ANOTHER MOVE NOW PLANNED IN BRIDGE MATTER

Veniot Makes Emphatic Statement Re Enforcement Of Prohibition Act

FRESH EFFORT TO BE MADE IN CONNECTION WITH THE RESTIGOUCHE BRIDGE PROJECT

Next Step Not Definitely Known But Effort Will Be Made To Place Matter Before Quebec Government—Some Move Expected On Part of Bonaventure Member.

According to information secured yesterday from an authoritative source a fresh effort in connection with the promotion of the much-discussed Restigouche bridge project will be started at once. Just exactly what steps will be immediately taken was not announced but the plan of procedure will embrace a fresh endeavor to bring the matter more prominently before the people of Quebec and the government of that province in order to ascertain just as soon as possible what action the Quebec administration intend to take in the movement to successfully consummate this long-delayed project.

Plans Fell Through
Efforts were made during the past fall to bring the matter to a head. A banquet was to have been held here and the Premier of the two Provinces concerned urged to attend. It was hoped that in this way this important undertaking might be discussed from all angles and some definite plans formulated. But the plans somehow fell through and no further headway has been made.

As Matter Stands
Last spring when efforts were renewed in connection with the bridge merger, the New Brunswick government expressed their willingness to contribute one-third of the necessary funds for the construction of a bridge across the Restigouche at this point. The Quebec government has similarly committed itself so it now remains for the province of Quebec to accept her share of the burden. Until this is done this progressive undertaking will be indefinitely blocked.

A Lamentable Attitude.
It appears that the Quebec Government has somehow arrived at the unreasonable conclusion that the different municipalities directly concerned by the undertaking should stand the remaining third of the necessary expenditure. "This is apparently unfair," says the member for New Brunswick ready to contribute one-third, Quebec should be willing to shoulder her share of the expenses for the bridge more able to contribute a substantial grant to public works of this kind than her sister province.

Quebec To Blame
As the matter now stands it would appear that Quebec is, by her attitude, largely to blame for holding up one of the most important and promising projects proposed in recent years for the development of this beautiful part of the Dominion. It appears that the present administration of that province has failed to realize the tremendous benefit two of her richest counties would derive through the success of this merger. A cross-province highway is under construction between Campbellton and Madamaska and the completion of this new route the proposed bridge across the Restigouche will not only become a greater necessity but will present unprecedented opportunities for the whole Gaspé peninsula. With the proposed bridge a really new outlet for that undeveloped part of Quebec would be provided. The resources of that rich territory, as yet untouched, would be made accessible to capital and to a practically insatiable market. The fisheries of the district would also be placed on a footing where more lucrative returns would be possible to both the fishermen of the country and the manufacturer. With the proposed bridge a really new period of industrial and commercial development and growth could be brought about in the Gaspé territory and the work of colonization set a new record. Yet Quebec seems to ignore this opportunity for the realization of practically unlimited benefits.

The tourist trade too would also play a great part in this opening up of the Gaspé peninsula. In recent years the Quebec government has made large grants toward the development of this beautiful territory. Its boundaries and this can be seen in a most wise and judicious investment. Yet one of the most beautiful parts of this Quebec province has been left out of the Gaspé peninsula, with attractions second to none in the whole Dominion for visitors and facilities that merely need to be exploited to bring in the tourist trade.

It is a small wonder that the last bye-election in Bonaventure, a constituency which for years has shown itself stonily in support of a party, a surprisingly vigorous

BATHURST WON OPENING GAME

Brilliant Hockey In First Period, But Game Deteriorated—Score 4-1

The opening game in the Northern Section of the M. P. A. H. A. played here on Monday night and which was one of the hardest fought contests ever witnessed by hockey fans here, resulted in a 4-1 victory for the visiting Bathurst squad.

The first period produced some of the fastest and most brilliant play ever seen in the local rink. The visitors started with a rush as soon as the going sounded and the locals, realizing that the match was destined to be fast and furious, met them on equal terms. The game was a real battle, with the visitors leading 3-1 at the end of the first period.

The second stanza displayed good hockey but was not so speedy as the opening period. Campbellton took the lead two minutes after the beginning of the play when McLean scored the first goal. The visitors then scored again in the fourth minute and gave their team the lead which they maintained until the end of the period.

With the third period the contest lost much of the interest which had held the spectators on tiptoe up to this juncture. Play became rather rough and several penalties were handed out. The visitors scored again for the first time in the game when they scored in the fourth minute of the period.

Line-up follows:
Campbellton: Goal McKenzie; R. Cripps Left Defence; Sharpe Carroll Right Defence; McLean Centre; Laviolette Left Wing; Thomas White Right Wing; Wilkins Substitutes: For Campbellton—Howard and Miller.

FIRE THREATENS MIRAMICHI HOTEL

House, Barn and Garage at Newcastle Burned.

Newcastle, Jan. 3.—Fire, which for a time threatened the Miramichi Hotel, destroyed the residence, barn and garage of Fraser Harris here on New Year's night.

The blaze broke out about 6.30 o'clock in the evening and the flames spread through the house and to the barn and garage adjoining. Only the excellent work of the fire department kept the fire from spreading to the Miramichi Hotel.

Mr. Harris carried but $1,100 insurance on the property destroyed. Early New Year's morning the firemen were called out for a blaze at the home of William Kitchen. The resulting damage was very slight.

TORONTO'S NEW MAYOR
Thomas Foster was elected Mayor of Toronto on New Year's Day over W. W. Hilt, last year's mayor, by a majority of 2,448. Mr. Foster is seventy-three years of age and has been in Toronto's City Council for twenty years. A very tight vote was polled.

MONCTON HERE TUESDAY NIGHT

Second League Game Promised To Be a Genuine Thriller.

With the local boys gaining speed with every practice and the fast Moncton team their opponents on Tuesday next the occasion gives every promise of being a genuine thriller and productive of an exhibition in hockey that fans will have reason to remember. This is the second local game in the northern section of the M. P. A. H. A. and with one game gone the locals will be out to win.

Judging from press reports the Moncton squad is in fine fettle for the encounter and the contest should be well worth seeing. The exact line-up of the visiting team is not known but will likely include Gould, Cole, Lane, Walsh and Banks on the forward line; Wilson will likely be in the net and it is understood that the Hub City boys have a strong defense line this season. With the locals in their best form Tuesday's game promises to be one of the best matches here this season.

THE U. S. FISHERMEN FIND USE FOR RADIO

Equip Vessels With Receiving Sets And Tune In On Market Reports.

Boston, Jan. 5.—Fishermen who put out from this port to play their trade off the coast of Massachusetts, developed a new use for radio, several schooners have been equipped with receiving sets. The fishermen, instead of using radio for entertainment at sea with broadcast programmes, tune in on market reports. When quotations for fish are "right" the trawls are pulled up and the schooners head for the market.

EX-SHERIFF CRAIG DIED FRIDAY

Death Occurred Suddenly At Craig Home In Up. Charl.— Was 76 Years Old.

Many expressions of regret were heard on all sides over the week-end as the sad intelligence of the death of Ex-Sheriff Thomas Craig of Upper Gloucester was circulated throughout the county and villages along the coast he was in his 76th year and died suddenly at his home on Friday evening last.

Despite his age the deceased was in his usual good health and his death occurring in the evening while seated in his home, was a sudden shock to his family.

HYDRO NOT LATER THAN SATURDAY

Transmission Line Now Completed—Local Distributing Station In Readiness To Receive Power

According to word received yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock by Mr. Hiram Farrar Manager of The Electric Light Department, the hydro transmission line was then completed and power will be turned on tonight or tomorrow morning. It is thought that today's storm may possibly cause a slight delay in effecting final arrangements. There now seems no doubt that Campbellton will be lit by hydro not later than Saturday evening.

REGINA MAIER

REGINA MAIER GIVES COURT SHOCK

By Declaring He Was to Blame For Boy's Death.

Regina, Jan. 5.—Hebert T. Maier charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of his twelve-year-old son Hebert, December 9th and committed for trial at Maple Creek, Sask., Saturday, gave the court a shock when he declared: "I am to blame; I wish I had a gun to shoot myself and end it all."

Two brothers and a sister of the dead boy gave the court a story of a chase by the father and his, taken with evidence of Dr. F. B. Dawson, warranted the presiding Magistrate in committing the accused.

Mrs. Hebert T. Maier, step-mother of the boy, is also charged with manslaughter, but will not be able to come to trial for at least two months, owing to illness.

ADVOCATES NAVAL DEFENSE
The question of naval defense for the Canadian coast will be brought up at the next session of the Federal Parliament by A. W. Neill, M.P. for Comox-Alberni-British Columbia. He has given notice that he will move, "that Canada should be prepared to meet some portion of the naval defense of our sea-coasts and of our ocean-borne lines of commerce."

EVERY HOME DOLLAR HELPS PAY TAXES

In one of its announcements last week a leading Canadian Bank said to its customers: "Keep your dollars in your town. Part of every dollar you spend in your home town goes to pay taxes and increase the welfare of everyone living in that community. Also, the dollars deposited in your home town bank are used to develop home town industries. Dollars that go elsewhere do the same for strangers. For your own sake and the sake of your community, buy in your home town."

LOCAL OFFICIALS AND POLICE RESPONSIBLE FOR UNSATISFACTORY CONDITIONS

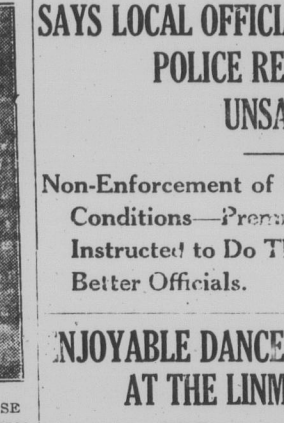

Non-Enforcement of Liquor Law Conditions—Premier Declares—Inspectors Are Instructed To Do Their Duty—Local Officials Give Way To Better Officials.

For some time there has been much complaining as to the manner in which the New Brunswick Temperance Act has been enforced in Campbellton, and some have been endeavoring to make political capital out of this matter.

FAVORABLE TO GR. FALLS SCHEME

Dr. E. A. Smith Tells of Interview With Quebec Government.

The Government of the Province of Quebec gave the Grand Falls hydro power development scheme very favorable consideration. Dr. E. A. Smith, chairman of the New Brunswick Electric Power Commission said today on his arrival here from Quebec city on the Maritime Express. It will require legislation in that province, Dr.
Smith said but he does not anticipate any serious difficulties in having this passed as the Streams Commission which has control of such matters viewed the proposition with favor.

The New Brunswick Electric Power Commission contemplates storage in the Temiscouata Lakes. This will require one or possibly two dams and will ensure a steady flow in the St.
John River and permit of maximum development of the power possibilities instead of merely working on the summer flow as a maximum.

In order to construct the dams and hold lands in the Province of Quebec it will be necessary for the commission to be incorporated and this it is expected will be done as soon as possible.

All of this, Dr. Smith said is merely preliminary to the presentation of the case before the International Waterways Commission. It was considered advisable that the details should be thoroughly worked out before any action was taken before that body as difficulties and delays might have arisen which would postpone indefinitely the development. Hon. J. E. Michaud of Madawaska member of the Government without Portfolio who accompanied Dr. Smith also returned to his home going to Edmundston by way of Campbellton. Mr. S. F. Weston, Chief Engineer of the New Brunswick Electric power Commission was in the city enroute to St. John having arrived with Dr. Smith from Quebec.

The Royal Salmon at Home

Miss Mabel Burkholder Sherbrooke, Quebec, who with Miss Bertha W.
Price, also of that city spent several days in the shire town last summer has the following to say about the salmon fishing haunts of the Restigouche River and Baie de Chaleur.
One day last summer, while spending a month on the Gulf of St. Lawrence, as I lollered near the C. N. R.
Station, Dalhousie, N. B. my attention was drawn to some curious flat boxes of various sizes, the largest being nearly four feet long. The chilliness which exuded from them filled with ice, and bedded in the ice as I learned later, were large fresh water salmon fancy specimens which wealthy sportsmen were sending home as trophies to their friends in New York and other American cities.
If they hadn't sent their trophies home their friends would never have been convinced of their size for there was one that weighed forty-five pounds and many were over twenty pounds. Fishing for fresh water salmon is a royal sport. Therefore it is not easy for the tourist of limited means to "get next to it." But with a journalistic instinct may push in where others are excluded, and my curiosity once aroused I do not leave that part of the country without satisfying myself on the sub-

WEMBLEY WILL BE REALLY IMPERIAL

Every Effort To Be Taken To Exclude Foreign Materials
In 1925.

London, Jan. 3.—Although Canada has decided to participate in the 1925 British Empire Exhibition, the actual work of reconstructing her building authorities have place in the bank an actual guarantee of Canada's share of the prospective profits. As a result of the continuation of the exhibition the cost to the Dominion will be little or nothing in the way of fresh expenditure.

The Dominions are also repeating their stipulation that Dominion products must be used in preference to foreign goods. A statement just issued by Sir Travers Clarke, chief administrator of the exhibition, declares on this point: "It was not the least of our anxieties during the 1924 season that attempts were made in various directions to introduce foreign goods into the exhibition. We did our best to prevent this, and with the experience we have gained we hope this year the exhibition will be entirely British, so far as is practicable. During 1924 we took a great deal of trouble to exclude foreign goods, where their place could be taken by British goods, and an officer of my staff with special experience in imperial trade matters, actively in close collaboration with the Dominion representatives to this effect.
Where there was any trespass it was through what might be called ambiguity on the part of exhibitors and concessionaires, and wherever this was detected prompt steps were taken."

ject of salmon fishing. The network of rivers which empty into the Baie de Chaleur affords the finest salmon fishing in the world. The late Theodore Roosevelt said so, and he knew by actual experience who cultured famous fishing grounds of several continents. "Goodbye lovely Nepissippie, the fisherman's alumnus."

The Matapedia, meaning musical river, runs into salt water by joining its waters with the Restigouche at the head of Chaleur Bay. It is 60 miles long, swift and turbulent running a rapid course between two extensive mountain ranges. The junction is between high banks and here is a favorite fishing haunt for those who own the rights to fish. The Matapedia Salmon Club house is situated on the top of the cliff nearby. The scenery is all around it magnificent. Over the hillsides the foliage is so thick that not a tree trunk can be observed uncovered except an occasional white birch.

The Restigouche, into which the Matapedia flows has been called the "noblest salmon river in the world."
Those who travel through the country on train have little idea of the grandeur of the upper reaches of this magnificent stream. It is two hun-red miles long and for a hundred and thirty miles is free of rapids and falls which cannot be easily taken in a canoe. It is full of abrupt turns which form pools where the salmon lurk in astonishing numbers. In the quiet parts of the river you may see fish swimming about several feet below the surface, and at least one party of sportsmen solemnly swear that they have seen fish so plentiful that it was with difficulty the canoe was forced through them. On another trip down the Restigouche a pool was crossed where a couple of hundred salmon leaped up in every direction on being disturbed. Club houses are built at the principal spots where the best fishing is known to be, and there wealthy fishermen stay in comfort during the season.

It is rather startling to find out what sportsmen have been willing to pay for this royal pastime. The far-famed Cascapedia brings to the Quebec Government a rental of $12,000 a year the rights on the Bonaventure are let for $2250 a year, while the Restigouche with its tributaries are said to be worth over a million dollars for fishing privileges alone. Including salmon pools on the Restigouche have been sold for as much as thirty thousand dollars each.
Theorists in his idyls says that he fishes for the dreams he may catch.
So perhaps there are other things besides fish to be taken into consideration which make world worn businessmen from big cities pay such abnormal prices for their salmon. "It is not the fish alone" says one of them, "but communion with the spirits of the stream and wood which knows us into forgetfulness of the treadmill of the cities." This is a poetic way of putting what every sportsman feels at heart.

with the idea that you may be able to steal a morning's fishing in some quiet pool. The fish-guardians are employed by the big clubs are lynx-eyed. The best rights are all bought up, though there are places on some of the tributaries where salmon fishing may be had at a cost of ten dollars a day plus a fishing permit. In streams where the fish are scarce the cost is much less, so is the fun.

HOW TO WIN SLEEP ON A PULLMAN CAR

Experienced Traveller Says To Sleep With Feet
Toward Engine

Ever since the Pullman "sleeper" was invented the rule seems to have been to make up the berth "head first,"
i. e., with one's head towards the engine, and all the porter knows about it is that "them's order's" Walter H. Smith writes to the editor of the New York Times. I suppose that most people sleep properly on a train and either take a long time to get to sleep, or waken frequently, or both; and it is in the hope of making some good travelers out of god ones, that I offer travellers out of poor ones, and better travellers out of good ones, that I offer an explanation which, after many years of testing out, has ceased to be theory and become proven fact, in my own case at least.

The average train made up of "Pullmans" is long and heavy. It starts slowly and gains momentum gradually that it takes possibly from four to six minutes to reach a speed of say, fifty miles an hour. The effect on the blood stream is so light as not to be noticeable.

On the other hand, the same train will slow down and stop, perhaps one and half to two minutes, and if one is sleeping head first the inevitable result is (Mr. Smith continues with what scientific correct ness one can here be made to determine) that the blood tries to keep going at the same speed as before and in the same direction, i. e., toward the head, until its inertia is gradually overcome.
I have noticed many times when sleeping head first that my sudden awakening was accompanied by the grinding of brakes and the rapid slowing down of the train; also, though not so often, I have wakened with the feeling that my head was bursting and wondered whether I was going to have "a stroke."

Now the converse of the proposition is, of course, that if one sleeps "feet first," or with his feet toward the engine, the blood is forced toward the head only when the train is picking up speed, so gradually that the effect is negligible; on the other hand, when the train is slowing down rapidly the inertia of the blood tends to drag it away from the head and he sleeps tranquilly on.

In view of the fact that the circulation of the blood was discovered by Harvey early in the seventeenth century, whereas the Pullman sleeper was not invented until about 1875, it would seem that there was little excuse for a fool order to Pullman porters which must have caused a vast deal of discomfort to millions of people since it was first issued. Certainly there is no reason why a blunder born of ignorance, or lack of observation, should be perpetuated indefinitely just because it has itself acquired the "inertia of tradition."

The next time you board a sleeper just call the porter, saying, "Please make me berth feet first," and I'll warrant that you'll have a better night's sleep than you imagined possible on a train, to say nothing of avoiding a broken neck if you happen to be in a head-on collision.

The Great Breathable Remedy

Deps

FOR COUGHS, SORE THROAT,
COLDS & BRONCHITIS.

As you dissolve a Deps tablet on your tongue, certain healing fumes are released which are immediately taken into the breath down into the furthest recess of the lungs where liquid medicines cannot penetrate. These Deps fumes on their way bathe the whole of the breathing passages with their healing potency, soothing the throat, allaying inflammation in the bronchi, and relieving the chest. Liquid medicines are simply swallowed into the stomach and cannot act in this direct Deps way.

While Deps are an expensive remedy to produce, the demand has become so great that it has now been found possible to have the CAMPBELLTON, N. B., JAN. 8, 1925.

A NECESSARY WORK

Although few people seem to realize it, there are at the present time, at least a few cases of extreme poverty in Campbellton which should have immediate attention. We have just been informed of one case, where three families, housed together, are in dire need of food and fuel. In a situation like this, there may be others.

In regard to the case mentioned above we are assured that this lamentable condition is not due to any delinquency on the part of the providers. It is understood that they are in the woods cut that the miserable picture (entitled wages), which they are receiving, has been totally insufficient to meet the humble needs of their families. A few days ago there was not a morsel of food in the house. The only thing they had was water and with no fuel to keep the place warm they were likely to freeze any time and this too would be cut off. This case would not be quite so horrible had the unfortunate all been adults; but there were children and, at least one of them is quite young.

Conditions generally are not as good as they have been but it is hard to imagine such extreme poverty as existing right here in Campbellton where so many have more than they need. Nevertheless it is true and something should be done and done at once. Neither should this relief work be left to the individual. Organized effort is the only effective way.

The year round various organizations are busy about us, raising money for relief, welfare and other work in all parts of the world. There are times when some of our money could be well spent for the same purpose nearer home.

Flatlands

The young people have been enjoying a favorable skating for the past week.

Miss Rhoda MacDonald has returned to Fredericton for the past few months she has been a student at the Provincial Normal School.

New Carlisle

New Carlisle, Jan. 6.—The weather for the past few weeks has been extremely cold, but last night we had our first big snowstorm, and we are surely going to have our winter now.

We are glad to see James Thompson and family around again after being shut in on account of illness. Mr. Robert Assels is now in the Soldiers' Memorial Hospital where he has been operated on. We hope for a speedy recovery.

Mr. John Thompson left recently for an extended visit to Boston and New Haven where he will visit his daughters. Mrs. George Collins of Roxbury, Mass. and Mrs. D. J. Yerca of New Haven, Conn. He will be accompanied back by his wife, who has been visiting there for the past four months.

The annual Sunday School treat was held in the parish hall on Dec. 22nd, and was much enjoyed by all. Much credit is due to our superintendent, Mrs. F. J. Legros.

We are sorry to see the home and office of Dr. LeBel vacated as Mrs. LeBel has sold out and gone to Quebec to reside where she will be joined by Dr. LeBel when he has recovered from his recent illness. Dr. LeBel will be very much missed by his friends in New Carlisle.

Through the medium of your excellent paper one often reads testimony of lives well spent, in some humble surroundings, for the upbuilding of good citizenship and also religious lives. Because of this I would deem it a favor if you would record the following as a tribute to two very highly respected and much loved citizens, New Carlisle.

There passed to his rest at his home in New Carlisle on December 13th Mr. Daniel Thompson at the good old age of ninety-seven years. The late Daniel Thompson was widely known in both the Counties of Gaspe and Bonaventure, and his home was looked upon as a haven of rest for many a weary traveller who had need to journey along the coast previous to the days of his railway service. Because of his very sterling qualities, his delightful personality, his simple and respectful manner, he won the confidence and trust of many who came in contact with him, so that at his passing away bore testimony of the kindness and generosity of the late Daniel Thompson.

Interment took place on December 16th in the cemetery of St. Andrew's Church. The service being conducted by the Rev. Rural Dean deGruchy. On December the 20th there also passed to his rest James Rae aged sixty-seven years. Mr. Rae had been a sufferer for some months of a disease that soon brought to a close the life of one of our excellent citizens. The late Mr. James Rae, was also a man highly respected by the community. A good citizen, a good neighbor and one who lived a most exemplary life as a Christian. Surely the lives of these good and true men will not have been lived in vain. Interment took place Tuesday the 23rd. The members of the L. O. L. of New Carlisle paraded and took part in the service at the grave of their brother and friend. Oh! call it not death—'tis a glorious rest.

Also, with the Spirit for all such are best: They rest from their labors, their work is done; The good is attained, the weary race The battle is fought, the struggle is over.

The crown now replaces the cross they bore; The pilgrimage path shall no more be trod— A rest remains to the people of God.

WEDDINGS

McIntyre-Kean
A quiet, but particularly pretty wedding was solemnized in the Church of Our Lady of Snows here yesterday morning at 8 o'clock when Marion Gladys, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kean of this town was united in marriage to Wilfred J. McIntyre, third son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry McIntyre, also of Campbellton. Rev. Father Melanson, P. P. performed the ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looked charming in a gown of powder blue tulle, cape, tailored jacket of Hudson seal with Russian ermine trimmings, hat of powder blue velvet and black satin with gold embroidery. A corsage bouquet of American Beauty roses completed her costume and she carried a white Prayer Book. The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. J. E. McIntyre of Bathurst.

Appropriate wedding music was rendered by the Children of Mary Choir, of which Sociality the bride was president. After the ceremony the bridal party partook of a dainty wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. McIntyre left on last night's Limited for their future home in Detroit, where the groom holds a responsible position with the Harwick Lumber Company. Going away the bride wore a gown of black chiffon velvet with black fox trimmings and blue and gold embroidery.

The Graphic joins the host of friends of this popular young couple in extending best wishes for a happy and prosperous wedded life.

PAINS ACROSS THE BACK

Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mitchell, Ontario.—"I have taken your medicine for a number of years. I do not take it every day, but I am never without it. I always keep a bottle in the house. I took it first for pains in the abdomen and bearing-down pains, headaches and pains across the back. I have my home to look after and many a day I could not get up at all. I saw the advertisement in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and Mrs. John Miller told me about it, too. Every time I take it, it makes me feel better and I always recommend it to my friends. I am willing to answer letters from women asking about this medicine and you may use this letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. F. J. VANSMITH, Mitchell, Ontario.

The merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is told by women to each other. Many women know by experience what this medicine will do and they are anxious for others to know. Such testimony should cause any woman suffering from the troubles so common to her sex to give this well-known medicine a fair trial.

Do you know that in a recent canvass among women users of the Vegetable Compound over 220,000 replies were received. To the question, "Have you received benefit by taking this medicine?" 85 per cent. replied "Yes."

This means that 85 out of every 100 women are in better health because they have given this medicine a fair trial.

A Romance of the Spanish Main CAPTAIN BLOOD

By RAFAEL SABATINI

CHAPTER I THE MESSENGER

Peter Blood, bachelor of medicine and several other things besides, smoked a pipe and tended the geraniums boxed on the sill of his window above Water Lane in the town of Bridgewater. Mr. Blood's attention was divided between his task and the stream of humanity in the narrow street below; a stream which poured for the second time that day towards Castle Field, where earlier in the afternoon Ferguson, the Duke's chaplain, had preached a sermon containing more treason than divinity.

These straggling, excited groups were mainly composed of men with green boughs in their hats and the most hideous weapons in their hands. Some, it is true, shouldered bowing pieces, and here and there a sword was brandished; but more of them were armed with clubs, and most of them trailed the mammoth pikes fashioned out of scythes as formidable to the eye as they were clumsy to the hand. There were weavers, brewers, carpenters, smiths, masons, bricklayers, cobblers, and representatives of every other of the trades of peace among these improvised men of war. Bridgewater, like Taunton, has yielded so generously of its manhood to the service of the bastard Duke that for any to abstain whose age and strength admitted of his bearing arms was to brand himself a ward or a papist.

Yet Peter Blood, who was not only able to bear arms, but trained and skilled in their use, who was certainly no coward and a present only at Trinity College, Dublin. His father survived that satisfaction by force months only. His mother had then been dead some years already. Thus Peter Blood came into an inheritance of some few hundred pounds, with which he had set out to see the world. A set of curious chances led him to take service with the Dutch, then at war with France; and a predilection for the sea made him elect that this service should be upon that element. He had the advantage of a commission under the famous de Ruyter, and fought in the Mediterranean engagement in which that great Dutch admiral lost his life.

After the Peace of Nimeguen his movements are obscure. But we know that he spent two years in a Spanish prison, though we do not know how he contrived to get there. It may be due to this that upon his release he took his sword to France, and saw service with the French in their war upon the Spanish Netherlands. Having reached, at last, the age of thirty-two, his appetite for adventure surfeited, his health having grown indifferent as the result of a neglected wound, he was suddenly overwhelmed by homesickness. He took ship from Nantes with intent to cross to Ireland. But the vessel being driven by stress of weather into Bridgewater Bay, and Blood's health having grown worse during the voyage, he decided to go ashore there, additionally urged to it by the fact that it was his mother's native soil.

Thus in January of that year, 1685 he had come to Bridgewater, possessed

Peter Blood and Jeremy Pitt

when it so suited him, tended his bar of a fortune that was approximately the same as that with which that warm July evening an indifferently set out from Dublin. He laughed and sighed in one breath. That is all his story, or so much, six months later, when the battle of Sedgemoor was fought.

Deeming the impending action no affair of his, as indeed it was not, he went early up to that night, six months later, when the battle of Sedgemoor was fought. Deeming the impending action no affair of his, as indeed it was not, he went early up to that night, six months later, when the battle of Sedgemoor was fought.

Peter Blood was the son of an Irish physician who had early resolved that his boy should follow the honorable profession, and Peter Blood, being quick to learn and oddly greedy of knowledge, had satisfied his parent by receiving at the age of twenty the degree of baccalaureus medicinae at Trinity College, Dublin. His father survived that satisfaction by force months only. His mother had then been dead some years already. Thus Peter Blood came into an inheritance of some few hundred pounds, with which he had set out to see the world. Peter Blood set out upon his Odyssey. For this Pitt, in whom he beheld more than the messenger of a wounded rebel gentleman, was indeed the very messenger of Fate.

CHAPTER II KIRKE'S DRAGONS

Oglethorpe's farm stood a mile or so to the south of Bridgewater on the right bank of the river. On the bridge, as they had been riding out of Bridgewater, they had met field of battle; horse voices cried a warning that merciless pursuit was not far behind. But as Pitt's direction was southward one, bringing them ever nearer to Faversham's headquarters, they were presently clear of that human fiasco and jettison of the battle.

In the spacious, stone-flagged hall, the doctor found Lord Gildoy stretched on an acafe day-bed in care of Mrs. Baynes and her comely daughter. Mr. Blood knelt to his task. He was still intent upon it a half-hour later when the dragons invaded the homestead. His lordship showed considerable alarm, and the battle-stained Jeremy Pitt sped to cover in a clothes-press. Baynes was uneasy, and his wife and daughter trembled. "Why, what's to fear?" Mr. Blood reassured them. "It's a Christian country, this, and Christian men do not make war upon the wounded, nor upon those who harbour them."

And then they came rattling and clanking into the stone-flagged hall—a round dozen jackbooted, lacerated troopers of the Tangiers Regiment, led by a sturdy, black-browed fellow with a deal of gold Captain stamped forward to the grey-lace about the breast of his coat. The faced snicker.

"A damned rebel, and that's enough for me. Out with him my lads."

Mr. Blood cut between the day-bed and the troopers. "In the name of humanity, sir!" said he on a note of anger. "This is England, not Tangiers. The gentleman is in no case. He may not be moved without peril to his life."

Captain Hobart was amused. "Do you think it's to benefit his health we're taking him? There's gallows being planted along the road from Weston to Bridgewater, and he'll serve for one of them as well as another. Colonel Kirke'll learn these nonconforming oafs something they'll not forget in generations."

"You're humane, men, without trial? Faith, then, it's mistaken I am. We're in Tangiers, after all, it seems where your regiment belong."

The Captain's eye and soldier's nostril widened. "Who the hell may you be?" he exclaimed.

"My name is Blood, sir—Peter Blood at your service."

"Aye—aye! Goodso! That's the name. You were in French service once, were you not? Five years ago, or more you were in Tangiers."

"That is so. I knew your colonel."

"Faith, you may be renewing the acquaintance." The Captain laughed unpleasantly. "What brings you here, sir?"

"This wounded gentleman. I was fetched to attend him. I am a medic."

"A doctor—you?" Scorn of that life—as he conceived it—rang in the hearing, hectoring voice. Mr. Blood's smile annoyed him.

that Lord Gildoy will have friends and relatives on the Tory side, who'll have something to say to Colonel Kirke if his lordship should be handled like a common felon. You'll go warily Captain, or, as I've said, it's a halter for your neck ye'll be weaving this morning."

Captain Hobart swept the warning aside with a bluster of contempt, but he acted upon it none the less. "Take up the day-bed," said he, "and convey him on that to Bridgewater. Lodge him in the ogal until I take orders about him."

As his lordship was carried out, the Captain became brisk. Mr. Blood saw on profit to himself in lingering. "By your leave, it's a very good day I'll be wishing you," said he.

"By my leave, you'll remain awhile," the Captain ordered him. Mr. Blood shrugged, and sat down.

The Captain opened the press, took the huddled inmate by the collar of his doublet, and lugged him out into the open.

"And who the devil's this?" quoth he. "Another nobleman?"

Mr. Blood as a vision of those galleys of which Captain Hobart had spoken. On the spot he invented not only a title but a whole family for the young rebel.

"Faith, we've said it, Captain. This is Viscount Pitt, first cousin to Sir Thomas Vernon, who's married to that slut Moll Kirke, sister to your own colonel, and sometime lady in waiting upon King James's queen."

Both the Captain and his prisoner gasped. But whereas thereafter young Pitt discreetly held his peace, the Captain rapped out a nasty oath. "Fetch him along to Bridgewater. And make fast that fellow also," he pointed to Baynes.

There's a gallows for you if you prefer it. It's merely a question of now or later."

Rude hands seized Mr. Blood. Pinned him to the ground, they tied his wrists behind his back, then roughly pulled him to his feet again. The soldiers trailed out by the door leading to the interior. Mr. Blood was thrust by his guards into the courtyard, where Pitt and Baynes already waited. There were sounds of rending timbers, the shouts and laughter of brutal men; finally above all other sounds came the piercing screams of a woman in acute agony.
