Heart of a Hundred Sorrows.

O, heart of a hundred sorrows,
Conquered for our own relief,
Yet I, whose sin has done,
The gifts that Thy children bring Thee
In ever a sorrow more.

Here of Thy dear compassion,
Conquered for our own relief,
Here and ever we seek Thee,
And each with his gift of grief,
Oh, soul to receive my sighs,
Yet I, whose sin has done,
Would bring Thee my joy of being,
The rose of my happiness.

The spirit that makes my sighs,
The gladness without alloy,
O, heart of a hundred sorrows,
I bring Thee a little joy.

A Visitor's Impressions.

Diablo Owen, in The Canadian Century.

I have gratified my desire; I have journeyed through the Land of Evangeline; I have seen the locus of Longfellow's immortal poem from the willows of Grand Pre to the marshes that gently slope to Blomidon.

Like all well conducted visitors I took as my headquarters the charming university town of Wolfville, that which there is not to be found a prettier spot in the length and breadth of the whole Dominion of Canada. It is a town of beautiful streets, of magnificent residences and well-kept lawns and gardens, and here, as throughout the whole Land of Evangeline, are to be found excellent hotels and private boarding places, well equipped and those prime essentials good cooking and service. The prices are moderate and the courtesy of mine hosts is all that an obliging Nova Scotia 'mine host' can possibly have.

Perhaps the greatest charm of Wolfville lies in its orchards. Situated as it is in the heart of the Annapolis Valley, the home of the apple raising industry, 'Blissdom time' which comes early in June, is as lovely in its picturesqueness as it is gorgeous in its splendor.

As we drove through the orchards, we were captivated by the beauty of which the trees were laden. Every color seemed represented; apparently every hue had a place, tho' of course the pink and white of the apples predominated. It rivals the lilacs of Campden and the cherries of Japan.

Although Wolfville owes much to the wonderful orchards that surround her, yet they are not the only charms she possesses. The scenery that lies to the northward, the eastward, the southward or the westward is regal in its grandeur. From the heights of Wolfville can be seen the long, rolling marshes, and the waters of Minas Basin that are ever on the ebbs and flows; and far away in the distance rises Blomidon, making a fitting centre for such a charming scene and a majestic and stately background for the glory of the intervening valley. It is Blomidon, then, that everyone goes, and of course, I, being in Wolfville, did as the Wolfvillites do and went also.

It was a beautiful drive, with the roadway banked on either side by hay fields, orchards or dykes with the muddy water lapping at their base. 'O what a view!' Those were the words I uttered, and which I am told everyone utters as they gaze from the 'Look Off' at Blomidon across the marshes of Minas to the hills beyond.

Somebody has said, 'Though you live to be twice the age of Methuselah you will never forget that view.' I, at least, never shall. It is glorious, magnificent. From the summit you can see parts of seven counties, count in that are the finest in the whole Province. Hundreds of feet below is the Cornwallis Valley stretching to the southward through miles of fertile soil until it reaches the base of the South Mountain. To the westward is Kentville with its shady lanes and babbling brooks. And through this wonderful valley six different rivers flow.

At the day was drawing to its close, I could not linger longer, and with a heart that slightly, at least, reflected the sadness of the years gone by, I turned my back upon the ancient village of Grand Pre.

Leaving homeward through the flowing fields of hay and looking over the dykes that bar the way of the Fenby tides I thought of the years that followed the expulsion of the Acadians—the years when the war was done and peace prevailed. I thought of the misery and suffering of the journey, as through the years they struggled on one by one, back to a land that once had been theirs, only to find that they were as strangers in their home of the years that had passed before, and there ran through my mind the beautiful lines of Herbie:

THE RETURNED ACADIAN.
'Along my father's dike I roam again,
Among the willows by the river side,
These miles of green I know from hill to side
And every creek and river's ruddy stain.
Neglected long and shunned our dead have lain
Here, where a people's dearest hope has died,
Alone of all their children scattered wide,
I scan the sad memorials that remain,
The dike we've the grass but not for

For Falling Hair.

YOU RUN NO RISK WHEN YOU USE THIS REMEDY.

We promise you that, if your hair is falling out, and you have not let it go too far, you can repair the damage already done by using Rexall's '93' Hair Tonic, with persistency and regularity, for a reasonable length of time. It is a scientific, cleansing, anti-septic, germicidal preparation, that destroys microbes, stimulates good circulation around the hair roots, promotes hair nourishment, removes dandruff and restores hair health. It is as pleasant to use as pure water, and it is delicately perfumed. It is a real toilet necessity.

We want you to try Rexall's '93' Hair Tonic with our promise that it will cost you nothing unless you are perfectly satisfied with its use. It comes in two sizes, prices, 50c. and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in this community only at our store—The Rexall Store, A. V. Rand.

There are men, unhappily, who believe that the only way to make money is to steal it, whereas the correct reverse is the truth. Every man of average intelligence knows that the only way to make money is to practice honesty, industry and fairness. And it is equally certain that if a man would become successful in any calling, he must practice the same simple, homely, virtuous.

It is of more importance to you than good digestion! Food must be eaten to sustain life and must be digested and converted into blood. When the digestion fails the whole body suffers. Chamberlain's Tablets are a rational and reliable cure for indigestion. They increase the flow of bile, purify the blood, strengthen the stomach, and tone up the whole digestive apparatus to a natural and healthy action. For sale by all druggists.

Stomach doors are coming down, but thermometers are going up.

But George, poor, lonely devil, would give half his salary and all his expense money if he could hustle home like Jim, and spend the evening with his family.

Jim's more real fun when little Jim crawls on his knee and whippers that he wants a ro-cent football like Billy Watson's than George ever had in the finest hotel in the land.

Many a George sits hour after hour gazing at the passing throng, speaking when spoken to, probably about subjects in which he hasn't the least interest, smiling pleasantly, trying to read the newspapers, when his thoughts are far, far away with his wife, or with the girl whom he hopes will become his wife.

The hotel may be good—but pork and beans at home taste better than half a chicken at a hotel.

The Brightest Day For Every Woman

COMES WITH GOOD HEALTH THROUGH THE USE OF DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS.

Her brightest day for every girl and every woman is the day when she looks well, feels well and is well; but with most of the fair sex such days are rare. Instead they suffer from a painful languor, have a terrible weakness in the back, headaches that make everything seem blurred, and a ceaseless aching in the limbs. These and other trials afflict girls and women through the lack of rich, red blood.

Pink Pills have given the joy of real robust health to thousands of women who are happy to-day because these Pills actually make their red blood that makes weak ones well and strong. This statement has been proven over and over again. Here is further proof from Mrs. C. J. Brook, Stanton, Mass., who says: 'After a busy term on second class work, followed only by a short time of relaxation, and a strenuous two and a half months normal course, in March, 1906, I began teaching school, with a large attendance, and consequently a large number of grades, thus I found the work a great nervous strain. This added to the overwork of study, previous to teaching, soon resulted in a 'run down' condition. When vacation time came I did not pay much attention to my condition as I thought the holidays would fully restore me, but as I resumed work again I soon found this was not the case. One morning when I came to breakfast everything reeled before me and I almost fainted away. The lady with whom I was boarding advised me to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She always spoke very highly of them, her daughter having used them with the most beneficial results following a severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism. I decided to take her advice, and had only taken a few boxes when I began to improve in health—and such an appetite as I had. I rapidly gained health, my face had a healthy glow, and I gained in weight. I have since often recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to others who have used them with equally beneficial results, and I believe the Pills to be a standard remedy for the ills for which you recommend them.'

You can get these Pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

It does seem to be certain, however, that the governing party in the House is greatly divided, and that Sir Wilfrid Laurier would expose the Government to great risks if he should venture to leave Parliament in charge of two colleagues who have negotiated a compact with Washington that has become thoroughly distasteful to a considerable element in the Government's following.

Jim and George.

Jim works in a shop and lives at home with his wife and children. He wears overalls at his work, and his hands are calloused and grimy. George is a travelling man. When Jim works he past the hotel where George sits, smiling, behind polished plate-glass windows, with white collared cuffs, freshly creased trousers, nicely parted hair and a clean shave, Jim is likely to think that George has an ideal life.

But George, poor, lonely devil, would give half his salary and all his expense money if he could hustle home like Jim, and spend the evening with his family.

Jim's more real fun when little Jim crawls on his knee and whippers that he wants a ro-cent football like Billy Watson's than George ever had in the finest hotel in the land.

THE ACADIAN

WOLFVILLE, N. S., MAY 19, 1911.

The Campaign.

Messrs. Campbell and Eaton, the Union Reform candidates, are meeting with splendid success in their campaign for honest and clean politics. On every hand they have been cordially received by the electors and assurances of support are coming from every quarter. The meetings, which have so far been held have been well attended, and give abundant evidence that the people are fully alive to the conditions which prevail. Evidently Kings county people have been doing some thinking of late years, and the result will be that the "sleazy" vote will be overwhelmingly with Messrs. Campbell and Eaton on election day. Meanwhile all the friends of the movement and those who are interested in improved political conditions are in duty bound to put their shoulder to the wheel and give all the help possible. The eyes of the people of this province are upon Kings county to-day as never before. The issue is a straight one, and unless we fail to read aright the signs of the times the 14th of June will be a date to be remembered in Kings county.

Suffered Greatly From Colic.

Mrs. Aime Guenette, L'Immaculee Conception, Que., writes: "My little boy suffered greatly from colic. I gave him castor oil and other medicines without helping him in the least. One day I saw Baby's Own Tablets advertised, so wrote for a box. I found them so good that I always keep them in the house and would use no other medicine for baby." The experience of Mrs. Guenette has been that of thousands of other mothers. Not only do the Tablets cure colic, but they cure constipation, vomiting, indigestion, make teething easy, banish worms and make baby bright, active and happy. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Mr. Parker vs. Mr. Wickwire.

Mr. Wickwire appears to be greatly annoyed because Mr. Parker is in the field at all. Mr. Parker was nominated by the conservatives of the county, in opposition to the whole Murray government outfit, not only in this county but in every county. Messrs. Campbell and Eaton are in the field as independents, refusing to be attached to either of the main political parties.

Mr. Parker fails to see any good in the Murray government at all, and because very many people agree with him in this respect the sublime Wickwire gets mad all over.

We have an idea that in real ability, honesty of purpose, personal character, and genuine interest in the people of the county, Mr. Parker compares very favorably with the immaculate Wickwire.

From what we know of the candidates, we would expect that the less Mr. Wickwire has to say about other people the better for himself.

He stands for the present road system, by which thirty or forty per cent of the road money is paid out to officials of the Murray government. He stands for the school book robbery, by which the school books of our children cost forty per cent more than the same books cost in other provinces. He stands for the rum merchants of Halifax, and if elected, will continue to stand for them. He stands for the present system for auditing the accounts of the province, by which, as he knows, false returns to the extent of hundreds of thousands of dollars, in one matter alone, was handed down at the last session of the Legislature, and he has absolutely no defense for such conditions, and the public have no means of knowing how many other hundreds of thousands of dollars of misrepresentation there may be in other matters.

The New House Master.

Mr. A. DeW. Foster, who has been on the teaching staff of Horton Collegiate Academy the past two years, has been appointed recently to the position of House Master in place of Mr. Ruggles who has resigned. In addition to his duties in the Academy during these two years, Mr. Foster has found time to do the full course of the Freshman and Sophomore years, to lead the Intercollegiate Debating teams of Acadia twice to victory, and generally to make his influence felt in all things turning toward the "good and welfare" of old Acadia and H.C.A. Horton Academy is to be congratulated on securing Mr. Foster for House Master. A fine teacher, a man of high ideals, fearless in maintaining the right, full of enthusiasm, interested in all kinds of healthy athletics, popular with the boys, he is the one for the position, since the success of the Academy depends to a large degree on the House Master.

It now looks as though Wolfville were to have the three counties exhibition next autumn. Mayor Harvey has had assurance from the Secretary for Agriculture that the grant will be given, and some work has already been done by a committee of the Council. Officers and committees have been named and some work on the plans has been done. The ACADIAN will give other details from time to time.

THE RAIN—Heavy drizzle here, good water, weight about 1200 pounds. Apply to J. W. Stewart, Wolfville.

Bribery.

We have evidence that bribery has already begun in the interest of the government candidates. The preliminary agent or advance briber is already in the field. In the east end of the county a party is canvassing to find out how much each voter will require, just touching the question gently. A little later another party will follow in the identical footsteps of the first criminal, to see if there are any changes. And, at the proper time still another, but of a somewhat different type, goes and hands out the cash to huddle.

What do the decent people of the community think of such methods? That they exist we have the proof. A close tab is being kept in all directions, both east and west, north and south, and the villains who hand out bribes will be exposed. Some parties have no idea that their methods of distributing rum and money are known, and when the exposure comes something sensational may be expected. Just now, Horton, as a township, is under fire and the villains are known and marked.

Any man who goes out and bargains for a man's vote, just as they would if buying sheep, should be disfranchised and imprisoned for a year, and that is about what will happen, after June 14th, to some parties who are already at the work.

Any candidate of any party, who carries in his grip a supply of whisky for treating those who might enjoy the occasion or who provides a whisky reception after a political meeting, should be tarred and feathered and driven out of the district. A candidate who presents himself before the electorate of any constituency, should be a decent gentleman, and just the sort of man you would trust your son with. Any other sort should not receive one vote from the people of this or any other county. Five years ago, the decent people of this county, led by Professor Everett Sawyer, taught these ruffians and bribers, with their train of grafters and patronage experts, a great lesson. And it is proposed to repeat this with compound effect on the 14th of June. If there is a single member of any Christian church, or any individual of any stripe of political belief, who will countenance or encourage the use of money or money's worth, or any form of bribery, be it wet or dry, if such an individual exists in this or any constituency, all respectable people should assist in presenting that individual before the public in his true light. There is no more despicable, leprous, unclean, indecent villain at large than the man who deliberately seeks to bribe a voter. A bank robber is a saint beside him.

Wickwire and Covert in Somerset.

At the Somerset meeting Dr. Covert (by special request) repeated his old chestnut of how S. C. Parker escaped paying taxes by not recording the well known expert assessor of Ward J. George R. Evans.

Mr. Parker in replying said it was well known in Kings county that for more than twenty years previous to 1908 he, with his father and brother, had carried on business under the firm name of Parker & Sons. As surviving partner he was still doing business under the firm name. The titles previous to 1908 were vested in T. H. Parker and at present are largely vested in estate of T. H. Parker. The entire property was assessed to T. H. Parker & Sons and always paid taxes claimed by church and state. He had no property recorded in his own name prior to his father's decease.

Mr. Parker further stated that for twenty years previous to 1908 T. H. Parker & Sons paid more taxes in each and every year than Dr. Covert had paid altogether since the day he was born; and that the same firm had paid more taxes in Kings county than Dr. Covert would pay at his present assessment if he should live to the year A. D. 2000.

H. H. Wickwire spent an hour of his time in explaining his connection with the notorious Graham vs. Bigelow apple case. He said he considered it an honor for his firm to be selected to carry on said suit. He had acted in the best interests of his client and had succeeded in having the case tried in Halifax. He said his partner, Mr. Pingo, a strong conservative, pre-arranged the affidavit complained of but unfortunately had the names and could not sign when needed. Mr. Wickwire professed to be shocked at the perfidy of the Conservative party in franking some thousand copies of "Facts and Figures for the People" through the Ottawa post office, thereby saving some postage.

Mr. W.'s regard for the public finances has increased since the time he and his late colleague bought the Aldershot camp ground for about three thousand dollars and sold it to the Federal Government for $38,000.

Mr. Wickwire pronounced himself a model lawyer, challenging any person to prove him guilty of unprofessional conduct and he would retire from the campaign immediately.

Profits of $828,000.

Montreal, Que., May 15.—The statement of the book of Montreal for the half year ended April 30, issued to-day, shows profits of $268,049.92, as compared with $222,044.12 for the same period last year.

Lecture by Rev. R. F. Dixon.

The literary people of Wolfville enjoyed a rare treat on Tuesday evening in the lecture on "Some English Poets," given by the Rev. R. F. Dixon, the popular rector of this parish. Professor Pattison, of Acadia University, presided and introduced the lecturer. Mr. Dixon's most eloquent terms reviewed the growth of English poetry and exhibited his great wealth and the continuous genius of the English race as seen in the possession of immortal names that have enriched our language and literature beyond those of any other nation. In appreciative though discriminating language he brought vividly before the audience the great names of Milton, Wordsworth, Shelley, Keats, and Keble, as types of the true poet. The audience joined enthusiastically in a vote of thanks proposed by Rev. J. W. Preatwood, of the Methodist church, Professor Wortman and Mr. I. B. Oakes.

WORKS LIKE A VACUUM CLEANER

Why not give your body a spring house cleaning? It is reasonable.

You stay indoors too much all winter—you breathe foul air—you sleep in close rooms—you eat too much. In fact your winter life is pretty much artificial and unnatural.

Then why not renovate your whole system this Spring?

Take a short-cut to youth and energy. Nyal's Spring Tonic is the thing. Sulphur and molasses was grandmother's way. She also scrubbed her fingernails off every Spring. But Nyal's Spring Tonic is a regular up-to-date vacuum cleaner by comparison. Gives new snap and vim—puts life and spring into your muscles—makes you feel fit and ready.

Eczema and Sore Eyes
'My daughter suffered from inflamed eyelids and eczema on her face,' writes Mr. H. C. Lear, Fort Plain, N.Y. 'The child was in a bad state and suffered greatly. The doctor failed to help her, and on recommendation of a friend used Dr. Chase's Ointment, which made a complete cure. With a grateful heart I write you this letter.'

'I heard Uncle Joe talking about something he said he saw at the horse races, but I know better,' confided the recently-chastised small boy to his chum. 'He saw 'em right here, and they're my ma and my pa.' 'What did he say?' asked the chum. 'He said he saw a spanking team.'

A Weak Chested Boy.
'My boy Frank seemed weak-chested and took a very severe cold,' writes Mrs. D. S. Stevens, N.Y. 'The many medicines used did no good to benefit him, until I tried Dr. Chase's Syrup of Licorice and Turpentine and found it to be exactly what was wanted to cure him. No treatment so thorough and effective as a cure for croup and bronchitis.'

'So that's the baby, eh?' 'That's the baby.' 'Well, I hope you will bring it up to a conscientious, God-fearing man.'

'I am afraid that will be rather difficult.' 'Pshaw! The 'twing is bent the tree's inclined.' 'I know; but this 'twing is bent on being a girl and we are inclined to let it go at that.'

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

Plain Language on the Fly. It is not easy to keep delicacy in a discussion of the fly. The health authorities who attack it do not waste much time in effort to do so. The nature and habits of the pest make it next to impossible to say what it is and does without the use of plain English. The authorities are giving the plain English (and not only to householders, but the school children. The following is taken from a 'Fly Catcher's' distributed to the children in North Carolina schools:

Where is the fly born? In fifth. Where does the fly live? In fifth. Where does he go? In to the kitchen and ironing room. He walks on to the bread, fruit and vegetables; he wipes his feet on the butter and bathes in the butter-milk.

Does the fly visit the patient sick with consumption, typhoid fever and cholera infantum? Yes, he does, and may call on you next.

What diseases does the fly carry? He carries typhoid fever, typhus, cholera and summer complaint. How? On his wings and hairy feet. What is his correct name? Typhoid fly.

The 'catcher' is written for children, but the adult mind need not be offended by its simplicity.

Get Busy.

The best laid plans of mice and men go for nothing if the weather is against them. There is an error in the statement, however. The poor little mouse whose nest Burns had thrown out with the plow may not, really, have made plans; she had probably acted on instinct. But man, though he lacks instinct, is divinely gifted with the power of thought and imagination. The dog knows the difference between himself and his master. He looks up into his master's face with appealing eyes, eyes which are not only wistful for what he feels he lacks, but which are worshipful of the being whose powers he realizes are so far beyond his. Man-made with care reaches back over centuries and aeons uncounted, and, with scarcely a moment's interval, will leap forward and speculate what is to be after millenniums have passed away. How despicable for such a being, so empowered, to let his powers atrophy for lack of use. The practical application of the above should be evident to every farmer. The crops with which his fields shall wave depend not so much on the number and quality of his teams and implements as on the plan he forms. The man who plans for the season are not perfected, get your thinking cap on. Get busy.

Billiouness and Constipation

For years I was troubled with billiouness and constipation, which made life miserable for me. My appetite failed me. I lost my usual force and vitality. Pepsin preparations and cathartics only made matters worse. I do not know where I should have been today had I not tried Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. The tablets relieve the ill feeling at once, strengthen the digestive functions, purify the stomach, liver and blood, helping the system to do its work naturally. Mrs. Rosa Porter, Birmingham, Ala. These tablets are for sale by all dealers.

What is Electricity?

Many persons, young and old, often wonder how the modern electric cars, trains and locomotives are operated, and what electricity is. We know some of the things that it will do; we have, to a certain extent, learned how to control it, and, for want of a better word, we call it a fluid. We have discovered, too, that it is one of the most important forces, if not the most important force, of which we have any knowledge. We are almost as ignorant of many other great forces of nature, as, for example, the attraction of gravitation. For the present we must be content to observe such forces of nature, and to devise the best methods to control them. In this knowledge mankind has progressed wonderfully within a few years.

CONCRETE THE SALVATION OF THE FARM

It is only a few years since concrete was generally accepted as a reliable building material, yet the difference which this convenient and economical form of construction has made in the outlook of the farmer in these few years, has done much to revolutionize things on the farm.

The growing scarcity of lumber and its consequent rise in price, has gradually caused that commodity to become most prohibitive to the ordinary farmer. So much lumber is required for the farm for buildings and fences that the extremely high price has made it almost prohibitive to the ordinary farmer unless he has an extra large sum of money to spend on it. Wire fencing partially solved the problem, but real relief did not come until concrete was proven by actual tests to be not only practicable, but to possess many advantages over wood as a building material.

The use to which concrete can be put is a practically unlimited one, particularly on the farm. Already the list includes forms of construction ranging from the large hip-roofed barn down to a nest-egg that develops the wisest old layer in the brood. These have been extended largely by a series of extensive experiments conducted under the auspices of the Canada Cement Company, on farms throughout the country. This large concern, which has fostered the concrete building process in Canada, has been a large factor in the spreading of knowledge of concrete and its uses. Recently it has distributed 65,000 copies of a book entitled "What the Farmer Can Do With Concrete." This work contains information which makes it possible for any farmer to do almost any kind of construction work around a farm with concrete, and is given free of charge. This generous distribution of literature and the efforts of this firm to show the farmer how practical concrete really is, have earned for them the highest of commendations.

The most recent plan to introduce concrete to the farmer is a booklet arranged by the Canada Cement Co. The lines along which the concrete is planned are broad enough to accommodate the farmer's needs. The average barnyard—there are many more, some better—consists of a stack of hay or straw, a manure pile, a watering trough, and a spout, oozing manure, dirt, and filth, in between and all around. Most farmers will recognize this type as being familiar, even those whose farms are made in other respects. Until recently it has seemed almost impos-ible to avoid this objectionable condition in a barnyard. Owing to the stamping of cattle and the rooting and scratching of the smaller stock, the ground seems to be kept constantly worked up into its cozy state. Into this, and through it, the farmer is compelled to make his way several times a day while doing his chores. Despite his best efforts, a certain amount remains upon his shoes and clothing. If he escapes the germs that are sure to exist in the stagnant well-water, and does not catch a cold from wetting his feet in it, he always runs the risk of carrying some small particles into the house on his shoes, where they dry into fine dust and are stirred up by the next sweeping, filling the atmosphere that has to be breathed.

To avoid this altogether would be impossible, but the farmer has found a way in which much can be done to alleviate the barnyard troubles. Instead of wading through mud, the farmer and his family walk dry-shod to the barn and amongst the buildings on concrete walks and drive-ways. Instead of standing in a muddy hole, while he waters the stock, he stands on a concrete platform on which is set a concrete drinking pool. This serves a double purpose of not only providing cleaner water for the horses and cattle, but also does not harbor the germs of contagious diseases which so often lurk in old wooden drinking troughs.

His small stock and poultry, instead of rooting in the mud and filth for their food, take it from a concrete feeding floor laid in a convenient spot in the barnyard. This may be swept clean or washed off and prevents a waste of feed.

The use of concrete as drainage material and in forming gutters under eaves makes it possible for farmers' wives and daughters to visit the barns without danger of contracting colds and without many other unpleasantnesses.

With water pressure secured from a concrete cistern built above ground, and the use of concrete in the building of closets, many of the objectionable features are removed and with proper drainage, much can be done to make such buildings perfectly sanitary.

Aside from its advantages as a germ-proof material, concrete finds favor with the farmer of to-day because he can use it himself as easily as he could use wood. All that is required is a quantity of broken stone, sand, and Portland cement. The molds are easily constructed and can be made of odd pieces of lumber hauled. With the exception of the cement, the materials can be found on almost any farm and should cost little or nothing.

To stand at a drinking bar and buy alcohol promiscuously for a row of acquaintances is not a sign of thrift or a true manifestation of friendship. Many a sodden drunkard has not been opened or generous. There are stages of intoxication in which any victim is possessed by the desire to give away his money. This is also a recognizable symptom in some forms of insanity. Much treating, to be sure, leads to intemperance. But with the treating habit wholly abolished intemperance would still exist. Stop drinking, if you have the habit. If you have escaped the habit do not form it. This is the best advice to give the young man who goes out much in the world. It is getting to be the fashion nowadays not to drink. Be fashionable.—N. Y. Times.

The Prodigal Girl.

We all have a heart for the Prodigal Boy, Who was caught in sin's mad whirl, And we welcome him back with songs of joy; But what of the Prodigal Girl?

For him there's ever an open door, And a father's bounteous fare; And though he is wretched, sick and poor, He is sure of a welcome there.

But what of the girl who has gone astray, Who has lost in the battle with sin; Say—do we forgive in the same sweet way We've always forgiven him?

Does the door stand ajar, as if to say, 'Come, enter, you need not fear, I've been open thus since you went away. Now close to the second year?' Or, with a hand of hellish pride, Do we close and bolt the door, And swear, 'while heaven and earth abide, She will enter here no more?'

O Christ! it seems we have never learned, The lesson taught in the sand, For even yet the woman is spurned, And stood in a Christian land. Down into the slough we hurl her back, Then turn around with a smile, And welcome the boy from the sinful track. Though his was the life most vile We all have a heart for the Prodigal Boy.

Who was caught in sin's mad whirl, And we welcome him back with songs of joy; But what of the Prodigal Girl? —Can Baptist

Treating and Drinking.

News comes from one of the metropolitan suburbs of the metropolis that the young men thereabout have formed an anti-treating club and thus propose by both example and precept to diminish drunkenness in their environment. The idea is that young men are enticed or driven to intemperance by the habit of treating. The members pledge themselves never to pay for other men's liquor. The idea is old, and not bad. Still, experience shows that the best way to avoid the drink habit is not to drink. Treating is a pernicious custom, but it is due to generous impulses and good fellowship, and there can be no harm in a young man, who can afford it, buying soda water and ice-cream for a young woman, and that is treating.

To stand at a drinking bar and buy alcohol promiscuously for a row of acquaintances is not a sign of thrift or a true manifestation of friendship. Many a sodden drunkard has not been opened or generous. There are stages of intoxication in which any victim is possessed by the desire to give away his money. ### The 'Catch-my-pal' Crusade.

Probably the most successful temperance worker in the British Empire to-day is a young Irish Presbyterian minister, Rev. Robert J. Patterson, L. B. Fifteen months ago he conceived the idea of what he called a 'catch-my-pal' crusade—each man who signed the temperance pledge promising to get another to sign the same card. The idea was simple, and by no means new, but backed by the charm, vivacity, enthusiasm and personality of Mr. Patterson, it has caught on tremendously, and has swept Ireland from end to end, already totaling membership, in 1909, in many villages the liquor shops have had to close because they were doing no business, and the Roman Catholic clergy are as enthusiastic as Mr. Patterson himself. Recently he visited London; he openly spent a fortnight, but he filled a line which bids fair to spread throughout the land.
