

FINDS CARGO OF TROUSERS HIDDEN IN EMPTY BOILER

Twenty-Five Bales of Boys' Pants Cashed by Unknown Thief, Discovered by Party Out for Sunday Stroll in East End of City.

It may be that someone in East London expects a scarcity of boys' trousers this winter and was trying to corner the market, or some may have had in mind the founding of a boys' home and decided to lay in a store of trousers for the occupants, or there may be many reasons for a stored up treasure of trousers, but the police have failed to discover one yet.

A Treasure House. Several East London youths were on their way for a walk in the country Sunday morning to enjoy nature's unadorned ozone. They were walking through the George White Company's property and peering into a number of boilers that are stored there. Suddenly one of them thought he saw something in the interior of a boiler, and like Little Jack Horner, he put in his hand and pulled out, not a plum, but a bale of boys' trousers—size 22 to 29. He did not exclaim like little Jack: "What a good job I am!" but plunged his hand in again and drew out another bale. Again and again the trusty arm stole cautiously into the boiler and each time it came out a bale of trousers was clutched tightly in the hand. Finally the ground about the boiler was strewn with trousers, and began to take on the appearance of a clothing store counter on bargain day. About twenty-five bales were removed, each one containing about one dozen pairs of trousers.

One of the boys hurried home and notified Detective Down, who is now investigating the affair. It is thought that the trousers were stolen from a local wholesale house, and as a man was seen hanging about the vicinity of the boiler in which they were stored, the police are of the opinion that he stored them there until he could get an opportunity to carry them to a safer place.

Drags Injured Man From Car Track With Car Almost on Him

Fatality Averted by Prompt Action, Rescuer Narrowly Escaping Being Hit While Plucking Another From Danger.

Only the presence of mind of John Treneaman, of 150 Drencey avenue, averted what looked like a certain fatality at Dundas and Waterloo streets about noon today. Mr. Samuel Preston, of 450 King street, was riding home on his bicycle when he came into collision with another cyclist, named Arthur Ings. Mr. Preston, who is a middle-aged man, was knocked to the pavement and rolled onto the car tracks, where he lay in a semi-conscious condition directly in the path of an on-coming street car, which was travelling west at a high rate of speed.

Quick Work Saves. Instantly taking in the situation, Mr. Treneaman, who was passing the spot at the time, dashed out and dragged the injured man from the track just in the nick of time, narrowly escaping injury himself. The car was unable to stop, and went right past the spot before it could be brought to a standstill. The motorman tugged frantically at the brakes, but they seemed to be incapable of checking the car. Spectators state that it went a much greater distance than would have been necessary to stop the car had the brakes worked properly.

A Thrilling Scene. Mr. Preston suffered severely from the shock, and his left hip and knee were injured. He was able, however, to proceed to his home.

The thrilling incident was witnessed by dozens of people who were passing on their way home to dinner. The greatest praise was bestowed upon Mr. Treneaman for his prompt action. Dr. J. B. Campbell, who was a witness of the affair, said: "Too much cannot be said of his presence of mind. It was all that saved the man's life, as the motorman seemed utterly unable to stop his car. It's high time that air-brakes were put on all of them."

HOUSE WAS BURNED

Bad Blaze Near Ailsa Craig Started From Spark on Roof.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ailsa Craig, Sept. 15.—The residence of Fred Harrison, in East Williams, near here, was completely destroyed by fire on Saturday evening. The fire started in the roof from a spark from the kitchen chimney and, fanned by a high wind, made great headway before it was noticed. A general alarm was sent out on the rural telephone and neighbors gathered quickly and managed to save most of the furniture. The new barns close by were also saved.

THINK PRIEST MAY ALSO BE SLAYER OF LITTLE KELLNER GIRL

Clergy Hope to Brand as an Impostor Self-Confessed Murderer of Anna Aumutter, Although He Came to Diocese With Apparently Good Credentials.

HAD BEEN SUSPENDED. Mainz, Germany, Sept. 15.—The Journal today says that Johannes Schmidt, belonging to the Mainz bishopric, has been long under suspension by the bishop. He disappeared from Mainz and later arrived in Munich, where he was arrested on a charge of committing a number of frauds, according to the newspaper. He was acquitted by the court on the ground of weak-mindedness, and then emigrated to New York. The Mainz episcopate was not aware that he was exercising the functions of a priest at New York.

[Canadian Press.] New York, Sept. 15.—In the hope of branding as an impostor and pseudo priest, Rev. Hans Schmidt, the alleged self-confessed slayer of Anna Aumutter, victim of New York's river murder mystery, church authorities began today a sweeping investigation of Schmidt's record and his pretensions to ordination.

"We hope, of course, to be able to prove that this unspeakable monster was an impostor and that he had been using forged papers," declared Monsignor Lavelle, vicar general of the archdiocese of New York. "That is something which we are trying to clear up now. He came to this diocese with credentials which were apparently in every way authentic and genuine, but we know practically nothing of him. His crime is too horrible to conceive. We can only hope that he may prove to have been a pseudo priest."

Slept Soundly. In his cell in the Tombs, with his head on a pillow, Schmidt slept soundly through the night and arose this morning to partake of a hearty breakfast. He had little to add to his alleged confession of last night, in which he is said to have told the police that he killed the victim as she lay in bed, cut up her body in the bath tub of the apartment where he had established her, wrapped it in five bundles and dropped the bundles in the Hudson River. To Rev. L. J. Evers, the Tombs chaplain, Schmidt was said to have made the following declaration:

Directed by Saint. "I was directed to kill her by St. Elizabeth, who is my patron, as a sacrifice to be consummated as was the sacrifice of Abraham, in blood."

To the police Schmidt is alleged to have said: "I killed her because I loved her." The police believe, however, that he killed her because she was soon to be a mother. They believe that the girl accepted as genuine the marriage ceremony through which she went with her alleged slayer last February, and in which he was both priest and bridegroom.

Another Murder. With a view to clearing the mystery surrounding the murder of eight-year-old Anna Kellner, whose mutilated body was found in quicklime in the basement of St. John's Catholic Church in Louisville, Ky., two and one-half years ago, the police sought today to obtain from Schmidt some statement of what he might know of this crime. From August, 1909, till March, 1910, Schmidt was a visitor in Louisville, not officially connected with any church here, but a guest in the home of Rev. Henry B. W. Vermaut, rector of the church of the Immaculate Conception.

Alma Kellner disappeared on December 3, 1909. Her body was found nine months later. Joseph Wendling, janitor at St. John's church, is now serving a life term in prison at Frankfort, Ky., for the crime. Wendling stoutly denied his guilt and the jury did not consider the evidence sufficient to hold against him a verdict of first degree murder.

The Birdman Who Flies Upside Down!

AVIATRIX POGGARD, who at Jussey, France, recently, made his remarkable head-downward flight of a quarter of a mile, to demonstrate the scientific proof of Berliet's theory that a properly constructed aeroplane cannot capsize in the air; that blown by the wind in any position, a machine can always be righted by the pilot; also that it never loses its flying capacity, even if it is completely overturned. The monoplane in which the daring aviatrix made the most hazardous feat ever attempted, was an ordinary one with a 50-horsepower motor.

HOTELMEN PLAN A FIGHT AGAINST LAWS THAT HURT

Claim Their Business Is Being Jeopardized By Reform Legislation.

WILL ASK PROTECTION Association To Seek Repeal of What They Call Legislative Incongruities.

[Canadian Press.]

Winnipeg, Sept. 15.—In order to combat what are described as "certain legislative incongruities," the Hotelkeepers' Association of Canada will urge its members at the convention which will open in Winnipeg tomorrow to "buckle on their armor and go forth to build up a fortification against such measures."

Extract from statements sent by Secretary Edgewood, of Winnipeg, follow:

Viewed With Alarm. "We view with increasing alarm, the spasmodic agitation in legislative halls of many measures that are calculated not only to disturb, but jeopardize the present status of our business affairs by the imposition of middle-

some laws, many of which are unnecessary as they are unreasonable. "Each year brings forth some original freak reformer, who enters public life carrying upon his shoulders an assumed burden of responsibility to change all the existing conditions of social and business life, through the introduction of fanatical bills, which in some unexplainable manner find favor with the average legislator."

Enforce the Law. "We believe in putting down drunkenness, immorality, anything that tends to lower the standard of living or of humanity in the Dominion of Canada. To do that is to strictly enforce the license law. We do not need more laws in the Dominion, but we need more loyalty to those laws which we have. Hotelmen as a class in the Dominion of Canada are good men, men worthy of the traditions of the bonifaces of the old world. There are black sheep among them. You will find them everywhere, and one hotelman, who is false to his trade, who cares not what injury he might bring to the cause, is able to bring down the condemnation of the whole community on that trade. There is a means by which such men can be got rid of, and we believe that temperance will be best promoted in this Dominion by seeing that there are good men keeping hotels."

George Wright, of Toronto, president of the association, arrived last night.

OLD MACARTHUR FARM IS SLATED FOR SUBDIVISION

The submission to City Engineer Ashplant this morning of subdivision plans for the old MacArthur farm property on the Wharfedale road.

South London is regarded as an effective answer to the rumors of the C. N. R. having purchased the property for the location of station, shops and yards. What real estate agency or company is behind the project of subdividing the farm, are unknown at the city hall. The plans were sent in for approval by a St. Catharines surveyor, whose men completed the survey of the property some time ago.

It was the presence of these surveyors that gave rise to the rumors of Canadian Northern activities in South London. At the time General Purchasing Agent Col. A. S. Davidson of the C. N. R. denied that any Canadian Northern surveyors were working in this territory.

Shot Wife's Mother Father and Brother

[Canadian Press.]

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 15.—Charged with murdering his wife's father, mother, and brother, a 35-year-old, a telephone lineman, is being sought by the police of this city.

Baxter and his wife had been separated several years. Baxter went to the home of his wife's father, Henry Smith, where Mrs. Baxter had been staying, and opened fire on the family with a revolver. Smith, his wife and son Oscar, were killed almost instantly, but Mrs. Baxter succeeded in eluding her husband, and escaped from the house.

After the shooting Baxter is alleged to have reloaded his revolver, and walked leisurely away.

CITY CLERK BAKER TAKES LARGE POWER IN HIS OWN HANDS

Sets a Date for Vote on Bylaws Without Sanction of Council.

HIGH-HANDED ACTION

Is Servant of Council and Exceeded His Authority, Says Ald. Richter.

"I am acting on my own responsibility; I believe in being farmed," said City Clerk Samuel Baker this morning when asked on what authority he had been sending out notices to owners of polling booths for a bylaw vote on October 15.

"Mr. Baker is the servant of the city council, and if he undertakes to act without instructions from them he is exceeding his authority," said Ald. J. G. Richter, when told that the notices for a vote were being received today by owners of polling booths.

Many of the owners of polling booths received today notification that they should be prepared for a vote on bylaws on October 15.

One of the owners was puzzled, and asked "The Advertiser" if the council had taken action to take a vote on that date.

He thought it was strange that if the council had not done so, as he believed, that Mr. Baker should take the authority upon himself.

The Advertiser called Mr. Baker, and he said the matter was entirely in his hands, but now it is partly with the city council, he said.

"Did the mayor ask you to send out these notices?" was asked.

"He did not," replied Mr. Baker. "I did it on my own authority."

Ald. Richter sought the city clerk's action, exceedingly high-handed, and said that if proof of the city clerk's action were furnished it should be taken up.

"I should like to know how Mr. Baker knows even that a vote is to be taken," he said. "There has been no date appointed. The mayor does not decide these things. Mr. Baker has no authority whatever for sending out the notices."

LEAVES FOR INDIA AS AN EXCHANGE OFFICER

Captain Griffith Sails for New Post, But Successor Not Yet Appointed.

Capt. Griffith, R. C. R., for three years adjutant of No. 1 infantry station in this city, sailed from Montreal Friday en route to India, where he will be stationed for the next two years. He left Wolsey Barracks Wednesday.

Capt. Griffith was widely known in London, and was extremely popular not only with his brother officers and the men, but also among a large circle of friends. He took a keen interest in athletics, and made a name for himself while at the barracks as a football player. He was also a member of the regimental ground hockey team.

He goes to India as an exchange officer, but will not learn until his arrival in India to what regiment he will be attached. The name of his successor in London has not yet been received.

Mexican Refugees Tell of Murders

Unspeakable Crimes Are Being Perpetrated According to Party Which Has Just Reached San Francisco—Anarchy Prevails in Many Districts.

San Francisco, Sept. 15.—Word of the murder of Morris P. Rock, American agent of the El Lige Mines, at Tepic, Mexico, is brought here by the steamer Peru, which had 100 refugees on board. The mining engineer was intercepted by a few bandits as he was on his way to join employees of the company, who were preparing to defend the mine property. He was disarmed and cut to pieces. Rock was 50 years of age, and had been in Mexico about 16 years.

Left for Dead. Max Lambert, an American engineer, who arrived on the Peru, was left for dead by bandits who attacked his home in the state of Tepic. Lambert's wife and child escaped by crawling through a rear window, and he remained to greet the bandits, whose approach was noticed when they were a mile away. They fractured his skull and left him for dead. When they departed, Mrs. Lambert returned and secured aid.

The refugees were from points along the western coast of Mexico, and they brought recollections of stories of refugees who preceded them. Western Mexico is in state of anarchy, they said. Rebel chiefs do not recognize each other, and when not looting and committing murder they are fighting among themselves. Americans from the state of Durango as well as from other parts of the country are being killed. They say the country is overrun with bands of drunken peons, who commit unspeakable crimes.

HEAD CRUSHED IN ACCIDENT

Gore Road Man Thrown From Rig When His Horse Shies.

ANIMAL SCARED BY AUTO

William John Smith, of the first Gore road, east of Hale street, was seriously injured about the head, and suffered internal injuries, when he was thrown out Friday morning about 11:20, as a result either of a collision with an automobile driving north on Egerton street, or through a sudden leap on the part of his horse, which took fright. Mr. Smith was driving on Campbell street, intending to turn south on Egerton. He does not know whether the auto, a small runabout, collided with the rig he was driving or not, but at any rate, his horse leaped forward, throwing him out on the road, where he lay unconscious. He was picked up and carried to the lawn in front of a store nearby, where Dr. Seaborn attended him, subsequently removing him to his office and bandaging his head, which was badly crushed. Later Mr. Smith was taken to his home, where on Friday night and Saturday it was feared his injuries would prove fatal. He is still in a critical condition, but is expected to recover. The drivers of the runabout did not stop, and their identity is unknown.

A Short Session. Unless the unexpected happens, tonight's session of the council promises to be a short one. Nothing save routine is scheduled to come before the aldermen, but last-minute developments have been cropping up with surprising regularity at the meetings of the present year, and no promise of a short meeting are being made.

ST. THOMAS HOPES TO REAP HARVEST OF LONDON'S FOLLY

Railway City Would Gain Standing as Community at the Expense of This City.

WOULD GET THE C. N. R.

Main Line Has Been Staked Out Through Heart of Neighboring City Without Making Fuss.

St. Thomas, almost to a man, hopes that the electrification scheme will carry.

St. Thomas would not have to pay one cent. It has no shipping interests to jeopardize and hopes to reap a rich harvest from London's folly.

St. Thomas is not half the distance from Port Stanley that London is, and before any benefits of electrification could be secured for London, if there are any benefits to be derived, they would be strained through the net held by the Railway City.

Strained Through Net. That it would be a net with fine meshes there could be little doubt, for the neighboring community is making every effort to secure a new place among Western Ontario cities.

St. Thomas thinks that if electrification is carried, not only will the city have first call on the line, but that it will secure the main line of the C. N. R.

Bluff or no bluff, the Canadian Northern has surveyed a line practically through the heart of the city. There was no announcement made of their intention, so that if it was an attempt at frightening the electrification crowd it was a very silent way of doing it.

A Wholesale Centre. St. Thomas hopes that electrification will carry. It may get the main line of the C. N. R. It may get a number of London shippers. It may become a wholesale centre. Anything that St. Thomas can gain at the expense of London will be highly gratifying to St. Thomas.

At the present time the newspapers of St. Thomas are checking whenever there appears anything in a London paper attacking the C. N. R., and every electrification argument is reprinted in their columns. In every manner they show their delight at the prospect of growing larger at the expense of their big neighbor.

THIRD SESSION OF PARLIAMENT WILL BE SHORT

Hon. A. G. Mackay Has New Measure Sure of Government Support.

CHANGE ELECTION ACT

Guaranteeing Bonds of Municipalities Will Not Be Carried Out.

[Canadian Press.]

Edmonton, Sept. 15.—The first session of the third Alberta Legislature opens Tuesday, and it is expected that the session will be of shorter duration than usual. Only a small number of bills have been advertised, and it is not expected much important public legislation will be enacted.

A libel law will probably be introduced, such a measure was slated for last year, but shelved owing to pressure of other business. Hon. A. G. Mackay will probably signal his entrance to the Alberta Legislature by moving a woodmen's lien act to protect the wages of men making ties for railroad building in the West. This will have the support of the Government.

Not Yet Solved. It is not expected that the Premier will announce a solution to A. and A. G. W. difficulty. Although no indication has been given one way or another, new railway bonds are likely to be guaranteed at the present session. The Legislature will have to vote money for the erection of elevators, and the Alberta farmers' co-operative elevator act passed last session. The organization of the company is complete, and 23 elevators will be ready to handle this season's grain, according to announcements already made. The Government has undertaken to loan 50 per cent of the cost of erection or purchase of these elevators.

Closer Co-operation. Suggestions that the Government guarantee bonds of municipalities are unlikely to be carried out at the present session, though closer co-operation between municipalities and the department of municipal affairs may be arranged. It is thought that with the passing of the present financial stringency, municipalities will be content to finance themselves without the assistance of the credit of the province. Closer supervision of the expenditures of rural municipalities is regarded as desirable, and stricter modes of audit will be adopted.

Change Election Act. Changes are expected in the election act, in liquor license ordinances, companies ordinance, and in the game laws in the form of statute amendment, but they will not be of a very far-reaching character. The usual live foxes from Alberta will be restricted.

Liberal o s East Middlesex are entering the by-election fight prepared to send a supporter from the riding to the banner of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. T. B. 6 call has been sent out, and Saturday will see one of the highest representation of East Middlesex Liberals, in Hyman Hall, that have ever gathered to select a standard-bearer for the party. The issues of the campaign—the naval question and reciprocity—are in themselves sufficient to arouse the enthusiasm of the party. In addition, the Liberals have been stirred as possibly never before by the inefficient federal administration, and one of the hottest political battles ever seen in the famous riding is promised.

The riding is being given an opportunity to express itself on the navy question, and a stinging rebuke to the famous Borden "emergency" cry is expected. The party is out to win, and the leaders are confident that the late Peter Elson's 661 majority will be sliced, riddled and tattered, and that a Liberal member will again sit for the riding.

R. G. Fisher to Stand. While the party nominee will not be chosen until Saturday, Sept. 15, R. G. Fisher, local attorney, and law partner of City Solicitor T. G. Meredith, is being prominently mentioned as the party's choice. It is understood that Mr. Fisher will allow his name to go before the convention, and the possibility is that he will be the unanimous choice of the delegates.

Other names that are being mentioned as possible candidates are those of H. Odell, of Dorchester Township; James Murray, ex-reeve of Westminster; John Laidlaw, reeve of Westminster; and Ed Graham, of London.

Executive Met on Saturday. There was an executive meeting of the East Middlesex Liberal Association on Saturday afternoon, in the office of Secretary Jared Vining. Vice-President Ramsay presided, with Claude Sangen, acting as secretary. Mr. Vining being absent on his holidays. The decision to call a convention for next Saturday was arrived at and notices have been sent out summoning the delegates from the various divisions. A general invitation to all Liberals of the riding has also been extended, and it is expected that this request will meet with a hearty response.

Hot Campaign in Prospect. "Whoever is selected for a convention can rest assured that the Liberals of East Middlesex will put up one of the strongest fights in the history of the riding to insure his election," said a prominent member of the party this morning. "The riding is roused as never before, and though this is only a by-election we expect to return a Liberal to the House of Commons, to show Mr. Borden what East Middlesex thinks of his weak administration."

Similar sentiments are expressed by all those who are in touch with the situation in the riding, and the possibility of Mr. Fisher's candidature serves but to increase the interest. Behind him the Liberals expect to carry the party to victory, but whoever the convention choice may be it will be a united East Middlesex that will stand up behind him.

Native of the Riding. R. G. Fisher, who is regarded as the most likely candidate, is a native of the riding, having been born on a farm at Hyde Park. For the past 25 years he has been a practicing lawyer in London, and has been connected throughout that entire period with the firm in which he is now a partner—Meredith & Fisher. His student days were spent under Sir William Meredith, now chief justice of Ontario, when the latter was a partner in the firm of Meredith & Scatterd, a firm with which T. G. Meredith, present city solicitor, and partner of Mr. Fisher, Continued on Page Eleven.

LONDON, MONDAY, SEPT. 15.

THE LAURIER GOVERNMENT AND THE MANUFACTURERS.

A member of the Saskatchewan Government, Hon. George Langley, tells a meeting of Liberals at Calgary that the Laurier Government trucked too much to the manufacturing interests.

This is undeniably the opinion of many western Liberals. Western Conservatives traded on it astutely in the last election. In the rural ridings of the western provinces the reciprocity agreement was attacked by them, on the ground that it maintained practically intact the privileges of the eastern manufacturers. A deeper cut in the duty on agricultural implements in particular would have been a highly popular stroke. Duty-free implements had been advocated in the House by

Mr. Meighen, of Portage la Prairie, the present solicitor-general, and by nearly every Conservative member between Lake Superior and the Rockies.

Only the very obvious advantages of a free American market reconciled

western grain-growers to the industrial clauses of the reciprocity agreement. Liberal candidates were pictured by their opponents as the defenders of the implement trust, the cement trust, and the other trusts

that were putting up their money to defeat the Laurier Government.

In Eastern Canada a very different set of tactics was adopted by the anti-reciprocity strategists. They accused the Government of betraying the manufacturing interests of the country, and cried that the whole fabric of Canadian industry would collapse as a result of duty-free pork and potatoes. Many manufacturers joined in this chorus, some from partisan motives, others because they were gulled. Canadian workmen were also grossly deceived as to the true nature of the proposed legislation. From anti-reciprocity journals they could not learn that the agreement virtually limited

the reduction or abolition of duties to foodstuffs. They were given to understand it exposed all industries to the full sweep of American competition, and they were warned by these journals and by some unscrupulous employers that their livelihood was at stake.

Western Liberals must make allowance for the difficulties of the Government in the last campaign. The Government at least redeemed its promise and was true to Liberal principles by seeking to give Canadian producers the benefit of wider markets. In so doing it knew it challenged the jingoes and the organized selfishness which dictates the policy of the present administration. It was careful of the manufacturing interests, and did succeed in rallying some enlightened captains of industry to a policy which offered the farmers some compensation for the burdens put upon them by the tariff; but it could scarcely have fared worse if it had tried to throw down the whole tariff wall.

LORD LOREBURN'S PROPOSAL.

Lord Loreburn's proposal of a conference of all parties to try to find a mutually satisfactory settlement of the home rule question, derived importance only from the importance of the proposer himself. As a distinguished Liberal, a former Lord chancellor, his letter was naturally hailed with pleasure by Unionists as supporting their contention that the present home rule bill is unworkable. But the response from Liberal, Unionist, and Nationalist leaders and newspapers holds out no hope of practical result.

The Liberals and Nationalists insist, with justice, that the Unionists must accept the principle of home rule as he showed during the attack upon the veto power of the House of Lords and the passage of the Parliament bill.

Apparently no other course is open to the Government, but to push the home rule bill to a third reading next

May or June, and advise the King to sign it. If the Government is sustained at the ensuing election it must seek to give effect to its own legislation and take the consequences. If the Unionist party succeeds, it must take the consequences of destroying the bill, and dashing the golden chalice from the lips of Erin.

NOT THE RIGHT PREFERENCE.

The head of a large shipbuilding concern in Toronto protests against a new ruling of the Federal Government that all vessels built for the Government must be composed wholly of British or Canadian materials. He says that most of the steel plates used in constructing Canadian ships are obtained from Pittsburgh and Chicago, mainly on account of quicker delivery.

If this heavy freight had to be transported in every case 3,000 miles from

Great Britain, Canadian shipbuilders

could not turn out ships as speedily or cheaply as though they had every country in the world to draw on. They would be handicapped accordingly in competition with the world.

No doubt these are the views of other Canadian shipbuilders. They find that this measure of protection for British and Canadian steel makers is an added burden on their own industry, but protection necessarily works out in this way. The new regulation is an inverted application of the British preference. The original preference carried with it only a diminution of taxes. The price of no manufacturer's raw material was raised by it;

in many instances there was a marked decrease. The new ruling has the contrary effect.

The British preference served the country well in the hands of its authors. The present Government is abusing it.

St. Thomas is doing all it can to advance electrification—there's a reason.

The character of "inside" tactics used for electrification will not recommend it to ratepayers.

Before Hon. A. E. Kemp injected his

"big interests" personality into the East Middlesex campaign, he should have had his facts in order.

"As the mayor does not own a newspaper, he is in no position to retaliate, were he so minded?"

—London Free Press.

From this we may conclude then,

that he has been "thrown down" by the newspaper that has supported him and defended him up to the present time.

NEW PASTOR'S INDUCTION TAKES PLACE THURSDAY

Rev. W. J. Knox Will Be Formally Placed in Charge of First Presbyterian.

The induction of Rev. W. J. Knox, of Toronto, the new pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, this city, will take place Thursday evening. The moderator of the London presbytery, Rev. Walter

Nichol, will preside. Rev. Dr. Frazer

Smith, of Moss, will preach; Rev. Dr.

Ross, of St. Andrew's Church, will address the minister, and Rev. D. L. Mc-

Crane, also of London, will address the congregation. The induction services will be followed by a reception. Rev.

W. M. Martin, of South London, is the interim moderator of the First Presbytery Church session, the pastorate of which has been vacant since the resignation of Rev. J. G. Inkster, now of Victoria, B. C.

CHELSEA GREEN TEAM BEAT A PICKED NINE

Anderson Pitched Great Ball and Struck Out Ten Batters.

The Chelsea Green baseball team defeated a picked team from the Commercial and Methodist Leagues on Saturday by the score of 7 to 2. Morenz did the pitching for the picked team, but was hit hard when hits meant runs.

"Hickory" Anderson pitched for the Green, and struck out ten batters. The game of McLeod and Buchanan for the Green, and Tozer for the picked team, provided the feature.

Chelsea Green will play a return game at Tecumseh Park next Saturday. They are still waiting for a reply to the challenge sent the Orient Club.

FIGHTING PLAYERS ARE FINED HEAVILY

Tinker and Maraville Set Back $50, and Meyers $100.

[Canadian Press.]

Cincinnati, Ohio, Sept. 15.—President Lynch announced today that he had fined both Manager Tinker, of the Cincinnati club, and Shortstop Mar-aville, of the Boston club, $50, and

First Baseman Myers, also of the Boston club, $100, for fighting on the field

during the first game of the double header here last Saturday. Tinker was also suspended three days for using abusive language to Umpire O'Day.

CANOE CAPSIZED

John Marcott Was Drowned and His Friend Barely Escaped.

[Canadian Press.]

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Sept. 15.—

Through the capsizing of a canoe up the line of the Algoma Central railway yesterday, John Marcott, aged 18,

of Sudbury, lost his life, while a companion was able to reach shore in an exhausted condition. The pair had come fishing on Lake Mitchell, and in the excitement in making a catch stood up, with disastrous results.

Marcott was an employee of the Lake

Superior Paper Company.

STRONG PLEA FOR AID IN SPREADING BIBLE

Secretary of Bible Society Asks London Sunday Schools
to Help.Rev. W. E. Hassard, of Toronto, secretary of the Bible Society, occupied the pulpit of Dundas Centre Methodist Church Sunday evening and presented the work of the organization he represents, in an interesting and instructive address.Mr. Hassard made a strong plea for further aid from the Sunday schools in London for this work. The importance of the Bible Society was only being realized among the different churches at the present time, and the splendid progress had been made in this city toward its support. However, London had still much to do in this respect, and an effort was being made this year to raise $5,000 among the churches of London to go to Bible Society work.

Translating Testament.

The work of this society in foreign lands was described by Mr. Hassard, and many incidents and experiences that befell the collectors were related. The translation of the testaments into different languages was described as a most interesting but laborious work, especially in India, where there were so many different languages.The work in Canada, however, was just as important as that in foreign lands, and Mr. Hassard described it fully. At Quebec thousands of for-tifiers were landing daily, and they were always agreeably surprised when presented with a Bible printed in their own language. This has led to many conversions. The Bible Society is doing much toward the solving of Canada's foreign problem, but greater enthusiasm on the part of the Canadian people and Canadian churches is needed to meet its growing demands.
Rev. Mr. Hassard spoke in St. Andrew's Church in the morning along the same lines.

Chalmers Church Held Rally Day

First in City to Observe Plan Arranged by General Assembly.The Sunday school of Chalmers Church, Waterloo street, was the first of the Presbyterian schools in the city to observe the new "Rally Day" arranged by the general assembly's committee. The morning service Sunday being devoted to this end. The church was prettily and profusely decorated with flowers, and there was a good attendance of Sunday school scholars. The pitiable condition of the service was followed.
Rev. Frank C. Harper, B.A., D.D., the minister, made a most interesting and valuable address, referring to the subject "God's Helpers," referring to the thoughts on power, readiness, duty, truthfulness and decision illustrated by David's conflict with Goliath.Sunday evening was devoted to one of those popular services that have been greatly appreciated by the members of the last two years. The sermon was on the 9th Chapter of Revelation, and the mythical legends were woven into the text. The night of uncurbed passions. Their crowns of gold were like the stage crowns, made of passion and greed. The devil is the greatest stage-artist the world has known. His crowns of pastorhood owe their glamour to the false lights that the diabolical imagination and the glory of every kingdom that he promises to his slave is the counterfeit glory of this world. The pitiable victims of the devil's guile in gaining the pastorhood were instanced by the politician who sought for and used power for selfish ends alone, and missed the real glory of humanity's advancement, the worldly person who used church membership for gaining social position, and church attendance for commercial advertisement, and the youth who seeks pleasure rather than duty. The growth in character's undying satisfac-

East Side Mourns Big Tim Sullivan

[Canadian Press.]

New York, Sept. 15.—"Big Tim" Sullivan passed through the streets of the East Side for the last time today.

His body was taken this morning to the old cathedral of St. Patrick, a short quarter of a mile from the rooms of the association bearing his name, where it had lain in state since

Saturday afternoon.

Tens of thousands of men and women from every part of New York had gazed on his features there and a throng, such as only the East

Side can furnish, followed it today to the cathedral and to its last resting place in Calvary Cemetery, Brooklyn.

A delegation of congressmen led the mourners. Behind this delegation marched the longest funeral train the East Side has ever seen. The streets sombre with crepe draped on the shop windows.

Stream of Blood Revealed Murder

[Canadian Press.]

New York, Sept. 15.—A thin, red stream trickling down the front of a tenement house in Brooklyn today revealed the murder of Mrs. Giulio De-cattani. Two sailors, who first noticed the red stain, looked up and saw the woman at the window trying to scream, but unable to make a sound

HERE'S HOW CAROLINE COE DOES HER PICKLING

SLICED CUCUMBER PICKLES.

Three dozen sliced cucumbers. Do not peel. Twelve medium onions, sliced. Put in crock and turn over them two quarts of water in which has been dissolved two-thirds of a cup of salt. Allow to remain overnight. In the morning drain well. Put in granite kettle with one-quarter pound of brown sugar; two teaspoons of mustard; a few cloves and two cups of vinegar. Allow to boil up thoroughly. Can while hot. Sprinkle little celery seed in each can as you fill it.

GARLIC CUCUMBER PICKLE.

Slice twenty-four large green cucumbers and boil them in weak vinegar for half an hour. While boiling prepare the following: Two quarts of vinegar, half tablespoon each of sliced garlic, grated horse radish, turmeric ground black pepper, ginger, celery seed and ground cinnamon; a teaspoon, each, of mace and allspice; and one-half teaspoon of red pepper and one-half pound of sugar. Put in the cucumbers and simmer over them. Place small piece of salt in jars while hot and seal.

MOTHER'S PICCALILLI.

One large head of solid white cabbage; one peck of green tomatoes; chop both medium fine. Put in crock and add one large teacup of salt. Stir all together thoroughly and allow to stand for two hours.

Then put in coarse sack to drain. Chop six large onions; six large green peppers. Take two quarts of vinegar and one of water and heat. Put cabbage and tomato in and allow to come to boiling point. Then drain in colander. Take three quarts of vinegar, one quart of water; four pounds of best brown sugar; one cup of mixed spices; one heaping cooking spoon of ground cinnamon. One cup of grated horse radish. Put in pepper and onion. Mix all together and put over fire, allow to heat slowly, when hot stir in the tomato and cabbage. Simmer at least three hours.

If you allow the preserving kettle to stand in dishpan of water there will be no danger of scorching. Seal while hot.

COLD CUCUMBER PICKLES. Wash pickles and put in jar. Cover them with strong salt water (one cup of salt to two quarts of water). Let stand overnight.

The next morning drain and wipe dry. Place in crock. Over them pour one cup of dry mustard mixed with smooth paste, with little vinegar. Add two cups of brown sugar. Heat a cup of mixed spices in bag and boil in two quarts of vinegar with two cups of sugar. When vinegar is boiling drop in cauliflower, and boil ten minutes, stirring, that all may be cooked. Put at once into cans and cover with hot vinegar and seal.

PICKLED CAULIFLOWER. Four heads of cauliflower, separate into small pieces and add one cup of salt and allow to stand overnight. Put in colander and drain. Rinse with cold water. The one-quarter of a cup of mixed spices in bag and boil in two quarts of vinegar with two cups of sugar. When vinegar is boiling drop in cauliflower, and boil ten minutes, stirring, that all may be cooked. Put at once into cans and cover with hot vinegar and seal.

ENGLISH PICKLES. Take one dozen dill pickles, peel and slice in thin slices. Put in granite pan with layer of pickles and ground layer of light brown sugar until horse radish, ginger, half tablespoon each, of ground cinnamon, black pepper, Put in pan of water. Set over per paprika, celery seed and one-half fire and simmer four or five hours. Pour out sugar. Put all in kettle and do not boil. A few bunches of fresh-simmer two hours. Put in glass jars and seal while hot.

TOLEDO PICKLES.

Pour boiling water over cucumbers of small size. Allow to stand until cold. To each gallon of vinegar add two cups of sugar, one even cup of salt, three teaspoons of powdered alum, two ounces of mixed spice. Bring to boiling point. Have cucumbers packed in cans. Turn hot vinegar over them. Place small piece of horse radish in each can and seal.

GREEN TOMATO PICKLES. Slice one gallon of green tomatoes and six large onions. Put into granite kettle with one quart of vinegar, one heaping cup of brown sugar, a tablespoon each of salt, black pepper and mustard seed, half teaspoon each of ground allspice and cloves. Stew all together until tomatoes look clear and are tender. Put in glass jars and seal while hot.

OIL CUCUMBER PICKLES.

One hundred small cucumbers (size of finger). Slice very thin without peeling. Sprinkle with one cup of salt and allow to stand three hours. Drain. To a quart of vinegar add one cup of best olive oil, two tablespoons of celery seed. Turn over pickles and put into cans.

MIXED PICKLES.

Three hundred small pickles; six green peppers, sliced. Four heads of cauliflower, pulled to pieces; nine large onions, sliced; two quarts of string beans, cut in small pieces; two quarts of silverskin onions; one quart green tomatoes, sliced; two quarts of lima beans. Boil beans and cauliflower until tender. Put all together and sprinkle with one pint of salt. Let stand twenty-four hours. Drain three hours. To two quarts of vinegar add two cups of sugar; one-quarter pound white mustard seed; one teaspoon of powdered alum. Heat to boiling point. Add one cup of dry mustard, blended smooth, with cold water. Heat again to boiling point, turn over pickles that have been placed in jars. Seal at once.

RIPE CUCUMBER PICKLES. Slice three dozen large yellow cucumbers in two-inch slices. Boil them for fifteen minutes in three quarts of weak vinegar and one-half a cup of salt.

Drain or three hours. Take one gallon of cold vinegar and add one tablespoon each, of onion juice, ground layer of light brown sugar until horse radish, ginger, half tablespoon each, of ground cinnamon, black pepper, Put in pan of water. Set over per paprika, celery seed and one-half fire and simmer four or five hours. Pour out sugar. Put all in kettle and do not boil. A few bunches of fresh-simmer two hours. Put in glass jars and seal while hot.

KATHERINE LESLIE'S HOME CHAT

The Post Impressionist As a House Decorator.

Writing of the latest phase of Post-Impressionism—that of household decoration—an English correspondent says: "A fascinating feature of Post-Impressionist designs is that they stimulate one's intellect and one's curiosity. One must search diligently for the artist's intention until one finds it, and the search may take a lifetime." Mr. Roger Fry, whom one suspects of being a colossal, practical joker—is at the head of the new Post-Impressionist workshops, where furniture, curtains, rugs, cushions, tapestries, portraits, etc., are made after the designs of these latter-day artists, who paint like cave dwellers and pose as pioneers in a new art movement. "What do you think that represents," asked Mr. Fry, pointing to a Berlin wool cushion covered with a complication of colored lines. The visitor "gave it up" first, then, haphazardly, "A landscape," Mr. Fry laughed. "It is a cat lying on a cabbage patch, with a butterfly." "I succeeded in finding the butterfly," said the visitor, "but I have not yet traced the cat to my own satisfaction, though Mr. Fry pointed out where its head and its tail ended." "Some of the Post-Impressionist chairs look very fancy," the correspondent goes on. "One was light and graceful, with black and legs of light blue and yellow. The seat was black with a narrow band of bright green, a broader band of brightest yellow, and an outer rim of intense and vivid blue. Mr. Fry called this 'a conversational chair.' The walls of the Post-Impressionist home will not be as the walls of the ordinary home. I saw an example in which the walls were covered with a wonderful landscape in aesthetic tones, pale purple skies, shining moon, and blue mountains. There was a screen adorned with four circus figures. The features were awry, the necks bulging, the waists abnormally elongated and the legs abnormally short. 'But how much wit is in these figures!' exclaimed Mr. Fry. But the Post-Impressionists are not going to stop at the creation of furniture, of chintz, cushions and lampshades. They have attacked the subject of a woman's dress, of which I saw a sample. It was of softest gossamer silk, the upper part a mass of large foliage, the lower part showing a pastoral scene; maidens dancing under the moon, while a philosopher and a pedant stand by. It was radiantly colored and would look beautiful on the right kind of woman! One is glad to be assured that there is possibility of Post-Impressionist dresses becoming the rage. The present fashions have been alarming enough. What they would become in the hands of Mr. Fry and his followers is too awful to conjecture.

PROBLEMS OF THE FAIR SEX SOLVED BY CYNTHIA GREY

[Correspondents are requested to make their inquiries as brief as possible, and to write on one side of the paper only. It is impossible to give replies within a stated time, as all letters have to be answered in turn. No letters can be answered privately.]

He's 32 and Very Bald.

Dear Miss Grey: I would you kindly publish a good recipe for mustard pickles? 2. Do you know of any way I could keep the ivory on the piano keys from coming off? 3. Can you tell me of any cure for rheumatism? 4. Will you kindly publish a reliable recipe for coffee cake? 5. A gentleman friend of mine has been calling for five or six years on myself and another young lady, a close friend of mine. He is 32 and very bald for his age. Neither of us like him now, but he persists in calling on us both. Two or three years ago we often used to quarrel as to which of us would go with him on certain occasions. We have now come to the stage where we want to get rid of him. He was very nice at first, but we are tired of him now. Could you tell us of some way to drop him without hurting his feelings, as he is very sensitive and at the same time very persistent? 6. What do you think of my writing for an old maid of 23?

OLD MAID JO. A.—1. Such a recipe appears today in an adjoining column. 2. If any reader knows who he please share the information? 3. Relief may be obtained by hot fomentations and bathing with arnica. Wear old shoes with a soft pad on the inside. 4. It is of sulphur ointment is applied during the early stages it is efficacious for checking their growth. 5. Bake in an oblong tin in one layer. Ice with white icing. 6. What a good laugh I had over you and your bald-headed bachelor, Jo. Perhaps if you got father and mother to sit in the room when he called his ardor might cool off a bit. They could talk of the high cost of living, and how much money it took to support a house, and to buy clothes for a woman nowadays. He would probably take alarm at this and bother you no more. You could try it anyway, and if in the midst of the conversation you yawned frequently and finally went off to bed, he would surely take the hint that you didn't want him. A gentleman or third treatment like this would certainly convince him, I think.

Myrtle's Message. Dear Miss Grey: Will you kindly give me a recipe for canning corn so that the cans don't have to be boiled in a boiler? 2. Are Norfolk suits going to be worn much this year? 3. What is a nice way for a girl of 17 to wear her hair? 4. How long should her dresses be worn?

Hoping to see this in print soon. A.—1. Here it is: Select young tender ears of corn, cut kernels from the cob with sharp knife, pressing the cob well to secure all the milk. Place in a porcelain kettle, with a cupful or two of hot water. Boil gently 15 minutes, then seal hot into airtight sealers. 2. They will have a certain amount of popularity, but are not as new as the Russian blouse effects. 3. Study the hair styles, which you see on others, and then adopt a method which appears becoming. 4. Almost long enough to reach her boot-tops.

The Happy Family
AS TOLD BY AUNT GERTIE.

Chapter I.

This is the story of the happy, happy family. There were just three of them—daddy and mother and the wee adopted son.

You see, the old folks never had any children. It was lonely in their queer shells down on the ground under the big burdock leaves.

They often spoke of the happiness they might have had if there had only been a little snail.

So one day, sure enough, a little forlorn baby snail made his appearance, right near their grown-up shells under the very same burdock leaves.

Immediately they decided to adopt this lonely little child as their own. He was glad. They were glad, and even the burdock leaves seemed glad of the new arrangement.

And that is how it happened there was a happy family of three on the day our story opens.

Now, the three snails lived in a regular grove of the burdock leaves right near an old mansion.

Snails were no longer cooked and eaten there, though. For you see, the fashion had gone out of date. And, besides, the owners of the house had died.

Instead of being glad they could not be cooked and eaten, the happy snail family seemed quite sorry. They considered it an honor, in fact, to have their lives in that useful way. Therefore they often talked of the old custom and wondered who had lived in the mansion in years gone by.

One day as they were thinking and talking about the yesterdays of the world the little snail came out of his shell and climbed to the very tip-top of the burdock leaf which sheltered him by day.

"Oh, you foolish child," cried the daddy snail. "You will fall and kill yourself."

"Not so," said the kind mother snail. "He is growing up, daddy. And he is strong and clever. You must remember that he is nearly old enough to marry."

With that startling announcement still in their ears, the two old snails turned and looked at each other long and silently.

Why they had never thought of that matter before.

Indeed, who was there for the little snail to wed?

A noted English doctor, Dr. C. T. Ewart, of London, England, claims that women love to dress in pretty clothes because they are a trifle inane, a harmless type, according to his diagnosis, but insane, nevertheless. Treatment for the nerves, and a complete change and rest he recommends for those afflicted with a craze for clothes. And now how about the men, who work out fetching color schemes between ties and socks, and who have rainbow collections of both in their top drawers?

The Poets' Corner

THE WAVES OF BREFFNY.
The grand road from the mountain goes shining to the sea,
And there is traffic on it and many a horse and cart.
But the little roads of Cloonagh are dearer far to me,
And the little roads of Cloonagh go rambling through my heart.

A great storm from the ocean goes shouting over the hill,
And there is glory in it, and terror in the wind,
But the haunted air of twilight is very strange and still,
And the little winds of twilight are dearer to my mind.

The great waves of the Atlantic sweep storming on their way,
Shining green and silver with the hidden herding shoal;
But the little waves of Breffny have drenched my heart in spray,
And the little waves of Breffny go stumbling through my soul.

Hints That Help

A little grated cocoanut added to the cream of tomato soup is a conceit liked by many, especially if the soup is seasoned with a bit of curry.

A simple way of repairing a rent in an umbrella is to use a piece of ordinary adhesive plaster. If the plaster is not black, it may be easily colored.

After shampooing blonde hair, hair

The Plaid-Trimmed School Frock

Plaid trimming either in silk or in wool is about the most stylish touch that a mother can give her little girl's school or dress frock just now, so the wide Oriental sash, on this plum-colored serge is ultra-stylish for little misses. To add to the effectiveness of the button trimming, the collar and cuffs of a bit of machine embroidered linen, with a plaid bow at the throat.

Tea-Table Talk

"Elspeth Wilson" writes:

With what rapidity we accustom ourselves to any change which makes for comfort or convenience, soon viewing any such innovation as merely a matter-of-course.

Truly a vast forward movement has been made in the matter of transportation, a long since our grandfathers'—

—yes, and many of our fathers'—time. Had many of our necessities of today been proposed then, they would have considered them an hallucination of an imaginative mind, or a fairy tale.

Today we cross the ocean or great lakes aboard floating palaces surrounded by every modern convenience; or board a railway carriage equipped with wonderful means of comfort to alleviate the tedium of travel; and yet we grumble that such and such is not just to our liking. Did we but stop to consider the inconceivable convenience of a sailing vessel, and weeks, or even months, spent therein, in our forefathers' days; the springless exort, the only means of transportation to the interior upon landing, the belongings, many scores of miles through forest with—

—I venture to say—a little complaint as we with the advantages of modern modes of transit. If we considered this, we surely would feel shame.

However, steam appliances have long since ceased to be looked upon with wonder, while we no longer gaze open-mouthed at the automobile chugging noisily past. Unless, indeed, to a place of safety, we scarcely note their passing.

Today the airman with his weird craft and birdlike movements holds the eye of the world while we talk confidently of the coming time when this, too, will have become an everyday matter, as have other inventions once considered improbable.

Yet is there not a danger of such things being overdone? Is the speed craze not growing upon us, so that we as a people are becoming insatiable in this respect? Faster trains, faster boats, faster and yet faster motor cars, is the popular cry. "No time," is our slogan. No time to enjoy even the luxuries about us as we flit from place to place in a vain mad race with time. But although up-to-date, and in very many respects ahead of our forefathers, are we so much the better people than they? Let us stop and consider.

PORTLAND A FRANCHISE

Owner McCreadie's Action in Transferring Hynes and the Other Player From His Northwestern League Club Cause of Other P. C. Clubs' Effort To Take Franchise.

[BY JINX.] The Portland franchise in the Pacific Coast League is about to be transferred to some other city as a result of Owner McCreadie's recent action of transferring a couple of Portland Northwestern League players to the Coast League team in order to prevent them being drafted. Among these players was Matt Hynes, the ex-London Canadian League pitcher. McCreadie, who is a Congressman, owns both the Pacific Coast League team in Portland, and thus he was able to work the transfer. A couple of the Coast League clubs had cast long eyes on Hynes, and another Portland Northwestern League player, and they would have been drafted but for McCreadie's action. The result is that the other Coast League clubs are now fighting to have the Portland franchise transferred to another city.

Baseball Magnates
Gather at Cincinnati
To Start Drafting

Important Meeting Opened Today and More Drafts Have Been Entered Than In Any Year Since National Agreement Went Into Effect.

[Canadian Press.] Cincinnati, Sept. 15.—Major and minor league magnates and others interested in the drafting of players by major league clubs from minor leagues, were present when the national baseball commission began its annual meeting here today. The members of the commission are: August Herrmann, chairman, President Thomas L. Luch, of the National League, and President B. B. Johnson, of the American League. When the members of the commission went into session, more drafts had been entered than in any year since the national agreement went into effect.

LONG-DISTANCE SWIMMING
IS BECOMING ALL THE RAGE

Samuel Richards and Rose Pitonof, of Boston, Perform Sensationally in Swim from Battery to Sandy Hook.

[Canadian Press.] New York, Sept. 15.—Samuel Richards, of Boston, who recently swam the 24 miles from Charlestown Bridge to the Boston Light and back in 12 hours and 3 minutes, yesterday accomplished the unprecedented feat of making the swim from the Battery to Sandy Hook in one tide. Then, going this performance a little better, he touched the points of the Hook and swam back a mile before giving up. His time was 4 hours and 12 minutes, bettering by 5 hours and 26 minutes the record made by Alfred Brown on his recent swim to the Hook, the first time that this stretch of water had been covered by a swimmer. Brown took two tides to make his swim. Richards covered about 25 miles in all in his swim.

THE RIVAL SHORTSTOPS: JACK BARRY, AT BAT, AND ART FLETCHER.

Again Jack Barry and Arthur Fletcher will hook up in a world's series. They met in 1911, and in the "language" of the game, Barry "smared it all over" his rival. Barry, supposedly a weak hitter, gave "Home Run" Baker a chase for honors, his average for the series being .368. Four of his seven hits were doubles. He outfielded Fletcher not only on paper, but on the field.

In the 1911 series Fletcher's batting average was .130. He made three hits in 23 turns at bat and accepted 27 chances out of 33.

In the series with Boston last year Fletcher, upon whom McGraw spent four years to develop, hit .173, getting five hits in the eight games.

Since the season of 1913 opened Fletcher has outbatted Barry. Just now he is hitting .292, but four points behind Chief Meyers, who leads the Giant hitters. Barry has been traveling his usual clip and is batting about .270.

Giants Outthit and Outfielded the Cubs, But Lost by Score of 7 to 0.

REDS LOST TO PHILLIES

Brooklyn Was Beaten Out in Ninth Inning By Cardinals—Saturday's Results.

Chicago, Sept. 14.—The Giants today had the painful experience of deluging the Cubs with 14 bingles, without making a run. They made more hits than the Cubs and fielded without an error, but nevertheless the Cubs shut them out, 7 to 0, and presenting the contrast of extracting 7 runs from 11 hits to 14 hits and no runs for the Giants. There were 11 Giants left on bases and only 2 Cubs. This in itself tells a tale. The Giants could not deal out an error either. Score: N. Y. A. B. R. H. O. A. E. PHILLIES BEAT REDS.
Cincinnati, Sept. 14.—In a nip-and-tuck contest at Redland Field this afternoon the Quakers opened their series with the locals by copping out a victory by 7 to 6. In the Phillies' ninth, Seaton's hit, a sacrifice and Becker's duke single pushed over what proved to be the winning run. Seaton held the Redslanders powerless in their last try. Score: R. H. E. CARDINALS WON IN NINTH.
St. Louis, Sept. 14.—St. Louis and Brooklyn engaged in a game of pin-pointing this afternoon, which was labelled baseball, and in which each side's chief seemed to be to make more errors than the other and to commit those errors at the most costly period of the game. St. Louis won by the score of 7 to 6, but Yingling, the third pitcher who took part in the game for Brooklyn, carried off the laurels for errors. Score: R. H. E. The Cobourg Side of It

Sporting Editor London Advertiser, London, Ont.

Dear Sir:—My attention has just been called to two letters from Mr. Anderson, of Bowmanville, copied in one of your recent editions. In regard to the final of the Lakeshore Baseball League. On behalf of the Cobourg baseball club, I am very sorry to notice the fact that Mr. Anderson has been so small as to only give one side of the story, and thereby endeavor to show up the Canadian League. In order that the readers might not be entirely misled, we would just mention that there is positively no credit due Bowmanville for the winning of either game mentioned, owing to their having played six outside men, whose names and location are as follows: Hickley, Toronto; Chandler, Toronto; Ryan, Toronto; McGrath, Toronto; McTigue, Galt; Craven, Galt; and three of Bowmanville, and we understand only one of these was properly home-brewed. Still further, we would just mention that it is hardly to be wondered that Bowmanville were successful in carrying off the trophy, when you consider that Mr. Anderson, who was supposed to be a fair-minded man, had charge of the umpiring staff, and in consequence used Bowmanville men wherever they would be allowed, and in this connection we doubt if you will find any one team who will speak at all favorably of the work of his Bowmanville umpires.

You may exercise your own discretion in regard to publishing these few lines. Yours truly, The Cobourg Baseball Club, E. C. Hilliard, secretary-treasurer, Cobourg, Sept. 8.

ECHOES FROM THE "Y"

Basketball is the only topic talked of at the "Y" these days, and the players are looking forward to a good season.

The City Basketball League will be a big success this year if the number of teams putting in applications is any criterion; no less than eight teams wish to enter.

It is likely that a cup will be given for competition again this year by a local jewelry store.

The Alpha Club, of the First Methodist Church, will enter a team, and with Burridge, McKay, McGeech and Hunter should prove a strong combination.

The Tigers, last year's runners-up, will be back in the game again this season with a stronger team than before. Wells, Thomas, Eastwood and Crosby, of last year's team, and Wilson, a new man from Buffalo, should just about turn the trick.

George Bartlett has gathered together a good team for the Bankers that should give a good account of themselves.

The Meds have not been saying much, but it is said that they will be "there" again this year, although a number of last season's team will not be available.

A number of city league players held a workout on the Y floor Saturday afternoon, and showed a lot of "pep."

The Y Juniors expect to make a good showing in the O. B. A. this year. Four of last year's players being eligible to play junior again.

With the coming of cold weather, the "Y" members will look forward to the opening of classes on the floor again.

SHAG IS NOW WORKING FOR FOOTBALL HONORS

Ottawa Baseball Manager Has Commenced Coaching McGill Rugby Club for Coming Season.

[Canadian Press.]

Montreal, Sept. 15.—With a real fall snap to the air, the rugby teams of McGill and T. M. A. A. commenced practice in earnest today. Coach Frank Shaughnessy, of McGill, has arrived to take up his work this afternoon. George Laing, who was elected captain at the meeting last fall, is already in town, and President Jimmy Lee, last season's captain, will come in the end of the week.

Among the players already here are Primes, Kennedy, Dwyer, Montgomery, Wicket, Williamson, Edley, Timmins, Waterus, Bignal, Kinding, Fisher, Lemay, Lavery, Masson, Wilkes, Jackson and Demuth. Others will come in during the week and will attend the workouts on Friday and Saturday.

"Bud" Hamilton, the coach of the M. A. A. team, had his men out for a practice today. Among the men from last year's team who got into uniform were Sweeney, Corrigan, Hamilton, Forbes, Roberts, Bailey, George, Savage, Barwick, Blakler and Hartner.

FRANK B. HOUGH DEAD; A NOTED SPORT WRITER

Was Sporting Editor of Philadelphia Inquirer and Once Part Owner of the Athletics.

[Canadian Press.]

Philadelphia, Sept. 15.—Frank L. Hough, sporting editor of the Philadelphia Inquirer, died at his home here today after a long illness. He was 55 years old. Hough as a sporting writer was known from coast to coast. At various times he had a financial interest in both boxing and baseball. When the American League expanded to the east in 1901, Mr. Hough was instrumental in placing it on a firm foundation in this city, and had much to do with bringing players from the National League over to the rival organization. He held an interest in the Philadelphia Athletics until last fall, when he sold his stock to Connie Mack.

NOTHING DOING.

Two young women went to the theatre. They could not get seats together, but were told at the box office that each could have an end seat, in the adjoining rows, and most likely somebody who came alone and had a small next to one of them would oblige exchange seats. Near the close of the first act one of the young women timidly whispered to a heavy, middle-aged man at her side, who had been sitting stiffly and looking straight ahead:

"Are you alone, sir?"

The man buried one side of his face in his program and breathed:

"Sh! Wife!"

WHIZZ! THERE HE GOES! ZIZZ! SPEEDY ROBINSON, RECORD-BREAKER

Here is the newest jack-rabbit of the cinder path, A. S. Robinson, of Mercesburg Academy, who is expected to shatter Dan Kelly's mark of 9 2-5 seconds for the 100 yards. Robinson has equalled Kelly's mark and has broken the long-standing 220-in 20 4-5 seconds.

Robinson stands 5 feet 10 inches and weighs 140 pounds. He has the bulging chest that denotes great lung capacity, and a pair of sturdy legs. Last year he ran on the Mercesburg relay team with Ted Meredith.

Coch Curran, who developed both boys, predicts Robinson will smash records before the end of the year. He is about the only youngster in sight who promises to bring the century mark nearer nine seconds.

WOLGAST HAS NOT RETIRED FROM RING

Will Go Into Training Again, and Try and Recover Championship From Willie Ritchie.

Cadillac, Mich., Sept. 14.—Former Lightweight Champion Ad. Wolgast arrived in his home city today, accompanied by Mrs. Wolgast. The couple immediately climbed into Ad's big six-cylinder car and liked for the ex-champion's farm, several miles from this city.

The local boy looks to be in perfect health and wears no scars as the result of his recent battle on the coast. Instead of being ready to retire, Wolgast intends to go into the ring soon, to train faithfully and to fight his way back to the championship.

He admits that he has gone into the ring in poor shape to fight his late battles and that he got only what he deserved. He is anxious to again get into the ring with Ritchie and believes he can give him a sound whipping.

Vardon and Ray played beautiful golf at the Baltus Golf Club links in New York Saturday, and defeated Smith and Low in a professional match for 38 holes. The gallery was the largest in the history of the club.

Brampton won the senior O. A. L. A. championship by beating Almonte on Saturday.

Mr. Harry Bickle, of Toronto, was defeated by Miss Edith Rutch, of Boston, Saturday for the women's golf championship of Ohio. Miss Bickle was twice holder of this title.

Nick Nickles, a California auto driver, was probably fatally injured on Saturday at Latonia when his Fiat car ran through a fence in the 100-mile race.

The ten-round boxing bout between Eddie McGoorty and Frank Klaus that was to have taken place on Sept. 22 has been postponed owing to a slight injury to McGoorty.

The Hamilton Alerts are confident of getting into the O. R. F. U. and are practicing hard. The Hamilton Rowing Club has shown no inclination as yet to turn out a team.

Craig and Bleakley, the two Alert stars who were supposed to have jumped to the Tigers, failed to turn out to practice on Saturday with the yellow and black, and it is thought they will stick with the Alerts.

The Senior O. R. F. U. will open on Oct. 11.

Charley Van Loan, the writer of baseball stories, knows a frugal German who runs a delicatessen store in the Flatbush district of Brooklyn, where Van Loan lives. One evening Van Loan dropped in to buy a Camembert cheese and found the proprietor absorbed in a deep study.

"What's ailing you?" inquired Van Loan.

"Well," said the German. "I got a friend named Velx vor has sent me an invitation to his golden wedding, and now I half got to send him a present. Und—I hate it—gold is so expensive!"

"Must it be something in gold?" asked Charley Van Loan.

"Sure!" said the German. "Ain't it a golden wedding?"

Van Loan went away, leaving the German still thinking hard. The next night, when he passed the store again, the delicatessen man was smiling broadly.

"I fixed it," he said, "and it didn't cost so much neither."

"Did you send him something that was gold?" asked Van Loan.

"Sure—for forty cents!"

"What could you get that was gold for forty cents?" inquired Van Loan.

"A glass globe, mit zwel goldfish in it!"

BISHOP TELLS OF
RECENT VISIT TO
HEAD OF CHURCH

Delivers Special Blessing to the Catholics of London From the Holy Pontiff.

CALLS PIUS A PRISONER

Commenting on Church Unity
Movement Says Pope Alone
Is Centre

"For the first time since I was made Bishop I was received in private audience with Pope Pius X, on the morning of the 30th of July, 1913. No words of mine can describe the cordiality with which I was received by the holy father. With the memory of the past strong upon me, and with the consciousness of my own unworthiness, I found myself kneeling. He came over to me, and with all the quiet love of a brother, said: 'Sit down; I am your brother'."

Thus, did His Lordship Bishop Fallon, in St. Peter's Cathedral Sunday morning, describe to a congregation that filled that large edifice to the doors, his recent audience with the Pope of Rome. His address, revealing as it did much of the character of the aged Pontiff, created a profound impression. He chose as his theme the words of Christ: "Thou art Peter; and upon this rock I will build my church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it. Feed my lambs, feed my sheep."

Love of the See. His account of his audience with the Pope was prefaced by a statement as to why Rome is dear to the Catholic heart. "The intense attachment, my dear brothers," he said, "that binds all our hearts to the See of Rome, is not a sentiment based upon any human affection; it is not a passing, it is not an idle fancy, but a profound intellectual conviction, based on a deep supernatural faith, that binds us in closest union and in loving attachment to the Vicar of Jesus Christ, the successor of the Fisherman, the head of the Holy Catholic Church. Therefore it is not strange that the Catholic heart clings to Peter and his successors—it is not strange that the Catholic eye looks longingly to Rome and its supreme inhabitant. It is not strange that Catholic feet set out willingly along the path that leads to Rome."

Bishop Fallon then related some of his own previous experiences in the Eternal City. It was there he lived as a student, and there he was raised to the priesthood. There it was that he first saw the late Pontiff, Leo XIII.

Launching into the subject of the audience itself, he described all that transpired. On coming into his presence, Bishop Fallon said: "Holy father, just before leaving the city of London, I was presented by the people of the diocese with an address conveying their love and loyalty to the holy father, and asking me to present it to you with the request that you bless them."

"He stopped me there," continued the speaker, and said, "I bless all the Diocese of London."

"He knew very much concerning the work of the Diocese of London," said the speaker. "I asked him to bless the priests and the parishes, and he gave me the right for each one of the priests to grant once the plenary indulgence. I asked him to bless the religious communities, and he did so willingly. I asked above all that he bless education, Catholic education. I asked that he bless the schools and the children, and I could see then, as I did eight years ago, the light of the love of Jesus Christ for the little ones illuminate his countenance. I asked him to bless the higher institutions of learning, and particularly the diocesan seminary."

Heard of Seminary. "Already they had heard much in Rome of the diocesan seminary," declared the bishop. "They knew of it before, but they knew it better now. It is a unique institution, for none can lay claim to have so aroused the interest of the people to have gained such sympathy, to have so profited from the generosity of the people, as St. Peter's Seminary, in its first year."

His lordship then dwelt upon the grave responsibilities devolving upon him in connection with the seminary. The Pontiff had blessed the seminary and its career, he said. The audience was then ended, after a few personal words of affection, which I dare not repeat lest I trespass on the sacred ground of brotherly love. "The audience was ended when I ended it," said Bishop Fallon.

His departure from the Vatican he described as "like going from the sunshine into the shadow, and from warmth into the chill, from the almost presence of God into the ways and homes of men." He said that made that poor, weak, old man in his 75th year the centre of unity of the Catholic Church throughout the world, and the most illustrious person in the universe, was that the unseen figure of Christ stood beside him, saying, "Thou art Peter, and upon this rock I build my church."

Comments on Church Union. The bishop made a significant statement in regard to church union and the attitude of the Catholic Church towards it. He said in part:

"The Pontiff was moved by the condition of modern society. We sometimes feel here among ourselves that there is a movement in the hearts of the people outside the Catholic Church. They scarcely know what they lack, but there is an emptiness that they hope to fill by what they call church unity. There is only one centre of church unity, and that is Peter. All we who wander outside the fold of the Catholic Church, unconsciously and painfully, yet without guilt, there is only one centre of church unity, and that is the See of Peter."

"Your duty and mine," he told his congregation, "is to work and pray, without contention, without controversy, that there shall be one fold and one Shepherd, and that they shall look to the Supreme Pastor of all."

His lordship also warmly defended the Catholic position in the attacks which have been made upon it.

"How different, brethren, is the real Rome from the picture of it manufactured by its enemies," he said. "So frequently Rome is represented as the home of craft and intrigue, as the residence of some dangerous potentate, with his hand out to grasp all power, civil, social, political, as well as religious. According to the traducers of Rome, the occupants of the Vatican spend watchful days and sleepless nights scheming against the liberty of the world. The only thing that can save the perpetrators of this infamy is that they know not whereof they speak. The real Rome is the home of justice, truth and charity."

The independence of the papacy was another theme dealt with by the bishop, and his recent visit to Rome had, he said, moved him to seek the cooperation of his people in helping to maintain it.

"There is no doubt," he stated, "that the holy father is practically a prisoner in his own house. There is no doubt that he is not free in his relations with his children throughout the world. There is no doubt that he is surrounded by the emissaries of a Government that loses no opportunity of harassing and embarrassing him."

"We have no fleet, and no army, but we have the power of prayer. The Popes of Rome have been in a worse condition temporally than the present holy father, but the swing of the pendulum of time and the development of history has brought him back to his proper place. Let us pray for the independence of the papacy."

With regard to the Pontiff's health, the bishop stated that if he were any judge of the fire in his eye and his erect and stately bearing, he had yet another ten years to administer the affairs of the church. "I said to him," remarked his lordship, "We were all thankful that God brought you through your illness. All my people prayed for you." The aged head of the church replied, "My poor health is worth nothing if I cannot continue in the service of Jesus Christ."

During mass the apostolic benediction, which the Pope directed to be pronounced in his name to the people of the Diocese of London, was given to the congregation by Bishop Fallon.

GOD EXPECTS ALL
TO BE MISSIONARIES

Father McKeon Urges Christians
To Bring Back the Erring Ones.

Pastor of St. Mary's Church Points Out the Importance of Prayer.

"God expects each and every one of us to become a missionary and try to bring back to him people who by degrees have fallen away from the church, and who will not come back unless they are urged and encouraged to do so," said Rev. Father McKeon, of St. Mary's Church, on Sunday morning. The speaker took his text from the gospel of the eighteenth Sunday after Pentecost: "And seeing them he said to a man sick with the palsy, etc."

"We will notice, brethren, that in today's gospel no mention is made of the faith of the man who was afflicted with the palsy. It says that our Lord, seeing the faith of the four men who carried the sick man to him, and laid him at his feet, said, 'Be of good faith and good heart; your sins are forgiven you.' It is doubtful if the sick man ever saw God before or had even heard of him; it was the faith of the four men that carried the sick man to him that was the former's salvation."

Benefit of Prayer. "There are a great many people right in this congregation who could be benefited by the prayers of the faithful members. If we have faith in our Lord and Master, and if we pray for our less fortunate brothers, who are sick or negligent, Almighty God will hear our prayers and help us to do much for others. There are many in this parish who will not come to church unless someone puts themselves out to meet them and to urge upon them the all-importance of attending church and receiving the sacraments. They are spiritual paralytics, and like the man who was taken to the feet of our Lord, they need our faith and assistance. There are many people whom the priests cannot reach because we do not know of them. If you know of any such person it is your duty to go to him and ask him to go to church."

A Striking Story. The speaker then related a story he had read in the annals of a missionary of a woman who had not attended church or received the sacraments for 40 years. A neighbor knew of this fact and finally, through urging, the woman promised the neighbor to go. She did so, and the very next night after receiving the sacraments the woman was found murdered in a lane near her home.

"What a consolation it must have been to that neighbor," continued the speaker, "to know that she was in heaven, in leading the woman back to God before her death. A great many people are so sensitive to a possible rebuke that they will not endeavor to lead one of those sinners back to God. They say to themselves, 'I am not my brother's keeper.' But that is not right. It is their business and there is not a good-living Catholic who would say that it was not their business. You are your brother's keeper, to that extent, and you are committing a sin when you know a person is not doing right, if you refuse to give them good counsel."

The speaker then urged upon his congregation the advisability of attending a mission which is to be held in the church during the early part of October, and said that God expects each and every man to become a missionary and to bring back to him that neighbor that has fallen away from the church.

"One day the charitable man who sees such things for his neighbor, and interests himself in the welfare of others, will have the pleasure of seeing Almighty God in all his glory," he concluded.

Judgment Day.

Rev. Wm. Spurgeon, D. D., of London, England, preached twice on Sunday in Tabbot Street Baptist Church, his sermon each time being eloquent and convincing. In the morning he preached on the subject, "Is the Bible the Word of God?" In the evening, from the well-known text: "What man of you, having an hundred sheep, if he lose one of them, doth not leave the ninety-and-nine and go out after the one?" he made a strong and earnest plea for altruistic interests and endeavors on the part of Christian people.

Christian Missions. "Christ's mission," he said, "was especially a mission to the lost, to the derelict, to the harlot, and the man who is down in the gutter, and smitten with sin. Some of Jesus' best sermons were preached to grumblers and fault-finders, who stood in the path of his ministry. The objections raised by these grumblers called for some of the most beautiful things that he ever said."

Jesus told the outcasts to come home. That is why he gathered the multitude about him. Christ never preached over the heads of men. The common people listened to him gladly because of the homely pictures and parables in which he spoke to them, and which they readily understood. "Many people pity those who are unfortunate, but that alone will not do," said Dr. Spurgeon. "From his throne of glory Jesus might have gone on pitying, until now, and heaven would have been empty and hell would have been full. Practical Christianity is needed; practical help for others and self-sacrifices from themselves are required from Christians. Christ counted the cost before he came down to earth."

Practical Work Needed. "You ask, must you go and help people you do not know, may never know? Christ may not have known the men and women for whom he died. It was enough for him to know that they were God's children. Whether we know people or not we can be sure of this, that they are God's children. Jesus never gives up seeking after the lost. His love never tires."

"Don't be too hard on the poor fellow who is struggling to keep up. Be broader. You people who perhaps don't know the flavor of one drink from another, don't be hard on the poor fellow who is a slave to drink and cannot pass a barroom in safety."

"When the great book is opened before God's judgment throne, you will not be asked where you went on Sunday, or what you believed, or whether you were a respectable Presbyterian, a straight-laced Baptist, a Congregationalist or a Roman Catholic. But did you feed one who was hungry, did you give a cup of cold water to someone who thirsted, did you help lame dogs over stiles, did you bring sympathy to poor, broken hearts? A Plymouth Brother the other day said to me that this was 'dear old Dr. Well, it is Christ's doing, and I told the Plymouth Brother that if that was the way he felt about it he needed to be baptized over again. Oh, the lazy people in the Church of God! Merely coming to church yourself is not enough. We must reach out after others, the lost and unsaved."

Dr. Spurgeon graphically and touchingly told the story of a shoemaker who told the story of a shoeing colic that lost her life in bringing two lost sheep home to the fold. From this he impressed upon his audience the great sacrifice of Christ, who died to save God's lost, wandering sheep, "the saving man," said Dr. Spurgeon, "it cost him his life."

CHRISTIANS CLEANED UP
DARKEST KALAMAZOO

Evangelist Colegrove Tells of Fighting Evil Through City
Mission Work.

Mr. W. S. Colegrove, evangelist, of Kalamazoo, gave an interesting and forceful talk of the city mission work in that city, in Askin Street Methodist Church Sunday morning. Mr. Colegrove is a powerful and appealing speaker. He described graphically the condition of the slum districts of Kalamazoo, particularly that in which the city mission was given its first impetus. There were saloons on every corner and numerous other drinking and gambling dens, interspersed with other questionable resorts, but undaunted by the conditions, the members of the struggling mission fought bravely on. Gradually their strenuous efforts were rewarded by the closing of a few of the worst saloons. Encouraged, they increased their efforts, until on the 8th of September, eight years ago, a "booze dumping day" was held, on which many kegs of liquor were dumped into the gutters, and the district cleared of its curse.

"The liquor will always get to the gutter sooner or later," said Mr. Colegrove, but unfortunately it drags men down there with it."

Little by little, the work of the society was extended until the entire city of Kalamazoo began to feel the beneficial influence of the movement.

Great Uplifting. The speaker interspersed his remarks with apt comparisons and examples of the work of the organization. He told of men now prominent in religious and moral uplift societies who were once delinquents and drunkards. There had been gamblers, thieves and rogues. Yet today they were elevating others to the position that they had gained through the work of the mission. A noted example is Melvin Trotter, the famous, though eccentric, lecturer and Christian worker. "It was good, old-fashioned, revival style that won these men to Christ," the speaker said. "What we need today is more of that same revival spirit in our churches."

Rescue Work. There are many people who have misguided opinions of rescue mission work, the evangelist declared. They believe that the policy of the mission is to run antagonistic to the church and to denounce the work of that holy institution. Only harmonious co-operation with the church is the intention of the mission, he said. They should and do work hand in hand for the uplift of fellow men.

"I am sometimes asked," he continued, "if all who profess Christianity at our meetings hold true to their vows. I am sad to say that many fall again and again."

Here the speaker smiled. "But what if they do?" he asked. "We simply ask after them again and again until we are compensated by binding them secure to the faith. There is no reason why a man should be cast aside when he slips and falls by the wayside. Rather pick him up again and again, if necessary."

In speaking of the work in the London Mission, Mr. Colegrove informed his congregation that during the first year of the work in this city over 400 people professed their conversion. The next year followed with an equally gratifying number—ample compensation for the labor involved.

A substitute is always inferior to the real thing. This is true of tea as of anything else. Insist on getting "SALADA" and you get the best tea in the world.

THOUSANDS UNDER HIM.

Assistant City Clerk Thomas Sanderson, of Toronto, was amazed the other day when a friend came in and announced, "I've got a position with thousands of men under me."

"I hate to doubt either your mind or your ability," said Sanderson, who is a modest sort of man, "but I think you're perking up somewhat of a liar."

"Not a bit of it," said the other man, "but I've just been appointed caretaker of a cemetery."

BIBLE WITHSTANDS
REPEATED ATTACKS

Skepticism and Criticism Unable To Shake It as Word of God.

Work of Bible Society Subject of Address by the Rev.
W. B. Cooper.

Rev. W. B. Cooper, M. A., who occupied the pulpit of the First Methodist Church on Sunday evening, spoke on the infallibility of the Bible against strong adverse criticism and skepticism, as proven by the way in which the copies of the document annually distributed by the International Bible Society are sought after.

The preacher declared it was unnecessary to defend the Bible. "It is its own defence," he said. "Skepticism and criticism during the past century has sought by every means to prove that the Bible is no more than the product of human hands, purely human, and subject to human imperfections. During the same period the Bible Society has proven the Book to be fully able to stand against all attacks."

Bible in Demand. "The Bible Society has held on its way throughout the past year to the fulfillment of its mission," the speaker continued. "Its appeal has been very successful, and the enormously widened scope is the result. The spreading of education has caused a wonderful demand for things to read, and the demand for any other work cannot compare with that of the Bible."

The four prisoners were Nathan Shapiro, who employed Rubenstein; Charles Dreyfus, who was in the dead man's company on the night he disappeared; Bessie Simms and Lottie

In the Russo-Jap war the Bible Society, according to customs, distributed Bibles to their soldiers, and among the Japs not one was found who could not read the Book in his native tongue.

"In one day in China, 70,000 volumes of the World's Best Work were given out," declared Rev. Mr. Cooper. "The demand for the Scriptures is phenomenal. Copies in the original Greek and Hebrew texts are sought by Chinese theological students."

8,000,000 Volumes Issued.

That the increased facilities in travel have greatly stimulated the demand for the scriptures was shown by Rev. Cooper. Last year 8,000,000 volumes were sent out by the Bible Society, he said. The speaker clearly illustrated how church missions and the work of the Bible Society are closely related. The society sent out by all churches, copies of the Scriptures, which cost 98 cents each to print, but which may be sold for 15 cents or less per copy, according to the poverty of his flock and returns are made to the society. Thus, for every $10 given to the mission, one is indebted to the Bible Society for one dollar.

Rev. Mr. Cooper made an eloquent appeal that all should do their share in performing the great work.

Had Key to Store
Where Body Lay Hid

[Canadian Press.] Ottawa, Sept. 13.—Four of the five prisoners who were arrested in Montreal yesterday on a charge of murder in connection with the mysterious death of Abe Rubenstein, here on August 28, were arraigned in police court this morning and without being asked to plead were remanded until next Saturday.

The four prisoners are Nathan Shapiro, who employed Rubenstein; Charles Dreyfus, who was in the dead man's company on the night he disappeared; Bessie Simms and Lottie Bringman, colored. The fifth prisoner, R. H. Derno, of Toronto, held as a material witness, was arraigned on a nominal charge of vagrancy. He, too, was remanded for a week.

Detectives found a key of the vacant store where Rubenstein body was found, in Derno's possession. He is an employee of a former tenant of the place and claims that when they gave up the store he re-learned the key by mistake.

A. E. Fripp, K.C., M.P., counsel for Shapiro and Dreyfus, asked for bail and was refused.

FIRE AT FOREST

Blaze in Basket Factory Threatened
To Destroy the Plant.

[Special To The Advertiser.]

Forest, Sept. 13.—Fire which broke out in a big pile of sawdust in the basket factory for a time threatened the plant with destruction, as a fierce gale was blowing at the time. Hard work on the part of the employees, followed by the efforts of the local fire brigade, finally stopped the flames. The loss will not be heavy.

CHARLES BISHOP DEAD.

[Canadian Press.] Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 13.—Charles F. Bishop, mayor of Buffalo from 1889 to 1894, died here last night. Mr. Bishop was considered as a candidate for governor by Democratic leaders at the Rochester convention that nominated John A. Dix. He was a close personal friend of the late Grover Cleveland.

WYOMING.

Wyoming, Sept. 13.—Rev. J. W. Pring conducted services in Lucasville Methodist Church on Sunday, and Rev. W. J. Ashton, of Sarnia, filled the Methodist pulpit here in his absence. Miss Priscilla Culbert is reported as holding her own in the typhoid illness from which she is suffering, in Hamilton.

Mr. Alec Tait, second line, is giving Harrah Fertilizer a fair test sowing five tons on 50 acres of fall wheat.

M'NAUGHT SAYS LATEST PLOT IS TO OUST ELLIS

Member of Ontario Hydro Power Commission Sends Letter To Press.

IMPORTANT TO ONTARIO

Believes Success of Provincial Scheme Is Bound Up With That of Toronto.

Toronto, Sept. 15.—The following letter has been issued to the press by W. K. McNaught, M. P., a member of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission:

"In discussing the reappointment of Mr. P. W. Ellis as a member of the hydro-electric commission of the city of Toronto, Controller Church is reported as saying at the board of control meeting on Thursday last: 'If there is not some political or other reason for this appointment, why did Mr. McNaught come down to the city hall and lobby Controller Foster and myself to vote for Mr. Ellis?'

"In reply to Mr. Church's query I may say that I interviewed Controller Foster and myself and urged them to vote for Mr. Ellis' reappointment, not because there was any political reason whatever for so doing, but solely because I considered it in the interest of every citizen of Toronto to have him reappointed to his position as soon as his term of office, which was then nearly up, had expired. My reason for so doing was that I had knowledge of an organized conspiracy to have Mr. Ellis dropped from the city's hydro-electric commission and some one more amenable to influence appointed in his place.

"I believe that the success of the whole hydro-electric policy of the Province of Ontario was largely bound up in the success or failure of the Toronto system, which was, and always must be, the backbone of the Niagara hydro-electric system, and I had therefore made it my business to keep closely in touch with the inside workings of the Toronto Hydro-Electric Commission.

"For this reason, I had personal knowledge of the invaluable services Mr. Ellis had rendered to this city as chairman of its hydro-electric commission, services that have not yet been fully appreciated by our citizens because they have been kept in ignorance of them, and also because Mr. Ellis has been vilified and abused by men who are so lost to every sense of honor and fair play as to condemn him on account of silly gossip circulated, without doubt, by interested parties.

Has Worked Well.

"In my humble opinion, no man in Toronto is more deserving of the gratitude and confidence of its citizens than is Mr. P. W. Ellis. He has devoted his time and his splendid abilities ungrudgingly to the work of the commission, and it is very largely owing to this that the city's hydro-electric system is able to show the wonderful results that it now does.

"Mr. Ellis is a gentleman with a large business of his own which demands his whole time and attention, and it was only after urgent and persistent solicitation that he was induced to accept the position which he has so ably filled for the past two and a half years, and had it not been for his strong sense of public duty he could not have been prevailed upon to undertake this onerous and apparently thankless task.

"In conclusion, I would only add that the aldermen of this city, in my opinion, be acting in the true interest of our citizens by at once reappointing Mr. Ellis to the Toronto Hydro-Electric Commission, and in doing they will not only vindicate the reputation of a public man who has been unfairly treated while conscientiously doing his duty by his fellow-citizens, but bring credit to themselves as trustees of civic honor and fair play."

"That his work has been well, honestly and conscientiously performed is evidenced by the splendid position our city's hydro-electric system occupies today. It is a splendid vindication of the principle of public ownership, because owing to its sound business management it shows a large surplus after making ample allowance for expenses of every kind and description.

"Mr. Church thinks that Mr. Ellis should serve the city without salary. If Mr. Church is in earnest in believing this then he should at once refuse to accept the salary paid to him by the city as controller.

"In conclusion, I would only add that the aldermen of this city, in my opinion, be acting in the true interest of our citizens by at once reappointing Mr. Ellis to the Toronto Hydro-Electric Commission, and in doing they will not only vindicate the reputation of a public man who has been unfairly treated while conscientiously doing his duty by his fellow-citizens, but bring credit to themselves as trustees of civic honor and fair play."

Confessed Murder.
New York, N. Y., Sept. 14.—Hans Schmidt, an assistant priest at St. Joseph's Catholic Church at 415 West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, was arrested early this morning, and confessed that he had murdered and then dismembered the body of a girl, parts of whose body have been found in the North River during the past several days.

The murdered girl, Anna Aumuller, was a servant in the pastoral residence of the Rev. Father Braun, pastor of St. Boniface's Church, Forty-seventh street and Second avenue, where Schmidt was from December, 1910, until May, 1912, a curate.

Schmidt's only explanation of the cause of the murder today was that "he loved Anna."

Held Conference.

Catholic Church authorities of the

New York diocese, headed by Monsignors Money and Lavelle, who are vicar-generals of the diocese, held a conference after receiving reports of an interview with Schmidt in the Tombs by the Rev. Father Evers, to learn whether or not Schmidt really is a priest of the Catholic Church. Schmidt made statements to Father Evers about being "ordained a priest" by St. Elizabeth of Hungary, who told him to kill Anna as a sacrifice of blood, and made many more wild statements that incline to the belief that he is insane. There are reasons to believe, according to the church authorities, that Schmidt is an impostor. For some years, however, he has performed the duties of a curate at two churches in New York, at Trenton and at St. Louis, and according to his own story he was a priest in Germany before coming to America from Bavaria in 1907.

Schmidt, according to Assistant District Attorney Deacon Murphy and Police Inspector Faurot, confessed that he entered a four-room flat on the third floor of the apartment house at 68 Dradhurst avenue, at midnight, on Sept. 2, and cut the girl's throat while she slept.

He tested the blood then, he says. When he was sure the girl was dead, he dragged her body to the bathroom of the apartment and there dismembered it. Then he wrapped the parts of the body up in either five or six packages, he doesn't remember which, and when daylight came he took the packages aboard Fort Lee ferriesboats during several trips and dropped the packages overboard.

A gaily-colored pillow of unusual pattern led to Schmidt's apprehension. This pillow, stained with blood, was wrapped around a portion of the body. When the police traced the pillow to its manufacturer, the manufacturer traced it to the dealer, the dealer traced it to Schmidt. And the police, tracing Schmidt and the girl, found all the pieces of the body before they arrested him.

Says She Was His Wife.
The confession, which the police say Schmidt signed, follows:

"I met Anna Aumuller two years ago, at the parish house of St. Boniface Church. She was employed as a servant there. I became infatuated with her. I loved her.

"I killed her because I loved her so much. She was so beautiful, so good, I could not let her live without me.

"I had made up my mind that she and I could not live together. I was a priest and must remain with my church. I could not let her go away from me. So I opened the door of the flat. I awakened her. I told her I had come to fulfill my threat. Then I killed her.

"I cut the body into six pieces. I made trips to the Fort Lee Ferry, each time with a part of her precious body in a bundle. When the ferry boat reached the middle of the stream I would throw a piece into the water, and when the boat reached the other side of the river, I would return and so back to the flat.

Admits His Guilt.
"I am guilty, that is all I can say. I must pay the penalty. There is nothing else for me to do. But I loved Anna Aumuller.

"She wanted me to marry her, and I procured a marriage license. She trusted me. I am a priest and ordained to perform the marriage ceremony, so when she insisted upon a ceremony I married myself to her. There was no need of any other priest doing it. It was just as absolute as if I had called in another priest with authority to perform a marriage ceremony. She was my wife."

Came From Germany.

The priest, according to his story of his life, was born in Aschaffenburg, Germany, in 1881. He attended the public schools in that city until 12 years old, and then went to Germany, where he was educated at a seminary. He was ordained by Bishop Kesteln, connected with that institution. He was assigned to St. Elizabeth's Church, in Darmstadt, Germany, where he remained for six months, and was next sent to a village church at Bursell, and came to America because of poor health. After remaining in New York city a short time he was assigned to a church at Louisville, Ky. In 1909 he went to Trenton, N. J., and in December, 1910, he became assistant to Father Braun, rector of St. Boniface's Church, where he met the Aumuller girl.

LONDON WOMAN WAS DRUGGED IN TORONTO LODGING HOUSE

Grace Adams Found Wandering About the Streets in Dazed Condition—Nearly Died From Effects of Laudanum Given by an Unknown Man.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Toronto, Sept. 14.—Claiming that a man held her while a woman poured laudanum down her throat, Grace Adams, of London, Ont., was found critically ill on John street, near Queen, shortly after 1 o'clock on Saturday afternoon by P. C. Offer.

The constable had the woman removed in the police ambulance to the General Hospital, where her case was diagnosed as laudanum poisoning. So critical was her condition that it was only after eight hours of hard work that the doctors were able to save her life.

Is 25 Years Old.
The woman, who is 25 years of age, says that she came to the city last Friday, intending to leave for Montreal this week. She had never been in the city before, and, having no friends here, she went to a house and engaged a room for the night. Where this house is about half an hour's ride from the city, she said she had only one room, and that was rented to a man, but that he was away, and she would let her have it for the night.

Maltreated By Man.
Shortly after 6 o'clock on Saturday morning the woman alleges that a man entered the room and maltreated her. She tried to scream, but he gagged her by stuffing a handkerchief in her mouth. After the man had gone she went downstairs, where she was met by a young girl, who asked her to go to a drug store and buy some laudanum. She consented, and left, intending to bring a policeman back with her.

Says She Was Drugged.
She says that she found a drug store and bought the poison without being requested to sign for it. She was unable to find a policeman and so returned to the house to get her baggage. As she entered the house she was again met by the man and the girl for whom she had bought the drug. They invited her to enter a room, and when she refused the man grabbed her and threw her to the floor. The woman cried open her mouth and poured the drug down her throat. Then they both disappeared.

Does Not Remember.
From that time she has but a hazy recollection of her movements, and only remembers being ill and feeling herself staggering. About half an hour after she had been given the poison she met the policeman who sent her to the hospital. The police say that they have no account of the affair other than the sending of the woman to the hospital.

The description of the man as furnished by the woman, is: Tall and dark; quiet, good-looking and clean shaven. He was dressed in a navy blue suit and wore a Panama hat and a green tie.

NEEDLESS WAR-SCARE TALK IS PROVING A BOOMERANG

Conservatives May Lose South Bruce as Result of Foolish Anti-German Speeches—Rogers Machine Gang Alleged Working In Riding.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Waukegan, Sept. 15.—The German peril, as sensationalized from time to time by Conservative leaders, is proving a most uncomfortable boomerang to the party no small anxiety.

The by-election contest is on, and Mr. Truax, the Liberal candidate, is gaining such ground that the Conservative party managers are fearful of the result of "anti-German" outcries.

That the situation is exceedingly uncomfortable for the party is evidenced by the fact that the managers have sent the Conservative members to take refuge in the contest.

See Through the Scheme.
The intention is so apparent that the Germans of South Bruce are laughing at such crude attempts to pacify them. Mr. Geo. A. Clare, M. P. for South Waterloo, is the member who found it convenient to be absent when the Liberal bill vote was called. This does not raise him in the esteem of the Germans at all, and Mr. W. G. Welch, M. P. for North Waterloo, who has not any more influence than his colleague.

Put His Foot In It.
One of the things that cannot be forgotten is Col. the Hon. Sam Hughes' "German menace" speech that he made at the coast. The Germans remember that he boasted that the Germans should be taught a lesson by the political speech which Mr. Welch read in the House. Had Mr. Welch acted in accordance with his words, he would be some influence in this contest. Unfortunately everywhere he goes he finds that the people are well aware that after all the talk he indulged in for the benefit of his constituents he let himself be whipped into line, and voted for the Conservative-Nationalist policy.

Machine at Work.
In addition to the presence of the Waterloo members there are other evidences that the Conservative party is in dire straits in this election. One thing is certain, that what appears to be an installment of the Rogers Manitoba machine is on the ground.

Two mysterious strangers are motoring about, but so far they have had a poor reception. At present their identity has not been disclosed as they take the precaution not to sign their names to a hotel register. Interesting developments are looked for, but the sentiment of the riding would appear to be such that it would be difficult for the Government to buy a much-coveted victory in South Bruce.

TWO CHARGES OF BIGAMY AGAINST DUNWICH FARMER

Got Mad at Magistrate Who on Looking Closely Decided That He Was Man For Whom a Warrant Was Out in Connection With Wife Beating.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Dutton, Sept. 15.—Two charges of alleged bigamy against Geo. Smith, of Dunwich, are to be investigated, and in the meantime Smith is in jail in St. Thomas.

Had he quietly paid over $10 and $25 costs and given a $200 bond to keep the peace, when ordered to do so by County Magistrate Frank Hunt, at the conclusion of the hearing of the case for assaulting his neighbor, Edward Fillmore, in a dispute over a line fence, he would have been a free man.

Paid the Fine.
Smith had paid over the amount of the fine and costs, taking the money from a large roll of bills, but when the magistrate suggested the $200 bond Smith grabbed back his money and said he would show the magistrate where he got off at.

This opened Squire Hunt's eyes just a little wider than usual, and enabled him to recognize in Smith a man against whom a warrant had been out since June last for beating his wife at Corinth, and as the wife at Corinth was not the same one as resided with Smith in Dunwich the magistrate adjourned the case, and ordered an investigation.

Was Identified.
After Smith had been identified by a St. Thomas restaurant keeper as the man who formerly lived here and at Corinth, he was placed under arrest by Constable John Hopkins.

It is said that the woman whom he married in Corinth last winter had learned through a letter that Smith had a wife living in Oxford County, while the daughter of the late Dunwich MacGregor, whom he married in Dunwich three weeks ago, says Smith told her he had never been married before. Smith is a man about 45 years of age.

Scotchman Refused To Settle on Sunday

[Canadian Press.]

New York, Sept. 15.—Because it was the Lord's day, and his mother had taught him never to trade on the Sabbath, Angus K. Scotchman, of Dunfermline, Scotland, declined to pay $235 debt yesterday on a strip of woolen cloth when customs officials, who boarded the steamer on which he was just arriving from Glasgow, asked that he settle.

"My mother taught me never to trade on the Lord's day," said Scotchman, "I cannot do it. I will not pay out money on the Sabbath. I would rather lose the good wool than enter into financial transactions on this blessed day."

"It's only the duty we ask. It's right for you to pay," said the officers.

"No," said Angus. "I'll abide by my mother's teachings. I'll return tomorrow with the silver. There is no luck in Sunday bargains."

Strikers Starving in Dublin Lockout

[Canadian Press.]

New York, Sept. 15.—A London cable says: Hunger has become the ally of organized capital in the fight against the Dublin transport workers. By the end of this week the spectre of starvation will be a grim reality in the foul slums of the city, where life at best is a hand-to-mouth struggle to keep body and soul together.

There is no sign of weakening, however, on the part of James Larkin's devoted followers, despite a steady and ominous growth day by day of the employers' lockout.

Larkin, speaking at a labor meeting in Manchester yesterday, said he believed he had a divine mission to make men and women discontented. Since he went to Ireland in 1907, he had raised the flag of discontent from Belfast to Cork and brought a new hope and a new gospel to the working classes of Ireland.

KING WILL VISIT.
[Canadian Press.]

Paris, Sept. 16.—It is officially announced that King Constantine of Greece will visit Paris incognito on Sept. 20, when he will be received by President Poincaré.

S. F. GLASS NAMED BY CONSERVATIVES OF E. MIDDLESEX

London Alderman Selected as a Standard-Bearer in Federal By-Election.

R. M. PIPER, RUNNER UP

Ten Names Placed in Nomination But All Save Three Are Withdrawn.

Glass 64

Piper 25

Geary 0

After two attempts the Conservatives of East Middlesex have chosen a candidate to contest the federal riding in the by-election necessitated by the death of the late Peter Elson, M. P. Ald. S. F. Glass, of London, was the choice of the convention that Saturday assembled in the Masonic Hall, Queen's avenue.

This time only one ballot was necessary to select a candidate, though the preliminary convention skirmishes seemed to preclude any chance of a decision at the first trial. After the voting had closed, and only the names of Ald. Glass, Ex-Warden Piper and John Geary, of London Township, went to the delegates.

Many Withdrawals.
As one by one the nominees, withdrew their names, it was seen that the fight was going to be between Ald. Glass and ex-Warden R. M. Piper, the two candidates who were tied at the last convention, when the presence of an illegal ballot threw the meeting into confusion and necessitated the convention of Saturday.

The "dark horse" and the compromise candidates that were supposed to show up at the last minute failed to materialize, and only the names of Ald. Glass, Ex-Warden Piper and John Geary, of London Township, went to the delegates.

First Ballot Did It.
The first ballot told the tale—to the surprise of delegates and candidates themselves. In all 99 ballots were polled, and of these 64 were marked for Glass, 35 for Piper, and none for Mr. Geary. There were tie-breakers.

The rejection of Ald. Glass was conceded by the majority of the party leaders before the convention was called to order, but his majority over Piper was something that even the sanguine of the followers hardly expected. The standing that the latter made at the last convention, when he polled 48 legal votes, and one questionable ballot, was believed to be strong enough to give the London alderman an stronger race than the one given him on Saturday. Change in the personnel of the delegates, and the work done by the supporters of the alderman are the causes attributed.

Piper Resists Objection.
When the candidates were called to the platform, Ald. Glass thanked his supporters and made the usual election promises. When ex-Warden Piper was called, however, he refused to accept the nomination, and the fact that Chairman John McFarlane had allowed two Dorchester delegates, who arrived late, to cast their ballots after the others had been all in. Later Mr. Piper moved that the election be postponed.

In the pre-voting speeches by the candidates, Ald. Glass took occasion to refer to some of the personalities that had entered into the fight in the Conservative ranks. Those who found fault with any of his actions or those of his father, to which reference had been made in the riding, were given a special invitation to present their case to him personally.

Borden Satellites Sparked.
After the nomination of the party had been selected, and had made his official bow to the delegates, Hon. A. E. Kemp, of Toronto, and Col. Hugh Clarke, M. P. for North York, felt the convention of the choice of the Borden greatness, and the wonderful works of the party. Reciprocity was touched on—that is sections of it were touched on, but the blue rain and the unimagination features were gracefully ignored.

Organizer Birmingham waved the flag, held it aloft, sang rhapodies to it, and then waved it some more. Then he came the cheers. There were cheers for Glass. There were cheers for Piper. There were cheers for the chairman, for the king, for East Middlesex, for the delegates themselves, and for everything and everyone who cheered. Finally, the subjects to cheer were all accounted for, and the meeting broke up. The adjournment being greeted with more cheers.

The men nominated for candidates, and who withdrew, were: John McFarlane, West Nisour, Dr. Doan, Harrietsville, James Pridells, London Township, Lieut.-Col. R. McEwen, Byron, R. H. Guest, London Township, Capt. T. E. Robson, London, Frank Boyes, reeve of North Dorchester.

Solicitous for Farmers?
Hon. A. E. Kemp, typical of the "big interests" that worked against reciprocity and the consequent larger markets for the Canadian farmers, appeared in a somewhat new role in his speech-making, for he was apparently solicitous for the farmers to receive these larger markets. His naive explanation of the Conservative opposition to reciprocity was the fact that the all-seeing powers in the Conservative ranks were aware that the Democratic party in the United States would triumph within two years and would reduce the tariff, and therefore the Conservatives objected to having their hands tied by any reciprocity pact.

Going even further than this statement, he ventured the prophecy that within two weeks the tariff of the United States would be reduced to an extent planned under reciprocity. As he ventured it he omitted to mention the "treason" it would be for Canadians to use three larger markets, the statement that was so worked to death in the reciprocity campaign.

Some Mathematician!
Mr. Kemp is a mathematician, he is more than that. He is a wizard of finance. Taking the $1,000,000 appropriation of the first House of Commons good roads appropriation and adding it to the $1,500,000 of the one that was introduced after the Senate amendment had been made, he figured out a loss of $2,500,000 to the people of the Dominion. A computation of 175 miles of good roads lost to Ontario alone through the Senate refusing to pass the Borden measure, was among other examples of Mr. Kemp's mathematics. He neglected to explain, however, that the only difference between the Government bill and the Senate bill was the fact that the latter stipulated that the principal payments should be made in the form of bonds rather than the federal one.

The navy question was referred to and characterized as the principal question that would be uppermost in the minds of the people. Sir Wilfrid Laurier was blamed for the "humiliating position" that Canada is now in because the Dominion failed to share in the maintenance of the British navy. The German emergency, however, that has since died out, was gracefully neglected to the background and neither Mr. Kemp nor the other speakers referred to it in any shape whatsoever.

Liberals Always Wrong.
Save when Clark told a few stories?

The audience was undemonstrative. Politics were only touched on in the lightest possible manner. The memories for North Bruce contained themselves with claiming that the Liberal party had always been wrong on the great issues of the country. His reciprocity contribution was a claim that the Conservative assertion was to the effect that both parties in the United States were favorable to a lower tariff. Unlike the "big interests" representative, however, he did not venture the declaration that the Conservatives were possessed of inside information that the Democrats were to be returned in 1912, nor did he make any prophecy as to what would happen during the next fortnight.

Speaking on the naval question, he declared that Canadians objected to being sponges on Great Britain all their lives, for naval protection.

Twenty-Five Killed and 537 Injured

[Canadian Press.]

Toronto, Sept. 13.—A report just issued shows that in the year 1912 there were 25 persons killed and 537 injured in accidents during the last fiscal year on the street cars and radial railways of Ontario. There were four passengers killed and 306 injured. Two employees were killed and 31 injured. Of the travellers on highways 19 were killed and 199 injured.

THICK, GLOSSY HAIR
FREE FROM DANDRUFF

Girls! Try It! Your Hair Gets Soft, Fluffy and Luxuriant at Once.

If you care for heavy hair, that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life, has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous, try Danderine.

Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you cannot have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scourge robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots famish, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised, that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. If eventually—why not now?

Kidney Stones Dissolved

The Sanol Manufacturing Co., Limited, Winnipeg, Man.

Dear Sirs:—I have seen several testimonials in the paper of people who suffered with their kidneys and after cure with SANOL, so I think it is a duty I owe the public to let them know also my experience. I suffered for a long time with stones in the kidneys, and have to say, like everybody else, "tried everything known to the medical profession, but found no relief." I was for two days in bed, suffering untold agonies, and had to get several injections of morphine to relieve the pain, when an old friend of mine, a Mr. McCall, called on me and induced me to try SANOL; the second day I had taken it I had a little relief; the third day I was able to sit up in bed, and when Mr. McCall called me up on the phone the fourth day I was able to go downstairs and talk to him and tell him what a wonderful cure SANOL was. A week from the first day taking it, I was back in my office doing business, but continued taking for three weeks after until I passed the kidney stone, which stone I will always keep to show anyone who is suffering like I was what SANOL has done.

Please use this letter for publication, and send copies to everyone in Canada, as everybody should and must know about a cure which you have; also refer them to me for further information, as I could write all day and then would not have told you all I think about SANOL. I cannot, on paper, wish you the success I wish.

Yours sincerely,
THOS. JOBIN.

Owing to numerous complaints, "The Advertiser" wishes to emphasize the importance of calling The Advertiser office before 8:30 a.m., after 6 p.m., and holidays, according to the following numbers, telling Bell Central that only the number asked for will do:

3670—Business Department.
3671—Editors.
3672—Reporters.
3673—Job Printing Department.

If you do not receive an answer to 3671, 3672 or 3673, call 3670, and you can always get an answer before 9 p.m.

From 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m., any day but holidays, ask for 3670, and The Advertiser Central will give you the department or person wanted.

A Pleasing Solo.—Miss Minetta Bond, of Trinity Church, Galt, sang a most pleasing solo at the offertory in the Church of St. John the Evangelist Sunday evening.

Fire On a Roof.—Fire on a roof of a house at 203 Bathurst street, occupied by a man named Griffith, did damage amounting to about $5 this morning about 10 o'clock. The firemen extinguished it with the aid of a hard chemical.

Dr. Becher a Coroner.—Dr. A. V. Becher was notified on Saturday of his appointment as associate coroner for London and Middlesex, and was sworn in by Crown Attorney McKillop.

There are now three coroners residing in the city, Dr. MacLaren and Dr. Ferguson being appointed some years ago.

Pulled Alarm Box.—Some unknown person pulled the fire alarm box at the corner of Egerton and Campbell streets on Sunday shortly after noon and gave the men from the central hall a two-mile run for nothing. It is thought that some boys of the neighborhood sent in the alarm, and if the identity of the culprit can be learned police court proceedings will likely follow.

"September Morn."—The thermometer took a rapid drop early this morning, and as a result many shrubs and plants bear evidence of Jack Frost's visit to their locality. The leaves on the trees are beginning to show the first characteristic signs of winter. Several trees were noticed this morning on which the foliage was tinted with the colors of autumn. Smoke was to be seen curling from many chimneys, and the air was becoming more bracing.

South Londoner Beaten.—While walking along Wellington street, Saturday night between 8 and 8:30 o'clock, Mr. J. McCall, a resident of the south end of the city, was set upon and beaten into an unconscious condition by three men. He was taken to Victoria Hospital in the police ambulance, and left that place Sunday afternoon, having his wounds dressed.

Second Growth of Berries.—Mid-dlesex is becoming famous as a fruit-growing belt, not only for the large and luscious fruit that is grown within its borders, but for the second crops of fruits, which every year are becoming more numerous. Mr. J. Reid, of 140 Emory street, called at The Advertiser this morning with three large branches of raspberry bushes from his garden. Each branch was heavily laden with luscious red berries that have ripened during the past week. Mr. Reid says the bushes in his yard, which are of the Cuthbert strain, are plentifully laden with the second growth of berries this year.

Revival Meetings Opened.—The City Rescue Mission on Richmond street was crowded Saturday evening on the occasion of the first of a series of revival meetings, which will be continued every evening during the next two weeks. Evangelist W. S. Colegrove, of Kalamazoo, Mich., addressed the meeting on the subject of "Faith," his text being "Have faith in God." A number of clergymen of all denominations who are interested in the work of the mission, were present and occupied seats on the platform. Features of the meeting were two excellent solos by Miss Eason, and a solo by Mrs. (Dr.) Brown. Mr. Herbert E. Wilson, who conducts the mission, presided.

West Is Optimistic.—Mr. Llewellyn Meredith has returned from a month's vacation on the Pacific coast and the Western Provinces. Commenting on the tightness of the money market in Western Canada at the present time, Mr. Meredith states that notwithstanding ing this, the westerners are as optimistic as ever, and point to the fact that values are not going down, but activity is merely suspended for the time being.

It is doubtful if the west ever had a better crop than this year. Mr. Meredith says, and the present scarcity of money out there is regarded as only a temporary condition of affairs.

Rev. Mr. Carew in City.—Rev. C. M. Carew, formerly pastor of Maitland Street Baptist Church, was a visitor in London Sunday. He occupied the pulpit of his old charge in the morning, and in the evening preached to the congregation of Adelaide Street Baptist Church.

Army Officers Confer.—Brigadier Charles Hammetts, of London, England, international financial secretary of the Salvation Army emigration department, was a visitor to London Sunday, in company with Major D. L. Sunday, of Toronto, Saturday evening. Brigadier Hammetts and Major Creighton discussed matters relating to the army's immigration work in this country, with Adjutant Bloss, of the local immigration department. On Sunday morning Brigadier Hammetts conducted services in the Clarence street chapel, and in Victoria Park.

Afternoon addresses were given by both Brigadier Hammetts and Major Creighton, No. 2 Band being in attendance. Brigadier Hammetts also took charge of the evening service, in the Clarence street chapel, and Adjutant Bloss and Major Creighton conducted the evening service in the hall of No. 2 Corps in South London. Brigadier Hammetts returned to Toronto this morning.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

Mrs. Sarah Doyle Dead.
Mrs. Sarah Doyle, wife of Albert Doyle, of 1071 Laura street, died this morning at Victoria Hospital. The funeral will take place from Smith, Son & Clark's undertaking rooms, on Tuesday afternoon at 2:30. Services will be held at 2 o'clock by Rev. Mr. Graham, of the Centennial Methodist Church. Burial will be made at Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

Funeral of J. F. Smith.
The funeral of Mr. J. F. Smith, one of East London's most respected and prominent businessmen, took place this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, from the family residence, 500 Adelaide street, to Woodland Cemetery. Rev. Mr. Kirkendall, of the Seventh Day Adventists, officiated at the services.

Mr. Smith is survived by one daughter, Mrs. John Parkhouse, of Jackson, Mich., and four sons, all at home—Herbert J., Charles J., Gordon H., and Alfred J.; also three brothers, and one sister, of Toronto, and one sister, of Kansas City.

The pall-bearers were: Messrs. Jas. Robinson, T. H. Robinson, E. McKone, Wm. Wassell, Charles Stewart and Alton McConnell.

Mr. Smith was formerly connected with the Smith Furniture Company of East London. He was a man held in highest esteem by all who knew him, and his death comes as a shock to his host of friends and acquaintances. He was in his 62nd year.

Funeral of Mrs. McNeilles.
The funeral of Mrs. Maggie Foster McNeilles was held from her residence, 1013, on 4, Lobo, at 2 p.m. Saturday. The services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Durnford, of Hyde Park, at 1:30. Interment was made at Hyde Park Cemetery. The pall-bearers were: Messrs. John Keayes, George Foster, Fred Foster, J. Weir, Alex. Graham, and John Reap.

Funeral of Catharine Belton.
The funeral of Catharine Amelia Belton, daughter of Levinia and the late Samuel James Belton, and granddaughter of the late John Scatcherd, M. P., was held yesterday from the residence of George S. Belton at Fairbairn, on Webster's cemetery at 2 o'clock. Services were held by Rev. Mr. Mann, of Thorndale. The pall-bearers were: Messrs. J. N. Scatcherd, H. S. Scatcherd, of Buffalo; Seward Carry, of New York; Charles Baldwin, of Toronto; R. C. Scatcherd, of Batavia, and Mr. E. W. Scatcherd, of this city.

INVESTIGATING BLAZEIN CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Owner Believes Blaze Was the Work of an Incendiary Who Forced Entrance.

Detective Down is investigating what is thought to have been an attempt to set fire to the old Christian Church on King street, Saturday afternoon. The building is owned by Mr. John M. Parsons, who thinks that the person who set fire to the place entered through a side window, which was found to have been forced.

When the blaze was discovered it was under the stairway, and had been gnited from pile of old papers, which had been placed under the stairway and then ignited.

SOLDIERS LEARNING TO JUDGE THE DISTANCES

Important Branch of Military Training Being Followed Up at Barracks.

Visual training, a most important factor in the making of a soldier, is being practiced by the men of No. 1 military station at the present. Col. Hill, the officer commanding, is extremely anxious that the men should be proficient in the art of judging distances at a glance while in the field, and some rigorous practices have been held with splendid results. On Monday last a body of men were sent out and were stationed in small parties of two or three at varying distances throughout a wide area of country. The distances were known only to the officers, and another party of men were required to adjust the sights of their rifles and to fire on the others, with blank ammunition, whenever they showed themselves. The sights were then examined to see how accurately each man had judged the distance of the object at which he fired. It proved most interesting practice and some splendid results were obtained.

Route Marches.
The season for route marches is drawing near, and soon the men will be off on long tramps through the country. The object is to increase their endurance on the march.

A squad of recruits numbering about fifteen is hard at work every day putting in their preliminary training. At present physical culture forms the bulk of the work, and the men are having a slice of calisthenics, running, jumping, etc. They are developing fast, and should be far advanced by the end of this week.

A soccer football team has recently been organized, and a match with the crack McClary team will probably be played on the Heights a week from Saturday. The soccer team will be resplendent in natty sweaters with red and white vertical stripes. Kickers will be of blue. The kit has not yet arrived, but is expected in a few days, after which the men will get down to steady practice.

ENCOURAGING WORDS FOR THE GIDEONS OF LONDON

General Secretary Cole Makes Report of Work to the Local Camp.

Camp No. 1, London Gideons, held its monthly meeting in the Y. M. C. A. library Saturday evening. President R. R. Smith occupying the chair. Secretary W. E. Elliott read a letter from General Secretary Cole reporting gratifying work throughout the society, and encouraging the London camp in the good work which it was doing.

An interesting account of the Gideons' convention, held last August in Toronto, was given by Mr. Quigley. Useful hints, obtained at the convention, were enumerated as being suitable for adoption by the London camp. Mention was also made of the solid footing the organization has obtained within the last few months.

Mr. Quigley referred to the splendid work being done by the Ladies' Aid, that has unformed women officials, whose business it is to meet girls and young women who are travelling alone. The speaker then dwelt on the cooperation between the railwaymen, hotelmen and the Gideons. It was this working together, he said, that was instrumental in making the movement a success.

During the course of the meeting a motion was made by Mr. W. Gregory and seconded by Mr. Clark, that a "supply committee" be appointed to make arrangements for meetings in the churches some time after Christmas. Messrs. Elliott, Smith, Quigley and Stevenson were appointed to this committee. It was also suggested to hold "emergency meetings" every second Saturday evening.

President R. R. Smith spoken momentarily on the work of the association, declaring that he felt optimistic as to its future.

The next meeting will be held on Sept. 27.

3-in-One oil for all Talking Machines
Pure, light 3-in-One oil lubricates perfectly the delicate mechanism of phonographs, gramophones and commercial talking machines. It makes the record work easily and noiselessly—gives better, clearer tones and prevents squeaks, squeals and "whir".

Protects and Preserves Records
3-in-One oil is absolutely free of grease and acid. It never collects dirt, gums up or clogs the bearings, as common greasy oils do. Grease and dirt grind into the bearings, wearing them out.

3-in-One also cleans, polishes the tone and horn, keeps the tone and horn parts, absolutely preventing rust and tuning in any climate. A few drops on a soft cloth will gently remove your dirt records, keep all the dust out of the tone horns, and clean the tone horns.

CLEAN YOUR LIVER! A DIME A BOX

Sick headaches! Always trace them to lazy liver; delayed fermenting food in the bowels or a sick stomach. Poisonous, constipated matter, gases and bile generated in the bowels, instead of being carried out of the system, is re-absorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, sickening headache. Cascarets will remove the cause by stimulating the liver, making the bile and constipation poison move on and out of the bowels. One taken tonight straightens you out by morning—a 10-cent box will keep your head clear, stomach sweet, liver and bowels regular, and make you feel bright and cheerful for months. Port Stanley Man Beat Horse Over Head With Tug.
[Special to The Advertiser.]
St. Thomas, Sept. 15.—Wellington, Ont., Sept. 15.—Port Stanley, was fined $5 and costs for abusing a horse by striking it over the head with a tug. The defence was that Helke thought his life was in danger from the horse, which was crowding him in the stall, but the magistrate held that he had no right to hit the animal over the head. The Humane Society laid the complaint.

SOVEREIGN GRAND LODGE IS IN SESSION at Minneapolis.

[Canadian Press.]
Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 15.—With addresses of welcome by Governor Eberhardt and Mayor Nye, the eighty-ninth annual sovereign grand lodge, Independent Order of Oddfellows, formally was opened here today.

Delegates are present from Canada, the United States, Europe, Philippines and Hawaii.

In addition to the Oddfellows' order, representatives of all Rebekah lodges, the women's auxiliary of the order, are here.
