Signs of Long Life

"In the medical world," said a well-known veteran doctor of Tioga yesterday "it is generally accepted fact that every person bears physical indications of his prospects of a long or short life."

"A long-lived person may be distinguished from a short-lived person at sight. In many instances a physician may look at the hand of a patient and tell whether he or she will live or not."

The primary conditions of longevity are that the heart, lungs and digestive organs, as well as the brain should be large. If these organs are large the trunk will be long and the limbs comparatively short.

The person will appear tall in sitting and short in standing. The hand will have a long and somewhat heavy palm and short fingers.

"The brain will be deeply seated, as shown by the office of the ear being low. The blue or brown hazel eye, as showing an intermission of temperament is a favorable indication."

Every man has it in his power. He has merely to use the language which he hears, to form his taste from the best of speakers and poets in the country; to treasure up choice phrases in his memory and habituate himself to their use, avoiding at the same time that pedantic precision and bombast which show the weakness of vain ambition rather than the polish of an educated mind.

Chicago, Feb. 6.—Gustav Walstedt, today shot and killed his daughter Helen, nine years old, and then killed himself in their home at 55th street. He is believed to be insane.

The School Book Slander

Table showing prices of books in various provinces: N.B., N.S., P.E.I., Que., Man., Alta., Sask., Ont.

Schedule II—Showing price of Primers and Readers in six provinces: Quebec, British Columbia, Manitoba, Nova Scotia, P. E. Island, New Brunswick.

Schedule III showing price of all school books above mentioned: Manitoba, full cost, Quebec, P. E. Island, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, full cost.

Surely no party which is guilty of such flagrant misrepresentation can hope to succeed! The above official statement shows how completely the opposition has thrown truthfulness and fairness to the winds!

Can the electors approve of such misrepresentation? Will they not rather continue their confidence in an administration by whose careful business foresight, the school books of New Brunswick are cheaper than in any other province of the Dominion?—The opposition will be overwhelmed by the school book slander.

GRIP VICTIMS RELIEVED

PE-RU-NA is a Reliable Remedy for the After-Effects of Grip, Such as Indigestion, Prostration and Poor Circulation.

La Grippe Leaves Systemic Catarrh. Judge Horatio J. Goes, Hartwell, Ga., writes: "Some five or six years ago I had a very severe spell of grip which left me with systemic catarrh."

"A friend advised me to try your Peruna, which I did, and was immediately benefited. The third bottle completed the cure."

The Right Medicine. Mrs. Henrietta A. St. Marsh, 218 Reservoir St., Los Angeles, Cal., President Woman's Benevolent Ass'n, writes: "I suffered with a gripe for seven weeks, and nothing I could do or take helped me until I tried Peruna."

"I felt at once that I had at last secured the right medicine and I kept steadily improving. Within three weeks I was fully restored, and I am glad that I gave that truly great remedy a trial I will never be without it again."

In a letter dated August 21, 1904, Mrs. Marsh says: "I have never yet heard the efficacy of Peruna questioned. We still use it."

Pe-ru-na Recommended by Friends. Mr. N. Beauchamp, 128 rue Notre Dame, Lachine, P. Q., writes: "I tried the famous remedy, Peruna, which was recommended to me by one of my friends, R. Pilon."

"I have not been without this valuable remedy for seven months, and now I see that I am entirely cured. Formerly on lying down I was unable to breathe through my nose and I never passed a day without headache."

"Today I experience none of these symptoms and this is due to Peruna."

Head and Stomach Were Affected. Miss Olive Perrault, 288 Davidson St., Montreal, Can., writes: "I write you a word to congratulate you on your famous remedy, Peruna. I tried other remedies, but my cold did not get any better, and I feared I was becoming consumptive."

"The condition of my head and stomach was very annoying. I had coughed day and night for three months as the result of a cold which had contracted from sudden change of temperature. My brother advised me to try Peruna and I did so, for he was cured by Peruna. I took it regularly and improved steadily. I have now taken three bottles of it and am completely cured."

Competent Men Plentiful

The Toronto Globe consoles with "what may be called the Ministerial party in New Brunswick" for its loss within the past dozen years of a number of able leaders.

"It first lost Mr. Blair. Mr. Emmerson, who succeeded him also went to Ottawa. Mr. Tweedie, a very capable administrator, resigned for five years and was succeeded by Mr. Pugsley. That gentleman resigned the Premiership last year to take the Public Works portfolio and was succeeded by Mr. Robinson."

This is one way of looking at the business. But there are other points of view. Mr. Blair did not cease to lead the ministerial party—at election times—even after he went to Ottawa. Mr. Emmerson continued to be effective after Mr. Tweedie was Premier, and so on, and no one would presume to affirm that Mr. Pugsley has ceased his work even though Mr. Robinson possesses all the qualities of leadership.

The fact is that in this province there is no difficulty whatever in respect of competent men. Mr. D. L. Hanington was leader of the government when he was driven out by Mr. Blair, but Mr. Hanington was a competent man, and he had capable assistants in Mr. P. A. Landry and in Mr. H. McLeod.

These three gentlemen have gone upon the provincial bench, and they have proven themselves able judges. Mr. E. L. Wetmore, for some years leader of the opposition, is now Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Saskatchewan. The late Mr. A. A. Stockton led the opposition for a period, is successor to Mr. Hanington, and Mr. J. D. Hazen succeeded Mr. Stockton. Any one or all of these gentlemen could have led a ministerial party with success if they had been needed, or if they had laid themselves out to make the proper combinations.

If Mr. Stockton had continued local politics he would have creditably led any government formed by him. If Mr. Robinson should go to Ottawa from Westmorland in place of Mr. Emmerson, as does not seem unlikely, he would have a good successor in Mr. McKeown, or if the fortunes of political war should make Mr. Hazen a ministerial leader nobody doubts his ability to carry out the work satisfactorily.

Indeed if we are to judge our political history for the last quarter of a century or more, from the time the late Mr. Justice Fraser retired from public life until the present day, the unbiased services out to make the proper combinations. If Mr. Stockton had continued local politics he would have creditably led any government formed by him.

A Wise Mother

Surely nothing wiser or more beautiful was ever written respecting the training of children than those lines of Mark Twain's: "The mother of my children adores them—there is no milder term for it; and they worship her; they even worship anything which the touch of her hand has made sacred. They know her for the best and truest friend they have ever had or ever shall have; they know her for one who never did them a wrong and cannot do them a wrong; who never told them a lie nor the shadow of one; who never deceived them by even an ambiguous gesture; who never gave them for a punishment an unreasonable command; nor ever contended herself with anything short of a perfect obedience; who has always treated them as politely and considerately as she would the best and oldest in the land, and has always required of them gentle speech and courteous conduct toward all, of whatsoever degree, with whom they chanced to come in contact; they knew her for one whose promise, whether of reward or punishment, is gold, and always worth its face to the uttermost farthing."

Go to Farming

A good living is what comparatively few men succeed in making in village or city life, and yet nothing is more easy of accomplishment on the farm. Besides, there is a pleasure in cultivating and embellishing the earth, improving and increasing its products, and thus adding to the aggregate of human happiness. Why then, should young men hesitate to be farmers? It is both profitable and honorable. It is the nearest approximation to independence that a man, as a member of society, can make. A gentleman farmer—and all farmers are, or should be, gentlemen—belongs to an order of nobility that is not indebted to placemen for installation, and may, if he chooses, be ranked among the greatest benefactors of the human race. Let the idle young men go to work on farms, and quit seeking third and fourth rate clerkships. In short, go to farming and quit begging.

Now Bishop of New Brunswick

St. John, Feb. 6.—Right Rev. John A. Richardson, formerly rector of Trinity Episcopal Church, St. John, was formally enthroned Bishop of New Brunswick, the ceremony being performed in the Cathedral at Fredericton. At the same time Rev. Charles D. Schofield was inducted into the Church as Dean. The services which were attended by practically all the clergy of the Church in New Brunswick were conducted by Archbishop Forsythe. About eleven o'clock the procession of choir and clergy entered the Cathedral, and the usual ceremony was gone through. Bishop Richardson being invested with the full government of the diocese and the responsibility of the Cathedral given to Rev. Mr. Schofield. After the enthronement Bishop Mills, of Ontario preached an eloquent sermon on the history and work of the Church.

Following this communion was celebrated and this afternoon the service closed with an organ recital. Bishop Richardson has already made a name for himself by his energetic and systematic conduct of church work, and for the individuality displayed by him in fearlessly dealing with social problems confronting the Church.

More Fresh Air

"It is safe to say," declared a physician "that one-half of the women are simply starving for fresh air, and if they would throw away their pill bottles and headache powders and exercise freely in the open air for at least two hours daily, they would feel like new women at the end of the year. Nature cannot be cheated, nor impaired forces be restored by swallowing medicine every time warning pain and illness overtake the offender. A busy woman may be compelled to neglect some duty or pleasure for a time in order to obtain the outdoor exercise, but under the circumstances it will be excusable, and in the long run she will make up for it, because of increased bodily vigor."

MR. J. A. GOVER.

PERUNA is a remedy for the after-effects of grippe. Nearly every person who has had the grip during the past winter finds himself left with some chronic catarrhal condition more or less intolerable. It may be a hacking cough, or a tired, all-worn-out feeling.

Sometimes indigestion appears and hangs on in spite of all remedies. A short course of Peruna removes all these symptoms and puts the patient right again. We have a multitude of testimonials along this line.

Mr. Frank H. Fielder, 218 Pleasant Ave., Montgomery, Ala., formerly principal of Haynesville High School, writes: "I can truthfully say that Peruna is a splendid remedy for la grippe, and a good tonic for building up the system."

Uncle Reuben's Elevator Ride

Uncle Reuben came back from the city, excited and nervous. He had gone to the city to transact some law business connected with his farm, with a lawyer whose address Reuben carried along for memorandum.

"Wal," he began, after his wife, alarmed at his changed condition, had threatened to summon the doctor from the nearest village, if he would not explain his cause. "I had about the skinniest shave from death this mornin' I ever heard on!" It was in that lawyer's buildin' too. "Y' see, I found the right place!" started lookin' through the buildin' for his name an' number. Finally after walkin' up stairs after stairs for two hours, I set down all tired out on the top step o' the last stairway, completely discouraged.

"Where kin I find Lawyer Barnes' office?" I asked a man hurryin' by me. He didn't stop but just pointed his thumb at a young feller standin' inside a cage-like room, chewin' gum like sixty. So I stepped over an' into this little room an' asked the boy if he was Lawyer Barnes' clerk. "No," he says, "bit fresh like, but I'll see that y' see him?" Then that fresh young feller hit the wall a punch that did the hull business!"

Here Reuben paused to cover his eyes and shake all over.

"He hadn't any more 'n hit that wall, when he dislodged that room's git-rich-quick fastenin'!" he went on, when his spell was over, an' th' hull floor o' that room fell right 'at an' down them fifteen stories to th' ground, takin' me an' that young feller with it!

"Wal, thank God, here I be, Sarahy. How either of us escaped gittin' every bone in our bodies broke I don't know, an' don't care. All I know is that floor fell flat on the ground an' we didn't lose our footin'! When that shock was over I hugged the young feller fr' joy an' gve him a five dollar bill for openin' the door an' lettin' me out ahead o' him. Then I hustled fr' home."

It calms the cough, and heals the sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to relieve or suppress. Demand Dr. Shoop's. Take no other. Sold by All Dealers.

Two Records Contrasted

The government of New Brunswick is charged with extravagance and with increasing the public debt beyond what is necessary for the well being of the province. In a pamphlet issued under the direction of Mr. Hazen it is asserted that in the first year in which Mr. Blair had control of the finances of New Brunswick there was a deficit. No more untrue statement was ever made. When the record of Mr. Blair and his successors is compared with that of those who preceded him in the management of the affairs of the province any unprejudiced student of the political history of New Brunswick can not but be convinced that the affairs of the province have been administered with greater care and conservatism during the past twenty-five years than in the first fourteen years after confederation.

During the period when the friends of Mr. Hazen administered the affairs of the province they withdrew from the surplus at Ottawa and gave away to political friends for railway subsidies the enormous sum of $2,305,564.67. Besides this they gave away for the construction of the New-Brunswick railway 1,647,772 acres of the crown lands, worth at the very lowest estimate $4,943,316--a sum equivalent to the total bonded debt of the province in 1906. They sold to political favorites 218,669 acres of the best forest lands of the province at from 50 to 80 cents an acre. These lands today would be worth $654,207 at a modest valuation. In addition they created a bonded debt of $891,200 and left Mr. Blair as a legacy of their misgovernment a floating indebtedness of $321,374.47. On the eve of a general election they passed a railroad subsidy act which is responsible for additions to the debt of $1,008,500.

As a direct result of this reckless administration of its affairs the annual income of the province was decreased $325,258. Had Mr. Blair and his successors enjoyed the income from the lands alienated for railroad subsidies or practically given away to lumbermen who were political friends and supporters, and had he not been compelled to provide for the interest on the liabilities contracted by his predecessors, there would have been ample means to pay for the construction of all the bridges erected in the province without adding a single dollar to the bonded debt. With a greatly reduced area of crown lands to work upon the present government has been able to increase the revenue three-fold compared with what it was twenty-five years ago.

As a further proof of what has been done to conserve the interests of the province it may be pointed out that of the two millions added to the debt of the province since the change of government a million and a half is for permanent bridges and other important public works which includes aid for the wharves, warehouses and grain elevators erected by the city of St. John on the western side of the harbor. Had the railway policy of the present government, by which the advances and guarantees made towards the construction of railways are secured by mortgage on the railroad, its rolling stock and franchise, been adopted at the beginning the province of New Brunswick would have saved at least four millions of its debt, because, with the exception of one or two unimportant lines, every railroad subsidized by New Brunswick is now a good paying property.--Sun.

Son Caused Mother's Death

Halifax, N. S. An investigation held today at Ohio, a village about seven miles from here, reveals a shocking state of affairs. About three weeks ago an aged woman named Caroline Hilton complained to Stipendiary C. S. Pelton, of Yarmouth, that she had been beaten by her son, Ebenezer Hilton, who used an axe handle as the implement of punishment. He was immediately apprehended and on trial was found guilty and sentenced to a year and a half in the common jail. On Friday last the aged woman, passed away and Rev. Mr. Saunders, pastor of the Baptist church at Ohio, refused to bury her until an inquest had been held. Accordingly, Coroner A. M. Perry, M. D., was summoned and held an inquest today, with Warden M. E. Saunders as foreman and the jury. Three witnesses were examined, the wife of Ebenezer Hilton, his daughter and the husband of the latter. The evidence showed that the son had beaten his mother into insensibility, had dragged her over the frozen ground, and kicked her. It was furthermore brought out that he had threatened to take her life. The evidence established the fact that the woman had never revived after her terrible ordeal. After due deliberation, the jury found that death had been caused by the beating received at the hands of her son, together with subsequent neglect, and recommended that the attorney general should immediately take the matter up.

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments, must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional. Both are important, both essential. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the local. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is the constitutional. Success means a happy, healthy, and contented life. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment, acting through the system, reaching the seat of all nerves, the brain, and all blood elements.

The "Night Cure", as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, breaks down weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, taken after bedtime, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well

Hints on Etiquette

In society never forget that you are one of many.

Never stare about you in a room as if you were taking stock.

A letter of introduction should be given to the bearer unsealed.

When at a party you may speak to those next to you, even you have not been introduced.

Personal pronouns should be used as little as possible when speaking of any one present or absent.

Punctuality is an instinct of good breeding; to fail in keeping an appointment at the time arranged is a direct affront to the person awaiting you.

Remember age commands respect of youth, and even in the bustle of the twentieth century a lady always makes way for her superior in years.

Lovers should not make a practice of absenting themselves, or of being so entirely absorbed with each other as to neglect those whose company they may be in.

A woman need not rise when shaking hands with a child or man, unless he be elderly, when it is most gracious to do so, but she should always rise when greeting another woman.

At Table. Courtesy excludes the introduction of all subjects calculated to excite heated argument, unpleasant discussion, or anything that may be obnoxious to anyone present.

Personal Remarks. Even between personal friends a certain reticence should be observed in this particular. Never be too effusive in manner, but when you can sincerely do so, praise the actions or gifts of friends. This is better than praising their actual possessions. It is well to remain silent if you cannot honestly praise.

When in Company. In conversation avoid political, commercial or religious subjects; never interrupt a person when speaking; appear to pay attention or be interested in the conversation. Whispering is bad taste, or conversing in a language that all parties may not be acquainted with. If gifted with wit, do not make a display of it. Look, but avoid staring in the face of the person you are conversing with. Scandal is inexcusable.

Grippe is sweeping the country. Stop it with Preventives, before it gets deeply seated. To check early colds with these little Candy Cold Cure Tablets is surely sensible and safe. Preventives contain no Quinine, no Iodoquin, nothing harsh or sickening. Pneumonia would never appear if early colds were promptly broken. Also good for feverish children. Large box, 48 tablets, 25 cents. Vest pocket boxes 5 cents. Sold by All Dealers.

The Art of Scolding

There is an art in scolding, but to practice it effectually we must keep our temper well in hand, and wait until our anger has cooled, to administer that word-castigation which often cuts more deeply than the lash of a whip. Scoldings lose their efficiency by being constantly repeated, but a few sharp words in season often act like a tonic and clear the atmosphere of the home. With children, above all, if we wish to be respected, we should never show temper or raise our voice. Our children are often our judges. "I will speak to you in an hour" acts far more powerfully than the most violent display of passion. Good breeding is shown by gentleness and perfect self-control under any stress of circumstances. When the child has been spoken to and knows his punishment, he must be told to leave the room instead of being allowed to treat himself to a feast of tears and a storm of sobs, which pave the way, if the mother is weak, to a reconciliation which plays havoc with her authority more than anything else can possibly do.

I have said, and I maintain, that there should be no such thing as "scolding" between husband and wife. Matters, however serious, can be dismissed dispassionately, always out of the children's hearing, for no woman should allow her children to become aware that there is any friction or disturbance between the parents.

Now as to the servants, we have to start from the fact that servants are human beings very much like ourselves. The social gulf is more fictitious in spirit than in fact, and we have to consider how we should like to be in their place, working a round of monotonous duties, like a squirrel in a cage, all day long.

We must therefore, endeavor to be just—it would be better to be kind. Never scold or nag at a servant, because it will only make matters worse. Talk in a straight, common-sense way—woman to woman—making it clear that as nothing unreasonable is asked, you mean to be obeyed. Let the "scolding" be methodically gone through, no point being omitted that you want impressed, but be brief, because it is far more telling. State facts clearly and concisely, and tell the maid to go and "think it over." If the servant is worth keeping, she will mend; if not, it is best to let her go.

Women would do well to remember that scolding will mark the face with unsightly lines no beauty doctor can eradicate; that to disturb the currents of life and mar its harmony is little short of a crime. Scolding is no good, woman's province; it is an unpleasant medicine that should only be administered in small doses in cases of dire necessity.

GOVERNMENT TICKET

Election March 3, 1908
George I. Hill, Milltown
George M. Byron, Campobello
Andrew McGee, St. George
R. E. Armstrong, St. Andrews

THE POLITICAL SITUATION.

The more carefully we have studied the situation, the more childish becomes the attitude of the men leading the Opposition. Without a platform, apart from that which they have borrowed from the Government, the only thing they can do is to cry "Highways" and "School Books." We would not mind the childishness of the cry if it were honest. The whole energy of the "leaders" is in the line of a frantic and desperate effort to get in out of the cold. They would get there first by the way of the

HIGHWAYS.

The Government has met this plank upon which they are floating in its own declaration that such changes will be made in the Highway Act as to make the law meet the wishes of the people, but to do just what the people do not want to be done, viz. throw both cost and responsibility entirely on the Counties. How would Charlotte like that?

SCHOOL BOOKS.

We are surprised at the statements of these "leaders?" We would not like to call them dishonest, but when it comes to compare our New Brunswick school books, selling at 40 cents, with bankrupt stock in Ontario selling at 15 cents, it has a strong resemblance to dishonesty. A comparison in prices will be found in another column, and further Premier Robinson has made this statement: "We have decided," "that we will appoint an independent commission of men who understand the publishing of school books and requirements of schools who will be able to go into this question, regardless of politics entirely; go into the matter and see if there is any possible way by which school books can be lessened in price."

FINANCES.

Mr. Flemming's flaunted challenge is met in this statesmanlike way by Premier Robinson. "I have engaged experts who have been recommended to me by the Bank of Montreal, who are going to work upon the books and accounts of this province at once and whatever their report is it will be placed fairly and squarely before the electors of the Province at once. If it condemns the government I cannot help it. We are going to give you the facts. But I know something about finance and figures and will rely upon their statement. Jenkins and Hardy, of Toronto, is the name of the firm communicated with and I have informed them that the books, etc., can be secured at Fredericton."

Highway's gone, School Books gone, Debt and Extravagance gone—what next? We see nothing but to stay out in the cold.

To the Electors of Charlotte County:

Gentlemen, At the earnest solicitation of a large number of electors of the county, I have consented to offer as a candidate for your suffrages at the approaching election of March 3rd, 1908. The time is so short it will be impossible to call on you personally. I therefore am compelled to resort to this expedient, and ask for your generous support of the ticket endorsed by the convention, held at St. Stephen on the 3rd inst. as pledged supporters of the government in all that pertains to economy, honest dealing and the furtherance of the best interests of Charlotte.

Thanking you gentlemen in anticipation of the large majority I fully expect you will roll up for the whole ticket on March 3rd, I remain

Yours Sincerely,
ANDREW MCGEE.

The Government Ticket

ANDREW MCGEE

Mr. McGee, the choice of the convention as a candidate from this section of Charlotte has accepted the nomination. That he is willing to enter this campaign is worthy of all praise. His many business interests, which at all times demand his personal attention, will suffer greatly but those who know his honest sincerity and splendid character will readily understand his accepting the nomination at such a personal sacrifice.

That he is willing to make a campaign in support of the present government shows his resolute determination to keep in power those whom he believes are working for the best interests of the province.

In private life he is honored and respected, and all his business relations have been characterized by fair dealing. The only hope of good clean government lies in the election of a man of this character.

Mr. McGee has been most successful in everything he has undertaken in behalf of the people of his district, and the people of Charlotte will honor themselves by sending him to the legislature where his splendid capacity and absolute integrity will undoubtedly place him in the front rank of law makers of the province.

R. E. ARMSTRONG

Mr. R. E. Armstrong of St. Andrews needs no introduction to the people of Charlotte. For years he has labored with brain and pen for the interests of the county. The people owe him much, his efforts have ever been for their good, his time, his talents and his pen were always at their disposal. He is worthy of appreciation and the voters will show on March 3rd that no mistake was made when he was placed on the government ticket.

GEORGE I. HILL

Mr. George I. Hill of Milltown is a man popular with all classes, a good speaker and capable of presenting the issues of the campaign in a convincing manner. Mr. Hill served for many years in the county council at St. Andrews. He has every qualification necessary to fight for a representative of the County of Charlotte at Fredericton and the general impression is he will stand high on the winning ticket on March 3rd.

GEORGE M. BYRON

Mr. George M. Byron of Welchpool, Campobello is a young man of pleasing address, a politician thoroughly acquainted with conditions in Charlotte, and capable of taking a position with the leaders of the Province. This is Mr. Byron's second appeal to the voters of the county. In the last contest he led his ticket and when we consider the situation, as it was then, he made a remarkable fight. This time with a united party behind him, he will undoubtedly lead a victorious ticket. The opposition concede his election and acknowledge his qualifications to sit with the law makers of the Province.

Because the St. John Globe criticized some phases of provincial matters its recent utterances have been given all the publicity which Conservative journals could give them. The following extract from the editorial column of the Globe appeared in that paper under the heading, "A Good Move," and is not being quoted by the Conservative press or speakers—"It was announced by Premier Robinson at Moncton Monday that experts—accountants in Toronto—have been engaged to examine the public accounts and report upon them. This is a good idea—far better than a debate with the financial critic of the opposition."

Town Council

At regular meeting of the Council Monday Evening 10th. John Crichton, James McKay and Emery Gearson were elected commissioners of the poor. It was recommended that they meet with the parish commissioners and see if any arrangement can be made to reduce the cost of running the Almshouse. A communication was read from the County secretary in reference to County Scott Act inspector officiating in the town. No action taken. Other routine matters were disposed of and council adjourned.

BY THE WAY

Mr. Hazen has been a federal member, local leader, Premier?

We rather suspect that the government built the lower bridge.

Bridge cry last election. Highway act this one. They only do duty once.

The lower bridge still stands in spite of all the pulling and hauling of the politicians.

It is generally conceded that the government ticket in Charlotte is an unusually strong one.

It is generally admitted that nothing can be said about the conservative candidates but what have they done for Charlotte county.

Mr. Hazen puts the provincial debt at $8,000,000. Mr. Fleming, at Moncton told his audience it was $4,000,000. Difference is only slight.

The enthusiasm and unanimity with which the liberal ticket is endorsed denotes that fair men, of both parties, know a good thing when they see it.

What about the sections of the province where the highway act worked well. If it has failed in some sections to meet the requirements of the people the defects can be easily remedied.

Fredericton Herald:—"When a session before an election seemed probable, Mr. Hazen and his friends declared that the government was afraid to meet the people, but now that the legislature has been dissolved and the election called on, the same gentlemen allege that the government dare not meet the House. A very sudden change of tune.

According to the opposition papers the government will do well to win a single county. According to the government papers the last remnant of the opposition will be wiped out. Premier Robinson is surrounded by a lot of men of great ability, who will put up a stiff fight to hold the reins of government. Mr. Hazen is a man of much ability, and a clever debater, but sadly lacking in magnetism. Both men shine in their respective positions and will probably remain there.

A Month's Mind

(George V. McInerney, Died January 12, 1908.)

He lay cold in his grave ere I heard of his passing.

My hero in boyhood, my friend through the years—

Still another sad instance of Death's swift snatching

Recruits from their ranks whom remembrance endears.

He lay cold in his grave as I read the obituary.

Of grief-stricken hearts he had worthily won.

While I joined mine to countless petitions

Winged pleas for his weal in the Life just begun

'Tis that life beyond earth that e'er chastens our grieving:

Not even the grave can withdraw from our care

The white souls we have loved, for Death's utmost bereaving

Still leaves in our power their ransom, through prayer.

List we then to his voice day by day interceding.

From the valley of shadows and pain it ascends,

Far more eloquent now than on earth in its pleading:

"Have pity! have pity, at least, you, my friends!"

Invitations and dance programs at Greetings office.

Geo. Frauley is driving a very stylish coat around town.

In spite of the cold weather the pulp pile continues to grow.

The Liberal Club has rented Foresters' hall, for use during the campaign.

James Fraser has been shipping a large number of oil barrels to St. John.

The snow will considerably help out the lumbermen in the up river districts.

After a hard week, fighting snow and ice, the trains are running on schedule time.

Political meetings will be held almost every night by both parties until election March 3rd.

Mr. A. C. Gillmor has received a car load of coal. Orders will be promptly filled.

Alex. Dewar, mail driver to Back Bay and Letete reports the roads in a terrible condition.

Some of the granite firms intended starting up last week, but were prevented by cold weather.

Miss Bessie Perry entertained a number of her young friends at her home on Saturday evening.

Judge Treisman, a lawyer of high standing and judge of Probate died at St. John on 7th inst.

The changeable weather is leaving an epidemic of complaints. There are many cases of la grippe in town.

David Matthews who was so badly injured in the woods last week, is improving, under the skillful treatment of Dr. Taylor.

A number of persons who intended attending the hall at Beaver Harbor, were prevented from doing so by the storm.

Back Bay, the new ocean part of St. George, will have an able champion in Mr. McGee. The country needs men of his solid type—men of large mould; clean, upright men.—Beacon.

James Fraser has had much difficulty in keeping the sidewalks clear of snow. The plow was almost useless and he was compelled to shovel out many drifts. A new plough is being made which will give better results.

Mr. Armstrong has given the best years of his life to Charlotte County and given them willingly. Liberals as well as conservatives have been benefited by his labors. Show your appreciation of his efforts by voting for him and his associates.—Beacon.

Mr. F. W. Emmerson, High Secretary of the I. O. F. of New Brunswick, has returned from St. John where he attended a meeting of the high standing committee of the I. O. F. The High Court of New Brunswick, it was decided, will meet in St. John on the 12th and 13th of May. This early meeting is arranged on account of the Supreme Court meetings in Toronto in June.

In all the sixteen New Brunswick constituencies there is not a single seat which may safely be set down as sure to go Opposition, while on the other hand Restigouche, Gloucester, Westmorland, Albert, St. John County, Queens, Victoria and Madawaska, with nineteen members in all will surely send a solid Government delegation. Mr. Hauser's party in the next Assembly will not number a baker's dozen.—Sentinel.

A merry crowd attended the Neighborhood Club on Wednesday evening as guests of the young ladies. The amusements were good, the music good, the program of dances good, the supper good and a good time the verdict of all. Prof. Mooney of the orchestra was assisted at times, by the young men and others regretted that they did not bring along some musical instruments to add to the excellent music provided. All the champion whist players were present, and keen contests were the order of the evening. The next dance programs had twenty dances and added to the pleasure of those who love "to chase the glowing hours with flying feet." The "Bachelors' Maids" received many compliments on the excellent arrangements carried out to make everyone happy.

LOCAL AND SPECIAL

The government committee rooms are in Forester's Hall.

The small pox in Albert County is causing considerable anxiety.

Mrs. Catherine Cook, an old resident of Back Bay, died on Monday 10th inst., at the age of 88 years.

When you need anything in the clothing line don't forget that Franley Bros. guarantee their goods.

Calais citizens and border residents generally are cheered by the prospect of a resumption of operations at the old plant of the St. Croix Shoe Co. The pay roll of this plant has been missed for several years by the business men on both sides of the line.

The public will have an opportunity of hearing Hon. C. W. Robinson, Premier of the province of New Brunswick, on Thursday evening, Feb. 13th, when the administration of affairs of the province will be fully explained. Messrs. Byron, Hill, McGee and Armstrong will be present and the public will have a chance to judge of the merits of the men who received the nomination at the recent convention.

By moistening coal ashes with a solution of oxalic acid, rock salt and water, the New York Board of Education is heating all the public school buildings with fires made from ashes, and saving $50,000 a year by it, according to a report made by Patrick Jones, superintendent of school supplies. Some coal, but very little, is used, and the janitors are engaged in a contest to see who can use the least coal and the most ashes.

Pea Point Light House Feb. 1st, 1908.

One of the most severe storms since 1870 was on Saturday night between 7 and 12 o'clock, sweeping everything before it. At Pea Pt. light house the sea washed over it for four hours, tearing the shingles off the southern side, breaking windows and filling the house with water. For four hours the kitchen was the only room in which shelter could be found. The dining room was used as a sleeping room, and even here two small children had to be placed on the table. At eight o'clock the family tried to leave the light-house, as the stone wall was beginning to give away, the attempt however was abandoned through fear of being swept into the sea.

Today

If you made mistakes yesterday forget them. No strength was ever built on continual regret. Today is the result of yesterday, but it is more important to remember that tomorrow is the result of today. The result of the actions of today we can determine, but no amount of dwelling upon yesterday's regret will reshape today.

If we fell yesterday there is nothing to do today but to pick ourselves up, shake off the dust and start afresh. Rise above yesterday. It is hard work to hold up the head and live down a black yesterday but the blacker the yesterday the greater need of rising above it, the higher the head must be held.

Yesterday has passed, let it rest in peace; don't keep dragging it out on parade. Do not waste energy on what cannot be undone. Let yesterday alone.

SHORN LAMBS.
Ways of the Men Who Lose Their All
What becomes of the men who lose in Wall street. They are seldom heard of. The visitor to New York gets the notion that the gay crowd of men at the Waldorf—the "uptown street"—comprises them all. But this crowd is altogether misrepresentative and has no true sign value, says a writer on Wall street in the New Broadway Magazine.

You can retain your equilibrium easily in watching them by remembering that Runner of New Britain is hiding somewhere, a fugitive from justice; that jumper of Milwaukee is in prison; that there are many other men who went down hard with big crashes, and that for every one of the big men there are 10,000 little men whose losses are smaller, but not a whit less fatal.

You would find some of them tonight in New York. If you knew in what window to look, figuring anxiously and endlessly, looking over insurance papers to see if further loans are admissible.

Their wives are sewing; their daughters are studying stenography. You will find others hanging about hotel lobbies, and the moment you catch their eye or grip their hands you know that they are nervous, distraught, brook, restless—typical Wall street victims.

The others, professionals, parasites, satellites, winners, you will find in the cafes and hotel restaurants, making up a large part of the crowds at Sherry's and Delmonico's, Martin's and Rectors, the Waldorf, Manhattan, Astor, St. Regis and Holland House, Wall street by day demands the Great White Way at night. From the moment the market opens till its close the game is a fast and furious one of sharp trickery, clever dodging, rillery, bluffing, hypocrisy, lying.

Nerves are constantly tested; the brain must be clear and quick at every move. Successful living uses up gray matter, and the flash and festivity of the Tondelion at night are just unnatural enough to fit in and offer the kind of recreation desired.

SAW HIS OPPORTUNITY.
The Reporter Seized It, and Got His Real Start in Life.

All the city traveling public loves a strap handler because it is a fellow feeling for him. This is why the story of how Frank Vanderlip, the banker, got his start has an almost universal appeal. It happened when Vanderlip was a reporter on a Chicago newspaper and writing financial news. The traction situation then, as now, was almost impossible. Charles Yerkes was traction dictator, and the stockholders and the public never had a word to say in the conduct of the road. The time for the annual meeting of the stockholders of the principal road came along. At all the meetings Mr. Yerkes had rattled off the reports in the usual, unimpeachable corporation way, and no one knew what was doing. So Vanderlip planned a coup. He bought a share of stock, which admitted him to the meeting. He had been a stenographer before he became a newspaper man. When Mr. Yerkes sat into his breezy explanation of finances the young reporter took down everything he said. Mr. Yerkes used one striking phrase, and it was this: "The passengers who have seats pay the operating expenses, but the strap hangers pay your dividends."

The next day the sentence topped Vanderlip's account of the meeting. It aroused a storm of discussion, for it laid bare some of the traction methods; also it got Vanderlip a raise in salary and a promotion.

Nothing Like That in America.

"This was told me the other day," said a man, "by a friend who has just made the tour of Ireland. He was at the lakes of Killarney, and a jerry driving one of those side seated cars was telling him of a visitor who was attempting to masquerade as an American, but had all the outward signs of being an Englishman."

"You say, sort," said the 'jerry,' 'that you live in the United States. Were you ever in Dubuque, Ia.?'

"I was," said the traveler. "I was there for a fortnight."

"Of what ye?" said the carman. "Ye were never there. Divil a fortnight do they have in America."

Getting it Right.

It was on a street car in the city of Washington. Two colored women in cheaply gorgeous splendor were talking, and one chanced to mention a Mr. Jinks in her conversation.

"Excuse me," said the other woman, "but his name is not Jinks. It is Mr. Jenks."

"Oh, I sees," said the other woman complacently. "I sees that you puts de access on de pronoun."

A Bit of Sarcasm.

A young man who had prolonged his call on his sweetheart a few nights ago was surprised when a window in an upper story was raised as he left the house and the voice of the mistress called out: "Leave an extra quart this morning, please!"—Arizona.

STATE PAWNSHOPS.
French Rate Is 7 Per Cent—Sometimes No Interest Is Charged.

With none of the timidity or hesitation or the shamefaced aspect of our use of pawnshops does the Parisian perform his journey to the money lender. Far from feeling after the door has closed behind him, that he is in the country of the enemy, the Frenchman can have his patriotic ardor at its highest, for over the pawnshop flies the tricolor of France instead of the gilded bells, and the guard at the door is a helmeted, white gloved republican. The customary whispering as the borrower exchanges goods for cash is unknown. Borrowing is a business transaction with the government.

It is not out of appreciation of these conditions of course, that 7,000 people daily visit the municipal pawnshops, but their business trip includes a knowledge of the fact that whatever profits will accrue to the establishments will finally go back to the people.

There is no haggling, says a writer in the Philadelphia Record. On jewelry four-fifths of the value of the object can be secured; on the other articles two-thirds. The interest is 7 per cent per annum. Should a borrower be in the unfortunate position of having paid interest for many years without being able to release the article the authorities will return it. When interest has not been paid the object in question goes to the auction, and then the righteousness of Paris pawnbroking is decidedly in evidence, for after the sale has been consummated and the original loan and interest are deducted from the money secured by the sale the surplus goes to the borrower. Should the money remain unclaimed it is turned over to the Paris hospitals, and, curiously enough, these hospitals profit to the extent of 100,000 francs a year.

When one has made a study of French pawnbroking laws it is easily seen that the first object served by these laws is to protect people who want immediate money advances. France (and we may say France, for municipal pawnbroking is to be found in every corner of the country) cares little that many transactions are carried on at a loss. In one year of some 2,000,000 pawned articles in Paris 1,000,000 were effected at a loss, since no auction will bring a complete return on small objects. Of course this is offset by the return from loans on the other million articles, but should there be a deficiency the municipality has no hesitation in going down in its pockets and thus has an indirect mode of taxing the well to do to support the needy. Since no country has raised a cry against charity, this, as one form of it, can be passed with criticism. The fact is, money is lost on all loans under 20 francs.

The capital of the pawnshops consists of legacies, gifts and subventions of the state, department or commune. Occasionally, as at Grenoble and Montpellier, the establishments are to all intents and purposes self-charged. Paris, for no unfathomable reasons, does the largest pawnbroking business on the continent, 24,000,000 francs being the average yearly pledges and 30,000,000 francs redeemed. The total revenue is 4,000,000 francs, the expense of management 1,500,000 francs, the interest on capital about 1,500,000 francs and the net profit 1,500,000 francs.

A Resourceful Legislator.

"It will be impossible for us to transport any public business tonight," said the president of the city council, "because of the lack of a quorum."

"Mr. Chairman," said the new member, arising quickly, "I have been elected on a pledge to my constituency that I shall work untiringly and unceasingly for the upbuilding and uplifting of our city, and I now and here move that a committee be appointed to consider the immediate purchase of as good a quorum as the market affords and that the committee be instructed to secure the quorum and have it properly installed by the next meeting night. And furthermore," he said, with a pious patriotic touch, "let us obtain a good American quorum and not one of those ancient Roman things!"

In the Swim.

A serious accident happened at the supper table. Somebody—it's always "somebody"—who is to blame—upset a pitcher of water over the cloth. There was a general scampering and a calling for somebody to remedy the mischief.

"How could you be so careless, Tom?" cried Freddie indignantly.

"Never mind, my boy," replied Tom, in his airy way. "It's all right. We're all in the swim now."

Maybe It Didn't.

Tommy—I did wash my face. Mother—How dare you tell me that? Why, it's just as dirty as ever. Tommy—Well, I washed it. But maybe it didn't take. You know my vaccination didn't take the first time.

A Case of Disbelief.

Bill—You look bad, Jim. Been laid up? Jim—Today's the first time out of doors for three months. Bill—What was the matter with you? Jim—Nothin', but the magistrate would not believe it.—London Telegraph.

The Easy Part.

"The doctor says you must stop eating wheat and drinking whiskey." "Well," replied the major, "meat never did agree with me."

The best farming lands in Siberia are those nearest to China.

PERFECT SANITY.
An Impossibility From a Strictly Scientific Point of View.

Anglo-Saxons are so prone to take common sense views of things that they seldom realize the full force of the familiar saying that all men have some form of madness in them. The sound inference is, as is pointed out by Dr. G. H. Savage, the eminent English alienist, in a recent Lancet paper, that perfect sanity would be not only undesirable in itself, but from a strictly scientific point of view impossible. For a perfectly sane person—were such a thing thinkable—would be dull and uninteresting—a mediocrity, a nonentity.

The point to seize, however, as Dr. Savage impresses upon us, is that there can be no comprehensive idea or definition of insanity, because the thing does not really exist. No scientist can set up a standard of rationally departures from which would comprise or denote insanity.

One can diagnose a case of typhoid because it is a continued fever, characterized by a peculiar course of the temperature, by marked abdominal symptoms, by an eruption upon the skin. But there is nothing in what goes by the name of insanity to further a diagnosis as that term is understood by medical men generally. Some treatises upon insanity prove nothing at all by proving too much, for they make whole nations insane at once. Physicians connected with insanity, as Dr. Savage argues, resemble gardeners rather than botanists. "We classify for convenience rather than upon a scientific basis, because, in point of fact, no such basis or finality of mode has as yet been discovered."

Perhaps, adds Dr. Savage, there is no need to wonder at this, since lunatics whose brains and nervous systems show no change whatever from the normal course of what is recognized as sanity. Unfortunately the impulse to define and classify sometimes leads to misinterpretation of a deplorable kind. For, for example, in the false view, as Dr. Savage deems it, that every person of unsound mind is a lunatic. That he says, is "pseudo-legal" absurdity. "Obviously there are many persons of unsound mind who are neither dangerous to themselves nor to others. Why therefore regard them as aliens?"

The true difficulty, insists this distinguished expert, is that the disease insanity does not exist. Yet one might almost conclude from the elaborate articles in our leading daily journals that such a thing as insanity is a definitely established scientific fact; that it is a malady as definite in its symptoms and origin as, say, cancer or tuberculosis.—Current Literature.

The Sacred Beard.

In this age of beardless boys of forty it is interesting to note that, according to a contemporary, the latest society in Paris is the Society of Bearded Beards, composed of leading musicians, literary men and artists. Every member must, under pain of severe penalties, promise to wear a beard which tapers symmetrically to a point. Every Mohammedan is obliged, of course, by his religion to grow a beard, and in Russia the beard has always been an object of reverence. An ordinance which was published in 1915 in Novgorod, then the capital of Russia, exemplifies this. By this law any one plucking a hair from a neighbor's beard was subjected to a punishment four times more severe than that inflicted for cutting off his finger.—Westminster Gazette.

Hospital Trolley Car.

Milwaukee has a novelty in trolley cars. It is a hospital car which has recently been put in service. The interior of the car is fitted with three leather upholstered permanent stretchers. Hooks are placed in the sides near the ceiling, which support a fourth stretcher. At each end of the car are stations where attendants hold complete surgical outfits, consisting of all necessary instruments, as well as dressings that might be called for in an emergency case. The car is electrically heated, and water in a two gallon tank fed from a larger receptacle may be heated in the same manner. The car is not designed for city work, but in outlying districts first aid will be directed on the ground instead of taking the sufferer to the city.

Long Distance Ballooning Records.

Many notable trips have been made in balloons. In 1849 Mr. Wise started from St. Louis and came down in Hennessey county, N. Y., having made about 800 miles. This stood as the world's long distance record until the Paris exposition of 1900, when the Comte de la Zuyde sailed over into Russia. His distance was about 1,200 miles, and he was in the air over thirty-six hours. The present record for time was established by two German aeronauts last spring. They succeeded in remaining in the air over fifty-one hours.—F. F. Lahn, U. S. A., in Outing Magazine.

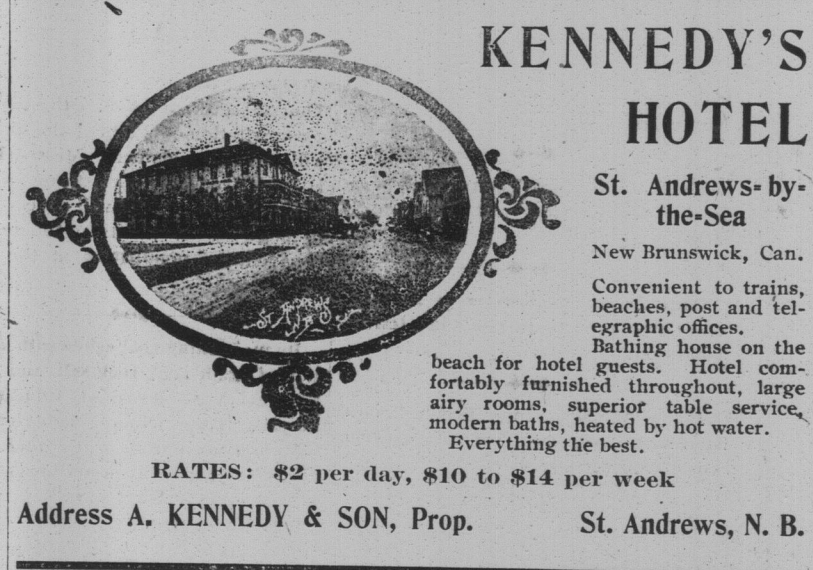

Adulteration Abroad.

"We are not in it with the forelmen in food adulteration," said a chemist. "I spent my summer vacation in England and on the continent analyzing cheap foods. The things I found out—"They freshen up fat beer with fish skins over there. They thicken cream with the brains of dead horses. Apricot marmalade is made of carrots sweetened with glucose. The octopus, or devilfish, is canned and put on the market as prime lobster. Spoiled potatoes are palmed off as truffles. Chocolate is adulterated with clay."—New York Times.

Brought By The Storm

There were good fishing, sailing and an ideal camping spot on Norton's Bay, and this was the third season that Burt Scovel and his college chum, Jack Francis had pitched their tents there. It was five miles from the nearest village, two to the nearest farmhouse, and the place offered all the wildness one could ask for.

Just when the sun was ready to sink out of sight, and the first moan of the coming storm was heard, an apparition appeared that struck the boys dumb with amazement for a moment or two—
"She had lost her hat," the girl was flying, and it was evident that she was in a great fright.

It was dark as night in the shanty and a candle was lighted. The girl crouched down on the floor with her hands over her face, and she remained thus for the next 20 minutes. Then the first rush of the storm was over and she looked up.

The campers had been waiting for this. Her dress had proved in advance that she was not a farmer's daughter, and they were also prepared to find her good-looking.

As she looked up with a deprecating smile, Burt offered her a rule stool and Jack gallantly said:—

"Welcome to our camp. If this storm had caught you in the woods, it wouldn't have been a pleasant situation. Are you from some camp further up the shore?"
"Many thanks for your kindness. I am living in the village. I was lost in the woods. I was born deaf and dumb."

"By thunder, Jack, but here's a go!" exclaimed Burt to whom the girl had handed the paper. "Deaf and dumb, eh?" mused Jack as he read. "Say, now, but this beats fishing and sailing! She may be deaf and dumb, but she's a daisy. Look at that hair—those eyes—that face! If she isn't a hammer then I'll eat my hat!"

"Well, don't fall in love and write out a marriage proposal within the next five minutes. My son, you are impetuous, and your impetuosity is going to bring you to a bad end some day."

"It's too mighty bad that she's deaf and dumb. It must be a terrible affliction. Did you notice her smile how sad it was? I don't suppose there's one man in a thousand who'd want to marry such a wife, no matter how good-looking she was, or how much money her old dad had."

"Drop it, my son, drop it. You are paving the way to announce that you'd be willing to sacrifice yourself, but I won't have it. That girl is under my fatherly care just now, and I won't have her scared half to death by a proposal of marriage."

"You go to!" was the growling answer as the three made ready to eat what had been placed before them.

It was raining cats and dogs outside. The roof leaked and the candle fluttered, but the girl seemed to find something romantic in the situation. She smiled as she ate, and between sandwiches she took the pad and wrote:

"But for your being camped here I should have had to pass the night in the woods. I suppose you are having your vacation? Do you think the storm will last all night?"

Burt wrote that they were college boys passing a month at that spot, and that they had found fishing good. As to the storm, he was afraid it would continue for some hours yet, but begged her not to be anxious.

"Look here, now," said Jack, when that matter had been disposed of. "I want to make a few inquiries on my own account. Would it be impertinent to ask her if she has any hopes of getting her hearing and speech?"

"Why, certainly it would. It is not a matter to be touched on in any way, shape or manner. If she was born that way, there is no hope for her."

"But she is such a fine-looking girl, that I'd like her to know that I feel sorry for her."

"She will probably take it for granted that you do. My son, don't be too forward. You sipped into an air hole last winter by being too forward."
"Hang it, but you are struck on your-
