Grand Alliance; Love That Knew No Bounds.

CHAPTER XXIV.

He only answered with a forced smile, but Miss Jean, who, with meaning glances had vainly essayed to stop Mrs. Preece, now cut across the topic with the remark that Miss Grey was sensible and understood her position, and that was enough for them. Appearances were of no consequence whatever.

"But it is nicer," persisted Mrs. Preece, "to feel you have pleasing-looking people about you. Don't you agree with me, Mr. Hurst?" He did, as tersely as possible. "And though I only saw her a minute, I thought my cousin's observation correct. He goes in for beauty, and said the curve of Miss Grey's lips was simply perfect."

"Oh, really!" cried Miss Hurst, exasperated at this marplot's enlargement on a never avoided theme, "my brother and I have other things to think of besides Miss Grey's or Miss Anybody's lips! My housekeeping and his books do not leave me much time for such frivolous subjects, I assure you, Mrs. Preece!" and by the silence of the auditor, the annoyance visible in the other, Mrs. Preece did at last comprehend that the conversation she had hit on was not congenial; therefore she began to fear that the horse would catch cold if it stood any longer; hoped with spring Mr. Hurst would come over and lunch with them, an invitation always vaguely repeated, never definitely accepted.

And commending the new curate to their courtesy with the impromptu message that Mr. Preece "sent his compliments and looked to them to make the stranger at home there," at last got up to end her quarterly call.

Mr. Hurst opened the door; his sister ringing a servant forward, would only have gone the regulation half-dozen paces with the visitor she was glad to be quit of, but as her brother, returning to the fireside, fell into a fit of musing, Mrs. Preece exclaimed from the hall.

"Oh, Miss Hurst! a moment, please," and the lady so summoned approaching, "Now I remember the curate's name. You ought to know it for fear Mr. Gilbert kindly calls first 'Babbington.' That is it. 'Horatius Babbington.' He's been among the Jews and got out of health, but this quiet place will soon set him up. I hope you'll take to each other. 'Babbington.' Don't forget. Good-day!"

The rich rector's lady wrapped her bear-skins round her in her brougham; the well-to-do equipage was coached dexterously off the small grounds without carrying off either gate-post; house-maid Fanny watched it roll away without incurring reproach for ill manners, and still Miss Hurst stood transfixed where Mrs. Preece's last words had fallen on her ears.

"Fanny," she said, presently, "go and shut the study door;" and when the girl had vanished she seated herself at the foot of the stairs, took some long breaths, and put her hands over her face.

"Horatius back—and coming here," she whispered, gasping interjectionally, "and that woman—how she shall—take to one another! And I'm so altered! I wonder if he is. Oh, dear, dear me! Dear me! What a queer world it is!"

She was sitting there, rocking herself to and fro, looking very odd, when Sydney returned, brighter of spirit for her half hour in the brilliant air, penitent, moreover, for her secret intolerance of poor Miss Jean's shortcomings. The sight of her form, agitated and in such unusual position, brought Sydney quickly to her, asking,

"What is it? Are you ill? Or—indefinite fright seizing her—"Nothing has happened?"

"Oh, no!" Miss Jean answered, reassuringly, "Nothing of any—choking over the assertion—consequence to any one—unless me; and that doesn't signify. I was only thinking—of a—long time ago. People do—silly people—like me! They—can't—help it!"

And with actual tears meandering down her nose, Miss Hurst picked herself up and went into the seclusion of her own room, whence she emerged only to behave the rest of the day with hysterical vivacity, which contrasted so strongly with her brother's extreme taciturnity that Sydney could not help suspecting her forenoon's absence had in some way unusually tried them both.

At night this surmise was confirmed with an addenda that drew herself into the thick of Wynstone's entanglements. She had hidden them good-night, had seen Mr. Hurst left (cruelly, as absurdly enough, it always seemed to her) in the fading fire-light below, and now sat by her dressing table, affected, spite of herself, by the mingled excitement and depression that seemed in the very air that day.

New year's eve! The old year dying, nearly gone. The phantoms of its many hours floating before her as such visions will when anniversaries proclaim the junction of our two eternities; all that the months had stolen looming out of the midst of one—Mary, with her true, sweet face, and heart as sweet and true; Rupert—smarted with self-contempt, thinking of him; that episode was growing horrible to her womanly conscience; her mother, away and angered still—the vigil was indeed nigh bringing the girl's soul, in her solitariness, very low till a calm, worn face seemed to gaze tenderly upon her once again. "My child will make it all right; God bless her," came like an echo to her, and in that blessing she was once more strong. She had need to be so.

A subdued tap at the door was followed by Miss Hurst's entrance, in a wonderful dressing-gown, and in that mood that could brook no rest till it had spent itself in confidence.

"I saw your light; I thought if you didn't mind I would come and sit with you, Miss Grey. When one has no one to talk to, the last hour of the year is so dismal."

"We must not let it be so," said Sydney, pushing forward the dimly-covered arm-chair. "I am awake enough to talk or listen for hours."

"Thank you," said Miss Jean, looking, with pink eyelids and scanty, unplanned braids, most comically pathetic; "I remember how a friend of mine and I, years ago, used to chat in the small hours when we stayed with each other—girls will, you know—and how we used to brush each other's hair—May I brush yours, Miss Grey? I should like the feeling of old times."

"Certainly, though I wish you a better office," Sydney said, smiling, and let down her dark, rippling locks.

Sydney perceived they all drifted toward a certain point, one halcyon spring when Miss Hurst had basked in love's young dream, and been affianced to her father's curate.

"And, oh, Miss Grey, I felt forced to tell you this for fear you should think me stiff or singular with him. I don't wish to be cold, but I must be stiff; it will be best, for he is coming here to be curate, and we must meet as strangers. He brings his poor little children, for he is a—widower."

"A widower!" said Sydney, now greatly interested. "Then I suppose he married because you wouldn't have him?"

"Wouldn't? Ah, Miss Grey, that was my worst share of the trouble I once told you something about. I couldn't. Papa's money went, that should have been mine and Gilbert's. Marrying without an allowance from papa would have been impossible—wicked. So my prospects went—and papa's health—and Gilbert's sight. For he would never have had to toil as he did if we had not become poor. Ah me! ah me! you have no idea what a blow it was!"

"Perhaps I have, just a little."

"No, you can't!" Miss Hurst's treble wailed on. "I shall never forget Gilbert when I told him the grand investment had failed, that papa had made by advice of the man he trusted above all others, and how we should lose everything. Poor boy! at first he was furious; then so miserable. Ah, he was hot-tempered then! He's drilled himself to something different now. I remember he went off to Taffy's, as we called—Sydney gave such a start Miss Hurst apologized.

"I beg your pardon. My feelings got into my fingers. I brushed too hard. Yes, Taffy's, our old nurse's. Gilbert took all his troubles to her. And she shared this one; for she had given over all her savings to the same man whose unlucky counsel misled my father." (Out of the almost blank of earliest childhood rose that summer afternoon—the scent of flowers, the drone of bees, old Taffy's song, the tall boy striding up the path then hung at length upon the bench. That was how, when and where she had seen Gilbert Hurst before.) "So she, too, had reason to rue trusting Mr. Alwyn. Too hard again! Ah! I must not talk of it. It makes me forget myself. And please, Miss Grey, never mention this before my brother. The very name of Alwyn is like an old wound to him. I never utter it, nor talk of Stillcote, where we lived. Shall I part your hair now? Why?"—with a glance at the mirror opposite—"I have fired you out. You look quite pale. Talking has eased me, but it's time I said good-night, or good-morning, for it's past twelve. I hope, Miss Grey"—sighing—"you have more prospect of it than I have, and I wish you a happy New year!"

CHAPTER XXV.

Civility, by now, demands attention to Sydney Alwyn's mother and step-sister, who, when last discoursed of, were turning their backs on scenes of lofty but bitterly humiliated hopes.

Leaving St. Clair's in the frame of mind both did, it is no wonder if even the liveliness of foreign travel, effervescent draught of amusement as it is to some, to them appeared flat, stale, and unprofitable. Mrs. Alwyn, released from surveillance of servants and neighbors, gave naturalness and ill-temper free rein. To the garçons, the portiers, the white-coiffed femmes de chambre of the various hotels they visited, she was an affliction not readily forgotten—the "grand dame Anglaise," who, with her superb command, kept them all dancing obsequious attendance on her exacting caprices, and then, callous to rueful looks, departed, bestowing on never a one a franc or a penning beyond the legitimate bill-scored terms of service. This species of saving formed the chief pleasure of the lady's first weeks abroad, and, combined with the relaxation of finding fault with everything provided for her everywhere, served as a good-sized safety-valve through which to disperse the turbid irascibility that had possessed her since the downfall of her designs had driven her from The Dale.

And Miss Villiers extracted as little enjoyment as her mother from the first stages of their route. Cathedrals to her were simply dingy buildings, a weariness to the spirit and chilliness to the body. They caused her to sneeze, which made her eyelids red, which injured her appearance, therefore she avoided them. Their three days on the Rhine she tolerated mainly because this style of travelling neither dusted her beautifully draped tailor-made costume, nor chafed her dainty boots, the preservation of whose glossy kid far overrode any question of exploring the ruined treasures on the legend-haunted banks. Assuming a melancholy, half of lassiness, half of annoyance with her mother for projecting a plan she had not had generalship or luck enough to carry out, the younger lady adopted a role of injured suikness, saw the seamy side of every day's conditions, and for the first month after they left England proved herself the very reverse of a cheerful travelling companion.

Almost Unbelievable.

By RUTH CAMERON.

If you were to read a story in a magazine about a child whose parents died in infancy, and whose health is sacrificed her whole life to bring him up and give him a good education, a girl who repaid that sacrifice by living in luxury while his sister, a sickly old woman, slaved in a department store, you would probably think the characters and incidents overdrawn and not true to life, wouldn't you?

But they wouldn't be. "In this community," writes a letter friend from a distant city, "about thirty years ago a baby was left to the care of his older sister when his parents died. The sister sacrificed her whole life for him, giving him a good education."

"He married and his wife turned him completely against this sister. The girl he married was very poor, but now they have a summer home, a touring car, in short, every luxury that money can buy. While the sister can be seen almost any day going back and forth to work when she is able, and often when she is not (her health is extremely poor). She is very proud and one of the most respectable and estimable women in this city."

Her brother from one year's end to another does not give her a single penny while his wife spends in one entertaining of her bridge club enough to make it unnecessary for the older woman to go out these terrible winter mornings at her time of life.

I call it a crying shame. Of course it's right that her brother should give his wife and family all the necessities and all the luxuries he can afford but he surely ought to be able to give his sister (his parent mind you) enough so that she wouldn't have to work even when she is sick to keep from starving."

A story like that makes one's blood boil. It seems worse than the ordinary case because it was a sister instead of a parent. Parents in bringing children into the world incur the responsibility of rearing them. That is normal. But for a young woman to give up her life and probably her personal happiness and her opportunity for marriage and children of her own to rear another woman's child, even her own brother, is a far greater sacrifice and deserves even greater reward.

And the wife who turned her husband's heart away from this more than parent is proportionately even more guilty than the wife who tries to turn her husband against his father and mother.

Why will women do it any way? Why will women who otherwise seem gentle and tender hearted, deliberately try to shut their husband's parents and family out of his life?

There certainly cannot be an uglier jealousy than that which will make a wife unwilling to share her husband with the woman who bore him. Let her beware. Let her remember the warning of Cardinal Newman: "Some women when they marry are not content to be sweet-heart and wife, but must also take the place of mother and sisters too, but let the woman who closes a man's heart against those of his own blood remember that some day the one door she has left open is sure to slam in her own face."

Hands Across the Sea.

A MOVEMENT OF EMPIRE AND EDUCATION.

The objects of the movement are both Educational and Imperial, and may be summarized as follows:

1. To give an insight into the Educational systems of the British Empire.
2. To strengthen the Bonds of Empire and Imperial Fraternity.
3. To bring the people of the Empire into closer touch with the Mother-land and with one another, through the medium of the schoolroom.

The Honorary Organizer of the movement is Mr. Fred J. Ney, an Englishman, who has been for some years Chief Secretary of the Department of Education, Winnipeg, Manitoba.

The movement is under the auspices of the Government of the Dominion of Canada and the Government of Newfoundland, and is extending to New Zealand, South Africa and Australia.

The fifth annual visit of teachers from Canada and Newfoundland is now being arranged for: literature relating thereto has been sent to very many educationists and clergy throughout the country during the last six weeks.

Educationists and clergymen are eligible for membership, and exceptions are made only in cases of wives and sisters. Friends can be accepted only for travel and hotel accommodation in London, provided vacancies are available.

1. It is estimated that the entire cost of the tour from St. John's including:

- (a) Return transportation.
- (b) All gratuities except on the steamer.
- (c) About six weeks complete programme, etc.
- (d) Hotel accommodation will be about $210.00.

2. Or, from St. John's and return, with six weeks' accommodation at private hotel in neighborhood of Hyde Park, London, $130.00.

3. Yet another feature of the movement is easy transportation rates for educationists, etc., who wish to visit friends in the Old Country. Information relating to these rates may be had on application to the Honorary Secretary for Newfoundland.

As all tickets (going and return) for members of the party are bought by Mr. Ney and sent to us from Winnipeg, persons who desire to avail of the great advantages afforded by this movement should send in their application forms with their Registration Fee of $1.00 to the Honorary Local Secretary by the 20th inst., as this will only leave a fair margin of time to communicate with and receive replies from Winnipeg.

We very heartily recommend this tour to parties interested and assure them that it is well worth while.

Those who made the pilgrimage last year never mention the cost, but they keep on saying, "We should like to go again," but then— "We should, therefore, be pleased to receive anywhere from thirty to fifty applications within the next ten days."

Yours sincerely,
S. B. WHITEWAY,
Hon. Local Secy.

You'll know then why the Popular Furniture Store is doing the Furniture business of St. John's.

Our Customers get more satisfaction and merchandise quality than they pay for, and we are ready to do the same for you in no matter what you buy.

This store was established to help wage earners to have homes of their own. That the furnishing of a Complete Home Outfit to honest wage earners on weekly or monthly payments is right has been demonstrated over and over again.

We were the first to start the idea here and still continue to give those worthy of it an opportunity to furnish their home on a small amount from their pay envelope.

Buyers of Furniture to-day look for articles of superior quality at a reasonable price. Impossible claims sell a customer once, but true value brings repeat orders. We want your repeat orders.

When you are in doubt, be guided in your selection of Furniture by the experience, judgment and advice of others, who know that this store is a repeat order store and keeps its promises.

We are Home Outfitters in a true sense of the word. Manufacturing and importing lines of Furniture, Bedsteads and Bedding in such quality and quantity that we can positively fill your order with satisfaction and quick despatch.

Over $200,000 in Sight.

Hon. R. Watson has received and acknowledged subscriptions which aggregate a sum in the neighbourhood of $190,000. It will be seen also that Mr. J. S. Mann has received a list of New York subscriptions received by Mr. C. M. Bowring, the Hon. Treasurer of the New York Fund, which exceeds $10,200. At a memorial service held by the Salvation Army, Chelsea City, $112.23 was collected and at another service held at the Bellingham Church on Sunday afternoon, May 3rd, $42.23 was collected. These facts together with the others which have been appearing in our columns during the past five weeks, show the bounteous nature of the response which has been and is being made to the appeal of aid for those in distress from the great disasters to our seafarers this spring.

The response has exceeded the most sanguine expectations of those who have charge of the distribution of help. It is certain now that the Fund will materially exceed $200,000.

Hospital Commission.

Messrs. Robinson, Gibbs and Lloyd had a meeting on Saturday to arrange the preliminaries of the investigation into the working of the General Hospital.

This afternoon at 3.30, the Medical Superintendent, will be called to explain generally the organization of the Hospital, its division into departments and mainly the general scheme of working. It is not likely that matters in dispute will be gone into today. The idea is rather to get a general idea of the working. The sitting will be held at the Hospital, where if it can be arranged most of the sittings will be held, as most convenient for calling the staff. The press will be admitted to the sittings.

Sardinian Arrives.

POMERANIAN SAILS.

The Allan Liner Sardinian reached port at four o'clock on Saturday evening, over seven days from Philadelphia. She arrived on this coast on Thursday morning last and for two days was practically stopped owing to the heavy ice encountered. She brought a large mail, 575 tons of cargo and as passengers in saloon:—

Messrs. MacDonald and Dodds. The "Pomeranian," which was detained here for four days owing to the ice embargo, sailed for Halifax and Philadelphia at 3 p.m. Saturday.

WEATHER.—A South-West wind, prevails up the country to-day; weather dull along the line of railway; the temperature ranges from 40 to 55 above.

LONDON, To-day. A bomb, placed by suffragettes, exploded in the gallery of the Metropolitan Tabernacle, South London Edifice, made famous by the late Rev. Charles H. Spurgeon. Little damage was done. It is believed the bomb was placed in the gallery during morning service which ended at half-past twelve o'clock. An hour later the caretaker in the Tabernacle was struck by the explosion. Near the spot where the bomb exploded was a card, on which was written, "Put your religion into practice and see that women obtain their freedom."

Cochrane St. Church.

The Rev. F. R. Matthews, B.A., was the preacher at the Cochrane Street Church service held in the College Hall yesterday morning. The subject of the discourse being the Overcoming Life. In the world we have tribulation, victory and defeat, sorrow and adversity; but by faith we overcome. We overcome because Jesus overcame. Cultivate the power by which Jesus overcame and enthrone Him in our lives. The Rev. C. A. Whitmarsh, M.A., conducted the opening exercises at the evening service which was very largely attended. The Rev. A. V. Robb, who had been attending the Theological College at Montreal, took as his text, "I count all things but loss." The knowledge of Christ, the clear perception and undoubted acquaintance was well thought out from three standpoints, the Historical knowledge of Jesus Christ, the speculative and the experimental. The singing of the hymns on the part of the congregation was hearty and inspiring.

Here and There.

DIGBY ARRIVED.—The S.S. Digby reached Halifax at 10 a.m. to-day.

REACHED HALIFAX.—The s.s. Stephano arrived at Halifax at 5 p.m. yesterday, after a passage of 47 hours from this port.

For the Summer Months, Furnished Apartments to Let at WATERFORD HALL.—m11,2i

POLICE COURT.—Two drunks were discharged, two were fined $1 or 3 days, one $2 or 7 days and two disorderlies $5 or 14 days.

FISH CARGOES.—The Nellie M., Capt. Taylor, and the Novelty, Capt. Benson, have finished loading codfish from the Monroe Export Co. and will sail for Pernambuco within a few days.

BANKING FLEET OFF.—Letters just received in the city state that all the S.W. Coast bankers have sailed for the Grand Banks, have bailed in Fortune Bay where herrings are reported numerous.

NO NIGHT WORK.—The work of discharging the Allan liner Sardinian was not commenced on Saturday evening, owing to the no-night work system adopted by the longshoremen having come into effect. This morning the unloading of the ship started.

The three cooks convicted of stealing a quantity of stores from the sealing steamer Ranger were brought before Judge Knight on Saturday afternoon. A long term of imprisonment would prevent the defendants from prosecuting the codfishery, and his Honor taking this into account, imposed a fine of $20 or 30 days.

BOY ACQUITTED.—The boy Noseworthy who was the driver of Soper and Moore's horse, which accidentally ran over and killed a four-year-old boy named Power, on George's Street, two weeks ago, was tried before Judge Knight to-day on a charge of murder. The evidence taken in the preliminary hearing of the case established the boy's innocence and he was acquitted by His Honor.

SENT FROM U.S.—Two American police officials arrived in the city on Friday in charge of a man, a Newfoundland, for the Lunatic Asylum. The patient is a native of Carleton Place. He had been working in the State of Maine for several years and became mentally afflicted a few months ago. After being examined by a doctor he was ordered on to St. John's for treatment. The two officers left for the States by Saturday evening's train.

The S.S. Prospero, Capt. A. Kean, sailed to-day after tedious delay at port waiting for the ice to move off for the Northward. She took a full freight, and the following passengers in saloon:—Messrs. G. M. Lind, H. Harnett, M. Budgett, E. P. Rowsell, A. Andrews, R. Joseph, W. Winsor, M. C. Milly, J. Milley, A. Sampson, A. Fowlow, J. Scott, Hodgson, Mallen, Martin, Dr. Little, Mesdames Lind, J. Lind, G. Walsh, Winsor, Milley; Misses—Walker, Parsons, Snelgrove, Rutland, and 40 in steerage.

The best seats will go fast. Those who want advantageous positions at the Methodist College Hall on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, June 1, 2, 3, should make their reservations at once, because Mme. Scotney and her assisting artists from the Boston Opera House will be the big event of the year. Everybody who heard her last year on her tour of the Maritime Provinces will want to hear her again, and those not so fortunate are just waiting for the opportunity. And local critics have a surprise in store for them in Alfreda Ramello, who is the leading permanent tenor of the Boston Opera Co., and was the leading tenor of the Montreal Opera Co. the winter of 1912-13, by arrangement with his home organization. The basso, Howard White, who was such a favorite last year, Mme. Cara Sapin, prima donna contralto, and John Craig Kelley, at the piano, complete the aggregation.

DIED.

Sunday morning, after a short illness, George Patrick, eldest son of Capt. A. F. Nickerson, leaving a wife, father and one sister to mourn their sad loss. Funeral on Tuesday, at 2.30 p.m. from his late residence, 267 Water Street West. Friends and acquaintances please attend without further notice. R.I.P.

THE GREATER QUESTION.

At this season of the year for Farmers with up-to-date ideas is, what are the best means to use to get the best returns from the land.

Fertilizers must be used liberally if large returns are looked for. There are several good chemical fertilizers which may be recommended, but Sulphate of Ammonia has been proved to give the best returns, and is the most valuable and economical source of Nitrogen for agricultural purposes.

For vegetables, grass, and all leafy crops, about one and a half cwt. per acre is the best quantity to use, and this should be applied when the plant is making its growth, as well as before sowing the seed.

If a liquid manure is preferred, a ¼ oz. of Sulphate to one gallon of water should be used, and applied once a week for a month. This quantity should not be exceeded.

It is a good plan to reduce the Sulphate to a fine powder, and mix with four or more times its own bulk, for the purpose of diluting the manure, which is very powerful.

For potatoes the following mixture is strongly recommended:—

40 lbs. Superphosphate.
 26 lbs. Fine bone meal.
 10 lbs. Carbonate of Magnesia.
 15 lbs. Sulphate of Potash.
 21 lbs. SULPHATE OF AMMONIA.

1 cwt. Apply at the rate of 10 to 11 lbs. to 43 square yards.

The use of Carbonate of Magnesia, in conjunction with Sulphate of Ammonia, is of great importance in potato culture.

For turnips use the following:—

66 lbs. Superphosphate.
 13 lbs. Fine bone meal.
 13 lbs. Sulphate of Potash.
 20 lbs. Sulphate of Ammonia.

1 cwt. Apply at the rate of 10 to 11 lbs. to square yards.

Sulphate of Ammonia of excellent quality is now made by the St. John's Gas Light Company, and may be obtained on very reasonable terms.

Full particulars may be obtained at the Gas Works, or at the Board of Trade Building. Ask for special booklet on the use of Sulphate, it will be found of great value in securing the heaviest crops.

A Sermon for the Times.

I. G. M.

At Gover, St. Church, yesterday morning, the Rev. Mr. Whitemarsh delivered a discourse that made an impression not soon to be forgotten. The subject was in reference to the "feverish" rush of the age, and of the "fast pace" at which men appear to be living. Not that the pace was wrong from any moral standpoint; but that it was detrimental to the better instincts of humanity, and was having the effect of crushing out that higher purpose of life for which men were created.

There is something seriously wrong in the economy of commerce, and in the aspect of the home, and also in the administration of the church. There seems to be an undue rush in every phase of modern life, which is peculiar to the age; and but little time is left for prayer or meditation. Under present conditions such living cannot be very well avoided, because one department of trade has the tendency to drive the other; and so the strain is thus kept up.

Men arise at early morning and hurry away to business. At meal time they get back to their homes or to their lodgings at the same rate; and then as hurriedly rush back to the office, shop or store. This applies particularly to city life. Thus, days are spent, and the seasons roll round, and men are like dust driven by the great wheel of the modern juggernaut of toil. All classes are alike. The owner is just as much a victim to this slavery as are the men and women who engage in his work. The entire system is so exacting, and the demands are so keen that very often the burden becomes almost unbearable, and men wonder what it is all about.

And so the question arises, "What is it about?" Why this rush? Why this feverish impulse? Why this constant grind? Is this all that men were made for? And is man only to toil as a beast of burden, and as a creature of sport, or as a frivolous play-thing? If the average life of the modern city be taken as a standard, then it would seem that there is no other purpose, nor any higher interpretation of the life we live.

But, this life of rush and strain is not the standard which was originally meant for the children of men. There is a better life—a higher interpretation of life. And this interpretation is within our reach; but to realize it we must meet the conditions which are laid down for our guidance.

The fever of old was cured by the touch of Divinity. That touch is what the world needs. The solution of our mistakes, and of our failures, and of our extremes is quite possible. There is a source of remedy; there must be. The strain and hurry must be found when men dig into their lives and into their business, and into their homes, and into their meditations, the spirit of Him who touched the feverish one of His day and healed her and she arose and administered to the household.

Such may be taken as an outline of the principles and spirit of the sermon. Perhaps the preacher may publish it in full. It certainly contains a timely message for every class of men. Who of us that still "toil" every day, do not sometimes wonder what the end will be; and who of us have not said within ourselves, "Is this all that I was made for?" The sermon preached yesterday morning by the Rev. Mr. Whitemarsh answered this latter question; and showed us that amid the toil and the rush, and amid the fever and the strife, there is an antidote; there is a balm; and therefore there is a life worth living—a better life—the life that was meant for us by the great Creator, when He made man, and pronounced him good.

MR. JONES LECTURES.—Last night at the Grenfell Hall Mr. W. H. Jones lectured to a large audience. The theme of his discourse was "Life in Many Lands" which was illustrated with 50 slides. "Cathedrals of England" will be the subject next Sunday.

STORMY WEST.—Yesterday a severe rain storm, with a south east wind, raged along the line of railway, and was particularly heavy in the vicinity of the Topsails. At Port-aux-Basques dense fog prevailed, which had the effect of keeping the Lintrose off Channel Head all day, it being too thick to make port.

Lower Island Cove Notes.

Dear Mr. Editor,—Please allow me space for the following:—

Wednesday, April 29th, was observed here as "Children's Day." This day is always looked forward to with great eagerness by young and old alike, but this year the tension was greater than ever. Many were the reasons for this; but the principal one was, that the newly-formed Methodist Guards were going to parade, and also to participate in the concert at night.

Despite the fact that the day was anything but what one would wish it to be, yet the lads, under the command of Rev. W. H. Browning, paraded to Mount Pleasant to the house of Mr. A. G. Hudson, J.P., where all enjoyed a lunch given by Mrs. Hudson. The boys were then given their caps, and under the command of Mr. Alex. Hudson, marched back to Browning Hall, in a heavy down pour of rain.

The concert was under the auspices of "The Ivy Mission Band." The Mission Band Concert has always been regarded as the best one of the season, but this year it greatly surpassed all previous records from every point of view. The programme though lengthy, was most interesting and attractive; and the audience were sorry that it was, seemingly, so short.

Although everything was all that could be desired yet the singing of "Buy My Flowers," and solo by Miss Beatrice LeShave impressed the audience greatly; while the "Hoop" and "Guards" Drills brought down the house.

Congratulations should be accorded to all concerned for bringing the issue to such a decided success.

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Browning deserve great credit for the time and energy given to train the little ones. During their stay amongst us they have spared no pains, in trying to interest the children, and they have interested them.

The drilling of the Guards were under the joint supervision of Rev. W. H. Browning and Mr. Alex. M. Hudson, and it is surprising what progress they have made in such short time.

For the choruses, and the greater part of the singing, recitations and dialogues, Miss Mary Hudson, President of the Ivy Mission Band, was responsible. Too much praise cannot be rendered to her, not only for her work this year, but also for the three years that she has been with us. Only one thing, and that is "Love for the work," must have induced her to sacrifice so much of her own time to help to send the "Light across the wave." Her successor will have to aim high and hit high, to reach the standard attained by Miss Hudson. Whosoever she may go she will carry with her the well wishes of the children of "The Ivy Mission Band" of Lower Island Cove.

Thanking you in anticipation,
Yours truly,
INCOGNITO

Divorced Life

By Helen Hessong Fuesle

Marian's Eyes are Opened

The lives of the city's office buildings were disgorging their evening multitudes of wage-earners, as Marian started toward her dwelling-place on foot after a day's fruitless search for work. She had again answered a number of advertisements. Three employers, after questioning her, had made note of her name and address, promising to advise her if they decided to give the place to her. She departed from all of them without hope of hearing. She had learned this much; that she was too old to fill a mere office girl's place at a paltry wage of three or four dollars a week, and too inexperienced to secure anything better in an office. She had discovered that one of the first questions put to applicants was: "Do you live with your parents?" She concluded that it was their custom in nearly all cases, to require a low-paid employee's family to aid in her support and none seemed ready to pay a living wage to inexperienced help. That is to say, she found that an apprenticeship cost money to obtain. What was she to do?

Marian's heart filled with envy as she brushed past hundreds of well-dressed, salary-earning women hurrying to the trolley cars that would bear them homeward. She envied them their efficiency, useful tasks, and their furs, their fashionable suits and coats, the jeweled pins that gleamed at many of their necks. Unwilling to admit that they were more intelligent than she, and certain that few of them boasted the collegiate years she had had, she nevertheless envied the useful places in the world's work into which they had managed to fit themselves.

Marian pushed on into the avenue of better class hotels and shops. She preferred walking to jamming herself into one of the cars that were loaded to the limit with tightly wedged human beings, and was thankful that she lived within a walking distance. Once she paused in front of a glittering window display, scanning a tempting array of furs. After a moment she was startled by a man's voice addressing her.

"I beg your pardon, but aren't you Miss Shaw?"

She saw at her side a well-dressed youth of perhaps her own age, who lifted his derby hat as she turned and faced him. He was clean-cut and prepossessing, with a frank, clear eye.

"No," she answered. "You've made a mistake."

"I could have sworn to it, from a profile view," he answered. "I don't know a soul in this city, and was overjoyed at the prospect of finding someone I knew. Have you ever been miserably lonely?" he inquired, either with honest expression of his thoughts, or with clever simulation.

Marian did not reply. She had never been addressed by a stranger on the street, and was at a complete loss what to do. So, without replying, she started away. The youth was at her side in an instant.

"I beg your pardon, but aren't you Miss Shaw," said a well-dressed young man to Marian.

"Won't you come some place and have dinner with me?" he pleaded. "It would be perfectly all right. Just pretend you are Miss Shaw. There wouldn't be any harm."

For an instant, Marian hesitated, wavering in her weariness after the day's disappointments between two impulses. One voice told her to go and be merry amid the flashing lights of a handsome restaurant. Another bade her flee. Would it be wrong, really wrong, to stay? Who was there to care? She had her own life to live, her own way to make. Why not? Again the youth urged her to come with him. She turned her weary eyes to him, not yet knowing what she was going to say. A street car slowed down to stop. She saw that it was not crowded and that it was homeward bound.

"This is my car," she answered, obeying a decisive impulse, and ran toward the platform.

Financiers.

By GEORGE FITCH,

Author of "At Good Old Sitwah"

A financier is a man who can make two dollars grow for himself where one grew for some one else before.

The financier does not do this by earning the money. This would be too simple. Any one can earn money. He does it by ways which common people and governments are not supposed to be able to understand. If the financier had a dollar and needed two, he would not hide one dollar under a brick and earn another. He would use the dollar as first payment on a ten dollar bill and he would then bond the bill for a twenty dollar gold piece and would charge five dollars for doing this. Then he would sell an option on the twenty-dollar gold piece at seventeen dollars for one dollar to forty-five people and would then dispose of a half interest in the entire transaction for $150.00; $2.00 down and the rest payable in short term notes.

This is the difference between a financier and the common nutt who would buy the business.

It is thus readily apparent that a financier is a very great man and should be treated with respect. Financiers have done this world a great deal of good by coaxing money out of stockings and old stoves and setting it to work. So long as the rest of the world keeps on getting up early and laboring all day to produce crops and things, financiers are wonderfully prosperous and play pool for an automobile a point after their day's business is over. But if the rest of the world ever stopped working for a few years, the financier would starve to death unless some one led him out into a field and showed him how to pull carrots.

This, however does not prevent the financier from being wonderfully scornful of ordinary folks. Nothing makes one of these great men so mad as to be hauled up before a common old supreme court and asked impudent questions about his business.

When a financier gets hold of a railroad, he does wonderful things with it buying other railroads right and left increasing its capital stock and bonded indebtedness beyond all belief. When the railroad fails later on the financier lays it to government interference. It is too bad that the man who spends $11,000 a year on a $5,000 income and goes broke can't lay it to government interference and continue to be proud and haughty.

That Terrible Fatigue Can Be Overcome

A Simple Home Remedy Now Cures Lack of Energy Loss of Ambition and a Feeling of "Don't-Care."

Successful in Nearly Every Case.

That miserable nervousness and half-sick tired-all-the-time condition is due nine cases in ten to a clogged-up system. You grow irritable and despondent you lack ambition, energy seems all gone. Surest road to health is by the frequent use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills: they will make you feel like new all over in a short time.

Writing from his home in Barcelona, Mr. Frederick G. Mayer states: "I think no one ever suffered so severely as I did for nearly six months. So many serious symptoms were developing as a consequence of this evil condition of my system that I realized I must find a remedy. The strong pills of various kinds I tried seemed after their first effects were over to make me far worse and I did not know which way to turn for relief. I saw Dr. Hamilton's Pills advertised and the first box used satisfied me. I found a true remedy. Instead of griping with undue activity, Dr. Hamilton's Pills acted as naturally as if physic had not been taken. I never had to increase the dose and, indeed, within a month I reduced it, and when the system finally acted of its own accord as a result of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, I took a dose twice a week only, just to make sure the old conditions would not come back."

No other remedy cures constipation and biliousness so easily or safely as Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they are an ideal family remedy for all diseases of the stomach, liver and bowels. Sold in 25c. boxes, five for $1.00, all druggists and storekeepers or The Cetrarhzone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

THE CORNER OF BATES' HILL & HENRY STREET, ST. JOHN'S, Nfld.

Board of Trade and Government.

TWO IMPORTANT MATTERS.

Editor Evening Telegram.
 Dear Sir,—Please publish the enclosed letter in your issue of Monday, May 11th, and oblige.
 Yours very truly,
 ERNEST A. PAYN,
 Secretary-Treasurer.
 St. John's, May 9th.

Hon. J. R. Bennett,
 Acting Prime Minister.

Dear Sir,—The Council of the Board of Trade is strongly impressed with the great importance of a survey of the Coast of Labrador for our fishing industry.

In June, 1912, the following resolution was passed:

"WHEREAS, the Council of the Board of Trade learn with great regret that the Admiralty has decided to withdraw H.M.S. Survey Ship Elinor from Newfoundland waters after the present season;
 "AND WHEREAS, the Council were under the impression that it was the intention to continue the survey until the coast of Labrador had been properly charted, and are extremely disappointed to learn that this very important work will not be undertaken.

"The importance of a complete modern survey of the coast of Labrador does not need accentuating. The coast is visited by about 17,000 of our people every year in the pursuit of the fisheries. Off the Northern Labrador Coast large banks are known to exist, where fish is found in great abundance, but which banks have never been delineated. The probability of large lumber and pulp industries and mining ventures being entered shortly make the presence of valuable shipping on the coast necessary.

"The Council are therefore of opinion that the survey is of the greatest possible importance to the Colony, and they take this opportunity of urging on the Government the need of opening negotiations with the Imperial authorities for the carrying out of this very desirable object."

"When it was known that the Imperial Government would positively not consider the continuation of the survey, representations were made, by personal interview with the Prime Minister, Rt. Hon. Sir E. P. Morris, urging that the Colony should undertake the work and suggesting that perhaps the Canadian and Imperial Governments would help in defraying the cost.

Lieut. Rupert Jones and Shankland, of H.M.S. Elinor, intimated their willingness to undertake the work, and estimated that it might be done in three or four years at an annual cost of about $10,000 per annum.

"So that for the cost of two or three miles of railway, it appears that this most important work could be done. The Council is informed that it might still be possible to secure the services of Lieut. Rupert Jones, and begs to suggest that a telegram should be sent to Sir E. P. Morris, asking him to communicate with Lieut. Rupert Jones, with a view to getting the work started without further loss of time.

"The Council is taking the liberty of sending a copy of this letter to the public press.

Yours very truly,
 For and on behalf of the Newfoundland Board of Trade,
 ERNEST A. PAYN,
 Secretary-Treasurer.
 St. John's, May 9th, 1914.

Hon. J. R. Bennett,
 Acting Prime Minister.

Dear Sir,—
 Re Duty on Codfish in Portugal.—On April 29th, 1911, the Council of the Board of Trade passed the following Resolution, and forwarded the same to the Government:

"WHEREAS, for many years past 'dry salt codfish from Great Britain and her Colonies imported into Portugal has been penalized by an excessive duty as compared with that on the same article imported from Norway. The duty on British caught fish is 39 reis per quintal, and on Norwegian fish 34 reis per quintal. At the present rate of exchange this discrimination is equal to 25c. or 1-10-12 stg. per cwt.

"AND WHEREAS, the Council of the Board of Trade are informed that Great Britain and her Colonies are by many times a much larger customer of Portugal than Norway, it would therefore appear that such a discrimination against an important British export is unfair; therefore the Council of the Board of Trade have

 "RESOLVED, that His Majesty's Government be requested to have this discrimination against British caught fish removed. Seeing the number of years British caught fish has been at a disadvantage, it would not be too much to ask that this fish should not be placed on a correspondingly more favorable basis than that from other countries.

"The Council are also of opinion that His Majesty's Government of Newfoundland should make a considerable reduction in the present rate of duty on crude corkwood and wines imported from, and the product of Portugal; or even place them on the free list if essential for the satisfactory conclusion of the above negotiations. Port Wine matured in Newfoundland has a wide reputation for excellence of quality, and if placed on the free list a largely increased trade might be developed."

On March 31st, 1913, the matter was again brought to the notice of the Government, followed on April 4th, 1913, by particulars of our trade with Portugal.

In November of the same year the Council wrote to the Board of Trade in Nova Scotia, asking that body to enlist the services of the Canadian Government in an endeavor to get this onerous differential duty removed.

From an Oporto letter published in the 'Economist' of April 18th, it appears that negotiations may be in process at this time between the Imperial and Portugal Governments, and the Council, therefore, begs to suggest that a telegram be sent to Sir E. P. Morris requesting him to use his best endeavors, while in London, to secure fair treatment for our staple in the Portuguese markets.

The Council suggests also that when telegraphing, the attention of Sir E. P. Morris might be called to the letter in the 'Economist'.
 The Council is taking the liberty of sending a copy of this letter to the public press.

Wedding Bells.

BURSEY-CULL.
 A quiet but pretty wedding took place at Caplin Cove, B. de V., on May 3rd, at the Methodist Church, when Mr. A. Bursey, son of Mr. Geo. Bursey, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Miss Florence May Cull, daughter of Mr. H. Thomas Cull. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. H. Browning. The bride was attired in handsome pale blue satin, trimmed with silk lace and white silk bridal veil. Miss H. G. Cull, sister of the groom, and Miss H. O. Young, the Church of England teacher, acted as bridesmaids. Mr. W. G. Cull, brother, assisted by Mr. Wm. Bursey, supported the groom. Following the ceremony the happy couple were greeted by volleys of musketry from the Church to their home. A grand reception was held which was kept up till late in the night. The happy couple were the recipients of many valuable presents from their friends. The friends and relatives wish them many years of unclouded happiness.—Com.

"Boy Drivers."

Editor Evening Telegram.
 Dear Sir,—According to an item in your paper of yesterday, the Council are going to enforce the law relative to the driving and care of horses, and to prohibit "boys" under 18 from following that occupation.
 Does anything sound more absurd or ridiculous? Does the Council think that there are no "boys" at 17 or 18 capable of taking care of a horse? or, would not the citizens of St. John's prefer to have a good sensible boy, who knows how to drive and care for a horse, than to have a man of say 40 or 50 years old, who perhaps never saw a horse in his life. I would like for some one to point out to me where age counts against experience in this line of business, and whether they would prefer to have a good boy driver to protect our lives, than an old inexperienced man, who would not know what side of the street to drive on.

Truly yours,

A Puritan Episode at the Crescent.

A strong drama in which many of the famous Eclair performers, including Mildred Bright and Bob Frazen appears, is "A Puritan Episode," one of the best two-reelers seen in St. John's for some time. The story leads to the Puritan days of America and is intensely interesting. "Jane of the Moth-Eaten Farm," George Tucker's great Burlesque, featuring Jane Gail and William Shay. Another extra good comedy is "Mr. Dooley referees the Big Fight," the funniest picture in the film world. Sidney Earnshaw, the vocalist, is a general favorite with the Crescent patrons, and in singing "That Song Divine" will be heard in one of his best renditions. Be with the crowd at the Crescent Picture Palace, The House of Features; afternoon and evening performances.

Something to do.

Oh, ye who complain of the grind, remember these words (which are true!) The dearest job one can find is looking for something to do. Sometimes, when my work seems a crime, and I'm sorely tempted to do nothing, I think of the time when I was out hunting a job. I walked eighty miles every day, and climbed forty thousand high stairs, and people would shoo me away, and pelt me with inkstands and chairs. And then naught of comfort or ease; I made me a bed in the park, for supper chewed bark from the trees. I looked through the windows at men who tackled their oysters and squabs, and probably grumbled again because they were tired of their jobs. And I was out there in the rain, with nothing to eat but my shoe, and filled with a maddening pain because I had nothing to do. And now when I'm tempted to raise the grand hailing sign of distress, I think of those sorrowful days, and then I feel better. I guess. I go at my labors again with energy vital and new, and say, as I toll in my den, "Thank God, I have something to do!"

DUBLIN, May 10. The custom authorities to-day seized twenty cases of arms on board the steamer Lord Charlemont, from Baltimore. The contents of the cases were described in the invoices as sewing pieces manufactured in the States. They were consigned to an English firm at Wolverhampton, for delivery at Dublin. The steamer sailed from Baltimore, April 18th, and arrived at Belfast, May 4th, where she discharged part of her cargo.

LONDON, May 10.

Reynold's newspaper states on the highest authority that the Government has decided to ask the Commons to sit continuously in order to complete the programme of legislation, outlined in the King's Speech and the Budget. Lloyd George is confident that he will be able to carry all bills necessary in order that the Budget proposals may materialize without an autumn session. A statement from the Premier concerning the course to be adopted in order to secure the passage of bills, with as much of an agreement as is possible, is expected on Monday.

NAPLES, May 10.

A series of earthquakes in Eastern Sicily has killed many persons and destroyed or wrecked a number of villages. The disturbances began last night and continued to-day. Property damage runs into millions. There were three heavy shocks. Lincera was destroyed. Many were caught under falling debris and were killed.

Forty deaths are reported and forty injured. Trains were derailed, and heavy freight cars lifted upwards as though by some gigantic hand. Many people in Catania rushed from their homes and spent the night in the fields, or on their knees in the cathedrals. At Acireals a hundred were killed and many injured. Hundreds of houses were wrecked. Acireals is a seaport town, of 27,000 people, well built, at the base of Mount Etna. Every road leading to the city to-day was choked with sobbing refugees, fleeing from their homes. Lincera, with a population of 900, and Venenera with 2,000, are completely destroyed, whilst hundreds of houses are wrecked in other villages.

LONDON, May 10. The feeling that events must take their course during the next few weeks, and that little or nothing will result from alleged conversations, is reflected in nearly all the journalistic contributions on the Home Rule question. Objections are raised on all sides to the idea that the Ulster spectre can be laid pending the adoption of a general federal legislation. It is recognized by experienced parliamentary hands that any federal scheme would prove so stupendous and complicated a task as to require a lengthy period of discussion, during which the Irish party would refuse to wait for the inclusion of Ulster. Conservative politicians are expressing doubts as to Federalist proposals, whilst Nationalist members are resenting the exploitation of such an excuse for modifying the Home Rule Bill. T. P. O'Connor, writing in Reynold's Weekly, declares that the friends of Ireland must not allow the federalist ideas to be exploited for the purpose of emasculating the Bill. He further advises one clear policy, which all parties are now crystallizing, that is that the bill in its present shape ought to go on the Statute Book, after which an amendment to the Bill may be expected, inserting the Government's provisions, and giving every country in Ulster the option of exclusion for a limited period. The Sunday Observer, which is really the weekly edition of the Pall Mall Gazette, says that the Unionist Party, by lapse of its power, will compel a dissolution. It has lost all parliamentary influence in the course of events and the policy of the Opposition is to be dependent on the initiative of Ulster. This throws the onus on Carson rather than on Bonar Law, with about Ulster through. It will rest with the former, whether Ulster will remain quiet for the period between the passage of the Bill and the appeal to the electorate.

CALANIA, Sicily, May 10.

The great earthquake last night brought death and destruction to many villages near Mount Etna. The number of dead up to this evening is officially placed at 130, with about 350 injured. A large portion of the devastated territory has not yet been inspected. The afflicted zone extends from Zaffarana, the highest village of Mount Etna, to the sea between Acireals on the south and Giarre on the north, and includes Lincera, the centre of the disturbance, and Santa Venenera. In Lincera alone 110 persons were killed and 300 injured. In the village of Bongiarda 13 are dead and 27 injured have been taken from the ruins. At Cosentini 16 were killed and many injured. These villages and many smaller places were practically levelled. Automobiles which made trips through the devastated regions, were often forced to make long detours, owing to deep fissures across the roads. The enormous force of the earthquake was evident everywhere, and the entire district presented a spectacle of desolation, ruin and death. Passants rushed to meet the automobiles, imploring aid. From the debris anguishing cries could still be heard; others asked that their injured relatives be removed to Catania, as all the train service has been abandoned owing to the collapse of bridges, broken tracks and obstructed tunnels. For centuries this region has suffered from the activities of Mount Etna, yet it is relatively thickly populated, owing to its fertile soil. Near the central point of disturbance dozens of bodies were observed along the road. Many of them were unrecognizable and were badly crushed. Heart-rending lamentations rose on all sides from the injured as they lay in the open awaiting assistance, which had been sent them. The houses which did not collapse entirely were so broken as to emphasize the completeness of the disaster. The village consisted of about 800 inhabitants, but a majority of the people escaped because the shock occurred when the men and some of the women were working in the fields. From the vineyards they saw their houses falling like a pack of canvas, and when they arrived breathless at their homes they found only wreckage and some of their people buried beneath. This accounts for the fact that most of the victims at Lincera were women and children. The men, wild with terror and grief, attacked the debris with their bare hands in an effort to save their wives and children.

VERA CRUZ, May 10.

"President Huerta has mined the streets of his capital, and if he is overthrown he plans to wreck the city, and make the world gasp at the catastrophe that marks his downfall." This is the amazing story brought here by Oscar Brain, a prominent mining man of Caxco. "Huerta has reason to prepare for the end," said Brain, to-day. Salpata and Salgada have 40,000 men massed south of the capital. Figueroa holds the district west of the city with 6,000 men, and the Americans are on the east. Coming down from the north are Villa's soldiers. Huerta has stopped drinking during the afternoon, but that he must be crazy is heard on every side in Mexico. He has had all the dynamite from the pachuta brought to the capital. This was paraded thro' the principal streets in twenty wagons, and then distributed between the National Palace and the Citadel. He has had trenches dug in the streets, and these have been mined with six tons of giant powder. Meanwhile he is fortifying and provisioning the National Palace and the Citadel. He is also planting heavy artillery at Guadalupe, and in one of these strongholds he will make his last stand. If overcome, he says, the world will gasp at the events of the catastrophe. Many other refugees confirm Brain's statements that Huerta's end is near at hand, and that he is confronted by these alternatives—fleeing to the Americans who are the only ones who will spare his life, dying in the ruins of his capital, or at the hands of a rebel firing squad. Most refugees believe Huerta's fate will be determined within a week.

Where Responsibility Lies

No matter how large, or how small, a business may be, nobody can deny that its Office is the nerve centre of the firm. Every transaction, important or trivial, must be recorded at the Office. An order is received at the Office, its history is recorded at the Office, and finally payment is received at the Office. If the Office makes an error the firm stands the loss. That's why you must be sure that your office is accurate and dependably equipped for the care of all important papers. To do this effectively you need the up-to-date equipment of the "GLOBE-WEBER" SYSTEM. When sixty offices in St. John's have found this necessary this equipment can surely be of use to you. Mr. Percie Johnson represents this world known firm in Newfoundland. Apply.

Big Feature Story at the Nickel.

"The Artist's Great Madonna" will be presented at the Nickel Theatre this evening. It is a two-reel feature by the Vitagraph Co. of America, and is a particularly good story. It has been pronounced one of the best ever seen.

There was a shortage of fresh beef in the city on Saturday and in consequence the victuallers stores closed earlier than usual at night. Owing to the scarcity the article was retailed during the week end, beef-steak being offered at 35 cents per pound and even at that figure customers were found ready to buy. By the Morwenna, which is due here Saturday next, a cargo of cattle will arrive.
