The Broken Circle!

CHAPTER III.

As she stood silent, Martin Ray watching every change in her face, she recalled to mind what she had heard of two lectures given lately. One was to a large audience in a crowded city—a lecture on Republicanism—when the lecturer spoke in such terms of the queen and the royal family that honest men were angered. When he had concluded in a fiery outburst of eloquence, amidst a breathless silence one man stood up and cried out: "God save the Queen!" Instantly the cry was caught up by hundreds of voices; a reaction set in, where treason and disloyalty had reigned triumphant, loyalty conquered. "God save the Queen!" resounded through the vast building and through the streets of the great city. The other lecture that crossed her mind was one given in a pretty quiet midland town—given by a lady who was an atheist, and whose mission it was to preach against the Great Creator who had given her life. She used the most brilliant and specious arguments; she brought forward some ideas that appeared irrefutable; she concluded her lecture in a deep, dead silence. The hearts of those who had listened were heavy and sad. Suddenly in their midst rose up an old white-haired man. He stood bare-headed, with his face slightly raised. "I believe in God, the Mighty, the Merciful," he said. And those who were present went home that night with firmer faith and clearer hope. She thought of these two events, and her face was full of doubt.

"I have no more time just now," said Martin Ray. "There is a meeting of the delegates at three, and I must be

Indoor Life

Spending more time indoors makes women far more subject to constipation than men.

The liver becomes sluggish and torpid, the bowels constipated and the system poisoned by impurities.

If you would get away from the myriads of ills which result from constipation, it is only necessary to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

The benefits from their use are as lasting as they are prompt and certain.

Mrs. John Barry, 18 St. Amable Street, Quebec, Que., writes:

"This is to certify that I was troubled for years with constipation and tried all kinds of medicines without relief. At last my husband suggested that I try Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I did so, and must say that they have given me more relief than all the medicine I have taken during the last fifteen years. I may also add that I have used Dr. Chase's Ointment for piles with excellent results."

CHAPTER V.

A gloomy house in a staid street, quite unfitted for the habitation of two beautiful and brilliant girls. Every one who knows Manchester knows Great Divan street. It is thoroughly respectable, quiet, and dull. "The Voice of the People" made his abode here, partly because the house suited his means, and partly because it was near the chief places where his business lay. The residence he had chosen was certainly the dullest in the street. The rooms were small and dark; there was not even a glimpse of green at the back; and in the front was a row of houses on which the sun seldom shone. Martin Ray did not suffer much, as he was generally from home; but to his daughters it was untold misery. They knew and understood little of their father's politics; they thought he was a great thinker of very unequal fortune. They had enjoyed many of the luxuries of life—now they had to bear privations; but that time would pass, and brighter days dawn. There was little furniture in the house. Martin Ray's study and bedroom were the two most luxurious apartments. There was a piano in the little parlor—Martin never allowed his daughters to be without that—and here, at the close of a bright May day, the two girls sat quite alone.

There was not much sunlight in the room, but what little there was showed the faded carpet, the shabby furniture, and the beautiful faces of the girls. Leah, whom her father in his selfishness had designed for so grand a mission, whose life was to be sacrificed to him, was just sixteen; Hettie, one year younger. Yet there was the greatest difference between them. Leah was beautiful, graceful in the very springtime of life, with the promise of a magnificent womanhood. Hettie, though only one year younger, seemed still a child. She was tall, slight, and unformed. Her face was beautiful, too, and gave promise of even greater loveliness; but, although like in feature, it differed greatly in expression from that of Leah. Hettie had hair of pale bright gold, that was like an aureole round her head; she had eyes blue set heaven, large, bright, and lustrous, with hidden depths seen by no one yet. The chief expression of Leah's face was of pride; it did not lack beauty, but it certainly lacked tenderness; while the chief loveliness of Hettie's face lay in its softness.

The one year made a wonderful difference between these two girls. No one would have treated Leah as a child or Hettie as a woman. The two sisters had the deepest love for each other. They had preserved two traditions in their lives untouched; one was loving, sorrowful memory of their mother—the other, belief in their father. Of late this latter trait was just a little less observable. On one or two occasions their faith had been somewhat tried; but they had been loyal—they had said no word to each other.

On this May evening they had been trying to amuse themselves. The house was dull, but they could not leave it; the lovely sunshine lay all around, but they could not go out to see it. They had been singing, but their fresh young voices had died away, and over them crept the weariness of restless discontent.

"O, Leah, how dull this is!" cried Hettie, at last. "My father said yesterday that we ought to be proud to be the daughters of a patriot. If all patriots' daughters are dull as we are, I am sorry for them."

Leah went to her, and threw her arms round her sister's neck; she laid her head against the golden one, and the two young faces close together formed a pretty picture.

"It is dull, Hettie," she said, "but I am not dull. I am trembling with excitement. I could not decide whether I should tell you or not. They say you are only a child, Hettie, but in your sweet, gentle fashion, you are more of a woman than I am."

Hettie laughed.

"Why do you say that, Leah?"

"It is quite true. You are not so impulsive as I am, Hettie; you are not so proud. I am proud, and I lack that gentle consideration for others which you never lose. You are wiser and more thoughtful than I am."

"I am not so beautiful or so noble, Leah," she cried. "What is it you have been thinking about telling me?"

"All that my father said to me. I am so miserable about it. Hettie, when I took into my own heart, I am not quite sure if I believe all that he teaches; and the two sisters exchanged a fearful, timid glance. It was high treason, indeed, not to believe in him.

Hettie made no answer; she did not know or understand exactly what her father did teach. Leah went on.

"God made the world, and He must have framed the laws for it. It seems hard to believe that it has gone wrong all the time, until our father began to set it right."

"It does seem strange," agreed Hettie.

"And now," continued Leah, "he says that I must learn to take his place. I am such a young girl, and I know so little. He has frightened me. He wants me to be a modern Judith, he says; he wants to teach me to lecture—think of it, Hettie, to lecture. It seems to me that I know less than the birds of the air. I wish," she added, with a deep sigh, "that I had the freedom of a bird. I should fly away, Hettie."

"Papa wants you to lecture, Leah," said Hettie—"what a strange thing! But there are woman doctors, preachers, and lecturers these days."

"But I am only a girl of sixteen!" exclaimed Leah.

"No," he means now, at once, in a year's time, while I am young, and, Hettie, he says I must give my life to it—my whole life," and the beautiful face dropped wearily on the loving one beneath.

The blue eyes opened widely, appalled at this idea.

"What would you like best to do with your life, Leah?" asked Hettie. "Tell me; I should like to know."

"I should like," said the girl, with a gleam of passion in her dark eyes, "first of all, to love some one with all my heart—some one, of course, who would love me. I wish for many things, but love is first, greatest, and best. Then I should like to be rich—to have a beautiful country-house, with roses growing all around it! I love roses so much. I should like beautiful dresses, jewels, horses and servants—"

"Just in fact, what other girls desire," interrupted Hettie. "You are like all the rest; you do not want a mission."

"No, I do not, indeed. I think I should dislike what my father calls a mission. I do not understand him; why do he and all his friends hate rich and noble people so much?"

"Perhaps," replied Hettie, wisely, "because they have neither rank nor money themselves;" and then she looked somewhat shocked at her own words and hastened to cover them.

"Even, if we cannot understand what my father teaches, we know it must be right, Leah. There must be reasons, and good ones, too, for his hatred."

CARNATION BISCUIT

2 cups flour, 4 teaspoonfuls baking powder, 2 tablespoonfuls butter or substitute, 1/2 teaspoonful salt, 1/2 cup water, 1/2 cup CARNATION MILK. Sift dry ingredients together. Mix in butter or substitute with knife or fingers, add liquids (Carnation Milk diluted with the water) mixing to a soft dough. FOOTNOTING WHAT WE SAY.

No one act, no one speech of anyone can ever stand alone. Every act we do, every word we say is colored and footnoted by former acts and former speeches.

"Now, Don't Worry About Me."

I once went off on a vacation trip with a friend of mine planning to stay a week. When her husband saw her off he said several times with the greatest cordiality, "Now don't worry about me. Don't hurry home. If you are enjoying yourself stay longer than you planned."

We did enjoy ourselves very much and derived much benefit. I planned to stay longer and assumed that my companion would do the same. She would not hear of it. "George wouldn't like it." "But he said several times to stay as long as you wanted to," I urged her.

She smiled. "Yes," she said, "I know that. And he has said that before. And two or three times I did it and when I go home she was awfully out of sorts. He said I never could enjoy myself unless I was away from him and the children and a lot of things like that. It spoiled my visit. No, my dear, you heard what George said, but you haven't had the experience with him that I have. If you had, you would do just what I'm going to do, go home when I said I would and avoid any recriminations."

And I admitted I would.

I wonder if there is one among my married Reader Friends who cannot recall some faintly similar experience when what was said had to be footnoted and discounted by previous experience?

He Really Thinks He Means It.

Often the person who says the thing is perfectly sincere, only he does not fully understand himself and his limitations.

The personality we project into the consciousness of each friend and member of our family is made up of all his or her previous experiences with us. We can never change it by anything we say, only by what we do, by going through new experiences to build a new conception from.

Fashions and Fads.

For spring, the tailored jacket is short and loose, sometimes belted very low with a narrow belt or worn without a belt.

Real lace, black white and colored, is used in combination with the filmy materials to produce exquisite summer gowns.

The latest handbags are carried by thumb loops; they come in flat forms, square or oblong, and are much ornamented.

Many street frocks are made of grey printed foulards; if a cape of foulard is worn with the frock it is lined in plain color.

The skirts of tailored costumes are made so that the edge of the hem is about six inches from the ankle bone.

Slash ends, pointed panels and pointed breadths often touch the floor, where the hem of the frock itself would not dare.

Shiny black cellophane rises gives the "finishing touch" to a frock black cashmere crepe and white chiffon.

The Parisian coiffure of the moment is effected by straining the hair smoothly back and gathering the ends into pointed knobs after the fashion of a Chinese woman.

Pleated collar and cuffs of contrasting crepe de chine trim a one-piece sports frock of the same material.

Negligees are made with extreme wide sleeves which, in many cases hang longer than the skirt.

Chinese green, amethyst, deep-toned yellow and reddish orange are a few of the favorite spring colors.

The sports cape is being substituted for the top coat, and it may be made of jersey, tweed or sports silk.

The very latest umbrella "Chubbys" and short, with a bulb handle of carved ivory touched with red.

If the street costume is of plain material, the matching cape is lined with gay silk.

Persian embroidery in red, green and gold trims a dress of black Reine crepe.

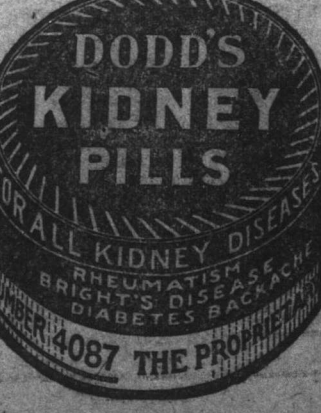

Children's gayly flowered cretonne blouses have collars and cuffs of white pique.

One-eighth teaspoonful of cream of tartar makes fudge more creamy.

Individual date and walnut puddings can be baked in greased ramekins.

A little jar of salad would be a pleasant surprise in the child's school lunch.

Creamed shrimps are attractive served in puff paste cases. Add one-half cupful chopped peppers to the shrimps.

Just Folks

THE TOOL BOX.

I saw a tool box on a bench. Equipped with saw and plane and wrench. A hammer and a set of drills. A bawl for the doors and sills. Then came the man and said to me: "I keep them under lock and key."

"Though now these things I never use. Not one of them I want to lose. Perhaps some day I'll need again. The hammer or the wrench or plane. And they are handy things to have. If ever should the need be known."

Above those tools I seemed to view The marvelous things which I could do.

The happy homes which they could build.

The rooms with childish laughter filled.

If only he would set them free Who kept them under lock and key?

Am I not like this man, afraid That I shall miss some shining tool Or need the substance I might use? When I am asked to play the fool Is not the better side of me Too often under lock and key?

I have the tools with which to lead A round of years with mercy filled. A man of cheer I might become. But oh, too oft my lips are dumb With means to serve my life's stout end. But, like the tools, I keep them locked.

Dolphin Speediest of Sea-Fishes

Of the sea's game fishes the dolphin must be mentioned in the first rank. There is probably no other citizen of the deep which travels so swiftly. It spends its entire life in open seas. While idling, its movements are sluggish, but when in quest of its prey it moves with increasing rapidity, and to one observing movements it appears like nothing much as a dash of color in the sea's yellow-blue-whitish streak that almost lost in the green water. Of deep-water fishes, the dolphin possesses the greatest power to change color. A diving dolphin affords most beautiful and spectacular sight when, with all the brilliancy of gold, it changes hue so rapidly that the brain cannot grasp the beauty of color before another comes in view. In life its general color is blue or emerald green above, with lighter blue dots showing on the sides; the under parts are silvery as a candal and pectoral fins are a yellow.

THE UNIVERSAL DRINK.

Water is the noblest fluid in the thirsty man's man; it was drunk by ancient Darius in modern Arkansas; why I do not believe when we takes as large a quantity as Erie, why might all the people weary with their against the law? There are refreshing rivers, drifting slowly to the sea; they are good for the livers, they are good for the old's knee; come with the lovely critters, where the lovely frog twitters, water's better than in bitters, it is nature's choice.

There's a hydrant in the alley, there's a keg that catches rain, there's a streamlet in the valley, there's a cistern in the lane; everywhere there's water handy, everywhere, fine and dandy, and the man who yips for brandy surely isn't sane. Oh, some booze might ke him mellow when he goes to the hay, but the taste is green and low when arrives the break of day, he's sickness in his tummy, and his breath is rank and rummy, and antlered snakes are chummy and tolls along his way. He is shaky and sick and sorry when he shares with other men, and they seem to say "sorry, you've been pickled with him;" ah, he might his soul deliver on the shame that makes it quiver, he'd drink the wholesome beverage flowing through the glass!

Prince Regrets Leaving India.

Filled With Admiration for Both British and Indians--Italy Sends Peremptory Note to Greece--Viscount Peel New Secretary for India--Lloyd George Irish Policy Denounced.

THE PRINCE AND INDIA.
LONDON, March 20. In the eve of the departure of the Prince of Wales from India, Lloyd George sent him a telegram assuring him of the admiration with which the British people had watched stage by stage his journey. The message said, "I have inherited from the King and Emperor the Royal power of his Majesty and I am inspired by the devotion in his subjects." In reply the Prince expressed regret at leaving India and observed that he had gained a first-hand knowledge of India's ideals and aspirations and also some appreciation of her difficulties. The Prince said, "I am filled with admiration for the British and Indians who are engaged with the responsible task of governing India, and who are striving for that co-operation and good-will which alone can assure India's well-being. I leave India with all confidence that she will do full justice to the opportunities before her."

Salmon and Caplin.

AND THE BYE-PRODUCTS OF DIFFERENT KINDS OF FISH FOR FOOD AND FERTILIZING PURPOSES.

(By M. E. CONDON.)
Article IV.
As to salmon we have the best in the world, so it is said, but I do not approve of the freezing of same with the entrails therein. These should be removed immediately after being caught, bled and cleaned in brine water to have a good article of food for the consumer. And as to our caplin, the future of caplin as a food fish cannot be estimated immediately, and within the next five years I have reason to believe that it will reach into the hundreds of thousands of dollars, particularly in the United States, and it is not necessary for me to name all the other fish that are wasted in our waters, and the bye-products for food and fertilizing purposes. And I can include the bye-products of codfish for food, viz: tongues, sounds, etc. The annual loss to the Dominion runs into millions of dollars, and no genuine effort is being made to encourage or carry out same on behalf of the Dominion. And with reference to our fisheries in the foreign countries there should be an effort by the Government to give concessions to the products of the different countries that consume our codfish. Greece whose chief export is currants has given free entry. We want no combines as to our fisheries, and the exporting of same or pooling. Let the producer pack and ship his fish on his own merits and under his own brand, and like the four mills of the United States and Canada stand or fall as to same. Competition is the life of trade, and let any Government give a square deal to all as to exporting the products of our fisheries. Before I close I have to thank the Prime Minister, Sir R. A. Squires and A. Goodridge, Esq., Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries who assisted me to forward by the S.S. Rosalind a sample box of bled, dried codfish to Havana, Cuba, for free distribution to the President of Cuba and other public men in Havana, the first of its kind ever shipped from Newfoundland in the history of its fisheries, and the first to thank you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space on behalf of the fisheries of the Dominion.

YOUNG MOTHER NOW STRONG

Her Mother's Faith in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Led Her To Try It

Kenosha, Wisconsin.—I cannot say enough in praise of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My mother had great faith in it as she had taken so much of it and when I had trouble after my baby was born she gave it to me. It helped me so much more than anything else had done that I advise all women with female troubles to give it a fair trial and I am sure they will feel as I do about it.—Mrs. F. P. HANSEN, 502 Symonds St., Kenosha, Wis.
A medicine that has been in use nearly fifty years and that receives the praise and commendation of mothers and grandmothers is worth your consideration.
If you are suffering from troubles that sometimes follow child-birth bear in mind that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a woman's medicine. It is especially adapted to correct such troubles.
The letters we publish ought to convince you; ask some of your women friends or neighbors—they know its worth. You will, too, if you give it a fair trial.

Produce and Provisions.

(From Saturday's Trade Review.)
Codfish—The Oporto stocks of Newfoundland fish this week have been reduced to 45,000 with 3,500 as the week's consumption, which is regarded as a very satisfactory state of affairs. The exports from St. John's this week amounted to 25,394 quintals as follows:—
By schooner Little Stephano 5,319 qts. from B. Borraro to Seville, 2,047 qts.; by S.S. Sachem to Liverpool, 200 qts.; by S.S. Sable I. to Halifax from A. E. Hickman, Co., Ltd.; by S.S. Sisto to Malaga for orders, 14,500 qts. to Alicante, Naples, etc., from Messrs. Union Trading Co., Jas. Baird, Ltd., and G. M. Barr, and by schooner C. Bryant from Union Trading Co., 2,228 qts. to Pernambuco for orders. The exchange situation is improving and there is only about one month's supply of fish in Newfoundland to go forward.
Cod Oil—The S.S. Sachem took out 6,175 gallons to Liverpool this week, and the S.S. Digby 5,431 gallons to Boston. "Newfoundland Cod Oil is firm," says a New York Drug Journal, and has advanced further during the week. Supplies are very short and some holders are asking 50 cents a gallon (wine measure) for what they call "the new Norwegian oil is expected to come into the United States market in volume very soon, and the price will then be determined for the season, as their catch is so far short of 1921.
Cod Liver Oil—This product has quieted down and prices are easier, although outwardly unchanged. Norwegian oil as to brand on the spot ranges from $19.00 to $21.00 a barrel in the New York market. The exports this week amounted to 4,293 gallons, viz: 753 gallons by the S.S. Sachem to Liverpool, and 1,250 gallons by S.S. Sable I. to Halifax from various shippers. The Norwegians are making a special effort to get a big supply into the United States market.
Pork—The imports this week were 500 barrels by the S.S. Sable I. from Halifax. After a tendency for higher prices the past week pork has gone back from $1.00 to $1.50 a barrel in the Chicago and New York markets this week. The early March quotations which were $21.50 are now $20.00. The local prices are steady and unchanged at $31.00 for Mees; $29.00 for Fat Back; $29.00; Ham Butt $42.00; Family Mess, and $31.00 for Spare Ribs.
Sugar—The market is firm at the recent advance. The local quotation is now $10.40 per 100 lbs., as compared with $10.25 all the winter. The heavy European demand will likely keep up this price. The supply on this side of the Atlantic is large, the new Cuban crop being estimated at 3,500,000 tons, as against 2,271,000 last year. San Domingo too has a record crop of 250,000 tons, as compared with 208,000 in 1921. Porto Rico and Philippines are also coming into the market with big crops. European sugar-producing countries, however, are putting very little into the market, hence the big draw for supplies on this side and the strengthening up in prices.

Beef—The import record this week is 290 barrels by the Sable I. and 350 by the S.S. Sachem from Halifax, total 550 barrels. Beef at present local prices is a bargain and cheaper than can be imported. The quotations in the St. John's market are: Bos. Flank $28.00; Bos. Packet $20.00; Family Special $20.50, Boneless $20.75. It is a good time to buy for Spring fishery supplies, as it is hardly possible that the rates will be lower this season.
Flour—Wheat which went to a high point of 149 1/2 last of February, has gradually worked back to 124. Many believe that this is only a temporary break, and that the price will advance again before the close of this month. The recent advance in wheat has slightly affected flour held in the local market, but will be felt to the extent of 50 cents per barrel in flour to arrive. Leading brands are quoted here to-day at $10.30 to $10.50 per barrel. The imports this week by the S.S. Sable I. and S.S. Sachem were 5,331 barrels and 1,200 sacks. The condition of the crop in the winter wheat districts has improved with recent favorable weather.
Hay—The imports this week were 557 bales by the S.S. Sachem from Halifax. The market is steady and the supply is not too great for the requirements of the trade. In Montreal this week car loads were quoted at $28 to $29 for No. 2 Timothy, and No. 3 at $26 to $27. The local market is again running short, except in the case of some farmers who raised own supply. The quotation to-day is $54 per ton ex store, and $53 to come in ex wharf. Single bales sell at three cents per pound.
Oats—The market which took on a strong spell two weeks ago in Canada and pent up as high as 69 cents a bushel in Montreal, has again swung back to 47 cents, or $2.68 per sack wholesale lots. The price enables local dealers to sell still at $3.50 for mixed and $4 for white. The imports this week were nil and the supply is again getting short. The opinion of importers is, that the quotation for oats will hold at about the present level all the spring. The holdings by farmers in Canada are above normal for this time of the year.
Molasses—There has been little or nothing doing in molasses since the new crop became available at Barbados. There is a general impression amongst dealers that the price new sugar by the exporters, viz: 40 cents have. The new Norwegian oil is expected to come into the United States market in volume very soon, and the price will then be determined for the season, as their catch is so far short of 1921.
Potatoes—The market is about the same as reported last week. By the S.S. Sable I. this week 548 sacks were imported. The quotation for car lots in Montreal this week is $1.05 to $1.49 per bag of 30 lbs. The local price has stiffened up to $4.50 per sack of 130 lbs. for imported, but home-grown can be bought still for $3.00 to $3.50, according to quality. Large shipments will arrive here from Nova Scotia and P.E.I. next month, which will make it hard to sell local stock except the very best.

All our damaged stock was bought up, so we cut into the ranks of the regulars. Every hat placed on the price-block. Prices we dare any store to duplicate, even where the hats come from. And the hats are untouched, unharmed, perfect. Man alive, there never was such a chance for you to save money.

Gunning Accident.

MAN'S RIGHT ARM SHATTERED.
A resident of Brigus South, named William Power, was brought to hospital last night with his arm badly shattered as the result of a gunning accident. The unfortunate man was out rabbit shooting in company with his son, and was carrying a rifle across his arm. His foot becoming entangled in some bushes, the man fell with the result that the gun exploded and the charge entered his right arm badly shattering it. Dr. Freebairn was summoned and after dressing the wound ordered the man to hospital. A team of horses was procured and the patient arrived in town last night. Power was operated on this morning at 10.30 and is doing as well as could be expected.

Canadian Gov't Agent.

COMING TO NEWFOUNDLAND.

That the continued and unaided efforts of the North Sydney Board of Trade to have attention devoted to rebuilding Canada's trade with Newfoundland, which has fallen off in an alarming way during the past few years, while American trade with the colony has increased, are beginning to bear fruit is shown by a letter received yesterday by R. F. McNell, Secretary of the Board of Trade, from H. R. Poussette, director of the commercial intelligence service of the department of trade and commerce, Ottawa. Mr. Poussette states Mr. G. A. R. Emery, an official of the department, will be leaving Ottawa for Newfoundland about March 18, and will stop here en route. While here he will consult with the Board of Trade, the President of which, H. W. Jubien, has made an extended study of the Newfoundland trade question, and has gathered a lot of facts to show its importance and the necessity of action being taken by the Canadian authorities and business men.

A previous letter from Mr. Poussette in answer to representations made by the North Sydney Board of Trade, said that the department of Trade and Commerce officials were keeping this question before them, and while Canada had no trade office in Newfoundland arrangements would be made to have Newfoundland periodically visited by an official of the department, and the assurance was given that the department would do anything it could to secure for Canada as much Newfoundland trade as possible. Recently, in answer to a request from the department, a report on Newfoundland trade was sent from the Board of Trade here, and in this report it was urged that a resident Trade Commissioner for Canada in Newfoundland be appointed. The sending of Mr. Emery is the first result of this suggestion, which originated with the North Sydney Board of Trade, and it is to be hoped that this will be followed later by the adoption of the suggestion in its entirety.

It is suggested that local firms who might do business with Newfoundland should get informed on this matter and be prepared when Mr. Emery comes to give him definite information about the possibilities of building up trade—North Sydney Herald.

Fire Destroys Hotel.

DISASTROUS BLAZE AT PORT BLANDFORD.

Fire totally destroyed the hotel and store owned by Mr. S. R. Oakley, and now under the management of Mr. J. R. Courage, at Port Blandford yesterday. The fire broke out in the early morning and soon obtained a firm hold, so that, with the few resources at hand, it was impossible to extinguish the flames. The whole countryside reflected the blaze and presented a most spectacular sight.

'Silvia' Coming Here.

NEW RED CROSS LINER WILL BE READY IN MAY.

S.S. 'Silvia,' the new Red Cross Liner which will ply on the New York-Halifax-St. John's route, is undergoing an extensive overhauling at Greenock. Recent reports state that the ship is nearly ready to leave dock. She will come to St. John's in May. Capt. Mitchell of S.S. 'Rosalind' will take command of the 'Silvia' and will go across with his crew next month. The 'Silvia' has accommodation for 220 first class and 100 second class passengers. She was built especially for the Baltic trade, and is very strongly constructed, but in order to make her suitable to combat ice conditions on this coast during the winter service, she is being strengthened about the bows and hull generally.

Misplaced Taxation.

Much is being said on the street and in the newspapers in connection with taxation imposed on imports into this Colony. And we often wonder why it is so quiet, Newfoundlanders must be a long suffering, God-fearing people to endure the pressing demands made by those who rule in the public service.

Tides Harnessed 340 Years Ago.

A very ambitious scheme to harness the tides to the service of a British company was described in the Family Herald some months ago. Old Stan, one of England's ancient chroniclers, tells us that in 1582, one Peter Morris covenanted with the City of London to arrange for a water-wheel in an arch of London Bridge to operate what he calls an artificial forer. With the tides it turned wheels which pumped water up as high as the top of a church and through pipes to the houses, and so on to the Standard, the famous centre of measurement in Cornhill, London, which thus ran with water for the inhabitants through four spouts, the overflow helping to cleanse the four streets, 'Bishopgate, Aldgate, The Bridge and the Stocks Market.' The new works did not, however, continue for very long; and somewhere about 1603 the water ceased to arrive, and the remembrance of the scheme passed away.

The Outlook for Lobsters.

The outlook for the Newfoundland lobster fishery the coming season is very bright, says the February number of the Canadian Fisherman. At this date last year there was 2,800 of the previous year's catch held in all Newfoundland, and about 1,000 cases additional of our 1920 catch in hands of consignees in the United States. At the present time there is a complete reversal of these conditions, and in all Newfoundland to-day it would be difficult to gather up 50 cases of the 1921 pack. The entire pack was about 8,000 cases.

Body Recovered.

The Inspector General of Constabulary is in receipt of a telegram from Constable Vail of Marystown, advising that the body of John James Mayo, who was supposed to have been drowned by falling through the ice in S.W. Arm on the 15th inst., has been recovered.

Loyal Orange Association.

In view of the fact that the Grand Orange Lodge of Newfoundland is called to meet on the 28th inst. to celebrate its Golden Jubilee in St. John's, a few of the principles of the Association as set forth in the 'General Declaration' might possibly be of interest to the public. At all times nothing can be more natural than that those who have common rights to protect, and common interests to defend, should act together and know each other. It is by division that the benevolent objects of true patriots are frustrated, and their best and noblest efforts for the public good defeated. In this distant but important appendage of our great Empire, it must be obvious to every loyal and reflecting mind that an union of intelligence, an increase of means, and a knowledge of each other are essential.

The Loyal Orange Association is formed by persons desirous of supporting, to the utmost of their power, the principles and practices of the Christian religion, to maintain the laws and constitution of the country, afford assistance to distressed members of the Association, and otherwise promote such laudable and benevolent purposes as may tend to the due ordering of religion and Christian charity, and the supremacy of law, order and constitutional freedom. The Orange Association lays no claims to exclusive loyalty, or exclusive Protestantism, but it admits no man within its pale whose principles are not loyal, and whose creed is not Protestant.

Disclaiming an intolerant spirit, the duty of every Orangeman is to aid and defend all loyal subjects of every religious persuasion in the enjoyment of their constitutional rights. The rules of the Association are open not only to the members of the Association, but to the whole community. The Association is general, not confined to any particular place, person or nation, but extends itself wherever a loyal Protestant Briton is to be found, for the remotest corners of the globe, for the establishment of Protestant faith and British liberty to the latest age of posterity. In many quarters, where the true nature of the Orange Association is not properly known, its designs and objects have by some been misunderstood, and by others misrepresented. The Association is constituted upon the broadest principles of national freedom. It takes its stand upon the glorious principles of the Revolution of 1688; it lays its foundation in the field of British liberty; it disdains the badge of faction, and knows no emblem save 'The Altar and the Throne.'

Apology to a Horse.

THE AMENDE HONORABLE. 182 Patrick Street. March 18, 1922.

Harold Macpherson, Esq. Dear Mr. Macpherson.—Having unwittingly done your magnificent horse (Howard Mann) an injustice in thought anyway (possibly by word), I now wish to say that I admired him very much indeed in his proper element on Friday last. The understanding existing between you and your horse was an object lesson which I hope many of the onlookers took to heart.

Yours faithfully, W. H. CROWDY.

It is only in the last 15 years that the full wonders of Angkor, the ancient city in French Indo-China, have been revealed. The immense lonely ruins, with the great stone faces of Buddha, many as large as the Sphinx, with staring eyes, were until quite recently veiled from the world by the dense foliage of a mighty jungle.

The provision of these facilities is the outcome of many years of experimental work in aerial illumination.

Figures That Stagger.

Scientists are fond of telling us of things which happened ten, twenty, or three million years ago; but does anybody realize what these immense periods of time mean? What was happening a million days ago? If you make a simple calculation, you will find that a million days is 2739 years; a million days ago, about the year B.C. 800, Rome had not been built.

Will Be Exhumed.

(From the Glasgow Herald, Wednesday, February 15, 1922.) International Laying Contest.

The Daily Mail's Two Years' International Laying Test of pure-bred fowls, which started on November 23 last on the Great Eastern Railway's estate of Dodnash Priory, near Bentley, Suffolk, has produced some interesting results in its third month, which has just closed. There are 190 pens of 8 birds each, making a total of 1,520, under trial. The figure includes 12 foreign pens. Since the beginning of the test, the huge flock of picked birds has produced 56,424 eggs, an average of 37.21 per bird.

Tree as Old as "Genesis"

Until the dimensions of the great sequoias of British Columbia, and the gigantic eucalyptuses of Australia were made known, the African baobab (Adansonia digitata) was considered to be the largest tree in the world. It is fairly common in the tropics of Africa; the largest recorded measured about 30 ft. in diameter, though the height was not more than some 70 ft. The age of a tree of these dimensions has been estimated at about 5,000 years. Humboldt described it as "the oldest organic monument of our planet," although the great dragon tree of Tenerife was said to be 6,000 years old. The largest of the sequoias in the celebrated Calaveras Grove was 365 feet high and 110 ft. in girth. It was cut down in 1853, and the largest of the trees still standing is over 300 ft. high and 23 ft. in diameter. The wood has no commercial value, being light, soft, and porous, but the bark yields a strong useful fibre, and is occasionally imported into this country for paper making, etc. The gourd-like fruits contain a pleasantly acid pulp which makes a lemonade-like drink, and is also used medicinally by the natives.

Broke the Record.

A Friesian cow Kirkhill Flö 3rd has broken the British record for both milk and butter production. Her figures head: 2,902 gallons of milk in 365 days, with an average butter-fat return, monthly tests, of 4.2 per cent, equal to 1,316 lb. of commercial butter. This cow, a second-calver, is in the celebrated British Friesian herd of Mr. George T. Eaton, Thurston Hall, Framfield, Sussex, and for some time held the daily milk production record for the country with an output of 107 lbs. The forty-first British Friesian cow with the thirty-ninth British Friesian with such a milk yield is Manor Pans, that gave 2,907 gallons in 329 days. She has recently been passed for entry in Class A of the Supplementary Register of the Friesian Herd Book.

Ruth Chase Sings Farewell Songs.

POPULAR SINGER CONCLUDES ENGAGEMENT. Miss Ruth Chase, the popular Soprano concludes her engagement at the Nickel Theatre with to-night's performance. Her selections are "Gleania Mia" from the Firefly and "Good-bye" (Tosti). Hear Miss Chase in her farewell songs to-night. To-night's photoplay is "Out of the Chorus," featuring the dainty Alice Brady. The story is of a Chorus Girl who had to live down a past that she had never had, "Out of the Chorus" has the ingredients necessary to establish it in a class to itself as a picture, and is without doubt the sort of theme that appeals to St. John's audiences. It has a dominant sentimental strain, as felt in the suffering of a chorus girl in adjusting herself to the snobbish members of her husband's family, that will ensure its popularity with movie fans. The other subject are "King of the Circus" featuring Eddie Polo and an interesting travel reel.

Cause and Effect.

The London Grocers' Gazette for January 8th, states that the consumption of tea in Great Britain and Ireland has increased thirty-four per cent. since 1913. The people now use about nine pounds of tea per head per annum, in the United Kingdom, and the increase in 1921 over the previous year amounted to 17 million pounds. This enormous consumption accounts for the great rise in the price of tea, and the price is not likely to fall. The consumption of tea in Canada per head per annum, is also steadily increasing. Round-World Stroll Lasted Eight Years.

Franz Emanuel Wetberg, who is 63, completed his eight-year stroll around the world on March 2. Wetberg shook hands with Mayor John Purroy Mitchell at the New York City Hall in 1914 and set forth, accompanied by three wolf dogs. He walked across three wolf dogs. He walked across country to Alaska, went by steamer to Asia, and walked across parts of Manchuria and Siberia into Russia and to Finland, the land of his birth. There he joined the Finnish White Guards, serving nine months, and was cited for bravery.

Baltic Sea Locked in by Ice.

Officers of the American liner Minnekahda, which arrived at New York recently, from Hamburg, with 147 passengers and a big general cargo, including many tons of toys from Nuremberg, said that the temperature was 12 degrees below zero when they left and everything was frozen. Passengers walked out from Cuxhaven or the ice to the Second Eibe ship in the North Sea, a distance twenty-five miles. Such severe weather had not been known along the coast for more than half a century. The Kiel Canal was frozen and the Baltic was completely shut in, as the Katigatt was prevented also.

Why Donkeys Have Long Ears.

Have you ever wondered at the extraordinary length of a donkey's ears? They seem almost out of all proportion to the animal's head. Yet, like everything else in Nature, there is a reason for this peculiarity.
The donkey came originally from Abyssinia, where it lived amongst the mountains, the prey of bears and leopards unless it could keep out of their way. For this purpose it needed long ears, so that it could hear its enemies coming at a distance.
In the same way there is a reason for the fact that if a flock of sheep are frightened, they will almost invariably run uphill rather than down. A sheep's natural home is at the top of a hill, it is more at home in the mountains than on the plains. Hence its thick fleeces to protect it from the cold encountered in high altitudes. The legs of a lamb are almost as long as those of its parent, so that when danger threatens it may be able to keep up with the rest of the flock.
Pigs resemble a torpedo in shape, for a very good reason. Their native haunts are thickets which their torpedo-like bodies can penetrate without any slackening of speed. The toughness of their skin prevents any injury, and the absence of hair prevents them being caught in a thicket while trying to escape from their enemies.

McGill Gets New Coat of Arms.

PROFESSOR TALKS OF PROPER FLAGS AND HERALDIC DEVICES.

Sir Arthur Currie recently received the patent granting a coat-of-arms to McGill University, from the Herald's College in London. It is a colored parchment about thirty inches by four in size, signed by the Garter, Clarenceux and Norroy Kings at Arms, three members of the Herald's College, and bears three heavy brass seals, three inches in diameter and one inch thick.
Ramsay Traquair, professor of Architecture, said that the arms just granted have been used by the University since 1906. Before that the University used the personal arms of James McGill its founder three silver birds on a red ground, as found in the older library book-plates. It was pointed out that a personal coat of arms was different from that for a University, and in 1906 an application was made to the Herald's College, and the present design was chosen. The matter, however, was delayed until this year.

This coat of arms was made by reversing the founders, and making three red birds on a silver field. A hand called a chief is above the birds, with three indentations to represent the three local mountains. On the chief is an open book, a common symbol for a university, and two crowns, representing the name Montreal. Mount Royal and also the crown of achievement. On the book is the text: "In Domino Confido." Any herald can identify this coat-of-arms at a glance as belonging to a university, and at the same time it is sufficiently identified with the founder.

THE RIGHT AND THE WRONG.
All coats of arms in Canada are legally bogus, says Professor Traquair, unless registered at one of the Herald's Colleges in Great Britain or Ireland. But there is no penalty attached and no one cares. Professor Traquair has catalogued some 200 Canadian coats of arms, of which only a few are registered. There are about 500 altogether.

Nova Scotia has two different coats of arms, as they had forgotten they had the first one when they applied for the second. Newfoundland has a fine coat of arms granted in 1837, but no one is aware of it and the Colony uses as its arms the device taken from an admiralty medal showing Britannia receiving a seal pett from Mercury.

Every institution which has a coat of arms, is entitled to fly a flag with that coat of arms, according to Prof. Traquair, and that is the proper flag to fly. A flag with its arms is now being made for McGill and will be flown from the Arts building—Montreal Daily Star.

What the Sentence Means.

Penal servitude is our most rigorous form of punishment. The first month of the sentence is served in what is known officially as separate—but is actually solitary—confinement. For twenty-three hours out of twenty-four the prisoner is entirely alone.
After the "separates" the prisoner is transferred to one of the large convict prisons, to spend the rest of his time on public works—in quarry or workshop.
As a rule, penal servitude is not given with sentences of less than three years' duration. For crimes demanding a shorter period of detention, imprisonment is awarded.

A sentence of imprisonment is served in either of three divisions, and in the case of third division prisoners hard labour may be added.
First division detention is rarely given except for political and "technical" offences and any one thus sentenced suffers but little beyond the loss of personal liberty.

The second division is intended chiefly for first offenders, for those imprisoned for debt, and for those who are guilty of offences more by force of circumstances than by deliberate choice.
The treatment in this division is naturally more drastic than in the first. But it is not of the typical prison life as experienced in the third division. Here the prisoner comes under the full rigour of the prison-system, and where hard labour has also been ordered there is not a great deal of difference between this form of imprisonment and that known as penal servitude.

Wealth From Fibre.

A wonderful new fibre that will bring vast wealth into Britain has been discovered by Sir Henry Wickham, the world's greatest authority on tropical forestry.

Since the failure of the Russian flax crops the British Government has been trying to discover a substitute for flax, and at last Sir Henry has succeeded. His new fibre, which is called "arghan," is superior to flax in appearance, strength, and water-resisting powers, and it is much cheaper to produce.

Although not naturally found in British Malaya, "arghan" is now thriving there. Enormous difficulties had to be overcome, and Sir Henry's reputation will be increased still more by his romantic achievement. This fibre promises to bring more wealth to England than almost any other discovery in history.

Silage Crops.

Over one hundred years ago attempts were made to preserve green leaves of various kinds for winter stock feed. Experience has given us the present-day silo and the wide variety of farm crops suitable for the silo. Since a good silage is often eaten by animals in preference to grain, and two and a half tons of timothy hay, the importance of the silo, for the dairy farm especially, is evident.

A crop in the silo goes through somewhat the same chemical changes that are noticed in the heating of hay, the making of sauer kraut from cabbage or vinegar from apple juice or sour from sweet milk. The aim is not only to preserve the food material and flavour of the green plant, but to make it more digestible by the dissolving action of the acid produced. Further, the acid formed keeps the silage from getting mouldy or decaying. Since the acid destroys these acids, it is evident that, to get good silage, the crop must be tightly packed in an air tight silo.

Is Friday Unlucky?

A great many people believe implicitly that Friday always brings misfortune, and they can always give plenty of facts to prove their belief. The following list shows, however, that Fridays are as often lucky as they are unlucky.
Shakespeare was born on a Friday. America was discovered on a Friday. Washington was born on a Friday. The Battle was destroyed on a Friday. The Mayflower landed on a Friday. Queen Victoria was married on a Friday. Napoleon was born on a Friday. The battle of Waterloo was fought on a Friday.
(Note.—English history, if we mistake not, usually gives Sunday, June 18, 1875, as the day on which Wellington defeated Napoleon.—Editor Telegram.)

Blind to Read Printed Page.

A new device enabling the blind to read has been tried out in New York and found successful. Whether it will be adopted in Boston's institutions for the blind has not yet been determined.

It is called the optophone, and is the invention of Prof. E. E. Fournier d'Albe, B.S., M.R.L.A., formerly lecturer of Birmingham, Eng. When the original experiments were made before the London optical convention in 1912 they created widespread scientific interest. Since that time the idea has been developed until now it bids fair to revolutionize the teaching of the blind.

Briefly, the optophone produces rays of light which, converted into musical sounds, are the medium by which persons totally blind may read newspapers and an ordinary book.

Under the auspices of the Engineers' Development Corporation, Jersey City, the device was given a practical tryout when Miss Margaret Hogan, the first blind woman to graduate from Columbia University, class of 1911, read both newspapers and books at the rate of 14 words a minute.

LETTERS PRODUCE SOUND.

The principle of the optophone is as follows: Light projected by a tiny photograph lens streams through five rows of oblong perforations in a revolving disc, and is reflected back and transformed into sound by means of selenium cells.

To the untechnical observer these rays of light appear to correspond to the five parallel bars of a musical staff, producing, as they pass over each letter, five notes of the musical scale, as follows: Sol, do, re, mi and sol again on a high key.

You take your partner for the first dance in the usual way, and the music starts up, and you dance. Then a gentleman blows a whistle, and you stop, the dance for the first part of the evening, when everybody is looking at everybody and wishing they knew some of them.

"Ladies form a ring in the centre of the room; gentlemen form a ring outside" announces the whistle-blower. As soon as the circles have been formed the voice of the whistle-blower is heard again:
"Ladies to the left, gentlemen to the right—move!"

The music plays, and round goes the circle. Don't be nervous in going round. Remember the days when you used to play musical chairs.
The whistle blows, and the circles stop.

"Dance with the lady opposite you," commands the kindly knight of the whistle; and perhaps you're dancing with the very girl you've been dying to know.

Tight Rope Thrills.

Miss Eleanor, an English tight-rope walker, has announced her intention of crossing Niagara Falls on a tight-rope, early in June. Should she succeed she will not be the first to accomplish this perilous feat.
It was in 1859 that Blondin announced his determination to cross Niagara Falls on a tight-rope, and world-wide interest was aroused. The rope was stretched over the Falls nearly 250 feet above the rapids, and Blondin walked across, carrying a long balancing pole. Not content with this, he decided to take a passenger over on his back, and his manager, A. Mr. Calcutt, volunteered, and was safely carried over.

During the next few years there was quite a number of people who copied Blondin's feat. One man rode across on a bicycle, while a Scotsman named McDonnell successfully performed the hazardous feat of walking to the centre of the rope and standing on his head for a short time before continuing his journey.

Perhaps the most sensational feat in the history of Niagara Falls was performed by Signora Spitaleri, who successfully crossed with bushel baskets on her feet in girdle of the usual tight-rope walker's shoes!

What is Your Verdict!
Is it not safe to assume that the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, who manufacture in their own huge perfectly equipped plant practically every part of the Ford car, are the people best qualified to make replacement parts at the lowest price compatible with the high quality which must be maintained?
Manufacturers of spurious parts, operating as they do on a small scale with limited capital and inadequate equipment, cannot possibly make parts of the same quality or accuracy at anywhere near the low price you have to pay for Genuine Ford Parts. Yet you are asked to believe that these spurious parts not only equal Genuine Ford Parts in quality but can be produced to sell for less!
We rest our case here. The verdict we leave to you.

Harbor Grace Notes.

What was supposed to have been a falling meteor was witnessed by a large number of our townspeople on Sunday night last, near the hour of 8 o'clock.

A resident of the West End, in the person of Mr. George Sheppard, met with a very bad accident this morning. The unfortunate man was coming from the country with a load of wood, when his slide capsized, and he was thrown underneath; his head relieved will prove fatal. At the time of the accident, his son was with him. Deepest sympathy is expressed for the family of the injured man.

The train from the city, due to arrive about 2.30, did not get in until somewhere near five o'clock, owing to the condition of the track at the present time. She brought along a foreign mail—the first for some time, and, needless to say was most acceptable.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Eli Verge, whose death took place at her home, Pipe Track, on Sunday, was held to-day, Tuesday afternoon; interment being made in the Church of England Cemetery. Condolence to the bereaved.

To-day (St. Patrick's Day) is, as is customary, a general holiday in town, and a very fine one for those who purposed "catching the speckled beauties," as well as for all who were hoping that the weather would prove favorable.

Rev. W. H. Browning, pastor of the Methodist Church, has been ill for the past few days, but is on the mend now.

The harbor is still frozen over from the Point of Beach inwards, and is daily used by our South side folk, as well as those of this side. During the last few days of frosty weather it has caught over some distance beyond the Beach referred to.

Mr. Darcy, representing the Imperial Tobacco Co. (Nfld.) Ltd., was in town during the past week.

During the past few days several accidents have occurred; and sad to say one fatality. Mrs. John Pike, of Harvey St. West, fell on the ice, not a very great distance from her home, which resulted in her arm being broken. Mrs. Pike is being treated at home, and at the present time is on the mend.

Mrs. Douglas French, of Water St., west, whilst coming down the road, somewhere near Main's Lane, slipped on the ice and fell, yesterday afternoon, causing serious injuries. Dr. Cron was called, who found that her leg had been broken near the hip. Mrs. French is somewhat advanced in years, and the fall having such an effect, is indeed serious. Arrangements were immediately made to have her conveyed to the General Hospital, St. John's, to have the broken limb attended to. We trust to hear that Mrs. French's condition is improving.

Reference was made on the 14th inst., to the accident which occurred to Mr. George Sheppard, when on the way from the woods with a load of wood; and it is with deep regret we now chronicle the passing of Mr. Sheppard. Death came as an end to his sufferings, about six or seven hours after the time of the sad happening. The sympathy of the whole community is aroused over the untimely passing of one of the town's respected citizens. Left to mourn are a wife, three sons, Ronald, William and Leonard; two daughters, Elsie and Marjorie; three brothers and one sister. The funeral took place yesterday Thursday afternoon, Rev. W. E. R. Cracknell, conducting the services. At the Church, Christ Church, a very powerful sermon was delivered by the rev. gentleman, which has been commented upon as one which must have sunk deep into the hearts and minds of the hearers, the words of the preacher being so very touching and beautiful. "May the God of all comfort be very near to the family who are called upon to bear this heavy affliction."

Miss G. Parsons went out by Wednesday morning's train to spend a time with her sister, Mrs. Wiseman, of the city.

Mr. R. Ritcey, of St. John's and representing the Acadia Gas Engine, Ltd., was in town on Thursday.

Dr. W. S. Goodwin and assistant, Mr. William Stevenson, are at present at Bay Roberts on a professional visit.

A S. U. F. dance will be held in the Masonic Hall on Monday evening, April 24th.

St. George's Day, April 23rd, coming on Sunday, will be observed as a general holiday on the following day, 24th.

Mr. A. French, representing Soper & Moore, St. John's, was in town during the week.

March 17th, 1922.

Twenty Years Ago To-Day.

(Evening Telegram, March 20, 1902.)

Suburban farmers all actively engaged getting their land in readiness for seeding.

Men from Little Fogo Islands report that the sealing ships were in the vicinity of Snap Rock, and apparently taking seals.

The argument in re the arbitration between the Government and the Reid Nfld. Railway Co., was heard before the Supreme Court. Mr. Morris, K.C., contended that one of the daily trains to Carbonear should be discontinued. Mr. Morris, K.C., for the Government, maintained that the train should not be taken off without it could be shown that there was not enough traffic to keep the trains running.

Russia and France addressed a warning to England and all the Powers that they would duly protect their interests in China.

The Filipino Insurrection on Samar Island closed with the surrender of Guevana.

Sir Isaac Newton at the Mint.

Of Sir Isaac Newton, who died on March 20, 1727, Lord Macaulay has written that "there may have been minds as happily constituted as his for the cultivation of research purely experimental; but in no other mind have the demonstrative faculty and the inductive faculty co-existed in such supreme excellence and perfect harmony." In popular anecdote, he figures as the hero of two familiar stories—one about the falling apple, the other about the two holes cut in his study-door, a big hole for his cat and a small hole for her kitten. But his successful tenure of office as Warden of the Mint under William III. is less frequently called to mind, although it was very memorable in its way. Until Newton was appointed the place generally was regarded as a sinecure suitable for an idle courtier, but his ability, industry and integrity wrought a revolution in the department. "Well had it been for the public," wrote a contemporary, "had he acted a few years sooner in that situation." Still, as it was, he filled it at a time of vital importance, during the great measure of re-coinage undertaken under the auspices of Montague, later Lord Halifax. Until that great work was accomplished, as Macaulay records, "he resisted sternly and almost angrily, every attempt by men of science, here or on the continent, to draw him away from his official duties." Certainly it was a task demanding his undivided energies and attention, for the operation was critical, and the year in which the old coins were called in and the new ones circulated, was a period of no small national inconvence and suffering. Happily the people faced it with a good spirit, and it was recorded afterwards as remarkable that a time when much popular ferment might have been expected, passed without a serious riot.

St. James' Court.

The appellation of "St. James' Court," is given to the court of Great Britain because the official residence of the King of England was at the Palace of St. James from 1583, in the time of William III, until 1837, during the reign of Queen Victoria. Then the queen and the remainder of the royal family changed their abode to Buckingham Palace, but, in theory, the court continued to reside in the squat and rather ugly offices of St. James. In support of this legal fiction, many official functions continued to be held there, and, to this day, representatives of foreign powers are still accredited to the "Court of St. James," the palace being so named because it occupies the site of a hospital for lepers founded in the Twelfth Century and dedicated to St. James the Less.

Get a 10-cent box now.

You're headachy! You have a bad taste in your mouth, your eyes burn, your skin is yellow, your lips parched. No wonder you feel mean. Your system is full of bile not properly off, and what you need is a cleansing up inside. Don't continue "having a bilious nuisance" to yourself and those who love you, and don't resort to harsh physics that irritate and injure. Remember that most disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels are gone by morning with gentle, thorough Cascarets—they work while you sleep. A 10-cent box will keep your liver and bowels clean; stomach sweet, and your head clear for months. Children love to take Cascarets too because they never gripe or sicken.

The Death of Henry IV.

On March 20, 1413, Henry IV., King of England, died in the Jerusalem Chamber of Westminster Abbey. While praying there before the shrine of Edward the Confessor he had a fit, and after being taken in great agony to the Abbot's house he rallied for a short season, but could not be removed further. He expired at forty-six years of age, after reigning less than fifteen years. It was said to have been foretold of this Sovereign that he would die in Jerusalem, and this circumstance Shakespeare has immortalized in his play, which bears the name of the king, whom he describes as asking to be taken into that apartment after inquiring and learning its name. Perhaps Henry's desire to visit Jerusalem as a pilgrim, through rebukes of conscience, had suggested this hope and expectation. Twice, in 1390 and 1392, he had gone abroad on Crusade, or war for the Cross, but only further east in Europe to redeem and rescue Christians who had been captured by Turks and other Mohammedans. While at the Mediterranean island of Rhodes, at the close of 1392, he sailed to Jaffa, or Joppa, a seaport on the coast of Palestine (Jonah 1:3; Acts ix. 36), and thence made a short visit inland to Jerusalem, one donkey carrying all his majesty's possessions. After his death, his body was conveyed along the Thames to Gravesend, and thence overland to Canterbury, where, in the cathedral, it was buried, by the tomb of the Black Prince, Richard III's father. His second wife, Joan of Navarre, was interred by his side in 1437.

Princess Secluded on Her Honeymoon

MARY AND LASCELLES DESPITE WITH THE TELEPHONE ON THE WESTERN ESTATE.

SHIPFAL, England, March 1. (Associated Press)—The honeymoon of Princess Mary and Viscount Lascelles, who were married in London yesterday, will be spent in seclusion at Weston Park if their wishes are observed. They expressed great gratification for the tremendous display of gifts which will be at their wedding, but now they frankly wish to be left alone in their manor with its 11,000 acres of ground.

There is no formality in the seclusion and there are no court attendants or relatives. There are only a few servants whose purpose is to maintain the seclusion of the royal pair as long as possible. Even the telephone has been dispensed with in order to make the manor secure from intrusion.

It is the purpose of the couple to leave the manor for at least a week. In the meantime the great estate offers all they want in the way of diversion and exercise. This morning their horses were brought out for a ride, but rain caused the Princess to remain indoors. Her husband, however, went out for a stroll and inspected the church on the estate.

The interest of the villagers in the decorous and respectful. Last night there was a bonfire celebration in the village, but to-day the people of the countryside had fallen in with the wish of the newlyweds to be left alone.

Upon His Honor as Minister of the Gospel

REV. W. A. THOMPSON WRITES OF DR. F. G. KINSMAN'S HEART TABLETS. I had heart trouble severely for fifteen years and had many doctors to treat me with no discernible effect. I had become so low that I could scarcely walk fifty steps. At night I was troubled with fluttering of the heart, and by no means had a night's rest for that length of time. I had pains most excruciating and could not lie on my left side even for a moment. I tried five boxes of your Heart Tablets and can now truthfully say that I am well. I am a Minister of the Gospel and upon my word as such, I believe I could not have lived had it not been for your remedy. I am not, generally speaking, willing to give testimonials, but I fully owe this or more to you as owner of the Heart Tablets.

CROUP.

Mrs. W. Furniss, Hillsdale, Sask., writes:—"I have used Dr. Chase's Linseed & Turpentine with great benefit for my little boy, age three years. He was very sick with croup, so I sent for a large bottle of Dr. Chase's Linseed & Turpentine. The first few doses greatly eased the choking feeling, so I continued to give it to him, and before the first bottle was finished he was quite well again. I also have three other boys, all of them subject to croup, and I never give them anything except Dr. Chase's Linseed & Turpentine. I always keep a bottle in the house and would not be without it as we live so far from town and croup or cold come on so suddenly."
