THE NEW LIFE.

The Pastor of North-west. Methodist Church Preaches a Sermon to Those Who Have Born "Born Again" During the Revival Services Just Closed.

During the past five weeks special services have been held in connection with the above church, and a number of persons have been brought under the saving influence of the gospel of Christ through their instrumentality. On Sunday evening last Rev. Geo. Richardson gave an able discourse on the subject of what a Christian's life ought to be, and in very fitting manner pointed the people of God to the Bible as their highest standard of excellence. The following is a brief summary of the sermon, the text for the evening being taken from Philippians 1: 27:

"Only let your conversation be as it becometh the gospel of Christ: that whether I come and see you, or else be absent, I may hear of your affairs, that ye stand fast in one spirit, with one mind striving together for the faith of the gospel."

The preacher said, the Bible gives us the highest ideal of man. Human conceptions degrade him. The Bible does not overlook our sad fall into sin; but the trend of its teaching is to show our high origin, marvelous capacity for improvement, and the unending life we must live beyond the grave. Paul shows that now our bodies are "temples of the Holy Ghost." In the text he urges the brethren at Philippi to live in harmony with their nature and destiny. The pastor gathered from the text the fact that the life of the true Christian differs from the life of the people of the world, and stated that personal salvation is the infusion of a supernatural element into the human soul, and should never be confounded to the spirit of the world. He here quoted several passages of scripture showing how sin begets selfishness and narrowness, while on the other hand salvation restores us to the mind of Christ, and widens our sympathies; that while sin produces misery, salvation brings joy. He then dwelt upon the outward manifestation of the Christian's life, and showed how the "lights of the world" should be known by their fruits; and that there is a uniform standard of measurement for all Christians, and not a separate one for each denomination, that standard being "as becometh the gospel of Christ." The pastor then went on to show how important it is that Christians should have this written gospel standard. Paul did not simply send the Philippians word by a friend. He wrote to them. If the message had been sent by word of mouth the messenger might not have been able to give a correct verbal account of it, therefore the advantage of having a written gospel message. Different casts of mind may put varied interpretations on the standard, still all people have access to the same standard. Change of circumstances should not lower our religious life, as the text further points out. Paul's presence or absence should have made no difference with them, for they had the standard of experience and conduct before them continually; likewise change of pastors should make no difference with us. Absence from home or a change of residence should not be made a pretext for sin in our life. Mr. Richardson spoke of the inclination to frequent the theatre and other places questionable from a Christian standpoint, when away from home, and entreated those who had so lately started in the better way to take the standard with them wherever they go, and to faithfully follow the rule of life that they had set up for themselves at home in accordance with that standard. The text further showed that to improve our religious life and build up good character requires effort. Christians are to strive, he said, to stand firm, and then presented to his hearers a word picture, illustrating Christians standing on a plane inclined towards sin, up which it required continual effort on their part in order to gain the desired end. Again the preacher quoted several passages of scripture illustrating the Christian's warfare in order to "fight the good fight of faith," and the application and exertion required to successfully "run the race set before us." He said that the greatest success in Christian work is reached by united effort. Some people have an unhappy tendency to isolation. If anything is proposed either in temperance or church work they object to do it just in that way, and so they often stand out alone and do nothing. Paul's advice was that they should "strive together." The preacher urged those who had started in the new way to join hands with their brethren in the work. Again speaking with regard to living out the Christian life he asked his hearers to take the highest interpretation of the standard of Christian experience and religious conduct, and brought his remarks to a close by asking all Christians to co-operate heartily with those who had so lately found peace and pardon.

You may sing of the beauty of springtime That glows on the cheek of the young. But I sing of a beauty that's rarer Than any of which you have sung. The beauty that's seen in the faces Of women whose summer is o'er. The autumn-like beauty that charms us Far more than the beauty of yore.

But this beauty is seen too rarely. The faces of most women lose the beauty of youth too soon. Female disorders are like frosts which come to nip the flowers which betoken good health, without which there can be no real beauty. If our American women would fortify themselves against the approach of the terrible disorders so prevalent among them, by using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, their good looks would be retained to a "sweet old age." This remedy is a guaranteed cure for all the distressing weaknesses and derangements peculiar to women.

COUNCIL MEETING.—Council met in the township hall on Saturday, 12th ult. Members all present. The record and clerk reported having examined the security given by the collector, and having the bonds executed. The report was accepted. Hamilton Smith claimed compensation for damage done to his property by water being flooded on to it from want of a ditch across the roadway on con. 4 and 5. The matter was laid over until next meeting. Rev. Mr. Anderson and W. C. Webb asked for a grant towards the establishment of a Mechanics' Institute and Reading Room in St. Helens. On motion of Messrs Stuart and Todd $15 was granted. The treasurer's report for September was read; it showed a small balance on hand. Jos M Smith and W H Wilson asked for a special grant towards graveling opp. lots 19 and 20, con. 2 and 3. A grant of $30 was voted for the purpose asked for, said amount to be expended where the commissioners thought advisable. As there is an amount in the hands of the treasurer to the credit of the drain account, the clerk was instructed to reduce the assessment for Young's ditch for the current year so that the account be adjusted. The following accounts were ordered to be paid:—Hamilton Smith, ditching; repairing culvert, &c., $47.07; Wm Smith, graveling con. 5, $21.75; Richard Begley, ditch, $4.00; Richard Begley, repairing bridge, con. 4, $4.00; Jacob Miller, graveling bet. lots 18 and 19, con. 11, $31.69; H Stow, funeral expenses Mrs Welch, $12.25; Jacob Miller, jobs con 15, on N B and between lots 15 and 16, on 13, $28.00; W Anderson, breaking stone, con 2 and 3, $3.00; Jno Kilpatrick, graveling opp. lot 14, on 4 and 5, $37.80; R K Miller, part salary, $75; R Webster, 1 culvert, W B, $2.25; Thos Agar, 1 culvert, W B, $8.21; Robt Bradford, 1 cedar and culvert, W B, $7.19; P. The End of the World

From the New York Tribune.

Mr Miller's renewed draft on the Bank of Credit, which went to protest in 1844, falls due Oct. 22-25. The 25th will be the last day of grace. On the 26th—if there ever is a 26th—the 40,000 stockholders will be asked to renew once more, while the amused outsider who doesn't know when the world is coming to an end and doesn't care, so that it be not in his time, may overhear humming Oliver Wendell Holmes' famous lines:

When legislators keep the law,
And banks dispense with bolts and locks;
When berries, wortle, rasp and straw,
Grow bigger downwards through the box;
When in the usual place for ribs,
Our gloves are stitched with special care,
And guarded well the whalebone tips,
When first umbrellas need repair;
Till then let Miller blaze away,
And all his salutes blow up the globe:
But when you see that blessed day,
Then order your accession robe.

THE HOME CIRCLE.

SOME BOYS. Some boys are never in time, late to meals, school, church, often miss a train, keep their friends waiting after making appointments for certain hours. Business men do not want that kind of boy in their stores and offices.

Some boys are slazy, interlard their conversation with all the slang phrases about. Refined people do not admire that style of youth.

Some boys are disrespectful, call their parents old man, old woman, nickname their teachers or employers, contradict their elders. Such boys are not usually popular.

Some boys are lazy, let their mothers bring up the coal and kindling, carry the basket or bundle, let their sisters sweep the snow off the sidewalk, while they are coasting, skating, or sitting by the fire, saying "It is awful cold." Such lads forget it is just as cold for someone else to do the outdoor work as it would be for them.

Some boys are selfish, rude, thoughtless; never willing to give up their seat in a crowded street car; always want the seat by the window in the steam car, even if somebody else has never traveled that road and would like to view the country; always forget to help an aged or infirm person across the gutters, or put a letter in the box when a little child is trying to reach up on tiptoes, and is still too short; slam doors, or leave them wide open, yell like an Indian, whistle and stamp their feet in the house when mother has such a violent headache, caused by being up all the previous night with baby, who had the croup or colic, and who had just fallen asleep and screams again as the noisy boy rubs into the room; never thinks to wipe the mud off his shoes, hang up his coat and hat, or put his school books in their proper place. Such boys should try to mend their ways.

Some boys are cross and disobliging at home; if mother wants them to go on an errand, they want to know why John or Will cannot be sent; they have nothing, he has everything to do, never has time to fly his kite or spin his top; if the baby must be nursed while mother is busy, he does not see why he has to be nurse. Frank or Mary, or some other fellow he knows never has to do girl's work, and the cross look and disobliging manner in which he performs the smallest task causes everyone to feel unpleasant, and mother and to think her son is that kind of boy.

Some boys are always ready to fight, the least thing does or said causes offense, and up goes the hand to strike, even baby's soft cheek gets a vigorous slap; little brothers and sisters' ears tingle, playmates shy off when he begins to get angry, for they, too, have had their shares of the kicks and cuffs. He thinks it manly to resent every factious wrong with a blow, but we know such boys are generally the worst kind of cowards.

Some boys are grumblers and fault-finders; the weather, the pleasure excursions, the clothes they wear, the presents received, the meals provided by kind parents, the teachers, both in day and Sunday school, the concert, or party, or drive, or parlor game, or anything else, even the country or town they live in, comes in for a share of fault-finding and grumbling about. Boys don't; it will grow on you as the years roll on.

Some boys think it manly to chew tobacco, smoke cigarettes, drink a glass of beer or whiskey, congregate on street corners, use profane and obscene language, desecrate the Sabbath, attend theatres. Such boys will find to their sorrow that in a few years such habits will steal all the manliness out of them, and they will be degraded wrecks, shunned by the good and pure.

Some boys spend all their time in reading dime novels and other demoralizing literature that is broadcast over the land. Those are the sort of boys who fill our workhouses and prisons.

THIRTY YEARS AGO.

Over 30 years ago there was placed upon the market a remedy designed to relieve pain and capable of either external or internal use. From the first it had wonderful success, and hundreds testify that Hayward's Yellow Oil cures rheumatism, sore throat, sprains, croup, cuts, bruises and all pains and aches.

A lady living in Ohio is the mother of six boys. One day a friend calling on her said: "What a pity that one of your boys had not been a girl." One of the boys about eight years of age overheard this remark, and promptly interposed: "I'd like to know who'd a bin'er; I wouldn't a bin'er; Ed wouldn't a bin'er; Jos wouldn't a bin'er; and I'd like to know who'd a bin'er."

An old tradesman in Scotland used to keep his accounts in a singular manner. He hung up two boots, one on each side of the chimney, and in one he put all the money he received, and in the other all the receipts and vouchers for the money he paid. At the end of the year, or whenever he wanted to make up his accounts, he emptied the boots, and by counting their several and respective contents he was enabled with a little trouble to make a balance, which was doubtless as satisfactory to himself as if it had been done by "double entry." HOUSEHOLD HINTS

After all powders are tried, genuine housekeepers are quite likely to go back to old fashioned washing soda for cleaning floors, dishes, iron and other metal work. There is nothing that removes impurities so rapidly as boiling hot soda and water, applied with a long handled scrubbing brush; and rinsed off once with clear water and dried with a clean cloth. A large lump of soda melted over the drain in the sink keeps the pipe clear from all grime. While soda is a scrubber's main dependence it should never be used by the laundress, as it seriously injures cloth.

Wells should be ventilated, as the water is thereby kept fresh and free from bad odor. The absorption of air by water renders it pleasant to the taste, and purifies it to some extent; but the effect is not a very marked one.

Use an under tablecloth of colored cotton flannel on your dining table. It not only makes the men and women look neater and hands better, but will in one year save its original cost in the added wear of the linen ones, principally on the edge of the table, where they other wise wear out first.

HOW TO CLEAN CARPETS. For a carpet of about twenty yards or so, take a pound of hard white cast soap and scrape fine, add a quarter of a pound of washing soda, and as much spirits of turpentine as will bring it to the consistency of dough; make it into a ball. When it is time to clean the carpet take a pail of clear hot water and a large flannel cloth; wet the carpet with the flannel, then rub over with the ball of soap, and wipe off the soap with flannel wrung as dry as possible. If the carpet is very much soiled a scrub brush may be used after the soap is applied. Clean about three-quarters of a yard at a time, and let it become perfectly dry before it is used. Brussels and velvet carpets may be washed while on the floor, but great care should be taken not to let the water soak through.

WINDOW CLEANING The cleaning of windows seems to be a very easy matter, yet many housewives would prefer to do any other part of the house-cleaning than this. As at the season of the year the whole house is supposed to receive a thorough cleaning the windows must, to be sure, come in for their share. Never begin this work until all the paint is cleaned, but, more especially, that part about the window. If the window glass is done first, it is almost impossible to wash the panes around it without smearing the glass. Never wash windows on a damp day, although a cloudy one is not objectionable for the work. A bright, clear sunny day is the best, choosing that part of it when the windows are in the shade. Windows washed while the sun is on them are sure to be streaky, no matter how well they may be done, for the sun dries them quicker than they can be wiped, and, consequently, the water dries just as it is put on by the wash cloth.

Always dust the windows thoroughly, both inside and outside, before beginning to wash them. Use small, dry paint brushes to get into crevices and corners when dusting. Wash the inside of the window first, and it will be much easier to detect any defect when doing the outside. Take as much hot water as desired, but have it as warm as it can be conveniently used, without parboiling the hands, and add to it enough hot household ammonia to soften it. With a soft cloth that is free from lint, wash each pane of glass thoroughly, using a small pointed stick with a cloth on it to get into the corners. Use old cotton to wipe with, and dry each pane immediately after washing. Where the water is quite hot, if the glass is not wiped immediately, it will dry so that it will have to be re-washed ere wiping.

Where the ammonia is not convenient, use clear water and never, on any account, use soap of any kind, if you want your glass to be clear. After washing in clear water, a nice polish may be obtained by rubbing the glass with tissue paper, but where ammonia is used the latter gives a nice polish without any extra work. Baking soda on a damp cloth is said to be nice to give windows a good polish. Cleaning windows with a cloth wet in kerosene is recommended for the same purpose.

In the general house cleaning it is a good plan to clean the outside shutters ere beginning the windows. Have a small, dry paint brush, and with it brush the blinds thoroughly inside and out; then take another brush of the same size, and dipping it into clear water, go over the blinds with it, rinsing it frequently. When done, change the water and rinse the blinds well with the clear water. Although this will occasion a little extra work, the appearance of the blinds will well repay any labor spent on them.

CHURCH ATTITUDES. Dr Liddon is the author of the following:—"Burke has shown how various attitudes of the human body correspond to, or are inconsistent with, deep emotions of the human soul. You cannot, for instance, sit lolling back in an armchair with your mouth wide open, and feel a warm glow of indignation, and, if you and I were introduced suddenly into the presence of the Queen, we should not keep our hats on and sit down with our hands in our pockets, on the ground that the genuine sentiment of loyalty is quite independent of its outward expression. And if people come to church and sit and talk and look about them while prayers are being addressed to the Infinite and Eternal Being, it is not because they are so very spiritual as to be able to do without any outward forms. They really do not bow because they do not wish with the eyes of their souls to see Him, the sight of whom awes first the soul and then the body into profoundest reverence."-Church Bells.

WHO ARE WANTED? A gentleman in a responsible government office, when complimented on his long and well appreciated service, replied: "There's nothing like making yourself indispensable."

This is worth thinking of. If you have a good place and wish to retain it, try to make yourself so useful that your employer cannot do without you. The other day a gentleman was making inquiry for the purpose of finding a man to fill a position in a large mercantile house. He came to a person whom he thought would be likely to give him accurate and honest information concerning several men whose names he had. One was discussed, and another and another. Then the name of Mr. [unclear] was mentioned. "The very man for the place; competent and worthy of respect; but he cannot possibly be spared from the place he now holds." "Sir," said the gentleman, "we do not want a man that can be spared!"

There was a big volume of that remark. "We do not want a man that can be spared!" What a multitude of men who can be spared! Chamber every avenue to promotion—the barnacles, the sharks, the make-shifts, somebody's good-for-nothings. Young man, remember, please, that these are not the ones who are called for when responsible places are to be filled.—Signs of the Times.

SOME PRACTICAL DON'T'S. Don't give a child any sweets except molasses candy or chocolate caramels, and these very rarely.

Don't permit a child under 5 to remain out of bed after 8 p.m., even if you have to forego a coal dutie you think most sacred.

Don't think that a child needs food each time it manifests hunger. Try to assuage its thirst by several teaspoonfuls of boiled and cooled water.

Don't hold a child in convulsions in your arms, but strip it quickly and immerse it to the neck in a hot bath, to which a teaspoonful of mustard may be added.

Don't allow a patient with colic to suffer until the physician arrives; give large injections (two quarts of warm water with 100 drops, adult dose, of tincture of opium).

Don't seek relief for burns by the use of cold water; if nothing else is obtainable, use warm water; better still, keep the part wet with sweet or linseed oil.

Don't lose your head with cases of bleeding at the lungs; they very rarely prove immediately fatal. Prop the patient up in bed, and give him small pieces of ice to suck, and fifteen drops of tincture of ferrous (10 sugar of lead or cod) every hour, until your physician arrives.

Don't imagine that sunstroke (heat prostration) follows exposure to the sun. The same may be produced by excessive heat even at night, especially when the person is much fatigued, or in a crowded room.

Don't eat pork. When it is absolutely unavoidable to do so, it should be rendered harmless by being thoroughly soaked by a strong fire.

Don't allow meat and vegetables to be placed in the same compartment of the refrigerator.

Don't wear high heels. Women who wear them publicly advertise the fact that they seek or wish to maintain serious internal troubles.

Don't mistake weight for warmth in clothing. People who are wrapped in heavy clothing and yet feel less sheltered than those who wear light woolen fabrics, both as inner and outer garments.

Don't rub the eyes except with your elbow.

Don't attempt to clean the ears with anything but the tip of the little finger.

Don't attempt to remove hardened ear wax by picking it out. If you cannot reach a physician when hardened ear wax becomes troublesome or painful, you may gently inject (by means of a fountain syringe) warm water, to each pint of which half an ounce of bicarbonate of soda has been added.

Don't allow yourself to become habitually constipated. Coax intestinal action by regularity of habit, exercise, fresh and stewed fruits, and the avoidance of constipating food.

Don't believe that eating fat will make you fat; quite the contrary holds true.

Don't eat gamey meats; remember that "gamey" is the hyper-refined word for rotten.

Don't try to check a diarrhoea suddenly.

Don't pour a mouthful of coffee into an empty stomach, even if you must tear a button from your coat and swallow it before," says an Arabic proverb. This applies to tea as well.

Don't attempt to remove foreign bodies from the upper part of the windpipe by trying to reach them with instruments of any kind. Try to give a violent blow on the back immediately after the accident. If this does not succeed, have the patient suspended by the feet, head downward, and moved rapidly from side to side, while you strike between the shoulders with the palm of the hand. Stop this at once if the patient shows evidences of suffocation. If these continue or the foreign body is not dislodged, send for a surgeon to perform tracheotomy or laryngotomy as quickly as possible.—Phrenological Journal.

There is no more fruitful source of disease than vitiated blood. It involves every organ and function of the body, and if not immediately corrected by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, sooner or later leads to fatal results. Be warned in time.

Never be persuaded beyond your own judgment.

Never buy a county bond until the county first pays the first coupon off. That is acknowledging that it is just and makes the county bound for the debt. Even if you have to pay more money for a bond, wait till the county pays off the first coupon, then you can buy, that makes the county responsible.

Irritable People. People are often irritable by reason of some exasperating skin disease which destroys comfort and good humor. Salt Rheum, nettle rash, erysipelas, pimples, scald head, etc., are of this nature, they arise from bad blood, and can be cured by using Burdock Blood Bitters according to directions.

Ask For Ayer's

Sarsaparilla, and be sure you get it, when you want the best blood-purifier. With its forty years of unexampled success in the cure of Blood Diseases, you can make no mistake in preferring Ayer's Sarsaparilla to any other. The fore-runner of modern blood medicines, Ayer's Sarsaparilla is still the most popular, being in greater demand than all others combined.

"Ayer's Sarsaparilla is selling faster than ever before. I never hesitate to recommend it."—George W. Whitman, Druggist, Albany, Ind.

"I am safe in saying that the sales of Ayer's Sarsaparilla far exceed those of any other, and it gives thorough satisfaction."—L. H. Bush, Des Moines, Iowa.

"Ayer's Sarsaparilla and Ayer's Pills are the best selling medicines in my store. I can recommend them conscientiously."—C. Bickhaus, Pharmacist, Roseland, Ill.

"We have sold Ayer's Sarsaparilla here for over thirty years and always recommend it when asked to name the best blood-purifier."—W. T. McLean, Druggist, Augusta, Ohio.

"I have sold your medicines for the last seventeen years, and always keep them in stock, as they are staples."—"There is nothing so good for the youthful blood as Ayer's Sarsaparilla."—R. L. Parker, Fox Lake, Wis.

"Ayer's Sarsaparilla gives the best satisfaction of any medicine I have in my store. I prescribe it over the counter." It never fails to meet the cases for which it is recommended, while the doctors' prescriptions have been of no avail."—C. F. Calhoun, Monmouth, Kansas.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

PREPARED BY Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Price 25c; six bottles, $1.50. Worth 25c a bottle.

Some weeks ago we sent out a number of accounts to subscribers in arrears. Several persons owing us were kind enough to respond at once, and we return our thanks to them. A number have not yet been heard from, and this week we send out duplicate accounts to many who have failed to respond. We will continue to send out accounts to all in arrears until our books are straight. Even if you don't get an account this week, look at your label, and if you are in arrears be good enough to pay at once. The item is only a small one to you, but the aggregate to us foots up several thousand dollars. Pay up!

THE POET'S CORNER.

He never answered,
Old Billy B. was a pious man,
And heaven was his goal;
For being a very saving man,
Of course he'd save his soul.
But even in this he used to say,
"One can't too careful be."
And he sang with a fervor unassuming,
"T'm risk salvation's free."
But the "means of grace," he had to own,
Required good hard gold;
And he took ten pews, as well became
The richest of the fold.
"He's a nobleman!" the preacher cried,
"Our Christian brother B."
And Billy smiled as he subtlet noed,
And got his own pew free.
In class-meeting next old Billy told
"How heaven had graciously been,
Yes, even back in the dark days when He was a man of sin."
"In buildin' a barn on my river farm—
All then had," he said;
"I'd run out o' boards, and was feedin'
hands
On nothin' but corn bread.
"I tell ye, brytherin, that I felt blue,
Short o' timber and cash,
And thought I'd die when the banks they bust,
And flooded all my mash.
But the Lord was merciful to me,
And sent right through the rift
The tide had made in the river banks
A lumber raft adrift.
"Plenty o' boards was there for the barn,
And on the top was a cheese,
And a bar'l o' pork as sound and sweet
As any one ever sees.
Then I had bread and meat for the men,
And they worked with a will,
While I thanked God, who'd been good to me,
And I'm a-doing it still."
A shrill-voiced sister cried: "Bless the Lord!"
The whole class cried "Amen!"
But a keen-eyed man looked at Billy B.
In thoughtful way and then Asked, "Brother B. did you ever hear
"Who lost that raft and load?"
And Billy wiped his eyes and said:
"Brytherin, I never knowed!"

THE FASHIONS.

A Variety of Jottings that Will Interest
the Fair Sex.
Syrian velvet in two tones, like shot
silk, is made up with faille and Victoria silk.
At her soirees Mme. Carnot wears a crown of ears' of corn, spangled with diamonds.
Some of the very newest umbrellas
have handles of Mexican onyx in various designs.
Empire gowns all show long-waisted backs, and short fronts. This is the Parisian mode.
Embroidered stockings exhibit every variety of elaborate stocking and ornamentation.
Red continues in high favor, but its strong effects are subdued by combination with neutral colors.
Black silk dresses are very fashionable
made up in combination with colored silk faille and black lace.
Macramé lace is almost as easily made as old-time knitting and, fortunately, is coming into favor again.
English serge gowns of Roman red are highly concealed by elaborate braid embroideries in black and gold.
Halo hats, which encircle the face like an aureole, are of dark, rich velvet and are likely to be quite popular this winter.
The fronts of French bodices are now
extremely short, pointed an inch or so below the waist-line, and covered by a girdle.
Black silks, with magnificent border-ings in brilliant Russian colors and ge-siques, are made up effectively in the empire and early English styles.
A dressy house jacket is of almond
colored or Roman red camel's hair, bordered with cashmere bands wrought
in gold and silver thread.
Light colored gillings and French cashmeres are extremely pretty for evening wear and are embellished with bands of galloons in preference to lace.
A black velvet jacket in Spanish style has a shirred blouse of white satin. An other jacket shows a plain, full, unaperid blouse of red surah, figured with very large black polka dots.
Long mantles of the Russian type,
with plain loose coat sleeves under the long hanging sleeves, are the models
most frequently shown in the cloak departments of the leading houses.
Among the long mantles sent from Paris is one of royal purple velvet with puffed sleeves and a Queen Anne collar, bordered with black ostrich feather trimming and braid ornaments.
The triple Carriek or "four-in-hand"
cape is in high favor with the ladies who handle the reins themselves. The favorite color for it is a dark navy blue,
and a turban or small toque of felt of
the same color is worn with it.
The general rule for street toilets is to have a plain redempt of plain stuff,
worn over a skirt of striped turtan, bro-
aded, figured, or bordered material, this rule is followed for silk suits as well as for woolen.
Vandyked or deep-pointed laces,
cream, white, black, and colored, frequently embroidered in beads and tinted metal and colored silks, are almost as fashionable as the Oriental embroideries which are in such high favor.
Winter mantles with rich ornaments
of hand-worked embroidery, costly passamerettes and furs, are shown in all the magazines des modes around the retail business centre of the city, but as yet they are more looked at than worn.
Among "Exposition laces" come some with fine Brussels and Chantilly re-sus or grounds on which are embroidered flowers, leaves, and scrolls, and all nature's own exquisite colorings, and all
nature's own exquisite colorings, and all that they will probably not be worn another season, or will survive only as a theatre or indoor chapeau for ceremon-ious afternoon receptions and teas.
Dove or Quaker gray is the most fashionable and also the most becoming shade of this most trying color. It combines well with Effiel, pale rose, blue,
water green, canary yellow, flamingo
red, and other shades of bright and positive color, with cream, pure white, black,
silver and gold, copper and steel.
It is to be feared that the very small bonnets which even about the neck seem so fond of will bring about an invasion of hair. "Too much hair and not of enough hat" form a combination that has been fashionable before. Can we ever forget the days of big chignons and little tip-tilted saucer-shaped hats? Is not the very thought of a return to these terrifying?

POLITICAL.

THE WORKINGMEN.
The old cry, grown somewhat ineffective from frequent usage, that unrestricted trade with the United States would injure the Canadian artisan, is kept up by the protectionists even in Galt and Cornwall, where the artisan has been trying in vain to get higher wages
to offset the enhanced cost of living under the N. P. As a body, the workmen are too intelligent to be deceived any more. They are beginning to grasp the truth that international commerce,
like trade between individuals, is in reality barter. When a mechanic buys a pair of shoes for a dollar, the dollar he pays in payment represents a certain portion of his own labor, which he is giving in exchange for the labor of the shoemaker, of the tanner, and of the farmer who raised the animal whose hide has been converted into leather.
In itself, the dollar bill is simply a convenience of exchange. If there was no money of any kind, trade would still be carried on, although we should then revert to pure barter, that is, to the exchange of one product directly for another. International trade is identically in principle. If a country imports for six goods, it must give the product of its own labor in payment; hence the more we import the more
we must export, and vice versa.
Unrestricted trade would, beyond doubt,
enable the Americans to send into this country articles in the production of which they excel; but as they would have to take Canadian goods in payment, the transaction would be beneficial to both sides. We should simply exchange our labor for theirs, each being employed to the best and most profitable advantage.
Is the Canadian mechanic any better off under a high tariff than he was before? The Conservatives always remind him that times were hard between 1874 and 1878. So they were. There was universal depression then, in England and the States, and the tariff was not his arrier off today than he was in the normal period of low tariff, say, from 1867 to 1873? Have his wages increased in proportion to the rise in the cost of living? How often since the N.
P. was established in 1879 have the bosses given him better pay without the intervention of families who have used it regularly for all such troubles during
many years, suggests the use of Hag-
yard's Pectoral Balm—the old, reliable
household favorite.

When attacked by a cough or cold, hoarseness, asthma, bronchitis, croup or influenza, the successful experience of thousands of families who have used it
regularly for all such troubles during
many years, suggests the use of Hag-
yard's Pectoral Balm—the old, reliable
household favorite.

What she Wanted.
It was a little out-of-the-way place in Arkansas. A log cabin of two rooms was the home of a family of six persons,
father, mother, and four sallow, tow-headed children. Two Northern tour-drews, exploring the country on horseback,
drew rein one day in front of the cabin
as the members of this family were sitting down to their supper, just within the open door.
"Good-evening," called the gentleman, from his saddle; "can I get some water here for this lady?"
"Reckon ye ken," replied the head of the house, rising and coming out, followed hospitably by his family. "Stopping to the springs, be ye?"
"Yes."
"Purty peart crowd up to the hotel?"
Now the lady for whom the water was required was very thirsty indeed, and not wishing to wait for further conversational amenities between her escort
and her host, she addressed the woman of the house.
"May I trouble you to hand me a glass?"
For answer, her hostess turned and went into the cabin, whence she returned presently with a small, pine-framed mirror in her hand.
"There," said she, passing it up to her visitor on horseback, "you're welcome to look in it, though it will make your face look purty kind of skew-gaw.
It's better'n none, and yer hair does need fixin', that's a fact."
The young lady understood the situation, took the glass, gravely tucked back
the locks that the wind had disarranged
and then returned it.
"You are very kind," said she, "and now may I have some water?"
"There!" exclaimed the other, in a tone of great self-reproach, "I clean forgot about yer wantin' it. Here you, Jimmy, take thur gourd and skoot down to the spring and git the lady a good dipperful of drinkin'-water."

Minard's Liniment for Rheumatism.
Owing to the sudden resignation of the only indoor man-servant at the house of an Epson bachelor, the Irish coachman was last week promoted for the evening to the rank of butler—several guests being expected to dinner. The host was pleased to find that an old dress suit fitted Micky and he was delighted with the whole thing. A few minutes' technical instruction of the coachman declared that he grasped the "intuire situation."
One point impressed upon the servant
was that he was on no account to ask a diner if he would have a second helping of soup. The guests were "on time" and all went well till Micky observed a gentleman push his plate from him, after taking a few mouthfuls of soup. He immediately leant over and drew back the plate. The guest pushed it from him again. This displeased the coachman, it seemed to him a breach of decorum.
"Aye yer soup, sorr," he exclaimed in trumpet tones, "yes! 't'll get no more."

FRASER & PORTER.

Goderich, Oct. 21th, 1889.

LEEBOURN. From our own correspondent. Mrs Ashley, of Hanover, is visiting relatives here.

Our townsman, R. Hogarth, is added to the married force of this place, being recently married to Miss Strong, daughter of the late John Strong.

Communion service will be held in the Presbyterian church here the last Sunday of this month, and this week a thanksgiving service will be held Thursday at 11 p.m.

Though past his 79th year, our jovial pioneer, John Morris, carried up a ladder to the roof of his tables, at Morriedale, several bunches of shingles, with the aid of youth, and did a big day's work in shingling the roof of the building some days ago.

Our jovial friend, Joseph Healy, has returned from a pleasant visit to friends in the county of Lambton, his fortnight's stay making a new man of him; and a little bird whispers Joseph may go again shortly, and his errand will cause a blank in the ranks of the bachelors of Leebourn.

Hallowe'en was hardly noticed, barring a bevy of the fair sex, so rumor has it, going to a social gathering, and making off with the tall lady's entrance gate, which they have put somewhere out of view. The lady has offered a mammoth reward to find out the fair depredaters and to bring them to the altar of Justice or Hymen.

ASHFIELD. COUNCIL MEETING.—Ashfield council met 18th inst. All the members were present. The council directed that James Vint and Joseph Granton be notified to move their fences off road allowance, at once.

A GRAND WORK.

The Upper Canada Religious Tract and Book Society.

The annual meeting of this Society was held on Friday last, in the North-st. Methodist church. The attendance was a very small one as representing the four congregations of the town.

The meeting was addressed by the secretary and agent of the Society, Rev. Dr. Moffat. The Dr. who was with us last year on the same duty, held the rapt attention of his hearers for considerably over an hour, in which he graphically described the work the society is doing.

These devoted men are real Christian missionaries, working in our midst, among our own people, who would be, except for their visits, quite without religious reading and teaching. The men chosen for this work require to be peculiarly adapted for it and men who labor in it for the work's sake and not for the emolument.

Dr. Moffat's address was full of life and inspiration throughout, and it was a pity that so few availed themselves of what could not have been otherwise than a rare treat to have heard that the collector call for the annual subscription they will meet with a liberal response.

The officers elected for the present year are: President, Rev. J. A. Anderson, treasurer, J. A. Nafstel, in place of Spence Allan; secretary, Rev. J. A. Anderson, North-st. Methodist church; W. Armstrong, Victoria st. church; G. Elliott, St. George's church; John A. Nestor, Knox church; D. Stoddart.—Com.

ASLEEP ON THE TRACK.

A little child, tired of play, had followed his head on a railroad track and fallen asleep. The train was almost upon him when a passing stranger rushed forward and saved him from a horrible death.
