A Sustaining Diet.
These are the enervating days, when, as somebody has said, men drop by mistake as if the Day of Fire had dawned. They are fraught with danger to people whose systems are poorly sustained; and this leads us to say, in the interest of the less robust of our readers, that the full effect of Hood's Sarsaparilla is such as to suggest the propriety of calling this medicine something besides a blood purifier and tonic—say, a sustaining diet. It makes it much easier to bear the heat, secures refreshing sleep, and will without any doubt avert much sickness at this time of year.

A doctor prescribed rest and change for a small girl, saying that her system was quite upset. After he had gone, the little girl said, "I knew I was upset, mamma, because my foot's asleep, and things must be pretty bad when you go to sleep at the wrong end."

London's Great Cathedral.
A writer in the New York Evening Post referring to the architecture of recent years in London says—
"But the architectural work beside which nearly everything else in modern London seems dull and common is the unfinished Roman Catholic Cathedral in Westminster. Erected for the most part in brick, and erected within out-tenth of the time which has usually been spent on the rearing of a cathedral, it nevertheless promises to rank with the greatest buildings in Christendom. Unlike the Liverpool Anglicans, who are about to begin their cathedral in the old world Gothic style, the Roman Catholics have piled up a basilica which, although a student would call it Byzantine, is so vividly conceived as to prove that the modern architect is not bound to speak in a dead language after all. It proves that he can be a living tongue and express the religious feeling of the twentieth century as clearly as the architect of Salisbury gave visibility to the emotions of the thirteenth. This week has given London the opportunity of judging the new building under proper conditions, for, although the dedication was not to have taken place for some considerable time, the cathedral has been unexpectedly opened by the singing of a requiem Mass over the body of Cardinal Vaughan. With hundreds of priests and monks in a huge temporary sanctuary that has been formed within the easternmost bays of the nave, and with rows upon rows of bishops and mitred abbots in the sanctuary proper, it could be seen that the English Roman Catholics have got what Cardinal Manning as well as Cardinal Vaughan yearned to give them—a cathedral of the metropolis equal in dignity to the minsters of Canterbury and York, and better adapted than either to the performance of the Roman ritual in full sight of a great multitude. It will be remembered to the credit of the dead Cardinal that, disdainful of the fashionable or academical architects of the day, and rising superior to the pettifogging method of a competition, he laid his finger upon the one master builder who was big enough for the work, and that, having found him, he gave him practically a free hand. Both Bentley, the architect in question, and Vaughan, who gave him the chance of his life, are dead; but by architects at least they will not be forgotten.
"For want of a clear space across which to view it, the west front of the basilica with its cupolas and balconies at present appears rather fussy. Seen from the east, however, nothing could be nobler than the whole composition, and its four low domes, graceful spire, and soaring campanile. But it is for the interior that Bentley's work is becoming famous.
"During the building of the shell, Bentley's design was neglected by architects and gazed at by the public, who called the campanile a chimney stack and the building itself a railway station. So completely, however, has it asserted its merits that in a recent competition among architectural students every one of the ninety competitors was found to have based his design for a church on Bentley's. Before long, second and Byzantinism and Bentleyism will probably become as great a nuisance as the old second-hand Gothic; but the over-working of a fashion will not destroy Bentley's title to be considered the greatest English architect since Christopher Wren."

The Jews and Other People.
Referring to the agitation in behalf of the persecuted Russian Jews, the New World says that it is proper enough that it should continue, yet, most decidedly the Jews are not the only persecuted people in the world. "We have referred before," says our esteemed contemporary, "to the case of the religious orders in France, which does not seem to excite much pity in this country. If they were Jews they being traced out of their own homes there would be pages of clamor in certain of the great dailies. The wise would be working with hope of exciting the sympathy of all living men. The world will not soon forget the Drayfus episode. Yet look back barely a generation before Lord Xill, succeeded the chair of Peter the Catholics of Russia were treated quite humanely as are the Jews today. From 1875 to 1879, the lives of Russian Catholics were miserable indeed. A number were killed outright, and thousands whipped with terrible lashes at the hands of merciless monks, in an effort to force them to conform to the State religion. Sixty thousand converts were announced in one year by the Russian Orthodox church—60,000 under the sting of the lash. Of course they did not stay Orthodox. They became Catholic again at the first opportunity, yet whoever expressed a word of sympathy for them at the time because of their burdens? Several leading dailies even seemed to think that the Czar's government had a right to do as it pleased with its own people. The Jews have suffered in Russia, no doubt, yet it is a big question that only a few years ago the Catholics of that country underwent persecution quite as disgraceful."

Items of Catholic Interest.
It is a widespread error that M. Combes is an ex-priest, that he once received holy orders and belonged to the Catholic clergy. The truth is that M. Combes never received any ordination whatever, not even the tonsure, but because at one time he wore the cassock, as a student of the great seminary at Albi, he is called "Abbe" after the French fashion. He was born on Sept 6, 1835, of poor parents, at Roquecourbe, in the south of France. The good parish priest gave in his leisure hours Latin and Greek lessons to the poor but not untalented boy. On the recommendations of this good priest the boy was afterwards received gratuitously in the small seminary of Castron. Afterwards in the great seminary at Albi he was received gratuitously. Through the kindness of the Assumptionist Fathers at Nîmes, he was appointed professor at their small seminary. Later he offered the hospitality of the Carmelite Fathers at Paris, who put him in a position to continue his studies at the University of Paris, where he obtained his licentiate.

It is difficult to say, remarks the "London Catholic Times," how far the threats of the anarchists against Cardinal Rampolla, of which the Italian Government have had information, are seriously meant, but the civil authorities are undoubtedly to be commended for having placed His Eminence under police protection. The Cardinal himself is utterly free from fear. When warned of the peril by the Prefect of Police, and even by his ecclesiastical colleagues, he merely said that he had duties to discharge and did not intend to shirk them. What the anarchists or any cause or person would gain by the Cardinal's death would take his place and carry on his work. But, unfortunately, the senselessness of a crime is no argument that anarchists may not attempt to commit it. The bare fact of occupying a position of such moral eminence and so frequently condemning violations of law and order may be sufficient to arouse their direct hostility against Cardinal Rampolla. Mgr. Affre, Archbishop of Paris, was shot down whilst trying to restore peace in 1848, and against Archbishop Darboy, who was assassinated by the Communists in 1871, no other charge could be preferred than that he had served God as a worthy priest.

The publication of the Yellow Book, containing the correspondence between the French Foreign Office and the Vatican with regard to the Law of Association, is of immense interest, and its contents have caused quite a sensation, writes the Paris correspondent of the "London Monitor and New Era." This Yellow Book throws an interesting light upon M. Waldeck-Rousseau's objects in introducing the Association Law, and, to my mind, shows that he did not deserve the reproach to which he was so lavishly treated at the time in Catholic circles. M. Waldeck-Rousseau was a moderate man, a straightforward politician and a keen lawyer. A conclusion of the Drayfus affair saw that the unwise attitude adopted by certain congregations which aimed at playing a political role had so embittered a certain section of Parliament that unless he took upon himself to introduce a bill dealing with the religious orders the Radicals would bring forward a very radical measure indeed, of which Parliament might approve. He hoped to avert this by bringing in a moderate measure. At the same time he wanted to recall the position of the congregations who had persistently neglected to secure the subscription which, under the Concordat, they are bound to secure, and who, by relying mainly on official tolerance, left themselves at the mercy of political arbiters. This is plain not only from the correspondence with the Vatican, but from the text of the law itself, which M. Combes has broken wherever he could and which he has had altered by its majority when it was too plain to break it. The time for the general elections came as soon as the law was passed, and M. Waldeck-Rousseau found himself at the head of a new majority who were much too advanced for him. After negotiations with the various groups he saw that the majority were bent on expelling the religious orders, which he did not want, and as he could not follow them he resigned. He has been described as a man who let loose the dogs of war and afterwards ran away. As a matter of fact, he will ultimately be recognized as a moderate politician who endeavored to prevent a great crisis which he saw near at hand, and who quietly withdrew when he felt he had failed.

Among those who were recently presented for degrees at the University of London was the Rev. H. J. Irwin, S. J., of Stonyhurst College, who has carried off the crowning honor of the doctorate of literature. For this he has been preparing by a brilliant career at the university, of which he was already a double M. A. in classics and philosophy. His further studies were in the direction of economics, and the work which has won for him the D. Lit. is an essay on "Usury." Out of some dozen who have achieved a like success at the University of London Stonyhurst has claim two, the second being Father Michael Maher, whose work as a psychologist is long established as a standing authority.

The fiftieth anniversary of the pontifical ordination of his Lordship Bishop Cameron, of Antigonish, fell on Sunday last, feast of St. Anne; but the celebration thereof was deferred till today, Wednesday. The Casket of last week thus refers to the event:
Certain the external pomp and ceremony that would have attended the celebration, such as band music, etc., will be suppressed in token of mourning for the Holy Father. The procession will start from the Bishop's house at 9:30, and passing by St. Bernard's Convent along St. Ninian's street will enter the Cathedral grounds by the main gateway, in the following order: (1) different branches of the C. M. B. A.; (2) clergy in birettas and surplices; (3) visiting prelates. Pontifical High mass will begin at 10 o'clock, the Rev. Father Julian being the celebrant, Assistant Priest the Very Rev. Alex. McDonald, D. D. V. G., Rev. Dr. Thompson, Dacon, and Rev. H. P. McPherson, Subdeacon. At the Gospel the Rev. Father Doherty, S. J., will preach, and at the end of the Mass an address will be presented to his Lordship on behalf of clergy and laity. At 6 p. m. there will be services at the Cathedral consisting of the Te Deum followed by Benediction of the Most Holy Sacrament. For the morning services admission to the Cathedral will be by ticket. Citizens of the Town are preparing to signalize the event by setting up suitable decorations. Some twelve Bishops are expected, including three Archbishops.

An Ancient Foe
To health and happiness is Scrofula as ugly as ever since time immemorial. It causes hunches in the neck, disfigures the skin, inflames the mucous membrane, wastes the muscles, weakens the bones, reduces the power of resistance to disease and the capacity for recovery, and develops into consumption.
"Two of my children had scrofula seven which kept growing deeper and kept them from going to school for three months. I began giving them Hood's Sarsaparilla. This medicine caused the sores to heal, and the children have shown no signs of scrofula since." J. W. McKenna, Woodstock, Ont.
Hood's Sarsaparilla
will rid you of it, radically and permanently, as it has rid thousands.

THE WEEK IN PARLIAMENT.

The whole week in Parliament was spent by the government in killing time.

The cabinet has been unable to agree on its Grand Trunk Pacific policy, and have been holding up public business until the disputes are patched up.

Some of the ministerial gatherings have been marked by most disorderly proceedings and on one occasion blows were exchanged by Ministers.

Mr. George Loy, Liberal member for Beauharnois, was charged with a violation of the Independence of Parliament Act, having sold land to the government, and the case is being investigated.

The immigration policy of the government was again up for consideration, and Mr. Sifton was asked to devote the money he is spending on Doukhobors and other foreign races to help Canadians to secure good homes in Canada, instead of going to the United States.

Mr. Sifton refused to accede to this reasonable request.

The Saskatchewan land deal, whereby valuable lands were handed over to a group of Hon. Clifford Sifton's friends for one dollar per acre was brought up, and the papers covering this hoodlum scheme will be brought down.

Sir William Mulock started Parliament by announcing that the government were not impressed with the necessity for a fast Atlantic steamship line.

He admitted that during the seven years of Liberal rule Canadians had been purposely misled by false statements as to the negotiations that were being carried on to secure a fast mail service.

In the Public Accounts Committee the gravest frauds in connection with accounts rendered by employees of the Census department were disclosed.

Hon. Sydney Fisher was roundly criticized by his own supporters for introducing middlemen bills, which can have no other effect than to interfere with agricultural development.

BOODLERS AND THE CENSUS.

The causes for the immense expenditure in connection with the census of 1901 are now being brought to light by the public accounts committee.

Joseph Hurley, who formerly represented East Hastings as a Liberal, admitted on oath that he has been paid amounts which were not due him.

He charged high hire which had never been earned. The government was billed for many days' work which was never performed.

Enumerators under the directions of Mr. Hurley were paid for a number of days spent in receiving instructions, although they had not been so engaged.

Claims for railway fares were put in for many times the actual outlay and Hon. Sidney Fisher cheerfully paid the shot.

What has occurred in East Hastings has been of common occurrence all over Canada, and that is why the census of 1901 cost $1,200,000 or over twice as much as any previous enumeration of Canada's population.

The management of the last census has been most corrupt and boodlers have had just as free a hand in Mr. Fisher's department, as in those over which Sir William Mulock and Hon. Clifford Sifton preside.

LAURIER'S SHAMELESS PROPOSAL.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, when he and his conferees were accused of inspiring a bitter newspaper attack on Hon. Messrs. Blair and Tarte, assured Parliament "on his word of honor," that he was innocent of such a contemptible act.

The Premier further thought that his "word of honor" was something that would be appreciated by friend or foe.

The fact remains that Mr. Blair does not consider Sir Wilfrid a good judge of "honor" as it is understood by most men.

Would a man of "honor," occupying such a high position as Sir Wilfrid, ask Mr. Blair to resign in a government and support a policy which the ex-minister of railways declared to be indefensible? Sir Wilfrid did that.

Would a man of "honor," to suppress information which explained Mr Blair's position, on the ground that it was a cabinet secret? Yet Sir Wilfrid was guilty of that.

Would a man of "honor" as the head of the Canadian government, by announcing a policy in Parliament, which should properly come from another minister, deceive the people which he is supposed to represent? Such was the course Sir Wilfrid adopted.

Would a man of "honor," in a word, ask another to debate himself, betray his constituents, friends and himself in order that party capital might be made for Sir Wilfrid and his government? The Premier of the Dominion proposed this to Mr. Blair.

Where, then, is that "honor" of which Sir Wilfrid boasts? His proposals to Mr. Blair were met with righteous indignation, and it is not to be wondered at that the Premier felt the sting which followed the exposure of his unspeakable suggestions.

Sir Wilfrid has fallen in the estimation of thousands. He is a bitter disappointment, and his crime against public morality will not be forgotten.

MINISTERS INDULGE IN BLOWS.

The Laurier government is rapidly falling into decay and forfeiting all claim to public respect.

The Grand Trunk Pacific deal, which forced Hon. A. G. Blair to resign from the cabinet, has been followed by worse complications.

Hon. William Paterson is known to be bitterly opposed to the jobbery which is on foot, and his retirement may have to be chronicled at an early date.

In the cabinet councils the proceedings have been marked by bitter quarrels between the different factions and most disgraceful scenes have resulted.

Hon. Clifford Sifton and Hon. Sydney Fisher, at a recent session held to consider the Grand Trunk Pacific question, came to blows.

The Minister of the Interior appeared in the Commons next day with his hand bandaged, the injury to which is said to have been caused by his encounter with his conferees.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier appears to be helpless in controlling the passions of his lieutenants and is treated as a mere figure-head.

For the first time in his career the Prime Minister has been called upon to face a crisis, and he has proved to be unequal to the task.

While ministers are engaged in doing bodily harm to one another and turning their council meetings into bear gardens, the business of the country is being ignored.

The ministers are unable to decide upon any line of policy, and the present government is allowed to retain power.

PEOPLE ARE GETTING SICK OF IT.

Following H. A. G. Blair's resignation, the Conservative sweep in Manitoba has put a damper on the Liberal party.

Manitoba is the province in which Mr. R. L. Borden, leader of the opposition, was challenged to propose the policy of protection for Canadian manufacturers, agriculturists and labor.

Hon. Borden answered the del by a political out, during which he presented "Canada for Canadians" from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Manitoba, instead of rejecting the grand old "National Policy" has rolled up a Conservative majority which simply buries the Liberal party with all its deceptions and broken pledges.

Arrayed against Hon. R. F. Roblin was the host of Siftonian together with their many devices. Employees of the Dominion government ran as Liberal candidates in many constituencies and enjoyed the support of their fellow members of the civil service.

In spite of such tremendous odds the electors gave a verdict for protection which cannot be lightly ignored.

Mr. R. L. Borden, Conservative leader, spoke from the same platform last autumn and this endorsement of his policy is the forerunner of the change in political sentiment which is being felt all over Canada.

People are tiring of no policy, broken pledges, a discordant cabinet and ministers resigning. The Laurier government of expediency is nearing its end.

Pope Leo XIII.

The following official letter relative to the death and obsequies of his late Holiness was issued last week by his Lordship, the Bishop, to the clergy of this diocese.

Charlottetown, July 21, 1903.

Rev. Dear Father, Official notice of the death of our Holy Father, Pope Leo XIII, has just been received, and I hasten to communicate the same to you, Rev. Father, and to the faithful under your paternal care.

It is needless to say that the news of his demise, though not wholly unexpected, will be nevertheless a source of much sorrow to the faithful of our Holy Church.

His august life in the supreme pontificate had invariably marked him as the man of God, and we cannot but experience a feeling of sorrow that he has been removed by death from the sacred duties of his high office.

We must, however, bow to the holy will of our Heavenly Father, who disposes of all his creatures in that manner which He alone can comprehend.

Our immediate duty will be to endeavor to prepare the departed soul of the late illustrious pontiff. His trials in the supreme pontificate, and the responsibilities of the high office were of the most exacting nature, and it is therefore most fitting that we should happy repose of the soul of him, who in the trying times in which Divine Providence placed him, labored so long, so ardently and so successfully in the sacred trust committed to him by his Divine Master.

It is therefore earnestly commended that in each church of the diocese of Charlottetown, having a resident priest, a requiem service for the repose of the late pontiff's soul, be held on, or prior to, the day on which his funeral takes place, the date to be arranged for each church by the respective pastor.

But in a matter of so much importance, our duties as faithful Christians and Catholics do not end here. It is on such an occasion as the present that the united prayers of Catholic Christians are necessary for the welfare of God's Holy Church. We have, indeed, the unending prayers of Christ our Lord, that He will remain forever with His Church, and that the gates of hell will not prevail against it; but it is on occasions like the present that the power of evil wage war against the Church of God, and that the enemy of our souls, the devil, seeks to harass the spouse of Christ. As members, then, of that same Holy Church, we must in some measure make ourselves worthy of the protection of our Divine Saviour, and therefore we pray earnestly to God, that the succeeding year of Christ upon earth may soon be entrusted with the supreme pontificate of the Church.

I would therefore commend that as soon as possible after the funeral service at Rome, a solemn votive Mass "pro egregio Summo Pontifice," or where this is not practical a "Missa Cantata" for the same purpose be sung in each parish church where the pastor resides; and it is hereby enjoined that on and after the day following the burial of the late pontiff's remains, the collect "Pro Egregio Summo Pontifice" be inserted in the celebration of the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass.

Yours faithfully in Christ,

J. C. McDONALD,

Bishop of Charlottetown.

In accordance with this solemn memorial service was held in St. Dunstan's Cathedral at 9 o'clock Monday morning. His Lordship the Bishop was celebrant of the Solemn Pontifical Mass with Rev. J. F. Roche as high priest; Rev. J. P. McCreath and Rev. Dr. McLellan as deacons of honor; Rev. Dr. McLellan as deacon of office, and Rev. Mr. Caciola as subdeacon; Rev. Dr. Morrison was Master of Ceremonies. A powerful sermon on the office life and works of Leo XIII. was preached by Rev. Dr. Morrison. His text was from the 44th chapter of Jeremiah: "Behold, a great priest, who in his day pleased God, is found just; and in the time of wrath is made a reconciliation."

Mathieson & McDonald

The Liberal Conservative Convention held in the Town Hall, Georgetown, was very largely attended. Every point was argued every voter of delegates and the greatest enthusiasm was manifested by those present.

D. W. Morrison, president of the district association presided, Messrs J. C. Underhay, Ray Fortuque, George E. Goff, Woodville, Michael McDonald, and John Herriot, Messrs Angus D. McDonald, Little Pond, and others.

Hon. A. J. McDonald was proposed as a candidate for Assemblyman by Geo. F. Goff, Woodville, seconded by Hon. Wm. Reid, Daniel McKinnon, Murray Harbor North, Angus D. McDonald, Little Pond, and others.

There being no other name being proposed the convention unanimously tendered the nomination to Messrs Mathieson and McDonald.

Mr. Mathieson in accepting the nomination, thanked the electors for the honor done, assured them it elected as he felt confident he would be, that he would endeavor in as far as possible to serve their best interests and discharge faithfully the trust they so generously reposed in him.

Mr. McDonald also thanked the electors for their unflinching nomination and pledged himself that if returned he would use every effort to secure for the district the best possible improvements which it requires.

The following resolution from the committee was carried and heartily endorsed by several speakers.

Whereas, the present Government has largely increased the expenditure of this province, and

Whereas, in view of this large expenditure, we would look for improved public works, and

Whereas, this district contributes its share towards the revenue of this province, and should in turn receive its just share in the public improvements, while as a matter of fact it receives comparatively little in proportion to the needs of the district and the amount received by the other parts of the province.

Therefore resolved, that this convention strongly condemn the present Government for its extravagance and for its apparently studied neglect of the 5th district of King's.

Further resolved, that this meeting demand that its candidates pledge themselves if elected to use their utmost endeavors in securing for this district an important public improvement which the needs of the district demand.

Very severe thunder storms visited both the eastern and western parts of the Island on Sunday last. The heaviest electric storm ever experienced at Souris was that of Sunday. A barn owned by Mr. G. B. McLochren was struck and badly shattered. The lightning also entered the Souris station house, burned out the telegraph wires and singed the interior of the operating room, in several places. Mr. Clark, station agent and family were compelled to leave the building. The railway station house, however, was struck and some panels of it torn away. The telegraph wires are also burned out in many places about the town. At Tignish and vicinity in Prince County a terrific wind, rain, hail and thunder storm raged. At Bell Pond the house of Joseph H. Arsenault, clerk at J. H. Myrick's store, Tignish, was struck by lightning. The roof was torn of the house and the whole of the upper rooms were shattered to pieces. The family had not gone to bed when the house was struck, otherwise they would have been killed. As it was they were all penetrated by the shock. The youngest son of the family sustained a very heavy shock, and it is doubtful if he will recover. Mr. Arsenault's wife had the shoe torn from her foot and her foot badly fractured. The boy was standing near the wall with his elbow resting against it when the fall struck him from the plaster and he received the terrible shock. Other members of the family also received the shock at the same time, but not with such force. The storm commenced about half past eight o'clock in the evening and lasted nearly all night.

Whatever may have been the names of the royal program from Kingston to Phoenix, Dublin on Thursday last, was accompanied by such enthusiasm as has not been witnessed anywhere in this generation. The main cause is an indignant revolt of the masses of the people against the famous discovery of the corporation. Worn-hearted Irishmen had flocked to the street to welcome with hand and voice, and whether they loved their King and Queen before it may be assumed that they love them now. The whole story of the day is one of justly deserved democracy, which cannot fail to intensify the loyalty which prompted it.

"First Friday" at the Seashore.

Among all the great progressive movements of this wonderful twentieth century, with its wireless telegraphy, its air-ships, its X rays, opening a new field to science and solving many a problem of life and death to the east physician long baffled in his most skillful search for the "cause," the telephone, with its almost supernatural accuracy in carrying the faintest tone of the voice, breaking the bonds of distance, uniting the widely hundreds of miles apart—the whole age marching on in one great movement of discovery of what is better, wiser and more helpful to humanity, what is so well worthy of wandering comment and gratitude so strongly on the increase in numbers, force and fervor, with a fascination to its followers none can dispute as the League of the Sacred Heart of Jesus, with its royal watchword "Thy Kingdom Come!" Since four hundred years ago, when a humble nun of France, Blessed Margaret Mary, received the message from the Heart Divine, Jesus Himself, telling her His dearest wishes, proclaiming His wonderful promises to those who spread this lovely devotion, from every altar in the universe, wherever the sun of civilization shines, from the rising to the setting of the sun, from the Pearly Palaces, the lofty Cathedrals, the village churches, the monastery shrines, have gone up the clouds of incense, the swelling chorus of praise to be caught on the breeze and wafted through the vaults of heaven until it reaches—the great White Throne.

Congress of Catholic Chippewa Indians.

The first annual congress of the Catholic Chippewa Indians took place June 17, 1903, at White Earth Reservation, Minnesota. The occasion that brought together nearly all the branches of the Chippewa nation, among whom nearly five thousand are Catholics, was the thirty-fifth anniversary of their settlement in Minnesota, effected by the great chief Siole in the Day. The first day—the 15th—was set apart for the civic celebration, consisting of a parade after which addresses were made by Governor Van Zant, Lieutenant Governor Jones, of Minnesota and Rev. Dr. Ganss, representing the Catholic Indian schools and missions.
