deceased, who was intercepted at Waterdown, N. Y., while plying his vocation as traveler; Edward Lilley, of Wardsville, Ont., uncle of deceased; Mrs. Simpson, of the same place, cousin; Mr. Joseph Raynor Hamilton, Ont., and Mrs. James, Buffalo. The burial took place at Woodland, where the family plot received its first occupant. The pallbearers were Ald. Henry Dreaney, James Morrison, Charles Currie, James Sloan, James Short and Thomas Nickle.

Electric Transit—St. Thomas to Port Stanley.

London seems to be last in the race for an electric railway. London West is going to have one and now St. Thomas and Port Stanley have like prospects. The St. Thomas Journal says: "Mr. C. A. Parkinson, of Detroit, manager of Hendrie & Co.'s realty, who are the owners of the St. Thomas Street Railway, has been in the city. One object of his visit was to look over the ground and see if it would be advisable to convert the road into an electric road and extend the line to Port Stanley. On his return he said he thought an electric road to the port with a switch to the fair grounds would be a good paying investment during the summer months, and he will report to his principals, advising that the street railway be turned into an electric railway and extended to Port Stanley."

The clothing store of James Dass at Fergus was burglarized Monday night, and ready-made clothing and other things were taken to the value of $75.

Miss Rose Silver, of Hamilton, has taken action against James Evans, a carriage-maker, for breach of promise. The damages claimed amount to $2,500.

The Ottawa civic fire and light committee has recommended the City Council to take steps to establish a civic electric plant for street lighting purposes when the present contract expires.

A Winnipeg dispatch says: The connection of the "Soo" extension was made at the boundary on Saturday afternoon. There still remains a distance of 70 miles between Estevan and Parqua to be ironed.

Harry Church, a member of the crew of the Chippewa, fell overboard Tuesday afternoon as the steamer was outside the eastern gap at Toronto, but was rescued after being in the water 25 minutes.

The Chaudiere Electric Light Company and the Ottawa Electric Light Company have amalgamated. The Standard Electric Company remains out, but efforts are being made to get it to join and form a city monopoly.

Daniel McKenzie, reeve of Georgetown, who died Saturday after a few days' illness, was a staunch Reformer all his life and did herculean work for the party. He was highly respected and known all over the country as a man of integrity and honesty.

There is trouble in Cooke's Presbyterian Church, Kingston. On Sunday the anthem was sung during the collection. Mr. Thomas Lemmon sang a solo. Several old members are offended, and manifested their dislike by leaving the edifice. The trouble will probably be healed.

W. C. Van Horne, president of the C. P. R., went to Burlington, Vt., on Monday, where he gave bonds to appear in answer to the warrant issued by a United States judge in Washington State for his arrest for alleged violation of the interstate law. Mr. Van Horne afterwards returned to Montreal.

Sir Charles Tupper left Montreal Monday night for Winnipeg en route for the Salt Coats and Kilarney croiter settlements, which he will visit at the request of the Secretary for Scotland. He is accompanied by Lady and Miss Tupper, and will return to England via Halifax, not visiting Ottawa at all.

Grand Trunk Detective Watson says that a tramp convention is in progress in a swamp near Stratford, and that over 150 specimens of the Dusty Rhodes class are gathered there. The residents of the neighborhood are said to be suffering from losses in proportion to the number of delegates.

A few days ago at Hamilton John Miller had John McDermott arrested on a charge of stabbing. McDermott and a friend, Davis, were committed for trial and came up before Judge Muir. Miller told such a conflicting tale of the affair that his honor plainly told him that he was a perjurer, and in disgust discharged both the prisoners.

Quite a sensation has been caused in Montreal by a report that Mr. L. J. Amedee Papineau, sen., of Mont Bello, and son of the late Hon. Louis Joseph Papineau, has abandoned the Catholic faith, and is about embracing the Presbyterian creed. He has long been looked upon as a freethinker, and is said to have seldom attended the Catholic Church.

Senator Frye, of Maine, has undertaken the recovery of a considerable sum of money for the Grand Trunk Railway. He has introduced a bill directing the payment to the managing director of the company the sum of $10,770, in full satisfaction of the claim of the company for duty paid by them in 1864 and 1865, and entitled to remission on railway iron exported from their branch in the United States to Canada for rerolling and reimported to the States for use on the branch.
