STOESSEL A QUITTER, SAYS LONDON TIMES.

London, Jan. 25--The Times correspondent at Peking, who has returned from a visit to Port Arthur describes the impressions he gathered there and says: "Without witnessing them nobody could form any idea of the stupendous strength of the forts of the incredible heroism displayed in their capture. No foreign officer is able to find the reason for the surrender of Port Arthur. Those who have seen the condition of the fortress believe that no more creditable surrender is recorded in history. There were 25,000 able bodied men capable of making a sortie, hundreds of officers, all well nourished, and plenty of ammunition, the largest magazine being untouched and full to the roof with all kinds of ammunition for naval guns. There was further ample food for three months, even if no fresh supplies could be received, besides the waters are teeming with fish. There was abundance of wine and medical comforts and large quantities of fuel of all kinds. The stories that the red

THE ST. JOHN EVENING TIMES, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 25 1906.

THE STORY OF A GREAT SECRET. Millions of Mischief.

By HEADON HILL. Author of "By a Hair's Breadth," "The Duke Decides," "A Race with Ruth," etc., etc. "And some that smile have in their hearts, I fear, millions of mischief." Julius Caesar, Act IV, Scene I.

(Continued.) I shuddered, for it was evident that the captain of the Nightshade, in his mind craving for drink, had abandoned all chance for life and had gone to face a master more awful even than the Gideon Marks—the master whom Sir Gideon himself served so well. The captain must have been two feet deep in water when Belcher reached the bottom of the stairs, but he had been able to stand up it would have been equally all over with him a minute later. A giant breaker or surge gave the side, sweeping the deck from stem to stern, and hurrying Herzog on to me, clutching wildly for foothold. By God's grace, we both clung to the doorway till the flood staggled out again, but down below the entry must have been full of water. The captain had been drowned like a rat in a trap in the first ten which two nights ago, when he had forced me to sup with him, he had called his first-class saloon. These two men all over us were for the shore, whence some could come out help. On each side of the wheel-house, was a round glass port-hole and at the handward end, clinging for dear life to a spoke of the wheel, I stationed myself. Herzog sprang towards the low cliffs of the island, where we could make out people running to and fro like little black ants. I could understand how the summer visitors would be taking full advantage of such a spectacle as a shipwreck, which made no demand on their pockets—a gratuitous bit of excitement thrown in, as it were, by kind Providence, for their amusement without charge. Ah, if those hurrying sightseers could have known the inner history of that shipwreck—that bound-up with it were an attempt to assassinate the Prime Minister; the escape, with which all England was ringing, of a prisoner on the verge of the scaffold; and the proofs of that prisoner's innocence—how their tongues would have wagged as they battled with the gale for points of vantage on cliff and beach. It was at least a comfort to be certain that we were seen, without undergoing the slow agony of those who are wrecked at night, and know not whether their signals have been observed on shore. Nor would there be the delay, inseparable from the hours of darkness, in getting the lifeboat crew together. It was too to distinguish individuals with the aid of glasses, but already

ARTHUR RIVINGTON'S NARRATIVE CONTINUED. CHAPTER XXXV. A Doubtful Friend.

I have to resume the thread of my own personal story at the point where, on the morning of my concealment by Herzog in the vacant house at Totland Bay, I was alarmed by the appearance of a man in a blue gaiter at the window of the drawing-room. It will be remembered that I was expecting Herzog to return with a supply of provisions, and that on drawing aside the blind I saw the stranger instead. A moment's reflection showed that, as he had undoubtedly seen me before I dropped the window blind, no good could be done by refusing to speak to him. He would probably go and tell everyone he met that someone was living in the unoccupied house, with the result that I should be at once routed out by the agents or owner. So I raised the blind, opened the window, and looked to him. That I had no mistake in doing so was at first made plain by the credentials he presented—a basket of provisions and a note, which proved to be from Herzog. "My dear friend," it ran, "I am off to London by the first boat, and I must stick to him like a leech. The chase will in all likelihood lead me to that brave little lass of yours. So I send the best substitute I can find at short notice. I should not be disposed to trust him too far, but as all those Isle of Wight fishermen have smugling blood in them, they have an hereditary antipathy to law and order. This chap has been told that you are an absconding debtor, that you are Peter Croal."

REMARKABLE STORY That Will Be of Special Interest to Superstitious People.

Wenlock Down of Middleboro', Mass., told a story last week that might interest the Psychological Research Society. A little more than two weeks ago a brother of Mr. Down was killed in Providence by falling from a freight train upon which he was regularly employed. The accident happened in the evening at exactly three minutes past 7 o'clock, and just at that minute in the house of the brother living here three clocks and a watch stopped. On the morning of the day of the fatality Mr. Down went into a local clothing store to purchase a pair of gloves. A pair of black gloves were handed out by the clerk. He declined; at first to consider this shade, and remarked to the salesman that if he should buy the salesman there would be a death in his family within a week. He finally bought the gloves, but says that from that moment he had a foreboding of evil. The next morning Mr. Down received word that his brother had been killed the night before, and then there was serious consideration given to the stopping of the clocks and watch.

Portsville, Pa., Jan. 24.—All hope of rescuing two miners who were entombed last night at Mount Hope colliery has been abandoned. His suffering from sciatica was so great, but thanks to Nerviline he was cured. "I suffered for three years from sciatica," writes E. S. Jenkins of Portland, "and no man ever suffered more. I spent a small fortune on different remedies but the only one with real merit was Nerviline and was perfectly cured. THE ST. JOHN EVENING TIMES

ST. JOHN, N. B., JANUARY 25, 1905.

The St. John Evening Times is published at 10 and 21 Canterbury Street, every evening, (Sundays excepted), by the St. John Times Printing & Publishing Co., Ltd. A company incorporated under the Joint Stock Companies Act.

THE STRIKE.

If the Times is correctly informed, the members of the Teamsters' Union were very ill-advised in asking the public works department to discharge the team of a non-union man from further work on the street, and if the team were discharged the evening would be inclined, he in a position to take action against the members of the union for conspiracy to injure him.

There would be no action against the city, even if the team were discharged. At least that would appear to be established by a decision of the privy council in 1897. But a decision of the privy council in 1901 would appear to apply to the case of the Teamsters' Union and Mr. Howe, if the latter should be deprived of the privilege of working for the city, as a result of the action taken by the union.

The decision referred to was in the case of Quinn v. Leatham, an appeal from a decision of the Court of Appeal in Ireland. It was proved in this case that members of a union had induced a merchant's servants to leave him, had induced one of his customers by threats to withdraw his custom, and had induced one of his servants to break his contract with the merchant.

The privy council held that the members of the union had been guilty of a conspiracy, for which they were liable in damages. Commenting on the facts, the lord chancellor, Earl of Halsbury, said: "It upon these facts so found the plaintiff could have no remedy against those who had threatened him it could hardly be said that our jurisprudence was that of a civilized community."

A portion of Lord Robertson's judgment in the same case is also of interest. He said: "The plaintiff had the ordinary rights of a British subject. He was at liberty to earn his own living in his own way, provided he did not violate some special law prohibiting him from so doing, and provided he did not infringe the rights of other people. This liberty involved liability to deal with other persons who were willing to deal with him. This is a right recognized by the law. Its exercise is the general duty of every one not to prevent the exercise of this liberty without justification. But a person's liberty is not to be interfered with by another person unless they are at liberty to deal with him if they choose to do so. Any interference with their liberty to deal with him affects him. If such interference is justifiable in point of law he has no redress. Again if such interference is wrongful, the only person who can sue in respect of it is, as a rule, the person immediately affected by it; another who suffers by it has usually no redress; the damage to him is too remote, and it would be obviously practically impossible and highly inconvenient to give legal redress to all who suffered from such wrongs. But if the interference is wrongful and is intended to damage a third person, and he is damaged in fact—in other words, if he is wrongfully and intentionally struck at through others, and is thereby damaged, the whole aspect of the affair is changed; the wrong done to others reaches him, his rights are infringed, though indirectly, by the damage to him is not remote or unforeseen, but is the direct consequence of what has been done. Our law, as I understand it, is not so defective as to refuse him a remedy by an action under such circumstances."

The whole tenor of the judgment in the case referred to was against the members of the union, who were compelled to pay heavy damages to the plaintiff merchant. As in the St. John case, he had offered to have his men join the union, but the union refused to admit them.

The St. John strike, therefore, may lead to some interesting legal complications if the city council decides it must discharge the non-union team.

BRITISH POLITICS.

The London correspondent of the Montreal Gazette is of opinion that the British elections will be held in the spring, and that the government if beaten, will soon regain control of the situation. He says: "With Lord Selborne at the Admiralty, and Mr. Arnold Forster at the War Office, the government, it is generally recognized, have two ministers as capable as any that a change of ministry is likely to bring to the front. On the whole, the ministry is stronger than it was a year ago, and its position in the country, though precarious, is not so deplorable as it was even six months ago. This fact, coupled with the fact that the Unionist organization in the country,

It is said that as a result of a proposition made by the Montreal Street Railway to the city the company's charter, which has 18 years to run, may be extended to 50 years. The consideration is said to be a straight sum of money to be paid to the city in yearly instalments. The Gazette says: "The project embraces the capitalization of the amount with a sinking fund, and experts declare that the plan will give the city of Montreal, at least $500,000 annually for permanent improvements for 18 or 20 years. It is stated that most of the English-speaking aldermen have given their adhesion to the principle of the project, and that the majority of the French-Canadian members of the city council will also support the measure."

A very interesting discussion on Maritime Union was held by the Conservative Club last evening. Mr. Baxter set forth clearly certain advantages to be derived, chief among which are reduced cost of administration, the removal of petty jealousies, and increased influence in foreign affairs, where the west is becoming so prominent a factor. The question is not yet one of practical politics and a great deal of work would have to be done to overcome provincial feeling in favor of local legislatures and other special privileges now enjoyed. Nevertheless any discussion that is likely to draw the Maritime provinces closer in sentiment is useful and valuable.

An anti-liquor crusade in Neepawa, Manitoba, has led to the closing of the three hotels in the town. Neepawa is a temperance town, and the mayor and council instructed the local police to search the local hostelry, with the result that liquor was found in three of the important houses, and the proprietors were fined $75 each. The owners of the hotels closed them, and the travelling public was left to find accommodation elsewhere.

In Montreal, last Saturday, a hundred and three people were fined by Mr. Recorder Weir, some of one dollar and some for neglecting to clean their snow and ice off their sidewalks.

BURNED TO DEATH.
Fred, Ont., Jan. 24.—(Special.)—Mrs. Adams, an elderly woman, was burned to death yesterday. Her husband went out to the barn and when he returned to the house, about fifteen minutes later, he found his wife sitting in a chair in the dining room with her clothing on fire. No explanation can be given for the occurrence. Mrs. Lloyd died almost immediately.

STOMACH TROUBLE.
The Agonies of Indigestion Can Be Cured By Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. All over the land there are people who live in misery and discomfort through the pangs of indigestion, who have been restored to the enjoyment of health through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. One of these is Mr. Wm. Moore, of Welland, Ont. Mr. Moore is a man of about 40 years of age, and he has been suffering from indigestion for over four years. He says: "It is really a pleasure to tell of my recovery, and I can say that I had grown emaciated and was almost unfit for active work. I was treated by doctors and took advertised medicines without any lasting benefit. One day a friend urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I began their use, but I must confess that it was without much hope that they would cure me. After taking a couple of boxes I could see an improvement, and this gave me encouragement. I continued using the pills until I had taken eight boxes, when I was completely cured and able to eat any kind of food I desired. I shall always praise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as they saved me from such misery as only a dyspeptic knows. I might add that my wife has also used the pills for troubles that afflict her sex, and has been fully restored to health."

Bad blood, poor blood, watery blood, is the cause of nearly every ailment that afflicts mankind. It is because every dose of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills makes new, rich, red blood that they have such wonderful power to cure such ailments as indigestion, anemia, rheumatism, neuralgia, St. Vitus dance, heart troubles, kidney and liver troubles, and the special ailments of women, young and old. THE OLD QUEEN. After Christmas Card FROM W. Tremaine Gard. Manager McCaffrey Has Practically Rebuilt a Well Known Hotel.

It is Now One of the Finest and Largest Hotels in the Province—Extensive Work of Remodelling and Renovating.

(Gleaner)
"Why have I gone to all this expense and trouble?" said J. J. McCaffrey, proprietor of the Queen Hotel, Fredericton, in answer to the query of a reporter. "It's because the business of the house has outgrown the accommodations, and in order to the liberal patronage extended me during the two and a half years of my management, my customers here are not a few, but a host of Fredericton's visitors. And then again (laughingly) you remember the little argument about Fredericton's hotel accommodations in the local papers some time ago, that controversy which started with open hostility in the St. John. But aside from all this," added the genial J. J., "a house that has been one-third in its receipts in two and a half years is due for a wholesale extension, don't you think?"

As the proof of the pudding is in the eating of it, so is the proof of a pretty picture in the seeing of it. The reporter and Manager McCaffrey went the rounds of the popular hostelry, and truly the impression was a revelation. From the cellar to laundry there has been a modernizing, a reorganizing, an up-to-date. The parlor and living rooms are luxurious, the dining room is furnished and adorned with comfortable, the sleeping chambers warm, airy and attractive, and public restrooms are comfortable and convenient. Down in the office, which is one of those large airy, well-lighted, well-ventilated, and well-furnished lounges, the appointments are like those found in the best of American hotels. Here's where the man of the world likes to mix with the throng, chat with a chance acquaintance, and see and hear all that is going on. During parliament's session there is indeed very clear and bright, and the political headquarters for the two parties. Of the main office, which is a writing-room, large, well-lighted, and with ample accommodation in the form of tables and writing materials to supply any rush.

It is on this ground floor that Mr. McCaffrey has made some of the most radical changes in his hotel. Just below the billiard parlors he has built a regulation bowling alley, or rather two alleys. They are well-lighted and well-ventilated, and have said time and again. They are heated so well that players may have on their coats and even their vests without fear of contracting a cold. The alleys are true and reflect. Bowling has taken a great boom in the capital city since the installation of this outfit and already Fredericton ladies are talking of forming a club. One pleasing feature of the alley is that it is absolutely noiseless—it cannot be heard in any part of the house, being an entrance to the main building and extending out on to the lawn, the ladies' entrance being from the lawn. Then there is the barber shop under the hotel roof, a modern electric light plant in that town, and chairs, careful workmen and such appliances as the compressed air driers etc. John McCaffrey, proprietor of this department. Leading from the office again, are the billiard room, the billiard table of the May and Brunswick-Balke-Collender make are available under most attractive circumstances. Like the bowling alley, this room is private; that is, for the use of guests only.

Adjoining the main office is the dining room. Truly the decorators have done nobly by this spacious interior, for its ceiling is paneled in cedar, flowered and bordered. In the soft glow of electric light, the walls are as strikingly pretty. The tables resplendent in silver and the tables resplendent in snowy linen, heavy plate and fine china. A word about the person who has stopped at this house has nothing to say derogatory of either the cooking or the service. In a capital city, with a large clientele of prominent people—people who are used to the very best—his food and attention must of necessity to be of the highest.

Cleanliness is a motto at the Queen as was proven by a scrutiny of the kitchen and pantries. The floors, tables, woodwork and shelving were spotless and the utensils shining and scoured. Even out into the refrigerator room and storage; this state of affairs prevailed, which somewhat disabused the visitor's long-held opinion that hotel "work-shops" were carelessly kept.

Ascending the padded staircase, a series of main hallways presented a most homelike appearance. They were cosy, warm in effect and warm in actual fact. Richly colored carpets in deep reds, wall adornments in keeping with this color-scheme, and massive furniture all conspired to create that feeling one enjoys at his own front door. On the first main hall, the parlor is situated. Here the painters have left their masterpiece. The ceiling is done in light green, the walls and carpet maintaining the idea throughout. Luxurious furniture upholstered in raw silk, divan, ottoman, heavy chairs, rare hangings and the best of pictures make the large room a delightful place in which to meet your friends or to enjoy an hour or so outside your own room. The lighting—a burst of incandescents—completes the picture. From both sides of this hallway are large rooms, handsomely furnished and distinctly different in fittings. Private porcelains are being installed in six of these apartments throughout the house, as well as public baths, placed conveniently on each floor.

It would be but tiresome repetition to tell of the new furnishings in all the rooms. Suffice it to say the whole house has been re-fitted, re-upholstered, even the springs that go on the new brass and iron bedsteads are fresh from the maker. The carpets are all newly laid, the walls are shining from the recent invasion of painters, old pictures have been replaced with new ones, curtains are of late design and dainty; in fact, few hotels have undergone such a thorough overhauling.

Manager McCaffrey has not only improved his house, but he has increased its facilities. A whole row of rooms that used to be servants quarters has been or is now being rebuilt. These rooms are situated on the upper floor in the ell, and when completed will make the Queen's complement of rooms number 69, which is a showing second only to the Royal Hotel, St. John, in the province. Therefore there will be no complaint as to overcrowding or no "doubling up" when the busiest season is on.

As to the hotel's heating plant, the following terse statement should be a sufficient guarantee: "On Saturday night, Jan. 14th, of this year, the thermometer at Fredericton registered 44 below the zero. The very room in the Queen hotel the glass showed no point lower than 70. Yes, it is a comfortable home in winter, and a cool, livable place in summer. It has ample fire protection on every floor, possesses an up-to-date fire escape, and is equipped with a particularly good feature is its sample rooms, of which there are four—two in the corner of the Edgecomb building on York St., and five in Wilton's alley. The former is a particularly good one, and in his house Mr. McCaffrey figures he has bought 20 more sets of furniture, completely re-furnished 37 rooms, has painted and carpeted new throughout, and made building additions as above enumerated. In all, quite a bill of expense."

THE OLD QUEEN. After Christmas Card FROM W. Tremaine Gard. Manager McCaffrey Has Practically Rebuilt a Well Known Hotel.

It is Now One of the Finest and Largest Hotels in the Province—Extensive Work of Remodelling and Renovating.

(Gleaner)
"Why have I gone to all this expense and trouble?" said J. J. McCaffrey, proprietor of the Queen Hotel, Fredericton, in answer to the query of a reporter. "It's because the business of the house has outgrown the accommodations, and in order to the liberal patronage extended me during the two and a half years of my management, my customers here are not a few, but a host of Fredericton's visitors. And then again (laughingly) you remember the little argument about Fredericton's hotel accommodations in the local papers some time ago, that controversy which started with open hostility in the St. John. But aside from all this," added the genial J. J., "a house that has been one-third in its receipts in two and a half years is due for a wholesale extension, don't you think?"

As the proof of the pudding is in the eating of it, so is the proof of a pretty picture in the seeing of it. The reporter and Manager McCaffrey went the rounds of the popular hostelry, and truly the impression was a revelation. From the cellar to laundry there has been a modernizing, a reorganizing, an up-to-date. The parlor and living rooms are luxurious, the dining room is furnished and adorned with comfortable, the sleeping chambers warm, airy and attractive, and public restrooms are comfortable and convenient. Down in the office, which is one of those large airy, well-lighted, well-ventilated, and well-furnished lounges, the appointments are like those found in the best of American hotels. Here's where the man of the world likes to mix with the throng, chat with a chance acquaintance, and see and hear all that is going on. During parliament's session there is indeed very clear and bright, and the political headquarters for the two parties. Of the main office, which is a writing-room, large, well-lighted, and with ample accommodation in the form of tables and writing materials to supply any rush.

It is on this ground floor that Mr. McCaffrey has made some of the most radical changes in his hotel. Just below the billiard parlors he has built a regulation bowling alley, or rather two alleys. They are well-lighted and well-ventilated, and have said time and again. They are heated so well that players may have on their coats and even their vests without fear of contracting a cold. The alleys are true and reflect. Bowling has taken a great boom in the capital city since the installation of this outfit and already Fredericton ladies are talking of forming a club. One pleasing feature of the alley is that it is absolutely noiseless—it cannot be heard in any part of the house, being an entrance to the main building and extending out on to the lawn, the ladies' entrance being from the lawn. Then there is the barber shop under the hotel roof, a modern electric light plant in that town, and chairs, careful workmen and such appliances as the compressed air driers etc. John McCaffrey, proprietor of this department. Leading from the office again, are the billiard room, the billiard table of the May and Brunswick-Balke-Collender make are available under most attractive circumstances. Like the bowling alley, this room is private; that is, for the use of guests only.

Adjoining the main office is the dining room. Truly the decorators have done nobly by this spacious interior, for its ceiling is paneled in cedar, flowered and bordered. In the soft glow of electric light, the walls are as strikingly pretty. The tables resplendent in silver and the tables resplendent in snowy linen, heavy plate and fine china. A word about the person who has stopped at this house has nothing to say derogatory of either the cooking or the service. In a capital city, with a large clientele of prominent people—people who are used to the very best—his food and attention must of necessity to be of the highest.

Cleanliness is a motto at the Queen as was proven by a scrutiny of the kitchen and pantries. The floors, tables, woodwork and shelving were spotless and the utensils shining and scoured. Even out into the refrigerator room and storage; this state of affairs prevailed, which somewhat disabused the visitor's long-held opinion that hotel "work-shops" were carelessly kept.

Ascending the padded staircase, a series of main hallways presented a most homelike appearance. They were cosy, warm in effect and warm in actual fact. Richly colored carpets in deep reds, wall adornments in keeping with this color-scheme, and massive furniture all conspired to create that feeling one enjoys at his own front door. WITH A WEAKENED TEAM NEPTUNES MET DEFEAT.

Sackville Hockeyists Put It All Over the Seven From St. John--The Local Situation--Neptunes Meet Tonight and Will Probably Re-organize.

HOCKEY.

The Local Situation.

In yesterday's issue of the Times an exclusive account of the resignation of Gordon Brown, as captain of the Neptune hockey team, was published, and attention was drawn to the weak team which was sent to Sackville to play the league leaders. The result of the game last night was a foregone conclusion and it was generally recognized that the team had no chance of winning. In the entire line-up only one senior player had a place, the balance of the septette being composed of intermediates. A meeting of the Neptunes has been called for this evening when the matter will be fully discussed, and it is probable that the team will be re-organized, and a practice held between 9 and 10 o'clock at the Queen's rink. It is also probable that Petrie and Glawson of the intermediates will be on the new line-up, and an endeavor will be made to get a team in shape for the game with Fredericton on Friday night. If the team goes about it in the right way and practices at every opportunity, they should be able to play a fairly strong game yet, and the public generally will not be slow in supporting an organization of players who show that they are endeavoring to do their best. In last night's game the Sackville team showed their superiority over the Neptune players by rolling up a score of 10 to 3. A correspondent in writing of the game says: "The Neptunes were in rather poor form and their playing lacked snap. In fact they acted as though defeat were certain and all efforts useless."

It would seem that in a city the size of St. John there should be enough good material to form one or two teams of hockey players that could win out from almost everything that came along. The result of the play so far shows that neither of the city teams has won a game with an outside team. The only victory being when the two local teams met and one was bound to win. There has been considerable talk this season of forming an all-St. John team next brilliant playing, won out. The teams played eighteen minutes before the first score was made, when Kennedy, for Dawson, found the net, and ten minutes later the same player again scored, the half closing 3 to 0 in the visitors' favor. The second half was lively throughout. The Wanderers became more confident and rushed the play from the start, Barclay scoring the first goal for the Wanderers five minutes after the face off. Eight minutes later the same player, by a beautiful run half the length of the rink, added another and tied the score and four minutes later he repeated the trick and placed the home team in the lead amid a great outburst of applause. Young Kennedy, Smith and Fairbairn, by a fine rub, attempted to stem the tide of victory but the Wanderers not only put up a great defence but had the best of the balance of play.

Beat the Indians.

Fredericton, N. B., Jan. 24.—The Trojan hockey team met a team of Indians from French Village at the Arctic rink this evening and defeated them by a score of six to three. The Indians expect to make a tour of the provinces. The Dawson team will play the Trojans here February 3.

CURLING.

Thistles Win Again.

Amherst, N. S., Jan. 24.—The Thistle curlers of St. John arrived here this morning from Halifax and in their play this afternoon and evening against the Amherst curlers they were victorious by a majority of thirty-eight points. The score by skips was:—

Table with 2 columns: Name and Score. Includes Amherst, Shaw, McAndrews, Total, Evening, Shaw, Total, Grand total.

Skips Elected.

At a meeting of the St. Andrew's curlers held last night skips chosen to play against Fredericton at the capital early next month were: W. A. Stewart, W. S. Barker, Jas. U. Thomas, A. O. Skinner, A. Watson and P. L. Harrison.

The ladies' branch of the St. Andrew's Curling Club yesterday elected Mrs. Geo. K. McLeod, Mrs. J. Douglas Hansen, Mrs. Frank White and Miss Tuck skips to play against four rinks of gentlemen curlers in St. Andrew's rink, Thursday week. Miss Helen S. Smith and Miss Tuck were elected skips against two rinks of Thistle lady curlers in St. Andrew's rink.

St. Andrew's New Comers.

Four rinks contested in the new comers' match in the St. Andrew's Rink last night. The results by rinks were:—

To Play Moncton.

The Carleton curlers left for Moncton at noon to play the club of that place. The following are the skips, E. R. Taylor, Samuel Clark, Charles Clark, and J. M. Bolyea.

BASKETBALL.

Are Playing Today.

There is a good deal of interest in basket ball in the Y. M. C. A. and a special match arranged for this afternoon at 5 o'clock will be closely followed. The teams are from the business men's and the intermediate classes and will be:— Business men's—Plumber and McDougall, forwards; Wilson, centre; Carless, Dewitt or Burnham, defence. Intermediates—F. Brown and Kierstead, forwards; C. Brown, centre; Simons, Gorham or McIntyre, defence.

SKATING.

Firemen's Sports.

Sussex, N. B., Jan. 24.—The firemen's ice sports were held in the rink here this evening and were well attended. Promptly at 8:15 Ora P. King, M. P. P., starter, called the first race. The programme was as follows:—

Snowshoe race, two laps—Walter Friars, 1st; Wm. Erb, 2nd. Boys' half mile race, seven laps—Louis White, 1st; Frank Doherty, 2nd; Kenneth Carleton, 3rd. Bicycle race—Fred Elwes 1st; Hugh Hoos, 2nd. Hose coupling—J. Bradley and W. Wallace, 1st; time, 24 seconds; H. Doyle and George Bradley, 2nd; time, 22.

The relay race was competed between the hook and ladder company and No. 2 and 3 hose companies, resulting in the hook and ladder winning 1st, No. 1 hose Co., 2nd; best time, 1:07. The judges were Dr. McAllister, Dr. Murray and James Lamb; timers, J. T. Prescott, A. B. Maggs and H. E. Gould.

New Rules.

At the meeting of the Quebec Rugby Football Union next June a resolution will be presented asking that the constitution be amended in order that an amendment to the playing rules may be presented. This amendment will provide for the playing of Q. R. F. U. matches in four fifteen minute quarters, instead of the two thirty-minute halves that are now the system.

Auto Record Broken.

Ormon, Fla., Jan. 23.—During the races this afternoon, Arthur E. MacDonald, of England, with his fifty horse power machine, heretofore untied, broke the five mile world's record by a good margin. He took a long flying start and covered the distance in three minutes and 17 seconds flat. The world's record for this distance was made here by W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr. last year in three minutes 31.1-3 seconds, in his 90-horse power machine.

M. G. Bernin, in W. Gould Broker's 60-horse power, made a try for the world's record for ten miles but failed. He covered the first five miles in 3:51.1-5 and the ten in 7:42 flat. This distance was covered last year by Mr. Vanderbilt in 6:50.

A POEM.

(Written for the Times.) THE EVENING TIMES. I write this for the Evening Times, and evening is the hour, When nature seems to whisper things, a magic unknown power, Of days gone by, of moments that's past, of years that found hath rolled, We must prepare while here below, a sweet home for the soul.

TWILIGHT. I love to sit at twilight, when the evening stars appear, And think of those I love the best, and wish that they were here. The blooming rose it soon will fade, and flowers will decay, But in my heart those that I love, forever they will stay.

PARTING. I often part with loving friends, our parting it must be, Some to go to foreign lands, and some far o'er the sea. The friends we prize the highest, may be the first to leave, The dearest friends I find on earth they never will deceive.

MEETING. How sad it is when parting, to know we cannot meet, Until this earthly journey, it has been. But thus we part, we meet again, we shall meet in heaven. A. P. WYMAN, Jan. 22nd, 1905.

TOOK A SEVERE COLD.

It Settled in The Kidneys.

Pain in The Back The Result.

Catching cold and having it settle in the back is often the cause of Backache—the primary cause of kidney trouble. When the back aches it is a warning that the kidneys are liable to become affected. Heed the warning; check the Backache, and dispose of any chance of further trouble. If you don't, serious complications are very apt to arise. Mrs. E. Williams, Hamilton, Ont., caught cold, and it settled in her kidneys. She used and is thankful for the immediate relief they gave her. She writes us as follows: "It is with pleasure that I add my testimony in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills. Some time ago, I took a severe cold, which settled in my kidneys. The nervousness and pain in the small of my back bothered me monthly. After suffering for some months, and finding numerous remedies fail, I procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills, and received immediate relief from my sufferings. REV. MR. NICHOLSON

Will Discuss Low Wages and Social Life Tomorrow Evening.

Low Wages and Social Life is the subject of Rev. Mr. Nicholson's address tomorrow evening at Berryman's hall. The Fabian League is doing a good work in bringing up these economic questions for discussion. The public are invited and everyone is asked to take part in the discussion. There is no restriction, except that critics are asked not to speak too long. Wages in the United States have been fairly good during the last three years. What was a low wage ten years ago is not really as low as it is claimed, as the present wages, the cost of living has advanced so greatly. It is held by some that this accounts for the increase of crime in the United States as compared with England and some other European countries. No doubt Mr. Nicholson will refer to these conditions. It is expected that the Fabian league will take up at a later date question of compulsory education and no doubt many ladies and gentlemen will be deeply interested in it. The public are invited to the meetings. Ladies particularly are asked to attend.

PETER SHARKEY TO TEAMSTERS' RESCUE.

Interviews the Mayor, Who Explains that Director is in Control—Today's Developments—No Important Change in the Situation.

The strike of the union teams as far as hauling snow in the city remained unchanged this morning. The weekly meeting of the union was held last evening in Labor Hall, and was largely attended. P. J. Sullivan occupied the chair and thirteen members were proposed, and fourteen initiated. It was resolved that, the teams of the union should keep clear on Douglas avenue, City Road, and Winter and British streets, the directors for which the company is responsible, it being understood that the company would employ only members of the union. P. C. Sharkey, for the Trades and Labor Council, addressed the meeting, and expressed his sympathy with the union. He thought the union was in the right, and as they had gone so far they should hold out to the union should not admit to membership men other than those making a living by driving. A resolution was passed that in future any man engaged in any other business wishing to join the union should pay an initiation fee of $10. Enquiry of Director Cushing elicited his statement that as far as the matter as to the non-removal of snow, and the director thought the matter as he usually has quite a number of calls every day. Speaking of the case of Mr. Howe, he said the man had paid his taxes and taken out a license for his team and no distinction could be made. The department would do the best it could with the facilities available. The director said he had not heard of any special meeting of the board of works being called to consider the situation and did not imagine there would be one. Another phase is reported to have developed in connection with the teamsters' strike. Two representative labor leaders waited on Mayor White and stated that they had been informed that Director Cushing had through the public works, had through his foreman given instructions that labor union men working on Mill street should not be compelled to load both city and non-union teams at the penalty of losing their positions. The workers, when asked by the Times' reporter in connection with the interview said that as far as the teamsters' strike was concerned, they knew nothing officially about it. All he learned was from what he read in the newspapers. The situation is in the hands of Director Cushing, but, if the citizens demand a meeting of the union, the common council would be held. Then some definite action would no doubt be taken. One of the gentlemen who waited on the mayor was interviewed by the Times reporter. He said: "I have been informed that the limit has arrived. I am told that Director Cushing said that if union men in the employ of the city did not load non-union teams they would be discharged. I am further informed that at the present time non-union teams are being hand-winded in between city teams in proportion of two to one. The mayor is to visit to the city and was to find out if Director Cushing can discharge union men for refusing to load non-union teams." "Did you find out?" asked the reporter. "No," the mayor said he knew nothing about the matter." Director Cushing was communicated with by the Times and asked as to whether there was any truth in the report. In reply he said "I know nothing about it." "I know nothing about it," he said. "I have no occasion to issue such instructions." In conversation with one of the leading men in the Teamsters' union, this morning he told the Times that the men were determined to hold out, and would not go to work until the situation was adjusted to their satisfaction. He said that there were horses hauling snow now working for the city, that are entirely unfit for duty, and if Secretary Wetmore of S. J. C. A. should see them, he would certainly order them off the street. He said moreover that the bosses of the non-union teams were compelling the men to fill the non-union carts, and he claimed they have had right to do this, as they had not been so instructed. There is no objection to the men filling the city carts, should they not be allowed to fill the others. It was pointed out that the teamsters could call out the snow shovellers if they wished, but this would not be done at the present stage.

THAT BURGLARY.

Case Against McIntyre and Maher Resumed in the Police Court This Morning.

The case against Harry Maher and William McIntyre for breaking and entering Philip J. McGuire's liquor store on Mill street early Sunday morning and stealing liquor and cigarettes, also money was resumed at the police court this morning. Isaac Webber was the first witness sworn. He stated that he and Stanley Gilbert were together in his room Saturday night. He saw two men run out of the back yard to George's street and then turn in the direction of the rear of the store. He also saw a pint bottle of wine on the ground and down to the yard. He saw two men enter the back door broken. Later on he saw two men on Pond street, one of whom ran toward the Grand Union Hotel, the other in the direction of the depot. Joseph Gilbert was the next witness sworn, but his testimony disclosed only the fact that the men were carrying something when they left the yard back of McGuire's store. P. J. McGuire swore that he closed his store at seven o'clock Sunday morning. About one o'clock Sunday morning word was brought to his home on St. David's street that the store was broken into. On arriving at the shop he found the door panel, split in two places. Upon further investigation he discovered that eight or ten large bottles of whiskey were missing, besides flasks of brandy. A box and a half of cigarettes had also been removed. The cash register had been opened three times. He was sure of this, because the keys marked ten, twenty, and seventy-five cents had been operated. The register drawer contained about two dollars in coppers, when he closed the shop for the night, and this had been removed. Amongst the coppers was a peculiar foreign coin which he had taken from a sailing bag removed. Amongst the coppers was a peculiar foreign coin which he had taken from a sailing bag removed. Witness examined the coin handed him by the magistrate and said it looked like the same coin. When asked as to how much silver had been taken Mr. McGuire replied that he was not in the habit of leaving silver in the store, but that he was not certain as to how much was missing. The liquor store, he said was valued at $1,000 and the cigarettes—figuring at the rate of $5.25 per package about $7.00. He had also a sum of money in a tin box under the counter, which had not been removed. The case stands over until Monday next at two o'clock.
