WATFORD, MAY 25, 1906.

Not for Daily Wear.

King Edward's crown is not the most costly in the world, but by virtue of its old and glorious associations it is the most valuable Royal relic known. It weighs forty ounces. In front of it is a ruby measuring two inches in length, which has been valued at £110,000. Without counting this ruby or a huge sapphire which is in the center of the cross-patee at the top, the crown contains four rubbies, eleven emeralds, sixteen sapphires, 277 pearls, and 2,-783 diamonds.

The first orb is called the King's orb, and is set with 266 diamonds, 511 pearls, eighteen rubies, nine emeralds, and seven sapphires. The Queen's orb, as the second orb is called is smaller, and not so valuable. It was made for the Coronation of William and Mary.

The sceptre, one of five in the possession of the Sovereign, is of gold ornamented with colored enamel, and set with precious stones in the pommel. The stones consist of 301 diamonds, twenty-five rubies, twelve emeralds and eight sapphires. It cost for gold, jewels, and workmanship, £1,025.

A Domestic Problem.

A remarkable state of affairs is disclosed by reading the heartrending columns in the evening papers of Toronto wherein women are advertising for household help. The situation grows desperate and never were more abject appeals put into print than are now appearing. Salted among the other advertisments are some sent in by the employment agencies offering house maids and general servants such high wages and light duties as would seem certain to attract any girl seeking service, to the offices of these agencies. But the genuine advs. are in many cases tragically appealing. One lady tries to secure a general servant by offering "the highest wages, no washing, every Wednesday and Sunday afternoon and every night off." Each advertiser tries to put in some little touch that will attract an applicant. No washing, no ironing, no children,,' says one. "A good Christian home," says another. "Light, easy place," coaxes a third. Stories float around months and has not yet been able to get a maid. Another woman pays much less and has no trouble whatever in getting help. The end of it will probably be that many families

A Builetin on the Bacon Hog.

An exhaustive bulletin on the production of hogs in Canada for the British bacon trade is ready for dis-tribution from the office of the live stock commissioner at Ottawa. It is divided into fourteen parts each dealing with a section of the bacon industry under the following heads: Introduction; The Standard Bacon Type; Undesirable Hogs for Bacon Production; Breeds and Breeding Care of Breeding Animals; Rearing and finishing; Cost of Grain at Dif-ferent Stages of Growth; Soft Bacon; Foods; Preparation of Food; Composition of Foods used in Swine Feeding; Value of Hog Manure; Gestation Table; The Present and Future of the Canadian Bacon Industry.

Besides the personal experience of the live stock commissioner and members of his staff, every reliable source of information within reach was drawn upon in securing data for the bulletin. After describing the type and breeds of hog suitable for the bacon trade and discussing the best and most economical methods of rearing and feeding the bulletine points out that the bacon industry of Canada worth some thirteen million dollars per year is worthy of the earnest support of the farmers of Canada. In order to encourage and assist this valuable trade this bulletin has been prepared with great care and exactness as to teach-It is helpfully illustrated by half tone cuts of swine of different pure breeds, correct and incorrect types of hogs, ideal and faulty sides of bacon, besides plans and description of the moveable pen which is becoming very popular. The bulletin is No. 10 of the live stock branch. Copies may be secured free by application to the live stock commissioner, Ottawa.

The Coon Came Down

The decision of Turkey to accept the ultimatum of Great Britain and evacuate Egyptian territory was to be expected. The Sultan is in the habit of making "bluffs" of this character, and then throwing up his hand, though usually the situation created by him has some effect on European diplomacy This time it is difficult to see what possible advantage he could gain by embroiling himself with Great Britain. The Arglo-French entente renders any further dispute concerning Egypt extremely problematical, and certainly Germany would be ill-advised immediately after the Morocco incident to meddle with the status quo in the Near East. Above all this stands the ideal administration of Egypt by Lord Cromer, an administration with which not even Germany can find fault. It may be, of course, that the Sultan thought the Campbell-Bannerman Government was for peace at any price No doubt many Englishmen thought so. The firm attitude displayed in this matter undoubtedly will strengthen pubic confidence in the Ministry.

Cutting Across Lawns.

If there is one thing more aggravat ing than another to the lover of a well kept lawn, it is said to have thought less pedestrians cut across the corner and cut the lawn into a path. There are few who live on corner lots who to the effect that Mrs. So and so has are not made victims of such trespas-been advertising off and on for six sers. This is the time of year when people should consider what they are doing towards destroying the beauty of a lawn by wearing a path across one corner. It is not a pleasant duty for those whose lawns are thus trampled upon to have to tell a neighbor of his megligence, but is something that every man ought to make clear to the "short-cutter." He should be given to under-stand that he cannot with impunity mar the appearance of property. Should an offender persist in paying no attention to friendly admonition then the law should be evoked and the offender punished for his wilfulness. If we are to have an attractive town every green spot should be made the best of by residents. If you are a short-cutter discontinue the practice at once and have some consideration for your neighbor's property.

Tunnel Plant.

It is expected that the electrical equipment for the tunnel will arrive in Port Huron next week. A gentleman connected with the Grand Trunk railway says: "The entire machinery, engines, poles, wires and motors will come on a special train. The work will be done by a large gang of medirectly from the Westinghouse Company, and will not interfere with tunnel traffic. In other words the work will be done between trains."

GETLE BELL BIOGRAPHIES

Alendelssohn ELIX MENDELSSOHN (-BARTHOLDY), born at Hamburg 1809, died at Leipsic 1847, was one of the greatest composers of the 19th century, and though not a brilliant player, he was an organist and planist of high distinction. His career, like Bach's, was an organist and pianist of high distinction. His career, like Bach's, Mozart's and Beethoven's, illustrates the power of good music in the home. He began his studies under his mother, and first played in public when only 9 years old. In his 11th year he produced 60 compositions—songs, cantatas, dramatic scenes and trios. At 15 he composed his fine Symphony in C minor (Op. 10). And so great was his precocity that at 17 he finished the score of his Overture to Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream," which, though more than three-quarters of a century old, is still one of the most brilliant achievements in modern music. His Oratorio "Elijah" and his "Scotch Symphony," have added considerably to his fame.

Of his piano compositions, the best known and most popular are his "Songs Without Words," the scores of which were first published in 1832, when he was 23 years old. They are full of a peculiar vein of pure and charming melody and of simple sensuous harmony. Though devoid of great technical difficulties, they require the aid of an instrument like

The Bell Piano With its rich, Singing Tone and its easy, flexible action, to render forth all their lovely moods and beauty. The "Songs Without Words" are pre-eminently for the home, and the Bell Art Piano is beyond all others both the virtuoso's and Tive Home-Lover's Piano.

License Law Changes.

According to the new license law no woman will be permitted to tend bar, nor will any boy not of age. A license will entitle a bartender to follow the occupation in the municipality only in which it is issued, unless it is endorsed by the license inspector of another riding. Bottles in case goods must not be filled, and the inspector is empowered to test all liquors. Violation of this clause of the act renders the guilty person liable to a fine of from $20 to $100. The change in the Indian list is important. The man must be notified of the issuing of the notices. It is forbidden the hotelkeepers to permit such a man to loiter around the barroom or such place where liquor is sold; it is ordered that the man himself shall not loiter around such places. If he does he is subject to a penalty of not less than $10 nor more than $20. But if the person having the habit of drinking to excess and against whom notice has been served within twelve months attempts to secure liquor from parties with whom notice has been served or loiters around their premises, he will be sub-for one month.

The committee on election laws, of which A. H. Clarke, K. C., M. P. for South Essex, is a member, commenced the actual work of revising the existing Dominion election laws with a view of securing cleaner elections. The most important change adopted was that which provides that an elector who neglects to discharge his duty as a citizen by exercising the trust reposed in him as a voter shall be disqualified from voting for six years unless he shows upon oath good reason for his failure to go to the polls. Another important change which will be, it is expected, almost as far-reaching in its effects as that referred to above was in the clause referring to the hiring of carriages on election day. A person demanding or receiving payment for the use of a horse or team on election day is also made liable to a penalty of

The Summer Evenings.

A writer in the Strathroy Age has the following which some Watford young men would do well to pouder over: -Now, young fellow, how are you going to spend them? You know how you spent the winter ones and can tell if you spent them to advantage or not. They are gone, and gone forever. Rut the summer is before you. What are you going to do? Have a good time. I hope so. But that, I trust, does not mean wasted time. If you are inclined to sport take it up, if it be honest, harmless sport. But for any sake, don't loaf around the street corners. If you like baseball get in to the game. If you prefer rowing get hold of a boat and get some one to teach you how to manage it. And if you can do nothing else buy a bike. You may run somebody down, but what of that, if you save your own precious neck? Choose your sport with a view to building? your physical system, and take care not to over do it. It makes me madder than a wet hen to see the same fellows parading up and down Front street, night after night with their hands in their pockets and a hunk of tobacco in their mouth and every now and then "flagging" some girl as she happens along. Once a week is quite enough for that sort of thing.

DEATH OF MADAME RIEL.

Mother of Louis Riel, The Metis Leader.

Winnipeg, May 21.—One of the notable characters of the West, as we'l as one of the landmarks of the past, died yesterday in the person of Dame Julie Lagmodiere Riel, mother of Louis Riel, the turbulant and misguided Metis leader, who headed two rebellions against the Canadian authorities, Madame Riel was 86 years old, and was born in St. Boniface, her parents being the first white settlers of Western Canada. She was married there 64 years ago, and long life was characterized by unwavering faith in the unbappy son, which even the hardest criticism could not assail. Sorrow over his tragic end in paying the penalty of treason was the only cloud of her declining years. She had ten children, and one of her boasts was that in all her lone life she had never been attended by a physician. Three children, two sons and a daughter survive.

Moloy's flax mill, in Thedford, has closed for the season. About 20 hands were employed, and most of them will be provided with work in the new evaporator now in course of construction.

Margaret came from the orchard whistling cheerily, a heaped basket of jewel red apples poised carefully upon her bare brown head. Miss Prudence Heathcote, her aunt and guardian, frowned at the whistling, but had to smile a bit when Margaret broke out: "Now, Prudence, precious, come at me with the saying about whistling girls and crowing hens! I know you hate my sole musical accomplishment, but this day is enough to set a graven image whistling, even dancing, if it was of anything softer than granite. You ought to be out in it. The orchard is a place enchanted. I didn't know until now things so prosaic as apple gathering and cider making could set themselves to music."

"H-m!" Miss Prudence said. "H-m!
May I ask if Jimmy Blair is out there, as he promised to be?"

"Of course! A gentleman keeps his promises, doesn't he?" Margaret answered, tossing her head, but flushing in spite of herself.

Again Miss Prudence said "H-m!" There appeared to be nothing else to may. But after two breaths she got up and moved toward the kitchen, sighing out: "And of course he'll be here to dinner. That means cooking things. Men do have such atrocious appetites

"I'm glad they do," Margaret retorted shamelessly. "I've got one to match anybody. Oh, Aunty Prue, do make a potato pudding! Make it very rich and have lots of thick, sweet, real lemon sauce."

"Go 'way, you baggage!" Miss Prudence said over her shoulder. "Who sold you what Jimmy likes best? I've the greatest mind to make dried apple pies, just to see if he would know the difference," smiling at Margaret as she spoke the last sentence,

Margaret blushed very red and began to pout. "You mean Jimmy is so gone on me he's not in his right mind," she said. "But you're all wrong, Aunty Prue. I-I don't believe he-he cares for me a bit-hardly. Not that way, at least. All this week he's been as kind as could be, but distant-as if he was afraid I wouldn't understand."

"Then there's mischief afoot, what sort I've got to find out," Miss Prudence said vigorously, her hand on the door knob, "for if ever any lad was clean out of his head, clean idiotic about a chit of a thing, it was Jimmy about you, all last week and all the weeks before it, since you came to stay with me."

"Mischief afoot, but where?" she kept mentally repeating to herself as she whisked about the trim kitchen. her brows puckered, her eyes introspective. On the surface she could see nothing. Nobody had openly any right or reason to be interfering between the pair. Jimmy was an orphan the same as her Peggy. Moreover, he had never had the least shadow of an entanglement. True, various and sundry young women had been setting their caps at im-pretty caps, modestly set-but be overlooked them all - unless it were—Miss Prue gave a great start. There was the root of the trouble; its name, Videlia Bane. Jimmy had rather made up to her in the weeks just before Peggy came. Now that she thought of it, he had squired Della to church two Sundays running, besides buying many things for her at the strawberry supper and fair. And Delia, it was well known, wanted to mar-ry and settle herself. She had three younger sisters crowding her in the home nest. Naturally she would do what she could to hold Jimmy, the best chance in all Easton town.

But how she had done it Miss Prudence could not fathom, although she studied the problem almost to the detatment of her dinner. She sat down to at still puzzled. Jimmy greeted her and the dinner rapturously and talked a great deal of his appetite and of many other things, but somehow did not eat with his usual zest, although made a fair meal. Nobody with a palate could help doing that with such Things as Miss Prudence set before Mira. Jimmy assured Margaret more than once that if such cooking ran in the family her future husband was the Inckiest fellow alive.

"I think so too. That's why it's so provoking not to have him come along," Margaret said at last. "Only think, Jimmy, I'm almost twenty-one and have never had a real business beau! Isn't it shameful when Aunty Prue is going to will me all her pretty dishes and the Heathcote silver? Fancy an heiress without a sweetheart!"

"Such destitution is painful-so painand I hardly believe it exists," Jimmy said, turning away his head, then breaking inconsequently into talk of Miss Prudence, watching him, saw that his teeth had set before he could speak. Of the seeing came enlightenment in part. She meant to make it whole before she was much older. So as soon as dinner was over she sent Margaret upon an errand and herself drew Jimmy on to the barn with a pretext of wanting his advice as to the new hayloft and stalls. She was a straight speaking person, womanly, withal courageous. So as soon as they were inside the stall space she wheeled upon Jimmy, asking plumply, "What cock and bull story has Della Bane told you?"

"Who said she had told me anything?" Jimmy retorted. "Besides, she didn't need to. My eyes are fairly trustworthy."

"Sure of it?" Miss Prudence asked. "If you are, please to tell me what they have told you about my Peggy. I know you think you've got a grievance—no, not exactly a grievance, but "It is a hurt, but I don't blame her for it. I can't—she—she must have met the other fellow first," Jimmy said, turning away his head. Miss Prudence stamped her foot. "What other fellow?" she demanded.

Jimmy answered miserably: "The one I saw her kissing and hugging Saturday out under the chestnut trees. She was all dressed up, in white and low necked, and they were carrying on like mad, else I shouldn't have seen them. 1-I started to go up when I heard her talking, but after I caught a word or two sneaked away, like a whipped hound."

"No doubt," Miss Prudence said angrily, "but tell me this-where did you sneak to? Went straight home, I reckon, and after supper over to the Baneses. That right?" Jimmy nodded. 'Now tell me straight what Miss Della told you and how she came to do it."

"I won't!" Jimmy said stoutly. "I'm no telltale. I'd seen enough, and Della saw it had made me mighty miserable. All she did was to set me right-let me know Margaret was"-

"Playing, play acting with her?" Miss Prudence broke in. "Did she tell you that—tell you how the girls have been practicing against the church sociable? Della was dressed up in man's clothes and my Peggy playing sweetheart to her. I know. there, up on the big dead trunk, holding the play book and laughing fit to kill. Now, don't you wish you had sneaked the other way?"

"You-you don't mean there isn't any other fellow?" Jimmy cried incredulously.

Miss Prudence sniffed. "Of course I don't mean any such thing. There are twenty other fellows—bound to be with a girl like Margaret-but I don't believe she likes any of them best unless it is the very chucklehead I'm talking to right now."

"Miss Prudence!" Jimmy ejaculated, then caught her tight in his arms. He was shaking like a leaf, as near to laughing as to crying.

Thus Margaret came upon them and called out roguishly: "Is it to be really Uncle Jimmy? Well, I don't mind so long as we have you in the family."

"It's to be anything in the world-you say," Jimmy said, darting to her. Then as he caught both her hands and laid them against his breast he turned a beaming face upon Miss Prudence, saying: "Peggy is sweet enough, pretty enough, for anything, but when it comes to looking like an angel to a man in trouble, why, she'll never be in it with our Aunty Prue."

The Cause of It.

"In a village which is a suburb of New Bedford," said Mark Twain, "a friend of mine took me to the dedication of a town hall and pointed out to me a bronzed, weather beaten old man over ninety years old. 'Do you see any passion in that old man?' said he to me. 'You don't? Well, but I can make him a perfect volcano to you. I'll just mention to him something very casually." And he did. Well, that old man suddenly gave vent to an outburst such as I had never heard in my life before. I listened to him with that delight with which one listens to an artist. The cause of it was this: When that old man was a young sailor he came back from a three year cruise and found the whole town had taken the pledge. He hadn't, so he was ostracized. Finally he made up his mind he couldn't stand ostracism any longer, and he went to the secretary and said, 'Put my name down for that temperance society of yours.' Next day he left on another three year cruise. It was torture to him to watch his men drinking and he pledged not to. Finally he got home. He got a jug of liquor, ran to the society and said, 'Take my name right off.'
'It isn't necessary,' said the secretary. 'You never were a member; you were blackballed.'

Concerning Oranges.

An eminent Japanese bacteriologist has shown that the acids of lemons, apples and other fruits-citric acid, malic acid-are capable of destroying all kinds of disease germs. Cholera germs are killed in fifteen minutes by lemon juice or apple juice, and typhoid fever germs are killed in half an hour by these acids, even when considerably diluted. Lightning Conductors. The efficiency of lightning conductors is fairly well attested by the freedom of the great cathedrals and tall spired churches from injury. St. Paul's and Westminster abbey, for example, are well protected and serve to safeguard a large area surrounding them. Experience in the navy is to the same effect. In former days, before conductors were employed, there was an annual charge for damage to his majesty's ships by hightning. Between 1820 and 1815, according to Sir W. Snow Harris, thirtyfive sails of the line and thirty-five frigates and smaller vessels were complete ly disabled. That item has now vanished from the votes.-London Telegraph.

Obstinacy.

There is something in obstinacy which differs from every other passion. Whenever it fails it never recovers, but either breaks like iron or crumbles sulkily away like a fractured arch. Most other passions have their period of fatigue and rest, their sufferings and their cure, but obstinacy has no resource, and the first wound is mortal. -Johnson.

trouble with this country is that it is full of people who are running out work that they consider "plenty good enough." From the man who the grass on your lawn or builds you a shed, up to the men who sit in par-liament and rule the country, nearly everybody is aiming to render such service as will be good enough to answer the purpose. The carpenter who is botching his job in the way easiest for himself will tell you that it is good enough, but those whose makeshifts are not so readily detected will inform you that their way is best and the other way would not answer at all. To the Municipal Council, of the Township of Bosanquet.

GENTLEMEN:—In accordance with instruction received from your Hon. Body I beg to state that I have made an examination of the South Boundary Drain in your municipality with a view to putting the same in a proper state of repair. This drain consists of a main drain and branch and both will require repair and I would recommend such work to be done in accordance with the profile herewith submitted.

The plan shows the course of the work and the lands affected by the proposed work. life. Miss Olivant, then took up the subject "Busy Work for the Primary Rooms" and showed a great many ways in which the little ones could be kept busy. That all busy work should have an educational value and have a direct bearing on the value and have a direct bearing on the lesson taught.

changes made by the New Educational Act, as it effected the Public School teachers.

Mr. Smith, of the Petrolea High School, then took up "Nature Study" with a 11 book class. He showed how the pupils could be led to examine the object and find out things for themselves—short lessons were the beat and the answers to all questions should be tound by observations conducted by the pupils themselves.

Dr. Goggin, of Toronto, was then introduced and dealt with "The Recitation."

Under the head of "Preparation for Recitation" he dealt with the preparation of the subject matter of lesson, the Room, the Pupil and the Teacher. As to subject Find cssential facts suited to minds of pupils. Arrange facts in logical order and connect them with knowledge already possessed by pupils.

DEATH SEEMED NEAR. Three Doctors Baffled But Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Came to the

Just a few months ago the home of Mr. James Beers, of Emerson, N. B., was filled with sorrow. It seemed that death would claim the life of their tright little girl. Toclaim the life of their tright little girl. Today this gloom is changed to joy. The little one is no longer ill, but is now bright, active and happy. Dr. Williams Pink Pills brought this change after three doctors had failed. Concerning this illness and cure Mrs. Beers says:—"At the age of six my little girl became very ill. At difterent times for the next year and a half three doctors treated her without benefit. She was terribly run down and her blood was nothing but water. Then dropsy set in.
She would swell so that her clothes were much too small for her. Her legs and feet were nearly twice their natural size. To make her torture worse rheumatism set in.
Her state was pitiable. Sometimes we thought she could not live much longer and for three months she could not walk a step.
To touch her was to cause her the greatest To touch her was to cause her the greatest agony. The doctors were baffled—they could do nothing for her and as a last resort we began the use of Dr. Williams Pink Pills. She took the pills several weeks when we saw there was a slight improvement. The improvement gradually became more marked and by the time she had taken twenty-one boxes her cure was complete. It is now nine months since she took the pills and she is now as well as she ever was and goes to school every day. I cannot speak too highly in favor of Dr. Williams Pink Pills for I feel they saved my little girl's life."

Watery blood is the cause of over half the sickness which prevails to day. To have health, strength and happiness you must have rich, red blood. Dr. Williams Pink Pills make this rich, red blood that is why they cure anaemia, indigestion, loss of appetite, rheumatism, neuralgia, nervous troubles, heart palpitation and all the ailments peculiar to growing girls and women. Sold by dealers in medicine or by mail at 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.
