59TH YEAR. NO. 23332

LONDON, ONTARIO. WEDNESDAY EVENING, MAY 10, 1922. SIXTEEN PAGES

PRICE, THREE CENTS

"DARK MEN" SAY ELUSIVE "PAT" BANDIT IN CITY

Londoner Gets "Big Clew" From Stranger "Who Desires Name Withheld."

WONDERS NEVER CEASE

Fugitive's Sole Dissipation Is Wild West Films, 'Tis Whispered.

Has the fourth bandit, the elusive "Pat," as he was popularly known in refined police circles, returned to his accustomed haunts in London? Or is it taking the credulity of the average person too much with the theory that he has never left the vicinity since that sunny April afternoon in '21 when he eluded the posse of aroused citizenry out Mount Brydges way?

Almost simultaneously with a sensational and unverified report that the five bold bandits who held up and robbed the Wyoming bank in October last, was about to be revealed by a young woman who "desires her name to be withheld" for the present, comes the claim that the fourth bandit is now in London and working every day in the week, exclusive of Sundays and bank holidays.

Returning to the city a few nights ago, after a business trip to Kitchener, a well-known young resident here drifted naturally into casual conversation with one of the several persons battling ennui in the smoking compartment ahead, of a swarthy appearance, and a heavy drooping moustache and wearing a baggy black hat, the stranger was nevertheless pleasant company for the Londoner, and the two whiled away the hours in aimless chit-chat, discussing in turn the O. T. A., the new city hall, the Dakin street school and what not.

One can well imagine the startled expression upon the Londoner's face, however, when, just this side of Gables, the mysterious one leaned over and in a hoarse whisper, declared: "The fourth bandit is now living in your city."

Following from his astonishment, the local man asked one or two matter-of-fact questions, but not desiring to arouse the suspicions of his companion, who might induce one of the Wyoming bandits to contemplate a train robbery, he did not pursue the subject too perseveringly.

The stranger did tell him, however, he relates, that the one whom he believes to be "Pat" is now residing at a Talbot street rooming-house, south of the G. T. R., and is actually working at his trade over a Chinese laundry well up in the business district.

He heard further that the suspect usually travels alone, and rarely goes out of an evening except to attend one of the moving picture palaces, where a wild west film is being exhibited.

After a good night's sleep at home, the Londoner had concluded that his acquaintance had been "fugged" him, until he read the report that the five Wyoming bandits were soon to be brought to justice.

Believing then that it was the proper thing to do, he hurried to The Advertiser and related his story, although he "desires his name withheld for the present."

At all possible, Miss Agnes McPhail, M.P., will be in London for a few days between July 1 and 10, to attend the London district Latter Day Saints' reunion. In a characteristic letter written to Elder Frank G. Jones, who is publicity secretary of the reunion, Miss McPhail says: "If it is at all possible I will go for a day or two between the 1st and 10th of July, but demands on my time are simply tremendous, and I cannot accept many of the invitations extended."

She pays her compliments to The Advertiser for making the first announcement that she was coming. "I think," she says, "you'd better tell The Advertiser they are sure to get the worm if it always goes to the early bird. It beats all the things that get into the daily press." Also in the letter she states: "The newspapers do beat the Dutch." She adds they didn't get the information that she was coming from Ottawa, at least not from her.

In this connection, however, Miss McPhail overlooked the fact she is an important personage, and even her leisure-moment conversation is of interest to the press.

FEAR DOOM OF GENOA PARLEY LOOMS

Denounces London's City Hall As Civic Disgrace

COMMISSION TO URGE BUILDING AT EARLY DATE

Will Recommend Council Sell Federal Square and Use Present Site.

DECIDES UNANIMOUSLY

Mayor Wilson Verifies Reports of Old Structure Being Condemned.

The civic commission will recommend to the city council that the federal square property, purchased some years ago for a city hall site, be sold and that a city office building be erected on the site of the present city hall.

The commissioners were unanimous in reaching this decision. The meeting followed a luncheon held in Smallman & Ingram's dining-room.

Other decisions reached include the appointment of a transportation commission to go into the civic transportation question and prepare a recommendation for the council; approval of the debenture issue of $2,000 for the new Dakin street school and the holding up of $5,000 debenture issue for the Technical school.

Empowered the Parks board to create a $5,000 overdraft to care for the damage caused to trees and boulevards during the recent storm.

There were no contentious points about the city hall proposal. Mayor Wilson said that it was agreed that the present city hall was a disgrace to the city, and the council was willing to go and erect a suitable accommodation. There was the suggestion that the federal square property be sold, and an office building erected on the site of the present structure. The construction would be similar to the utilities building. Later it was decided to carry out the Adams scheme and building on the Leavenworth or some other site, the city would find a ready market for its office building.

Col. Gartschore, of the hospital trust, said the proposal was a highly desirable one.

Trustee Campbell of the board of education said that one reason why he favored a new building was that the present structure was not safe and was not meant to carry the crowds it does.

Mayor Wilson interrupted to remark that the present structure had been condemned by the building inspector, and this corroborating the speaker's statement that the present structure was unsafe.

Moves Sale of Square. Philip Pocock moved that the Federal Square be sold and the erection of an office building undertaken, and this was approved.

School Inspector Greer presented arguments in favor of the erection of the eight-roomed Dakin Street School. The cost was estimated at $8,000 a room.

Ben Noble, representing the public library board, said that a school could not be erected for such a sum.

Mayor Wilson frowned also on the estimate of Architect Carrothers.

Whistler Immortalized His Own Mother In Painting Her As An Ideal

JAMES ABBOTT McNEILL WHISTLER'S portrait of his own mother is one of the most remarkable paintings of modern times. It is one of the very few instances where an artist has immortalized his own mother on canvas.

The madonna—the young mother with her child—is, and always has been, one of the greatest sources of inspiration for the artist, but the mother of mature years has eluded most of them.

Canadian art galleries without exception reveal the fact that while wives, sweethearts, children, and fathers have frequently served as models, the mother has rarely done so.

The explanation is simple. It is much easier to paint youth, love, innocence or strength than it is to paint character.

The beauty of a mature woman lies not merely in her features, but in the character her face registers, and this quality is what evades the artist when he tries to capture it with oil or crayon.

But Whistler was able to do it. He painted not only a portion of his own mother, but one of the universal ideal of motherhood as well—one that we all feel.

We are proud of our modern mothers, with their trim figures and their smart costumes, who are so capable inside and outside the home, and so able to take care of themselves. They are the product of our modern civilization, and we would not want them to be different.

But at the same time, we all cherish an ideal of motherhood that these modern mothers themselves instilled in us—possibly someone like the grandmother or great-grandmother we knew as children—a woman frankly old and frankly dependent. She acknowledged her years with her silver hair, her honest wrinkles and her retiring ways. She did not belong to the world, but to the home.

This is the type of mother Whistler painted in London, England, and the memory of this type need never die.

Because he handled his subject so reverently and sincerely, we all recognize his artistry. People who know nothing of the technique of art love this picture for its sentiment and pathos.

Others love it for its merit as a painting, and marvel at the powerful effect achieved by means of the simple, harmonious arrangement of greys and blacks.

Had Whistler done nothing more than produce this one picture, he would have ranked among the great masters.

MANITOBA RAINS HINDER SEEDING

Winnipeg, May 10.—The seven-day period from May 3 to 9 has been all that could be wished for from a growing standpoint over all of the western provinces, states the grain trade news weekly crop report, issued last night.

Temperatures have ruled from a maximum of better than 70 to a low of very little below freezing point. Precipitation has been somewhat plentiful, and while it has proved very welcome in districts where the work was well forward, it has proved a sad hindrance in other districts where much of the land is too wet for seeding, the report states.

LONDON YOUTH KILLED IN WEST

Harold Lobb Dies At Mission City When Train Hits Auto.

When Londoners read the news flashed from Vancouver Monday, announcing that six people were instantly killed near Mission City when the auto in which they were riding was struck by a fast Canadian Pacific Railway train, they little realized that this tragedy would cast a pall over a home in this city.

Included in the death list, sent out following the accident, was "a man known as Shorty." This meagre information did not convey much to a little mother residing at 204 Rectory street, and this morning, like a bolt from the blue, she was deeply shocked to learn that "Shorty" was Harold Redvers Lobb, her only son.

Harold, who was 21 years old, attended Chesley avenue public school here, and was well-known in the city. He left this city for the west five years ago, prior to which time he was employed in the press-room of The London Advertiser.

Visited Home Two Years Ago. The young victim visited his aged mother two years ago and renewed his acquaintance with her in the city. His mother, Mrs. A. A. Lobb, and three sisters residing in London and district, now face the realization that their only son and brother was one of the seven whose lives were cruelly snuffed out by the rapidly-traveling locomotive.

At the time of his death, Lobb was riding with Oliver Deroche, a prominent dairy farmer, in whose honor the town of Deroche was named. Mrs. Rose McDonald of Deroche and her son Alex, McDonald, Bert Gregory, a farm hand, and Miss Margaret Pentland of Mission City, all of whom were killed.

The locomotive of the train struck the auto at a level crossing and hurled it against a box car on a nearby siding. Hon. Dr. W. H. Sutherland, minister of public works for British Columbia, was a passenger on the train with Premier Lobb, at least not from her.

In this connection, however, Miss McPhail overlooked the fact she is an important personage, and even her leisure-moment conversation is of interest to the press.

Hon. Charles Stewart To Visit Indians Saturday

Chief Deskaheh Received Today from the Liberal Government at Ottawa.

Chief Deskaheh received today from the Liberal government at Ottawa, that Hon. Charles Stewart, minister of the interior and superintendent-general of Indian affairs, would leave the capital Saturday for Brantford, where he will confer with leaders of the Six Nations Indians with a view to a settlement of the controversy with the Indian department, particularly with Duncan C. Scott, deputy-superintendent-general, whom the Indians declare, is not dealing fairly with them.

Chief Deskaheh stated at noon that he believed the determination of the Liberal cabinet, minister to personally visit the reserve Saturday was the result of the publicity given the Indians' claims by The London Advertiser, which, he believed, was actuated by a desire to avert needless strife.

He expressed the hope that The London Advertiser staff writer, Russell B. Boyd, who resided in his home during the past week, would be able to return for the conference.

BRIG.-GEN. KING ARRIVES IN CITY

New Commander of Military District Will Continue Camp Preparations.

"Two-thirds of the militia is built up on enthusiasm, and if you take away summer camps, and such, naturally that enthusiasm is lost, look over his new field of activities, said Brig.-Gen. W. B. M. King, the newly-appointed head of military district, No. 1, successor to General Panet, who arrived in London Tuesday night to the whole of things military prior to taking charge on the first of June.

Commenting on the suggestion made in the House of Commons on Tuesday by General Newburn, minister of militia in the late government, that London military district be abolished and the territory be brought under the jurisdiction of the Toronto headquarters, Brig.-Gen. King stated that he had never heard the proposal being put forward before, and he was unable to say just what possibilities it held.

"The most important thing," the general said, speaking of the reduction of militia estimates, "is that such reduction would lessen the possibilities of the shah."

TWO OFFICERS DIE IN CHICAGO LABOR STRIFE

Patrolman Fatally Wounded and Traffic Lieutenant Shot Without Warning.

TWO BUILDINGS BOMBED

Police Chief Orders Arrest of Leaders of Every Calibre.

BULLETIN. Chicago, Ill., May 10.—The police today raided the building trades labor headquarters and arrested three of Chicago's big labor leaders—"Big Tim" Murphy, Fred Mader, and Cornelius Shea—in connection with bombings and shootings which early today resulted in the death of two policemen and serious injury of a third.

Chicago, May 10.—Two policemen were shot and killed, another wounded and two buildings bombed early today in disorders which police attribute to labor warfare. The shootings were followed by a running pistol fight in which the killers eluded the police.

Charles C. Fitzmaurice, chief of police, immediately despatched every policeman on duty and directed that all labor leaders of whatsoever calibre be brought in.

"I have ordered detention of every one who may have any information of the workings of labor attacks," he said.

The dead are: Terrance Lyons, 30, acting lieutenant; Patrolman Thomas Clarke, 30.

The wounded man is Patrolman Albert Moeller.

Although the killings and bombings were in different parts of the city, police believe they were directed by a single band, determined to express resentment at enforcement of the Landis wage award, a decision handed down by K. M. Landis, former federal judge, acting as arbitrator in a long drawn out dispute between members of the building trades council and contractors.

The buildings bombed were the garage of Tuley & Hippenbach, 1000 Henderson street, and the garage of Tuley & Hippenbach, 1000 Henderson street, and the garage of Tuley & Hippenbach, 1000 Henderson street.

Patrolman Clarke, who was guarding a building previously bombed and under police protection, was notified of the garage bombing and a few minutes later a taxi driver notified the police that three men were fighting with Clarke. Officers were fighting with Clarke. He had found him fatally wounded. He had been shot through the head and died on the way to the hospital.

Police believe Clarke was killed by men who, Monday, showered the building with bricks and escaped in an automobile.

Later Lieut. Lyons, seeing a car sneaking past a traffic signal commanded it to halt. The occupants answered with a volley of shots which killed Lyons and wounded Patrolman Moeller. Since the labor war began thousands of dollars worth of property has been destroyed and scores of persons injured.

ALLIES AWAIT SOVIET REPLY WITH CHANGES

Withheld At Last Moment For Further Alterations.

FRANCE STANDS FIRM

Property Rights Issue Backed Up by French Industrialists.

BULLETIN. London, May 10.—Prime Minister Lloyd George today sent the following telegram to the Congregational Union of England and Wales: "The humanitarian forces of the world are closing their ranks in the new crusade against the tyranny of brute force. Genoa has sounded the tocsin of peace. We shall not rest until we have won."

Genoa, May 10.—The Russian reply to the Allied memorandum, which was ready for presentation this forenoon, was not delivered to the Allies, as expected.

At the last moment, after a conversation between Foreign Ministers Tchitcherine of Russia and Schanzer of Italy, it was decided the reply would have to undergo alteration.

M. Tchitcherine left Genoa at 2 p.m., returning to Santa Margherita to consult other members of the Russian delegation.

In French circles the belief was expressed that an attempt was being made to influence the Russians to modify their reply so as to permit the conference to continue.

In a statement this morning before anything definite was known concerning the Russian reply, the French delegation announced that France's attitude on the foreign property issue as regards Russia would remain firm, whatever attitude Belgium might eventually adopt.

The attitude of the French delegation is the result of public opinion in France, which is bringing great pressure to bear on the government to make no concessions regarding the inalienability of property rights, the statement says.

Urge Strong Stand. French industrial companies, it adds, have recently conferred with Premier Poincare and urged him to take a strong stand for the restoration of foreigners' property, as otherwise, they argue, future investments in Russia would be hopeless, as the French public would refuse to advance funds when it had no assurance that property rights would be respected.

The Soviet delegates, it is understood, have gone to the utmost in the matter of concessions in an effort to avert a breakup of the meeting. They will urge, according to one source, that the political features in the allied note be excluded, but will stand by the principle of nationalization of foreigners' property in Russia. It is also understood they will propose organization of a special commission to adjust matters, in which their communistic system clashes with the economic structure of the other European countries.

In other quarters it is declared the Russians will demand a loan of one billion dollars, either in money or goods. They will also insist that the

MAY GO TO LAW OVER SALE OF LOT

School Trustees Consider Action To Force Woman Purchaser To Adhere To Bargain.

COAL CONTRACT WORRIES

Dealer Refuses To Agree To Bond
Terms Required by Board of Education.

The school trustees face already the possibility of a legal entanglement over the Grand avenue property, placed for sale by auction last Saturday.

Secretary Tanner reported at Tuesday's meeting of the public school committee that a certain married woman had bid for one of the five lots, signed the agreement, paid a deposit and now wants to slip out of the transaction. She holds a different opinion concerning the land evidently since talking the question over with her husband.

While the secretary desired to seek the opinion of the city solicitor, Trustee Smith cautioned the trustees not to worry, as she could be compelled to adhere to the agreement.

Seemingly the letting of the coal contract continues to worry the secretary and trustees. One withdrawal from the contract, declining to abide by the 25 per cent bond and the chemical analysis of the product. Who to select in his place seems to be a difficult question to answer, and the trustees engaged in long discussion Tuesday relative to this and attending issues.

Trustee Harry Hayman contended that the bond furnished by the coal dealers should be placed in the care of the city treasurer and not left with the dealers' banking institutions.

division shows splendid progress during the year, the highest membership during the year being 775. The present membership is 665. The membership fees this year amounted to $2,284.95.

The attendance for activities this year was as follows: Physical, 11,228; social, 12,558; educational, 3,651; religious, 3,980; making a total of 31,417.

The variety of the activities engaged in will explain the never-ending attention to details of the work. Among the most important are: Swimming instruction, Saturday afternoon country hikes, four rifle clubs, secured employment for 54 boys, interviews with boys and their parents, C. S. E. T. groups, 57 in 1921, in contrast to 171 in 1921; athletic, C. S. E. T. promotion work among the churches, Technical School Club, Adamic Employed Boys' Club, prep weekly story telling and monthly supper, four suppers every week, special banquets, bicycle club, boys' camps, boys' council activities, and, on father and son, Kiwanis and Rotary boys, game rooms after school and evenings, boys' week (city wide), attempts to satisfy the unending demands for speakers, committees (16 in number), membership records, two leader training classes, noon-hour boys' foreign work, extension work in the city, juvenile delinquents, C. S. E. T. promotion work among the churches.

Win Diplomas.
The following students of the public speaking class received the international diploma of the Y. M. C. A. schools, Dr. H. W. Hill is instructor: C. C. Bonnell, T. D. Patterson, S. R. White, W. E. Pack, D. R. Plewes, H. J. Light, J. Wilkinson, Howard Capman, A. Lyman, M. E. Muma, F. Henshaw, J. L. Swinton, S. E. Bullis, F. B. Schofield, W. J. Clark, Joseph Capman.

For all-around athletic work for the season of 1921, the following received the Y. M. C. A. Athletic Club prizes: First, William Lightfoot; second, William Wanless; third, Arnold Bennett.

In the course of reading the general report, Mr. Jenkins told the members that the Y. M. C. A. was formed in this city on February 28, 1873, and before the next annual meeting the fiftieth anniversary of the association would be celebrated. The association would be celebrated, Y. M. C. A. was purely a spiritual one and that the association was not run for the purpose of monetary gain.

Mr. Yendall complimented the officers on being able to build a new gymnasium at a cost of $10,500 without impairing the financial standing of the association in any way.

To complete the program three reels of motion pictures of the new Y. M. C. A. in Minneapolis were shown. A picture of the new physical director, George Sinclair, of Montclair, N. B., was also thrown on the screen.

LESSEN WIDTH OF PAVEMENT

Board of Works Decides On Change On Hamilton
Road.

Mathews Lumber Yard, By 4-3 Vote, Stays On Present Site.

Hamilton road residents east of Egerton, have blocked the proposal to pave that street to Highbury by petitioning against it.

This pavement was initiated and the residents when notified of the cost objected.

This fact was revealed at the meeting of the Board of Works on Tuesday night. Ald. Drake was somewhat perturbed, declaring that as Hamilton road was to be part of the provincial highways, and one of the main arteries of traffic into the city it should be paved.

Mayor Wilson thought that the pavement as planned was too wide. The plans call for 41 feet of width. The suggestion of the mayor to cut the pavement to 34 feet to St. Julien and 20 feet from there to Highbury met with approval, and the much narrower pavement will be initiated in a hope that it will be acceptable.

A change will cut the cost one-eighth of part of the street, and about one-quarter for the balance of the distance.

Street Railway To Aid.
Ald. Douglass asked if it was the intention to make the street railway company pave its portion of the street when the Wharncliffe road in West London was paved. The mayor said yes.

Dr. Douglass explained that if this was not done, the residents would not accept the pavement.

Gasoline tanks were again to the fore in force. The usual progress resulted, for after the subject cropped up several times in several ways, it was decided to delay action until the town planning commission reported.

Chief Aitken, Inspector Piper and Engineer Brazier reported on seven gasoline stations installed without permission. All were declared to be in unsuitable localities being either on streets with car tracks or in congested areas.

"There must be lots of money in the gasoline business," remarked the mayor after dealing with several applications.

After continuing since Jan. 1, the laborers started by the 1921 council and committees in buffering the Mathews lumber yard about from pillar to post, the committee decided to allow the firm to remain where it is on Horton street. This has been a long-drawn-out affair and the business of the concern has been more or less at a standstill in the meantime.

There was an interesting vote on this matter. It was 4 to 3. Ald. Douglass asked who the four were. He said the mayor could not vote. The mayor replied that he could and did.

Plans 'Bus Service.
The Transportation Development Company of Washington, D. C., thinks that the time is opportune for London to have a motor bus service, and wrote the city about it. The matter was referred to the new commission.

Messrs. Hawkins & Lang were granted a permit to open a coal yard on Rectory street.

A deputation of Florence street residents got quite a job when told that the sewer they were asking for would cost 47 cents a foot for ten years, a total of $21,975, exclusive of side drains.

The residents expressed wonder that the cost was so high inasmuch as the Ashland avenue sewer cost 20 cents.

Engineer H. A. Brazier said that there was about seven feet of quicksand, and this was responsible for the high cost.

One of the residents remarked that they had better sell out and move into the country.

May Counter-Petition.
Those who must pay for the sewer will be notified of the cost, and a chance to petition against it if they do not desire to pay such a price.

Carfrae Crescent will have a 26-foot pavement. The engineer recommended a 30-foot road, and the residents asked for 24, but were agreeable to a 26-foot pavement.

Engineer Brazier said Richmond street, when the bridge was erected, would be a through street, and he favored the wider pavement.

The committee decided that the four-foot road for the extra four feet, and so the 26-foot pavement was ordered laid.

Object To Grocery.
U. A. Buchner appeared for a grocer named Charlton seeking approval of his proposal to erect a $10,000 grocery on Ridout, near Tecumseh avenue. Mr. Piper has refused to allow him. Residents in the vicinity have petitioned against it.

Restrictions on the lot, Ald. Ashton could see no objection to the locating the store there. Ald. Drake thought they should be delighted to have a nice healthy grocery nearby.

Ald. May recommended that it be laid over until the report of the engineer on the restricted business area is ready. He recommended the delay because of the petition against the permit.

Mayor Wilson doubted the power of the committee to refuse. Delay would mean that Charlton's plans will be held up. He also doubted in would be held up. He also doubted in would be held up.

He at this point admonished the committee to not evade its responsibilities by poking things off from time to time. He suggested a yes or no answer. A little by-play on the vote on Ald. May's motion ensued.

Council Divided.
Ald. Douglass and Ald. Bean supported him, while Aldermen Brighton, Drake and the mayor opposed making it a tie. Ald. Ashton voted against delay, breaking the tie. This did not settle the matter. Another motion to grant the permit was necessary.

Ald. Ashton, the mayor and Ald. Drake voted for the grant and Ald. Brighton voted for the permit. Ald. Brighton did not vote. Ald. Bean left Aldermen May and Douglass alone in opposition. The permit will be granted.

FORMULATE PLANS FOR SCHOOL CENSUS IN CITY

Trustees and Officials Consider Preparing New Registration Card.

Formulating plans for the contemplated school census, all the public school principals, Senior School Inspector V. K. Greer, and Trustees Edwin Smith and A. N. Udy met Wednesday afternoon in the board rooms.

It was decided to prepare a new school registration card to be used by both public and separate school enumerators, the same to provide for the collection of more detail than the ordinary adolescent's registration card.

School Inspector Greer is of the opinion that the greatest number of pupils who will have to attend the part-time instructional courses, as ordered by the provincial department, will be those who left school during the sixth, seventh and eighth grades.

The census will be commenced almost immediately, and the data obtained will render the trustees valuable aid, it is expected, in determining the high school class-room accommodation need.

Until the census is completed it is not expected that the board will take any further action respecting Trustee Silverwood's motion that the old Victoria school be converted into a branch high school.

number of staff officers, and if you are ever going into active service with the soldiery, you cannot make staff officers in a day."

Asked if he thought there would be a summer camp at Carling Heights this year, he did not know.

Brig.-Gen. King is a veteran of two wars, having served in the Boer War and having been a commander of the 2nd Division of Canadians in France. He went to France in command of the 10th C. R. A. of St. Catharines, being promoted there to his present rank.

By coincidence, the newly-appointed man served for many years under the man he replaced, having been a subaltern under Gen. Panet in C Battery of the Canadian Artillery.

Brig.-Gen. King comes from the command of Military District No. 3, at Kingston. "I am sorry to leave Kingston, but if I have to leave, I am exceedingly glad that it was to London," he said.

Continue Preparations.
Preparations for the summer camps and the cadet camps will be continued, stated the commander. Last year 1,000 men were under canvas for one week at the summer camp, and 15,000 cadets for the same time.

Simultaneously with the avowal of Brig.-Gen. King that he knew nothing of the Mewburn proposal, comes word from Ottawa that it is hardly likely that the government will act on the suggestion of General Mewburn that Military District No. 1, at London, should be abolished, and that the whole district should come under the jurisdiction of Military District No. 2, at Toronto.

It has been pointed out that the administration of the district years ago, when it was amalgamated with Toronto, cost nearly as much as it does at the present time. A large staff of administrative officers were stationed at London, although headquarters of the district were in Toronto.

The ladder of life is full of splinters, but we never realize it until we begin to slide down. Keep climbing! John A. Nash, "My Jeweler," has opened an art room in the basement, well worth seeing. His store is 182 Dundas street. "Where You Will Eventually Buy."

A TELEGRAM received Wednesday from Toronto by H. J. McCullum stated that 10,000 people had attended the evening concert of the Scots Guards concert in that city, the largest audience tax for an entertainment of the kind in the history of Canada. It is expected that a capacity audience will greet the famous band in the Armories in London, large parties having telephoned for reservations from Stratford, Stock St. Mary's, Axminster, St. Thomas, points north, south, east and west within a radius of many miles.

a gasoline tank at the C. P. R. on Quebec street, and a gasoline station at 362 Dundas street, directly opposite Mayor Wilson's office and residence.

"We can't restrict business," said the mayor. "I have no axe to grind," and so the permit will be granted.

PARTY BRANCH PLANS PROTEST

London Labor Organization
Opposed to Street Railway's Private Bill.

Carmen's Union May Also
Send Deputation to the Ontario Legislature.

Determined that the time for drastic action has come, members of the executive board of the local branch of the Canadian Labor Party, in special session Thursday night, will consider the advisability of sending a strong deputation to the Ontario legislature to protest against the passage of the London Street Railway Company's private bill.

As the executive of the London Street Railwaymen's Union has been called to meet Wednesday night it is expected that the same proposal will be considered and John Colbert, president of that organization, was of the opinion Wednesday morning that more than likely the men will send a similar deputation to the house and at the same time.

"We intend to place the entire problem before the members of the provincial parliament," John Colbert explained. "We feel that even yet they are not fully conversant with the true facts about the local street railway situation. We believe that the majority of them are not aware that while we have been subject to two reductions in our pay within the past six months, the company seeks an increased fare."

"We are asking the labor party executive to send a deputation and our own executive in session tonight will probably do likewise."

MAKE MOVE FOR NEW EDUCATION

Labor and University Plan
Action Following Address.

Committee Formed of Three Representatives From Each
—Arthur Little Chairman.

Co-operating with the Trades and Labor Council, Western University will branch out shortly into the same field of endeavor as is conducted by Oxford, Cambridge and other universities in England, namely, the education of the working people, providing the action taken at a public meeting addressed by Albert Mansbridge, Workers' Educational Association organizer, in the Collegiate auditorium, Tuesday night, is fruitful.

After hearing the organizer, who is himself an M. A. graduate of Oxford, tell of the work of tutorial classes in England, and of the results brought about by the Workers' Educational Association, the meeting passed a resolution, moved by F. G. Burt and seconded by Dean N. L. Tucker, appointing Arthur Little as a trustee of the university, to form a committee of which he was to name three college representatives, and of which the Trades and Labor Council was to name the other three. Mansbridge outlined the history of the tutorial classes that had arisen in the old land, as he said, "to give a clue to what might be done in a like manner in London, Ont."

Should Join Hands.
The great lesson of the nineteenth century had come from, said the speaker, the scholar and the working man joining hands. In its original form the idea had been "why not bring the scholar's organizations together with the associations of the workers, such as trade unions, etc.?" This was strengthened by the great numbers of the laborers in England, where one economist had declared that "one-half of the ability of all England was resident in the working classes."

"The whole movement had nothing to do with technical education or vocational training," and "the whole thing was to help the people decide for themselves just what they wanted to do, and where their talents lay," he said. The movement had originally found great favor in North Staffordshire, and Mansbridge took two instances in the towns of Road and Rochelle, where particularly good results had been obtained.

330 Classes in England.
At the present time there were 330 classes in England, with some 8,000 adult students, many more thousands having passed through the classes. These students pledged themselves of either one, two or three years attendance.

The universities had co-operated, professors and distinguished lecturers giving freely of their time to speak to the classes on philosophy, economics and such other subjects that were of a nature that did not require the same previous coaching as classical studies. In Canada the movement was being taken up at Toronto and Hamilton.

After he was through, the organizer invited questions from those present to clear up any doubts that may have existed concerning the work. These latter came with a great degree of rapidity, and finally after some discussion, Mansbridge suggested that some such procedure such as passing the resolution be ventured upon. This was done.

Arthur Little presided at the meeting, which was under the auspices of the Western University extension department.

NO. 2 COMMITTEE MISSES ENEMIES

Members of No. 2 committee, the council's board of works, hardly recognized its own committee as it launched into session on Tuesday night.

It was the first meeting since early in February that has not been packed to suffocation with irate citizens, as the chairman stated in stentorian tones, calling the meeting to order.

Tuesday night's meeting was marked by several delegations, but the largest was a delegation of two, whereas the order in the past has been anything up to 40.

Several old standing deputations were absent. The Front street regulars, the Matthews lumber yard, and the Briscoe-Langarth storm sewer, and several others that have been coming around as regular as the measles, failed to give the committee the usual jolt.

Some of the aldermen were decidedly lonesome, and there was just about one-third of the usual talking.

Tobias Corroborates Statement of Laudie

S. S. TOBIAS, of 316 Hyman street, who was severely burned about the body when he was rubbed with carbolic by Professor A. Laudie, of 130 Albert street, on Monday afternoon, is now improving rapidly, according to Victoria Hospital authorities.

Mr. Tobias is not being allowed to see any visitors outside of his immediate family, and being kept very quiet. He has told members of the family how the accident happened, and corroborated the statements of Laudie, who declared that he thought the liquid was alcohol of the usual strength used in rubbing.

HOMES FOUND FOR EIGHT CHILDREN

Homes were found for eight children during the month of April, reported Inspector W. E. Kelly, to the Children's Aid at its monthly meeting Tuesday.

He stated that during the month 33 children were cared for at the shelter and there were eight other dispositions, besides the adoptions, leaving 23 in the shelter.

Vice-presidents J. I. A. Hunt and Mr. Kelly will go to Toronto on May 17 and 18 to attend the provincial conference of Children's Aid Societies.

Mr. Kelly is in receipt of a list of 300 inspections of children in foster homes, which he is to make during the summer. The homes are in Middlesex and London and the list comes from the provincial department at Toronto.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

For lo, the winter is past; the rain is over and gone; the flowers appear on the earth; the time of the singing of birds is come.—Canticles 2:11-12.

SWEET daughter of a rough and stormy sire,
Hoar Winter's blooming child, delightful Spring!

Whose unshorn locks with leaves and swelling buds are crowned,
Sweet is thy reign, but short—
the red god star

Shall scotch thy tresses, and the mower's scythe
Thy green, thy flowerets all,
Remorseless shall destroy.

INDIVIDUAL EARNINGS in the city have decreased, especially among the railwaymen who make up the bulk of our income assessment, said Assessment Commissioner S. This will be achieved through capturing new income taxpayers for the year.

CITY TREASURER BELL HAS $18,000 FOR HIGH SCHOOL.

School Architect At Recent Meeting Estimated $25,000 Needed For Completion.

In a special report presented to the department of education Wednesday afternoon, City Treasurer Jas. Bell reveals the fact that he has yet to the credit of the school trustees for the new collegiate institute, the sum of approximately $18,000. The discount upon the sale of the school department issue covers about $8,000 of this amount.

The city treasurer is in no position, he states, to say whether the board actually has this sum available for immediate expenditure, as they may have contracted other debts of which no record has yet been made at this office.

At the last meeting of No. 3 committee a report was submitted by the school architect, L. E. Carrothers, estimating roughly that $20,000 was needed to liquidate the remainder of the school debt. This sum was finally increased to $25,000, as various other necessary items were introduced.

The city treasurer's report will receive thorough consideration at the next meeting of No. 3 committee this week.

DOMINION SUES LONDON CONCERN

The Dominion of Canada has filed action against the Universal Hat and Cap Company of London, claiming the sum of $200.50, as the alleged balance of sales taxes levied under the special war revenue act of 1915, with the amendments thereto, and the rules and regulations thereunder over the period Sept. 1, 1921, to March 31, 1922.

The government seeks tax for collection said to have been made by the company during this period. Additional costs of $35 was also sought.

The writ was filed May 10, and commands the company to enter within ten days an affidavit of defence or else immediate collection will be made, the federal authorities claim.

Bird Bulletin

Issued by the MacLaurin Ornithological Club.

An early morning trip on Tuesday, May 9, resulted in seeing five new birds, and a total of fifty species. The Redstart and Magnolia Warblers, two of the most handsome of the usually handsome Warbler family, were recorded. Words fail to describe the beauty of these two; they must be seen to be appreciated.

The Rose-breasted Grosbeak is another beauty, whose voice is on a par with his appearance. Beside getting a good look at this one, we were favored with his fine rich song. He is a most desirable bird, also from an insect-destroying standpoint. He, too, is a summer resident.

The Red-eyed Vireo and Least Flycatcher were also recorded. Both are rather plainly clad, but are among our most useful insectivorous birds. The former is a woods bird, while the latter is one of the "chee-bee" birds, its call which sounds like "chee-bee" can be heard all summer in our parks or along our shady streets.

A Song Sparrow's nest, carefully hidden in the long grass, was found to contain seven eggs, an unusual number. On closer examination, four of them were found to be the eggs of the parasitical Cowbird. Needless to say, these four were promptly removed and destroyed.

The two remaining Coots, which have been living at the ponds for nearly a month, left for some other breeding grounds some time during the night. It was hoped that they would remain here for the summer, as they had become quite tame and the surroundings here were such as they like.

Pays $5 Fine and Costs For Too Much Thoroughness In "Trying Out" Cycle

If motorists persist in speeding on city streets, the penalty for law-breakers will be raised. Magistrate Graydon intimated in police court on Wednesday morning when he fined Frank Draybeck $5 and costs for "driving a motorcycle on the 5th of May in a reckless and dangerous manner."

"I admit I was going fast, but it was early in the morning and there was no traffic," said the accused.

"This tearing round the city in motor vehicles must be stopped," declared the magistrate.

"He came along King street, between Colborne and Waterloo, at a terrible rate of speed," said Constable Miles. "I called to him and he stopped, saying that he was late for work. I would be safe in saying that he was going 30 miles an hour."

"My motorcycle won't go that fast," declared Draybeck, who stated that he was just 16 years of age.

"It was going so fast that I couldn't see his markers," said Miles. "These motorcycle drivers are the worst offenders," said the magistrate. "When did you get the machine?" replied Draybeck.

"Trying it out," observed the court. "Five dollars and costs this time, and if this thing persists I will raise the penalty."

AWAIT McEVROY'S RETURN
Counsel For Miss Harris, Dismissed After 33 Years, Sees Provincial Authorities.

As announced in Monday evening's edition of The Advertiser, developments are occurring in the case involving Miss Minnie Harris, for 33 years assistant matron at the Middlesex County jail, who has to date steadfastly declined since to vacate her living quarters at the county buildings.

On Tuesday night Donald A. Graham, sheriff of the county, served Miss Harris with another and final warning to quit the building, failing which drastic action will ensue.

Just what will transpire should Miss Harris still refuse to leave will not be discussed by the sheriff or his assistants, but it has been stated that the new county court order has been obtained from the county judge to facilitate her eviction when the time limit expires.

John M. McEvroy, K. C., has been interceding with the provincial authorities on behalf of the discharges woman, seeking a reconsideration of the case, and his return from Toronto is hourly expected.

Miss Harris stated Wednesday afternoon that she would make no attempt to leave at present, pending the return of J. M. McEvroy. She explained that the sheriff, accompanied by the new court order, had been with the added warning that if she did not leave immediately "there would be trouble."

Motorist Claims "You'd Have To Go On Grass" To Live Up To City Law

Alfred Onn paid $5 and costs in police court Wednesday morning for passing a street car on the left hand side coming up the York street hill, near York and Ridout streets.

"It was the only thing I could do," defended Mr. Onn.

"There is room enough to pass a car there," said the court. "You have no right to do it. This thing is done time and again on that street."

"You would have to keep your motor in low, and it would be roaring all the way," stated Onn.

"Well, supposing you do, what difference does it make?" replied the magistrate.

"What would you do on Central avenue, opposite Victoria Park, where the car track runs on one side of the street?" queried Onn.

"That's a different thing," said Mr. Graydon. "You have the whole road there."

"You'd have to go on the grass if you lived up to the law," replied Mr. Onn. "There is plenty of room on York street for three cars to pass each other coming up the hill."

"Well, you have no right to do it. Five dollars and costs," decreed the court.

Court Wouldn't Accept Check, Though, For $10 Fine Imposed.

Accused Points Out Man in Court Supposed To Have Advanced $8 On Check.

"I was here long ago," stated a freckled official guest in police court Wednesday morning.

"Not so long ago," reminded Magistrate Graydon.

"A month or six weeks," observed Chief Birrell.

"That's a long time for him," replied the magistrate.

"What about this check I find in your possession?" asked the court. "Have you any money in the Royal Bank?"

"Not now, but I did have," replied the man who had been arrested and charged with intoxication.

"This check of yours calls for $50. What were you doing with it?" pursued the court.

"It's not one, my brother-in-law gave me, is it?" asked the prisoner hopefully. "I had no checks yesterday."

"It is dated May 8 and signed by you. Have you any money in the bank?" asked Mr. Graydon.

"Well, I don't know whether I have any left in the bank or not," was the reply.

"Oh, yes, you do," came back the court.

"I tore the check up and the officer pasted it together," declared Chief Birrell.

"It is a fortunate thing for you that you are not charged with a more serious offence," declared the court. "Passing a check without funds is much worse than being drunk."

"I got $8 from a man on the strength of this check," stated the chief.

"I didn't get any money, and I can prove it," declared the prisoner heatedly. "That fellow over there pointing to a man in court claimed in his bottle that cost $8. When I came back he was sleeping on a sofa with a pair of boots on him that I gave him. He was only to get the share of the bottle that he paid for. I gave him a job in the morning, milking cows."

"If you had stuck to milk you wouldn't be here today," observed Mr. Graydon. "You haven't got any money in the bank, and if you had received money on the check it would have been a serious offence. You better be careful."

"This boy chipped in on the bottle," he said. "I only want fair treatment," began the prisoner, when he was cut short by the magistrate imposing a fine of $10 and costs or 10 days in jail.

"Will you give me till noon to raise the money," demanded the accused. "Strathroy," returned the court. "You can get the police to send out for you and notify your friends."

HUGE FIRE RAGES IN VICTORIA, B. C.

Victoria, B. C., May 10.—Fire broke out in the Arcade Building in the heart of the business district at 4:30 o'clock this morning, and is still raging. By 8 o'clock one-third of the big hotel was gone. To estimate of the loss is available as yet, it was officially announced this afternoon.

"You make," returned the court. "You can get the police to send out for you and notify your friends."

"You would have to keep your motor in low, and it would be roaring all the way," stated Onn.

"Well, supposing you do, what difference does it make?" replied the magistrate.

"What would you do on Central avenue, opposite Victoria Park, where the car track runs on one side of the street?" queried Onn.

"That's a different thing," said Mr. Graydon. "You have the whole road there."

"You'd have to go on the grass if you lived up to the law," replied Mr. Onn. "There is plenty of room on York street for three cars to pass each other coming up the hill."

"Well, you have no right to do it. Five dollars and costs," decreed the court.

DIOCESAN BUDGET IS TALKED OVER

East Middlesex Deanery Hears Rev. D. N. Abhyonkr On "Women of India."

DISCUSS EXTENSION WORK
Other Anglican Churches May Be Asked To Help St. David's, Hamilton Road.

The Diocesan Budget was the main topic of discussion at Wednesday morning's session of the Anglican deanery of East Middlesex. The feature for this morning was to be an address by Canon Andrew of St. Thomas, but on account of the speakers being unable to come the members discussed the budget, general business and mission work in the vicinity of London.

The meeting opened this morning with holy communion at 10:30 and adjourned at one o'clock for luncheon. Rev. A. A. Bice occupied the chair.

The Women's Auxiliary were in session this morning and after general business had been dealt with and the thanks offering had been said by Miss Hill, Rev. D. N. Abhyonker delivered an address on the "Women of India."

At eight o'clock this evening the election of officers will take place, and at 8:45 Inspector of Public Schools V. P. Greer will speak.

On Tuesday evening a budget committee for the deanery was appointed for the purpose of raising funds to be apportioned to the churches in the city and the adjoining parishes. It was explained that the amount of money assigned to each church was the minimum sum in each case. A report of the committee in which these apportionments made to the various churches were used for missionary work was read by Rev. A. L. Clarke, a member of the budget committee.

Church extension was also discussed at some length, and suggestions regarding the future welfare of the Anglican churches in the district were made by the members. The question of helping St. David's Church, on Hamilton road, was brought up, and it was stated that the other Anglican churches in the city would probably be asked to contribute toward building a new church in this section, as the one at present is overcrowded. On account of this condition, some of those who come to attend the services on Sunday have to return home on account of the lack of room in the church.

W. A. Elects Officers.
The East Middlesex Rural Deanery Women's Auxiliary, meeting Wednesday forenoon in St. George's Church, West London, re-elected for the ensuing year the capable officers of the past year—Mrs. C. C. Waller, president, and Mrs. A. B. secretary.

The rural deanery branch further decided to renew its pledge of $150 for the coming year for the education of a child of a missionary in the northwest, and to increase this amount if possible.

Interesting features of the session were a paper by Miss Hill on the "Thank Offering," and an address by Mr. Abhyonker of India on "The Women of India."

Miss Hill referred to the history and remarkable growth of the W. A. in the Dominion. Established in 1885, with a membership of seven, this movement has grown to the enrollment of 25,000. The thanks offering has increased from $5 in 1885 to $11,000 in 1921.

Mr. Abhyonker spoke especially of the lives of the little child widows of India, and the early age at which marriage take place. A babe of 18 months, in one case, had been a widow six months. Special appeal was made for interest in the sisters of India.

Following the meeting, the delegates were entertained with those who attempt to leave at present, pending by the ladies of St. George's Church at a tempting luncheon. Ven. Archdeacon Doherty voiced the appreciation of the guests, seconded by Mr. C. A. Waller. In the afternoon, the W. A. shared the program of the rural deanery gathering.

M. O. H. PROPOSES CHANGES IN CITY'S NEW MEAT BYLAW

"No Slaughtering Within 200 Yards of Residence" Clause Entirely Disagreed With.

Dr. W. S. Downham, medical officer of health, has been closely studying the new meat bylaw that has been drafted for the city, and will ask the board of health to make a number of changes in it.

One clause in the new measure calls for all poultry offered for sale, to be dressed, Dr. Downham wants to know what dressed means. If it just refers to the removal of the feathers, he is agreeable, but if it calls for the removal of "inards," he objects.

Another clause says that no slaughtering shall be done in the city within 200 yards of a residence. Dr. Downham is opposed to any slaughtering at all in the city. None is allowed at the present time.

There are a couple of other impracticable clauses, one calling for meat to be hung so high in butcher shops that a dog cannot reach it. In the modern refrigerator this is impossible. Another clause refers to fresh boned meat, which Dr. Downham thinks the word "fresh" unnecessary. This recommends the prohibition of sale.

Dr. Downham reports the health of the city continues good. Two cases of diphtheria were reported during the past week, but one failed to produce positive culture. Whooping cough holds sway with 21 new cases, making in all 47 in the city. There are three cases of scarlet fever.

Says Front Street Citizen Ready To Give Land For Breakwater

"I HAVE word that Charlton, Front street, is willing to give the necessary land for a breakwater. We had better do something there," said Ald. Ashton at the board of works on Tuesday night.

"Yes, I see by The Advertiser that action is contemplated if something is not done," said Mayor Wilson.

Ald. Ashton informally stated that he believed that the Front street residents have a just claim on the city for consideration.

However, no action was taken. The matter stands "as is."

The latter states that while in Toronto within the past few days, he did meet K. K. Homuth, M. L. A. for Waterloo and other members of the private bills committee, but nothing was said then, he states, about them withdrawing their support from the company's private bill for a straight 5-cent fare.

"Mr. Homuth realizes our position," explained the attorney. "He can understand that we are unable to operate with any degree of satisfaction under the old system of fares or schedule of pay. Why even at the present time, with the three-cent-an-hour reduction as was made effective March 1 we are not showing the desired results."

PETTY ISSUES WORRY BOARD

Loan of Camp Stools Precipitates Trustees in Lengthy Discussion.

Use of School Grounds by Ball Clubs Also Proves Perplexing.

Questions ranging in importance from the rental of camp stools to the sale of school property claimed the attention of the members of No. 2 committee of the board of education at a two-hour session Tuesday afternoon.

While several requests were submitted from clubs and the like for the use of school yards on certain evenings for drill or games, it was contended by most of the members that as the board had granted the use of the grounds to the playground committee of the public utilities commission it should be the duty of the latter "to fight it out with the applicants."

Trustee Edwin Smith, chairman of the board, opposed this attitude strenuously, holding that a spirit of co-operation should prevail between the commission and the trustees. Others of the committee, including Trustee Rev. A. A. Rice, contended that the board could know first what schools the commission intended using for the civic playgrounds system. Trustee Hayman concurred in this.

Trustee Smith moved that a request for the use of the Tecumseh school grounds for one night each week for a ball game, from the Talbot Street Baptist Tuxis Boys, should be granted until such time at least as the commission desired the grounds.

Strong Objection Raised.
Recording vigorous objection, Trustee Harry Hayman, opined that all the people in the Tecumseh School area would be "up in arms," because they allowed a bunch to come in and play from another section of the city. Trustee Bryden Campbell agreed, while Trustee Smith pointed out that the Talbot Street children did not have a suitable ball ground.

LIVER TROUBLE BAD BILIOUS ATTACKS

When your liver becomes sluggish and inactive your whole health suffers. Your bowels become constipated, the tongue coated, the breath bad, the stomach full and sick, and bilious spells occur on account of the liver holding back the bile which is so essential to promote the movements of the bowels, and the bile gets into the blood, instead of passing out through the usual channel.

The only way to keep the liver active and working properly, and thus get rid of the nasty bilious attacks, is to keep the bowels regular by using

TRY MAGNESIA FOR STOMACH TROUBLE

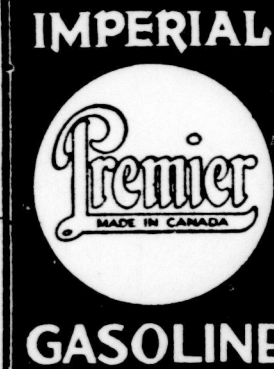

It Neutralizes Stomach Acidity, Prevents Food Fermentation, Sour Gas, Stomach and Acid Indigestion.

Doubtless if you are a sufferer from indigestion, you have already tried pepsin, pancreatin, charcoal, drugs and various digestive aids and you know these things will not cure your trouble. In some cases do not even give relief.

But before giving up hope and deciding you are a chronic dyspeptic just try the effect of a little Bismarck Magnesia—not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate, or milk, but the pure Bismarck Magnesia, which you can obtain from practically any drugist in either powdered or tablet form.

Take a teaspoonful of the powder or two compressed tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach which now causes your food to ferment and produce gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn and the bloated or heavy, lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat.

You will find that provided you take a little Bismarck Magnesia immediately after a meal, you can eat almost anything and enjoy it without any danger of pain or discomfort to follow and moreover, the continued use of the Bismarck Magnesia cannot injure the stomach in any way so long as there are any symptoms of acid indigestion. MAJOR A. LEWIS GIVES EVIDENCE

Denies Intention To Make Any Charge Against E.
W. Backus.

Asks Why Impression Suggested That Huston Death Was Suicide.

TORONTO, May 9.—The report sent to Toronto by G. C. Porter, of Winnipeg on the death of Captain Huston at Fort Frances in December last was Major Alex. Lewis' main inspiration when in the Ontario Legislature he demanded an inquiry into the fate of Huston.

Major Lewis was on the stand most of today testifying before the McIntosh commission which is probing the mystery, and he admitted that his charges in the Legislature were based mainly on the strength of the Porter report.

The report had been asked for and received by the Toronto Telegram. Witness said the name of E. W. Backus was brought into the case largely through the Porter report. He had inspected the report and returned it to the Telegram.

Counsel for the newspaper declared that every effort had been made to find the report, but so far it has not been produced.

The day's proceedings dealt largely with the propriety of the charges having been made through the Legislature, with the result that Major Lewis was subjected to many questions as to whether or not he had wanted to infer that any of the officials were corrupt in reporting Captain Huston's death as due to suicide rather than murder.

Wanted Some Action.
Mr. Lewis made it quite plain, by repeating his statement several times, that his only thought in the Legislature had been to see that some action was taken to clear up points upon which he had no information, and that he believed the department of the attorney-general was not informed. He was not inferring that any person was corrupt, but he did think facts should be brought out.

He had no thought that Mr. Backus had done anything in the way of engineering Huston's death, but he had thought that perhaps there were papers in Huston's possession which might be of interest to some of the Backus people, and that in some attempt which might have been made to get these papers Huston had been killed.

Denies Making Charge.
Having heard the statement of Mr. Backus before the inquiry last Friday, Major Lewis stated that he had no charge whatever to bring against Mr. Backus and that he had never made any.

"Then, do you absolve Mr. Backus of any charge of corruption?" Mr. Gordon Waldron asked on behalf of the crown.

"I do not like your use of the word 'absolve,'" Major Lewis replied. "I never made any charge of corruption. I still ask why an attempt was made to create the impression that Captain Huston's death was due to suicide?"

Several employees of the Toronto Telegram will be heard tomorrow.

TELLS TRIBULATIONS OF DRY LAW DETECTIVES

H. H. McCutcheon Claims Bootleggers "Frame-Up" Sent Him to Prison.

TORONTO, May 9.—The trials and tribulations of an operator under the O. T. A., or what is generally termed a "spotter," was told to the public accounts committee of the Legislature today by H. H. McCutcheon, who, for some years was employed by the attorney-general's department in the enforcement of temperance laws.

McCutcheon is serving a six-months' sentence for operating a "still," and claimed by a man named had been framed by a man named in the bootlegging business, that he had no connection with the still at all except as an officer of the law seeking to have it seized.

"Everyone around the department knows I was framed," he told the committee. "And I cannot see that the department had done much to get me out." He is still serving the sentence in that he has to sleep nights at the jail, but is allowed out in the daylight time to work and support his wife and family.

Accused Magistrate Jones, Toronto, of not giving him a thorough opportunity of defending himself.

HELD ON CHARGE OF KIDNAPPING

TORONTO, May 9.—Two Kitchen youths, John Kane, aged 19, and Roy Meyer, aged 20, were arrested today as they left the jail farm, where they had served a term for trespassing on railway property, and locked up again on a charge of kidnapping two young Kitchen girls.

The four, about a month ago, left Kitchen in a motor car, and were later found in a Toronto hotel after the father of one of the girls had enlisted the aid of the police.

Magistrate Gundy allowed three of the girls to go on suspended sentence. The charge against the fourth was withdrawn.

WANTS PROVINCE TO PAY PART OF COSTS

Brantford Council Passes Resolution
Concerning Recent Probe of Police Affairs.

INVOLVES BIG DISCUSSION

Aldermen Hold Different Opinions
Regarding Advisability of Approaching Attorney-General.

Special to London Advertiser.

BRANTFORD, May 8.—The question of payment of the expenses incurred during the probe of the administration of justice in this city was discussed at length at the meeting of the city council Monday night.

Ald. H. J. Symons was of the opinion that the investigation was two-fold, inasmuch as it took in the magistrate and the police department in general.

He thought that the provincial government should bear a part of the expenses incurred, owing to the city having proven its case and stajstifying Commissioner W. D. Gregory that there was an improper administration of justice in the city during the past few years and due to this he was of the opinion that this should be done.

The members of the council concurred in the contention of Ald. Symons, and others contended that the city should bear all the cost, as they had voted for the royal commission to investigate the police department unannounced, and they had been unprepared for the request from the attorney-general's department. As a result of much controversy the following motion was adopted and the matter laid over for two weeks: Moved by Ald. Symons, and seconded by Ald. Robertson, that the accounts of the police and police court inquiry be referred back to the special committee, and that the committee make an effort to have the provincial government pay a portion of the total cost equal to cost of inquiry into police administration. Whereas the magistrate and his administration of the police court is entirely in the hands of the attorney-general's department.

Therefore in the opinion of this council the City of Brantford should not pay the entire cost of the investigation conducted by the Royal Commission into a department of which the city has or never had any control.

A delegation from Terrace Hill came to the council to request that the council have water mains installed into the playgrounds in the hill. After much discussion the matter was referred to the board of works department for action. That body was to report to the council at the next meeting the results of their investigations and the estimated cost.

EXPECTS PARTIAL REPEAL OF LAW

LONDON, May 9.—(By Canadian Press Cable.)—Sir A. Griffith Boscawen, minister of agriculture, replying to a question in the House of Commons this afternoon, said he had seen statements suggesting that the raising of the embargo against Canadian cattle would involve the repeal of the diseases of animals act of 1896.

Such action, he said, doubtless would involve an amendment to this act, but not necessarily its entire repeal. The act applied and would continue to apply to other foreign animals, the minister said, even if Canadian cattle were exempted from its operation.

COMMONS CUTS $400,000 FROM COSTS OF DRILL

Sub-Amendment by Hon. Ernest Lapointe Carries Without House Division.

POWER "STICKS BY GUNS"

South Quebec Liberal Still Insisted On Reduction of $1,100,000.

OTTAWA, May 9.—(By Canadian Press).—The vote for annual militia drill, the centre of excited political controversy for a couple of weeks, passed the house tonight without a division. But it passed with a reduction, and after an all-day battle that witnessed a strange and unparalleled scene. As it originally stood, the amount was $1,400,000. As it went through today it was reduced on a motion from the government itself by $400,000.

The official opposition, normally the critic of government estimates because they are too high, today criticized the government for consenting to a reduction. Progressives who originally supported proposals of a more sweeping reduction, were willing today to accept the lesser government reduction at all. But C. G. Power (Liberal, Quebec South) who from the government benches first opened the whole discussion, declined to accept the reduction as sufficient. A fortnight ago Mr. Power moved an amendment to reduce the vote for militia drill by $1,100,000. Tonight he held by his original amendment. "I have every respect for the minister of militia and the leaders of the Liberal party," Mr. Power declared, "but respect must end when we come to conviction."

Sub-Amendment Carries. The house saw this perplexing situation, a Liberal member insisted on his amendment to reduce the estimates of a Liberal government by over a million dollars; Hon. Ernest Lapointe, on behalf of the same government, moved a formal sub-amendment to the amendment that the reduction be $400,000 instead of $1,100,000. Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader, declared his support of the vote as originally brought down by the government.

The sub-amendment eventually carried without the house dividing. At the opening of the session Hon. C. P. Graham, minister of militia, announced reductions in the militia estimates totalling $700,000. But the vote for annual militia drill was the only one actually considered today. The others will be discussed later.

Hon. George P. Graham, minister of militia, moved a reduction of $700,000 in the total militia vote when the house opened. The total amount of the vote is $10,788,400. The reduction proposed in the item for annual drill is $600,000.

Other reductions, included in the total reduction of $700,000 moved by Mr. Graham were: cadet services, $100,000; clothing and necessities, $21,000; Dominion arsenal, $50,000; engineers' services and works, $50,000; ordnance, arms, lands, etc., $9,000; pay of staff, $10,000; schools of instruction, $50,000; and Royal Military College, $10,000.

"That," said Mr. Graham, "is a pretty drastic cut when it is known that there was a marked reduction already in the estimates as compared with last year."

Graham Outlines Policy. "It is the desire of the government," continued Mr. Graham, "of course, to meet the wishes of Parliament and Parliament is supreme. After hearing the discussion the other day I conferred with my officers again, and while they maintain that the original estimates are the proper ones and the ones that should have been put through the house for the efficient carrying out of the work, they have given me a schedule of proposed reductions, and they tell me that if these reductions are made the balance will provide for training of a portion of the force proportionate to the money voted. The training last year was not complete, but it was approximately so. This year, I am informed that the artillery can be trained, city corps, and possibly a portion of the country units, after the reduction which I am going to suggest is made; for it must be remembered that a number of the city corps go into camp. The amount remaining after the reduction is made will provide for this drill as usual the number of days being nine. It will reduce the percentage of strength of the various units, however, but my officers assure me that it will not altogether destroy the training or the drill."

Hon. S. C. Mewburn commented on the "extraordinary spectacle" of minister allowing such a large cut in estimates which had been considered by the privy council before being presented to the house. If Mr. Graham was permitting such a reduction in the militia estimates, it was hard to say what he would allow in the estimates of other departments which now were under his control.

Mewburn Regrets Reduction.

Gen. Mewburn said he looked with regret on the reduction of $400,000 in the vote for militia training. He suggested that great economy could be made by amalgamating a number of the military districts. Military District No. 1, with headquarters at Toronto, might be placed under Toronto; Military District No. 2, with headquarters at Kingston, could be run from Ottawa. As there did not appear to be much desire for training in Military District No. 5 (Quebec), it might be put under Montreal. The Maritime Provinces military districts could be run from Halifax, and Saskatchewan might be eliminated.

Carrying on his suggestions for economy, Gen. Mewburn proposed that the permanent force should be concentrated at Petawawa for training once a year, and that fuller use should be made of it in the instruction of city battalions. The technical branches of the service should also be given a period of training in conjunction with the permanent force at Petawawa. Part of the military property at Halifax might be sold, and the proceeds used to construct barracks for the permanent troops at Halifax, Montreal, Toronto, and, if necessary, Winnipeg.

The former minister of militia expressed the view that the military had fully justified itself during the war, citing a return prepared by the militia department that over 92 per cent of the first contingent had had militia training.

He said that the United States was cutting down on its standing army at the present time, but was building up its national guard, which corresponded to our militia. He opposed any reduction in the militia estimates, and urged that the militia, naval and air estimates should be sent to a special committee of the house, where the technical officers of these departments could appear and justify the appropriations which they requested.

Hon. Charles Murphy wanted Mr. Mewburn to put in dollars and cents the saving that would be made by the rearrangement of the military districts suggested by him. This Mr. Mewburn said he was unable to do. He had confidence in the minister of militia, however, and was prepared to give him his full estimates and leave to him the working out of economies.

Considers Training Valueless.

R. J. Woods (Progressive, Dufferin), said that from his own experience as a volunteer militiaman the annual training was of no value as far as preparation for active service was concerned, and many of those who were drilled in the militia would be unfit for active service.

It had been stated that lack of drill would smother the military spirit in Canada. It was the military spirit built up in Germany which plunged the world into the Great War. The Canadian citizenship should be built up on Christian principles. A spirit of militarism should not be installed.

F. Rinfret (Liberal, St. James), took exception to certain newspaper comment on the demand for a reduction of the militia estimates.

Mr. Rinfret ridiculed the idea that members on the Liberal side of the house were compelled to support the government estimates as brought down.

Because members advocated reductions in estimates did not mean that they had lost confidence in the government.

General A. E. Ross (Kingston) said it was rather interesting to see that estimates which were whittled down to the lowest figure, could be still further reduced. He asked who still further reduced. He asked who the people were who objected to militia training. There were those who had an aversion to what they called "brass hats." Then there were the uplifters who said we should treat all men as brothers, forgetting that brothers sometimes quarrelled. Others took the ground that there were signs of lasting peace, and cited the disarmament conference in support of this contention.

General Ross emphasized the value of training. As a Canadian example of the value of training he said that a week's winter training in Canada with its experience of operations under low temperatures had provided a method by which it had been possible to wipe out the malady known as trench feet.

Crerar Supports Reduction.

Hon. T. A. Crerar supported the reduction in the estimates suggested by the minister of militia.

"I would have been gratified," he said, "if it had been greater than this. When we compare the present militia estimates with those of ten years ago we find a great increase in the amount."

Mr. Crerar objected to the statement that the advocates of reduction were animated by antagonism for the militia.

Hon. Hugh Guthrie declared that the minister of militia had been taken into caucus by his supporters and told that he would have to cut the estimates or they would put him out. It was always good parliamentary practice that a government should stand by financial proposals.

There had been cases where a government had withdrawn financial proposals, but he knew of none where it had been belabored into a reduction by its followers.

Mr. Guthrie declared that General Mewburn had pointed out certain ways in which money could be saved, not with regard to the training estimates, but in administration. It was far more important to have the training at this particular moment than to maintain the arsenals. The government was practically closing the Ontario arsenal and was only allotting $25,000 for its maintenance. The Quebec arsenal, however, was receiving $425,000, according to the estimates. It should be closed, the vote reduced to $25,000, and the annual drill carried on.

R. H. Halbert (Progressive, Ontario North), thought that he had better tell the committee he was from Ontario and not from Quebec. He believed that ninety per cent of the people of Ontario were well pleased with the cut in the militia estimates. The rank and file of the people of Canada approved of it also.

LORD LEE URGES AID OF COLONIES

Head of Admiralty Regards Naval Burden Too Much For Mother Country.

Considers Attitude of Nations Changed On Seapower Questions.

LONDON, May 9.—(Canadian Press).—Right Hon. Lord Lee, first lord of the admiralty, who was one of the British delegates to the recent Washington conference, when addressing the Colonial Institute in London today on the subject of the Washington conference, expressed regret at the lack of interest shown in the British dominions on the question of navy construction.

Lord Lee expressed the view that the most important result of the Washington conference was the complete change in the attitude of the nations. At Washington treaties were concluded in terms of peace rather than war. He laid emphasis on the closeness of what he termed the instinctive and inevitable cooperation of the United States and British delegations.

Referring to the effect of the naval treaty, Lord Lee thought insufficient credit had been given Great Britain for the abandonment of her imperial traditions in the adoption of the one-power standard of naval strength. The sacrifice was made in the interest of the peace of the world, but also for the relief of the taxpayer. The new arrangement was the more gratifying because the help in connection with the maintenance of the British navy, wherefore the imperial conference gave hope, at present showed no sign of materializing.

Considers All Concerned.

Lord Lee pointed out that the imperial conference, after a full, prolonged and intimate discussion of the needs of the empire, had agreed that the maintenance of an empire navy was the common concern of the whole empire and that the extent and form whereof the burden should be shared should be left until after the Washington conference. But although the results of the Washington conference were now known, Great Britain had no word of comfort or offer of help from the sister nations. On the contrary, Great Britain was confronted with signs of even more drastic reductions; even a tendency to demobilize the slender naval forces hitherto maintained. The growth and development of the navies of the dominions had not necessarily proceeded on a logical plan; like Topsy, they just "grewed," but now more like "topsy-turvy" they were just shrinking. That was a tendency which he could only describe as exceedingly disappointing and discouraging to participants at the imperial conference.

The result of this attitude on the part of the dominions, continued Lord Lee, was that the royal navy of Great Britain was being compelled to shoulder the entire responsibility of the protection of the commerce and liberties of the empire. The British taxpayer was being forced once more to foot practically the entire bill.

It was not for him to question either the action or the inaction of the free and responsible governments of the Empire over which Great Britain had no kind of control, but he would not be dealing fairly with his fellow-citizens of the Empire if he attempted to conceal his disappointment that last year's expectations should be wearing such a discouraging aspect.

Taxpayers Burdened.

He deplored this return to a state of affairs so little conducive to the prestige and safety of the Empire under which the mother country and the home tax-payer were saddled with the entire burden of what was a primary service for the Empire. It was unfair and unwise and impossible of continuance. So long as she could, Great Britain would continue to stagger along under the burden imposed, hoping that some time the eyes and hearts and pockets of her fellow-citizens of the Empire would be opened to bring relief before it was too late. In the meantime he was grateful for the alleviations of the burdens provided by the Washington conference.

BEFORE BABY COMES

Watchful Care Necessary

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a splendid medicine and should be taken by the expectant mother. It will assist her in keeping well and strong. This is very necessary, not only for her own comfort but for the future.

Read the experience of Mrs. Barton of New Brunswick, and please bear in mind that every letter published recommending Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is genuine and unsolicited. They are expressions of gratitude from women.

Cumberland Bay, N. B.—"I was troubled with weak feelings, headache, all the time, a cough, fainting spells and pains in my back and side. I could not do a single bit of work and had to be helped out to the hammock where I lay in the fresh air from morning until night and I had to be carried up and down stairs. After other medicines had failed a friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as she said it was excellent for anyone in the family way. Before the first bottle was taken I could walk alone and as I kept on with it I got stronger, until I was able to do all my work. My baby is now six weeks old and is a big fat healthy fellow. I am sure Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done wonders for me and I recommend it."—MRS. J. BARTON, R. R. No. 1, Cumberland Bay, N. B.

Predicts Bobbed Hair Styles Will Remain.

PHILADELPHIA, May 9.—Bobbed hair is not going out of style, and soon grey-haired grandmothers will be only a memory—at least that's what was predicted today at the convention of the Hair-dressing and Beauty Culture Association. One of the "clinic" features of the session was a demonstration of the proper method of bobbing hair. Nine young women gave up their locks.

N. B. FARMERS ASK POTATO TARIFF

Maritime Deputation Tells Government 1,000,000 Bushels May Be Thrown Out To Rot.

U. S. TARIFF CAUSES GLUT

As Relief, New Brunswickers Want New U. S. Tubers Kept Out of Canada.

Ottawa, May 9.—By Canadian Press.—That there was a danger of nearly a million bushels of potatoes being thrown out to rot in the fields unless the farmers of the Maritime Provinces, and particularly of New Brunswick, were given some government assistance in marketing their crop, was the declaration made by a deputation representing New Brunswick potato growers which waited on Hon. W. R. Motherwell, minister of agriculture, last evening.

High freight rates and the United States tariff were largely blamed for the present condition, under which a million bushels of potatoes were still in the farmers' hands in New Brunswick, and present prices were too low to allow of marketing the crop and securing any return for it.

The potato growers asked that as a temporary relief the new American potatoes should be kept out of the Canadian market, inasmuch as the placing of American tariffs against Canadian potatoes had brought about the present glut of stocks in New Brunswick. The New Brunswick farmers at the present time, it was stated, are only being paid 40 cents per barrel for their crop, which cost them nearly $2 per barrel to grow and harvest.

H. H. Hatfield of Hartland, N. S., and J. H. Mellison, Montreal, represented the potato growers. They were introduced to the minister by T. W. Caldwell, M.P. for Carleton, Victoria. Hon. Mr. Motherwell promised that the matter would be given every consideration possible at the hands of the government.

That Sarnia Vote.

SARNIA said in no uncertain way that it had confidence in the proposition that was placed before it by the directors of the Dominion Alloy Steel Corporation, and carried a fixed assessment for this firm by 2,579 to 78, making a total vote cast of 2,657 out of a possible 3,000, possibly the highest vote that has been cast on a bylaw in this district in years. As a general thing votes on bylaws, apart from the regular election date are sparsely-attended affairs. It is to be hoped that Sarnia gets all and more than it voted for. It has a great situation for such an enterprise as a steel corporation, which has to bring in great quantities of raw material, in which water transit is a large consideration.

The Canadian Steel Corporation decided on a somewhat similar situation at Ojibway, where the same favorable natural facilities are available. Construction has been delayed on this plant, and conditions that have been common to the steel trade the world over are given as the cause.

With the completion of the plant at Ojibway, which will operate on a very large scale, and the coming into existence of the Alloy Steel Corporation works at Sarnia, it looks as though the iron and steel industry of the Dominion were going to be centered along the St. Clair River.

Closing the Gaps.

THE PROPOSAL that London levy a business license equal to the amount of the business tax on the premises occupied for the first year of the life of a new firm is one of simple justice to the already-established tax paying business in the city, as well as the city as a whole.

Back of this movement is a desire, that the transient trader entering the city shall shoulder his share of the cost of doing business here.

The present system of taxation and license provides many loopholes for evasion.

Under the taxation method a firm starting business early in 1922 is not called upon to pay business tax until June, 1923. At the end of this 18-month period, his first tax bill presented, he may pull up stakes and leave for parts unknown. He has not contributed a cent to the coffers of the city.

Under the transient traders' license evasion is equally easy. All that is necessary is to get a property owner of the city to consent to his name being attached to the business. That it is evaded is evidenced by the fact that transient traders' licenses in 1921 netted the city only $100.

The new proposal is based on a law in force in Winnipeg, and evasion is impossible. A new firm starting business must pay a business license in advance. The fee applied is based on what the business tax on the property occupied would amount to for the balance of the year. Native sons, as well as transients, must pay. It is impossible to escape by such subterfuge as may be worked in London.

That the Winnipeg system is a revenue-producer is evidenced by the fact that last year Winnipeg's fees from such a license totaled between $6,000 and $7,000, as compared with London's lone hundred.

The position taken by the members of the retail section of the London Chamber of Commerce is that if London is good enough place to do business in, the privilege should be paid for. The transient should pay his way just the same as the humble home owner. The merchants of the city, they contend, should not face the unfair competition of tax-free firms that enjoy all the privileges of the established house without the accompanying tax burdens.

The Ottawa Problem.

THE Kitchener Record says that "one-third of the employees of the civil service at Ottawa could be let out without detriment to the service. Those who are retained are entitled to a decent living wage."

Quite right. No person is going to ask a person in the civil service to be underpaid. It is highly desirable that the pay and conditions in the service shall be brought to such a state that the ablest men in the country will be attracted in that direction.

The complaint is that there are so many people at Ottawa doing a little work that it is not possible to pay the worth-while people what they should be getting.

Much better to have fewer and better than many and poorer.

The General Public.

THE CARTOONISTS of the continent have been taking their fling at the coal strike.

To our humble mind, the crayon artist of the Detroit News draws it right when he places both the miner and the coal baron on top of the consuming public, and then uses the words: "There They Take Their Stand."

Consuming public may not be worried very much about it just now. He can get along without a fire, and it isn't human nature to worry very far ahead.

Every day brings it nearer to the time when the available stock of coal is going to be used up. When that comes to pass industry is going to have to close or curtail greatly.

Trains will not make as many trips, and there will be a general slowing down of business.

Then the problem of heating our homes next winter will come later. It is a fact that the party most concerned of all, the buying public, is bound hand and foot, and has not even the opportunity of letting out a good-sized howl about the whole business.

High and Low.

THE average cost of a weekly family budget in Canada during the month of March was $10.54, according to the official Labor Gazette published by the government.

The total for food, fuel and rent for the same period during the same month was $20.96. On this basis, it would cost an average Canadian family $32.84 per month, or $1,006.08 per year to purchase the bare necessities of existence, without anything over for clothes, travel, amusements, sickness or the other odd things that are bound to come up almost every day.

What, then, according to these carefully-worked-out official figures, is to become of the family that has less than the income stated?

It is a fact that there are many wage earners who are not able to get the $32.84 per month.

Many a man grows a bit when he has to walk up and pay his income tax, and he imagines he is the most abused man in the community.

We submit that, when it comes to being abused, he is not in the same class as the man who, although willing and anxious, falls far short of getting the required amount on which to live decently.

Rewarding Authors.

WHEN THE Canadian authors were in session at Ottawa they adopted a resolution which stated, among other things, that the Dominion government should be asked for a "grant of $5,000 each year for an award for the most significant literary work by a Canadian, domiciled and resident in Canada."

When this request comes before the treasury the chances are that it will end right there.

If such an award is to be made for the sake of Canadian literature, then why, not for Canadian painters, Canadian farmers, Canadian mechanics, Canadian doctors, Canadian preachers?

In fact, there is no end of the list that could come up for consideration with just as good backing.

The funds at the disposal of the government at Ottawa are the funds of all the people of Canada, and it would be exceedingly unwise to take any of them for a purpose that would create precedent in the direction of further expense. If an author writes the best story of the year the chances are that the reward comes in the satisfaction of having turned out a successful work, and also in the way of satisfactory returns from the sale of the book. There is no reason that we can see why the government should be called upon to supplement this reward out of the public funds.

Railway Age of Chicago, in a recent issue, said: "The Dominion is considering trying to float a large loan in the United States. American investors will probably consider Canada's railway policy before deciding on the desirability of buying its government securities." The result of this advance notice was that when the Dominion did go into the U. S. market for a hundred million dollars, the amount was subscribed before most people knew it was available for subscription.

LITTLE 'TISERS

A lot of nations are insisting on having peace, if they have to turn the world up on edge to get it.

Gasoline's up a cent in some places, which means that John D. is probably getting a new golf outfit.

Detroit and Buffalo announce that they will accept Canadian money at par. And so will the merchants at home.

Things are settling down at Ottawa. Newspapers have not reported a government crisis in the last three days.

A whole lot of people who go out fishing for trout are mighty pleased to give some youngster ten cents for a big fat sucker.

Might draw the attention of Ottawa to the fact that France has just dismissed 50,000 government employees. That little out of 400 in the militia department does not look so big now.

Germany and Russia may have signed some understanding for the armies, pledging good-will and co-operation, but it still carries a bit of that scrap of paper feeling about it.

The Ottawa River went on a whale of a rampage this year and did quite a heap of damage. It is not recorded, though, that it interfered seriously with the beaten path of Ottawa folks who journey over the river to Hull.

And right now there is an agitation on to make some radical changes in the style of sleeping cars. Big mistake. Dressing and undressing in an upper is more exercise than a gymnasium could give you in three weeks steady work.

Our St. Thomas correspondent comes forward with an item to the effect that a fish weighing twelve pounds was caught by two men in a pond near there. One of the pair coaxed it to the surface with a pailful of worms and beefsteak, while the other chap chloroformed it.

The Belleville Ontario has an article, "Keep Our Skirts Clean," and in it refers to conditions around the local market. Just in passing, what kind of skirts are they wearing down east? The dirt must be powerful thick or powerful active to be able to pile up or jump up that far.

The Kingsville Reporter rises to greet the new daily paper from Windsor as follows:

"The Daily Telegram, Windsor's new newspaper, has made its appearance. From the tone of some of its articles, especially the editorials, one can see the ear marks of the old Border Cities Liberty League."

As evidence of the fact that the weekly newspapers get mighty close to the lives, habits and language of their readers, we submit the following from the Milverson Sun:

"A local fisherman, while out in the garden one day this week, digging for worms, fell over his spade and barked his shin. A spectator desires to have the instance recorded as one on which a spade was not called a spade."

Chatham has a peculiar case. A judgment was given in the court against a citizen for debts incurred, and his chattels were seized—among them being a quantity of Scotch whiskey. It looks as though this liquid would be sold by auction. The Chatham Planet states that "it is expected the sale will draw an unusual crowd." For the benefit of Londoners, we might state that both the Grand Trunk and C. P. R. make connections with Chatham.

The provincial highway from Stratford to Kitchener will, according to reports, be built wider than has been the custom in the past. This is a wise move. Some of the highways in the province, especially those that are much used and carry all sorts of loads and trucks, are notoriously narrow, and from that cause more or less dangerous. The most outstanding example of this is the strip from Toronto to Hamilton, where driving at the hours of the day or night when traffic is heavy is nothing short of a continuous nightmare.

The Vancouver Sun is certain that unemployment is a national problem. Did the Sun come to this conclusion after witnessing recent parades of unemployed in that city? There can be no getting away from the fact that in the first place unemployment is an individual problem, and there can be no getting away from that point. When the individual has tried and failed he can turn to the larger field, municipal, provincial or federal, but he should go the limit in exhausting the personal element first.

Guelph has one spot that is dear to its heart, and that is an old log house that tradition says is the first place erected in that snug little city. Some day when you're in Guelph get some of the folks who are well acquainted with the place to take you around and locate the spot. Don't go on your own hook or you will get hit with a train or fall into the river or get lost in the weeds and shrubbery around the log house.

It was going to get the device a few years ago, but kinder minds prevailed, and the cry of "Spare that shanty" won out, but its last days have not been its proudest, and folks refer to it by all sorts of names now.

It's tough when an old log house lives to be real old to have to get shunted off on a side street and never have folks come around and say: "Oh, looked that!" And now they do tell you're just waiting for it to get to be 100 years old when they will butcher it. Cruel—that's what it is—cruel.

A new oil company to be called the Elgin Field Oil and Gas Company, to bore for oil in Dunwich, is being organized. The provisional directors are: W. Hollingshead, H. Hollingshead, A. Darrah, A. E. Tesky, R. D. Ferguson of Port Stanley and J. E. Austin of London.

The reorganization of the staff of the London customs house is proceeding. Mr. O. H. Talbot, who has been for some years cashier, has been appointed to the position of chief clerk, vacant by the death of Mr. Collett. Mr. John Siddons, Mr. George D. Sutcliffe, appraisers, have been off duty through illness, have been superannuated. Mr. James L. Williams, landing waiter at the M. C. R., has also been superannuated.

The field crops branch of the Saskatchewan department of agriculture is about to launch another educational campaign against the sawfly, and the farmers in infested areas should promptly apply the information that is given them. Stubbing in crop in districts where the sawfly is known to exist is almost sure to result in encouraging the increase of the pest. Where deep fall plowing has not been done, spring plowing and packing completed by the end of the first week in May will destroy many of the adult flies or prevent them from emerging. Where the stubble is long enough large numbers of larvae may be destroyed by burning off in early spring, according to officials of the field crops branch. All headlands of weeds and grass should also be burned. Only by observing these precautions can the farmers hope to free their land of this dangerous pest.

A JOKE ON THE EDITOR. "I wish," said the editor's wife, "that you were not so absent-minded."

"What's wrong now, my dear?" "Why, when our hostess asked you if you would have some more pudding, you replied that owing to the tremendous pressure on your space you were compelled to decline."

NO. 210—RULING THE WIDE HEADS. You may remember from a previous article that people with wide heads are of the driving, energetic, "scrappy" kind. What, then, is the best way to handle them?

The most general rule is this: Let them blow off steam when they want to, and don't take it too hard. It may mean considerably less than, for instance, the ominous, pained silence of the narrow-headed person.

If you are selling something to a wide-head, remember to lay principal emphasis on the results, the profits of it. Be prepared for a tirade at any time, particularly at the start of the interview. It's not insincere bluster, but it's bluster. Don't let it frighten you away from your position too easily, though, of course, you must be guided by reasonable judgment. Just keep in mind at such times the adage that "barking dogs don't bite."

But this is important. It it does become necessary to call a halt on such blustering, be very careful not to be drawn into the same manner. Counter-bluster is far more likely to fan the interview into an honest-to-goodness fight than is a quiet, cool word of protest.

But if it is possible, when a wide-head "explodes," just wait quietly a bit, and proceed as if nothing had occurred. The chances are that he, or she, will forget it all much quicker than you do.

Moderate exercise is good for everyone. To keep well, some exercise should be taken every day.

If one does not have enough rest and sleep, the tired body is less able to resist disease. Children require ten to twelve hours, youths eight to ten, and adults seven to eight.

If the body waste is not passed regularly from the bowels, weakness, weariness, low spirits, headache and loss of appetite will result.

THE BOOKSHELF

MR. PIM. By A. A. Milne. George H. Doran Company, Publishers. New York. $1.75.

GAY, sparkling dialogue characterizes this book, with wit dancing through it and satire inspiring it, but a satire that is not malicious, even when it bites like a touch of tabasco.

Mr. Milne tells us in his brief foreword that "one of the first things which the dramatist discovers is that he must know all about anybody who steps into his play before he can show the least little angle of the character correctly to his audience."

So here is the Pim novel. And since one cannot know too much of such people as these of the Pim play, and since the novel can tell you so much more about them, and give you so much more time with them, the novel must not be missed, even by those who have seen the play.

Those of us in Ontario who unfortunately could not see it will at least not miss knowing Pim and George and Brian and Dinah and Olivia, nor, better even than that, Mr. Milne himself.

A house in the English country in lovely July weather is where we find ourselves, and the time is breakfast—We spend only a single day with the Martens, as it happens. But so cleverly are they presented to us, and so intimate do we become from the very first minute that we immediately feel that we have known them all our lives, and that Marden House is as familiar to us as the place we are for the moment calling home.

Dinah and Brian are, of course, in love with each other, and are having the most tremendous amount of fun out of it. Brian is the well-known painter whom no one does know yet, but who is so certain to become famous that it would be foolish to put off calling him so at once. Anyhow, he has already sold one painting for fifty pounds, and there is a wonderful story just about that, which, though very short, manages to introduce another group of perfectly fascinating people, including a young millionaire called Marshall, the one who buys the picture. Playful and yet serious is this tale, and if it teaches one of the characters a lesson, as it very much does, it can teach the rest of us too. The whimsical air of it does not prevent its being a criticism of life. It is possible to be graceful, amusing, to have the lightest of touches, and yet to be significant.

Mr. Milne proves it in "Mr. Pim."

HEALTHY person is much better prepared to escape and resist disease than a sickly person. Nor is it so difficult to be healthy if one is careful. Good air, good food, good water, good habits, a proper amount of exercise, sufficient rest and sleep, personal cleanliness, and attention to the bowels are necessary.

Good air is required day and night. Keep out-of-doors as much as possible. In the house, windows and doors should be partially opened. Too little food results in dangerous weakness; too much, in the accumulation of fat. Neither is healthy. With light work and in hot weather, less food is needed. There are various kinds of food. Meat is a good example of one kind. The others are fat, sugar, starch and mineral matter, such as salt and water. All are needed. Too much fat, starch or sugar usually results in increase of weight. They should be avoided by persons inclined to grow stout. The planter the food the better.

Bad water is one of the commonest carriers of disease. Don't drink any water unless you know it is good. Most cities now have good water supplies. Well water is often contaminated. This is why typhoid fever is commoner in the country.

Despite prohibition, alcoholic liquors are yet one of the commonest causes of many serious diseases. Some patent medicines which contain morphine and cocaine are even worse than alcohol. While tobacco serves no good purpose, it is so generally used without apparent injury that it would be foolish to magnify its dangers. Growing boys should not smoke cigarettes. Successive use of tea or coffee is bad.

DEMAND CANADA RESPECT INDIAN TREATY OF 1784

Six Nations Council Insists Ottawa Probe Indian Financial Affairs.

CONDEMNS SCOTT STAND

500 Members of Tribe Will Defend Land To Last Ditch.

BY RUSSELL F. BOYD.

COUNCIL HOUSE, OHSEWEN, May 9.—Not amid the cheering typical of a nation plunging into battle for its rights, but in sober silence, sincere in their realization of the step taken, the Six Nations Council, late this afternoon, formulated and passed a petition asking the Dominion government for "full respect of the Haldimand deed," and an "investigation of the Indian financial affairs, the Indians to have representation on the investigating commission."

This decision was reached after Mohawk, Seneca, Onondaga, Oneida, Cayuga and Tuscarora chiefs had advanced their views. Their presentation of the case was admirable in point of procedure, proof of which was apparent when the time came for definite action.

All day long the council had been aroused, and yet kept in good humor, by the clever oratory of its principal spokesmen, who were capable of holding the attention of their audience, whether the Mohawk, Seneca or English tongue was used.

Insists On Probe.

"It is time to ask for a thorough investigation," declared Chief David S. Hill.

"Duncan C. Scott is trying to raise a conflict between the Indian and his white neighbors."

"The Indian is said to be a lawless person."

"The Liberal government is not to blame. Hon. Charles Stewart, superintendent-general of Indian affairs knows nothing of the present state of affairs. He promised us recently that he will make it a point to study the matter. And he promised that our financial affairs will be laid on our table from time to time."

"When we asked for the auditor-general's report, we were refused it. It was only through the kind offices of members of Parliament that we received it."

Raps Lack of Respect.

"Scott and his officials have not enough respect for us to answer our letters."

"What right has the Six Nations Council to recommend appointments? We recommended a certain doctor. Did they make the appointment? No. They appointed Dr. Greenwood."

"This spring, with distress on the reserve," pursued Chief Hill, "we asked for a few paltry dollars. Was it granted? Not one cent did we get."

"Nevertheless Scott paid bonuses to his officials for two years."

"One official was drawing salaries for two offices. He was a recruiting officer, as well as an Indian department official. When the cry came from overseas for men he thought the better part of valor was safety first; threw up his commission, and came home. And he wasn't above asking for a bonus."

"You poor Indians, you 'chronic grumblers; you starve when you ask for your own. You asked for bread and you received a stone!'"

"It seems to me that the best Indian is a dead Indian," remarked one of the chief sarcastically.

Scott Writes Lyrics.

"They say that Duncan C. Scott enjoys himself writing lyrics."

"Some day, some long-haired poet will be squatting on the graves writing lyrics to the only good Indian."

"When you have all become enfranchised and the Six Nations Indians are dead, there will still be enough money left to plant flowers on your graves. The Indian flowers have provided for that. They will perpetuate the memory of the Six Nations."

Then changing to a more serious tone, but never losing the interest of his hearers, Chief Hill charged that the annual reports Scott presented to the Dominion government were stereotyped. He had helped to prepare them. The chief declared that some years ago when he presented a true report he was told to make another one, following the one of the previous year, increasing the figures a little.

Abandon Farms.

"There has not been one instance," he charged, "of the Six Nations Indians interfering with returned soldiers. The soldiers have abandoned the farms."

"The soldiers' settlement act was not intended for the reserves. It says explicitly that the men are not to be placed on Indian land."

"We have been denied the very things our boys went overseas for. They fought for democracy. What do we get? Autocracy!"

"The pivotal point is our right to the lands. Anyone with a drop of Indian blood in his veins will fight for that."

"We have friends off the reserve; I honor them. We have enemies off the reserve; I pity them; they are misinformed."

"It is not safe on the streets of many populous cities. You can tramp the length and breadth of this reserve by night or day and you will not be harmed. Yet we are called lawless."

"It is perfectly true the psychology of the Indian is somewhat different from that of the white man. But give us time."

Referring to what Chief Hill termed "Scott's pet bill 14," providing for the compulsory enfranchisement of Indians, he said: Four hundred and fourteen of our band were enfranchised—poor, deluded souls! Until recently an Indian was never known to be a pauper. Today you will find them all in the ranks of Scott's enfranchised Indians.

Want to Go Home.

"They want to go home. They have been robbed of their heritage for a paltry $150. Would you sell out for $150? I doubt very much if they can get another Indian to become enfranchised."

"The Indian feels the responsibility to take upon himself the full rights of citizenship, but the time is not yet. I ask that you make a decision to ask the government to have our affairs investigated by a commission with representation, and not to interfere with our fight for the rights to our land."

"How could Vyse be a squatter when he was placed on the land from which Constable Kerr tried to evict him, by the only authority, the Six Nations Council."

"Just as soon as an Indian official is appointed he usurps the power of a judge."

STEWART WON'T BACK INVASION OF INDIAN LAND

Declares Liberal Government Would Never Countenance Such a Step.

EXPRESSES HIS SORROW

Great White Chief To Visit Tuscarora Reserve in July.

BY RANDOLPH J. CHURCHILL.

HOUSE OF COMMONS, Ottawa, May 9.—The great white chiefs at Ottawa are sorry that the Indians of the Tuscarora Reserve are apparently in a rebellious mood, but they have no intention of punishing them. Hon. Chas. Stewart, minister of the interior and of Indian affairs, stated definitely to The London Advertiser today that although a request for reinforcements had come from the sheriff of Brant County, the government had no intention of sending mounted police to the reserve, or of using force at the present time to make the Indians comply with the law.

Soon after the recent hostile demonstration was brought to his attention the minister sent a letter to the chiefs of the tribes in an attempt to bring about an amicable settlement of the trouble, which, he believes, has arisen entirely through misunderstanding.

The Indians have been led astray, Mr. Stewart said, through poor legal counsel, and the agitation of a chief general who has seized upon the distress and poverty of the people to gain influence over them.

The great chief, Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, who really looks upon the red men as children left in his charge, expressed sorrow today that the Indians of Tuscarora had been threatened with force. The government, he said, had never considered such a course, and the threats made several weeks ago and more recently by the sheriff of Brant County had never been made with the consent of the Dominion government, or with its knowledge.

Will Visit Tribe.

The great interest he has in the welfare of the reserve will be shown by a personal visit to the Six Nations tribe which he is planning to make at the end of the present campaign, probably in July. At that time he will investigate all the real and fancied troubles of the Tuscaroras, and if possible will smoke the pipe of peace with them.

The Hon. Mr. Stewart is conversant with the history of the trouble, but after the chiefs had returned to the tribe the smouldering fires soon broke into flames again, he claimed, through the agitation of the chief general.

The Indian department would be worried to a far greater extent if it believed the unrest of the chiefs and a few of their supporters was representative of the feeling of a majority of the 5,000 or so residents of the reserve. It is believed that the people would be quite contented if they were left alone by the agitators.

Doubt Representation.

The chiefs who comprise the council of the tribe, they claim, do not represent the people in the true sense of the word, because they inherited the office in each case from their father. In their endeavor to cling to the dignity of their office and to the last shreds of their power, they resist bitterly any interference in their government by the white man.

Hon. Mr. Stewart believes that the council of chiefs should be consulted in all matters pertaining to the government and business transactions of the tribe. He believes that perhaps a great deal of the present trouble is due to the thoughtless actions of certain government officials who have dealt arbitrarily with them.

The Indians, too, are under a great misconception of the purpose and application of the soldiers' settlement act. They evidently believe that the government has power to seize the land of any returned Indians or settler on the land who does not make good, thereby causing the reserve to lose title to the land.

The minister explained that such was not the case. The government loans money to an Indian taking up land under the act only for improvement purposes, and the government therefore has jurisdiction only over the stock and implements.

Scott Raised Ire.

Mr. Stewart does not think that Duncan Campbell Scott, superintendent of Indian affairs, is to blame for the trouble of the Tuscaroras, as claimed by the chief general. He thinks that Mr. Scott probably raised the ire of the council through the administration of the Indian soldiers' settlement act, with which he was entrusted, and which above all things the council opposed. The superintendent, he thinks, probably did not consult the council in establishing the soldiers, but he thinks that Mr. Scott has always been fair in his administration.

As far as the claim of Chief Deskaheh that the lands of the Indians have dwindled from 800,000 acres to 50,000 acres is concerned, the minister believes that no land was ever sold without the sanction of the council of chiefs. All benefits or proceeds secured from the sale or transfer of lands were turned over to the tribe, he said.

Interest Used Up.

The same applies to the trust fund of the Six Nations. The interest of the fund is used for relief purposes on the reserve and other expenditures fully approved by the council. During the past two years, in which Chief Deskaheh claims no interest has been received, the cost of the relief was so much higher, wages and other expenditures so much more costly, that the interest was wholly used up.

The fund which the chief claims has dwindled to $80,000 has never been touched, except for school purposes, which is permitted under the act. Under the act the fund cannot be used for any other purpose. On several occasions the chiefs have applied for a distribution of $20 a head from the fund among the Indians, but even if the government were willing to let the tribe use the fund in this manner the act would not permit it.

The refusal of the government to do this has been a bone of contention among the chiefs.

Superintendent Scott has been confined to his home with a broken arm since April 3. He expects to resume his place at the helm of the department this week, when he will go into the matter fully.

Stage, as the layman understands that term, there was none; but the floor space as a whole was rather elaborately cluttered with what Lucinda was to learn were technically known as "sets," in various stages of completion and demolition; a set being anything set up to be photographed, from a single "side" or "flat" with a simple window or door, or an "angle" formed of two such sides joined to show the corner of a room, up to the solid and pretentious piece of construction which occupied fully one-half of the left and right wings of the Palm Room at the Ritz-Carlton.

At the far end of the room a substantial set represented a living-room, a good part of it was masked from Lucinda's view by a number of massive but portable metal screens arranged in two converging ranks, at whose apex stood a heavy tripod supporting a small black box. To these stands lines of insulated cable wandered over the floor from every quarter of the room.

An atmosphere of apathy pervaded the place, as if nothing of moment was happening or expected to happen. An effect to which considerable contribution was made by the lugubrious strains of a three-piece orchestra, piano, violin, and cello, stationed to one side of the living-room set.

This trio intrigued Lucinda's interest. Its presence seemed unaccountable, not more so than its rendition of plaintive melodies, tunes which one more familiar with the cant of the theatre would unhesitatingly have classified as "sob stuff."

Guided by Mr. Lane, the exotics gingerly picked their way across the coils of electric cable that ran in an ankylosis all over the floor, like exposed viscera of the cinema; and Lucinda presently found herself between it and the dogged orchestra, and well out of range of the camera.

She could now see three people on the set, two men with a girl whom, thanks to the wide circulation of the lady's photographs, she had no difficulty in identifying as Alma Daley. The girl had bobbed hair, a boldly featured face, comely in the flesh rather than pretty, and a slight little body which she used with a rather fetching effect of youthful gaucherie.

Of the men one was tall and dark, with a thick shock of wavy black hair, a wide and mobile mouth, and a somewhat melancholy eyes. His well-tailored morning coat displayed to admiration a splendid torso. The other was a smaller, indeed an undersized man, who wore a braided smoking-jacket, but no pants; his pinched, weatherworn face of an actor.

"King Laughlin," Mr. Culp's secretary informed Lucinda—"man in the smoking-jacket, he always wears one when he's working—greatest emotional director in the business—nobody can touch him. You wouldn't guess what he gets: thirty-five hundred."

"That's almost a thousand a week. Isn't it?"

"Thousand a week. In accents of some compassion he corrected: 'Three thousand and five hundred every week.' But that's Mr. Culp all over; expense is no object when he's making an Alma Daley picture, nothing's too good."

"I'm sure..." Lucinda agreed vaguely.

Out of the corner of an eye the director had become aware of a new audience and one worthy of his mettle. Dropping the easy, semi-confidential manner, Mr. King Laughlin snatched a silk hat and stick from the other's unresisting hands.

"Right O, Tommy," he said in the nasal voice of the English Midlands. "Just to make sure I'll walk through

Chats With Rex Beach About the Great Out-of-Doors

BY MORRIS ACKERMAN.

Rex Beach is the best posted big game hunter in the world today! Incidentally, Beach has no reason to brag about his hunting and angling accomplishments. He hunts and fishes because they are his hobbies, expensive ones at that. Quite a little fame has come to him as a fiction writer. No doubt with fiction writing fame goes some few emoluments.

Beach went to Alaska with the "Klondike gold rush of '97" to get rich. We don't know what were his fortunes as a seeker of gold. We do know, however, that in Alaska he became inculcated with an insatiable desire for brown and grizzly bear hunting, which he maintains is the greatest of all sports. Several times he has returned to Alaska to hunt moose and caribou as well.

Next to that he likes duck hunting. Like it so well that he has provided himself with every known means for a full enjoyment of the same.

He has hunted Canada from end to end, and is especially fond of the Province of Quebec. Likes the big variety of fish and game up there and its easy access.

This winter he had a cabin built up the Gatineau River, 50 miles north of Ottawa. Hasn't seen it yet. Here he will have another complete fishing and hunting outfit.

Beach has trapped crocodiles in Nicaragua, hunted tapir in Colombia, fished tarpon and sharks in Panama; hunted in Lower California, along the Mexican border and in Cuba.

In the U. S. he has fished and hunted up and down both coasts; cougars in Arizona; deer in the Adirondacks; turkey in the southwest; grouse in Pennsylvania and quail throughout the south. These cover but a part of his experiences.

"And now," says Mr. Beach, "I have other ambitions. One, to hunt the Siberian tiger, another the African lion and elephant."

THE THREE WISHES

[By Olive Roberts Barton.]

"Now I shall give you your choice of three wishes."

KING COURAGEOUS, the real to do with these two imposters, King Indig and King Verdo. They, too, must be punished.

"Do we have to take one of the three wishes, or may we make a wish of our own?" asked Nancy. "Anything you like, my dear," smiled King Courageous.

"Then," said Nancy, brightly, "please don't punish anybody, and let Nick and me go home in our Green Shoes. We had to walk here over the Seven Mountains and Seven Valleys, but when we go back we may just make a wish, the Fairy Queen says, and whisk—we'll be there!"

"Well, well, well!" said the king, kindly. "What kind hearts you have. It shall be as you wish. Good-bye, little ones."

"You have been very brave and made us all very happy. When we have conquered Twelve Toes and broken his magic the prince and I shall return. He will marry the princess and rule over our kingdoms in happiness and peace. Now good-bye, again." And he kissed them both.

Bride's Clothes For Sweet and 20

BEARING heedfully in mind that youth's a stuff that won't endure, the summer bride chooses her gown for its challenging simplicity—one doesn't need furbelows at 20.

Soft satin, heavy crepe or chiffon, are most used for the new wedding gowns which have little ornament. Drooping side panels give oddity and charm.

Taffete and organdy are popular for bridesmaids' frocks and their texture shows to advantage in the bouffant, basque styles. Completing the feminine representation is the flower girl—and one can imagine the delight of a 6-year-old at one of the many-ruffled tiny dresses made for little girls.

HAS WESTERN ONTARIO ANY GENTLEMEN?

A DOZEN London folks were gathered around the dinner table the other evening. One woman was relating an experience.

"In a restaurant recently in Toronto I spied a girl friend I had not seen for years," she said. "Naturally I went over to her table to greet her. 'She had a gentleman escort and, as I stopped at the table, he arose. 'I was invited to sit with them, and accepted. There was dancing and I had several dances with other men folks whom I knew in the restaurant. 'Each time I returned to the table, my girl friend's escort courteously arose and remained standing until I was seated. He was a perfect gentleman.'"

What Is One? "What do you mean by a perfect gentleman?" the speaker was asked. "Why, why," she began, and then she stopped. The question was a stumper.

Others at the table were asked to try to frame an adequate definition. One woman said: "A perfect gentleman removes his hat and keeps it off while talking to a lady on the street. 'And must take the risk of pneumonia if it happens to be a cold day.'"

Radio Radiations

Amateurs are requested to make their queries as brief as possible to facilitate the publication and answering of the questions. Address your communications to the Radio Editor, The London Advertiser.

BY THE RADIO EDITOR.

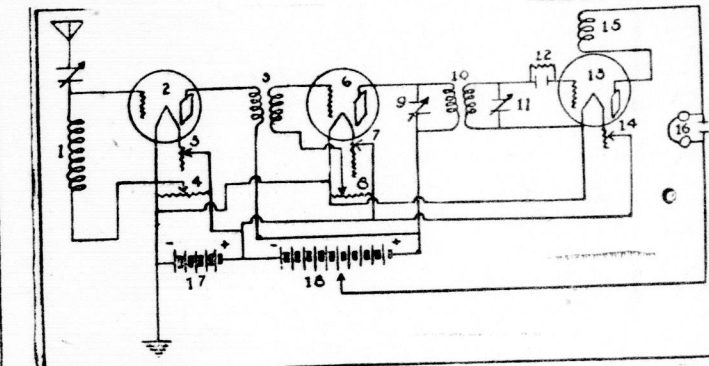

LOOK for a big drop in radio enthusiasm during summer. Then for a recurrence of interest in fall greater than ever.

That's the prediction of radio engineers and officials who are following the radio situation keenly.

The loss of interest in radio during summer will be due mainly to two causes—heat and static.

Heat will drive radio fans out of their attics. Outdoor sports will break into the interest in wireless. But even those who will insist on tinkering with their receiving sets in spite of the weather, will find static an obstruction as great as, and sometimes greater than, the heat. Static does its worst during summer. At times it becomes so powerful that it endangers the delicate construction of the telephone receivers.

Combination of both these obstructions to wireless practically all year round, makes the torrid zone a belt around the earth where radio is almost impossible. A powerful set which in the temperate zones can send and receive signals up to 500 and even 750 miles distant, could hardly be heard as close as 10 miles away near the equator. While heat and static will keep the radio fan from his set during summer, engineers and officials of the large radio manufacturing firms will be busy perfecting the instruments in preparation of greater interest in the science next fall.

To increase the receiving area of a radio set, arrange it in a radio frequency receiving circuit. This will pick up signals from far-away points that could not otherwise be detected.

Differing from the arrangement in audio frequency, it will be noted that the radio frequency amplifiers are placed ahead of the detector. This strengthens the signals which would be too feeble otherwise to pass into the detector with enough strength to go through the process of rectification.

In an audio frequency circuit the amplifier is placed after the detector to give greater volume to the incoming signals after passing through the detector.

Hook-Up. Referring to the diagram, we have the aerial with a variable condenser in series.

No. 1 represents the antenna inductance. This should be a honeycomb or duo-lateral coil, the size to from 17 to 45 volts. The amplifying tubes take approximately 45 volts on the plate while the detector tube takes approximately 22 1/2 volts. "B" batteries may be purchased with varying steps. These would be preferable in this hook-up.

To further increase the receptive power of the set, audio amplification may be added after the detector for a still greater volume of reception.

RADIO PRIMER

B-BATTERY—A high-voltage battery, usually dry, giving from 15 to 22 1/2 volts current. It is used to furnish current to the plate in the detector and amplifier.

ALL IS SET FOR TITULAR GIRLS' CAGE SERIES

Shamrocks Arrange To Seat Over 1,000 Fans At Armories—Entertainment of Westerners Planned.

With the money guarantee speeding its way west over the wires, plans for seating at the armories all complete, and details of a program of entertainment for the Edmonton team mapped out, everything is about set for the first Dominion girls' basketball titular series, the first game of which will be staged at the armories next Tuesday night.

The Shamrocks warned by the record crowd which witnessed the L. O. B. A. finale here are putting up seating accommodations which will look after 1,000 fans or more and with every single one getting an unobstructed view of the proceedings, as the seats will be tiered up.

The Program. The Shamrocks will look after the Western girls on arrival Tuesday, before and after the game. On Wednesday one of the women's organizations will entertain the players at luncheon, and the Shamrocks will have their hosts at dinner before they leave for St. Thomas by car for an exhibition game that night. On Thursday businessmen of London will take the westerners on a sight-seeing tour of the city and environs.

Shamrocks are working out diligently every night and are in fine fettle for the approaching test. They are alternating their nights, playing girls' rules one night and boys' rules the next, and are fast getting the latter rules down pat.

Both Suffer. The western team are just as badly off in this regard, as they have to master boys' rules under which the last game will be played.

The series will have one good effect probably in that it will start the standardization of rules for the Dominion.

The two sets of rules has meant a lot more work for both the colleges and the coach, A. T. Taylor, and naturally has upset the team somewhat.

During the last two weeks of workouts, the locals have been given a lot of new signals and they are getting them down as well as their old formations. There is plenty of confidence in that result, although the Shamrocks realize that the westerners have a formidable record, on paper at least.

The seat plan is now on view at Wendell Holmes.

The clubs of the Inter-City League met last night and went over the preparations for Saturday's opener. The league is about set for the twin fracas which start the first organized amateur season off for London.

GI Forge, former St. Thomas player in the old Canadian League, an enthusiast where amateur ball is concerned, will handle the first game Saturday and will probably act all season as a sort of umpire-in-chief.

No less a personage than Al Watts, hockey and baseball star, is on the umpiring staff this year. All hands are expected to be on hand. The lineup for the clash with Ontario will be selected by the management immediately after tonight's practice.

The Hermit is also working out tonight, but at Queen's Park. Their workout will be held from 8 to 9, and a big squad is looked for. Those invited out are: Gray, O'Malley, Sessions, Wilson, Dutton, Lawrence, Watts, McWain, Dennis, Doble, B. Clarke, A. Callahan, Cook, Atkins, Barrows, P. Isaacs, Ryckman, Bowman.

TOOK EXTRA FRAME. The London North Beavers and the Pirates treated many east-end fans on Tuesday night to a real ball game. The game was tight throughout and it was prolonged to seven innings. Storey's home fielding and Obe's long homer tied up the score in the fifth. Sallier and Biggs were wild at times, but both pitched effectively.

The score: R.H.E. Beavers 100 120 1-5 9 2 Pirates 121 600 0-2 10 2 Sallier and Biggs; Hurd; Biggs and Elliott.

REFUSES TO DROP RADIAL MEASURE. TORONTO, May 9.—Members of the Ontario Legislature waited on Premier Drury this afternoon asking that the government's radial bill be withdrawn on the claim that it would block the "clean-up" deal.

The premier refused to withdraw the bill, but promised to consider a proposal that a committee be appointed to endeavor to find out whether the bill would really affect the "clean-up" and if so, whether there should be a change in the act.

New 'Y' Director

George R. Sinclair, at present general secretary of the Moncton, N.B., 'Y', has received the appointment of physical director of the London Y. M. C. A., and will report here about June 15.

The newcomer has a splendid record in many years of 'Y' work. He is a Canadian, educated at Harvard Street Collegiate, Toronto, and Springfield College, Mass. He received some splendid training under Crocker, McLeod and Smith, foremost directors in Canada.

He has been with Moncton two years, and before that worked in Hamilton three years, as director for two years. He was a physical director at the Evangelical Settlement, Toronto, for five years.

He comes highly recommended, and it was almost certain that he would get the appointment.

CH-AT-TER

WORKMEN are known by their tools and ball players by their bats. You will never find a good hitter who does not take particular pride and care when it comes to his bats. They must be of a certain weight and a certain "mold" or shape.

The weight all depends upon the man using the bat. Some of the giants in baseball use light bats. Harry Heilmann, champion batsman of the American League, for instance, and some of the small men use heavy bats.

During a batting slump a batsman is liable to change to a heavier or lighter bat, but many of the good hitters refuse to change under any condition.

When Ty Cobb broke into the major league he had plenty of trouble in Detroit. His successes irritated the veterans of the Detroit Club and they tried in many ways to handicap the "Flashy Georgian."

One day one of the Detroit veterans broke Cobb's bats into splinters and tossed the remains over the fence. Cobb had brought these bats from the south to Detroit and had used them in all games. The veterans thought that with the bats broken Cobb's luck would be gone.

Charlie Schmidt, then first-string catcher for the Tigers, saw the act committed. He felt sorry for Cobb and asked him with a fence rail, said Cobb. Schmidt loaned him his bats, and that afternoon Cobb made out his best times at bat. But in spite of this success he did not continue using the model that Schmidt favored, and had used them.

Players are superstitious about their bats, for bats are credited with "carrying" batting averages.

DICK KERR, hero of the 1919 world series, is just about convinced there isn't any sentiment in baseball. He is a follower of the national pastime well remember the White Sox scandal of that year. If it hadn't been for the fact that he was always denied by Kerr, but the fact remains that after the fraud deliveries were abolished he lost his effectiveness.

THE abolition of all freak deliveries was largely instrumental in the passing of "Hod" Eller from the majors. Eller, who was sent to the Oakland Club of the Pacific Coast League by Cincinnati, was a sensation of the National League in 1919.

In the world series with the Chicago Sox he won national fame by striking out six of the White Sox in succession, a feat never before approached in a world series.

Eller was a trick pitcher. That is, he got a hop or break on his fast ball by the use of doctoring the sphere. National Leaguers always insisted he used powdered emery on the ball. This was always denied by Eller, but the fact remains that after the fraud deliveries were abolished he lost his effectiveness.

After Cloutier and Williams had been beaten in the first two games, Kerr made it look worth while by taking the third game. He also won another, causing White Sox fans to perk up and believe their favorites had a chance.

Kerr pitched such excellent ball that the Sox could not lose back of him. Even though some of his team-mates tried mightily hard to turn the trick.

Kerr's loyalty and honesty made the 1919 world series. Eliminate his pitcher.

BRANTFORD, May 9.—The Brants and the Tecs had a wild little struggle behind the dyke, and the locals emerged with a 9 to 4 victory, coming from behind after Andy Herbst and Buck Doyle had been banished from the game, the end of the first half of the fifth. Fisher, attempting to score on Leah's single in the fifth, failed to touch them, and the Brants went through the motions of a put-out at the bag. In the storm that followed Vangraffen, lb., charged with tipping the Brants off to the play, and the London fair was banished. The Brants hit Lefty Carmen hard, Dawson crashing out a homer with two on. Smyth's homer was to the left field fence, the first there for many months.

ing and the showing of the White Sox have been a joke. Two years have passed. What has become of Dicky Kerr, the hero of the 1919 world series?

Kerr, because of a rather slight salary increase, refused to report to the Chicago Club and has automatically suspended himself. He is to pitch semi-pro ball around Chicago.

Kerr has good reasons for believing their isn't any sentiment in baseball. He is a follower of the national pastime well remember the White Sox scandal of that year. TERRIERS TO VISIT WOODSTOCK NINE

Big Preparations Made by Officials For Real Season Opening.

WOODSTOCK, May 9.—The Galt Terriers will open the season here tomorrow when they play an exhibition game with the local western Ontario League outfit. Big preparations have been made for the official opening and big league formalities will prevail.

Mayor Mack Paul has been selected to deliver the first ball, and as the mayor is an undertaker he is expected to bury the old ball with steam and land it in the big mitt which will adorn the left hand of Frank Hyde, the father of city league baseball in Woodstock, who will do the receiving. Standing at the plate wielding the ash will be ex-Mayor Gahagan, who, in days gone by, was a member of the Terriers.

Following this "official work," "Cap" Kennedy will say "play ball" and the season will be on. At Galt the locals were given a fine beating on Saturday last, but Manager Sutherland promises better things tomorrow. He will have Charlie Kelly on the mound, with Vance Thompson and Ray in the "pen" warming up, in case the Terriers take a liking to Kelly's offerings. Bobby Henderson still does the receiving and half a hundred of the best city leaguers will be given a chance to show their wares in the seven other different positions.

SOLDIER JONES K. O.'S PENWELL

LONDON, May 8.—(Canadian Press cable).—"Soldier" Horace Jones of the Canadian here tonight, knocked out ex-Guardsman Penwell in the first round at Blackfriars' Hall tonight, when a packed house witnessed the Canadian's victory. The bell sounded for the opening round, and Jones rushed across the ring and drove Penwell to the ropes. Following a clinch, Penwell sent a left jab to Jones' face; then in close work Jones landed uppercut and a couple of hard body blows on his opponent. The soldier continued to attack Penwell fiercely, and after he had landed about a couple of minutes he sent a right jab to Penwell's chin. The ex-guardian fell forward on his hands and knees, and was counted out. The bout was for £100 side stake.

Though Lewis Is Welter, He Has Plenty of Backing.

UPON the outcome of Georges Carpentier's fight on May 11, in the arena in London, with Ted "Kid" Lewis, will depend the French gladiator's plan to challenge the winner of the Greb-Tunney encounter for light heavyweight honors, set for New York on the night of May 23.

In case Georges should lose to the "Kid" he would, of course, be out of line for a meeting with the New York victor, but he is in correspondence with the managers of the two prospective participants in this encounter on the evident supposition that there is no doubt he will acquire himself satisfactorily to himself, against his next opponent.

He ought to be, for Lewis, though a game, clever fighter, has figured hitherto in the welterweight class, and at the present is only European champion in that, the world's title, which he and Jack Britton exchanged between them for some time, being held now by the latter. Ted has a reputation for extraordinary speed, but so has Carpentier.

The odds are around 8 to 5 on the Frenchman, but there are plenty of takers at this figure.

The Lewis men say Carpentier will have no such set-up as with Beckett, the "Kid" being far craftier and more alert. Besides, there are those who assert Dempsey's jolt did Georges no good.

Carpentier's friends say their man will win by a knockout in about eight rounds. Lewis' backers predict that Ted will do the same thing in about four.

Dempsey has been asked for his opinion, but hasn't given it. The papers say it's certain he thinks the Frenchman the better fighter.

This was announced at a meeting of the executive committee here tonight, held in the "Y." TWO HELD ON MURDER CHARGE AT PETERBORO

Mother of Ernest Edwards and Abraham Filion Arrested.
PETERBORO, May 9.—Abraham Filion and Mrs. Emma Jane Edwards are being held in the county jail, charged with the murder of Ernest Edwards. This is today's latest development in the series of incidents that began on Wednesday, April 12, by the finding of the lifeless body of Ernest Edwards in the backyard of the premises which the family was occupying on the ninth line of Dumfries street, near the corner of Dufferin street. Mr. Williamson was engaged in sugaring operations in the maple bush on the property, of which he is the owner, and happened to pass near the house that afternoon. Succeding episodes were the several sightings of the inquest, under Coroner Dr. T. N. Greer.

The first published statement of Mrs. Edwards, mother of the deceased, was a suspicion that her son might have taken poison, although she could ascribe no reason for such an act, and also her announcement that a bottle containing a quantity of the poison that had been kept in a trunk in her son's room, was missing. The coroner's jury will continue its hearing on Thursday night with chief interest attaching to the expected report of the analysis of the contents of Edwards' stomach.

MAY BURY SAUERS IN POTTERS FIELD

WINDSOR, May 9.—Charles Sauers, Sandusky, O., who was found dead in an alley between Glenora and Ayler avenues Sunday morning, will be buried in Potters Field, unless the American Legion supplies funds to remove his body to Sandusky. Van D. Sauers, a brother, arrived in Windsor late Monday from St. Clairsville, United States. He is penniless and unable to see that his brother is given a proper burial, he told police.

The body was identified by the brother. He told police that his brother was gassed in France while serving with the 32nd Field Artillery Unit. He was an inmate of the Sailors' and Soldiers' Home at Sandusky, and disappeared from there on April 27.

GEDDES POINTS TO NAVY REDUCTIONS

LONDON, May 9.—(By Canadian Press Cable.)—Sir Eric Geddes, speaking at Sheffield today with regard to the notable report of the economy commission, of which he is chairman, stated that the government had already given effect to a reduction of £50,000,000 to £100,000,000 reduction in the estimated expenditures which the commission had recommended in its report to the government.

The reduction in the estimates for the navy was £15,000,000, including the proposals of the Washington conference, against £21,000,000 recommended by the commission, although, as far as he could see, war was a very remote possibility.

FLOAT LOAN OF $40,000,000 IN NEAR FUTURE

Provincial Treasurer Smith Gives Notice of Resolution in Legislature.

BIGGS OUTLINES PLAN

Would Capitalize $2,000,000 Yearly From Fees To Build Roads.

BULLETIN.
TORONTO, May 9.—Just before midnight Hon. F. C. Biggs, minister of public works and highways, continued his speech on the second reading of the act to amend the highways improvement act, the most important feature of which is provision for the capitalization of motor license fees to raise money with which to build highways. The minister announced that the proposal was to capitalize $2,000,000 a year of the revenue from motor licenses for a period of twenty years, instead of 40 years, as the bill as presented provided. He estimated that from $25,000,000 to $27,000,000 in debentures could be taken care of by taking $2,000,000 a year for Princess Mary Writes Letter of Thanks for Wedding Gift to I.O.D.E.

Toronto, May 9.—Princess Mary, Viscountess Lascelles, has written to Miss Arnold, president of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire, thanking the society for its wedding gift. Writing on April 22 last, from Chesterfield House, her royal highness says: "I wish to convey to you and to members of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, my warmest thanks for your generous wedding gift to be used for any purpose I may desire. It is indeed wonderful that all parts of the empire should be thinking of me in my happiness, and I only wish I could have had the opportunity of telling everyone personally how deeply touched I am by their kindness. I also wish to thank you very much indeed for the beautiful illuminated address, and for the good wishes it contains. Yours sincerely, "MARY."

Twenty years out of this source of revenue. The minister also announced that the best information available showed that the automobile business of the province during the last two months had been the best in history. This indicated that the income from motor licenses would increase from year to year, so that while at present the setting aside of $2,000,000 left a considerable balance would likely increase, the balance is used for road maintenance. He also announced that road construction would cost about fifteen per cent less this year than last.

One Name Advanced.
Provincial Treasurer Smith gave notice of a resolution to provide for the sale of $40,000,000 of provincial bonds to take care of such expenditures as hydro, Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway, roads, etc. He explained that the province had sufficient money on hand to take care of immediate needs, so it would be six or eight weeks before the bonds are put on the market. The terms had not yet been decided upon. The premier said that the municipalities which had asked for a representative on the royal commission investigating hydro had not lived up to the understanding to submit a number of names from which the government could select a commis-

The committee is representative of the whole Dominion, insuring a fair consideration of the claims of all parts of the country.

WITH the reports of the examiners in the hands of the civil service department of the Dominion government, appointment of a deputy postmaster in London will be announced within the next 48 hours, it is expected.

The long delay in filling the office since the four applicants were verbally examined was due to the long and roundabout way the reports traveled in reaching Ottawa.

The report of T. A. Bowers, the chief examiner, was compiled in Winnipeg, where Mr. Bowers is postmaster, and was then forwarded to London to be confirmed by Principal Beal of the London Technical School, who assisted in the examination. The reports finally reached Ottawa Monday.

THE long-looked-for budget, which has caused so much anxiety to all parties of the house, will be brought down some time next week, it is expected. Hon. W. S. Fielding was asked by Hon. Sir H. Drayton today when the budget would be presented, but Mr. Fielding gave him no reply. That it will be brought before the house next week, however, is the belief of those in close touch with the situation.

WITH the first week of May gone and the important business of the parliamentary year just nicely started, the prospects of a long session stretching well into June looms up. The possibilities of remaining in Ottawa until after the harvest season is started does not appeal to the majority of Progressive members, but it is not likely that any of them will be tempted away from Ottawa before the present session is ended. A gentlemen's agreement is said to exist among all members of the party that they will remain in the house until the Speaker leaves the chair for the last time. Every member from Western Ontario at least is determined to live up to the agreement.

WOODSTOCK CITIZENS TO PETITION PREMIER

Claims Guards Overstepped Mark of Justice When They Shot Down Young Mitchell.
BULLETIN.
TORONTO, May 9.—No official investigation is contemplated by the provincial secretary's department into the circumstances surrounding the death of William Mitchell, a young man from Woodstock, who was shot while attempting to escape from Burwash prison on April 29.

Special to London Advertiser.
WOODSTOCK, May 9.—Failure to officially recognize the request of relatives and friends here to probe the killing of William Mitchell, the 19-year-old Woodstock boy, killed at Burwash by the guards when he attempted to escape, led to a petition, put in circulation today, which when fully circulated and signed will be sent to the premier and attorney-general.

The petition, which already has been largely signed, points out that in the opinion of the petitioners the guards at Burwash overstepped the mark in the interests of justice and discipline when they shot down young Mitchell. It points out that the crime for which the boy was serving an indefinite term was a simple case of horse stealing and was to end in eighteen days, when he was to have been paroled. The tragedy has aroused much interest and sympathy for the relatives here, and the petition is the result of the fruitless efforts of those interested to get particulars from the parties concerned.

CANADIAN PACIFIC FAST TRANS-CONTINENTAL TRAIN, TRANS-CANADA LIMITED.

Commencing Sunday, May 21, the "Trans-Canada Limited," the fast trans-continental train of the Canadian Pacific, will operate between Toronto and Vancouver daily, this in addition to "Vancouver Express" now operating, making two trans-continental trains daily between Toronto and Vancouver. "Trans-Canada Limited" time, Toronto to Vancouver, is 80 hours, this being the shortest time scheduled for any trans-continental train on the continent. It carries first-class sleeping car passengers only, and the schedule is so arranged as to provide for convenient hours of arrival at the different principal points, and gives the Canadian Pacific Rocky Mountain scenery in daylight. A business day is saved on the trans-continental trip, as the businessman has had his breakfast and is ready for business the second morning in Winnipeg, the third morning in Calgary, and the fourth morning in Vancouver. The Canadian Pacific will this summer have four transcontinental trains each way every day over the mountain.

WOULD ABOLISH DISTRICT NO. 1

General Mewburn Urges Removal of Military Officers From London.

Former Minister of Militia Suggests Plan As Economy Means.

Special to London Advertiser.
HOUSE OF COMMONS, Ottawa.
May 9.—The abolition of Military District No. 1, at London, was recommended to the government today by General S. C. Mewburn, M.P., for Hamilton, formerly minister of militia in the Meighen government, as a means of economy in dealing with the permanent force in Canada.

Gen. Mewburn said that he realized the move would not be a popular one, but he believed that it would be justified by the great saving which would be effected. He suggested that the London district should be put under the jurisdiction of M. D. No. 2, at Toronto.

Years ago, he continued, the two districts were amalgamated and the London district was known as the Western Ontario Command. He did not see why such an amalgamation

The Greatest Asset Of Any Business

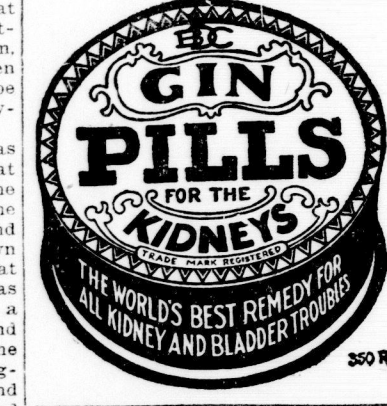

The leading men in control of any organization are the most valuable asset of the concern---the power to plan, build and execute.

Therefore, it is quite logical to place a definite property value on such brains, in their relation to the particular organization, and it is business wisdom and propriety to insure this against loss.

No one disputes the advisability of Fire Insurance for property, Life Insurance on the individual---for the benefit of the business---is even more important. Fire may never occur. Death must come. And there is no salvage to human life. Is your business protected against the inevitable?

Ask any Life Insurance man to advise you with regard to Business Life Insurance.

When the iron goes from the blood of women, the healthy glow of youth leaves their skin and their charm and vivacity depart. A two weeks course of Nuxated Iron works wonders in many cases. FINDS ALCOHOL CAUSED DEATH

Jury Investigating Brantford Fatality Recommends Use of Poison Labels.

Brother of Frank Clawsey Tells of Victim's Partial Blindness.

Special to London Advertiser.

BRANTFORD, May 9.—The jury empaneled to inquire into the death of Frank Clawsey, found after deliberating fifteen minutes, that he came to his death by drinking wood and rubbing alcohol. Coroner C. C. Fissette presided.

Fred Clawsey, a brother of the deceased, stated that he was in the presence of the deceased when he expired in his bedroom on Monday, May 1, and that the dead man was at the time partially blind. He did not know whether the blindness was caused by drinking.

"Was he able to speak just before his death?" asked Crown Attorney Charlton.

"Yes, he said that he had been drinking alcohol."

"Where did you find this bottle and when?" asked Mr. Charlton, displaying a bottle marked "wood alcohol."

FIVE LIVES LOST WHEN HOME BURNS

MARENGO, Ills., May 9.—Five persons were burned to death here late last night in a fire which destroyed the home of August Rourke, Jr. The dead: Rourke and four children, Harold 9, Walter 5, Helen 3 and Verna 2. The mother and two children, one a six-months' old babe, were saved by the father, who lost his life in an attempt to save the remaining children.

MOTOR TRUCK HITS KITCHENER BOY

KITCHENER, May 8.—As a result of being run over by a motor car on Lancaster street, Carl Smith, aged 11, is suffering from a broken thigh and cuts and bruises. The lad was riding on the back of a wagon shortly after 4 o'clock. He was asked by the driver to get off, and he did so. Just as he jumped off he stepped in front of a motor truck behind him and was run down.

CLAIM WOMAN ABETTED COUNTERFEITING "REDS"

Secret Service Operatives Arrest Mrs. Alexandra Markowitzky.

DETROIT, May 9.—Mrs. Alexandra Markowitzky, in whose home federal authorities declare the operations of the seven men arrested Saturday in connection with a counterfeiting plot were carried on, has been taken into custody by secret service operatives today.

The woman is said to have confessed a part in the conspiracy to raise $5 reserve notes to $20 denominations, the proceeds of which were sent to Russia to finance Bolshevik propaganda.

Mrs. Markowitzky's arrest, federal agents announced, followed a confession by Beale Kapusnick, one of the seven men held. She is said to have destroyed part of the counterfeiting plant before the raid on her home in Hamtramck.

Questioning the men disclosed, the officers said, that Tony Kulick, who directed distribution of 200,000 or more of raised bills, apparently was a leader of a communist organization in Canada. At his home in Ford City, Ontario, officers reported, were found several volumes of communist literature and portraits of Lenin and Trotsky.

Bottle in Bedroom.

"In his bedroom, on Monday afternoon, when I moved his bed."

Witness stated that the deceased had been drinking some kind of spirits in his bedroom before his death. "What kind of spirits he was not prepared to state."

Reginald Dymond, head clerk at the Robertson drug store on Dalhousie street, stated that the bottle was purchased at the main store of the above firm and that he was not able to tell who had sold the spirits to the dead man as there were so many clerks.

The Robertson store was the only ones in the city that handled that particular brand, which was over 95 per cent pure alcohol. The other ingredients would also result in death if taken internally.

Would Alter Name.

"Our four stores in the city sold about 49 bottles during the last month," the witness stated.

"Have you any suggestions that would save any other fatalities such as this kind?" he was asked by the coroner.

"Yes, I would suggest that it be called by its technical name and the person unacquainted with drugs would be able to tell that it was a poison and it should be marked as such."

"What is the technical name?" "Ethylhydrate," was the reply.

Dr. F. G. E. Pearson was called to give the deceased medical attention about noon on the day of his death. Clawsey was in bed and had been bilious. Dr. Pearson could smell wood alcohol.

"What was the cause of his death?" "Alcohol poisoning," without question," was the emphatic reply.

Witness was of the opinion that all bottles such as this should be marked with a poison label.

Had Trouble Before.

B. J. Eacrett, license inspector for this section of the country, stated that he had trouble with this particular brand of alcohol on one other occasion and that the result was very nearly disastrous. He thought that all persons buying alcohol in any form should have to sign a register when they purchased it.

The jury recommended that the word "alcohol" be eliminated from all alcoholic preparations and that "poison" appear on all such bottles.

The jury comprised the following:

FAMILY HAS NARROW ESCAPE FROM POISONING

OTTAWA, May 9.—Three members of the family of Patrick Hunter, 152 Turner street, last night narrowly escaped death from poisoning when they partook of a meal of a white insecticide which is used for destroying potato bugs and other insects.

Today the three sick members of the family are confined to their beds, but Dr. Charles Wallace, who attended them, reports they will recover.

Last evening when Mrs. Hunter was preparing the supper she took a small quantity of the white powder from a paper bag which was near the table. She mistook the powder for flour, and did not notice her mistake until about 7 o'clock when Samuel Hunter, aged 19 years, suddenly became ill and commenced to vomit. A few minutes later Herman Hunter, aged 12 years, also took ill, and was followed by Patrick Hunter.
