THE HEIR OF Lancewood

CHAPTER XXXV.

"And my reward?" he said. "How I have loved you! I cannot remember an hour, a day, a moment of my life that has not been filled with thoughts of you. I seem to have lived so entirely in my love that I know nothing outside it. Had you asked me for my life, I would have given it."

"You have given me your honor and your honesty," she remarked sadly—"that is more than enough."

"I dare to ask you for your love," he continued, "because I know what the love of men is, and I know that no creature living will love you as I do."

She laid her hand on his and looked at him with pity in her face.

"My poor Gerald," she said, "do you not see that, even were there no other obstacle, you yourself have placed an insuperable one between us?"

"I?" he cried.

"Yes, you—by this very sin. Even had I loved you—which I tell you frankly I do not—this sin would have raised a barrier between us. You and I could not share together the inheritance that we have taken from another."

"Then you will not—you will never love me?" he said.

"No; my love is no longer mine to give—even were it so, it would never be given to you."

"Then may Heaven help me," he cried bitterly, "for I have sinned and suffered in vain!"

CHAPTER XXVI.

Vivien and Gerald Dorman had forgotten Mr. Greston, who had finished his paper, and had been more than once to the window to look at them. He thought it rather strange, that long, earnest consultation between the stately heiress of Lancewood and the young secretary—he would have thought it stranger still had he heard the matter discussed.

"I have sinned and suffered in vain," repeated Gerald Dorman.

"Not altogether in vain," said Miss Neslie; "you have rendered me good service—and you have rendered good service to Lancewood."

"It was all for you—for no one else," he told her; "and now you hate me for it."

"Nay," she replied, "I do not hate you—I am grateful to you. I have a kindly liking for you. You have proved yourself in every way my true, devoted friend—for that I thank you; but there never could have been any thought of love between us, even had I cared for no one else."

"Never?" he said, mournfully.

"Would nothing have won you—would nothing have made you care for me?"

"Not in that way," she replied;

"and, Gerald, I have still more to say."

A feeling of utter despair came over him. She laid her hand on his. It was cold as death.

"It is something that must be said," she continued. "Gerald, we have sinned—I in thought and word, you in deed—for the sake of pleasing me, I because of my pride. We have sinned grievously, and henceforward the sight of you will be a terror to me. Knowing the terrible bond between us, I could never talk or laugh with you. The very sight of you would be a perpetual and terrible reminder to me of my sin."

"Then I must leave you?" he said.

"You must leave Lancewood. I am grieved to say it, but it must be so. The sin has been committed, the evil done. I refuse to undo it; but I could not bear to live with the one who has shared my guilt—you must go."

"I might have foreseen it," he moaned.

"Imagine," she said, with white lips, "you and me talking, joining in careless conversation, sitting at the same table, with this horrible sense of guilt between us—this story of a stolen child and a stolen inheritance! It could never be."

"I see it. I have suffered in vain. I have loved you all my life—you have been my very life; but I must crown my love by the greatest of all sacrifices—I must leave you."

Before she had time to reply, Mr. Greston walked across the terrace and joined them.

"You are admiring the beautiful night," he said. "No wonder. I think a summer night the most beautiful thing in nature." Even as he spoke he felt startled at the sight of the two haggard white faces.

"It is growing cold," said Miss Neslie. "How quickly the dew falls! I think we will go indoors."

Her color returned, her eyes lost their dim, dazed look. She had a secret to keep, and she determined to keep it well. "It is for the honor of Lancewood," she said to herself, and then shrank within herself at the false words. In one sense the honor of Lancewood was destroyed for evermore.

There was no opportunity of speaking to Gerald again that evening, and the night Vivien spent was one of the darkest and most terrible of her life.

It was over at last, and morning dawned. It brought her a letter from Lord St. Just—a loving, tender, earnest letter—that brought a soft blush to her face, a bright love-light to her eyes—a letter in which he told her that he had waited until he could wait no longer—that now, owing to the unfortunate death of the little heir, Lancewood was hers, the only objection she had to their marriage removed.

"I did not tell you," he wrote, "how keen and terrible the disappointment was to me—almost more than I could bear; but for your sake I bore it. Now it is ended. You shall do with Lancewood as you will; but you must be what I long to make you—my darling, my beloved wife."

It was a letter that might have made any woman that read it proud of the writer's fervent love and entire devotion—proud that such a noble heart was her own. Even as Vivien read it she knew and said to herself that the union could never take place; with her terrible secret weighing down heart and soul, she could never marry him.

Should she—and the temptation was strong—relent, send for the child and make peace with her own soul, and marry Adrian? Up rose a host of objections—mildly triumphant return, Lancewood given up to folly and dissipation. No; she held its honor firmly in her own hands now, and she would keep it so.

Vigorol

VIGOROL, the Great French Tonic, is opposed to disease; therefore it finds it out and drives it away. Your nerves are toned up. Your bowels made healthy and strong. Your blood purified. The kidneys and liver cleaned. Headaches, biliousness, and that heavy, tired feeling, will go. You will feel like a new person. Don't be fooled—get VIGOROL, and you will never regret it. Sold at all drug stores.

"Gerald," said Miss Neslie, "will you come to the library? I wish to speak to you."

He went. She seated herself at a writing-table, with an open letter in her hand.

"Sit down by me," she said. "I want to talk to you. You thought I was hard upon you last night. I could perceive that you did. I want to show you that you will not have to suffer alone. See," she continued—

"This letter is from the man I love better than all the world. He asked me some time since to marry him, but for the love of Lancewood I refused. I told him that I remained there as the guardian of the honor of my name—that I could never leave it; and, though he took my refusal seriously to heart, he seemed to understand. He loved me so well," she continued, with a softened voice, "that for my sake he would have remained unmarried forever. Now he has written to me, and he says in his letter that the only hindrance to our marriage being removed, he wishes me to become his wife."

Although the fire of jealousy burned like a fierce fever within Gerald Dorman, he loved her so well that he forgot himself—forgot everything except that she was in trouble.

"Let me show you, Gerald," she went on, "that you will not suffer alone. I am going to answer this letter, and I shall tell the writer—the man whom I love with so great a love—that I can never be his wife—never while the world stands—that there is an insuperable barrier between us. My pain will be as great as yours."

He loved her so well that he even pleaded against himself.

"Why should you do it?" he asked. "Why should you not marry him?"

"With the black shadow of a terrible sin resting upon me? No—a thousand times no! I love him too well. I am guilty of a crime. He shall not marry a criminal. The nobles of women would not be noble enough for him."

"But," said Gerald, "what will you do with your life?"

An expression of rapt thought—of patient devotion—came over her face.

"I shall spend it," she said, "in atonement. So far as in me lies, I will make up for the evil I have done. I will not live for myself—for my own pleasure—for my own indulgence; I will live for the good of others. Gerald, you will hear of churches being built, of schools established, of hospitals erected—of the poor, the aged, and the sorrowing finding help and succor. When you hear of all this, say to yourself, 'That is Vivien Neslie's atonement for a wrong done.'"

"Undo the wrong," he said, quickly, "rather than sadden your life."

"No. I have thought it over well. I shall never undo that. It must remain as it is, but I will do my best to make amends. I will do all the good that lies in my power. I will spend the princely revenues of Lancewood in charity and benevolence, but I will not restore to the child of a strolling player the right that should never have been his."

"And you will never marry?" he interrogated, slowly.

"No, I shall never marry," she replied.

"What will become of Lancewood then?" he asked.

"It will pass to the other branch of the Neslies. I know them—they are simple, loyal, honest people—I shall send for their eldest son in a few years' time, and make him my heir. At least, I shall have a gentleman to succeed me. Lancewood will not be the prey of Lady Neslie and her friends."

"It is a cruel decision," said Gerald, sadly.

"I have done cruel wrong," she replied.

pled. "And now, Gerald, we have to discuss your departure. I have told you this only to show you that you will not suffer alone."

It was some days before Gerald left, and to him that parting had all the bitterness of death. Yet he saw that it must be. He saw that Vivien would never feel happy or at ease with him again. The sound of his voice, the sight of him, brought an expression of pain over her face—her voice took quite another tone in speaking to him. All the intimacy of their friendship was at an end. Between them lay the shadow of sin. He must go. He had imperiled his soul for Lancewood, but Lancewood was no longer a home for him.

There was great wonder expressed on all sides when it was known that Gerald Dorman was going to leave Lancewood; but it was generally understood that Miss Neslie did not require his services, as she preferred to keep the management of matters in her own hands. Mr. Greston thought it rather a pity that Miss Neslie should lose such a valuable and trustworthy friend, but did not interfere.

So the day came when Gerald Dorman left all his hopes and happiness behind him. For long years afterwards the memory of that parting remained with him—it broke his heart in the end.

He had made all arrangements about the sending of the money to his brother for the care and education of little Oswald, and Gerald had deferred the parting with Vivien until the last moment—he dared not trust himself with her, but when the carriage stood at the door, and his luggage was all placed within it, he went in search of Miss Neslie.

She was waiting for him in the library, where they had spent so many hours together. Without a word he held out his hands to her, she clasped them in her own. He tried to speak to her, but his lips quivered, and tears that were no disgrace to his manhood stood in his eyes.

"You are going, Gerald," she said, sadly. "My faithful friend, I shall find no one to take your place."

"No one ever will," he answered, hoarsely; "no one will ever love you as I do; no one will ever be so ready to lay down life and love for you as I am."

"I know it," she said. "You have been one of the truest of friends to me; but we must part that we may try to forget. Gerald, will you tell me where you are going?"

"Yes," he replied; "I shall go to my brother in America. I shall not stay in England; and, Miss Neslie, promise me—we none of us know what the future holds for us—that if you want a friend you will send for me."

"I promise," she said; and bending down, she touched his bowed head with her lips.

He would have suffered twice as much for such a reward.

"Good-bye. Heaven bless you!" she said, in a low, faltering voice.

"You have been my greatest friend—I have been your worst enemy. Good-bye."

And the next moment Gerald Dorman had left Lancewood forever.

OFFICIAL.

LONDON, August 26.—The Governor, Newfoundland, today destroyed a German submarine, the single handed, by bombs dropped from an aeroplane. The submarine sank off Ostend.

The following is the official statement respecting the Dardanelles Operations since August 6th: The first two lines of attack, the one from the old Anzac position, and the second from the new landing at La Bay. Severe fighting and losses on both sides resulted. Objectives are not yet gained, the area held by us has greatly increased. The Anzac attack on the summit of Sari Bair and Çemberlince has been effectively solidated. The ground gained on the Suvla-Anzac line to be connected upon a front of over 10 miles. Renewed attack on the advanced the Anzac front, where, being unable to occupy summits, we withdrew to the old front.

No special news from the Russian front.

BONAR LAW.

EARL SELBORNE FORESHAM CONSCRIPTION.

LONDON, August 26.—

Something in the nature of a description, though the term was employed, was foreshadowed by Selborne, President of the Board of Agriculture, in an address this noon to a deputation of agricultural land owners, which took place in London.

"Many more men have to join the army, whether voluntarily or compulsorily, said the Earl.

"The cultural laborers have done their part ably in this war, but there have been very unequal over-cultivation."

Earl Selborne emphasized the fact that Russia's reverse posed a great strain on the shoulders at the present time.

"We have a greater burden than six months ago," he said.

Financial strain is going to be great, and the situation is going to demand from every class greater sacrifices."

The Earl stated that the navy had the same menaced well in hand. The present lends color to recent reports to the effect that the navy have of late months captured a large number of these submarines, and that many others have been since the beginning of the war, which official reports, however, counted for but one German submarine which is announced to-day, though there have been vague rumors of submarines being sunk or sunk by unarmored ships in the fish channel, and, in one instance, reward offered by the Admiralty for sinking a submarine has been to a British merchantman, the LATEST From the Front.

Messages Received Previous to 9 A.M.

OFFICIAL.
LONDON, Aug. 26.
The Governor, Newfoundland, has received from the Admiralty a message from the Commander Bigsworth to-day destroyed a German submarine single handed, by bombs dropped from an aeroplane. The submarine sank off Ostend.
The following is the official statement respecting the Bardanelles Operations since August 6th comprised two lines of attack, the first from the old Anzac position, and the second from the new landing at Suvla Bay. Severe fighting and heavy losses on both sides resulted. Our objectives are not yet gained, though the area held by us has greatly increased. The Anzac attack reached the summit of Saribar and Chanaikar ridge, but as the Suvla attack did not make the expected progress, the actual crest is not held. Positions below the crest are effectively consolidated. The ground gained enabled the Suvla-Anzac line to be connected upon a front of over twelve miles. Renewed attack on the 21st advanced the Anzac front. Elsewhere, being unable to occupy the summits, we withdrew to the original front.
No special news from the French or Russian fronts.
The Italian Government report the capture of the head of Strino Valley to the Tonale zone.

EARL SELBORNE FORESHADOWS CONSCRIPTION.

LONDON, Aug. 26.
Something in the nature of a conscription, though the term was not employed, was foreshadowed by Earl Selborne, President of the Board of Agriculture, in an address this afternoon to a deputation of agricultural land owners, which visited him in London. "Many more men have got to join the army, whether voluntary or compulsory," said the Earl. "Agricultural laborers have done their part nobly in this war, but responses have been very unequal over the country. I forecast that during next year, men will be taken from districts and from farms, where, hitherto they have not gone. What I shall aim at, and to which Lord Kitchener has been very sympathetic, is to leave to farmers his foreman, stockman and carters, but the rest of the work will have to be done by women or men not presently engaged in agriculture." Earl Selborne emphasized the fact that Russia's reverses imposed a great strain on the Allies. "We have a greater burden on our shoulders at the present moment than six months ago," he said. "The financial strain is going to be very great, and the situation is going to demand from every class greater and greater sacrifices." The speaker stated that the navy had the submarine menace well in hand. This statement lends color to recent unofficial reports to the effect that the British have of late months captured a very large number of these submarines, and that many others have been sunk since the beginning of the war. British official reports, however, have accounted for but one German submarine besides the one, the destruction of which is announced to-day. Although there have been vague references to submarines being rammed or sunk by unarmed ships in the British channel, and, in one instance, a reward offered by the Admiralty for sinking a submarine has been paid to a British merchantman, there have been no official intimation as to what method, offensive or defensive, has been taken by the British Navy against the submarines, although the Admiralty previously announced its satisfaction with these measures. Returning Americans have described the new British sport of submarine hunting, and have said that great numbers of small high-powered and very speedy motor boats, mounting guns of small calibre, constantly scoured the coastal waters of Britain for months. There also have been repeated stories of an extensive system of submarine nets in the Channel waters, and even that one submarine net extends entirely across the English Channel with guard boats at the opening. It is a notable fact that for nearly a year the Franco-British naval transport service across the Channel, by means of which hundreds of thousands of troops have been transported, has been maintained without, so far as is known, a single troopship having been sunk by a submarine in these waters.

TRANSFER OF FACTORIES.

LONDON, Aug. 26.
Official announcements have been made between the Army Council and the Ministry of Munitions, for the transfer to the latter of the control of the Royal Ordnance factories during the war.

AEROPLANE DESTROYS GERMAN SUBMARINE.

LONDON, Aug. 26.
The Admiralty announces that Squadron Commander Bigsworth, R.N., destroyed, single handed, a German submarine this morning by bombs dropped from an aeroplane. The submarine was observed to be completely wrecked, and sunk off Ostend. It is not the practice of the Admiralty to publish statements regarding losses by German submarines. In the present case, however, the brilliant feat of Squadron Commander Bigsworth was performed in the immediate neighborhood of a coast in occupation of the enemy, and the position of the sunken submarine has been located by a German destroyer.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

BERLIN, Aug. 26.
The Associated Press is in a position to state on the best authority that the Arabic incident may be considered as eliminated as any source of discord between Germany and the United States, or, at least, as regarded the brilliant feat of Squadron Commander Bigsworth, in its desire to continue friendly relations with the United States, had adopted the policy designed to settle completely the whole submarine problem, as affecting the United States, on a basis of good-will and mutual understanding.

RESUMPTION OF HOSTILITIES.

NISSA, Serbia, Aug. 26.
Further skirmishes between the Austrians and the Serbians have marked a resumption of hostilities on this front. The following official statement was issued to-day, August 22: "By infantry fire, we prevented the enemy from fortifying himself on the left bank of the Sava, in the neighborhood of Orachatz and Drenitz. On the same evening one of our batteries shelled a hostile detachment near Bortza and a battery of the enemy which at that moment was going into action."

GREEK PARLIAMENT ADJOURNED.

LONDON, Aug. 26.
To-day's sitting of the Greek Parliament was devoted to the selection of a President and Clerks. According to a despatch to Reuters' Telegram Company, from Athens, there were interpellations by the opposition and independents. Deciding it would be inadvisable to press Premier Venizelos to make an announcement regarding the foreign policy while negotiations of vital importance were in progress, the Parliament adjourned until August 30th.

GREEK FORCES TO MOBILIZE.

ROME, Aug. 26.
A report from Venice says that general mobilization of the Greek forces is being imminent.

FRENCH OFFICIAL.

PARIS, Aug. 26.
The French War Office statement says that during a part of last night there were artillery exchanges and fighting with hand grenades and other explosives in the Artois district. In the vicinity of Souchez and Neuville and around Roye there has been a continued marked activity on the part of the enemy artillery as well as our own. In the Arras district in the sector of Laffite Morle yesterday there was fairly severe fighting with bombs and hand grenades. Nothing of importance has been reported from the remainder of the front.

DETAILS OF NAVAL FIGHT.

PARIS, Aug. 26.
Details of the action in which a German torpedo boat destroyer was sunk by a French destroyer on the night of August 22, is contained in a despatch from Dunkirk. The German destroyer was more powerful than the French destroyer, the despatch avows, and the commander of the French boat asked for wireless assistance. He did not wait for the arrival of help, however, but engaged the German craft. The French boat fired first and scored a hit. She then launched a torpedo which sank her adversary. After the first shot took effect, the damaged German vessel limped toward Ostend where the German coast battery fired at the French destroyer, but succeeded only in preventing the rescue of the crew of the sinking German boat. The second French destroyer, which came in reply to the call for help, arrived only in time to see the German vessel go down.

GERMAN CRUISER SUNK.

LONDON, Aug. 26.
A Paris despatch to the Star says confirmation has been received of the report that a Russian submarine on Monday sank the German cruiser Augsburg, in the Baltic, north of Danzig.

Hard Training at Aldershot.

Badajos Barracks, Aldershot, England.
My Dear Sister Sarah.—Just a line to let you know that we have left Scotland and are now at Aldershot about 24 miles south west of London. Aldershot is the principal military city of England where all troops get equipped before they go to the front. There are barracks buildings enough here if they were all put into a line they would extend for twenty-nine miles. Each one is called by a different name, generally the name of battles fought and after some brave General. We are staying in Badajos Barracks, this is called after a great battle fought by Wellington over the French. Wellington Barracks is just a few yards from this one, it is a beautiful place. This place is far better than at Edinburgh as regards comfort in our quarters, beds and all are up to date, but the military training is far harder than any we have done yet, have to shift clothes every time we come off parade owing to sweating so much. About 50 of us came here. Left Stob's Camp Friday evening, we acted as the advance guard to come and get things fitted up for the main body. The main body came here yesterday, August 3rd. To-day is the anniversary of the beginning of the war. To-day a year ago Great Britain declared war on Germany. Well, here is the place for to see all kinds of soldiers, I mean their suits of togs. There is here at the present time two hundred and fifty thousand. The first day we came here there were two aeroplanes flying over the barracks. I saw one again Sunday and two again to-day when we were out skirmishing. They fly over the barracks and skimming the grounds to see how near down they can get to soldiers to recognize them as they lie on the ground etc.

TRUE GREATNESS.

When information we would take concerning great men here, we first inquire how much they make—how many bones a year. How oft we read of some rich lad who rose from low estate; for years he chased the shining seal, and now he's truly great. He has five millions put away, and will have more I guess; and it's superfluous to say that this is true success. O Post, cease your lays to sing, and break your harp to-day! Here comes the wealthy guano king, who has the right of way. O Painter, throw away your brush, richer in art on Hasben street, and join the surging throngs that rush to kneel at Croesus' feet. Inventor, with the pale, white brow, and plans beyond compare, don't bore us with your pipe dreams now—here comes a millionaire! The moralist, in keen distress, surveys this sordid earth, where there's no standard of success, save what a man is worth. The wonder is we can admire the man that Lincoln was, who had for money no desire, and fought in virtue's cause.

St. John's Win Final Game.
The third and final game between St. John's and Grand Falls resulted in a win for the home team by 8 to 4. McHenry and Berge, who did such effective work Wednesday last, were batters for the visitors. Mr. Montgomery choose Ford and King to go in the box for the locals. After a period Cooney, who is said to be able to play any position on the diamond well, replaced Ford and got in some clever work. Both teams were in excellent form and the exhibition was much enjoyed by the large number of fans present. The score by innings was:—
St. John's . . . 2 0 0 3 2 0 1 0 x-8
Grand Falls . . . 1 1 1 0 0 0 0 0-4
The players were:—
Grand Falls pitcher King
McHenry catcher Ford
Fortier 1 base Hiltz
Toranzo 2 base Callahan
Slocum 3 base Britt
Crawley s. stop McLeod
Shroat r. field Haydett
Fitcher c. field McCandle
McVane 1. field Cooney
*Ford and Cooney reversed positions in the fifth.
Mr. P. E. Outerbridge was official scorer. Umpires: Messrs St. James (G. F.), Chesman (City).
The visiting team played the game in sportsmanlike fashion and had the sympathy of many of the fans. The city will now have to face the Bell Island boys. The winners will become possessors of the Reid Cup for this year.

Food for the Business Trenches

It takes the highest type of nerve and endurance to stand the strain at the battle front of modern business.

Many fail. And often the cause is primarily a physical one—improper food—malnutrition. It is a fact that much of the ordinary food is lacking in certain elements—the mineral salts—which are essential to right building of muscle, brain and nerve tissue.

Grape-Nuts

made of whole wheat and barley, contains these priceless nerve- and brain-building elements in highest degree.

Grape-Nuts food is easy to digest—nourishing—economical—delicious, and as a part of the menu of modern business men and women helps wonderfully in building up the system for strenuous demands—and keeping it there.

A Nfld. Aerial Flotilla.

The Secretary of the Overseas Club, which is raising a fund and presenting aeroplanes to the Royal Flying Corps, in a letter to the Secretary of the Newfoundland Aeroplane Fund, says: "It may interest your Committee to know that the largest amount contributed for aeroplanes from any part of the Empire was from Newfoundland. This is a most pleasing acknowledgment of the response which Newfoundlanders have made to the appeal of the Aeroplane Committee. There is a balance in hand of $23,261.14, which it was intended to devote to the purchase of machines for the Newfoundland Regiment. The War Office was communicated with through His Excellency the Governor, and in reply the War Office stated that the Newfoundland Regiment was equipped with machine guns to the same extent as the regiments with which it was brigaded, and that it was not feasible to equip them differently to other brigades. The situation was brought to the notice of the Committee at Grand Falls, which had allocated a large part of their subscriptions to the purchase of special purpose of machine guns. The Grand Falls Committee met and passed a resolution authorizing the diversion of that sum to the purchase of aeroplanes. Sir Edgar Bowring was also consulted, as he and Bowring Bros. had also given an extra donation of $1,500 for machine guns, and he, too, authorized the expenditure of that sum to aeroplanes. Last night, the general committee on aeroplanes, which is a committee of the Nfld. Patriotic Association, met and discussed the situation and decided to recommend to the Association the diversion of the balance to aeroplanes. This would be more than sufficient to purchase two of the large biplanes mounted with guns, which would be known as Newfoundland I, Newfoundland II, Newfoundland III, and Newfoundland IV, and also by a monoplane bearing the name "Redd Newfoundland," and these would form a real Newfoundland flotilla of aeroplanes, and would be a notable contribution to the aerial strength of the Empire.

Marine Disasters Fund

Yesterday the Committee in charge of the Permanent Marine Disasters Fund met and received the confirmation of the regulations, submitted to the Governor in Council in accordance with the Act governing the same. Although there is an average of over sixty deaths by drowning every year, the pushing of an appeal at this time is considered inadvisable, owing to the many appeals for subscriptions, which the war times are calling forth, but assistance will be given to the committee. His Excellency the Governor asked that his name be enrolled on the list and he enclosed a subscription of $100. Ex-Mayor Ellis also announced his intention to subscribe twenty dollars annually for the next five years, and no doubt others will follow their commendable example. The officers of the Sealing Disasters Committee are acting at the present time, but at the next regular meeting there will be an election of officers for the Permanent Marine Disasters Fund who will hold office until the next annual meeting in January next. Regular meetings will be held on the last Thursday of each month at 3 p.m., and emergency meetings when occasion calls for them. The Committee will take into consideration all cases arising from the inception of the fund on April 7th, 1914, which includes those connected with the loss of the Checkers and the Grand Falls. Two of the by-laws we draw special attention to.

These shall be known as Benefactors, and as such their names shall appear in the annual report. Benefactors shall have the right to be present at the regular meetings of the committee."

SUBMARINES DESTROYED AT ZEEBRUGGE.

AMSTERDAM, To-day. Concerning the recent bombardment of Zeebrugge, Belgium, by the British fleet, the Tjld says it has learned that a large number of soldiers were killed by the fire of the fleet and that 90 severely wounded men were brought to Ghent. Material damage was done, it adds. Apparently a very great shed built for submarines was completely destroyed and with it some submarines.

SUNK BY SUBMARINES.

LONDON, To-day. During the week ending August 23rd, 19 British merchant vessels with a total tonnage of 75,000 and three fishing vessels were destroyed by submarines or mines. The week was one of the most successful German underwater craft have had since the commencement of the war. Fourteen steamers with a total gross tonnage of 47,585 were sunk by German submarines. On August 19 and 20 the largest was the Arabic; ten of these vessels were British and four sailed under neutral flags.

THE CONSCRIPTION CAMPAIGN RAGES FIERCELY.

LONDON, To-day. The question of National service is daily becoming more acute from the controversial point of view. Though certain papers have striven to dissociate it from politics, the cleavage is on political lines. The Northcliffe organ is waging strong a national service campaign and is receiving a more moderately expressed support from the Morning Post, Standard and Express. The Telegraph leaves the subject alone. Arnold Bennett, in the Daily News writes that the conscription campaign is in the hands of wrong people and the careful abstention from it of influential conservative personalities constitute the most significant phenomenon that it is in the hands of people who by inaptitude and vulgarity might be trusted to ruin a far better cause. President Smith of the Miners' Federation, the most powerful trade union in Britain, interviewed by the Manchester Guardian, declares a strong opposition to the introduction of a voluntary system, concluding with the stated intention of fighting conscription to the bitter end. With such diversified opinions, the Observer thinks it the imperative duty of Ministers to insist that there shall be a restraint in the discussion. The Labor party, numbering a dozen Parliamentary leaders, is in favour of conscription. Probably the result there will have important influence upon their attitude in this respect.

REFUSED A CLEARANCE.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., To-day. The customs officials here to-day refused to grant clearance papers to the Italian liner, the Walmana from Marseilles to Buenos Ayres, after it was discovered the steamer carried a rifle, mounted on her main deck aft.

CONSIDERING THE QUESTION OF ARMED STEAMERS.

WASHINGTON, To-day. Whether the Brittanian, To-day, Walmana shall be allowed to clear from Newport News with a four inch gun, mounted on her deck aft, will be decided to-morrow at a conference between officials of the Treasury and State Departments. Under an informal agreement between the American and British Governments, entered into soon after the European war began, British vessels leaving ports in the United States are not permitted to carry mounted guns.

MILITARY DEBATE IN REICHSTAG.

BERLIN, To-day. The Reichstag to-day indulged in a military debate for the first time during the war. Only one member of the Reichstag, Herr Stuecken, took any criticism of the Government. These were of a minor character and carried no complaints and expressed no desire regarding the conduct of the war. On the contrary Herr Stuecken paid a tribute to the strategic genius of the leaders and the bravery of the troops. "May the day soon come," Herr Stuecken said in concluding, "when this murderous war will cease."

GERMANY COMES DOWN.

WASHINGTON, To-day. Two important developments to-day in the relations between the United States and Germany further reduced the tenacity of the situation and were taken to foreshadow a declaration from Berlin on the subject of submarine warfare, which would eliminate that source of discord between the two countries. Count Von Bernstorff, German Ambassador, called upon Secretary Lansing and informed him of the statement, presented on Tuesday, by direction of the Berlin Foreign Office, saying there was no intent to cause the loss of American lives when the White Star liner Arabic was destroyed. It was intended to imply the German submarine commanders had been ordered to attack no more merchantmen without warning. Ambassador Gerard, reporting from Berlin, the substance of the conference with Foreign Minister Von Jagow confirmed the Associated Press despatches early in the day from Germany. Even before the sinking of the Arabic, Germany adopted a policy designed to settle completely the whole submarine problem. The State Department did not make public Ambassador Gerard's despatch, but the optimism was immediately reflected in the State Department and at the White House and was taken as a convincing proof that the situation once threatening to break the friendly relations between two countries was on the way to a settlement.

HEAVY CASUALTIES ON GALLI-POLI PENINSULA.

LONDON, To-day. The severity of the recent fighting on the Gallipoli Peninsula is shown by the facts of the last eight days. There have been nearly 800 casualties among officers of British forces, the Australians and New Zealanders bearing the brunt of the losses. The casualty list issued yesterday contained the names of 122 officers and 1,350 men.

NOON.

LONDON, To-day. Brest Litovsk, the main Russian fortress of concentration, in the centre for the Bug line of defences, was occupied by the Austro-Germans to-day. While the Russians offered a stout resistance to the invaders during their approach to the fortress, apparently they did not attempt to defend Brest Litovsk itself, but evacuated it, as they did Ossowetz, in conformity with their intention indicated in despatches from Petrograd yesterday to take up new positions farther East. The Germans now are in possession of the whole line of railway from Cholm to Bialystok. The Russians having already evacuated the latter city, the lesser fortresses of Grodno and Orla are now the only strongly defended positions remaining in the hands of the Russians. Both these are being approached by the Germans and probably will be given up when they have fulfilled the purpose of facilitating the retreat of the Russian armies. The Russians have not yet entered the Vant Belioviezh Forest, which runs thirty miles North South and has with it from seventeen to thirty miles. The Forest is a famous hunting centre of the Russian preserves. South of it are the Pripet marshes, which protect the Russian left with plenty of roads and three or four railroad lines. It is expected here that Grand Duke Nicholas will make good his retirement if Grodno and Orla can hold out long enough. Even though they should fall into the hands of the Germans, the Duke Nicholas would be well on his way to the positions before the Germans could reach his flank, and there again make Russian preparations for a stand, but there is no indication as yet where this attempt is to be made. Aircraft signals have broken the monotony of the Western warfare. Sixty-two French aeroplanes flew over Dillingen Iron works near Saarbrücken, dropping 150 bombs. Several British aviators are reported to have succeeded in dropping bombs upon and destroyed a German submarine off Ostend. The German report says that four French machines were attacked near Saarbrücken and were brought down, others than those being falling behind the French lines. The Admiralty reports the exploit of a British airman in sinking a German submarine. It is significantly stated that it has not been the practice of the Admiralty to publish accounts regarding the losses of German submarines, important though they have been in cases, where the Germans had no other source of information of the time and place at which these losses occurred. It had been reported for months that a large number of German submarines variously stated from twenty to forty have been caught by the British navy, but to-day's statement is the only official admission. There were others than those previously announced by the Admiralty as having been destroyed. The Italians claim further minor successes on all their fronts, but these are consistently denied by the Austrians. Of the operations on the Gallipoli Peninsula which are now so important to the cause of the Allies, there is no further news. Stories of wounded men who have arrived at Alexandria tell of how nearly the allies came to gaining a great success in one of their attacks. The Australian officer declared if the allied forces had two more days' darkness, they could have covered the six hundred yards of ground which separated them from Sari Bahr, generally known as Hill 60. Once this hill was in the allied hands, the officer declared the Turkish communications would have been cut. It was for the possession of this hill the Dominion troops fought so bravely but futilely. Except for a postponement of the statement of the Greek Premier as to the future policy of Greece, there is nothing new in the Balkan situation.

ANOTHER BLOCKADE ESTABLISHED.

PARIS, To-day. The Official Journal publishes a declaration of the blockade of the coast of Asia Minor and Syria from the Island of Samos to the Egyptian frontier to date from August 25.

LOSES CERTIFICATE.

MONTREAL, To-day. The Dominion Wreck Commission's Court today rendered a decision in the case of the collision between the steamer Batiscaon of the Dominion Coal Co. and the Bengore Head of the local photographs on August 3rd. Captain Green of the Batiscaon is suspended for two years. Pilot Lachance of the Bengore Head is fined $300, while Pilot Raymond of the Bengore Head, who left the ship after the collision and went on board the Batiscaon is deprived of his license.

GERMAN SPY ARRESTED IN AMERICA.

NEW YORK, To-day. A Washington despatch says with photographs and topographical maps of Port Monroe and the new fortifications under construction at the protection of the port. Henry on his person, Gustav Kopsch, a German reservist, was arrested by the department of Justice Secret Service, last night and taken to the district jail on failure to obtain $5,000 bail. The Chief of the Bureau of Investigation says that Kopsch had had sufficient opportunity to study carefully the papers and films found on Kopsch when arrested, he had identical photographs of the fort on Port Monroe and of the new fort on the site of Cape Henry. Kopsch has been living at a boarding house, where he had broken the monotony of his life by his fellow boarders of being mysterious. Several boarders have been seen working in the garden and have dropped them to Government officials.

SPLIT IN TURKISH CABINET.

LONDON, To-day. The Times Mytilene correspondent says there has been a split in the Turkish Cabinet, owing to the persecution of Greeks and Armenians in Turkey. The Grand Vizier has declined to resign unless the reported treatment ceases. Enver Pasha, War Minister, has declined the office, and is now trying to bring about peace in the Cabinet.

THE ENTENTE AND GREECE.

PARIS, To-day. Representatives of the Entente before sinking the vessel, says from a despatch from Athens, have reached an agreement upon greater trade privileges between these countries, which is a significant impression that public opinion in Greece favors the Allies. Partisans of the Entente in Greece are now making an appeal to the Venizelos Ministry as a good augury for further negotiations.

WAR COUNCIL IN FRANCE.

PARIS, To-day. Joffre, Kitchener, General French and several other army chiefs will hold an important military conference on Monday at Chantilly, close behind the lines in Northern France. Great significance is attached to the Council.

LIVING THE WAR.

LONDON, To-day. The following are extracts from a private letter from Rudyard Kipling, who has been visiting the "French front": "I thought I realized something of the meaning of the war when I see a man only beginning to understand what France is doing. France is not merely fighting this war, she is living it. Living it with gayety and a high heart, that does not for a second conceal the cold deadly earnestness and tenacity of her purpose. I can testify that they bear themselves equally resolute without pride or self-pity."

BULGARIAN NEUTRALITY.

WASHINGTON, To-day. Unofficial advice to representatives of the Balkan nations here, say that Bulgaria has signed an agreement with Turkey which includes the provision that she remain neutral and that the attempt to form a Balkan League has failed.

AMERICANS MORE HOPEFUL.

WASHINGTON, To-day. Future relations between the United States and Germany is regarded much more hopefully here to-day than for many weeks past.

ANOTHER STRIKE IN SOUTH WALES.

McMurdo's Store News

FRIDAY, AUG. 28th, 1915. "It was just into McMurdo's to get a College Ice—very refreshing on this warm day, and noticed that they were filling up their Chocolate Case with a new lot of Willyard's Chocolates. I noticed that there was a good variety, among them the Chaperone, the Social, the Criterion, the Every Piece Different, the Smart Set and others. The clerk told me the prices go from 45c to $2.75 a box and some are crackerjacks. I had not time to wait to see the whole assortment, so simply finished my ice, got a package of Coca Cola Gum and went on. But as for Chocolates, you can't beat Willyard's."

Result of Raids is Boost in Recruiting.

But for Women and Children Britain would Say, "Thank You, Zepp."

London, August 10.—The Daily Chronicle says: "There was a spurt in recruiting yesterday. It made itself felt in many quarters, and were it not for the loss of the lives of hapless women and children we might welcome heartily the efforts of Count Zeppelin to swell the ranks of the British army."

"The scenes on the Horse Guards parade and at the central recruiting office in Scotland Yard, to say nothing about those in more remote districts, might, if they were picked up by the German wireless, instruct the Kaiser in the knowledge that the murder of women and children is exactly not the way to break the spirit of the British people."

Stricter Rules at Sayville Station.

Washington Investigating Charge That Official is in Pay of German Government.

Washington, Aug. 13.—Secretary Daniels announced to-day that he had asked John R. Rathon, publisher of the Providence, R.I., Journal, to submit any evidence he might have to substantiate a published statement credited to him that a civil employee of the Navy Department was in the pay of the German Government. Mr. Daniels also revealed that after a recent conference he had with Mr. Rathon the Department had assigned additional officers and men to the naval force operating the German-owned commercial wireless plant at Sayville, Long Island, and had ordered the most rigid precautions against the dispatch of unneutral messages in secret code. Every suspected message was ordered forwarded to the Department for examination.

N. Y. Bankers Shy at Half-Billion Loan.

Wants British Financiers to Make It $100,000,000 or $150,000,000 Instead.

New York, August 18.—A reduction in the proposed foreign loan to be floated here from the half billion dollars, first suggested, to $100,000,000 or $150,000,000, seemed probable to-night as the result of all day conferences of international financiers here, and by cable between this city and London.

Wires to England vibrated all day with questions and answers, proposals and suggestions, between bankers in this city and financiers in London, to whom the present depression in exchange markets has been a source of least apprehension for several days past. At the close of the day negotiations had not assumed concrete form.

LABOR MEN OPPOSED TO NATIONAL STRIKE.

Washington, Aug. 18.—Agitation for a national strike in munitions plants, as proposed by J. J. Keppler, Vice-President of the International Association of Machinists, was repudiated here to-day by the executive board of the Association. The board determined, however, to wage vigorously a general campaign for an eight hour day in all shops.

Unalterable opposition to the so-called scientific shop management system, installed by the Government in the arsenal at Watertown, N.Y., was determined upon to-day by the board.

A Victoria Cross Hero's Appeal.

There was a great demonstration in London early in July in honor of Sergeant Michael O'Leary, V.C., of the Irish Guards. The hero of the hour made a very short speech. This is the gist of it:

"I thank you for all your kindness. This is more than I expected from the people of London. Why? We are Irish. (Cheers.) Well, it is far more, for I have done nothing more than other men at the front have done. I don't like fuss. I don't like hand-shaking about it. I did my duty as a soldier and a man as a soldier should (Cheers.) There are many others who have fought and are fighting who have attempted and have done more than I for King and Country. I have had the luck. I thank you all for your kindness, and I say to all who are fit to serve—Don't be content with looking on and cheering. Join—give us a helping hand. Make up your minds. We want all the men we can get to put down the German hordes." (Cheers.)

Millions of Gold for Australia.

San Francisco, August 18.—Two million dollars in gold sovereigns of British coinage arrived here to-day on the steamer Ventura, shipped by Australian bankers and consigned to three San Francisco banks, to be exchanged at the United States branch mint here for United States gold coin.

The money is to be placed to the credit of Australian and the English banks, temporarily.

The British gold was received here by the Wells Fargo Nevada National Bank, the Canadian Bank of Commerce and the Anglo and London-Paris National Bank.

BOMBARDMENT OF ALGIERS, 1816. For centuries the Algerines had been a terror in the Mediterranean. They attacked ships of every Power, and carried the crews into slavery. The English Government determined to put a stop to this and after a severe bombardment of some hours the Dey agreed to liberate all Christian slaves, and to pay a large sum of money for compensation.
JAMES THOMSON died 1748, aged 48. Scottish poet, author of "The Seasons." His most finished work is the "Castle of Indolence," the work at intervals of fifteen years. He excelled more in descriptions than in episodes or reflections, yet the "Castle of Indolence" has characterizations of a very high order.
ROYAL GAZETTE first issued 1806.

Summer Skin Troubles

Sunburn, blistering, and irritation are the commonest form of summer skin troubles, and Zam-Buk ends these very quickly. It works in two ways. As soon as applied, its antiseptic powers get to work and kill all the poison in a wound, a sting or a sore. This generally ends the smarting and the pain. Then Zam-Buk begins the healing process, and fresh healthy tissue is built up. For sore, blistered feet, sore hands, heat rash, baby's heat spots, sore places due to perspiration, etc., you can't equal Zam-Buk. It also cures cuts, ulcers, abscesses, piles, and all inflamed and diseased conditions of skin and sub-jacent tissue. Druggists and stores everywhere sell Zam-Buk, 50c. per tablet. All stores, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

Lachute, Que., 26th Sept., 1908. Minard's Liniment Co., Limited. Gentlemen, —Ever since coming home from the Boer war I have been bothered with running fever sores on my legs. I tried many salves and ointments; also doctored continuously for the blood, but got no permanent relief. 'Till last winter when my mother got me to try MINARD'S LINIMENT. The effect of which was almost magical. Two bottles completely cured me and I have worked every working day since.

Yours gratefully,
JOHN WALSH.

Aeroplane Committee Meeting.

A meeting of the Aeroplane Committee was held at the Board of Trade Rooms last evening and was presided over by the Chairman, Mr. W. G. Gosling. Mr. Charles Steer, the Secretary, presented the report of the sub-committee which was adopted. Mr. Clift reported that the total amount received to date was $32,113.57, including the amount subscribed by the Messrs. Reid for a Renault Biplane. The sum of $28,950.00 had been remitted for two gun-mounted and one smaller aeroplane, which left a balance of $3,261.14. The matter of purchasing machine guns was then discussed, but in view of the fact that the Newfoundland Regiment had been fully equipped with machine guns, it was decided to recommend to the Patriotic Association that the balance of the fund be devoted to the purchase of additional aeroplanes. The matter will be finally decided at the next meeting of the Patriotic Association. Mr. Clift then read the following extract of a letter received from the Secretary of the Overseas Club:—"It may interest your Committee to know that the largest amount contributed for aeroplanes from any part of the Empire was from Newfoundland."

The Man Who Sank the Lusitania.

M. Gustave Hervé's paper, La Guerre Sociale, publishes the following remarkable story of the sinking of the Lusitania in the form of a telegram from Milan:—"The order to sink the Lusitania arrived on May 2 at Heligoland, and aroused the indignation of all the officers. More than one was beside himself. The order was nevertheless carried out by the U 21, which left under the command of Lieutenant Hersing. "The writer of the letter was on board his ship when Hersing returned from his expedition, and was able to take note of the contempt which all the officers manifested towards him. Without daring to lift his head, he muttered, 'It went against me to act as I did act, but I could not do otherwise.' He was crying.
 "He then told how none of his men knew the object of the voyage, and how several times he was on the point of letting them into the secret in the hope of seeing the crew mutiny. "I tried to avoid witnessing the ghastly scene which followed, and made away from the torpedoed liner at full speed. Then I came to the surface. The sea was crowded with struggling wretches; even at that distance I could hear the shouts of the shipwrecked. I had become a man of stone, incapable of moving or giving an order."
 When next scrambling eggs add just a few slices of sweet green pepper, chopped fine, and cook in a little butter.
 A slice of potato is an excellent thing to clean white oiled cloth which has become disfigured by hot-cooking utensils.

American Newspapers Agree

That the United States Faces Grave Crisis.
 New York, Aug. 26.—Editorial expressions this morning show that the press of the United States looks on the torpedoing of the steamship Arabic as causing a very grave crisis in the relations between the United States and Germany. What the newspapers say is given herewith:
 The Washington Herald says:—"The gravity of the situation that has been forced upon us cannot be magnified. We are strained to the breaking point with Germany. There is no virtue in further forbearance. Whatever its results, the quarrel is of Germany's seeking. The President and his advisers must now determine upon a course of action, for act they must, and American people are more early prepared for a severance of diplomatic and commercial relations with Germany than they are for the abandonment of what we have been contending for in the name of humanity, civilization and justice."
 The Philadelphia Inquirer says:—"It has been a long time since the Lusitania was torpedoed. Many days have gone by since the United States sent an ultimatum to Germany on this subject of murder. Surely every submarine commander has had his orders since then. Are we to assume from this Arabic accident that there is no intention on the part of Germany to respect the ultimatum? If so then the days of friendly relations between the United States and Germany are limited. The murder of one American must call for positive measures on our part either that of the confession that we are only bluffing."
 The Boston Globe says:—"It will be a question of doing, not talking. President Wilson has exhausted all peaceful and usual means to protect American lives upon the seas. He cannot now repeat what he has already asserted three times. Should investigation prove that it was the Germans who have again jettisoned international law, then they have torpedoed the good will of the United States."
 The Boston Herald says:—"Is this the answer? When President Wilson dispatched to Berlin his last note on the Lusitania case, it was commonly observed that he would look to the Atlantic other than to Berlin for his answer. Now that answer may have come. It is too early to discuss what the United States should do about it. We must have the facts. If they are as they now seem the 'strict accountability' message with which our President opened the discussion will stare him and his fellow countrymen in the face."
 The Chicago Herald says:—"Friendship itself prompts it (the United States) to say to the Imperial Government that repetition by the commanders of German naval vessels of acts in contravention of those rights must be regarded by the Government of the United States when they affect American citizens as deliberately unfriendly." President Wilson to Germany, July 21, 1915.

Collegians Dined.

Last night at Woods' Restaurant the supporters of the Collegian Football Club entertained the team on account of their success in winning the League Championship this year. A very pleasant evening was spent and the following toast list was honoured:

Here there are some thousands of soldiers. It is our last "shove off" and then we will be in the firing line. It won't be long now before we'll get our orders. It is a hard struggle on both sides. Don't worry, we'll soon come back again. I think that this is all for this time.
 Badajos Barracks—August 25, 1915.
 Dear Sister,—Just a few lines to let you know that I am in the pink of condition, hoping that you and all at home are the same. We are now at Aldershot, England. It is a splendid barracks and we are certainly enjoying it. Here there are some thousands of soldiers. It is our last "shove off" and then we will be in the firing line. It won't be long now before we'll get our orders. It is a hard struggle on both sides. Don't worry, we'll soon come back again. I think that this is all for this time.

"OURS" IN THE WEST END.
 The pictures at the West End Theatre are splendid and the popularity of the little house is well known. Mr. Rossley intends making further alterations shortly. Always a reliable show at Rossley's West End Theatre.
BRITISH THEATRE.
 Enthusiastic patrons were once more delighted with the excellence of the entertainment given at the British last night. Mr. P. J. McCarthy, Madame Olive Timmons and Mr. H. Allen surpassed their previous efforts in the musical portion of the programme. The two former artists sang the American serenade: "Underneath the Stars" magnificently, whilst Mr. Allen's masterly accompaniments were all that could be desired. Today at 3.30, 8.30 and 10 o'clock Madame Olive Timmons will sing the beautiful old world songs: "My Love is Like a Red, Red Rose" and "The Last Rose of Summer." Mr. P. J. McCarthy will accompany her. Five choice photo-plays have been selected. Beginning to-morrow at 7.30 Mr. Allen will provide the photo-play music so that a musical treat is in store for prospective patrons.
THE CRESCENT PICTURE PALACE.
 The Crescent Picture Palace winds up the week with a big show of five pictures every one a feature. "The Legend of the Amulet" is a classy Indian romance, genuine Indians are engaged in the production of this drama. "The New Reporter" is a political drama with all the Biograph stars. "Fanny's Melodrama" is a fine Vitagraph production featuring Lillian Walker. "Jim's Vindication" is a strong Edison story of an ex-convict who reforms and is the means of reforming others. Swedenie, the popular Crescent Comedian, appears in "The Laundress," this is one of the best Swedenie comedies shown yet. Mr. Harvey Collins whose singing is so much enjoyed by Crescent patrons sings: "I'm Falling in Love with some one Down in Bom Bom Bay."

MR. DUGUID FAREWELL'S AT THE NICKEL TO-NIGHT.

The brilliant movie artists Florence Labodie and Sidney Bracey will be seen in a powerful two-part melodrama, entitled "Graft vs. Love" at the Nickel Theatre this evening. Then there is the Vitagraph sensation "By the Governor's Orders" with Maurice Costello in the leading role. "The Hazards of Helen" will also be continued. Forbes Law Duguid, the great Canadian baritone sings his farewell song to-night. Francis J. MacGuire, a tenor, will be heard at the Nickel next. To-morrow there is a big matinee for children with "The Million Dollar Mystery" repeated. Monday there will be a three-part Vitagraph social-drama featuring Nelson Gardner.

THE WISHING RING AT ROSSLEYS.
 A very laughable racing act at Rossley's last night. It is entitled "The Wishing Ring." Olive Russell, lady baritone singer, and Jack Russell in their various songs delighted the crowd. The performing dog, Don is a little wonder and seems possessed of almost human intelligence. He can imitate Charlie Chaplin to perfection. To-morrow at the children's matinee there will again be shown The Royal Punch and Judy show. Punch and Judy will appear in a new act "Who Stole the Biscuits" and Don, the children's delight, will dance The Merry Widow Dance and also other tricks.

To Arrange for British Credit.

Deputation of Financiers to be Sent From London to New York.
 New York, August 26.—Misgivings as to developments in this country's relations with Germany as the result of the destruction of the Arabic featured the serious foreign exchange situation to-day.
 A report that negotiations for the flotation of a British credit loan of from $100,000,000 to $150,000,000 to pay for American supplies purchased by foreign buyers, had been virtually suspended was denied.
 Financial representatives here of the Allied Powers, while asserting that the situation had become complicated by reason of the Arabic incident, likewise refrained from discussion of the prospect for placing the contemplated foreign loan.
 Aside from the Arabic, the feature of the day in foreign exchange markets was the reported decision of British financiers and Treasury authorities to send a deputation of three men from London to New York to arrange the details of the projected loan.
 Sir Edward Holden and Sir Felix Schuster, it was reported, probably would be two of the three men.
 Sir Felix Schuster is known to local financiers as a leading authority on banking and international finance whose public utterances abroad have received widespread attention. He is the head of the Union of London and Smiths Bank.
 It seemed definitely settled to-night that negotiations would remain in abeyance until the arrival of the deputation.
 Business in foreign markets was virtually suspended.

Your Boys and Girls!

Truthfulness is so essential a virtue and the habit of lying is so dangerous, and one which in so many ways affects all the details of human life, that we cannot be too much on our guard against the first sign of perversion. It is a matter in which the preservatives are more valuable than the correctives.
 It is a commonplace truth, but one too much forgotten in actual practice, that with justice and kindness we can make almost anything we like of children. They will be frank and open if they are encouraged to be confiding. They will not seek to make excuses for their faults, if they know that it grieves their parents, and that this will be the worst consequence of their naughtiness.
 And lastly we should be especially careful never to scold them for unintentional faults.

Lessen Your Living Expenses!

"Be economical." is the cry in England, and this slogan has the same significance in Canada. We all must economize. There is more actual waste in our dress expenses than any other item. When a garment becomes soiled we throw it aside, when for a few cents it could be restored to original freshness and beauty by Dry Cleaning. A saving of at least 35 per cent. in the expense of dressing is possible by using the processes of Dry Cleaning and Dyeing.

Our agents will gladly give you full particulars.
