FIND THE MURDERERS - DON'T COME BACK UNTIL YOU DO FIND THEM

The Order to the Yukon Mounted Police Which Solved a Triple Murder Mystery

(New York World.) Here is a story of the most remarkable police force in the world—a story of the detectives of the British North-west of the men who ferret out the murder mysteries of the tangled wilderness of the Yukon.

It is a story, says the New York World, of human bloodhounds, of men who once on the scent never pause until the criminals they are pursuing are run to earth.

In the territorial jail of the Klondike, at Dawson, lie two men, whom the wonderful detectives of the Northwest charge with the murder of four men in the remote wilderness of the Yukon valley.

Their names are Victor Fournier and Edward Labelle. They were captured after a chase covering thousands of miles over mountain and valley, across river and lake.

When the long chase was over the bloodstained blankets of the murdered men were traced to the pockets of the men arrested.

In the depths of the forest, hundreds of miles from human habitation, and confronted by the frontier Sherlock Holmes who had followed them so far, each swore that the actual killing had been done by the other.

The murders took place on a little island in the British Yukon. Leon Bouthlette, Joseph Guy Beaudoin and Alphons Constantin were slain by Fournier, by Labelle, or by both. Down below Dawson, on the American side, Gilbert Dufors was shot to death by Labelle, according to the statement of Fournier.

WORK OF DETECTIVES BEGINS. Immediately after the murders became known, the most remarkable police force on the American continent, perhaps in the world, went to work.

The body of the man first murdered was found near the junction of the In-elan and Yukon rivers. On the afternoon of the same day a body in similar condition was found eight miles above Selkirk, 130 miles above the mouth of the Inlan river.

day or two in discreet inquiry about Whitehorse as to the movements of this quintette which started down the river in June.

WELSH GETS ANOTHER CLUE. Then Welsh had more luck. He found in Peter Rook, a Whitehorse grocer, a man who sold a small quantity of provisions to the boat party, and who knew both Fournier and Labelle by name and by sight.

On August 1, three miles from Ogilvie, on the banks of the Yukon, another body was found. It, too, was conveyed to Dawson. No one recognized it. It was frozen and placed with that of the other unknown.

With the information already in hand Major Wood and his men at once instinctively connected this third body with the other two.

All these facts and the deductions of the police have not recently been made public. Not a whisper escaped the service while the chase was on. But while Detective Welsh and Grocer Rook were hurrying to the south after Labelle, Major Wood and his associates were keeping close watch throughout the whole Yukon territory for Fournier.

On Aug. 24 "Pete" Fournier quietly walked into a Dawson gambling-house and began to play. He unfolded a small roll of bills and bought his chips. They were bills of the Bank of Quebec.

The identification was the first clue for the police. They learned that the wealthy Frenchman had started south early in the spring. He was going as far as Vancouver, B. C., he had told his friends, and might go on to Seattle to his old home in Quebec.

Then Major Wood issued his instructions to William H. Welsh, one of the sharpest and most experienced of the detective force at his command. These instructions were brief.

At Whitehorse, the outpost of the Yukon government, the point that marks the change in transportation service from the railroad leading over the mountains from American territory to the steamboats plying up and down the Canadian river, the police maintain a system of recording the names and brief description of those who pass in and out of the Yukon.

Whitehorse and Rook were on the chase for Labelle and while Major Wood and his men were scouring the Yukon for Fournier, the news of the triple murder had spread through the whole dominion of Canada and aroused the interest of every officer of the law.

"I can pay you that money now. Just forget this 'affair' all right," I was so frightened I didn't know what I was doing, but I took the money, $35, which he handed to me. That is where I made my mistake."

"When we were in Dawson this spring Labelle came to me and said, 'Pete (he always called me Pete), let's go to Whitehorse.' We thought there might be some games running there. We went. There were no games there. Then Labelle said we would meet strangers and hustle them down the river. I said 'It's tough, but I am with you. We got a small boat and we met the three fellows. We agreed to take them to Dawson for $6 each. We camped at night. Every night Labelle said to me he would kill them."

The American authorities on the lower Yukon found the body of Gilbert Dufors where Fournier said he had killed. The corpse was picked up Oct. 1 and fully identified as Bagie.

She was 71 years of age and was the third daughter of the late Abraham Ewing. Deceased leaves a husband and three children. Her funeral was largely attended by fellow countrymen.

A DASTARDLY DEED.

Deal Gunter, of Boletown, was in Fredericton the other day and brought a story the like of which has not been heard for some time. By his word many farmers have been misled. Some of their cattle of late and it turns out that they were shot by some youthful desperado whose identity as yet is unknown. Yesterday Mr. Gunter had his helpers shot, presumably by the same parties. This is certainly a criminal act and the farmers of the Nashwaak are taking just steps to protect their property.

THE Morning Post, referring to Col. Hughes' complaint that the Northwest was becoming Americanized, says that so long as Canada systematically exports her young men to the states and fails to make use of her obvious opportunities of carrying an honest dollar by organizing western immigration for her own benefit, but little attention will be paid in this country to the complaints by Mr. Hughes, and neither will British immigrants nor British capitalists appreciate the need for investment offered by the Northwest as its proper worth.

POLITICAL FEDERATION

of the Empire. Mr. Chamberlain said: "I may be considered, perhaps, to be a dreamer, or too enthusiastic, but I do not hesitate to say that, in my opinion, the political federation of the Empire is within the limits of possibility. I recognize as fully as any one can do the difficulties which attend such a great change in our constitutional system. I recognize the immense disproportion in wealth and in population of the different members of the Empire, and, above all, the distances which still separate them and the lack of sufficient communication. These are difficulties which at one time appeared to be insuperable, but now I cannot but recollect that similar difficulties almost, if not quite as great, have been surmounted in the case of the United States of America. And difficulties, perhaps not quite as great, but still very considerable, have been surmounted in the federation of the Dominions of Canada, and, therefore, I hold that as we must put no limits to science, as the progress which has already been made is only an indication of the progress which may be made in the future, and that these difficulties may be overcome, and at all events that we should cherish this ideal of closer union in our hearts, and that, above all, we should do nothing, either now or at any future time, to make it impossible. We have no right to put by our action any limit to the imperial patriotism of the future; and it is my opinion that, as time goes on, there will be a continually growing sense of the common interests which unite us, and also, perhaps, which is equally important, of the common dangers which threaten us."

HIGGINS' APPEAL

For New Trial Dismissed By N. B. Supreme Court.

Judge Gregory Dissented on One Point Only—Mr. Mullin May Appeal to the Dominion Supreme Court.

FREDERICTON, Nov. 15.—The Supreme Court this morning dismissed the appeal in the Higgins murder case. Judge Gregory dissented, so that the prisoner may now appeal to the supreme court of Canada. Judge Hingston read a very lengthy judgment, in which the chief justices and Judges Barker and Landry concurred, disallowing the appeal. Judge McCleod also read a judgment, in which he did not agree that the appeal should be allowed, though he said he had felt considerable doubt as to Judge Landry's dissent to the jury with reference to the prisoner's silence.

JUDGE HANINGTON.

In his written judgment, stated that he was clearly of the opinion that there was nothing in either of the two charges argued to warrant the court in ordering a new trial, in any way interfering with the conviction. He held that the prisoner's silence from the time of the trial was as much a matter of evidence to his guilt or innocence as any position of fact, and therefore, a proper matter of comment for the jury in his directions to the jury. Aside from this general doctrine Judge Hanington pointed out that the prisoner had himself given evidence on the trial, denying his own guilt, but confessing that he was present at the murder and knew all the facts in connection with it, but had not spoken to anyone of the matter until he went upon the stand. This was the evidence given by the prisoner himself in his own defence, and in his own words, and surely the testimony had been so given it was a proper matter for the trial judge if the prisoner's statement was a reasonable and credible one, and if the jury, in their verdict, found him guilty, it was their duty to do so.

JUDGE LANDRY.

In expressing concurrence to Judge Hanington's judgment, added a few remarks along the same lines. He said he felt it his duty as trial judge to call the attention of the jury to the fact that the prisoner on all occasions from the time of the commission of the crime down to the trial, so far as there was evidence relating to it and no evidence of that nature being adduced by the prisoner, he was in the possession of a knowledge which would have been material to the case if it had been stated. He said that the prisoner's silence on occasions on which he might have imparted to others, and when reasonably sure that they would be concerned in the crime, and that he was in the possession of a knowledge which would have been material to the case if it had been stated.

JUDGE McLEOD.

He would not subscribe to the doctrine that the prisoner's silence should be taken as evidence of guilt. He would not say that there might be such circumstances as would make it so, circumstances which, if a man did not, could not be taken as presumption of guilt; but he did not think that the simple circumstance of a man being arrested, charged with a crime, required him to state his knowledge or connection with the offence charged, and that his failure to do so would be any evidence of guilt.

JUDGE GREGORY.

dissented only in reference to the judge's direction as to the prisoner's silence. His honor did not think it his duty to refer to a prisoner's silence altogether, and that it was proper for Judge Landry in this case to call the attention of the jury as to a matter going to the credibility of testimony given by the prisoner himself on the trial to the fact that that was the first occasion he had ever disclosed his knowledge to anybody.

His honor thought, however, from a careful reading of the charge to Judge Landry's observations was open to be taken as referring to and did seem to him to refer more particularly to the prisoner's conduct in the attitude, and this failure to disclose his knowledge to the authorities Judge Gregory required if a law imposed upon all persons arrested and charged with crimes the duty of making a statement as to their guilt or innocence? He thought the law imposed no such duty. The jury in this case, Judge Gregory thought, were left to infer guilt either from the prisoner's failure to speak to the police authorities at the time of and after his arrest. In so far as his silence affected the credibility of the prisoner's evidence, Judge Gregory thought Judge Landry was right in commenting upon it, but not as a matter going directly to the question of his guilt or innocence.

THE SEMI-WEEKLY SUN. ST. JOHN, N. B., NOVEMBER 13, 1902. THE SHORTAGE OF PAPER MONEY.

There is a periodical agitation in Canada over the shortage of the circulating medium, or in other words over the scarcity of paper money. It is pointed out at present that the business done by the banks has doubled in seven years, and the amount of notes available for circulation is practically the same as in 1892.

Various suggestions have been made as to the method of providing for increased circulation. One is that the reserve or rest of the bank should be treated as capital in establishing a basis of issue.

HOSTILE NATIONS PREFERRED. The preferential tariff of Canada does not apply to steel rails, except light ones for street railways. Heavy railways come in free and Great Britain has no preference over Germany and the United States, both of which countries meet Canadian products with heavy duties.

But this "other" goes to Germany, whose tariff is distinctly and discriminatingly hostile to Canada. Already we go to Germany for half the sugar consumed in this country, while our fellow subjects in the West Indies are suffering from the sugar market destroyed by German competition.

THE BOYS' HISTORIAN. The death of Mr. George A. Henty removes one of the world's leading historians. Mr. Henty was not a professor of history, nor a writer of formal treatises on that subject.

He was a maker of stories, and chiefly of boys' stories, but a large proportion of the younger English speaking people have learned from him all the military history that they know. SHELDON'S PRESENCE

Packed Victoria Skating Rink Twice on Sunday.

The Speaker in the Afternoon Discussed How to Make the World Better.

And At Night Deal With the Boy Problem in a Forceful Manner—Great Musical Programmes—The Sunday Morning Meeting in Carleton.

Rev. Charles M. Sheldon, the celebrated lecturer, pulpit orator and author of Topeka, Kansas, arrived in St. John on Saturday and in the evening addressed a large and enthusiastic audience at the Victoria Skating Rink on Sunday morning.

At Saturday evening's meeting Rev. C. W. Hamilton presided. Rev. Mr. Burnett read a portion of holy scripture and Major Howell of the Salvation Army offered prayer. Before the service began, Harrison's orchestra played The New Born King, and O God, Thou Art My God, and as a religious offering, O Lord, How Manifold Are Thy Works.

Mr. Sheldon was given a hearty reception when introduced. His manner of appearance at once captured the attention of the audience, and he delivered a most interesting and attentive hearing while giving his celebrated readings, portions of which were from an as yet unfinished book.

Sunday morning at the Carleton Baptist Church Mr. Sheldon preached to a large congregation, taking for his text John 1: 43: "Follow Me." Mr. Sheldon was well received, and his simple talk on how to be a Christian in the Victoria rink doors were opened at 8 o'clock and until shortly after four in the afternoon a steady stream of people crowded into the rink.

Mr. Sheldon arose when Mr. Whitney asked him to give without telling them something about the work he was carrying on. He then told of the work of his church associates, with a large negro colony that had settled in Topeka in the early seventies, and with the younger members of this colony that the chief work was being done.

Several hymns were sung while the collection was being taken up. Mr. Sheldon made a brief address, in which he referred to the pleasant surprise he had to attend the meeting, the largest he ever witnessed in St. John. His words were returned briefly, to Mr. Whitney, and he expressed the hope that it would steadily grow.

and not out he found his neighbors at work trying to extinguish the flames. They were men of various denominations, who, realizing the common danger, were working together with one mind, and without a thought as to what denomination the owner of the property belonged. So it was for all today, to get together and put the fire out.

Another way to make the world better was to have more to do with the children. Personally he had adopted this plan in his church, and found the result beneficial. Another way was to have more and more the brotherhood of man. Social troubles arise because half the world does not know how the other half lives.

One of the features of the meetings was the musical programme, which was arranged and conducted by J. F. Bullock. Music was furnished by a quartet composed of Miss Knight, Miss Shute, Messrs. A. H. Lindsay and Chip Ritchie, assisted by a large choir and Harrison's orchestra.

of the boy problem. He advocated the building of a separate hall annex, under the control of a competent police matron, for the accommodation of boys who came into the charge of the police.

"If you have to keep boys in hall, take care of them," he said, "teach them, pray with them, don't be satisfied with just herding them in and having a man hand food to them three times a day."

But Mr. Sheldon's most emphatic statement was laid upon the necessity of the boy getting into direct personal contact with him. He asked the rich, those who possess good homes with capacity for entertainment, musical and otherwise, to open their doors to the boys, to go out and bring them under the immediate influence of Christian home life.

"You can't save the world at arm's length," he cried. "You can't save a drunkard by standing on a platform and preaching drunkenness. You must go down into the gutter with him and lift him up. That was the principle upon which Christ worked, and that is the only way to reach those you want to save. Go down into the gutter and into personal touch and sympathy with them for only thus can you get them."

Referring to the liquor question with relation to the boys, the speaker said the problem would never be finally solved until the drink was driven out of the lives and their fathers' lives. The saloon must be wiped out as fast as it is built.

Continuing, Mr. Sheldon told of his own early life in a two room log hut out on the Kansas prairie, dwelling on the great influence exerted by his parents and its influence on his subsequent life. The effect of parental influence, he said, could not be exaggerated. "Every father has a problem in his own boy," he said, "and every mother has a problem in her own child."

Concluding, he dealt with the objection that such things as he advised would cost much money and claimed that the value of the work more than justified any expenditure. He urged any present who were in a position to assist in the work to volunteer, as a matter of Mr. Whitney's mission, as singers at his meetings or as instructors to the boys in some trade in the schools to be established.

"Give the boy something of your own life and culture and Christianity," he said, "and soon you will have a boy problem. There are no hard problems in this world anyway if they are treated as they are intended to be. If you put enough love into their solution."

BOSTON LETTER

The Past Week a Rather Exciting One.

Amused at Sensational Discovery of American Invasion of Canada, Made By Halifax Chronicle.

Agitation Against the Bond-Hay Treaty Continues—Smallpox Still Rampant—Deaths of Former Provincialists—The Spruce Lumber and Fish Markets.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

BOSTON, Nov. 16.—On the whole Boston has had rather an exciting week. The many reports from three or four murder and assault cases, the decidedly lively sessions of the stock markets, where margins and money were wiped out, with hair-raising suddenness, and the failure of the Central National Bank, all contributed to keep public interest far above normal.

Perhaps the greatest shock to our people was the sensational discovery of the Halifax Chronicle, in which Canadians were admonished to see to it that they be not found deserting from the ranks of the southern border sets on its march to conquer the dominion.

Perhaps the appeal of the Chronicle, which was published all over the United States, was reported as one of the unsettling of Wall street, for the stock market has been in a demoralized state for several days, and speculators knew not what to expect next.

Half a dozen of our best-armed men, without his sanction and the confines of his constituency. It was only necessary to scan the headlines of the American newspapers to know that the white-winged dove was becoming restless and threatening to take a premature vacation.

However, Americans are not to be alarmed. The American press is not to be deceived by the editorial "scare" of the Halifax Chronicle, which is in no way to be taken as a reflection on the Halifax Chronicle.

STEALING NEWS

Outside Fishermen Complain of Heavy Losses at Grand Manan

(Monday's Star) A captain of one of the many fishing vessels which frequent the coast of Grand Manan called at the Star office today to say some words on the conduct of the people of Grand Manan, who are making the lives of the fishermen miserable by their lawless conduct. This captain has been a fisherman for many years and has spent no few seasons in the search for the halibut fishing of Grand Manan. He has been one of the principal sufferers by the work of the natives of the island.

This captain says that for years it has been the custom of Grand Manan people to cut away and steal the nets belonging to the schooners and sell them at a later season. At Grand Manan there are many wets for which the owners pay to the government an annual license fee of five dollars. For this fee they claim the sole privilege of one thousand clear feet of water all round their wets and this takes in what is by far the best fishing ground.

Some years ago when the stealing and destroying of nets was first commenced, the wet owners confined their attentions to more nets which were cast within the thousand foot limit which they claimed. Gradually from a mere gesture to protect their own interests these people began to be bold for stealing, as a source of revenue, and now, according to the story told by the veteran captain, no nets are safe.

In calm weather the fishing schooners are able to lie alongside of their nets at night and by so doing are in a position to protect them, but even at these times the Grand Manan people come out in boats and cut the nets away.

In stormy weather the schooners are compelled to anchor at some distance, some times three of four miles away, and it is upon these occasions that the greatest damage is done. The nets are hauled up and taken to the island, where they are kept until a reasonable opportunity for their return arrives. Then they are sold to the schooner captains, care being taken that no captain shall have the opportunity of buying back his own nets. Thus it happens that the Star's informant, that there are always lots of nets for sale at Grand Manan and there are also many stolen.

One captain who has arrived in St. John from a trip to the island says, that on this trip thirty-five dollars worth of nets were stolen. On the previous trip his loss was fifty dollars, and during the season the total loss due to stealing was considerably over one hundred dollars. Fishing has been poor ever since, and the expense of replacing the stolen gear runs away with the greater part of the profits.

In the wets at Grand Manan all kinds of fish are caught, and the schooner captains sell the fish in no small degree responsible for the scarcity. Young cod, haddock, founders, herring, lobsters and numerous other varieties of fish find their way into the wets and these are all killed in sorting out. The reverse is the case with schooner fishing, where the nets are so constructed that only the largest fish are caught while the young find their way through.

A government cutter is maintained in the waters of Grand Manan for the protection of the fishermen and the wets, which are of real importance, and the most important point of connection with the Grand Manan fishing is the stopping of the system of thievery which is going on.

GRAND MANAN.—GRAND MANAN, Nov. 15.—The rough weather and strong winds experienced this month have done much to damage the wets around the island to a considerable extent. A new wet built in Long Pond Bay this summer, costing about $200, has been entirely destroyed. Other wets are badly damaged. Herring are getting very scarce. Ninety hogheads were taken at Two Island Harbor on the 13th inst. Line fish are also scarce and the netters are doing nothing.

Fish dealers here are making a stir. Capt. Ingalls starting the price. Bloater are eighty cents, medium fifty cents in large cases.

Miss Mabel Carson, the trained nurse, is down with typhoid fever. She is under Dr. Du Val's treatment. Violets and other wild flowers are still in bloom.

DEATH OF MRS. STEVENSON.—Universal regret is felt, especially in the North End of the city, at the death of Mrs. Robert Stevenson, which took place at her home, Douglas avenue, Saturday morning. She was the widow of the late Robert Stevenson, and the daughter of the late James Joyce of Indianatown. One daughter, Miss Beckett Stevenson, of the Indianstown school staff, survives her, as well as a sister, Miss Carrie Joyce. The late Mrs. Stevenson had been actively engaged in the W. C. T. U. of the North End ever since its inception, and especially labored to promote the sewing school. She was a lady of beautiful character, who did a great deal of good during her life time, and will be sincerely mourned by all who knew her and her work.

Halifax Recorder, Dr. and Mrs. Sheffell of St. John, N.S., and are staying at the Star Hotel, St. John, and Rev. and Mrs. G. M. Johnston, of St. John, are also in the city at the high commissioner's office, London, the first week in November.

Miss Alta McLeod, the gifted music teacher, has now a class of ten pupils.

G. Harold Perkins has just received a carload of lambs from St. Anthony, Kebek, the first car of lambs that ever rolled into Norton village.

Lamb will be nicely dressed and forwarded to the St. John and Boston markets. The young man in question is the second son of E. L. Perkins. He handles all of his father's produce, butter, eggs, potatoes, etc., that come into his store, where his other brother is head clerk and bookkeeper. George H. it may be remarked, is not quite 16 years of age. He is a hustler.

CORNWALLIS, Nov. 12.—

Mr. Newcombe, who has been in the last year at her old home in Canning, has returned to the States. She intends studying during the winter in New York and Pennsylvania. Her husband, Mr. Kempfer, professor in a college in Pennsylvania, will meet the doctor in New York.

Mrs. Benjamin Calkin of Kentville, who has been in a poor state of health for some time, died on Sunday. She leaves four daughters, Mrs. W. Sharpe, Mrs. Wily Rockwell, Mrs. Dr. J. Calkin Campbell of Kentville, and Mrs. E. Blanchard, Baddeck, and three sons, Dr. Barry Calkin of Massachusetts, T. P. Calkin of the firm of T. P. Henry Newcombe of Church street died suddenly on Sunday of heart disease. He was sixty-one years of age, and leaves a wife and three children, two of whom are Mrs. Arthur Stevens of Port Williams and Mrs. A. Newcombe of Wolfville. Deceased was well known in Kings county.

The Porter farm at Berwick has been purchased by parties living in the district.

Isaac Benkhorn of Woodside died on Monday, at the age of sixty days. He leaves a wife and large family of children.

A large furniture factory is being built at Kingsport by the Nova Scotia Produce and Supply Co. The building measures one hundred and fifty feet in length by sixty feet wide. We believe that parties in Montreal are about to build a boot and shoe factory in Kingsport also. The N. S. P. Co. soon moved their saw mill from Blomidon to Kingsport.

Clinton Biglow of Cumberland Co. has purchased a tract of wood land near Blomidon from Elisha Ellis, and intends erecting a saw mill there, and number were in attendance and handsome sum of money was realized towards church work.

Parties in Montreal intend having five large vessels built this year, beside the one nearing completion now at Canning. Two will be built at Port Greville, two at Kingsport and one at Canning.

At the regular meeting of the St. Martins Agricultural Society, on Thursday evening, the following officers for the ensuing year were elected: President, H. E. Gilmore, M. D.; and vice-president, Col. J. J. Tucker, M. P.; treasurer, Mr. Kelly; secretary, W. E. McMillan; and auditor, S. C. Osborne. Directors: D. M. H. Brown, D. J. Daly, Edward McBride, H. W. Brown, C. A special feature of the sale was the presentation of a number from the grand opera, and a goodly number were in attendance and handsome sum of money was realized towards church work.

Parties in Montreal intend having five large vessels built this year, beside the one nearing completion now at Canning. Two will be built at Port Greville, two at Kingsport and one at Canning.

GUIDE SHOT BY SPORTSMAN.

John Hager of Dover, Me., killed, in Mistake for a Deer.

GULLFORD, Me., Nov. 13.—The body of John Hager, a guide, aged 36 years, who was mistaken for a deer yesterday evening along the line of the Penobscot river, in the woods on the head of Chesuncook lake, and shot through the neck, was taken to his home at Dover, Me., today. A Concord, Mass. man, named W. H. W. Hager, was alleged to have fired the fatal shot. Hager was married.

Hager and a brother were guiding two brothers named Wheeler from Providence, R. I., on the West branch, near what is known as the Moosehorn. While travelling through the woods in two parties, one of the Wheeler brothers was shot in the bushes a short distance ahead, and jumping to a log fire, it is claimed, striking Hager in the neck. Death followed because his companions reached the guide. The cause of the shooting, it is alleged, was that the rapidly falling snow changed the appearance of the guide and Wheeler was on the track of a deer, not knowing the proximity of Hager.

The members of the party were: W. Wheeler, Concord, Mass.; A. Wheeler, Providence, R. I.; John Hager, the dead guide, Frank Hager, his brother, and Wm. S. Pillsbury, Wabun, Mass.

FOR A CERTAIN I AM CURED.

Mr. James Tremaine, butcher, 538 Adelaide street, London, Ont., writes that for two years he was laid up with kidney disease and urinary troubles. He became dropsical and his legs would swell so that he could scarcely go round. He never used any medicine that did him so much good as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and knows for a certainty that this treatment cured him. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box.

MR. HUBBARD'S APPOINTMENT.

W. W. Hubbard, manager of the late St. John exhibition and of the Dominion government live stock commission, left for his home in Burton, Sunbury county, yesterday. It is understood his appointment to the C. P. R. employment is made with a view to enlightening the public interest in live stock raising and dairying, among maritime province farmers. It is stated by those who know that matters along these lines are not as promising as they were a few years ago, and that is why the old country market cannot get what reason it wants here, and an undoubted cause for the importation of Ontario hogs by local packers.

SUNDAY SCHOOL WORK IN ROTSFORD PARISH.

This may almost be called "Sunday school week" here. When some of the delegates were at the Provincial Sunday School Convention in St. John, they secured the services of Mr. Lucas for such work as the parish officers desired to plan. On Monday evening, 10th, accompanied by Parish President J. R. Taylor and Vice-President S. Blacklock, he addressed a largely attended meeting at Chapman's Corner. The pastor had made good preparation, and the address was chiefly to adults on the benefits they might derive from Sabbath school. W. S. Blacklock also spoke here.

On Tuesday morning, at Murray Corner, Pastor J. Brownell presided. The meeting was of deep interest. The Sunday school here, under Superintendent Job Peacock, has derived very much benefit from association work. On Wednesday President Taylor took the field secretary to Bayside, but as no meeting could be held with a closed church, the irreplaceable president went to visit and talk with the former superintendent.

On Thursday, 13th, in the Methodist church at Bayfield, two sessions of the parish convention were held. Rev. J. B. Chalmers opened with devotional exercises. Mr. Taylor presided and Miss Mary Main acted as secretary. Conference on conditions of our schools and improvements we can make elicited much interest. A normal lesson was taught by the field secretary, and in a conference which followed two schools signified their intention to organize normal classes.

In the evening Rev. Mr. Hattie spoke on responsibilities of Sunday school teachers. Mrs. Hattie read a paper on "Mental work for the little ones." Mr. Lucas spoke on "Temperature Teaching in Sunday School—How and Why." But the crown of the evening was an address of Rev. J. H. Brownell on "Echoes of the Provincial Convention." This was done as he said what Mr. Lawrence advised—bringing its benefits down to the parishes. The following officers were elected: A. C. Chipman, President; Miss Mary Main, secretary; and several others on executive committee. The sessions were well attended and of great profit to the work.

MONCTON.

Magistrate Kay's Side of the Case Not Fully Given—Thirty-six Birds.

MONCTON, Nov. 14.—Trouble between Magistrate Kay and the city council has broken out again. When the duties of the police magistrate were added to those of the commissioner of the civil court, Kay's salary, which had been $400 a year, was increased to $300, and he accepted this amount regularly, until a few months ago, when he put in a claim for $300 extra per annum for the four years he had accepted this sum representing the difference between the salary paid the late Police Magistrate Wortman and the amount added to Kay's salary when he took over the new duties. The city council refused to pay the extra amount, and last summer Mr. Kay created a mild sensation in civic circles by refusing to pay the receipts of the court to the city treasurer, notwithstanding back two months. Subsequently he paid the money over, but the October receipts have been withheld and the amount added to Kay's salary when he took over the new duties. Cases in the Experience of Doctors and Others.

A Serious Operation Performed On-hand—One Who Had No Fear of Death—Fortitude of a Murderer—A Brave Policeman—A alior Nerve.

(N. Y. Sunday Sun.) A patient walked into a New York physician's office the other day placed a hand over the small of his back and said:

"Doctor, I've a severe pain here; what's the trouble?" "Strip to the waist and I'll tell you in short order," replied the practitioner.

After a brief examination he added: "You've an ugly tumor on your liver." "The man thought a moment, then, 'I want it removed at once,' he said, quietly.

"But, tut, man, don't be so hasty," replied the physician. But the patient, more doggedly than before, answered: "I mean it, doc. I want that tumor removed before I leave this office."

The physician looked the man in the eyes and saw that they wavered not. He felt his pulse and examined his heart, and found them normal.

"All right," he said, shortly. Within fifteen minutes a man was lying on a couch and the physician was making a ten-inch incision in his back.

Half an hour later the tumor was removed, and an hour after he had submitted to the operation, during which he had refused ether, the patient, with his liver cleansed, rode to his home in a cab, calmly undressed, went to bed and then told his wife what had happened.

"He never whimpered, never quivered an eyelid," declared the doctor, as he related the incident, "and he would have gone home alone had I not forced myself into the cab. He showed absolutely no fear at anything, and in appearance he looks like a man who has only an ordinary amount of grit. Yet his exhibition of nerve was the most inspiring that I have ever seen."

"But your nerve, doctor, in performing such an operation on a hand," interrupted one of the auditors. "The reply was laconic: 'I lay it to the kindness for handling the knife.'"

For three hours after the recital of the doctor's story the men who had listened to it recounted remarkable cases of nerve that they had heard of, and here and there some of the stories that they told.

A physician prominent in New York state was interested in manufacturing. While visiting his factory one day his coat was caught in a shafting and he was hurled around and around with terrible force, and every time he went round his legs struck an adjacent wall.

When he was finally released he was found to be still alive, and physicians were hurriedly sent for. A half dozen of them came, beheld their injured brother and shook their heads. "I know it," said the man. "I've already diagnosed the case. You'd just be wasting your time if you tried to do anything. But tell me, don't you agree with me that I'll live about five hours before the shock takes effect?"

The six men of medicine nodded. "Then send for a lawyer," they said. The lawyer came. Rationally and calmly the crushed man dictated his last will and testament and signed it with a hand as steady as that of a man in full health.

"Now," he said, when the last witness had affixed his signature, "please send for my wife." A little later on he said: "Call up Mr. Blank and Mr. So-and-so on the phone and say that I want to talk over some important business matters with them."

For over an hour the three partners arranged for the conduct of the doctor's business interests after his death. The conference ended, the injured man turned to his wife: "Now, dearest," he said, "I've still an hour to live. Give me a cigar, take hold of my hand and we'll wait patiently for the end."

And so he died, with a smile on his lips and the blue smoke of his cigar curling about his head. A man in southern Illinois had committed a cold-blooded murder. He was a member of a secret society of criminals and had been selected to put out of the way a traitor to the organization.

He found his victim scouring the country as a member of a sheriff's posse for an escaped criminal. The man asked his victim if he were so-and-so, received an affirmative answer, then and there shot him dead, fought his way through the posse and fled.

Two days later he was discovered hiding in a house in a neighboring small town. He was bored by a dozen bullets, but he lived and was sentenced to be hanged. Then political influence began working to save him from the gallows. A man now prominent in New York city was assigned to the task of trying to prevent his execution.

show his appreciation in some way, so he asked: "Well, Jim, is there anything I can do for you?" "Thank you for a good cigar," was the reply. When the procession to the gallows started the prisoner was calmly smoking a cigar. Arrived under the noose the sheriff spoke: "I'm sorry to interrupt you, Jim, but it's time to quit smoking."

"I beg your pardon for delaying you, sheriff," replied the man, without a tremor in his voice. And then the murderer calmly removed his cigar from his mouth and placed it on the scaffold's rail. Then he crossed his hands behind his back. The high wind of the man's life went out together.

Fifteen years ago there was a policeman in New York named Sheridan. He had a side partner as extraordinarily big as he was little. The big man one day interfered with the doings of a notorious East Side gang known as Short Tails, and he was murdered in broad daylight on his post for his pains. When the captain of the precinct heard of the murder he decided that the Short Tails would be broken up and imprisoned.

So he set about forming a platoon of police to take into the haunts of the gang. As he was about this duty the murdered man's chum, little Sheridan, strolled in.

"They murdered him, did they?" he yelled. And they've got bricks piled on the roofs of the tenements to throw at us when we march into their street, have they? And they're standing on the street corners looking for a fight, are they? Well, they'll get all they want—and I'll give it to 'em."

Without club or firearm of any kind, Sheridan dashed out of the station house and ran into the heart of the Short Tails' stamping ground. Recognizing a group of their leaders on a street corner, he walked up to them, knocked down every one of them, grabbed two of the more notorious by their coat collars and turning his back on the crowd, marched them toward the station house.

"On the way there another Short Tail made a despicable remark about the murdered policeman. Quick as a flash, little Sheridan ordered his two prisoners to halt, knocked the third Short Tail down, dragged him over to where the other two were meekly standing, stood the third prisoner in line and without further ado, drove them into the station house.

Sheridan reached there just as the platoon was issuing forth. He quickly handed his prisoners over to the door-man, joined the platoon, and in the general round-up that followed took a leading part and arrested a dozen Short-Tails.

Fritz Werner was a German forester. One day a stag gored him frightfully in the abdomen. As the infuriated animal pulled out his antlers, backed away and prepared for a second charge, the injured man propped himself on an elbow and fired just as the stag was about to charge. The animal fell dead and the man fainted away.

When he recovered consciousness he found that he was not attracted attention by shouting. He was after three o'clock in the morning before that last guest got away, all having spent a most delightful time. The couple received many complimentary remarks and good wishes upon their comfortable and well arranged home, which is a two story structure with flat roof and L. the work on which was done by Messrs. H. B. Bell and J. E. Hoyt, secretary-treasurer; Chas. Dickson, secretary; Boyd Wetmore, James Gilchrist, W. E. S. Wetmore, James E. Fairweather and John Frost, directors for Norton; and J. W. Fowler, John H. Crawford, N. M. Barnes, John March, Wm. D. Fowler, Reuben Wanamaker and Leonard Hill, directors for Hampton.

A. H. Deane, secretary for the medical aid. Dr. Deane was taken aboard. He found that a Kanaka sailor had had a foot smashed some weeks before by a hoghead of whale oil rolling on it. The injured member was in a terrible state and the man was evidently suffering intensely, although he gave no outward sign.

When the captain asked the doctor what could be done, the latter started to tell him in confidence. At that the sailor spoke up: "Don't be afraid to tell me, doctor," he said; "I can stand it all right."

"Well, my man," responded Dr. Deane, "amputation is the only thing that will relieve you, but I have neither the necessary instruments nor anaesthetics." The sailor smiled. "Don't mind about little things like that," he said.

"But—" began Dr. Deane. The sailor smiled again. "Oh, start it now," was all that he said.

Dr. Deane had with him a case of pocket instruments for dissecting birds. When he pulled this out, the sailor seized himself on a cork, unconsciously crossed his legs and held the injured foot.

The doctor started to work. He first removed the toes with the little bird knife, which backed more than it cut. Then he found that up under the flesh the instep bone was affected for nearly an inch. So he had to cut in and turn back the flesh. Then with twessers, for he had no saw, he snipped off the diseased part of the bone a little at a time.

That done he pulled the flesh down and sewed up the wound. After an hour's work he announced that the job was finished. And the sailor's foot had not quivered nor a muscle in his face moved in the wind. After an hour's work he announced that the job was finished. And the sailor's foot had not quivered nor a muscle in his face moved in the wind.

Smilingly the sailor uncrossed his legs, all off the cork, reached for the doctor's hand, shook it heartily, roared a grateful "I thank you, sir," and then bobbed off toward the fo'c'sle, whistling a rollicking sailor's jig.

Annual Meeting of the Agricultural Society.

A Jolly House Warming—Quiet Wedding—Garate McDonald of Trinity, St. John, Acceptably Filled Recent Appointments

HAMPTON, Kings Co., Nov. 14.—The late John Smith of Smithtown was buried last week in the home burial lot, near his late residence, beside the remains of his wife, The Rev. C. D. Schofield officiating.

The Rev. Mr. McDonald, curate of Trinity church, Saint John, filled engagements in the Anglican churches of Hampton, parish, last Sunday, with much acceptance to the congregations assembled in the various churches.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Smith of Smithtown were married on Thursday by a number of friends and well-wishers on the occasion of the twelfth anniversary of their wedding. An exceedingly pleasant evening was spent in social conversation, the making of a most appealing supper.

Miss Emma Hoxford of Wood Lake, St. John Co., who has been visiting at the home of her sister, Miss Lillie Upham, was married to Mr. Walter Hoxford, of the same place, has been laid up here with a sprained ankle, but it now nearly all right again.

The Barnsville Woman's Christian Temperance Union, recently formed, has now a membership of fourteen and at their regular meeting in the Methodist church on Tuesday last, reported encouraging success.

A very pretty quiet wedding was celebrated on Monday evening at the home of James A. Upham, Upham, when his sister, Miss Lillie Upham, became the wife of Herbert Baird of Upperport. The bride, who was unattended, wore a gown of electric blue cashmere, trimmed with white silk.

The Rev. A. M. Huxley of St. John officiated. There were many beautiful and useful presents. The Rev. Mr. Robertson and Fred Reed of the Salt Springs, who were among the Northwest harvesters this fall, returned on Monday, Nov. 10th. They got in their last load of grain on Nov. 3rd, and started at once for home.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Debow of Upperport have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. Fisher of Lakeside. Bowman Fisher has been visiting his friend, Wilfrid Debow, Alfred Kilpatrick and his sisters spent Sunday at the paternal home at Upperport.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood of Upperport are visiting friends here, and will extend their visit to others at Model Farm. About seventy-five persons gave a house warming to Mr. and Mrs. Debow Porter, on their taking possession of their fine new residence on what is known as the Ford farm, at Nauyaswigan, on Nov. 10th. The party was given by Mr. and Mrs. Debow Porter, and was most enjoyable.

The Rev. F. R. Rattray is billed to lecture on temperance in the Nauyaswigan hall next Monday evening. A thirteen years old daughter of Alexander McManus, baggage and freight clerk at the I. C. R. station, is lying very low with spinal meningitis, recovery said to be impossible.

The annual meeting of the Hampton and Central North Agricultural Society, No. 22, was held today in Agri. Society hall, St. John. Dr. Deane, president in the chair. After some routine matters, reading minutes, etc., the secretary-treasurer, J. E. Hoyt, submitted a report. Mr. Deane was referred to the audit committee. This report showed a membership of 93. Total assets, consisting of book accounts, unpaid subscriptions and cash—amounted to $636. There were on hand $438.09, leaving a balance of $197.55. The business in seeds and fertilizers had nearly doubled over other years, and good satisfaction had been expressed by all who had used them in discussion by all.

There was quite a discussion over holding an exhibition in 1903, the general opinion being against it, but as the Rev. E. H. Deane, president, had expressed a great desire that a third year should not be allowed to pass without an exhibition, it was decided to hold one. It was also decided to again purchase seeds and fertilizers for the use of the farmers, the same to be left with the new board of directors to be discussed by all.

The following were elected officers for the ensuing year: E. R. DeMill, president; B. W. Hill, vice-president for Hampton; John Raymond, vice-president for Norton; J. E. Hoyt, secretary-treasurer; Chas. Dickson, secretary; Boyd Wetmore, James Gilchrist, W. E. S. Wetmore, James E. Fairweather and John Frost, directors for Norton; and J. W. Fowler, John H. Crawford, N. M. Barnes, John March, Wm. D. Fowler, Reuben Wanamaker and Leonard Hill, directors for Hampton.

CRIME IN LONDON.

Murders and Other Tragedies of Shocking Frequency.

Trip to India Is Pretty Expensive—A Lady Political Leader—Emperor William's Visit.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—The protracted coronation rejoicings have been succeeded by a wave of crime. Accounts of murder trials and stories of other tragedies fill the columns of such papers as report those occurrences, and to the long list of criminal cases now proceeding some new tragedy is added almost daily. Suicide also is unusually prevalent. The murders are mostly confined to the lower class. Much interest has been evoked this week over a case of the prisoner in this case will shortly be put on trial for her life.

Another case that has attracted much public attention is the alleged murder by burning and stabbing of a servant girl by an ex-convict of Penzance, county of Suffolk. A jury this week failed to agree regarding the guilt of the accused and another trial will be held.

The case of George Chapman, who was arraigned in a police court recently on the charge of having poisoned a young woman who was reported to be his wife is still in the coroner's hands, but accounts of the inquiry have been published fully and create eager interest. Of ordinary wife murder and murder by common assault there have been several examples and executions within a fortnight.

TRIP TO INDIA EXPENSIVE. LONDON, Nov. 15.—The excitement over the Indian durbar continues. It is estimated that nearly 50,000 Britons and Americans will visit Delhi for the season. The enormous prices charged, however, have caused many people to abandon the idea of being present. It will cost two persons with two servants $3,000 in travelling expenses alone. The cost of the stay of visitors at Delhi cannot be fully estimated. The hotels there are already charging eight times the usual tariff, and the available houses of the town have all been hired at from $300.00 to $350.00 per week.

The Indian princess are sparing no expense in taking steps to return the hospitality which was extended to them in England at the time of the coronation.

The most envied of the Americans going hence to the durbar is Mrs. Adair, who starts at the end of the month. She will be Lord Kitchener's guest and will act as his hostess, entertaining a very large party invited by the British general. Mrs. Adair is taking a large number of her own servants. After the durbar, Mrs. Adair will visit Lord Curzon at Simla, the viceroy, and Lady Curzon.

Another American who will take a prominent part in the durbar is Mrs. "Jack" Lewis, whose husband has just been appointed on the staff of the Duke of Connaught, who will represent King Edward at the Indian coronation.

A LADY POLITICAL LEADER. LONDON, Nov. 15.—The dulness of the political atmosphere has been dispelled by the appearance of a new leader, namely, Lady Colebrook. Not since Disraeli's time has a woman taken such an active part in inner political circles.

Lady Colebrook is now regarded as the "Dea ex machina" of Lord Roseberry's party wherever she goes and she goes almost everywhere in the extensive cause. Society watches this talented and fascinating woman with several directions which have occurred from Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman's section of the liberal party. She is exceptionally interesting to Americans, as she has two sisters-in-law who are well known on the other side of the Atlantic, her brother, Arthur Paget, having married Miss Mary Stevens, and her brother, Americus, having married Pauline, daughter of Wm. C. Whitney, both of New York. Lady Colebrook is gifted with rare intelligence and an excellent voice; she can be seen at all the principal race meetings and social gatherings, and the celebrity of her political friendships can be judged from the fact that after a recent large reception to the liberal league she stayed at the Duke of Devonshire's, for the Derby races. Lord Roseberry has gained a powerful ally, whose leadership is more open than his own.

Emperor William's Visit. LONDON, Nov. 15.—Emperor William concluded his visit to King Edward Saturday morning and started on his visit to Lord and Lady Londale at Lowther Castle, Furness, Cumberland. Hours before the Emperor's departure the road to the railroad station was lined by hundreds of spectators. A strong force of police guarded the Emperor and the approaches to the station were rigidly cordoned. Chief Inspector Melville of Scotland Yard, who has been attached to the Emperor, and who accompanied His Majesty north, took the most stringent precautions to keep all unauthorized persons at a distance from the platform. The procession, which was attended by considerable display, was headed by a detach-

INTERVIEW WITH MR. ANDREW CARNEGIE PITTSBURG GAZETTE, JULY 17, 1902

"IF YOU WERE A YOUNG MAN, and had your start to make in the world, would you take up the manufacture of steel?" was asked of Andrew Carnegie by a gentleman who met him on the train to New York after his last visit to Pittsburgh.

The philanthropist hesitated a moment, then shook his head. "No," he said, "the best opening for a young man to-day is in rubber. Rubber will, in a few years, make a greater fortune under present conditions than steel, or, in fact, any other branch of manufacture. The great value and manifold uses of rubber are just beginning to be properly appreciated, and the profits in its production are greater than almost anything about which I am informed."

Mr. Carnegie then launched forth in a long discussion on the growth of the rubber tree, the best product and the hundreds of uses to which it has been put, and even suggested a number of improvements that showed deep study of the subject: "Watch the men engaged in the manufacture of rubber," he concluded, "and as the years go by you will see them amassing splendid fortunes. The opportunities for young men are as great to-day as ever in the history of the world, and I firmly believe that rubber furnishes the greatest."

The apparently startling statements of Mr. Carnegie, startling only to those who have not investigated, have aroused the greatest interest and everyone wants to at once know all about this wonderful new industry. Of course time is required to grow rubber trees as well as any other trees and those who wished to take the matter up now would be in a bad way were it not for the fact that energetic and farseeing men had already started plantations. Early in 1901 the Obispo Rubber Plantation Company acquired a tract of rich land in the true rubber belt of Mexico, consisting of fourteen square miles or nine thousand acres, over fifteen hundred acres of which have already been cleared and planted to rubber. There are over seven hundred thousand one-year old rubber trees in the nurseries, besides from 500 to 1,000 acres planted in corn and other crops. The plantation force is fully organized, being abundant and transportation facilities perfect, a railroad being on one side of the plantation and a river on the other. The best and quickest way for you to benefit by Mr. Carnegie's prophetic utterances is by sending to the Obispo people for full particulars of their proposition. What is thought of them by their neighbors in Mexico is shown by the letter from the largest American Bank in Mexico from which we quote as follows: "Knowing the personality of the Company and the advantageous situation of the Ranch 'El Obispo,' we feel safe in saying that their success is assured."
