YOUR LEGAL DUTY

Do all our readers know that it is the legal duty of anybody who finds an article of any kind to advertise the same at once? Some people fancy that by holding a thing without saying anything about for an indefinite period such article becomes their own property. If for some reason the lawful owner has not advertised his loss, that is a wrong idea. It is only after an article has been legally advertised, that the finder has the right to possession.

EGG AND POULTRY CIRCLE

A significant event for poultrymen of Annapolis County was the formation of the Annapolis Egg and Poultry Circle at Bridgetown, on Monday, May 18th. Thus a step has been taken by the egg producers to place their business upon an organized basis, and it is hoped that others will avail themselves of this opportunity by joining the circle.

Eggs will be shipped co-operatively from the County in affiliation with the N. B. Egg Exchange at St. John. Local egg circles will be formed at the various centres for the purpose of collecting and forwarding the eggs to St. John. It is anticipated that the Poultry Division of the Dominion Department of Agriculture will have a poultry car supplied to the County Circle, in order that hens, culled from members' flocks by experts, may be shipped to Boston. It is hoped that arrangements will also be requested for the shipping of dressed poultry. All those interested are urged to communicate with the secretary or the nearest director.

'Empty Hands'

ARTHUR STRINGER'S POPULAR MAGAZINE STORY IN PICTURES. Everyone has read it. The story of a man and woman stranded in the vast wilderness of Canadian Wilds, fighting out an existence, alone, empty handed.

A POWERFUL STORY OF THE GREAT OUT DOORS.

THE MARCH OF CANADA'S MEN

They marched from the plough, they marched from the hall, they laid aside the pen, to don the sword and khaki. Oh! these were Canada's men.

They marched from the east, and they marched from the west, they marched by land and flood, and they faltered not in the hour of death. And they bravely shed their blood.

They bade goodbye to the sweet heart, they bade goodbye to the wife, they kissed the child while the falling tears obliterated sight.

They fought for the king, they fought for state, they fought for the homeland fair, they fought for the youth, they fought for the maid. And they fought for the whitening hair.

They braved the storms, they swam the tides, and famed in their advance, they fought for Belgium and her ill, they fought for noble France.

They fought for the rich, they fought for the poor, and deathless is their fame, also SUGAR visit our Warehouse, where your needs will receive our Prompt Attention.

They trod the deck where the submarine did belch the German steel, and its little they reaped, that a watery grave Might be beneath their keel.

Their blood it died the German blade, and they no quarter cried, And be it truth or fable, That some were crucified.

Oh, the graves are many beyond the seas, And the widows weep in vain And the little child has ceased to lisp Its married ladies name.

Oh, these, the men of Canada, They fill an honored grave; These, the men of Canada, They sleep, as sleep the brave.

—Mrs. Harry Phinney, North Kingston, N. S.

In a certain school recently the children were asked to name ten of the principal towns and cities in the Maritime Provinces and the outstanding fact in connection with each. 40 out of 42 mentioned that Halifax was noted as the home of Moir's.

This year fishers will have the advantage of taking along Moir's Camp Chocolate. Nibbled on the tramp or waiting on the banks it is not only a confection but a food.

And what dandy sweetened cocoa it makes.

Priscilla Dean, Popular Movie Actress, Assumes Role of Locomotive Engineer

ONE TRAIN THAT IS REALLY TEN TRAINS
No! Priscilla Dean, movie actress, is not to be the engineer of the Trans-Canada Limited, the only limited, all-sleeper train across Canada, even though she donned an engineer's garb, ran a real Trans-Canada locomotive, and acted also as station master for one hour in Yonge Street Station, Toronto. Priscilla is interested in railroading, and was much intrigued with a Canadian Pacific Railway ticket around the world, the first coupon of which called for a journey on this train which is beginning May 17, is scheduled to better its 30-hour run between Montreal and Vancouver, two cities nearly 3,000 miles apart. Priscilla's bright eyes opened even wider with astonishment when she was told that this wonderful train in reality ten fully equipped trains, four of which are moving westward and four eastward at the same time, while two additional trains are being cleaned, refitted and turned around, one at Vancouver and the other at Montreal and Toronto. The equipment of each train is limited to one baggage car, one dining car, four standard sleepers, one 10-compartment car, Vancouver and Montreal, and one 10-compartment car Toronto and Winnipeg, with a drawing room-3 compartment observation sleeper Montreal and Vancouver. Sleeping car passengers only are carried, and last year there was a one-night use of approximately 100,000 berths for the 119 days the train was in service. The east and west bound trains together covered 6,292 miles every day. The season's mileage for the 233 trips was 758,748 miles, or three times the distance from the earth to the moon.

There are 48 engines runs daily. Including the engine stops, the trains make only 26 stops on their cross-continent run. Owing to the necessity of changing train crews on such a long run, about 14 crews, or about 84 men, are required for one trip on each train, while 48 sleeping and dining car employees are at work each trip on a single train, or nearly 400 men for this branch of the Trans-Canada service. Benf, Lake Louise and the scenic wonders of the Canadian Rockies have proved irresistible to singers and musicians, actors and actresses, and movie stars. Among the celebrated artists who have visited Benf are Doree Clara Butt, Galli-Curci, Elsie Janis, Jascha Heifetz, Jack Holt and our own Doug, and Mary who all travel on Canada's finest flyer, the Trans-Canada.

SONG SERVICE WAS GREATLY ENJOYED.

"The Prodigal Son," a service of song, interspersed with Scripture readings by the Pastor, Rev. D. Dron, was given by the choir at Falkland Ridge on the evening of May 17th as follows:—

Lake 15: 11:24
Downward Course
Droning, Mrs. Edgar Mason and D. Dron.
Where is my wandering boy tonight W. Sproule.
Wandering child come home, Male quartette, D. Dron, W. Sproule, Mr. Edgar Mason and H. F. Mason.
Only a step to Jesus, Grace Sproule.

Upward Course
Almost persuaded, Mrs. H. Mason, Florence Marshall, H. Mason and W. L. Sproule.
The prodigal's return, solo, Rev. D. Dron.
Lead kindly light, Chorus by choir.
The mistakes of my life have been many, Edgar Mason.
I surrender all, duet and quartette, Florence Marshall, H. F. Mason, Marie Sproule and E. G. Mason.
Lord I'm coming home, H. F. Mason.
Lead me gently home Father, Mrs. H. F. Mason.

Reconciliation
The sinner and the song, D. Dron.
Home sweet home, Mrs. E. G. Mason.
Rejoicing
Sweeter as the years roll by, Iona Marshall and D. Dron.
Ring the bells of Heaven, choir.
We're marching to Zion, chorus.
This is an excellent program and any choir wishing to give an impressive message in song cannot do better than to copy it.

ALBANY
May 28—Vegetation has about killed the flu for this winter and spring. The cold backward spring and frequent showers have hindered the work of the farmer.
The fishermen report an abundance of trout. They are getting them by the half bushel.
Mrs. Matthew Sheridan has been very ill for the past three or four weeks, but is making rapid progress towards recovery.
Our neighbor, George Edward Fair, has left his farming in the hands of Kenneth Zwicker, and gone to Stewiack to work on the survey.
Our esteemed friend, Wm. Wood, is putting out barrel stock of his mill.
Mr. Joseph Mallman has contracted with Messrs. Allan and Son, to put in the timber recently acquired from Mr. G. E. Fair. The logs will be sent on cars to Middleton.
Lyman A. Whitman is manufacturing hardwood leaves at his mill for Robert McKay. Later he will put out barrel stock.
Melbourne Goucher and son are manufacturing laths. Their output is to be hauled to Bridgetown.
We are thankful to report rapid progress towards health of your correspondent, Phineas Whitman.
Mrs. F. B. Dunlap of Sydney Mines spent a fortnight caring for her aged father, and is visiting in her old Albany home.
Mr. Albert Oakes was making calls last week. Although in his ninetieth year he is hale and as sprightly as a much younger man.
Mrs. E. J. Whitman got the sad news last Thursday that her father had died very suddenly. She left the same day for the old home. The funeral took place on Sabbath afternoon at the home at Port Medway. E. J. Whitman, and Mrs. Selig and Benf, were the funeral, being conveyed by Reginald Whitman in his car.

LOOK UPON OUR SOWING
Rogation days—the three days next to Ascension Day, Thursday, May 21st—are observed according to the church calendar as days of special supplication for successful crops. The custom was instituted in the 5th century by Mamertus, the Bishop of Vienne, in Gaul, at a time of local calamity.

Lord God in Paradise,
Look upon our sowing;
Bless the little gardens
And the good green growing.
Give us sun, give us rain;
Bless the orchards and the grain.

Lord God in Paradise,
Please bless the beans and peas;
Give us corn full on the ear—
We will praise Thee, Lord, for these
Bless the blossoms and the root,
Bless the seed and the fruit.

Lord God in Paradise,
For the wonder of the seed,
Wondering, we praise Thee, while
We tell Thee of our need.
Look down from Paradise,
Look upon our sowing;
Bless the little garden,
And the good green growing.
Give us sun, give us rain;
Bless the orchards and the grain!

THE TEMPERANCE ACT IMPROVED

Among the important amendments to the Temperance Act obtained at the recent session of the Legislature are the following:—

1. Liquor shall not be delivered by vendor to any person apparently under the age of 18 years. Penalty for violation $100.00.
Liquor shall not be given, sold, delivered or otherwise supplied to any person apparently under the age of 21 years, except for medicinal purposes by the parent or guardian. Penalty $100.00.

2. Any person who is convicted of selling from, or keeping for sale any liquor, in any vehicle on any public highway or other place whatsoever, shall be liable to imprisonment for a period not less than three nor more than six months. Provision is made for the destruction of the liquor seized and the confiscation of the vehicle.

3. Any person who has liquor in his possession on any street or in any place whatsoever, unless entitled to have same, under provisions of the Act is liable to a penalty of $100.00.

4. Other amendments provide wider powers of search without warrant, increased penalties for drinking in public places. County inspectors have access to the records of druggists, physicians, and vendors in any city or town within the County. It will be seen from the foregoing that the Act has been strongly strengthened. Officers will have less difficulty in dealing with dive keepers, boot-leggers, and auto rum runners. Capable inspectors and police, with the Act as it now stands, are in a better position than formerly to do effective work in the suppression of the illicit traffic.

THE BOARD OF VENDOR COMMISSIONERS

Suggested amendments dealing with the sale of liquor by the Board of Vendor Commissioners were not obtained.

The Government, however, has power under the Act to curb abuses, and to this end may have such regulations framed as will limit the sale to a minimum.

All rules and regulations made by the Board for the conduct of the business are subject to the approval of the Government.

The present rules and regulations are not satisfactory so far as the moral welfare of the province is concerned.

It is to be hoped that within a very short time necessary action will be taken by the Government as requested by the Social Service Council since the close of the House of Assembly.

Failure to do so would leave a wide open door for the distribution of liquor for election purposes (bribery and corruption.) It has been obtained from the Board during the past few years for other purposes not by any means in keeping with the intention of the Act.

H. R. GRANT,
General Secretary
Social Service Council

C. O. FOSS, WELL KNOWN ENGINEER DIES AT AGE OF 75

Began Career in Canada With the Nictaux and Atlantic Railway in 1884.

St. John, N. B., May 19th—Death came suddenly to Charles Orrin Foss, C. E., at Penacook, N. H., yesterday at the age of 75. Mr. Foss spent many years in New Brunswick as an engineer for the Transcontinental Railway work, the St. John and Quebec Railway and the New Brunswick Electric Power Commission. He was in Montreal last week. Mr. Foss was born at Wentworth N. H.

In September 1884 he came to Canada as an engineer on the Nictaux and Atlantic Railway with Middleton as his headquarters. His chief engineer in Nova Scotia was Mr. Wade who afterwards became one of the Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway. He placed Mr. Foss in the New Brunswick district work for that railway, of which he later took charge, building practically the whole line in this province.

In 1917 he was appointed chief engineer of the St. John and Quebec Railway and directed the construction of the line from Gagetown to the New Brunswick government in vestigation of the possibilities of water power development in this province giving special attention to the proposed development at Musquash. In 1920 he was appointed as chief engineer and member of the New Brunswick Electric Power Commission and had charge of the hydro development at Musquash. He resigned from that appointment about one year ago.

Besides his widow he leaves one son, Carroll, of Wilmot, N. S., and one daughter, Mrs. F. L. Foster, of Montreal.

ELDON L. BAKER PASSES AWAY CAMP HILL HOSPITAL

There passed away Thursday morning in Camp Hill Hospital, at the age of 53 years, Eldon L. Baker, whose home was at Kingsport, Nova Scotia, whither his body will be taken for burial.

Mr. Baker served overseas, having been a lance corporal in the Royal Canadian Regiment. He fought in five of the great historic engagements, and his death at 55 years of age is attributed to injury to his heart which he sustained while in the fighting zone.

He was unmarried and both his parents are dead, one brother, however, being resident in the United States.

After retiring as a waiter he bought a little cottage in the country and lived the simple life. At the end of ten years' residence he was appointed a deacon of the village church and assumed the task of passing round the plate for the collection.

Feeling secretly pleased with himself, he took up the plate and began his duty. But the habits of the past years proved too much for him, for on going up to an old and much-respected member of the congregation, he asked in a hoarse but distinct whisper:—

"Some nice blueprints, madam?"
"Did it ever occur to you that a Scotchman's fondness for wild geese lies in the fact that they fly in the shape of a V?"

"Liver Trouble so Severe I Had to Quit Work"

Mr. Thomas Honey, Brantford, Ont., writes:
"I was a great sufferer from enlargement of the liver for ten months, and finally I had to quit work. I would wake up in the mornings with a bitter taste in my mouth, had frequent headaches, yellow complexion, and pain in my right side, and between the shoulder blades. It was almost unbearable, and terribly weakening. I could not sleep at night and my heart also bothered me. But the whole trouble has now left me, thanks to that wonderful medicine, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills."

FRUITS FOR HOME GARDEN

By W. S. Blair, Kentville, N. S.

A naturally well-drained loam is preferable for all small fruit plants. Heavier soils, however, if there is sufficient sub-soil drainage to prevent an excess of stagnant ground water, will give good results. On the first type it is better to ridge the soil slightly with the lowest part midway between the rows. The soil should be fertilized with a liberal application of stable manure, and plowed deeply. This should be done as soon as the ground is dry enough to work in the spring so that early planting, which is an important factor, may not be delayed.

Strawberries are set in rows four feet apart and 12 inches apart in the rows. Currants and gooseberries are set in rows five feet apart each way. Raspberries are set in rows six feet apart and one and one-half feet apart in the rows. Two year old plants of currants and gooseberries are the most satisfactory for planting. Care should be taken to keep roots of the plants moist until planted, by giving protection to prevent them from drying out.

Strawberries may be set by using a spade, thrusting it into the soil and pressing it sideways, and setting the plant with the roots spread fan-shaped in the opening so made, then withdrawing the spade and pressing the earth firmly around the roots with the foot. The plant should be set so that the crown is level with the surface of the ground. Frequent hoeing and cultivating are necessary to keep down all weed growth until runners and new plants are formed, when they should remain undisturbed except to space the runners evenly about six inches apart. After this, careful hoeing around the plants will be necessary to prevent weed growth. It is wise to set out a new plantation every year otherwise the plants become thick and poor crops result.

The only attention necessary to give the bush and cane fruits the first few years is to hoe and cultivate sufficiently to prevent grass and weeds from starting. If these are allowed to become established it is very difficult later to rid the plantation of them, and they will seriously interfere with growth and the production of good fruit. The raspberries are confined to a row not more than one foot wide and about six inches between the canes. An application of 150 pounds of nitrate of soda and 300 pounds of acid phosphate per acre, applied in the early spring, should be given after these fruits come into bearing.

The Senator Dunlap Strawberry is one of the best. The Victoria Black and Fay's Prolific, red, are two of the best currants. The Herbert Raspberry is one of the best, and Downing one of the best gooseberries.

SPRING FLOWERS

Great is the pleasure of the gardener when the first snowdrop appears. This is the first flower in most gardens, and it would be worthy of a place for that reason alone, but its dainty white bells are very appealing and attractive to most people.

Another very early flower is called Bulbocodium vernum and it makes a splash of colour immediately after the snow has gone. The flowers are much like crocuses in appearance though botanically, they differ. They are light reddish purple in colour and remain in bloom for about two weeks.

Scilla sibirica, a small bell shaped blue flower, and alba, which is a creamy white variety, come next and are in bloom with the crocuses. Some of the best of these showy bulbs are Cloth of Gold yellow, the earliest of all. Mont Blanc, white, purpurea grandiflora dark purple, Margot pale lilac blue, albion purple dark purple, Madame Mina pale lilac with darker stripes.

Of the perennials other than bulbs, one of the earliest to bloom is Arabis alba (Rock Cress) which makes the sheets of white in borders and rock gardens so familiar in springtime. The single variety is the earliest, but the double form is a much finer flower and remains longer in bloom.

Another white flower which follows Arabis is Iberis sempervirens (perennial candytuft). This plant is of a shrubby nature and the clusters of flowers stand up above the ground and make handsome clumps. The foliage is dark glossy green, very different from the greyish green leaves of Arabis.

Alyssum saxatile, though not quite so hardy as the plants just mentioned, is well worth trying. It makes clumps of bright yellow which are very effective in the spring garden.

Aubretia, a dwarf growing plant with bowers of various shades of mauve, needs protection in the Ottawa district.

Myosotis (Forget-me-not), a well known old favorite should be in every garden. It seeds itself freely, but can be easily destroyed when it encroaches on other plants.

Narcissi are among the most beautiful of spring flowers, and should be mixed in the perennial border in clumps of ten or fifteen of the same variety. The varieties vary in hardness and the following are among the best: Sir Watkin, Emperor, Empress, Mme. de Graaff, Seagull, White Lady and Barrii conspicuus.

Tulips. Early flowering varieties can be planted among the Arabis and Forget-me-nots and beautiful effects obtained by careful arrangement of the colours, or they can be put in clumps as suggested for the narcissi. Varieties: Cottage Maid pink and white, Couleur Cardinal deep crimson, Chrysolora yellow, Keizer-Kroon scarlet and gold, Fred Moore ruddy apricot, Darwin and cottage tulips bloom later and are more satisfactory for the perennial border. There are a large number of varieties and it is difficult to make a selection, but the following are beautiful:

DARWIN: Bartigon, crimson; Clara Butt, pale pink; King Harold, deep purple; Pride of Haarlem, bright red; Princess Elizabeth, deep pink; Valentin, bluish violet.

COTTAGE: Gesneriana spathulata, bright scarlet; Inglescombe, pink; Moonlight, pale yellow; Mrs. Moon deeper yellow; Picotee, white edged crimson.

Tulips are followed by Irises and spring has changed to summer.

—Isabella Preston, Specialist in Ornamental Gardening, Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

TO KEEP PESTS FROM SMALL FRUITS

No good excuse can be given by anyone as a reason for losing a crop of currants or gooseberries because of mildew or worms. Limesulphur at summer strength as for apples or bordeaux applied when the leaves first appear and at intervals of two weeks thereafter until the fruit is half grown will control mildew. Add two pounds of dry lead arsenate to 100 gallons of spray and you can control the currant worms at the same time. If plant lice or aphids show up give them a dose of nicotine sulphate at the usual strength on the first appearance of the pests. If worms appear after the fruit is half grown use fresh white hellebore instead of lead arsenate.

If you see any evidence of the arrival of worms among your raspberries use a pound of dry lead arsenate in a barrel of water and cover the upper and lower surfaces of the leaves. That is, use lead arsenate up to the time the fruit sets. After the fruit sets use white hellebore.

DOERS OF THINGS IN INK

We have been constantly improving our plant in order that we may be able to handle all the printing of Middleton and surrounding districts. By doing this we hope to maintain the home patronage, and thus keep many a stray dollar at home where it belongs.

There are some business people, who holler "Trade at Home", but when some glib salesman comes along to sell printing, they will give him their orders without ever wondering whether The Outlook could do the work and what our price might be? That's consistency personified.

All we ask is a fair shake. Any merchant who expects the public to buy at home, should be the last man on earth to send out of town for anything that can be procured here.

The outside salesman often lands an order because he quotes prices on large quantities. Well, on anything we can handle, you will find our prices on the large quantities as good and in many cases we can outstrip the big fellow's prices a mile.

Always let us in on your printing—it may be the saving of many dollars, and may stop the salesman from slipping something over you. We'll treat you right—so give us a show.

When you need any kind of printing let us know and we shall endeavor to give you the best possible.

AN INTERESTING HISTORICAL EVENT

By H. S. Mutton

THE BATTLE OF ST. JULIEN
APRIL 22, 1915

Ypres The makers of history do not realize it when history is being made. It remains for the historian to collect the records of their achievements and turn them into history. The part of the makers is only achievement at the moment, their actions compelled by the needs of the moment. So it is with Ypres and the Salient, and all those who made history there. For the achievement of the Canadian forces wrought under the necessity of defending the hearth and home are already becoming a memory and a history. There is little in the vicinity of Ypres to attest their presence there ten years ago. Monuments arise over the landscape which will be gazed on by future generations as we now gaze on the monuments of Waterloo and the Crimea, and all the other history-making wars which are preserved down the ages in stone and brass.

Ypres HAS A SPECIAL SIGNIFICANCE FOR CANADA. But Ypres has a special significance for Canada. For the use of it was the greatest war of all history; for another, Canada proved her real British blood. For the foreign soil, and Canada laid the bones of her best sons for the first time alongside those of the continental nations which for centuries had been doing the same thing century after century. Canada came to manhood as the elder son of the British Empire, as did the young sons of that Empire overseas, and made her first glorious intrusion into the age-old affairs of the old world. Canada became a nation at Ypres.

But how little remains now of evidence of that time ten years ago. Standing on the road to St. Julien, the Flanders slope gently down towards Ypres, the tattered stump of the Cloth Hall just discernible in the distance. All over the brown newly-turned earth are dotted the little clumps of trees in groups straggling from one mile to another. The red-tiled roofs glisten in the distance, and every where the thrifty peasants are carrying on their humble and endless toil. Ploughmen drive their unequally matched horses with the Flanders "bus," and on the roads the same old, long-drawn vehicles climb patiently along the cobble roads under the single line guidance. It is Flanders just as the troops knew it miles back of the lines, where the battle raged not, a landscape of brown fields and red roofs, with village spires catching the eye at all points in the distance.

LITTLE CEMETERY DOTTED OVER COUNTRYSIDES. Only the trees are missing from the highways here. Young saplings border the roads, and only time works this reparation. Also dotted over the fields are the stubborn pill-boxes and gun emplacements of the war. Concrete blocks, bristling angrily yet after eight years with their rusted protruding iron. Even the hardy Belgian cannot get rid of these. And here also dotted over the smiling countryside and fitting peacefully into the harmony of it are the little cemeteries, with their rows of white stones, now after row, and surrounded by the wells which signify that within is sacred British territory.

How silent the air how peaceful the outlook. Only the musical twittering of the skylarks in joyous ecstasy livens the empty spaces. It is difficult, indeed, to think that here, ten years ago, just at this time, men were lustling for each other's lives, guns were ceaselessly pounding, bullets were shrieking, black smoke and huge jets of earth were spouting everywhere from these fields, men's curses clattered with the groans of wounded and dying, poisonous gases gripped the life out of human beings, houses blazed in fire, roads echoed to the tread of soldiers' feet, the rumble of gun carriage or ambulance; that here where now lie these peaceful fields, pandemonium reigned, hell was loose over the country, which rocked with the grim and cruel bloody terror of war.

IS NOW SHAPED LIKE A CROSS-ROADS HAMLET

There, where the farmer is scattering his seed by hand from the man he carries, the Canadians made their first stand against the massed might of the German army. Over there took place the episodes of the recapture of the guns near a new barn which replaces the old. Farther over, in the distance, is Witle, new built and quiet, with the shapeliness of a cross-roads hamlet. How the shells used to rage around that corner, in the lee of which the dressing station took its precarious shelter. Farther over to the left is the road going from Witle to Passchendaele, up which streamed troops and transport in unending confusion, as reserves were sent up to help close the breach. Now there is nothing in the road except that at the top, near where were battalion headquarters, it remains yet tossed into cherted-up sea of holes and trenches. It is one of the toughest spots. It was there the gallant 8th and 10th made their stand. Nearer to St. Julien is where the Queen's Own and 48th Highlanders fought against the steady fire and deadly gases of the enemy. Nothing marks the field of action today but a few stumps of trees here and there. But there are none standing intact. This sector was fought over too often for that. But dominating the scene a little nearer St. Julien than Langemarck, at the cross-roads, stands the Canadian monument, the stately grey granite pillar, surmounted by the trench-helmeted soldier gazing down at the two thousand buried soldiers who repose for evermore under the tomb at his feet, over which he, the sentinel, keeps eternal guard. Only that reminds of ten years ago. NAUGHTY NOW FOR CURIOSITY-SEEKERS OR SIGHTSEERS.

These are sought for the sightseer or the curious-hunter in the domain which this figure sums up in his sleepless vigil. It is all gathered to the cross-roads, the memory of those terrible devastating days ten years ago, when Ypres, that new town over there, burnt like a torch, when these brown fields being ploughed now, were ploughed and furrowed with shell and bomb and maddened figures ranged over the spaces filled now with peace and quiet, the days when Canada stopped the advance of Teuton might, which but for their stand, would have swept through to Calais and changed the destiny of the world. History was made then, and history lives in the silent figure which looks out perpetually over the battlefields of St. Julien and Langemarck.

A MAYOR'S PREDICAMENT

Mayor Odell, of Nyack, New Jersey, had a rather unusual experience the other day. The Rotary Club of Nyack was putting on a show entitled "The Womanless Wedding." The Mayor had consented to take the part of "The Bride," and as such was decked out in a white satin gown with long train, high heeled slippers of yellow satin with stockings to match, a streaming veil of tulle and in his right hand a bouquet of lilies of the valley. Then some one proposed a motor ride through the town, and on reaching the most crowded thoroughfare the Mayor was unconsciously dumped out on to the sidewalk while the car moved away at a rapid pace. Naturally the unattended "bride" attracted much attention, but the Mayor was not recognized. The crowd advanced with guffaws and shrill cries of surprise and delight. Finally a captain of police reached the scene and informed the Mayor that he was attracting a crowd and advised him to "snap out of it"—meaning, of course, the peculiar garb. His Worship refused to make himself ridiculous and was finally escorted to the police station on the charge of masquerading as a woman. To the credit of the Mayor, he revealed his identity, and being supplied with raincoat and hat, he was allowed to go home. Next day Mayor Odell's office was besieged by a crowd of reporters and camera men. Needless to say, the show, when it took place was largely attended, crowd flocking from neighboring towns to see the Mayor in his bridal togethery.

PASSENGERS BY WEIGHT

Passengers on airships in the future will have to pay by weight, says Dr. Hugo Eckener, who piloted the Los Angeles from Germany to America. He suggests that the fare may be one pound sterling per pound of flesh.

That will not make any hit with fat persons, but will give satisfaction to the lean, who have long failed to benefit from their meanness. The proposal is logical enough. Freight is paid by the weight. Why not human beings, too? There is a foreshadowing of this principle in half-rates for children. It costs more to transport a heavy person than a light one, even on a railroad, or steamship; much more so in an aircraft, where carrying capacity is so limited. The mere psychology of it will give immense satisfaction to small men, who have suffered all their lives from the crowding, browbeating and general attitude of superiority often manifested, however, unintentionally, by the corpulent. If they must be big and fat, let 'em pay for it. That will be the small man's platform, in which small persons have always paid more than their share.

CORRESPONDENTS BACK BONE OF LOCAL PAPER
A local paper depends a great deal upon its correspondents. They are a very potent factor in the paper's success or failure. The Outlook has every person in the district should make it a point to see that their respective correspondents secure all the real news of the district. In this way each person helps to put the district on the map.
There are few districts that are represented in The Outlook, and we are sure there must be some live wires, who are sufficiently proud of the community in which they live to see that the news of their district appears in The Outlook. Do it right away.
We always like to get the budgets in on Monday, if possible. The news is set as received—so, first in, first set, so on until all available space is used.
We thank our correspondents for their kindly interest, and trust they will continue their good work.
