Sermon Preached in one of the Wolffville Churches at Easter Time, 1907.

IS THE RESURRECTION OF CHRIST A FACT OR A FABLE?

He showed himself alive after his passion, by many proofs, appearing unto them forty days, etc. 12.

The early annals of Rome—especially the story of her seven kings—are so mixed up with legends, that writers do not dignify the narrative with the name of history. And in many places and periods of the world, there have lived men whose names are associated with legends of various kinds. For these a oris, are, no doubt, founded on fact; but it is impossible now to tell what was fact and what was fable.

But 1900 years ago there lived in Palestine a remarkable personage, Jesus of Nazareth. He lived in a literary period of the world's history. For more than a thousand years before his appearance, the deeds of the Jewish nation had been recorded. The acts of David and Solomon, as well as the acts of the long line of kings succeeded them, were chronicled by historians. We know the length of the reigns of the 19 kings of Israel and the 18 kings of Judah, as well as that of the English kings from William the Conqueror to Edward VII.

Greek learning had spread over much of the world some two centuries before Christ; and imperial Rome had governed Palestine several decades prior to his coming. The literature of her orators, poets and statesmen was well known; and Hebrew scholars, like Gamaliel, of Jerusalem, taught it. For centuries prior to Christ's advent, so many of our own race had lived, whose names and deeds have been recorded in the annals of history. In fact there are more witnesses to his resurrection-body than to his dead body. If the evidence that he was placed in the tomb is credible, the evidence that he came out of the tomb is credible. Dean Farrar says: 'Our belief in the resurrection of Christ as a historical fact, rests on grounds as absolutely well attested as any other event in history.' Ewald says: 'The resurrection of Jesus is one of the established facts of history.' Prof. Geo. F. Fisher, of Yale Divinity School, after reviewing at length the arguments of the opponents of the resurrection, such as their theories of deception, delusion, and distorted impressions of the disciples, and showing that their grounds are untenable, says: 'Whoever thinks that the disciples were self-deceived, not only attributes to them a mental imbecility, but implies that when Christ chose his witnesses, he did not know what was in man. Or if Christ willingly permitted them to mistake an inward impression for actual perception, he is himself the author of error, and forfeits our respect. If Christ was not, in fact, buried, but on a delusion,' Prof. Ewald's argument is virtually the same line.

The opponents of the resurrection of Christ have admitted that if this point is granted, all else that Christianity claims must be granted. And that is why the doctrine has been so vigorously assailed. It has been called the Gibraltar of the Christian faith. If that stands, all stands. If that falls, all falls. Jesus was either a deceiver or was self-deceived, and the apostles, who went forth proclaiming the doctrine, were innocent dupes of a hallucination. Paul states the points concisely, in what is called the five-fold catastrophe: 1. The vanity of preaching; for if Christ hath not been raised, our preaching is vain. 2. The emptiness of your faith is vain. 3. The fabled proof of testimony; for if Christ hath not been raised, we are false witnesses; for if Christ hath not been raised, ye are yet in your sins. 4. The collapse of hope; for if Christ hath not been raised, they that have fallen asleep in Christ have perished. Then the apostle breaks forth with the certainty: 'But now hath Christ been raised from the dead, the first fruits of them that are asleep.' The vacant tomb that the disciples explored is accounted for. The body of Jesus was not stolen by his friends; but it left, as predicted, by supernatural power. It was his resurrection that put heaven's seal upon it.

During the forty days, he ate with his disciples, not that he needed to satisfy hunger, but to prove that he was with them in bodily reality. He permitted them to touch his hands and his feet to convince them that the body of his earthly life had been raised. He blessed and broke the bread to the two disciples at Emmaus. He appeared at the prayer-meeting in the upper room, though the doors were closed; thus giving some idea of the nature or condition of the resurrection body, entering a room suddenly, unimpeded by closed doors, and solid walls. The walls and the doors were no obstacle to his entrance or departure. The survival of Christianity, after the death of Jesus, depended wholly upon his resurrection. When he was laid in the tomb, the cause which he had set up, to all human appearance, had ended in defeat. And had there been no resurrection, there never could have been a Christian church. As has been well said: 'The little organization would have ended at his death, and Christianity would have died at its birth.' But the faith of the disciples, which tottered at the crucifixion, was re-established at the resurrection; and they were inspired with fresh courage. It was the resurrection of Christ that led to the change in the day of divine worship, from the seventh to the first day of the week. If the event of the resurrection had not happened, the Christian world would not be commemorating Easter Sunday to-day. Would the fourth of July be celebrated by the American people had there never been an event so great as the resurrection of Christ? Or if Christ were in London had there never been a naval battle of Trafalgar? Just as surely as the monuments along the Nile tell of the glory of ancient Egypt, does the celebration of this day certify that the body placed in Joseph's tomb arose to life.

The strongest proof of Christ's resurrection is the fact that the resurrection of Christ was a prominent theme in the preaching of Paul. To his mind, it was the central truth of the gospel. It set its torch on Mars Hill before the Athenian philosophers, and in Rome, the home of the Caesars. In his sermons, and in his letters to the churches, he appealed to the resurrection of Christ as the basis upon which the Christian's hope rested, and the pivot upon which the soul's destiny turned. It authenticated Christ's message. It authenticated Christ himself. The resurrection of Christ has been the inspiration of the church during the long centuries of her history. May it be an inspiration to us. We may seek to know Christ, and the power of his resurrection. Nothing but the power which raised Jesus from the dead can achieve deliverance from sin, and transform us into the likeness of God. Let us seek to have more than an intellectual belief in the teachings of Christ and his resurrection. Rather let us accept him as our personal Saviour, by obeying his commands, and by loving to do his will; that we may know him and the power of his resurrection. If ye then be risen with Christ, seek those things which are above. To be risen with Christ, in this figurative sense, is to make 'him our choice. It is to love him and to live in him, and by virtue of his death we become dead to sin; and by virtue of his resurrection we are raised to spiritual life. And when we receive his resurrection and our life, and we are risen with him.

It isn't raining rain to me it's raining daffodils, in every dappled drop I see Will flowers on the hill. The clouds of grey engulf the sky, and overwhelm the town; it's raining rain to me, it's raining roses down. It's raining rain to me, but fields of clover bloom, where are blossoming bees may find a bed and room. A health unto the happy, a fig for him who frets; it's raining rain to me, it's raining roses.

THE ACADIAN.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., APR. 17, 1908

A Red Rag.

The Western Chronicle in commenting upon that portion of the Civil Service report which objects to the high salary paid by the government to J. W. Borden, a cousin of Sir Fred Borden, whom that minister has appointed to a lucrative position in the Militia Department, naively remarks: 'blood should not interfere with public duty.' We think this decidedly unkind. It is well known that Sir Fred has a warm place in his heart for those of his own household, and that he is a firm believer in the maxim that 'blood is thicker than water.' The Chronicle man is not, however, the one to trot the minister of this little weakness. Sir Fred's favors cannot truthfully be said to have been confined to his blood relations. A young man was allowed to sell rotten hay to the imperial government a few years ago, at a fabulous price, and he was not a relative of Sir Fred. A Kings county statesman recently got a generous allotment of stock in the Suburban Company, and there was no 'blood' in his veins. A Kings county seer was the first to get a vision of government drill grounds at Kentville, and yet he was not of the household of Borden. Surely the Chronicle's covert sneer at Sir Fred is neither generous nor kind.

The fact is that the 'honorable' boss of the Kentville paper has no use for anyone of the Borden name. J. W. Borden was a manager in the Union Bank service when Sir Fred had him appointed paymaster of the militia department. In parliament Sir Fred gave a reason why he was paid an exceptional salary that he was an exceptional man, and so far we thoroughly agree with Sir Fred. Mr. Borden, the paymaster, is a son of the late Andrew Borden, of Grand Pre, and a son-in-law of the late Frederick Brown, of this town, and a gentleman in every sense of the word. He is a strong liberal and an honor to his native county.

But the name Borden is a red rag to the 'honorable' ever since a certain local election not long ago, when Sir Fred was expected to slip in and save the day and he declined to make the attempt—after first looking over the ground. Ever since that day he has been accused of selfishness. Further, it is cause for remark that in his occasional visits to the county and the shire-town Sir Fred gives a certain law office a wide berth—so different from before that local election. Sir Fred is a shrewd politician and knows pretty well from which direction the wind blows.

Mr. Donaldson's Letter.

Secretary Donaldson's manly and straightforward explanation, which appeared in our columns last week, seems to afford a perfect answer to the charges leveled by the Western Chronicle against the Union Agricultural Society. The spectacle of the pure, Western Chronicle accusing Cornwallis farmers of graft, seems amusing to residents of this county, but for the sake of our reputation outside Mr. Donaldson's letter came none too soon.

Kings county, unfortunately, has none too good a name in the other counties of this province. We have in past years been so careless in the selection of our representatives, and so many tales of graft and drunken orgies have been associated with our public men, that people outside have received the notion that those public men correctly reflected the sentiments and integrity of the people of the county. It would therefore not have been surprising if this serious charge against our farmers, notwithstanding the fact that it sprang from so unreliable a source, should have been believed by those not personally acquainted with the high intellectual and sterling integrity of the bulk of Kings county farmers. Mr. Donaldson's lucid letter will easily overturn the Chronicle's mischievous tale.

A Recent Convert.

Our valued contemporary, The Western Chronicle, has espoused the cause of temperance. Formerly The Chronicle put down liquor, now it will put liquor down.

In the course of a highly instructive article our temperance friend claims that the cause is being hampered in the western end of the county, and intimates that 'perhaps THE ACADIAN will inform the public' regarding the matter. 'This however,' says The Chronicle, 'is another story and will be referred to at greater length later on.'

From the above it appears that The Chronicle will do all in its power for the cause of temperance. Not only will it work itself, but it will also stir up its contemporaries to the end that they, too, may work for the cause.

Verily the days of wonders and miracles have not ceased. The next thing we know Sir Fred Borden will be stamping the county for Union Reform.

Innocent.

In a recent move than usually ignorant the Lunenburg Progress Reporter, moved by a sense of duty—to the printers—makes the statement that several voters in Kings is pretty 'jolly.'

Our innocent friend further remarks that it obtained its information from the Lunenburg Chronicle of Kentville. This is wrong. The Eastern Chronicle is published of New Glasgow.

Political Skepticism.

If the people are skeptical of the good intentions of the Laurier government in the matter of Civil Service Investigation the blame lies with the government, not with the people. What are the facts?

Twelve years of control in the Marine and Fisheries department, during which time at least three Liberal ministers have been in charge, fixes responsibility for proper management upon the Laurier government.

A royal commission, appointed by this same government to investigate the Civil Service generally, reported that in this particular department a state of affairs exists that, to say the least, is disgraceful. Before the printed report of this commission is presented in Parliament the government names a new commission entirely ignorant of facts, to investigate the charges of the first commission, but in one direction only, that of the purchase of supplies. Before the new commission can get on the job the minister of the crown in charge of the condemned department is seized with a sudden zeal for house cleaning and certain officials are discharged by him.

Why the need of so much duplication of investigating authority? Was the first commission incompetent to report with all necessary detail upon its own findings? And if a second commission was advisable why limit its line of investigation? What excuse can be offered, also, for Hon. Mr. Brodeur's sudden burst of activity in house-cleaning a department into the management of which a royal commission investigation has been ordered? It is reasonable that the electors should ask such questions as these and reasonable that they should regard with suspicion the house-top proclamations of honesty of purpose being made by a government that is responsible for a reform program so badly mixed up and tangled as this one in the Marine department appears to be.

Premier Laurier himself made a great show of activity in respect of the Civil Service Commission. Justice Cassels, he announced, would be the royal commissioner to make a complete investigation into the Marine department. This announcement of course looked good; but, alas! one can never tell nowadays what sort of fruit is being handed out from Parliament hill until the seed has been removed. What looks like luscious orange may be a juicy lemon. It has all the appearance of a lemon in this case.

Instructions to the commissioner are of such a nature as to bind him to investigate in one direction only. Why? More sham, more pretence, more hypocrisy. Eased in the tangled web of deceit and double dealing it has itself woven, the Laurier administration is so completely trapped that its free and effective action in the interests of the people is no longer a possibility.

A Chance for the Chronicle.

Now that The Western Chronicle is in the scandalous business to the end that all graft, corruption and malfeasance be promptly exposed, the attention of our virtuous contemporary is called to the manner in which is conducted the provincial sanatorium at Kentville.

Mr. Baillie, M. L. A. for Pictou, moved for correspondence in respect to supplies for the above mentioned institution. Three letters, written in March last, were laid on the table. These letters were to the superintendent directing her—

(1) To buy supplies from persons other than Messrs. DeWolfe and Lamont.

(2) To buy groceries from S. L. Cross and B. H. Dodge, and to buy dry goods from James Seely.

(3) To buy drugs from J. D. Clarke. In speaking of this matter The Orchardist says: 'Some time ago the superintendent was directed not to buy supplies from DeWolfe and Lamont and F. B. Newcombe & Co. As the goods supplied by these firms were in every way satisfactory, the orders were not entirely obeyed, and it seems that required a second mandate from those in authority to cut off all patronage to DeWolfe and Lamont. The only reason which anyone can give for this boycott of Messrs. Lamont and Newcombe is that they are liberals who stand for principles above party, and voted with hundreds of other liberals for the Union Reform candidates in the last election.'

'The patients at the sanatorium whether they live or die, survive or perish must be fed only on materials supplied by faithful government supporters. So far it has worked very well for the health of the patients, but whether the people of the province who pay the bills are equally benefited it might take a commission to determine.'

Here is a case of unjust discrimination. The Chronicle, ever on the alert, must scent in this a grievous wrong. It is a case demanding the Chronicle's prompt and earnest attention.

But will the organ act? Will it expose and denounce such acts on the part of its political friends? Not on your life! When there are scandals in its own party, The Chronicle, like the docile creature it is, maintains a discreet and stony silence.

The Wickwire scandal, published at Kentville, is called the Western Chronicle. We have no interest in making these corrections. They are made solely because of a sense of educative duty born of the law shown by this great family and religious journal for its innocent Lunenburg friend.

The Baptist foreign mission board has just received word of the death of Rev. George Churchill, at Bobbitt, India, on March 14. He was a native of Truro, and had been thirty-three years a missionary in India, and two years before that in Siam. He was sixty years old. Death was due to gangrene, following injury to his knee. Mr. Churchill's wife, who is in India, survives. A daughter, Elizabeth M., now at home in Nova Scotia, was accepted by the board a few days ago to go out to India, as a missionary, next fall.

The Grand Division, S. of T., of N. S., celebrates its sixtieth anniversary, on the 22nd inst., at Lockport. It will be held in connection with the second quarterly session which opens on Tuesday, the 21st inst., closing with a public meeting in the evening. The G. D. of N. S. has a striking record. Competing in honorable rivalry against others having millions of population to draw from it has been, for the greater part of its history, the banner jurisdiction of the world. Competing with those having much smaller territory, as well as those of much larger territory, whatever may be the reason, it has in many respects a record for successful work hitherto unapproached by any.

'Sovereign' Cashmere Hose and Hosiery are guaranteed to outwear all other makes.

The officers of St. George's Lodge, No. 20, R. N. S., for the ensuing year, were installed at the last regular communication by D. D. G. M., A. J. McKenna, assisted by brothers of St. John's Lodge, No. 2; Wolford, No. 26; Harmony, No. 32; and by brethren of St. George's.

Daniels—J. D., George S. B. Wallace—S. S., H. Troyte Bullock—J. S., George W. Hunter—Tyler, Robt. W. Ford—Organist.

The entertainment from the gramophone directed by J. F. Kennedy added much to the pleasure of the occasion. At the close refreshments were served for which all seemed to be ready and which were much enjoyed. The singing of the national anthem brought to a close the program, and all voted they had spent a pleasant and profitable evening.

Some of Mr. Emery's compositions, among them his concert etude 'Fugue,' will appear in print next month, having been accepted by Thompson's Publishing House, of Boston.

Elocution Recital By Seminary Girls.

CLEVER AND REFINED ENTERTAINMENT IN COLLEGE HALL LAST FRIDAY EVENING.

The Department of Expression at Acadia Seminary, under the able direction of Miss Josephine L. Goodspeed, gave an exhibition in College Hall last Friday evening. The room was beautifully decorated for the occasion, with evergreens and plants and the large audience in attendance most enthusiastically received the various numbers of the program. It was a refined entertainment, and thoroughly enjoyable. The readings exhibited ease and naturalness of expression, and were quite free from that extravagant declamation, which, while aiming at effects, does not reach the mark.

The following numbers were given: Boat Race—Girls vs. Boys. Oliver Wendell Holmes Jean McLatchy, of Sackville High Tide on the Coast of Lincolnshire. Jean Ingelew Agnes McKee, of Guysboro Concerto No. 7, 1st movement. Hilda Vaughn The Mustard Plaster. Howard Fielding Fleas Wood. Angela Guard Thee, 'Jocelyn's' song. Almada McElhiney, of Windsor Violin Obligato. Miss Paulsen Among the Alps. Dickens—Collins. Stodie Dobson, of Moncton Duo Concertant—Violin duet. Evelyn Starr, Miss Paulsen. Rebecca's Journey. Kate Douglas Wiggin Goldie Sweet, of Bridgetown Flower Play, adapted from the German by Miss Burmeister, Miss Burmeister at the piano Queen of the Flowers. Charlotte Layton, Great Village Scotch Thistle. Hattie Loggard, Halifax Cornflower, Eugenie Bogart, Karlsruhe.

The flower play was a novel feature in entertainments here, but it was a complete success, the young lady participants representing in their costuming and behaviour the beautiful flowers they symbolized and the order of their appearance during their season. It was a most graceful and artistic performance and we are indebted to Miss Burmeister and to Miss Wood for a rare pleasure.

The violin selection by Miss Evelyn Starr and Miss Paulsen, teacher, elicited very hearty applause as a performance of superior merit.

The vocal solo, 'Angels Guard Thee,' by Miss McElhiney, was most effectively given.

Wedding Bells. A wedding that will interest many relatives and friends in Cornwallis, N. S., was solemnized at West Somerville, Massachusetts, Wednesday, April 8th, 1908, the contracting parties being Miss Evelyn Winifred Ellis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Ellis, of Upper Dyke Village, and Mr. Alfred C. Fuller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leander Fuller, of Wolford.

The bride was beautifully attired in a Copenhagen blue travelling suit of chiffon, Panama cloth, and hat to match, with sweeping ostrich plumes. The bride was unattended, and carried bride roses. The happy couple left immediately after the ceremony for New York. After an extended tour they will make their home at Hartford, Connecticut, where the groom has extensive business interests. The Rev. J. Vanor Garton, D. D., of the West Somerville Baptist church, officiated. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and costly presents, the groom's gift being a diamond studded bracelet.

Cured her Croup ALL ELSE FAILED

The first indication of croup usually comes about midnight, and the child is suddenly awakened by a paroxysm of suffocation and a dry, harsh, rasping cough.

There is no time to call a doctor and to prevent suffocation, the spasms must be broken up at once and the false membrane removed by the use of an anesthetic or tickling the throat with the finger until vomiting is caused.

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine should then be given every hour or two to prevent the return of the trouble with greater severity. By using Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, the cough is kept down, the inflammation is reduced and the croup is entirely cured.

Min. F. W. Bond, 20 Macdonald Street, Berlin, Ont., says: 'My little girl had been subject to the croup for a long time and I found nothing to cure it until I gave Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. I cannot speak too highly of it.'
