CHAPTER XVI.
A QUIET SUNDAY.

"Can't you come in the dog-cart?"
"Oh, yes, of course, but General Stone is going away, and Jim must drive him because of getting tipped. But, if we come, what will the ladies say?"

"It's my house," said Lewis Waycott, suddenly feeling that he was the squire and the master of Waycott.

"Uncle Dove can't say that, I'm sure; but, if we come, may we leave early and go home by Winchley? I have such a nice romance in my mind, and I want your help. Do you like romances?"

"Immensely, of course!"
"Oh! there is Aunt Dove's finger! Did you see her shake it at poor Minnie, who was passing a bull's eye round, and she had to keep it in her cheek all the service? It looked so funny!"

"No, I wish I had."
"How do you do, Mr. Waycott?" said Lady Dove, coming up. "Your party has gone on. I was waiting for Antonia."

"Oh, Aunt Dove, Mr. Waycott wants me and Miss Crump to come to lunch with him to-morrow. May we? Miss Crump could come and meet me, and we'll go on from the village."

Poor Lady Dove's breath seemed taken away. Her companion asked to lunch at Waycott before herself! But she did not lose her temper as the General was close by.

"Dear Mr. Waycott, you don't mean—"
"Yes, I do. Miss Whitburn thinks we are dull people compared to her folks at home, so I thought—"

"It's really too good-natured of you, but—"
"Miss Crump has never been out to a square meal before, Aunt Dove. Do let her come; she'll brighten up in the evening, and won't be so sleepy when she reads to you."

"Of course, Antonia, being a stranger here, does not quite understand that Miss Crump's position will not allow her to visit—"
"Indeed, she doesn't eat with her knife, Mr. Waycott; you should have seen some of our people! Those who called themselves first-class. Oh! but Pups said that they were the people who we should be civil to, because those were the folk who came in from the highways and hedges to the supper."

"Melina dear," said Sir Evas, "the horses must not be kept standing any longer. The Captain and I will walk on. Come, Toney, get in."

"Well, Mr. Waycott, we will come if Aunt Dove allows it," said Toney, happily, "and mind you tell Miss Honoria that we are not so bad as she thinks; but where is Crumpet, Aunt Dove?"

"She always walks home. Antonia make haste."
Lady Dove's tone was very severe. She was beginning to despair of the girl who saw nothing in the right light and who would not be tamed.

"No, thank you, I'll walk too," said Toney, putting her head into the brougham; "but please, Aunt Dove, you don't mind, will you move your feet? Come out dear, it's paid for."

Lady Dove uttered a little scream, for the next moment, from under her seat, out darted Trick, as if he were thirsting for fresh air.

"Now, General Stone, isn't he better than a Christian? I put him in before you started, and told him, and though your and Aunt Dove's heels must have tempted him sorely, he resisted temptation all the time, and now he'll have a lovely walk and a run home."

Trick was making such a furious noise that any answer was necessarily drowned. Jim shut the door in great haste, and Toney was soon seen flying down the road with Trick after her.

"Oh, that girl! and that dog! both are mad! My dear general, what are we to do? You see how impossible it is to teach her by example."

"Quite impossible, I see."
"I have in vain shown her what an English lady must be like, and yet—What can I do with her? Of course this can't go on. I must send her to some strict school, where—"

"Where she wouldn't stay, I fear," said the General, laughing.
"But with proper severity she could be tamed, for, after all, she is penniless, and she does not seem to realize it at all. Young Lewis Waycott is really too foolish to notice her. I am sure he only asked Miss Crump to lunch to please Antonia. It is absurd and ridiculous."

"I am afraid that is true."
"I see you agree with me. Now Evas is such a coward, he can't scold the girl! I shall keep her in solitary confinement a little to see if that will—"

"Have you got a room without a window in it?"
"Without a window?"
"Miss Antonia seems of such an athletic nature that I am afraid she would get out if the room had any means of exit."

"How shocking! I am glad you suggested it. There must be some large cupboard where she would learn—"
"To see her duty plainer."
"Exactly so."

"And put that dog under us! But you can notice for yourself that she sees no difference between a lady and Miss Crump."

"She certainly has no respect for persons. I fear that sin is proved against her."
"I am glad you understand what an easy responsibility I have undertaken."

"Indeed you have. If I had not to leave you to-morrow, I would like to suggest several plans, but—"
"Thank you, you would be a real help, dear General; Evas is worse than useless."

Lady Dove came home from her drive in an unusually good humour. The General really understood her great responsibility and was quite charming.

The bell had just rung when Toney and Miss Crump entered the dining-room; both looked rather hot, as if they had walked very fast.

"I am afraid," began Miss Crump, "that we are rather—"
"Yes, said Lady Dove, "you are late, and you know I expect you to be in the room before the second bell rings. Antonia, you must have dawdled disgracefully."

"I did," said Toney, then she added in a low voice to the General, "but I was trying to get a good note. It's the note that really signifies."

"What note?" asked Sir Evas, who overheard her.
"Don't ask yet, Uncle Dove. I'll show you afterwards."

"I'm sure you will agree with me, General," said Lady Dove, "that Mr. Hales is very long-winded. His sermon this morning was so trite and commonplace."

"I seem to have heard his text before certainly."
"Yes, really not a new idea to be got out of it. If the clergy would spend their time reading a little—instead of wasting their leisure in visiting cottagers who do not want them, it would be better."

"Teaching me, Aunt Dove, must be waste of time. Oh, dear, I am sorry."
"If I could make you more like a nice English girl, I should call it profitable work."

"Aunt Dove, may I go to the afternoon service and take a walk afterwards? My legs are quite stiff on Sunday."
"I am going to Hunter's farm, Toney," said Sir Evas, "if you like to join me there at half-past four we could get back by five o'clock tea."

"Thank you, dear Uncle Dove, that will fit in well, and if, by chance we missed, you won't be anxious. It's some compensation, isn't it, General Stone, for being a poor relation, that Aunt Dove won't mind at all if I don't appear? Pups was a little nervous, though he never showed it, if I started off on a tramp."

"No one could expect you not to reappear, Miss Toney," said the General. "A bad penny," chimed in the Captain.

Hardly had the General settled himself in his favorite arm-chair in the library, when the door was opened very gently, and Toney entered on tiptoe.

"Are you asleep?"
"No, but pray, Miss Toney, don't jump out of the window again."
"Here it is. Listen!"

A sharp and piercing whistle sounded in the General's ears, and made him nearly jump out of his chair.

"Isn't it beautiful? It made me late, but I was so afraid you wouldn't have it in time, as you go to-morrow. Do you like the tone? You know I'm not musical, but it sounded clear and very distinct to me. Poor Crumpet has so many nerves that she could only listen to it when her ears were both stopped up. That was a good sign, wasn't it?"

"Good gracious! I join issue with Miss Crump."
"Oh, don't you like it? See, it's beautifully polished. I rubbed it so hard my hand ached with the labour of it."

The General would not be ungrateful for the world, so now he began to admire it.

"Oh, Miss Toney, it is really beautiful, worth more than your debt, I'm sure."
"So, we are quits? That is nice. You can use it in London to call a cab or the hobbies."

PERCIE JOHNSON.

To the Manor Born.

BY RUTH CAMERON.

It was a very warm day, one of those suddenly warm days at the first of the season which make the healthiest of us feel weak and miserable and cause us all to wonder why we longed for summer. My lady, of leisure, looking fresh and dainty in a white linen dress, with a rose at her belt and a tan of outdoor life on her smooth cheek, had dropped into town for a bit of shopping. She strolled down the aisle with an attendant courtier in white flannels following in her wake. She paused near where I was waiting for my change, to interview a floor walker, a little man with an anxious, deprecating air and stooping shoulders.

He didn't see how he received this speech. If he really was a man, and not just a suit of white flannels, it seems to me that he must have felt shame and disgust even if he didn't show it.

And yet, undoubtedly, the lady of leisure thought to raise herself in his eyes by the air of superiority and disdain with which she treated her inferiors (?).

I have often seen women, and men, too, try to impress some member of the opposite sex by thus asserting their superiority. A man will speak sharply and rudely to the waiter; a woman will rebuke her maid, or draw her skirts back from the contamination of working men's presence, each thinking to demonstrate what a fine lady or gentleman he or she is.

And for any woman to expect to be witted a man by such a demonstration—surely that is the height of folly. Surely any man in the possession of his senses will not be pleased to hear a woman speak harshly to or of her less fortunate fellow beings. Surely he will recognize such a spirit as the most scarlet of danger signals for him.

That is: if he is a real man. A real man likes a real woman, and a real woman in the fine sense of the word is one who has pity and sympathy and forbearance, never scorn and disdain, for those less fortunate than she.

SOLITARY LIGHT MARKS GRAVE-YARD OF THE GULF.

Isolated Beacon in the Magdalen Group of Islands at the Mouth of the St. Lawrence Has Been Scene of Many Fatalities When Keepers Have Lost Their Lives. Heroic Woman and Her Lonely Vigil.

A gruesome record attaches to Bird Rock Lighthouse. Death and disaster seem to pay regular visits to this remote spot. It is a group of more than a dozen islands, the Magdalen, located almost in the centre of the Gulf of St. Lawrence. In fact, the archipelago itself is particularly dangerous to vessels and is known to the sailors as the graveyard of the gulf, so many have been the wrecks thereabouts.

Bird Rock is little more than a huge rock rising abruptly out of the water to a height of 140 feet, on which the Canadian Government maintains one of the most inaccessible lighthouse stations on the Atlantic coast. Its sides are washed by the dashing gulf waves, while thousands of sea fowl have built their nests under its rocky ledge. Until a few years ago, when a roadway was blasted out from the

Nerves Are Exhausted

And nervous prostration or paralysis is creeping steadily upon you.

You hear of people suddenly falling victims of nervous prostration or some form of paralysis. But when you get all the facts of the case you find that they have had months or years of warning. They haven't slept well. There has been frequent attacks of nervous headaches. Digestion has failed. They have been irritable, easily worried and excited and have found memory and concentration failing.

Had they but known that these symptoms tell of exhausted nerves or had they realized their danger they would have restored the feeble, wasted nerves by use of such treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

This great restorative treatment cures by forming new, rich blood and by rebuilding the wasted nerve cells. No medicine is more certain to prove of lasting benefit to the system. 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50; at all dealers or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

The Minister.

BY H. L. RAMM.

The minister is a charter member of the most underpaid profession in all the annals of history, unless it is that melancholy figure, the printer's devil. The average minister's income seldom gets heated up to over $50 a month, and the first time he says anything in the pulpit that hits some pillar of the church in a vital spot it will shrink so fast that his congregation will have to shower him with premium hams and rocking chairs. On this account, very few ministers are able to lay up anything in this life except a conscience void of offense and a record of loyal service. Nobody is really qualified for the ministry who is not able to live on well water and due bills. It is a very exacting and painful occupation. Everybody is perfectly satisfied with the minister so long as he preaches on something that happened 12,000 years ago, but the minute he begins to let a current of air through anything that is going on in the community he will be requested to put on the soft pedal or seek a more congenial clime. If the minister hit all of the high spots in his repertoire the way the itinerant evangelist does, he would be assisted into the next county without a cent of expense. About the most unpopular thing a minister can do is to object to having the collection taken by some earnest

He could see clearly now and quickly realized that it was impossible to return by the route he had come, as the north wind had forced his ice foe far out in the gulf.

In the hazy direction of his home a rough sea tossed, piled up with ragged fragments of ice. No boat could live in such waters. His only chance for salvation lay in the hard, frozen gulf toward the shore of Cape Breton, even though that shore was 70 miles away.

Arsene buried the bodies of his comrades underneath an overturned boat. Grasping the bludgeon he had used in the slaughter of seals he turned his face in the direction of Cape Breton.

All that cold day Arsene trudged over the rough ice with neither food nor drink. Sometimes he plunged through deep drifts, sometimes he glided more easily over windwept surfaces. As the day wore on he was assailed by frequent spells of drowsiness. But he was determined to fight and struggle to the end. When night fell he dozed as best he could, but always standing, for he knew that once he stretched himself upon the ice it would mean his last sleep.

The next morning he crept upon a seal and clubbing it to death drank the warm blood. He did not know that his garments, his face and his hands were smeared with blood, but he did realize that he had secured renewed strength and courage to continue his journey. Late that afternoon he reached Meat Cove at Cape Breton and scarcely able to drag himself along staggered to the first house in sight. Opening the door he entered, not knowing the appearance he presented to the inmates. They questioned him, but he could not speak. So thinking him either insane or a murderer they thrust him out and slammed the door shut behind him.

Quebec, June 22.—A cable despatch to the effect that Sergt. J. Martin, who scored a world's record at Ayrshire, Scotland, this week, used a Ross rifle and Ross ammunition. Sergt. Martin made the unprecedented score of 222 out of 225, the possible at 100, 1,000 and 1,100 yards. At the 1,000 yards range he made a possible, and he put on 73 at 1,100 yards.

As a Cure for Whooping Cough

A medicine that will cure whooping cough can certainly be relied upon to overcome all ordinary coughs and colds. This is about the severest test, and one to which Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has frequently been put with the most satisfactory results.

Mrs. John Chesney, Innerkip, Ont., writes: "We have used a dozen bottles of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. It cured my little girl of whooping cough when the doctor had given her up and since then we always keep it in the house as a treatment for coughs and colds. It is the best medicine we ever used."

In spite of imitations and substitutes the sale of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine keep right on increasing, and this is, we believe, the most substantial evidence that can be offered as to the reliability of this well-known medicine as a cure for croup, bronchitis, whooping cough and kindred ailments; 25 cents a bottle, at all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

There is nothing that will chill the ardor of the average congregation quicker than a few pointed sermons on the round dance and the bridge whist habit, and the minister who turns his vocabulary loose on these topics is liable to detect quite a perceptible drop in the temperature. Many a minister is prevented from doing his best work by people who sleep out loud in church and then criticize the sermon. What is needed is a brand of piety which will induce people to contribute as much to the minister's salary as they do to the moving picture show.

The Governor Staggered!

And He Staggered the Public

This morning we received from the Private Secretary of the Governor copies of correspondence relative to the two Memorials sent to the Governor by Mr. Coaker in regard to certain actions of the Hon. Donald Morison, Minister of Justice. The two Memorials have already been published in The Evening Telegram. The correspondence is exceedingly lengthy, but the decision of His Excellency is comparatively short and is contained in the letter to Mr. Morison, which we publish to-day. It will be seen that whilst the Governor expresses strong disapproval of Ministers being actively connected with speculative Companies, he has determined to retain Mr. Morison in his office and to give him his full confidence as a Minister. His Excellency's opinion can therefore be regarded as but a pious opinion, which does not influence him in the direction of refusing his confidence to Ministers doing what he has now openly expressed his disapproval of. To-day we can but give the briefest outline of this lengthy correspondence. The correspondence includes Mr. Morison's answers to both Memorials, the comments of the Prime Minister to the Governor, and His Excellency's letter to the Secretary of State, the reply of the latter, His Excellency's decision as given to Mr. Coaker and to Mr. Morison.

The gist of the defence of Mr. Morison will be gathered from the letter of His Excellency to the Secretary of State, who not only refuses to accept the reference for a decision which the Governor insisted on making to him but declines in the following words to express an opinion:—
"I have the honour to inform you that I am not prepared to express any opinion on the matter which deals with questions which concern primarily the Government and the Legislature of the Colony."
Those who have read our editorial comments on the action of the Governor in wresting a request to furnish copies to the Secretary of State into a reference which we have already contended was improper will not be surprised.

The most remarkable feature of the whole correspondence is Mr. Morison's defence to the outstanding paragraph of the letter relating to the Orange Bay property.
His Excellency accepts this explanation in full, stating that he not only believed him he would have dismissed him. Here is Mr. Morison's defence:—
"When I advised Mr. Strong that the man who holds the timber on a river cut log and drive his timber the cheapest and, until some other person locates behind him, there is nothing to prevent him from getting a good deal of timber from the adjoining Crown land, I depended upon my memory as to what the law and practice were in relation to the cutting of timber on ungranted Crown lands. In the rush of business I advised him without turning up the law upon the point. I knew that there was a section in the Crown Lands Act which imposed a penalty upon any person who held a license for obtaining logs from adjacent Crown lands, but I was under the impression that the prohibition only extended to purchasing logs and not cutting them. In other words my remembrance of the law was that the holder of a license might cut logs on adjacent Crown lands but was debarred from purchasing them. In this I was in error and if I had turned up the law as it is contained in Section 38 of the Crown Lands Act 1903, I would have seen my mistake at once."
The Governor accepted this defence and says if he had not done so he would have dismissed Mr. Morison. If an ignorant layman like those who were charged in court with cutting on Crown lands had advanced such a defence he would be told promptly by the Court that "ignorance of law was no defence for him." But in this case the Governor accepts ignorance of the law in the Crown Lands Act as an excuse from the Attorney General, who has had extensive connection with timber property.

We would however point out that His Excellency's acceptance of this excuse is too eager and ready. Does His Excellency forget there is a commandment "Thou shalt not steal," which every child is taught as part of its religious and moral code, and that Mr. Morison's plea of ignorance of a part of the Crown Lands Act does not cover this?

Does he not know that a person who violates the property of another by taking away his trees is committing a trespass for which he can be sued in a civil action of trespass? How then can such a defence as Mr. Morison advances have been accepted by the Governor? The child on the street would know, however ignorant of the Crown Lands Act it might be, that such an act was wrong. How then can Mr. Morison's plea be accepted? His Excellency says the paragraph of the letter in question staggered him. We would venture to assert that His Excellency's ready belief and complaisance will stagger the public!

Labrador Mission Work.

Last night at the Synod Hall the Rev. Dr. Smith, the Newfoundland clergyman of Washington, made an earnest appeal to the Diocese of Newfoundland and Labrador to do justice to itself in letting it be known abroad what the Church of England had been doing for generations and what she is doing to-day on the bleak shores of the Labrador. In the United States and Canada the name of Dr. Grenfell was well known. Indeed, it is Grenfell first, Grenfell last, and Grenfell all the time. In dispassionate tones and with moderation of language, Dr. Smith made his plea, offering no disparagement of Dr. Grenfell's work beyond the fact that the devoted missionaries who had given their life's energy to work on the Labrador before Dr. Grenfell ever set foot there, and those hard-working men who have been giving their best energies since Dr. Grenfell has been there, never seem to receive the slightest recognition in any of the lectures and addresses which Dr. Grenfell periodically gives on the continent of America.

On the one hand there has been an absence of any campaign of publicity of the work carried on quietly and unostentatiously by the Church of England; and on the other hand there has been for years a vigorous noising abroad of what the Grenfell Mission was doing, constant calls for personal service, material and money. It stands to reason that little is known of any missionary work except that of Dr. Grenfell. It follows therefore that a false impression prevails in Canada and the States of conditions on the Labrador, which is made to appear in outer barbarism, except for the work of the Grenfell Mission. If that impression is to be removed, and a truer view to prevail, it becomes the duty of those who desire to give a correct perspective of missions on the Labrador to let the American and Canadian public know what is actually being done. All these matters were ably presented by Dr. Smith, and his presentation of the position served but to fix in clearer outline what was present in the minds of many more darkly and in a more or less hazy vision. We have heard much the same views presented by other communicants whose priests and ministers have laboured long and devotedly on the Labrador, and it is but bare justice to these churches that they should defend their own and obtain a measure of justice in the public mind for what they have been doing in the past and are doing at present. But the consummation of what they wish must be largely in their own hands. Every institution, every church naturally enough, and quite properly, concentrates its attention on itself, its own objects, and its own labours, and must be left to work out their own salvation, even where the evil to be remedied is the righting of a wrong, the correction of false impression, the fair presentation of facts, and the just recognition of the labours of those who have devoted their lives for others and lived a life of solitude and unostentation to bring the services of the church to those who live on the Labrador.

Leading Society Woman
Creates a Sensation in London.
London, June 22.—A sensation has been caused in society circles in connection with a remarkable application which has been made to the courts for an injunction to prevent a woman name is not disclosed from traffic in the badges that admit to the Royal In-closure at Ascot. The handling of badges is under the management of Viscount Churchill of Wyehwood, the fee or grant resting in the King. For obvious reasons every precaution is taken to prevent unauthorized persons from obtaining admittance to the inclosure, but it was discovered recently that several official badges of admittance had been sold or transferred, the names on the badges had been erased and others had been inserted. A leading society woman is understood to be the guilty one.

Extraordinary Decision On the MORISON MEMORIALS

His Excellency Exonerates Mr. Morison, but Expresses Disapproval of Ministers Being Directors of New and Speculative Companies.

GOVERNOR'S LETTER EXONERATING MR. MORISON.

Government House,
St. John's, Nfld.,
27th June, 1912.

Sir,—I have the honour to inform you that I am now in a position to acquaint you with my decision in respect to certain charges made against you by Mr. W. F. Coaker reflecting upon certain actions of yours and protesting against your retention among my Ministers.

The fact that Mr. Coaker in his first Memorial desired that his communication should be sent to the Secretary of State made it, in my opinion, expedient that I should inform Mr. Harcourt of all the circumstances and of my views thereon before giving publicity to my decision.

As you will see by the enclosed despatch the Secretary of State is not prepared to express any opinion on matters which deal with questions primarily concerning the Government and Legislature of the Colony and with this view I concur.

It therefore remains for me to give my decision on the charges made against you which in brief is that I acquit you of all dishonour in respect to the matters laid before me and that I am still prepared to extend to you my confidence as one of my responsible advisers.

All the points are, I think, dealt with in my despatch to the Secretary of State a copy of which is attached hereto.

But although I have been able with pleasure to retain you among my Ministers and to exonerate you in respect to Mr. Coaker's charges I would not have it believed that the participation by Ministers of the Crown in large speculative undertakings within the Colony meets with my approval. I recognise considerable difficulty, and have so stated in my despatch to the Secretary of State, in Ministers preserving that aloofness which is almost invariable in England but I regard it as essential to good government that they should make every effort to do so as long as it does not directly and materially interfere with the carrying out of their ordinary professional or trade avocations.

Ministers of the Crown should in my opinion when entering office disassociate themselves as far as possible from active participation in such undertakings and that they should refrain from engaging in new ones during their term of office. The inclusion of the names of Ministers on the Directorate of or in close connection with new and speculative Companies operating in the Colony is both inexpedient and undesirable and to this principle I trust I may have your assent.

Inasmuch as Mr. Coaker's Memorials and the questions dealt with therein have obtained great local publicity, I have decided to make public the whole of the correspondence, as well as this letter to yourself, and I have no doubt that this will be in accordance with your wishes.

I have the honour to be,
Sir,
Your obedient servant,
(Sgd.) RALPH WILLIAMS,
The Honourable
Donald Morison,
E.C., E.C., &c.

GOVERNOR'S LETTER TO THE SECRETARY OF STATE.

NEWFOUNDLAND,
No. 22.

Government House,
St. John's, Nfld.,
6th May, 1912.

Sir,—I have the honour to enclose a number of papers dealing with a representation made to me by Mr. W. F.

Hay Fork Ran Through His Foot

But Able to Work the Second Day

Mr. V. Thorpe, of Saskatoon, Sask., was saved much valuable time and a great deal of suffering by Douglas' Egyptian Liniment. He says: "While having last week, a hay fork ran through my foot. I applied Douglas' Egyptian Liniment freely as soon as possible and kept a bandage wet with the liniment over the wound. On the second day I was able to work again and was surprised how quickly the wound healed."

"Last summer I suffered greatly from boils, having as many as 14 at one time. On the advice of a friend I tried your liniment. The boils disappeared as if by magic, and I have had none since. Your liniment is absolutely the finest thing of the kind I have ever used."

It is really surprising how quickly and cleanly a wound heals when it is treated with Douglas' Egyptian Liniment. Boils, pimples, ringworms, barber's itch and all skin affections of this kind disappear before it like magic, as do sprains, curbs, splints and similar troubles in horses.

Get a bottle from your druggist and keep it handy, 25c. at all dealers. Free sample on request. Douglas & Co., Napanee, Ont.

Coaker to the effect that, consequent upon certain proceedings, details of which have been sent to me and are now forwarded to you, the Honourable Donald Morison, the Minister of Justice of this Colony, should not be permitted by me to continue any longer a member of my Executive Council.

I conceive that it is, under ordinary circumstances the duty of a responsible Governor to come to a decision on a point of this kind without previously seeking the views of the Secretary of State, and I should have so acted in this case had not the last paragraph of Mr. Coaker's letter of the 30th March invoked the authority of the Secretary of State a fact which I cannot ignore. I propose, therefore, not to seek to evade my responsibilities or to shirk coming to a decision but to place before you all the facts, to give you my definite views thereon, and to inform you of the action which I propose to take subject always of course to your overruling authority.

Mr. Coaker is, as he states, President of the Fishermen's Protective Union, but I have no knowledge that he has any authority for his claim to represent them in this matter or that their views have been taken thereon, so that it must be accepted that the protest is one from Mr. Coaker personally. Mr. Coaker is also the Editor of a paper called "The Fisherman's Advocate."

The Right Honourable Lewis Harcourt, M.P., E.C., &c., &c.

Mr. Coaker has sent me two protests, the first in request to certain Labrador timber licenses, and the second (sent subsequent to an interview with me) in request to a property known as the Orange Bay property.

It is unnecessary for me to epitomise the documents, as they are simple and clear, setting forth that a certain Company known as the Anglo Development Company, of which Mr. Morison was an original incorporator obtained timber licenses in respect to an area in Labrador amounting to thirteen thousand eight hundred and fifty three square miles and that Mr. Morison was peculiarly interested therein. It is also implied that Mr. Morison improperly used his position as a member of Council to influence his colleagues in granting these licenses, or that, at best, he remained passive and failed to safeguard the interests of the Colony which was put through in the year 1911 for the purpose of enabling the Company to extend the time for survey in the licence in respect to an area in Labrador amounting to thirteen thousand eight hundred and fifty three square miles and that Mr. Morison was peculiarly interested therein. It is also implied that Mr. Morison improperly used his position as a member of Council to influence his colleagues in granting these licenses, or that, at best, he remained passive and failed to safeguard the interests of the Colony which was put through in the year 1911 for the purpose of enabling the Company to extend the time for survey in the licence in respect to an area in Labrador amounting to thirteen thousand eight hundred and fifty three square miles and that Mr. Morison was peculiarly interested therein.

It alludes to the prospectus which is a part of enclosure B2 attached to Mr. Coaker's letter to me of the 30th of March, wherein the words are used: "Besides this there seems to be reasonable assurance that the requirements for the erection of a saw mill never is enforced and would not be in this case."

You will see that I requested an explanation of this from Mr. Morison, and it is abundantly clear that firstly he did not prepare the prospectus, and that if he had he would have been simply stating the invariable procedure. The insertion in the newspapers of capital letters to the final words of the quoted paragraph is clearly meant to convey that Mr. Morison had "squared" the Crown Lands Department. This is refuted, firstly by the fact that he did not prepare the prospectus and secondly that even if he had he would only have been stating the usual practice.

T. J. EDENS.

the Crown Lands Department is quite without foundation. It does open a question as to a point which needs clearing up.

The Crown Lands Act of 1903, Section 25, sub-section (1), page 9, distinctly provides that a saw mill must be erected within a given time. So far as I am able to learn no power exists authorising the Government of the Crown Lands Department to forego this provision; and yet it is foregone repeatedly, almost universally, on the grounds that it is unworkable and would result in the practical abandonment of nearly all areas.

What the position of the Government is under such circumstances, or how far the title to the license and the rights held under it are affected by this abstention from enforcement of the requirements of the law, I am not in a position to say. It is clear that if the provision is unworkable the law should be altered on the first possible opportunity.

Passing to the question of the Orange Bay property and the advice given to Mr. Strong by Mr. Morison that "there is nothing to prevent him from getting a good deal of timber from the adjoining Crown Lands" I confess that I was somewhat staggered by this paragraph. It does most clearly advise Mr. Strong to cut trees directly contrary to law that is to say to take and use (and presumably to sell) timber belonging to the Government.

Had Mr. Morison been unable to explain this satisfactorily and had the implication of the newspaper been sustained I should, without doubt, have held him to be an unfit person to hold office amongst my Ministers. You will see that his explanation is a plain statement that he forgot the section and was under the impression that timber on adjacent Crown Lands might be cut by the neighbouring licensee but could not be purchased. That is a very simple statement and it resolves itself into a question of belief.

Is Mr. Morison to be believed, or is he not? Personally, I believe he is speaking the absolute truth and that, strange as it may seem on the part of an undeniably capable lawyer or holding high office, he did forget it. To think otherwise would not only be to brand him as a rogue but also as a fool, for to deliberately place his honor and credit in the hands of another person by advising him in writing to steal (for there would be no other word for it) the property of his neighbour would be the act of a fool. One can conceive confederates planning some such scheme in privacy and even possibly of trying to carry it out, but to suppose that a lawyer of high standing, a former Judge who resigned his seat to re-enter politics, and who is at this moment the choice of his fellow lawyers as the President of the Law Society of Newfoundland and has always led an honourable life, would deliberately connive at such a monstrous piece of fraud is to me an impossibility. I have therefore no hesitation in entirely accepting Mr. Morison's statement and in holding him blameless of dishonour in respect of this advice.

The whole matter thus resolves itself into the question of whether Mr. Morison's connection with the Company and his continuous actions in respect to it render it undesirable that he should remain a member of my Council.

I think I may take it for granted that, judged by the standard of the British Cabinet, a member so judged would feel himself called upon to resign his post and I might go even further and say that I can hardly imagine a similar case arising because the traditions and practices of the House of Commons are opposed to it, but it is widely different here and it must not be supposed that that difference springs from corruption.

Every single man in St. John's or of the Outports who can possibly take part in public life has to make his living by his profession or his trade, and over again bring him into contact with the Government and Government interests.

It therefore becomes extremely difficult for any public man connected with politics to preserve that aloofness which is so easy in England. The cases quoted by Mr. Morison show this very clearly.

The question of the development of the country is one which attracts a large number of business men and I have in my mind as I write some of our most honourable and successful merchants who, while holding their seats in the Councils of the country are largely connected with undertakings in respect to which it might be said that they could use their influence to bias the Government.

With a very thorough knowledge of the country and with I hope a fairly general understanding of the conditions of political life in Newfoundland and with, too, an intimate personal knowledge of Mr. Morison whom I believe to be a man of honour and integrity, although perhaps a little indiscreet in this instance in not more clearly dissociating himself from the active operations of his Company, I believe that I shall be doing right in retaining Mr. Morison on my Council and in continuing to extend my confidence to him and I trust that you will confirm me in this view.

One more point must be alluded to. Mr. Morison in his first letter has given reasons for Mr. Coaker's hostility to himself and to the Government to which he belongs. These statements of fact made by Mr. Morison are correct, but I have not thought it necessary to consider that aspect of the case and have accepted Mr. Coaker's protests as those which any ordinary citizen is entitled to make to the Governor of the Colony and to ask for a ruling thereon.

It will be expedient that the correspondence on this subject be made officially public and I will ask your leave to ask for a ruling thereon, a copy of this despatch and of your reply thereto.

I have, &c.

BONNE BAY, Yesterday.

The Portia arrived here from Bay of Islands last night, leaving the latter place just twenty minutes before the express bringing the Bonne Bay mails and passengers came in. Mails will not likely reach here now until next Thursday or Friday as the Home will probably get on down through the Straits to Lewisporte, while the Solway only left Coachman's Cove for here this morning. Of course forest-rite or foreknowledge to this extent is not to be expected of the Postmaster General. Meanwhile we are without our mails. What about the overland route?

TEMPLETON-LEDINGHAM.
At 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, at the Ledingham residence, Military Road, Mr. Robert Arthur Templeton, of the firm of R. A. Templeton, Water Street, was united to Miss Agnes Allen Ledingham, second daughter of the late John Ledingham, the officiating clergyman being Rev. F. S. Coffin, of St. Grace. The bride was attired in a saxe blue travelling costume with James Stott as the bridesmaid was Miss Bessie Ledingham, sister of the bride, who was gowned in grey and wore a black picture hat. Mr. K. M. Blair did the honours for the groom. The groom's present to the bride was a set of black fox furs, to the bridesmaid a handsome silver card case, to the groomsmen a set of gold cuff links, and to Miss Annie Ledingham, who played the Wedding March during the ceremony, a gold necklet with pendant set with pearls and rubies. The presents received were numerous and costly, including a handsome case of cutlery from the employees of the groom, and also a costly case of cutlery from the St. Andrew's Sunday School, in which the bride has always been a prominent worker. At 6 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Templeton motored to Holyrood, and proceeded from thence to Fulford's, Placentia, where the honeymoon will be spent. They were accompanied as far as Donovan's by some of the guests in motor cars.

Methodist Conference

AFTERNOON.
The afternoon session opened by singing Hymn 441. Prayer was offered by Rev. T. H. James and Rev. C. A. Blount.
Rev. Dr. Fenwick read the obituary notice of the late Rev. W. P. Scarth, who died last year while in attendance at Toronto University. Mr. Scarth came to Newfoundland from England, and for two years laboured in our Conference. The ex-president, Rev. A. A. Holmes, and Rev. J. T. Newman bore testimony to the sterling Christian character of our departed brother.
Hymn 606 was sung, and Rev. A. A. Holmes and Hon. H. J. B. Woods led in prayer. The order of Conference was again resumed, and Rev. A. F. Newcombe, District Secretary of the Canadian Branch of the British and Foreign Bible Society, addressed the Conference on the work of the Society. He expressed his gratitude for the generous support given him, and his appreciation of the hearty reception which was given him by the Conference. He prophesied the coming year to be the most successful year of the Bible Society in Newfoundland, because of the general interest that was manifested among the people.
Conference adjourned at 3.30 p.m. with the Benediction.

EVENING.
The Conference Missionary Meeting was held this evening in George St. Church, the President, Rev. C. Lench, in the chair. Hymn 108 was sung, and after prayer, the President introduced Rev. James Allen, M.A., Secretary of Home Missions. His subject was: "The Essential Unity of all our Connexional Work." He spoke of the Connexional Work under two heads: (1) Missionary, (2) Educational, describing clearly the two kinds of preaching, viz.: (1) Preaching to the congregation, (2) Preaching to the individual. He said there was an obligation upon every member of the congregation to serve the Head of the Church. He asked the question: "Why have a society with many officers such as we have in our missionary work?" and answered it thus: "Because the work is wide-world, and therefore the business of these men is to look beyond this Church, this Conference, and get a world-wide vision. Hence the need of organization to marshal the forces of righteousness. The Church, for 100 years, saw they could do it, if they would; now they see they can do it and they will. The problems facing the church are: The scarcity of men—100 men are needed now to fill the pulpits of Canadian Methodism. The Education part of our work deals with the growth and perfecting of Christian character, and that is the aim of all our higher institutions of learning. Young people's societies, Epworth Leagues, etc. The family is the chief field for the layman in which to build up character. The commercial life is manifesting itself, but brain is taking the place of brawn. Physical might is less dangerous than a strong cunning mind. Death comes from clutching; this is characteristic of the selfish spirit."
A solo was then sung by Mr. Ruggles, after which the President asked Mrs. (Rev. Dr.) Rogers for the resume of the work of the Woman's Missionary Society. Mrs. Rogers, who attended a Convention held at Canning, N.S., a few days ago, gave a sketch of the rise and progress of the Society in Canada, Japan, China and Newfoundland, saying that George St. Church was the birthplace of the Society in this Colony.
Hymn 728 was then sung, and the President introduced Rev. Dr. Chown, Superintendent of the Methodist Church of Canada. He confined his remarks to the work of the West, where was the greatest opportunity for missionary effort in the world, and illustrated this by references to the All-People's Mission which is doing so much for character-building in the West. He told of the victories of the Gospel among the Indians, and the uplifting influences manifest among the foreigners who had lately come as settlers in that land.
Dr. Fenwick gave a short, concise financial statement. There was an increase of $1,772 over last year, the total amount raised being $17,489.
A collection was taken. Hymn 741 was sung, and Benediction was pronounced by Rev. Dr. Chown. S. H.

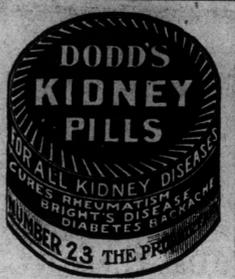

Arab Fighting Girl Inspire to Bravery
Much has been heard in London recently of the exploits in Tripoli of the Amariyehs or Menders, the young Arab girls who are fighting in the desert to stem the Italian invasion but nothing definitely has been learned of this amazon adjunct to the Turkish fighting forces until the return of a correspondent who has been with a large force of Arabs in the desert for some time. The girls are between the ages of sixteen and eighteen, and they derive their name from their duties, which are to mend the courage of the failing, to rebuke the wavering and inspire the brave. They also bring water to the thirsty in the foremost ranks of the warriors, and in performing this service many girls have lost their lives. They are the best substitutes that the Arabs have for Red Cross nurses and they bear the dead as well as the living from the battle field, another service which has taken toll in many of their lives.

King George's New Coach.
The King's new coach, a matchless piece of British workmanship, has been taken to Buckingham Palace from Barker & Co.'s, in South Audley street, Mayfair. This is no rival of the massive gilded coach, which appears on occasions of fullest state. It is lighter and less gorgeous. The body is dark in color, but the panels are made splendid by the full royal arms. A finely carved rail around the top of the coach takes the form of rose, thistle, shamrock and palm, the latter being emblematic of the empire. The same design figures upholstery of the interior. A magnificent blue and scarlet hammer cloth, with gold tassels and borders, covers the driver's seat. Every bit of the material is British except the panels of Honduras mahogany. The frame is of British ash and from first to last the coach took 12 months to build. It takes the place of the one that was burned a year ago, and will doubtless be used at the coming levee. Its builders have been coachmakers for 200 years.

POOR LOBSTER FISHERY.—Though it opened well and some good catches of large lobsters were made in the early period of the fishery, the catch in Placentia and Fortune Bays can be only regarded as a failure. For nearly 5 weeks nothing of any consequence has been done in these Bays. The Bonne Bay catch is also small owing to the presence of ice there in May and the earlier part of June.

Diocesan Synod.

June 27.—Afternoon Session.
The House was called to order at 3.45 by the Lord Bishop. After prayers 23 clergy and 19 laymen answered their names. The minutes were read by the Clerical Secretary and passed.
Canon White read the Report of Literature Committee. The circulation of the Diocesan Magazine had increased, but the financial standing was not satisfactory. Deplored the loss sustained through the deaths of Canons Dunfield and Temple, and stated that the educational chair and manager would in future be filled by Rev. C. H. Barton, M.A.
The following notices of motion were received:
Canon White.—That a committee be appointed to recommend persons to serve on the standing committees of the Synod for the next Biennial Period.
Rev. G. S. Chamberlain.—Upon to-morrow I will ask what action, if any, with reference to Church Glebe Lands in Catalina through which the Bonavista Railway passes through.
Rev. F. Smart.—Will to-morrow move for the appointment of a sub-committee of the Synod to consider and report upon that portion of the Bishop's charge relating to the impressions current in U. S. A. and Canada with reference to the Church's work upon Labrador; also Will move certain Resolutions bearing upon the H. and F. Mission Fund.
Mr. W. R. Stirling gave notice that on to-morrow he will move the adoption of the Statistical Committee's Report.
Canon Smith gave notice that on to-morrow he would ask the adoption of Report of Committee to consider the question of Securing and Training Candidates for Holy Orders.
Canon Bolt.—To ask for the adoption of (1) Report of Executive Committee; (2) Auditors Report; (3) Report of Committee on H. F. College; (4) Report of Council of Queen's College.
Hon. R. Waston's Bill to amend XXIV. Chap of Constitution and Rules was read a third time and passed.
Canon Bolt's Bill to amend Chap. VII. Constitution and Rules read a third time and passed.
Canon Smith moved and Sir W. Hor-wood seconded that the Bill to establish an Ordination Candidates Fund be read a second time.

Sir W. Horwood in a lengthy speech explained the object of the Bill, after which the second reading passed and the House went into Committee when several sections, after considerable discussion, were agreed to.
Upon motion of Canon Smith the Committee rose, reported some progress and asked leave to sit again.
Mr. Withers moved the adoption of the Report of the B. of M. Sustentation Fund and that Messrs. A. F. Goodridge and J. W. Withers be re-elected and Hon. W. C. Job be elected to fill the vacancy caused by death of late E. L. Davey; motion carried.
The Bishop requested members to speak distinctly so that everyone could hear what was being said.
The Bishop gave notice that the election of the Executive Committee would take place on Friday evening at 9 o'clock; also that on the same evening a deputation from the Lord's Day Alliance would be received.
On motion of Canon White the House rose at 5.15.
Evening Session.
The House resumed at 7.30, the Lord Bishop presiding. After prayers the Roll was called when 32 clergymen and 42 lay representatives responded.
The following Committee was appointed by the Bishop to confer with him on Religious Education in Day Schools.—Revs. Canon Colley, Canon White, G. H. Field and Messrs. A. Barnes, Crewe and W. W. Blackall, convener.
Mr. H. W. LeMessurier presented Report of Sunday School Committee. Circulars sent out to clergy with reference to Sunday School Work, very little interest has been manifested and but few responded; the Report was received.
Mr. LeMessurier presented Report of C. E. M. S. in Newfoundland, states that Bonavista and Jackson's Arm branches flourishing and the Society was taking a firm hold upon the neighbouring settlements, and much good would result if the Society would broaden its influence; Report received.
At this stage of the proceedings a deputation consisting of Revs. Dr. Newcombe, J. Thackeray and Messrs. H. J. B. Woods and E. Murray were introduced by the Rev. Canon Bolt and received by the Bishop and members of the Synod, standing.
Dr. Newcombe upon being introduced by the Bishop presented the claims of the Bible Society in an earnest and able manner. He appealed to both clergy and laity for their sympathy and support on behalf of the work of this great Society.

The Bishop thanked Dr. Newcombe for the great pleasure he gave them and the splendid address they were privileged to listen to, and assured him of the Churches sympathy and support. The deputation then retired.

The Rev. C. Ernest Smith was then asked by the Bishop to address the Synod. Upon rising the Dr. said it was a peculiar pleasure for him to stand here, very tender and sacred memories crowded around him; here at the hands of your Diocese, in this Diocese, he received the Orders of Deacon and Priest, and in this Diocese he held his first Baptism, celebrated for the first time at the Holy Table, and spent many happy years here; wherever he would go no Diocese could hold a deeper place in his heart than Newfoundland. He did not wish to say a word against anyone who was doing a good work for God, but he felt in justice to the Diocese, which he loved, that the name of Dr. Grenfell must be mentioned. In the United States Dr. Grenfell is the only Missionary, the only hero Newfoundland or Labrador had ever seen! His reason for mentioning this matter is not to condemn but to stimulate church people and especially this Synod to tell what their own missionaries had done—some of them long before Dr. Grenfell was ever thought of. As the Dr. in eloquent language asked where are the names of Archdeacon Gifford, the sainted Hutchings, T. P. Quinton, Archdeacon Botwood, who are at rest, and others who are still working. He said what have these men done who gave up their beautiful homes to face the dangers of Labrador. The Dr. gave instances where he had attended some of Dr. Grenfell's lectures when not a word had been uttered with regard to the work and labors of the sainted men referred to. He had delivered his message, let the Diocese of Newfoundland do herself justice even if she had to make it known to the ends of the earth in proclaiming that not Dr. Grenfell but the Bishop of Newfoundland and the heroic souls who have laboured in the ranks of her ministry, had preached to them, visited the sick, comforted the dying and strengthened and refreshed their souls with the Bread of Life.

The Report of the Governors of Field College was read by Mr. C. S. Pineset and received.

Canon Smith presented the Report on Education which was on motion received.

The second reading of the Ordination Candidates Fund was the next order of business. This Bill evoked considerable discussion. Sir W. Horwood, Rev. Canons Smith, Bolt, and Hollands, Prescott, Busted and Pelton, Dr. Lloyd and Mr. Blackall taking part in the debate. Upon motion the committee rose and reported progress.

Canon White will, on to-morrow, move the adoption of the Reports of the Literature Committee and the Education Committee.

Mr. LeMessurier will move the adoptions of the Reports of the C. E. M. S. and of Sunday Schools.

On motion the House adjourned and the Bishop pronounced the Benediction.

On resumption play was faster. The Collegians had the best of it. All the forward line combined well. Eventually Hutchings secured an opening and landed the ball in the net, scoring the second goal for his team. When the ball was centred again the Collegians resumed the attack, and ere long Hutchings, through clever work, notched up the third goal. Coming together again the Institute lads put new vim and determination into their work. Their forward line displayed good combination, and bringing the ball down field came within an ace of scoring. Goodland shot and the ball struck the cross bar on the goal and rebounded. The ball again struck the bar and a corner was conceded the C. E. T. but nothing followed. Soon after the College boys worked the ball west. A sort of scrimmage ensued, and Jimmie Aitken got put out of commission. On examination by a doctor his leg was found to be fractured. Mr. G. Rabbits replaced the injured player and the game continued, being evenly divided for the balance of the match, but no further scoring was done, although the C. E. I. had hard luck on one occasion. At the close the game stood—Collegians, 3 goals; C. E. I., 1.

The following was the line-up: Collegians—Butler, Ayre, Thomas, Pike, E. Barnes, H. Barnes, Hutchings, Aitken, Penny, Smallwood and Pike.

FOOTBALL.

COLLEGIANS DEFEAT C. E. I.

The Collegians and C. E. I. were the opposing teams in last evening's football match, in which the former were victorious by 3 goals to 1. The evening was an ideal one for football and a good fast game was in evidence by both teams—in fact it was the best exhibition that has been witnessed so far this season. There was a large attendance of spectators. Punctually at 7 o'clock Referee Higgins sounded the whistle and the teams came together. The Collegians won the toss and chose the western end of the field. At the kick off their forwards controlled the ball and started at a lively pace. Hutchings and Aitken of the Collegians got in some pretty work but could not get beyond Hussey, the C. E. I. back. James, the Institute right wing man, captured the leather near midfield, and dashing west made a brilliant effort to score, only missing by a slight margin. After fifteen minutes from the opening R. Stick handled the ball about 25 yards from the C. E. I. goal, and a free kick was awarded the Collegians. E. Barnes placed the ball, which, after being "cannonned" off Tommy Hallett's head, lodged in the corner of the net, and the first goal was recorded for the Collegians. On resuming the Institute lads had honors in their favor, some lively dashes were made by Bartlett and James, the College goalkeeper saving admirably. James got away and shot and, in clearing, Butler drove the ball a corner. Stick placed the ball neatly and Bartlett was not slow in notching up the equalizer. Up to half time no further scoring was done and the teams crossed with 1 goal each.

SECOND HALF.

On resumption play was faster. The Collegians had the best of it. All the forward line combined well. Eventually Hutchings secured an opening and landed the ball in the net, scoring the second goal for his team. When the ball was centred again the Collegians resumed the attack, and ere long Hutchings, through clever work, notched up the third goal. Coming together again the Institute lads put new vim and determination into their work. Their forward line displayed good combination, and bringing the ball down field came within an ace of scoring. Goodland shot and the ball struck the cross bar on the goal and rebounded. The ball again struck the bar and a corner was conceded the C. E. T. but nothing followed. Soon after the College boys worked the ball west. A sort of scrimmage ensued, and Jimmie Aitken got put out of commission. On examination by a doctor his leg was found to be fractured. Mr. G. Rabbits replaced the injured player and the game continued, being evenly divided for the balance of the match, but no further scoring was done, although the C. E. I. had hard luck on one occasion. At the close the game stood—Collegians, 3 goals; C. E. I., 1.

Can You Give a Definition of Habit,

AND DO YOU KNOW HOW MANY HABITS YOU HAVE?

BY J. R. HAMILTON.

Probably the best definition was given by a student in ten words when he said that habit is "a mental crease down which an action runs without thought."
Most people probably think they have few habits, but if you will study yourself for one day you will be fairly amazed at the number of mental creases you have, down which your actions run without thought.
You will find that you get out of bed in a certain way in the morning; that when you dress, you probably put on the same stocking first; a machine could be made to go through your actions at the breakfast table; you take a certain route down town and throughout the day your course is so nearly a matter of habit that the doing of a new thing will startle you. And this keeps up all you take to your bed at night and turn yourself in the same position on the same side.
This is not only true of our petty actions but of our major habits. Even our largest decisions are pulled out of mental pigeonholes of habit.
Not over four per cent of us actually think. We think we think, but when we stop to think we realize that we don't think—which may be an Irish bull, but is also Newfoundland fact.
Now habit is a wonderful thing if it is based first on a logical reason. To first think out a plan of action and then convert that action into a habit which works on without further thought, is a remarkable achievement to attain. Children who are taught the habit of saving never find themselves in want. It becomes easier for them to save than to spend and the mind naturally follows the easier course.
The object of this series of articles is to get into the habit of reading the advertising columns as well as the news columns of this paper every day. Once you have gotten this habit, you will lead the advertising as thoroughly as you read the news.
Reading the advertising is a good habit because advertising is far the cheapest method of selling goods of any kind, and consequently all goods that are advertised are either better in quality or lower in price.
If you will begin practicing this plan you will find that over fifty per cent of your pocketbook troubles will cease. You will start your buying actions down a mental crease and it will become second nature for you to study the advertising and to save money upon everything you buy.

Opium Traffic.

SPECIAL TO EVENING TELEGRAM.
LONDON, June 27.
The Rt. Hon. Lewis Harcourt, Secretary of State for the Colonies, deprecated any agitation for the total suppression of the opium traffic while introducing the Colonial Office estimates this evening. He said that there is grave and unobscured evidence that compulsory regulation of the opium traffic has led already to an increase in the even more deadly vices of morphine and cocaine, and until international action has been taken to check this, it will be unwise to proceed further towards the desired goal, the total cessation of the opium habit.

To Eliminate Collisions.

New York, June 21.—The McNab frigidometer, a thermometric device which rings an alarm when the temperature of water and air reaches a certain minimum, will be installed on board the Cunard liner Mauretania, when she next reaches this port. The new device has been invented since the Titanic disaster, and it is believed by the officials of the Cunard Line that it will eliminate all possibility of another such catastrophe.

Special to Evening Telegram. BALTIMORE, June 27. Bryan to-night led the Democratic Convention into a declaration of progressiveness unheard of in political Special Evening Telegram. PARIS, June 27. The French government is disturbed over the Seamen's Strike, which is causing considerable loss to French shipping. The strikers accepted a suggestion for arbitration, and the Government made another appeal to the shipowners to follow a similar course, but they declined to do so, saying it was impossible to grant higher wages.

Special Evening Telegram. CALAIS, Maine, June 27. The steamer Grand Manar, with 600 excursionists aboard, struck a dredge

The passengers were removed in boats. A misunderstanding of signals is said to have caused the accident.

Special to Evening Telegram. HAMBURG, June 27. The Zeppelin dirigible airship Victoria Louise started to-day on a ten hours' overseas trip with twelve passengers. The monster airship flew out from the city over the North Sea. It is stated in some quarters that the purpose of the trip is to demonstrate, if it should prove successful, that an airship raid on England would be possible, as the vessel's speed of 45 miles an hour gives a radius as wide as London from Hamburg, and as far as Bristol from Emden.

Human Nature.

When I am well I josh the doc, and say his pills are vain. "You have no dope," so runs my talk, "that cures an ache or pain. When I am loaded down with ills and feel extremely pun k, you give me plaster paris pills or try to heal with bink. Your boasted science is a fake and in the dark you grope; you never stopped a human ache by handing out your dope." And as I talk I really think that what I say is right, that pills are classed with writing ink when one is in a plight. For skeptic-

Tim Shannahan on Camp Life.

People who live in snug houses get tired of home comforts and make tracks for camp life as soon as the country roads get good and dusty. Camp life carries with it a hope eternal for perfect happiness which always gets side-tracked and never arrives in time to be employed. Camp life in this country is a splendid training ground to fit the young man for the later dis-appointments of life. You can wake up in camp at two o'clock in the morning by a respectable army of ants holding a labor parade over your countenance, and apart from giving your mattress companion a lash in the side nothing serious happens. Stale bread in camp is easily digested and cruddy milk is winked out of sight, whereas if your wife crowded them on the table at home there would be a case in court with all the accompanying expenses and waste of time explaining the merits of your case to a second-hand lawyer. In camp you can feel happy, if in a rainstorm only two-thirds of your carcass became submerged, while if a drop comes through the roof at three a.m. at home all hands are hauled out of bed looking for a tin can. People will suffer all kinds of excruciating tortures in camp and hold on grimly till freezing time arrives rather than give their neighbours the opportunity of saying, "I told you so." Campers never get a cold, or if they do, they'll wait till they're back in town a fortnight before they'll call the doctor.
