Leak-Proof Inner Tubes

That Outlast Any Tire 14% Heavier—20% Lower Priced

Layer on Layer

Here is something every motorist should know.

Goodyear Laminated Tubes are not built of one thick piece of rubber. In a single piece of thick rubber flaws may be hidden. And the flaws may go clear through.

Goodyear Tubes are made of many thin layers—each of pure rubber—vulcanized together in one solid, extra-heavy tube.

In these thin sheets any tiny flaw shows up and we correct it at once.

These thin, perfect sheets, wrapped layer on layer, make a tube that can't leak. And the valve patch can't leak. It is part of the tube, not stuck on.

Please remember that. Many a tire trouble is due to a leaky tube.

Made Extra Thick

Goodyear Laminated Tubes are also extra-thick. They were always so.

But this year we have added an extra 14 per cent on the average—all pure rubber.

The War Exhibition

With two months still ahead for preparations and propaganda, the Canadian National Exhibition appears to be farther ahead in this year of war and terror than ever before.

Our American cousins simply love a good exhibition, and those who know the Toronto "fair" would just as soon come here as to California.

Some Americans think that owing to the war they are not allowed in Canada this year. The Exhibition authorities should take every means of dispelling the minds of our neighbors of this impression.

They usually come on a peaceful mission. They will find more actual war trophies and relics of the present conflict than anywhere else, except at the front.

Our American cousins are far beyond those of any similar exhibition elsewhere, but the special interest attaching to the war exhibit will lift it into a class by itself.

We think the Exhibition authorities would do well to convey to the public of the United States within a reasonable radius a clear intimation of all that is afoot for the end of August and the conditions that prevail in Ontario with regard to visitors.

It is not generally appreciated that within a radius of five hundred miles of Toronto the bulk of the population of the United States is to be found. There are the people to whom to appeal.

There has been no disposition on the part of the government to deal ungenerously with contractors. Indeed, criticism has been leveled at the government and other bodies on the score of over liberality.

"A second indiscretion," he explained, "will mean a court-martial and jail."

The committee established by the government under Hon. A. E. Kemp, affords a simple and ready means of gaining every information about the whole business of contracting and supplies.

developments in difficulty of financing. To construct solid ground and on this the required embankment over what is now largely the bottom of the harbor, and to eliminate all the extensive private interests now occupying the ground...

The Toronto Terminal Company, representing the joint interests of the G. T. R. and C. P. R., admits that the viaduct work east of Yonge street will probably take five years or more.

It is not unlikely that with all the difficulties in sight there remains a doubt in the minds of the railway authorities that the viaduct will ever be constructed at all.

Profiteering. Contractors who are keen about profits on their war material at present run a great chance of killing the goose that lays the golden eggs.

LORD KITCHENER'S GREAT BLUFF

How England Secretly Raised an Army Four Times as Big as She Has Admitted.

By J. HERBERT DUCKWORTH - From the American Magazine for July.

Mr. Duckworth is an Englishman belonging to a family of well-known London and Liverpool journalists, but for the past ten years, with the exception of two years in London for The New York Herald, he has lived most of the time in New York, where he has been connected with The Evening Sun.

HOW Kitchener's army was secretly increased from 1,000,000 to 4,000,000 men right under the very noses of ubiquitous German spies is one of the most amazing stories of the war.

The feat of clothing, arming and training this mighty host, and of then smuggling it out of a supposedly submarine-blockaded island to France, has no parallel in history.

It is completely deceived the German general staff as to England's military strength, and confounded the Teutonic theorists who had always maintained that it was impossible to make a soldier in less than three years.

When the British secretary of state for war first conceived the idea of putting into the field four million men, he realized that it would be a grave strategic blunder to allow the enemy to know what was really afoot.

THE scheme worked out admirably. Reprinting was phenomenally brisk from the first. Yet the Germans eagerly swallowed the fully phrased yarns that were published broadcast, that told how only conscription would save the British from utter disaster.

While the cartoonists and funny verse writers of the rest of the world were holding up to ridicule the sporting Englishman, who was supposed to be refusing to shoulder a gun in defence of his hearth and home, Great Britain was rapidly arming and equipping her own big army.

Looking squarely into the eyes of his questioner, Sir H. C. Schlatter said: "I don't know."

THE campaign of silence was conducted on strictly scientific lines. The newspaper editors were first warned that any indiscretion would mean a court-martial, under the Defence of the Realm Act, on charges of having "spread reports likely to interfere with the success of his Majesty's forces."

One London editor refused to "stay put." He published a list of some soldiers without the permission of the censor. Lord Kitchener sent for the offender.

"On what charges?" stuttered the astonished editor.

"Never mind," answered Lord Kitchener, "we will clap you into prison first and find the charges after the war is over."

By an appeal to cricket and football enthusiasts was headed, "The Greater Britain" a very clever "ad" was carried, the banker and Lord Kitchener with a finger pointing directly at the observer.

NATURALLY, mistakes were made. Not infrequently, to entice un-til the appeals were addressed to "Britishers" instead of to "Englishmen." Welshmen stayed at home until a Welsh Brigade was formed.

the very day after war was declared, thousands of workmen got busy all over the country turning churches, colleges, and schools into hospitals for wherever. Public parks were turned into ball grounds. Orders were given for millions of tent poles against the time when Kitchener's army would be engaged in a summer campaign on the continent.

Recruiting offices were opened in town houses, vacant stores, in tenements, in the offices of the German shipping companies, on village greens—in fact in all sorts of corners where a recruiting officer could set up a desk and chair.

On one day alone, August 20, ninety-seven vacant stores in tenements in the squares in the offices of the German shipping companies, on village greens—in fact in all sorts of corners where a recruiting officer could set up a desk and chair.

As a matter of fact, the early enlistment was so heavy that before the end of September Fleet street was tipped off by Whitehall to stop "imporing" for recruits from time to time new recruits too fast for the authorities to deal with them.

Stretching from Canterbury and Chatham across Kent, Surrey and Sussex into Hampshire, I motored thru a strip of territory, three or four miles wide and over a hundred miles long, that was almost one continuous campment. This campment included the military commands of Aldershot and Salisbury. It was the same wherever I went.

WHAT was the secret of Lord Kitchener's success in so easily increasing the size of his army voluntarily to enlist? It was advertising. A very few days after England had decided to enter the conflict, the British secretary of state for war first conceived the idea of putting into the field four million men.

THE caption on the one of the playing fields of England were absolutely deserted last September, and are now knee-deep with weeds and long grass. I have seen them, as I have also seen regiment after regiment tramping over the world-famous golf links.

PLING'S "muddled oafs" formed a Football Battalion of their own: cricketers, golfers, and other athletes went into the Sportsmen's Battalion. Eighty of the undergraduates of Oxford and Cambridge, and all the members of the different athletic teams, enlisted either in the ranks or applied for commissions.

Editor World—In these days of national stress, it may seem only to be expected that employers of labor are looking for efficiency amongst their employees, and the question naturally arises: "Does the employer contribute towards the efficiency of the worker?"

There was some excuse at first for the middle class married man hesitating about throwing up a $25-a-week job for a shilling a day. His folks could not subsist on the government scale of allowances that looked so generous to the working man.

After spending some months at the front, "in hiding" awaiting the day when they would be moved forward to take part in the "great push."

Lord Roberts did his duty: Are you doing yours? Remember Yarmouth. When your child grows up and asks, "What did you do, Father, in the great war?" What will your answer be?

It has been said that England was unprepared for this war. This is not true. Certainly she did not have a big army ready to put into the field; but she had a scheme to form one already thoroughly worked out to put into operation in an emergency. Why, are ready for a counter-offensive in northern Galicia.

The Russians, however, appear to have the situation in hand on the Dniester and are making a stubborn resistance. Judging by the number of prisoners taken, they appear to have the best of the fighting.

A desperate battle began by the Germans taking the offensive at Przasnysz Friday and it has continued without any result, the Russians report, but Berlin reports that the situation is unchanged on the eastern theatre, indicating that the Germans are making no progress before Warsaw.

The Russians who were forced to give way in the Orzyz Valley owing to the destruction of a road by terrific German artillery fire counter-attacked on Friday night and recaptured the work and five machine guns.

The attempted offensive of the enemy in the Orzyz Valley, near the Narw front, Thursday, caused him severe losses, the Russians report. He lost several of his best units, and the number of prisoners was increased to 150. A German battalion was annihilated by the Russian fire north of the town of Zawichost, when it approached the Russian entanglements.

To Be in Warsaw. A Renter cable from Petrograd says: "Papers found on Austrian and German prisoners show that the troops under Field Marshal Von Hindenburg were assured by their commander that we shall enter Warsaw June 28; Galicia will be entirely cleared of Russian forces by June 29 and after that peace can be concluded with Russia."

"Virtually all males between the ages of 15 and 50 left Lemberg before the city fell. Besides supplies of grain, oil, copper and other commodities, the Russians removed the valuable historical contents of the museum and art galleries before the evacuation."

To Be Long War. Not since the war began has the English public been so convinced that it will be a long one. Those who took this view months ago were called pessimists, but now it is generally admitted that the Russian armies must fight for months to come under tremendous disadvantages, and that the meaning of the match heralded by general movement on the western front must be indefinitely postponed, while the entente powers thoroughly reorganize their methods.

While the campaign for munitions in Great Britain is at its height, it must be assumed that Germany is straining every fibre to the same end, and calling into play her inventive skill, so as to increase the deadly incursions of war to offset the inevitable and terrible drain on her men.

The present consensus of opinion among military writers in London is that Germany intends further to press her eastern success with another battering ram stroke toward Warsaw, in an endeavor to seize that city and the whole line of the Vistula.

The line of offensive now directed from the Przasnysz region is along the banks of the Orzyz and Orzyz, tributaries of the River Narw, which flows across north Poland and joins the bend of the Vistula above Warsaw. The Russians checked the drive on the Orzyz and Orzyz rivers.

RUSSIANS COVER RETREAT

COLOGNE, via London, June 27.—The Russians are covering the retreat of their armies from Galicia by a vigorous defense along the middle course of the Dniester rather than to the north of Lemberg, because the ground in the district where they are now making a stand offers greater natural advantages, according to an explanation of the present situation printed by the Gazette.

A further barrier to the advance of the Austro-Germans is offered by strong fortifications thrown up by the Russians at Kamionka, northeast of Lemberg, at Busk, further south on the Bug River, and at Zoznow, almost due east of Lemberg, with which it is connected by rail. The Gazette

SOCIETY

Conducted by Mrs. Edmund Phillips.

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, Lady Hendrie and Miss Eud Hendrie, who have spent the last three weeks at the Queen's Royal, Niagara-on-the-Lake, left yesterday by motor for Hamilton, where they will stay at the Hotelmaid with Mrs. Hendrie until Tuesday or Wednesday, when they will continue by motor to Toronto, returning later to the Queen's Royal for another stay.

Will those who are taking part in the flag day on Dominion Day for the Toronto Humane Society call at the headquarters (first stop down McCaul street from College street) for their boxes and flags today?

The garden party given at "Ardara" club, Mrs. Norrey Worthington's beautiful place in Parkdale, by the ladies' committee of the United Empire Loyalists' Association for Red Cross work, on Saturday, was a very enjoyable one.

Worthington looked very handsome in a mauve and black suit, with a large hat. She was served on the lawn in a large marquee, the table decorated with a tulle and white, and a very attractive floral arrangement.

Mr. Charles MacQueen sang two patriotic pieces, "We'll Never Let the Old Flag Fall" and "Dublin Song." After the afternoon Prof. Michael Hambourg also played an interesting feature of the party was the presence of a fortune-teller, a bona-fide one, whom many consulted as to the present and future.

Among those present were: Lieut. Col. MacQueen, president of the U. E. Loyalists' Association and Mrs. MacQueen; Mrs. Dignam, vice-president; Mrs. MacQueen, Miss Helen Merrill, non-secretary; Mr. E.
