Obituary.

MRS. MARK CURRY.

The death occurred at the Highland View Hospital, Amherst, Monday morning, of Mrs. Mark Curry, following a critical operation. Mrs. Curry had been undergoing treatment at the Hospital for some time previous but was considered convalescent and had made every preparation to return with Mr. Curry to their pretty summer home at Hampton on Monday last. To prevent a recurrence of her illness it was finally decided to operate by surgery. The operation on Wednesday was apparently successful, but on Friday collapse set in and she only lingered until Monday.

Her death was a great shock to her widely extended circle of friends many of whom are numbered in Bridgetown where she for several years resided. The past winter it had been the intention of Mr. and Mrs. Curry to spend in Bridgetown, but the death of Mr. Curry's brother-in-law, the late N. A. Rhodes, altered their plans and instead they went to Amherst to remain with Mrs. Rhodes. They had, however, with the object of making Bridgetown their permanent home negotiated with the owner of a nice property in Bridgetown and would ultimately have secured it, continuing to spend their summers at Hampton where they have happily resided a number of years, and where their hospitable home has been an object of pride and satisfaction to the village. They with others will deeply deplore the loss of the lovely and genial personality which has thus suddenly passed from human vision, and will extend heartfelt sympathy to the devoted husband thus bereaved.

Mrs. Curry was the youngest daughter of the late Deacon Moses and Mrs. Mary Lowe, and was married to Mr. Curry about twenty-seven years ago. They have no family. Besides her husband she is survived by four brothers, J. Seaman and Arthur of Amherst, John W. of Aylesford and Clarence of Sydney. The sisters are Mrs. Chas. H. Bent, of Amherst and Mrs. George, widow of Rev. William George the well-known Baptist Missionary. Mrs. George resides in Orange, N. J.

Mr. Curry is a brother of Mr. N. Curry, President of the Canadian Car Company and has been connected with the Rhodes, Curry Company for a number of years.

MRS. BERTHA MICHIE

The death of Mrs. Michie took place yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Michie has been well and favorably known as a resident of our town for many years, where since the death of her husband she has supported herself by nursing. Her husband was a Union Soldier in the American Civil War, in behalf of whose services Mrs. Michie has drawn a pension from the U. S. government. She was a daughter of the late Benjamin Fellows of Granville. She is survived by one son Louis, with whom she resided. The funeral will take place from the house this afternoon at three o'clock.

Lecture by Mr. E. C. Young

A small but very appreciative audience enjoyed the very interesting lecture of Mr. E. C. Young delivered at the Court House on Monday evening, the subject being "Four Universal Kingdoms of the World or the fulfilment of Prophecy." The lecturer displayed a grasp of a subject of wide significance in the light of Scripture and profane history, and of recent archaeological investigation and discovery. After pointing out that the remarkable prophecy of Daniel in the interpretation of the King of Babylon's wonderful dream, was contained in just seven small verses of the book of Daniel, and that four mighty world wide empires would arise and in turn dominate the earth,—as illustrated by the great image which the Babylonish King beheld in his night vision. The lecturer went on and "graphically described the history of the world commencing six hundred years before the Christian Era down to the present time, a period of over twenty-five centuries, the rise, culmination and fall of the four world-wide empires,—proving that we are now living in the days of the ten smaller kingdoms which arose at the death of Alexander the great and prefigured by the ten toes of Nebuchadnezzar's image which he saw in his dream. The lecturer claimed that in fulfilment of the prophecy we are now in that period of the stream of time when it is due to begin the fifth universal world empire as shown by the little stone cut out of the mountain which brake in pieces the image of the dream—and which is to be an empire of peace and righteousness, which shall endure forever. As co-relative to the prophecy, attention was directed to Revelations, a sealed book to many and seldom read, containing the visions which John, the disciple saw in the Island of Patmos and which Mr. Young claimed, contained the history of the Christian world since the time of Christ, through veiled and dimly hidden in symbolology and allegorical pictures of tremendous import. To the lecturer, and those who think with him, the marshalling of the Heavenly hosts, the sound of many waters, the blast of the seven trumpets, are but chapters in the history of the Christian age, and the last and seventh trump is now sounding, ushering in amid terrible confusion, world disasters and destruction of the present world governments, another age from which sorrow and pain shall be gradually eliminated and death shall be no more.

At the close a vote of thanks was enthusiastically passed by the audience and in a few well chosen commendatory words presented to the lecturer by John Irvin, Esq., K. C. who officiated as chairman.

Missionary Lecture in St. James Church

St. James' Sunday-School room was filled on Wednesday evening to listen to the address of the returned Indian Missionary, Rev. H. A. Haslam. Mr. Haslam's experiences probably are not dissimilar to the experiences of other foreign missionaries but his tact and earnestness in representing the needs and aims of the foreign missions make a deep impression upon his listeners. His plea is not for funds,—he is satisfied that the funds will be forthcoming but the crushing sense of helplessness and inefficiency which attend the efforts of the worker struggling almost single-handed to minister not alone to the spiritual but also to the physical needs of thousands of men, women and children suffering for the help that Christianity alone can give is vividly impressed upon his hearers. Mr. Haslam had with him a collection of curios which proved very interesting.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Dear "Monitor,"—

The subject of Manual Training in our School to which you referred last week has been a good deal in my thoughts of late.

As you are aware, the matter has been before a public meeting of our citizens on two occasions since the erection of our present school house and has on both occasions been voted down. I am convinced that this was a mistake. There was a time when boys could be apprenticed to the workmen of different trades, and in early manhood they were ready to engage in business on their own account. Such is not the case today, at least not to the same extent as formerly. The consequence is that many boys grow to maturity without any trade and are forced to take any position which offers, however unrequited they may be for it. To such boys the manual training department is of great advantage, and to others who may not enter upon employment demanding manual skill the department referred to furnishes profitable and pleasant entertainment for the surplus energy of youth, and gives experience which often proves very valuable in the home as well as elsewhere.

It is not probable that we could at the present time introduce manual training in our school as economically as when the matter was last brought before our citizens for decision. However, if there should be any expression of general desire to remedy the error of the past and make this addition to our present school work, the members of the School Board will I am sure, do all they can to meet the necessities of the case.

Yours truly,
J. B. JOSE.

Bridgetown, N. S.,

To Editor of Monitor.

In a late issue of your paper which reaches me regularly, weekly, and which is a most welcome visitor, I notice a very timely article on Manual Training, or rather, a reported interview with Prof. W. S. Tucker on this very interesting and important subject.

As a former resident of the community and being ever-interested in its welfare, it is pleasant indeed for me to see the very commendable efforts which have been put forth time to time by the Monitor-Sentinel on behalf of the establishment of such a department in connexion with the public school system of the town.

It is to be desired that such efforts and others may continue until the proposition takes some definite shape and results accrue.

The time is happily past when it became necessary to defend Manual Training as an educational medium, for the highest authorities on educational means and methods readily admit it.

What I desire to impress upon those interested in the establishment of such a department is that it also has a practical or utilitarian side which must not be overlooked nor lost sight of in this a practical age.

The best course in Manual Training must consider not only the training of hand and eye, but should be a course which touches the life of the child in his work and play both in the school and at home. It should act as a medium in joining one subject on the curriculum with another as well as show the child the relationship between the regular school subjects and his possible work in the future.

It should be a course which deals with those elementary industrial processes which have a place in our present industrial life, have had a place in the past and probably will have in the future. Such a course would also be practical from the standpoint of educational theory, because it would allow and demand a correlation of geography, history, language, reading and arithmetic.

It would be practical from the standpoint of the community because it would teach the elements of the occupations followed by members of the community.

Such work should and would command the interest of the student and results worthy of the effort put forth should and would be secured. Self-reliance and individuality are developed and it is by such results that practical and educational Manual Training may and should be tested.

HENSHAW—LECAIN.

The marriage took place at the home of the bride on the evening of the 16th inst., at eight o'clock, of Mr. Willard Warren Henshaw, of Deep Brook, to Miss Emma Pearl LeCain, of Clementsport. The groom is a son of Mrs. Eliza Henshaw and the bride a daughter of Capt. Colin LeCain. The bride and groom took their places under a beautiful arch of evergreen and roses, where the ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. H. McNeil, pastor of the Methodist church. The bride, who was given away by her father, looked very lovely, gowned in white silk, with bridal veil and carrying a bouquet of roses. The Wedding March was played by Miss Bessie Durland. The presents were numerous and valuable, consisting of a parlor suite and bedroom suite from her father, a china tea set, table linen, and set of silver from her mother, a handsome table and substantial cheque from her brothers, Fred and Leonard, with numerous valuable presents from the invited guests. About sixty guests partook of a sumptuous supper, after which a social time was spent. Then the bride and groom left for their home at Deep Brook where they will in future reside. The bride wore a becoming going-away gown of Alice blue, with hat harmonizing with her costume. Both Mr. and Mrs. Henshaw are very popular and their many friends extend best wishes for a happy married life.

GILLIS—SWIFT.

The wedding of Miss Vesta Swift and Mr. Willis Gillis, of Dalhousie West, took place on Wednesday last, at the home of Mrs. Riley Brooks, of Centrelea, at three o'clock p. m. The parlor was beautifully decorated with ferns and evergreen. The Rev. N. A. MacNeil conducted the wedding services. The bride was tastefully dressed in white, and carried a bunch of pink carnations. After the ceremony, accompanied by several of their Bridgetown friends, they drove to Dalhousie, where they will make their home with the bride's mother during the summer. Many valuable presents were received, thus showing the high esteem in which both bride and groom were held in their community.

Sealers to Start For the Ice

ST. JOHN'S Nfld., March 11—With 3500 men aboard the seal fishing fleet of eighteen steamers will start tomorrow on its annual cruise to the sealing grounds. The date is two days later than last year and was fixed by an agreement entered into by all ship owners involved because of the unusual number of immature seals killed last year it was deemed advisable to set back the date for the sailing of the 18 ships, 14 of which will operate off the Labrador coast. The remaining four will work in the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

ENGLAND WOULD GIVE TARIFF PREFERENCE

To the United States, is the Opinion of Harry J. Crowe, in Event of United States Giving Tariff Preference to Canada's Products.

Harry J. Crowe, who sold Lord Northcliffe that patch of Newfoundland measuring 3,500 square miles, says the New York Sun, was in New York yesterday on his way to London and talked with a Sun reporter about commercial relations between Canada and the United States.

Mr. Crowe believes that Great Britain is headed toward tariff reform, which, translated into American means protective tariff, with, however, a provision in the programme which is to give tariff preference to British colonies. This he points out would be to the disadvantage, commercially, of the United States, but, and this is the great essential of his point, if in the event of the success of the British tariff reform programme the United States will give tariff preferences to the products of Canada's natural resources, England will then include in its programme compensating tariff preferences for manufactures of the United States.

"I noticed," said Mr. Crowe, "that the Sun made clear to its readers during the recent British election campaign that certain opposition exists in Great Britain to the tariff reform programme wherein it was proposed to give tariff preferences exclusively to its colonies, fearing the cost of living would be increased thereby. This impression in the minds of British free traders would, I believe, be overcome if the United States entered the British markets on an equal footing with the colonists. The colonies' objections to this competition from the United States could be met by your Government granting free admission to the colonies of some of their natural resources products, such as the products of the forests, the sea and of the mines.

"Canada would be the colony most affected by the United States receiving an equal preference with the colonies in Great Britain, but owing to Canada's geographical position and the fact that she possesses an abundance of the natural resources I have indicated, she would naturally receive the greatest benefit by the free admission of such natural products into the United States.

"Owing to the rapid depletion in the United States of such resources and the importance of conserving them it seems to me that the United States would be making no sacrifice in granting these concessions to the colonies without demanding any return concessions in their tariff. The users of such raw material in your Eastern States, at least, would, I should think, appreciate having free bituminous coal and iron ore from the maritime provinces. Such a programme would of course greatly increase trade between the United States and Canada, but the greatest commercial gain to the United States would be in your having a preference in the large markets of Great Britain.

"I believe Canada and the mother country would consider a commercial union or preference of the character I have indicated to be in the interests of all the countries concerned. If the British tariff reform programme as already outlined were adopted, that is, preference for preference within the empire, the United States will not be in as good a position to hold her present trade with Great Britain and her colonies as she is today. But on the other hand her position would be improved if such reciprocal preference as I have indicated should come about between Great Britain, the United States and Canada.

"It is worth the attention of your statesmen, it seems to me, to take thoughtful note of what is going on and of industrial tendencies in Canada. The present construction of trans-continental railways there, increased manufacturing and the large agricultural and mineral development taking place in Canada will inevitably gain a great impetus by Canada having a preference in Great Britain, the greatest consuming market in the world. In that event, I believe the tide of immigration would be so turned in favor of Canada that in a comparatively short time she would likely become a formidable competitor of the United States in British markets."

Mr. Crowe also had some views to express on the Far Eastern question. "The Eastern countries," he said, "are, as one of your great bankers recently pointed out, becoming more and more a menace to the United States, and the day is approaching when it will be impossible for your country to compete with countries like Japan, where skilled labor can be hired for less than $1 a day, and where almost everything under the sun can be produced. Unless your country has some preferential tariff arrangements the only way our manufacturers can meet this competition of the Far East—meet it in other markets, I mean, is to reduce wages and the standard of living to Asiatic levels. The United States may protect her own market with a high tariff, but she must find an outlet in other markets for her steadily increasing surplus of manufactured goods.

"Why, then, is it not to your interest to insure a free outlet for your manufactured goods by making a free inlet for the raw material, that is, the natural resources of Canada? This would be a step toward the consolidating of the English speaking race, which would mean the balance of power and the future peace of the world."

MALVINA'S SEAL COAT

She had always planned some day to have one. The dreams of her life were not many but that had been one of them. When her hat was too far behind the style and her elbows out she had comforted herself with the thought that one day she would have shivering shoulders luxuriously covered. She had even saved for it as she could; but when one earns very little and must spend a great deal what one saves is trifling indeed.

In her lifetime Malvina had seen but two seal coats. One had been upon the back of a decrepit old woman and one had enhanced the beauty of a sparkling girl. Whenever she dreamed of wearing one herself she always saw herself looking as the girl had looked never as the old woman. It would come, she believed, before she was old. Yet the years went and she still worked and the coat was seemingly no nearer her reach than it had been.

Just then she received her legacy. It came from a relative who had made it by selling eggs and butter and poultry. He had earned without enjoying and he had passed on his savings to her, hoping that she might get some good from them, since he knew her great need. Malvina was all but overcome that day when she came finally to realize that $4,000 in money was hers to do with as she pleased, and hers without a single effort on her part. Four thousand dollars! It seemed a fortune to her. She looked at the four bank certificates bearing interest in an amazed endeavor to comprehend that those four slips of crackling bluish paper represented actual wealth. Suddenly as she looked it flashed over her that now—she could make her dream come true: her dream of almost forty years and buy for herself a sealskin coat.

Immediately she was in a great state of excitement. Color came to her pale cheeks and light to her tired eyes. It was as if a fresh current of vitality had been set stirring within her, enlivening her worn body and renewing it to youth. In that moment of discovery and revelation Malvina lost years—empty years of struggle and hard work and straight self-denial. Thus Mrs. Sears found her and he held her in astonishment.

"I'm so glad for you," she said when Malvina had stammered forth the blessed news. "No one ever deserved good fortune more than you. I suppose now that you will be buying that sealskin coat you have always wanted."

Mrs. Sears knew Malvina's ambition and being a rich and large-minded woman, saw nothing absurd in it.

"You couldn't do a more sensible thing with your money, she continued, laying her comfortable hand upon Malvina's thin shoulder. "It will keep you warm and it will satisfy your love of the beautiful. It isn't given to all of us my dear, to have our dream realized in so simple and material a way. You will take solid comfort

Fawcett says: "I had a very severe attack of La Grippe which left me very weak, spiritless and run down. I seemed to have lost all ambition. At this point I realized that my condition was likely to become more serious unless I took myself in hand. One day while in this 'Half dead and alive condition' I was listlessly looking over recent files of my paper, The Durk's Falls Arrow (of which I am Editor and Manager), when my eyes rested on an advertisement of PSYCHINE. This clearly and explicitly set forth a case so exactly resembling my own that I at once purchased a bottle at the Medical Hall. After taking two or three doses I felt like a new man, and before half the second bottle had been used, every trace of the bad effects of La Grippe had left me. PSYCHINE is a marvel and I have strongly recommended it to some of my friends similarly afflicted and they have used it with equally beneficent results."

with you, when you have it. By the way, I'm going to New York tomorrow and if you'd like to go with me I'll take you to one of the big shops and help you pick it out."

"Oh, will you?" Malvina asked, eagerly gazing into the kindly face. "Will you, Mrs. Sears?"

"I will indeed."

"But I shall go looking so shabby that you'll be ashamed of me—"

"You'll be wearing your seal coat back you know," smiled Mrs. Sears, reassuringly.

So it was arranged. Next morning Malvina went to the bank and drew the money and interest on one of her certificates of deposit, and at noon that day, wearing her home-made coat suit and little russet velvet toque, she set forth for the city in Mrs. Sears' company.

Malvina had never been to any city in her life. Red Fork, where she had been born and had lived her life, was the largest place she had ever seen. New York was a revelation to her.

When the car they had taken at the ferry dumped them down upon Broadway thoroughfare, panic ceased her way, in the very heart of that bustling whizzing taxicabs, the crowds oblivious of all save individual interests, the trolleys buzzing tirelessly up and down assailed her timid soul with madness. She would not have ventured alone in the street for all her legacy and the seal coat thrown in Mrs. Sears' company.

"Use your good sense, my dear," she said. "I've been here a hundred times and I'm alive yet. You'll like it as soon as you get used to it. Don't be afraid. Just trust me, and I'll take care of you—"

Malvina, with a kind of blind faith, trusted. But she trembled as Mrs. Sears led her out into the very midst of that mad maze, where presently an obliging car took them up and carried them to their hotel. Mrs. Sears called Malvina's attention to points of interest as they passed them, knowing that only in that way could she conquer the little seamstress' wild apprehension and fear. By the time they reached the hotel Malvina was calmer but the scared look did not leave her face even after she had bathed and eaten and rested a little. That evening Mrs. Sears took her to the theatre and next morning she took her to a furrier.

Malvina had not slept much, and in consequence, was not very clear-headed to make a fresh entry into the confusion of the great city. Dazzled and bewildered after a breathless flight in an elevator she found herself in a great place, lined with mirrors and glass cases containing more fur garments than she had ever dreamed existed in the whole world at one time.

"A real seal coat," the saleswoman repeated, after a curious glance at the woman who so evidently had means, and her companion who so evidently had none. She brought out an exquisite garment and approached Mrs. Sears, who made gesture toward Malvina. "For her."

"Oh," said the saleswoman, "of course. You will try it on? Allow me." Malvina, scarlet cheeked, bridled-eyed, removed her ill-shaped coat and donned the seal garment. The great mirror opposite gave back her reflection—a slim figure wrapped luxuriously in the wonderful fur and topped by the little toque which seemed somehow in juxtaposition to have acquired an air of style. She held her breath. Mrs. Sears spoke.

"Of course, you'll see others. But this, Malvina, is my idea."

Malvina could not speak. She bit her lips and forced back the tears. She was deliciously happy, Mrs. Sears stroked her rich sleeve.

"It is beautiful," she said, with the discriminating sense of experience with the fine things of life. "And the price?"

"One thousand dollars."

Malvina never stirred a lash. When one buys a dream one must expect to pay a good price for it and she knew it.

She was shown other coats, but she was true to her first love. She paid her money like a princess and walked out of the famous store at Mrs. Sears' side coated like one. In the street and at the hotel and during the homeward journey that afternoon people stared at the common-place little figure in the splendid coat, and marvelled that such a garment should be combined with a skirt so shabby and headgear of such questionable style. But Malvina did not heed. She was inexpressibly happy. She had never thought she could be so happy. That night she slept soundly in her own bed and woke in the morning to a new sense of her possession. Mrs. Sears came in to see her and inquire how she had rested and to look at the coat again.

"It looks better here than there," she said admiringly. "I wouldn't mind having it myself."

"It wouldn't be so wild and extravagant for you as it is for me," Malvina said shyly.

"It is never extravagant to realize at any price the ambition of a lifetime," Mrs. Sears answered firmly.

The sensation of Malvina's doings and the fame of her coat spread like wildfire. She was stared at in the street and in church. People chattered about her and her purchase for hours. Malvina had bought her coat that she might wear it, and she did so whenever she appeared abroad. She left no vanity, only an exceeding sense of comfort and security against the cold. For the first time in her life she knew what it was to go out in inclement weather appropriately clad.

Yet, gradually, it dawned upon her as she wore it that she had never before noticed so many people that looked blue with cold, that shivered when the wind blew and were all too scantily coated. When she herself had been even as they she had believed it the normal condition of the poor and had given it no heed. But now she saw every unprotected chest, every exposed throat, every ill-clad back. A great pity seized her. Red Fork was as warmly wrapped as she. She felt too comfortable in her handsome coat. When she wore it out and a poorly dressed little girl or woman stared at her she felt wickedly unpleasant. She could not meet their eyes, and went with her own down. She felt like opening her arms and taking the shivering, unprotected creature to her own warm bosom.

A weight almost like that of sin began to hang upon Malvina. At night, in her bed, when she should have been sleeping after her long day at the needle, she tossed and turned restlessly. And all day she struggled with her conscience. She hated to hear it said: "How nice you look in your new coat!" Presently she dreaded to don the coat because of the feeling it aroused within her. When she took it off and hung it away she would not look at it until the time came to put it on again. She avoided clean shop windows because they gave back too truthful a reflection of herself.

"What's the matter with Malvina?" one asked another. "She has looked almost ill ever since she came back from the city with that new coat."

"Repeating her extravagance probably," was the invariable reply.

But Malvina did not repeat her extravagance. It was the thought of her selfishness that made her suffer. One day she went to Mrs. Sears.

"I have come," she said simply, "to sell you my seal coat."

"What! Are you sick of it?" asked Mrs. Sears in astonishment.

"No," Malvina said earnestly. "I'm not sick of it. And I can afford to have it just as well as I ever could but my conscience won't let me keep it. I can't see other people freezing while I'm keeping warm with a thousand dollars on my back. I can't! I can't! It's just killing me." She broke down and sobbed.

Mrs. Sears said nothing. She was a discerning woman and she knew Malvina.

"Well," she said, at last. "I'll take the coat, but you must let me pay you what I think is right for it, Malvina."

So she took the coat and paid Malvina a thousand dollars in crisp new bills, which Malvina gave one by one to charity as she saw need. And Malvina put on her old brown coat with her sweater under it, and rolled up her collar and sunk her hands in the unfashionable sleeves and was happy again. For the burden was lifted from her soul.

"A Kingly Gift"

EARL GREY'S APPEAL

On behalf of Needy Consumptives
Strong words of Canada's Governor-General

At the official opening of the King Edward Sanatorium for Consumptives, near Toronto, His Excellency delivered an address that must have an important bearing on the future of the sanatorium movement in Canada. We quote:—

"The proceedings this afternoon commenced with a beautiful and reverent prayer from your old friend, Dr. Potts. He prayed that the light of the Lord might shine upon us. That prayer is abundantly answered. He also prayed that the White Plague might be removed. Well, whether that prayer will be answered or not depends upon yourselves."

"Is it not a standing shame and reproach to the governments and individuals that there is not more care taken by the people of Canada to protect themselves against the curse of consumption?"

On his way out to the King Edward Sanatorium,—so named by permission of His Majesty King Edward VII—the Governor-General's car was stopped in its progress outside the Canada Cycle & Motor Co. by a large crowd of its employees. A contribution of one hundred dollars was handed the Governor-General, a donation to the Toronto Free Hospital for Consumptives.

"'Twas a kingly gift" said His Excellency in making acknowledgment. "I will tell the King."

Addressing the large audience that attended these opening exercises, referring to this event, Earl Grey said:

"Ladies and gentlemen, when the workingmen of Canada are setting an example of this character, I hope you will not be slow to follow, and I trust that the example of the Canada Cycle & Motor Co. may be followed, as I am sure it will, in every factory and manufacturing industry throughout the land."

We carry these words to the people of Canada in our appeal to-day on behalf of the

Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives

An institution that has never refused a single applicant admission, because of his or her inability to pay.

Seventy-five patients can be cared for to-day. Accommodation could be provided for three hundred if the required money were forthcoming.

To make this possible, our appeal is for $50,000, to be used in extension of buildings and maintenance of patients.

Where will your money do more good?
Every community and every individual is interested.

His Excellency Earl Grey has shown his interest and sympathy in the work at Muskoka for needy consumptives, by accepting the position of Honorary President of the National Sanitarium Association.

Contributions may be sent to Sir Wm. R. Meredith, Kt., Chief Justice, Osgoode Hall, Toronto; W. J. Gage, Esq., 84 Spadina Ave., or J. S. Robertson, Sec'y-Treas., National Sanitarium Association, 347 King Street West, Toronto, Canada.

When "Work" Becomes "Labor"

There's something wrong, Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills will right it.

When it seems as if you simply could not bear up any longer it is high time to look for the cause of the trouble—and the remedy. In an astonishingly large number of cases the real cause of woman's misery is found to be constipation, and the remedy that always cures is Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

Neglect of the daily movement of the bowels, so necessary to health, soon poisons the whole system from the impurities retained in the body. Headaches, indigestion, biliousness and lassitude follow, and often more serious female disorders are brought on or aggravated.

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills not only regulate the bowels, but they stimulate kidneys and skin as well to throw off waste matter and purify the blood. The result is quickly apparent in the disappearance of the headaches and biliousness, and the return of health and vigor. Thousands of women all over the world owe their present good health to Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

Made by W. H. Comstock Co., Ltd., Brockville, Ont., and sold by all dealers at 25c a box.

THE CURING OF WILLIAM HICKS.

Bill Hicks had asthma—shook the floors

With each recurring paroxysm; The doctors made him live outdoors. And that gave him the rheumatism. The doctors cured his rheumatism: Of that there never was a question. Strong acids stopped those pains of his. But left him ill of indigestion. Dyspepsia fed before a course Of eating grain. It should delight us To cheer this plan till we were hoarse But Hicks then had appendicitis. He rallied from the surgeon's knife. And lay six weeks without a quiver. The operation saved his life— The loafing tho'—knooked out his liver. To cure his liver trouble he Tried muscle stunts—you know how they go. From liver ills he then was free. But all the strains gave him lumbaro. Lumbaro is a painful thing: A massage with a visare solemn Rubbed the lumbaro out by sprinz But twisted poor Bill's spinal column.

To rid his backbone of the twist They used some braces. They were careless; The padding for his head they missed This made him straight, and left him hairless. Drugs were prescribed to grow his hair. They acted just as represented. They put his scalp in good repair. But soaked in and left Hicks de-mented. Then to a sanatorium They took Bill. He was wisely treated: His brain with health began to hum— Then asthma!—ward was poorly heated. "More open air," the doctors said. Bill Hicks cried: "No, you shall not lure me. I'll stay in peace upon my bed. And shoot the man that tries to cure me!"

Nervous Prostration For Three Years

"Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine cured me of a period of nervous prostration of over three years duration, and the Anti-Pain Pills are as necessary to us as the roof of our house. They have been household remedies with us for many years."

WM. J. LOUGHRAN, 1214 Catherine St., Philadelphia, Penna.

"Much sickness is due to nervous troubles. Headache, dizziness, epilepsy and insanity are nervous troubles. Then there is a large class of disorders which arise from a weakness of the nerves of an organ or part, as weak lungs, heart, stomach, kidney, bladder, eyes, etc. Dyspepsia and indigestion are usually the result of nervous disorders.

Restorative Nervine soothes the irritated nerves, and assists the nerve cells to generate nerve force. Price $1.00 at your druggist. He should supply you. If he does not, send price to us, we forward prepaid. DR. MILES MEDICAL CO., Toronto.

Herbert W. Read Turns Up in Buenos Ayres

New Brunswick Young Man, Who Mysteriously Disappeared, is Safe.

Montreal, March 14—Herbert Read, the lost son of H. C. Read of Sackville, N. B., who disappeared from this city on the third of last November has been heard from in Buenos Ayres, South America. While at the Queen's Hotel this evening having just arrived from Ottawa, Mr. Read, Sr. was delighted to receive by wire from another son residing in Sackville, saying that he had just received a letter from the missing brother and that he was well.

Further the son did not say but the father's delight can be easily imagined and he will leave for home tomorrow with a lighter heart than at any time since the boy disappeared.

Herbert W. Read called at the office of Harry Bates, Nov. 3rd, in this city who was a friend of young Read, saying that he was going to take the I. C.R. for Bathurst, and from that moment no word was ever heard.

The father has been coming to Montreal from time to time and hoping again that a clue might turn up, but all in vain. In fact Mr. Read told your correspondent a few weeks ago that he never expected to see his son alive, and that he had certainly met with foul play.

(A later despatch was received by the young man's father stating that he was coming home.)

STOMACH COMFORT.

When the Stomach Rebels, Healache, Indigestion and Nerve Pain Follow—Mi-o-na Brings Relief.

Just as soon as you are done eating the healthy stomach commences to churn the food around and mixes it thoroughly with the juices of the stomach.

If the food is not churned it laves heavily on your stomach, turns sour and causes all kinds of distressing symptoms, such as headache, indigestion, stomach pain and dyspepsia. Mi-o-na helps the stomach to properly mix the food.

John S. May, of Isabella St., Belleville, Ont., says: "For over seven months I was in constant agony with a case of nervous dyspepsia and indigestion that medical skill could not relieve. I was weak and had lost much weight through loss of appetite and suffering. My meals would fill me with gas and a feeling of oppression across the stomach and all up the left side, left me in a miserable condition. I was restless at night and as tired and unrefreshed in the morning as on going to bed. A choking sensation in my throat was always constant when lying down, and my heart seemed to flutter and pound as though it were coming out through my side. I was benefited from the first two days' use of Mi-o-na. I began to feel like myself again, my appetite returned and the depressive feeling left me. I can enjoy my meals without the least worry of after suffering. I have gained in weight and can sleep the night through in comfort.

Get to S. N. Weare, the druggist, and get a 50-cent box of Mi-o-na Tablets. Money back if Mi-o-na does not cure.

LITTLE GIRL IS MISSING. HER FATE UNKNOWN.

She is Supposed to Have Been Carried Off by Wild Animals, or Dropped in the Sea.

Bape St. Lawrence, N.S., March 14—A little girl aged seven years strayed away from her home at Cape St. Lawrence Lighthouse, about ten o'clock last Thursday morning and has not since been seen.

Searching parties have been out, but up to the present no trace of her has been found. It is now supposed that she either went over the cliff which is very precipitous at that locality and fell into the sea, or was carried off by wild animals.

She is the daughter of Daniel Fraser of Inverness town. Her mother died last summer and the child was adopted by Mrs. Chas. Jamieson of Cape St. Lawrence.

Are you frequently hoarse? Do you have that annoying tickling in your throat? Does your cough annoy you at night, and do you raise mucus in the morning? Do you want relief? If so, take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and you will be pleased. Sold by all dealers.

RACETRACK GAMBLING

Racetrack gambling has been proved a vice and a curse, proved too often in the wrecked homes and wasted lives it leaves behind. The vicious handbook business is spreading into shops and factories, and has its victims among both men and women. Every day's reports tell of crimes traceable to the gambling vice, and every newspaper editor knows of reports unpublished for the sake of friends. To trifle with this question is treason to what is most worth while in Canadian life.

UP TO THE MINUTE MODES.

A New Tip From a Fashionable Dressmaker—Debutantes Wear Brocades. Here is a brand new tip. It comes from a fashionable dressmaker who knows. The revers is about to return and will form a distinctive feature of many of the smartest dresses next spring. It is not the stiff, uncompromising revers of other days, but is made up with little stiffening. Brocaded satin, once a fabric for matrons, is now included in the debutante's wardrobe. Princess dresses made with jersey tops, to which skirts are attached, are very attractive for small girls. The frock illustrated can be made simple or elaborate, as suits the occasion. The design is just as appropriate for GIRL'S PRINCESS DRESS. linen and other wash materials. The skirt is straight and plaited, and the jersey portion is fitted by means of seams that extend to the shoulders. JUDIC CHOLLET.

This May Manton pattern is cut in sizes for girls of two, four, six and eight years of age. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number, 654, and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage, which insures more prompt delivery.

FRIBBLES OF FASHION.

A Cold Weather Blouse—Corduroy Popular For Girls' Costumes.

Here is a good flannel blouse for the girl who suffers with the cold. It is of fine flannel in gray and black stripes and fastens down the front with silver buttons. With it are worn a turnover collar of white embroidery and a broad black velvet bow held in place with a long bar pin.

For girls of fourteen and sixteen corduroy is popular as a dress and coat material. Scarlet and blue serge dresses made in Russian style and trimmed with tiny gilt buttons are smart.

Combinations of materials are much in vogue this season, and crepe de chine and satin are singularly effective used together. The gown in the cut

OF CREPE DE CHINE AND SATIN. shows this combination, with the chemise of dewdrop net and trimmings of applique and ball fringe. The skirt is made with a slightly full upper portion and a circular dounce that is joined beneath the tuck so that it gives an overskirt effect. The bodice is draped becomingly and includes the short sleeves that are the latest decree of fashion. JUDIC CHOLLET.

These May Manton patterns come for the waist, No. 603, in sizes from 22 to 42 inches bust measure and the skirt, No. 627, from 22 to 30 inches waist measure. Send 10 cents each for these patterns to this office, giving numbers, and they will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage, which insures more prompt delivery.

Quantities Used in Making Platings. Separate Waists Still Favored.

Now that reverses of ribbon and other fabrics are used so much on hats the following table of approximate quantities required for plating may be a guide for amateur sewers. Single plating requires from three to four times the necessary length, single box plating takes five to six times this amount, triple box plating six to seven times, fourfold or rose plating seven to eight times.

Judging from the variety and the number of separate waists in attractive styles seen in the shops, I fancy the one piece gown hasn't a monopoly in the wardrobe of the well dressed woman this year.

Probably the most popular jacket of the moment is the one sided affair. It OVERBLOUSE WITH GUMPE. fills the open space above the spot where the average coat is closed, yet it is not fussy. Some lovely oxidized gold, silver and pewter embroideries are available. The overblouse is one of the developments of the late season, and it is being used in a number of ways. The one illustrated shows it at its best. It is made of thin silk, with trimming bands and applique, and is worn over a gumpe of tacked net. The gumpe is a plain one with front and back portions, and it can be made with or without the long sleeves. The cap sleeves are made in one with the overblouse. JUDIC CHOLLET.

This May Manton pattern is cut in sizes from 22 to 42 inches bust measure. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number, blouse 655, and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage, which insures more prompt delivery.

Long Net Veils the Vogue—Eccentric Pockets.

Closely following the vogue for long chiffon scarfs comes the long net veil which is tied at the back, the long ends falling to the waist. In the plain chiffon veiling the pastel shades are favored.

PURITY FLOUR

And Its Keeping Qualities

SOME people find it necessary to buy a considerable quantity of flour at one time—sufficient to last for a long period. Naturally they are anxious, to procure a flour of the kind best adapted to lengthy storage.

There are two important reasons why PURITY FLOUR possesses these qualities. One is that it is made entirely from Manitoba Hard Wheat. The other lies in the fact that the careful milling necessary to produce "Purity" absolutely excludes all low-grade particles of the wheat berry. It's the high grade Manitoba Hard Wheat Flour that keeps—stands longest storage. That's "Purity."

"Purity" flour may cost a little more, but is more than worth the difference. Try it. Watch results both for quality and yield.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 23 1910.

Friendly negotiations are now being carried on between President Taft and Hon. W. S. Fielding with a view to a preferential tariff which will be to the mutual advantage of the United States and Canada. The maximum rates of the Payne-Aldrich tariff law which will go into effect within a few days if applied to Canada's products would precipitate a tariff war between the two nations. It is hoped that by conciliatory measures on the part of the Dominion government an amicable arrangement can be reached.

The people of the United States and of New England in particular are coming to realize as never before how closely bound up are the interests of the two countries—that restriction of trade which would shut out the raw products of Canada on which American manufacturers are so dependent would be without compensating benefits. Canada would retaliate by placing a maximum tariff upon the imports from the United States which would again react upon the manufacturers of that country. President Taft is fully impressed with the importance of friendly trade relations between the two countries and is most desirous of averting a tariff war. He is quoted as saying, "With 3,000 miles of border between us, we must study conditions to prevent conflict, trade or otherwise, and we must be as good friends as possible for the mutual benefit of both. It is to our great advantage to be just to Canada, and it is to Canada's great advantage to be just to us."

On the first page of this issue of the Monitor-Sentinel will be found an interview with Mr. Harry J. Crowe published in a late issue of the New York Sun in which he advocates a reciprocal preference between the United States and Canada and Great Britain. Mr. Crowe is a strong advocate of an alliance of the great English-speaking nations, and believes the time is not far distant when this important event may be consummated.

THE STORE NEWS.

Every store in the town is important to you; but you haven't the time to visit everyone of them every day. Nor can you depend upon your friends to give you the news about them. But the progressive merchants make that unnecessary for you. They collect and present to you in convenient form the store facts, the store news. They do for you, essentially, what the editorial end of a newspaper does for you in the matter of keeping you posted about the world's events.

San Francisco Terrorized by Another Earthquake
WORST SINCE BIG DISASTER—PEOPLE IN TERROR

SAN FRANCISCO March 11.—At three minutes before 11 o'clock last night the rebuilt city of San Francisco quivered in the mighty hand of an other earthquake.

For six seconds the great city seemed to undulate like a huge ship upon a sleepy sea, while its inhabitants, horror-stricken, rushed forth into the open.

Other gentle touches of an earthquake has been felt by the city since that awful night four years ago, when the metropolis of the western sea was overthrown like a house of cards to become a prey of the flames.

RUN FOR THE OPEN.

Last night men and women who have built their faith strongest on the new city and who have scoffed loudest at the idea of a second devastation in a thousand years, rushed forth to the parks and are crouched beneath the trees now shivering in their night clothes, afraid to venture forth again between the high walls of stone and brick.

Once they saw walls as huge come toppling down, burying beneath friends and relatives. They do not wish to see such sights again and they wait in the open for the coming of the dawn to bring them courage.

The shock of last night lasted just six seconds, and that no great damage was done is due probably to the fact that most of the new city is of steel construction. A lesser tremor than that felt just as last night's theatres were closing would have wrecked some of the old buildings.

$1,000 to Buy Farm for Mission Homes

ANnapolis Royal, March 10.—A letter received in Annapolis this week from Miss Close, of London, England, states that she has received a gift of considerably over a thousand pounds with which to buy a farm in this province for the establishment of one of her mission homes. The idea is, if possible, to buy several farms, and bring out children from the overcrowded parts of England, place them on these farms, which are in charge of a matron, and bring them up to be good useful citizens of Canada. Miss Close established a similar farm in New Brunswick, and the result has been very gratifying. Miss Close, who is seeking the financial assistance and approval of the imperial government, will arrive in Annapolis in April.

SPRING SKIN TROUBLES
Pimples, Eruption and "Spotty Complexions"

At this season, scores of people—girls and young women especially—find their faces disfigured by pimples, dark spots, eruptions, etc. The skin needs attention—needs renovating after the trying time it has passed through during the winter.

Just think what it has gone through! You have been out in rain and sleet and snow. You have been at one moment perspiring from skating or some other exertion. Then you have stood to "cool off." You have spent hours of the day indoors at a temperature equal to summer heat. Then you have covered up your skin—except your face—and gone out into a temperature away below zero! No wonder that, with all these changes, the skin of the face and neck shows signs of needing attention.

Don't forget that the skin has to do work just as any other organ of the body, and if you overwork it, it gives out. Zam-Buk is the remedy. Smear it lightly over the spots, the eruptions, the scaly patches, at night, and notice how quickly your appearance improves. As the rich, refined, herbal essences sink deep into the tissue, the hard, scurfy-like patches are removed. Better color results. The cells of the skin become transparent. The blood beneath is able to impart its proper coloring to the tissue, and the delicate bloom of health replaces the sallowness and pallor of disease.

Zam-Buk is also of great use for skin injuries and diseases. Eczema, ulcers, chaps, ringworm, acne, yield to its use. For cuts, burns, bruises, children's rashes, etc., it is unequalled, and it is a sure cure for piles. All druggists and stores at 50c. box or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Refuse harmful substitutes and imitations.

The Legislature.
HOURS OF LABOR IN STORES AND OFFICES TO BE REDUCED.

In the legislature on Friday, Premier Murray introduced a bill entitled: "An act relating to the hours of labor in shops and offices."

He said that he was introducing it as a private member so that there might be full and free discussion. It had grown out of the report made by the commission on the eight hour system.

The first part of the bill defined office, shop, assistants and employers.

The second part provided that no assistant should be employed in or about the shop or office or the business thereof:

(a) more than sixty hours, excluding meal times, in any one week;

(b) for more than ten hours in any one day except one day of the week where employment might be for twelve hours; excluding meal times;

(c) for more than six hours continuously without an interval of at least one hour for meals. There were some exceptions to this general legislation which were to the effect that for the purpose of taking stock or special work such hours might be extended for not more than three hours in one day or thirty hours in one year.

The next section provided that all work done for an employer by an assistant elsewhere than in the shop or office, shall be deemed to be done while the assistant is employed in the shop or office.

Then penalties were provided for violation of the act.

There was another important section to the effect that no person should be employed as a conductor or motorman on an electric tramway for more than six days of ten hours each in any one week.

As the measure was in some respects rather drastic he would ask the committee by whom the bill was to be considered to have such expression of public opinion on the bill as could be obtained.

New Wall Papers

Manufactured by the old reliable firm of WATSON, FOSTER Co. Limited, of Montreal who are the acknowledged leading manufacturers in Canada. We are also stocking a line of the Regular N. BOXER WALL PAPER Co. of Toronto.

We have the finest line of Wall Papers ever shown in town; and marked at our usual low prices.

Do not get fooled by buying from peddlers—as hundreds have. In a great number of cases you will either have to order more than you require and thus have paper on hand which is waste, or order too little and then find yourself short and unable to get any more; as peddlers never sell for any manufacturers.

We guarantee to all our customers that they shall not fall short if notified in a reasonable time.

We control every pattern of the Watson, Foster Co. goods which we show.

A number of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Creelman from the South End visited them last evening at their new home on Main street, Yarmouth North, says the Times, with a surprise and house-warming party. Cards were played, refreshments served, and at twelve o'clock carriages conveyed the party to their homes.

Mr. Charles A. Munro assisted at a musical recital in St. Paul's Church on Sunday, 12th inst., and the Herald paid him the following tribute:—"Mr. Munro showed himself the possessor of a fine tenor voice smooth sympathetic, talling and very pleasing. His execution is excellent and his articulation and the use of his voice generally was in every way commendable. Mr. Munro, who is a Bridgetown boy, will be a decided acquisition to musical circles in Halifax." Mr. Munro is a half brother of Mrs. Arthur Seldner (Lyda Munro) Bridgetown's well-known prima donna, now of Hartford, Conn. and of Mr. Milton Munro who also possesses the family talent.

Bridgetown is to lose its Town Clerk, and one of the most prominent and successful barristers in Annapolis County, in the person of F. L. Milner Esq., who has accepted the flattering offer of the Amherst law firm of Rogers and Purdy to become one of the members of the firm. This offer opens up opportunities of advancement too promising to be declined but Bridgetown will suffer a distinct loss in Mr. Milner's departure, as he has been identified with every movement conducive to the general progress of the town since he first took up his residence here and has been Town Clerk and Solicitor since the incorporation of Bridgetown in 1897. As will be noted elsewhere, Mr. Milner tendered his resignation to the Town Council at their meeting on Saturday night, to take effect at the end of the present month, and Mr. Harry Ruzles was elected as his successor.

Generous to the Farmers but Ungenerous to the Weeklies

A rural free delivery mail route is soon to be inaugurated between New Glasgow and Little Harbour, says the Eastern Chronicle. Some thirteen farmers along that road have made application and will be served in this fashion. The farmer contributes $3 in cash, a post to hold the box and a small padlock. The Postal Department furnishes the iron mail box which is fastened on the post. The mail carrier deposits any mail the farmer may put in the box daily. When empty the box, which is oblong, and on a swivel, stands at right angles to the road, so that the farmer and post man can see from a distance whether the box contains mail or not. The innovation will undoubtedly be a source of much real satisfaction to our country friends and save them many a long walk to the Post Office, as well as ensure them a prompt mail service.

The Chronicle adds the following comment:—"We congratulate them and cannot help contrast the treatment given them by the Postal Department, with what the P. D. accorded the Eastern Chronicle and other weeklies a year or more ago when we lost a very large number of our American subscribers and incidentally a large number of American dollars, so many in fact that we have never been able to make it up from any other source"

The Finest Moose Heads at Sportsman's Show

C. W. Mills, who returned Tuesday from a trip to New York, attended the Sportsman's show while in the city and found that all the good things said about the show in general and the Nova Scotia end in particular were quite true. Although only a 30-foot space was allotted to Nova Scotia's exhibit it included more and finer moose heads than any other, and also many other articles of interest. The New Brunswick exhibit some enlarged pictures of Kedgemoose, by Yates, the Digby photographer, were much admired. Mr. Mitchell, vice president of the N. S. Guides' Association, who was in charge, was kept busy answering inquiries and passing out literature, and was able to interest many in the advantages of Western Nova Scotia as a summer resort and sportsman's Mecca.

By the Way, Madam, What's An Ideal Food?

Once, Madam, a June Bride asked the heroine of three matrimonial ventures the secret of "How to be happy though married." And the Experienced One's startling recipe was "Feed the Brute!" Many a housewife feeds the partner of her joys and cares with mere filling concoctions without nutrition. The poor man is fattened by the process about as much as the chicken which swallows sand and thinks it is being fed. What—did you speak, Madam?

By the way, Mistress Housewife, what's an Ideal Food? Dr. Robt. Hutchison (an eminent authority on such matters) has already defined it: "An Ideal Food would contain about one part of Protein to 4.2 parts of Carbohydrates." Protein for bone, and brain, and brawn building; Carbohydrates for fat just to fill out the hollows and prevent the corners from hurting. Once, Madam, a fellow who loved statistics evolved the idea that the average man at moderate exert requires about .28 lb. of protein to .28 lb. of fat and .99 lb. carbohydrate in his daily food. A woman takes care of eight-tenths as much as a man.

But, plain white bread—made from FIVE ROSES flour—contains these three classes of nutrients in the right proportions. Therefore, feed your man on this ideal food: FIVE ROSES rolls and breadstuffs. Such bread contains the highest nutrients of the prime Manitoba spring wheat consistent with proper elimination of the hard outside skin. But a man won't eat your bread simply because it's wholesome or because it's cheap. You know that, don't you, Madam, he wants it appetizing and tasty as well.

Would you like, Madam, every baked good to take from your oven piping hot a batch of rolls and loaves with an aroma, color, flavor which are your own monopoly?

A crisp, tooth-teasing crust that breaks with a snap; an elastic snowy crumb that springs back into shape after being pressed with the finger?

Lofty, well-piled loaves that bring that glow of pride to the maker.

All yours for the asking, Madam—If you ask FIVE ROSES from your grocer.

WESTERN OIL PIONEER.
 Alfred Von Hammerstein Has Had Adventurous Career.

In 1897 there proceeded from Edmonton, with a party of three bound for the Klondike a young German of good family, named Alfred von Hammerstein. He reached Fort Liara, and even proceeded a short distance beyond, but then decided to retrace his steps and locate in the region round Lake Athabasca, which appeared to him to offer exceptional advantages to the prospector. Reaching Athabasca Landing, he opened a store there as an immediate means of livelihood, and, incidentally, with view to acquainting himself with the habits of the country and its latent natural wealth. After a few months he decided to devote his attention especially to prospecting for petroleum in the vicinity of Fort McMurray, and for years he has been carrying on borings there at great expense, the necessary capital being provided by himself and friends in Europe and Canada. Besides superintending the boring operations he has been prospecting for gold and other minerals, and with the exception of a few weeks each winter spent in Ottawa, his time has been devoted, in his own words, to "travelling, trading, mining and hunting." Mr. von Hammerstein (he democratically renounces the use of the title "Count" to which he is entitled) is once more back in Ottawa, corresponding with his principals in Europe at the same time consulting with officials of the Geological Survey regarding the showings made on some of his recent prospecting work. He is a most interesting, and in many respects, picturesque, personage. This German pioneer of the Athabasca oil fields, and during his stay at the capital he is always quite a social lion. It is at first a little difficult to identify the well-groomed gentleman in evening dress one meets in Ottawa drawing-rooms with the roughly-clad and unkempt prospector, miner, mechanic and sundry who figures in many of the wilderness photographs he shows to his friends in his rooms. Mr. von Hammerstein's life in the distant Northwest has been full of adventure and peril. A couple of years ago, while hunting he was dangerously, in fact it was feared at first fatally, wounded by a bear. He had only one companion with him, and to save the life of the wounded man the companion had to leave von Hammerstein alone for two days while he went in search of messengers to despatch for a surgeon at Edmonton. Luckily, four hunters met him by trail and stream. While on his way to Ottawa this autumn, his boat upset in the rapids of the Athabasca River and his two companions were drowned. He himself, was saved as if by a miracle the rapids throwing him ashore in a half-stunned and bruised condition. Mr. von Hammerstein is most enthusiastic about the undeveloped natural resources of the region which is the scene of his activities, and remarked to the writer of these notes that while, in justice to himself and his associates, he cannot divide the exact results of experimental borings which have cost a large fortune, he is delighted with results. He predicts that the Athabasca region before many years will be the most productive oil field in the world. The results of our work this year," he remarked, "have been more gratifying than ever before." Mr. von Hammerstein states that there is no doubt about there being plenty of gold in the Peace River, for he has worked banks at several points with good results. He expects to return to Edmonton soon, so that he will be able to make the trip to McMurray before the snow and ice go.

A World's Record.

Viper II, the fastest type of power-boat hull in the world, was designed by Mr. Albert Hickman and Mr. Sanford Munsie, of Pictou, N.S. Though only 20 feet long, this extraordinary little craft, with a 20-horsepower engine, has developed a speed of about 26 miles an hour. Her nearest rivals of at all similar length are two American boats, the Hadajr and Haida Papoose, and a French boat, Mais-Je-Piqueur II, that distinguished herself at Monaco. With considerably greater power than Viper II, these racers develop from 21 to 23 miles an hour. Mr. Hickman, who is at present in Montreal, gave the following particulars concerning Viper II, to a Montreal Standard's representative: "The hulls of Viper I, and II were built roughly for experimental purposes. They must not be looked upon as giving any idea of the speed of which the boat is capable. Carefully-built and full-powered, even a 20-foot Viper should be able to make 30 miles an hour. In fact, we have no right to set a limit even here, as the Viper II, so far as we have been able to discover, develops absolutely no hull defects at high speed. We have installed engines of 3, 7, 12 and 30 horsepower in the same hull, and in all cases we have found that the hull maintained the same position relative to the surface of the water. She neither rises unduly by the bow, in the manner of the round-bilged boats, nor does she stumble or jump like the hydroplanes. Of what speed this type of boat might be capable when driven by the 250-horsepower of Dixie III, or the 800-horsepower of Wolsley-Siddeley, would be hard to conjecture. (The Duke of Westminster's Wolsley-Siddeley, now called Ursula, is 50 feet in length, and has a speed of 40 miles an hour.) In principle and construction the Viper type departs from practically every accepted law of present-day speed-boat design."

Galician Houses.

The typical Galician house in Yorkton, Saskatchewan, is built of squared poplar logs covered with a plaster made of clay and straw. The ceiling and floor are of the same material. The roof is a thick thatch of marsh grass, stretched to the rafters with grass ropes. All the appointments of the house are home-made—all except the glass in the windows.

Joker's Corner

WHY HE MOURNED.

A Rochester man who had been visiting friends in his home village up in the northern part of the state brings back this story of Joe Langto, a French Canadian.

Joe's wife was taken ill and died. Joe thought so much of his wife and her family that he married his wife's sister within a week. To let the people understand that his grief was real Joe continued to wear the sign of mourning on his arm after the wedding. Two days after the second event a friend said:

"Joe, I hear you have var bad trouble."
 "Yas," said Joe sorrowfully. "I bury my sister-in-law a week ago come tomorrow."

ON A PARTY LINE

The lady of the house where they use "party line" told the new maid to report to her any message. Then the lady went shopping. When she returned she summoned the maid.

"Did you receive a message for me, Jane?" she inquired.
 "Only one, ma'am. I thought I heard th' bell ring, ma'am, an' I took down the receiver ma'am an' just then a voice said: 'Listening again, are you, you old snoot?'"
 Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A witty as well as a soft answer will sometimes turn away wrath. A candidate, in the midst of a stirring address, was struck with a rotten egg full in the face. Pausing to wipe away the contents of the missile he calmly continued: "I have always contended that my opponent's arguments were very unsound." The crowd roared, and he was no longer molested.

ANOTHER MIRACLE IN NOVA SCOTIA

Thought the Disease was Cancer of the Stomach

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" Cured Him

SYDNEY MINES, N. S., JANUARY 25TH 1910

"For many years I suffered torture from Indigestion and Dyspepsia. Two years ago, I was so bad that I vomited my food constantly. The agony I endured all these years, I cannot describe and I lost over 25 pounds in weight. I also suffered with Constipation which made the stomach trouble worse. I consulted physicians, as I was afraid the disease was cancer but medicine gave only temporary relief and then the disease was as bad as ever.

I read in the "Maritime Baptist" about "Fruit-a-tives" and the cures this medicine was making and I decided to try it. After taking three boxes, I found a great change for the better and now I can say "Fruit-a-tives" has entirely cured me when every other treatment failed, and I reverently say "Thank God for Fruit-a-tives!"

EDWIN ORAM, SR.

"Fruit-a-tives" sweetens the stomach, increases the flow of gastric juice, strengthens the stomach muscles, and insures sound digestion. The wonderful powers of this famous fruit medicine are never more clearly shown than in curing the apparently hopeless cases of Dyspepsia and Constipation. 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial size, 25c. At dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

COURTSHIP POINTERS

When she says the clock's correct. She is neutral, we suspect. When she says the clock is fast. You are making time at last. When she says the clock is slow. You are done for. Better go.

Commander Wakeham's report on the lobster fishing industry of the Bay of Fundy does not appear to meet with the approval of fishermen interested. The report recommends that in district No. 1, which includes the Bay of Fundy from the Maine border to Cape Sable, and a portion of the southwestern shore of Nova Scotia, there should be an open season of five and a half months with a size limit of ten and one half inches while in the other districts the size limit should be abolished. It is alleged by the representatives of the Fishermen's union of western Nova Scotia that Commander Wakeham has given undue weight to the arrangements of parties interested in the packing industry or some big merer reaching out its tentacles to grab the fisheries of the maritime provinces, and bring the fishermen who have attained a fair measure of independence to a state of slavery.—St. John Standard.

THE HIGHEST DIGNITY

There joined the police force of London a young Scotchman but recently arrived from his native land. Being detailed one day to block the traffic on a certain thoroughfare where members of royalty were expected to pass, he was accosted by a lady hurrying to keep an appointment who thrust her head from the carriage window to remonstrate with him over the delay. "I cannot let you pass, ma'am," answered the man on the baton. "But, sir, you do not know who I am. I am the wife of a cabinet minister." "It disna mak' na difference, ma'am," he answered. "I couldna let you pass if you were the wife of a Presbyterian minister."

UNION BLEND TEA
 the Tea that satisfies

THE best customers I have are people who simply cannot learn to like ordinary tea—they find in Union Blend a richness and delicacy coupled with a strength that other teas do not even approach.

They gladly pay the price—forty cents a pound—because they realize it is tea economy. It is economy, because it goes half as far again as ordinary tea; indeed, being unaccustomed to its strength, most people make it too strong at first. Then, they learn that a little Union Blend makes more tea and makes it far better than can be made from a good deal of the common kind.

Go to your grocer and get a pound packet of Union Blend—be sure my picture is on the end—and try it for yourself. One single pound carries conviction.

Union Blend one pound packets—the pound packets only—contain coupons that are worth money to you. But this is only an advertisement—the tea itself is worth the price, fully.

TRY EVEN A HALF POUND
 THERE is only one way for you to prove that Union Blend Tea is all I claim—better than other teas. Try it. If it is not up to your expectations, I stand to lose more than you do. For my advertising can only induce you to try it once—can only introduce Union Blend to you; after that, its own quality must continue to sell it. Yet I am not only willing but anxious to risk the test—will you give me that chance? Go to your grocer, get a single pound, or a half pound if you prefer—and I shall be perfectly satisfied to accept your decision.

Germany's Intentions

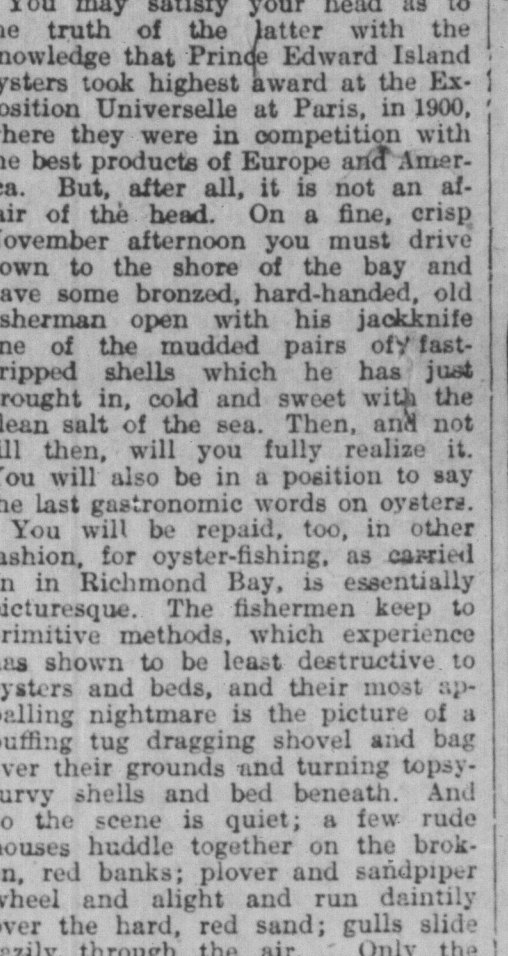

(St. John Sun editorial)
 In "Germany's real attitude toward England," Mr. Tuchmann, a German Journalist, holds that Germany has no desire to invade England and no wish to annex her over-seas dominions. As to whether Germany is ready for war he has no uncertain reply. She is, and was never more so. He does not hesitate to aver that if war were declared tomorrow Germany's intimate knowledge of this country and this country's ignorance of Germany would astonish even those bellicose critics of naval preparedness who are continually crying danger. But having said this much, he wishes to show that although Germany is ready for war with any country, war was never further from her intentions. "Why should not Germany be in a state of preparedness for any emergency?" he asks. "Why should she be dictated to by any country as to how she should safeguard her interests? Whatever else her critics and her enemies allege, Germany is not an 'impulsive, irrational country that leaps at opportunities and damns the consequences.'" He says that Socialism is increasing throughout Germany and is even rampant in the German army. Socialists are opposed to war, and the Kaiser and his advisers are aware that a war would arouse opposition that might also develop into a revolution. Mr. Tuchmann acknowledges that Germany desires colonial expansion. Her increasing population renders it a necessity. He also acknowledges that England has staked out many claims which Germany would like. But he persists that her desires now lie in an altogether different direction. "There may be moments when she secretly covets, say, Java or Sumatra, but what interest has England in either one of those islands? Let me express a candid opinion—the day is not far distant when Asia Minor will fall, figuratively, to the hands of Germany. Who could prevent annexation in that direction when Germany would have only to walk through Austria in order to plant her flag on the desired spot?"
 He urges the truth, as obvious to Germans as to Englishmen, that war between England and Germany would mean inevitable and irreparable ruin for both countries. He says that all intelligent Germans have one desire—"the wish for a better understanding for an 'entente cordiale' with England." In the end, he rather strangely endeavors to substitute one scare for another, by prophesying that some day—perhaps very soon—Great Britain and Germany will have to fight side by side to repel the "Yellow danger." Apart from this rather wild conclusion, there is a good deal in Mr. Tuchmann's article that deserves consideration, remarks the Montreal Witness. Many Germans fear a British invasion. We all know that this is pure moonshine. It is then, not unreasonable to suppose that the British fear of a German invasion is almost as absurd. To be sure, there are German officers and journalists who, when the fumes of Rhine wine and Bavarian beer have risen to their brains, talk war, and great gusto. These, however, do not represent the level-headed bulk of the population. German and British nerves just now, however, are in a state of "jumpsiness" strange to the national character of both peoples. There is, of course, danger, but one in blood, one in religion, one in all sorts of mutual interests, there is no one but admits that war between England and Germany would be a crime as well as an unmixed and immeasurable harm to both. Ethical and religious considerations are not supposed to carry such weight in politics, but they cannot be altogether absent from the consciousness of the peoples and rulers of the two leading Protestant European countries. There are, however, other considerations than sentimental which should prevent an Anglo-German rupture.

THE LUSCIOUS MALPEQUE.
 How the Famous Bivalve is Secured in Prince Edward Island.
 Richmond Bay, as you view it from the northern shore of Prince Edward Island, is a big half-circle of blue water, with a broken diameter of islands, which, besides adding a needed touch of beauty to the scene, serve to make the waters the best oyster-fishing grounds in eastern Canada, says L. J. Miller in a recent article in The Toronto Globe. To be sure, a map of the island will at once show that the bay is not rounded (the sprawling anemone of the biological text-book would better describe it), that the sharply-defined islands to be seen from the shore are not the ones that play chief part in making the grounds safe and sheltered for tooting spat, but this is only the testimony of unimaginative maps—a half-circle, a broken diameter of green, and you have the home of the Malpeque oyster, one of the best of the world products.
 You may satisfy your head as to the truth of the latter with the knowledge that Prince Edward Island oysters took highest award at the Exposition Universelle at Paris, in 1900, where they were in competition with the best products of Europe and America. But, after all, it is not an affair of the head. On a fine, crisp November afternoon you must drive down to the shore of the bay and have some bronzed, hard-handed, old fisherman open with his jackknife one of the muddied pairs of fast-gripped shells which he has just brought in, cold and sweet with the clean salt of the sea. Then, and not till then, will you fully realize it. You will also be in a position to try the last great wonder of oysters.
 You will be repaid, too, in other fashion, for oyster-fishing, as carried on in Richmond Bay, is essentially picturesque. The fishermen keep to primitive methods, which experience has shown to be least destructive to oysters and beds, and their most appalling nightmare is the picture of a puffing tug dragging shovel and bag over their grounds and turning topsyturvy shells and bed beneath. And so the scene is quiet; a few rude houses huddle together on the broken, red banks; plover and sandpiper wheel and alight and run daintily over the hard, red sand; gulls slide lazily through the air. Only the whistle of a curlew or the cry of a gull breaks the stillness of the shore. It is with surprise that you awake to the fact that between you and the diameter in the distance hundreds of men are silently at work.
 Far, when you are in the midst of them, you do not wonder at the silence. The very nature of the task demands it, for it is the hardest of hard work this,—no stubborn dragging of shovel or scoop, but the patient, hand-chilling, back-breaking task of groping with heavy, long-armed tongs for the shells below and lifting them up hand over hand, through, perhaps, twenty feet of water. It is a lesson in patient industry. The fisherman braces himself astride a thwart, and lowers his pair of tongs (two long poles hinged about three feet from a pair of iron rings some forty inches wide) to the bottom. The water is always jelly cold, and may be anywhere from one to three fathoms. Off Curtain Island, where the choicest oysters are found, it often runs to four or four and a half fathoms. On the bottom, the shells are attached to the hard sand, or to anything that is solid enough to hold their grip. An old hand can quickly tell when he has landed a good spot. Opening wide the jaws of his tongs, he reaches well over, pushes the iron teeth firmly down into the bed, brings the jaws together, and lifts up, foot by foot, the heavy load of muddy sand and oysters.
 "How would you like to keep at that all day?" asked a grizzled old chap, as he balanced the long pole on the gunwale, and knocked sand and mud into the water. "It's not very bad this afternoon, but, I tell you, it's cold work when the water freezes on your tongs, and the wind blows through you."
 That is the other side of it. It is undoubtedly picturesque on a fine, sunny day; the two or three hundred boats make a pretty sight in the blue, particularly when, at evening, they all hoist sail and make in, but, "I tell you, it's cold work when the water freezes on your tongs, and the wind blows through you."
Skyscrapers For Montreal.

Paradise

Mrs. S. Small returned to her home in Massachusetts on Monday. Her mother, Mrs. W. H. Bishop, we are pleased to report convalescent. Mr. V. B. Leonard, after spending a week with his parents, has returned to Greenwich, Mass. Miss Jessie Bowlby, of Margaretville, was at home over Sunday and will attend the Teachers' Institute at Digby this week. Mrs. G. D. Covert entertained her friends on Tuesday evening last. An Easter program is being prepared by the teachers of the S. S. for Sunday evening. One of the most enjoyable social events of the season took place on Thursday evening last at the residence of Principal and Mrs. W. E. Banks. The invitations were written in Irish dialect and the entertainment of the evening was in every respect in accordance with the day. After finding "Pat," the remainder of the evening was devoted to the reading of Irish anecdotes, readings, recitations, games and refreshments. At a late hour the guests departed, the unanimous verdict being that Pat was a good old saint. Mrs. Hardy Layte is quite ill. Rev. J. H. Balcom returned from New York on Wednesday. The advanced department of the school closes on Tuesday. Principal Banks is attending the Institute. Mrs. Patterson, who has been visiting her niece, Mrs. J. C. Morse, this winter, is now visiting at Middleton.

Lawrencetown.

Messrs. A. H. Whitman, of Portland, Me., and R. H. Whitman, of Providence, R. I., are in town for a few days. Miss Chipman arrived in town last week and is in charge of Miss Chute's millinery parlors. Miss Morris, of Brooklyn, is the guest of Rev. and Mrs. Hart. A number of the young people enjoyed a very pleasant evening at the home of Miss Pickels, Monday eve. Mr. Burpee FitzRandolph has bought the farm recently owned by Mr. Fred Schaffner, South Williamston, and intends moving in the near future. The death occurred, Wednesday, the 16th, after several months' illness, of one of our oldest citizens in the person of Mr. Judson Balcom, at the age of eighty-three years. Besides his widow, Mr. Balcom leaves one son and two daughters to mourn his loss. We extend to the bereaved ones our sincere sympathy. The funeral services took place on Friday and were conducted by Revs. Mr. Mellick, Mr. Hart and Mr. Balcom. Mrs. L. S. Schaffner and little son of Middleton spent last week the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Schaffner. Church services for Sunday, March 27th:—Baptist, 11 a. m., Methodist, 11 a. m., Church of England, 3 p. m. Dr. Saunders, of Calgary, Alberta, is the guest of his father, Mr. P. Saunders.

Hampton.

Elwood Milbery is visiting his friends in South Berwick, Kings Co. Last week a baby girl arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ware. There has been no sledding so far during this month. Those who got their wood hauled earlier were fortunate. A pie social was held in the Hall on Wednesday evening of last week, proceeds for the benefit of the cemetery fund. The steamer Ruby L. called here on her return from St. John on Thursday last and landed a large quantity of merchandise for our merchants. E. B. Foster has repaired the wash-out in the Milbery Hollow, putting the road in passable condition.

Annapolis.

J. M. Owen, Esq., returned on Monday from a business trip to Halifax. James McDormand, of Paradise, was a visitor to town on Monday. Miss Ruby Chisholm has returned from Boston, where she has been attending the millinery openings. Miss Kinney, of Yarmouth, is visiting Mrs. R. F. Harris. Dr. Edward Breck returned from New York on Saturday week. He has been attending the Sportsman's Show. Miss Ethel H. Leavitt has returned home from Halifax. Miss Leavitt is convalescing from a prolonged and serious illness. Mr. R. S. Miller spent the week end at his home here. Mr. A. D. Mills, who has been indisposed for a couple of weeks, we are pleased to note is able to be out again. Mr. Robert Armstrong has returned from Sydney and work on the pier will be resumed shortly. Miss Longmire of Granville Centre, has accepted a position in Runciman's store. (Arrived too late for last week) Mr. T. M. Seeley, editor of the Spectator, spent the week-end in Wolfville with Mrs. Seely at the home of her father, E. E. Archibald. A despatch states that the Eastern Steamship company have abandoned the idea of putting on a line of steamers between Boston, Annapolis and Port Wade for this season to compete with the D. A. R. lines. As Annapolis people had not built their hopes upon this very strongly, the disappointment was not overwhelming. However Annapolis will have her day yet. F. W. Pickels has purchased a new Russell touring car. Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Mills have returned from a visit to Boston and New York. They attended the Sportsman's Show in the latter city. Mrs. Savary has been visiting her brother, Dr. Hunt, who is seriously ill.

We are sorry to report Capt. Freeman Beardsley in ill health at present. Mr. Avard Brown, of Winchendon, Mass., has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brown. Miss Eunice Anderson spent Sunday at St. Croix. Capt. T. W. Templeman has been making improvements on the Bay View Hotel, for the better accommodation of the increasing tourist travel to Port Lorne.

The Rev. C. H. Martell, now stationed at Ohio, and formerly pastor of this church, was in Clementsvalle a few days last week. The death took place last week of the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. John Peck, of Greenland. The interment was in Clementsvalle cemetery. Miss Jennie Hubley left for St. John on Tuesday, where she will remain for an indefinite period. Mr. Willie Potter is spending a few weeks at his home. Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Potter are visiting their son, Leander, at Tupperville. The special meetings at Waldeck still continue and are reported as very encouraging. Mr. L. Danielson and daughter Florence, returned from their trip to Boston on Wednesday. The funeral of the late Mrs. John Berry, of Centrevale, took place on Monday, March 13th. Funeral services were held in this church and interment in this cemetery. The Rev. J. Phalen is quite ill at time of writing.

Upper Granville

The mill owned by Kelly Brothers has been doing quite a fair amount of spring sawing. The broken winter has prevented many from bringing the usual supply of logs. Mr. Frank Bath has been adding a windmill to his already model farm for convenience and comfort in the never failing needs of domestic farm life. Mrs. Robert Bath, assisted by her charming daughter-in-law, Mrs. Frank Bath, entertained a number of her friends recently where all present enjoyed a very pleasant evening. Social functions in honor of the newly wedded have been frequent these taking the form of the old-fashioned "tea party," being given by Mr. and Mrs. Gaius Eisner, Mr. and Mrs. John Bath, and others. The young folk have also enjoyed several surprise parties where games are the order of the evening with bountiful refreshments supplied by the fair sex. Winter has waned and March has given us a mild record. Thus far road breaking has been imaginary. Easter joys are near. May the Queen of Festivals bring the true joy to every sorrowing heart. Miss Gladys Barnaby, of Granville Ferry, is spending a few days with Miss May Walker. Mr. Longmire has purchased the farm owned by Mrs. Lucretia Walker. The ladies of the Methodist Sewing Circle held a ten-cent tea and fancy sale in Granville Hall on Thursday evening. Nearly seventeen dollars were realized from the winter's work. Proceeds go for church purposes. We are glad to report Mrs. William O. Foster much improved in health. Her daughter, Mrs. Perry Chute, who has been with her during her illness returned to her home in Berwick on Monday.

West Paradise.

Where has our "old time" blustering March disappeared to? This month has certainly been a record breaker for fine weather, not a snow storm worth speaking about. Mr. John Dargie is going through the neighborhood with his gasoline engine, sawing up the wood piles. Mr. Gates Sanford still remains in a very critical condition. We hope though, we may soon see "Gadie" among us again. Miss Margaret Dargie, who has been ill with a slight attack of pneumonia, we are pleased to say is convalescent and will soon be out again. Mrs. Eliza Saunders, who has been ill ever since Christmas, is still confined to her bed. She passed her 92nd birthday on March 13th. Although feeble in body, her mind is as sound as ever. Mr. James Quinlan, real estate agent of Amherst, is visiting his sister at his old home. As James was once one of "the boys" among us we are pleased to see him again. Mr. James Higby, who has been spending the winter with his daughter, Mrs. B. W. Saunders, has returned to his home at Lower Argyle. Mrs. Palmer, of Clarence, is making a visit at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. Willard Poole.

The young folks of this place are looking forward to the Easter dance at the Ruggles Hall, Monday night. Anderson's mill has begun sawing at Corbett Lake. Miss Buckler and Miss Todd, who have been attending school at Annapolis Academy, have returned home for the Easter holidays. The house of Charles Todd was burned on Saturday night. The cause of the fire is unknown but it is supposed to have caught from the chimney. A large number of our friends serenaded Mr. and Mrs. Willis Gillis last Wednesday night. All were invited inside. After having music and refreshments, they all left for their various homes after having spent a very enjoyable evening. Miss Mary Buckler, of Morse Road, is spending a few weeks with her sister, Mrs. Frank Dodge, Bridgetown. Mr. and Mrs. Amos Hannam have returned home after visiting friends in Bridgetown and Centrevale. Mr. Jackson, of Paradise, spent Sunday with his mother, Mrs. Joseph Buckler.

Clementsport.

Business has been unusually brisk here this winter. It has been a long time since we have had, at the dawn of spring, such a show of wood, piling and lumber upon our wharves as may be seen now. This predicts a busy summer for our vessels and means a good deal for our merchants as well as the community at large. We have a new firm in the village under the name of "McCormick and Stronach," successors to the late Capt. Samuel Potter, and we predict for them a thriving business in the future. Our vessels are getting ready for sea. Schr. B. B. Hardwick is ready to sail for Boston with a load of piling and wood. Schr. Mercedes is loading with the same, at the time of writing. The others will soon follow. Mr. H. Hicks, our popular merchant, has recently purchased a fast horse from Mr. Feltus, of Lawrence-town. W. C. Jones, Customs Officer, is now in his new office which is fitted up very neatly and attractively. Mr. Forbes Tupper has changed residence from the Vroom House to a suite of rooms in the Dittmars Block. Capt. Elias Rawding, our councillor and postmaster, has also made a move from the Ray building to the Dittmars store. So we have quite a number of changes. Bad colds are quite common here at present and many will be glad when the chilly winds of March are over. A series of special services have been held here in the Methodist and Baptist churches by the Revs. McNeil and Carter with good results. We are sorry to report Mr. Clark McLaughlin very ill. Dr. Lovitt, of Bear River, is in attendance. Mr. Doliver, of Caledonia Corner, Queens County, who is visiting his daughter, Mrs. Fred Jones, here is under the attendance of Dr. Archibald of Bear River. We have had several commercial travellers in the village of late and we presume they made quite extensive sales. Mr. Charles Merritt has done an extensive business in horses and cattle this winter, in buying and selling. —we fancy with much profit.

Mrs. James John, Jr., went to Brighton, Digby Co., last Monday for a visit with her mother, Mrs. Crossman. Misses Hattie Westhaver, of Kentville, Lena Keans and Ruby Wood, of Middleton Consolidated School, came home on Friday for a short visit with their parents. Mrs. Fred W. Thorne is still quite ill from nervous trouble. There are only fifteen men working here for the Canadian Iron Co. now, but the number will be increased shortly. Mr. Archibald, of the firm of Reed and Archibald, of Halifax, is expected here Tuesday of this week. Mrs. John Ellis, Victoria Beach, is critically ill. Capt. James Ellis and wife, of Boston, have been visiting the past week with Mr. and Mrs. James Litch. Capt. Keans, of the Ferry Boat Port Wade expects to make daily trips soon. Empire Liniment Co., Limited. Bridgetown, N. S. Dear Sirs, Your Capt. Burns gave me a bottle of your Empire Liniment at the Grand Hotel, Sydney, C. B. At the time I had contracted a very serious cold which settled on my lungs, and which confined me to my bed. A generous application of Empire Liniment on a flannel cloth relieved me so much I was able to go home the next morning and my doctor tells me I broke up a severe case of Pneumonia. I consider your liniment a splendid remedy and I have placed an order for your goods in my drug store and will push it on its merits. Yours very truly J. W. McLEAN.
