Every House has its Cross.

A widowed lady was almost in despair from the variety of hindrances, vexations, and disappointments she had to endure. She was quite overwhelmed with her domestic crosses, and had scarcely the heart to go on with her daily conflicts. "No other roof," she complained, is so constantly complained, "is so constantly beset with misery as mine." She had no idea that any neighbor of hers was half so crossed as herself; judging, as she did, from outward appearances. But it pleased God to teach her a

He reached so inconsiderable and light to carry as that home in time to say farewell to his friends, self, and take up his cross, and follow me." She fell down upon her knees at once, and prayed God to pardon her for her complaining, murmuring, repining spirit, and be-sought him to release her from it, and fill her with a spirit of patience, submissiveness and content with his orderings. And she implored him also to endow her with his ally grow. Fouchard says: 'The smoking tobacco is also very injurious to the teeth. It makes them black and ugly; and besides, the rabbing the stem using of it, to uncover their sensible part." Langbotham remarks: "The smoking or chewing this herb is frequently introduced for the vehement pain of the toothache, and with most constitutions, paves the way to a far more dangerous disease than it is intend ed to remove, by its acrid and internally violent qualities; and the chemical oil which t leaves within the hollow of the teeth dis poses them to blackness and premature decay which though less obnoxious for the present, proves a lasting enemy to the mouth and

Dr. Mussey whose long and extensive medical practice and habits of close observation entitled his remarks to great weight, says: "The opinion that the use of tobacco preserves the teeth, is supported neither by physiology nor observation. We accordingly find that tobacco consumers are not favored with better teeth than others; and on the average they exhibit these organs in a less perfect state of preservation. The Twelfth of July having this year fallen on Sunday, the Anniversity of the Battle of the Boyne has been celebrated by the Orangemen of the two Canadas on the 13th. Smith's Falls was the place of assemblage decided upon by the Orangemen of South Lauark; and on Monday parties wishing to proceed to that village by rail were charged reduced fairs. The morning was dull and cloudy, and it was peinfully evident that rain would fall in abundance before or about the hour of noon. During the early part of the day Lodge after Lodge continued to arrive at Smith's Falls, not to and in swinging out brought it along with speak of many hundreds of the uninitiated of both sexes. It is estimated that not less than two thousand were present. At noon when the procession was about to be formed. the rain commenced to fall in torents, and doned. The Brethren then adjourned to the Town Hall, where they were addressed by several rev. gentlemen, and by W. M. Shaw and John Deacon jun., Esquires, Barristers, of Perth. The crowd sought and obtained shelter in the various taverns which were crowded to excess, and did a thriving business throughout the day. The several Lodges dined at the hotels of Messrs. Wilson, Armstrong, Hourigan, and Cole, and made themselves as comfortable as the outward circumstances would permit. The rain having ceased about four o'clock, the multitude disperse 1-homewards; some by rail, some by waggons, while some "foot ren of the Order were certainly entitled to expect from him some attempt at a vindication of his conduct. The spectacle of the Grand Master of the Loyal Orange Association placing himself in the hands of the Romish Hierarchy to be used by them as a tool for carrying out their designs for the supervision of the Common School system of Upper Canada, was one fitted to excite no little surprise, and it would still have been more astonishing if the course he pursued had not tended toldisturb the entente cordiale which ought to subsist between the association and their recognized head. That his conduct did Frontenac, held recently, the following resgive very deep dissatisfaction to a great many Orangemen, is patent to the public from the resolutions of numerous Lodges, censuring the Grand Master, which have from time to time appeared in the columns of the Globe and other journals. Mr. C 1eron feels aggrieved that these resoluti should have been published, and wher re ferring to them at the Belleville meeing claimed that the Grand Lodge is the proper and only tribunal for the censure of Grand Officers. We are not aware what may be the rules of the Order on this point. Perhaps Mr. Cameron is technically right as to what is the rule of procedure in ordinary cases, but when he was guilty of conduct so flagrantly inconsistent with the position he held as chief officer of an Association whose avowed object is above all things else to uphold Protestantism and resist Romish aggression, it cannot be thought strange that denunciatory resolutions should at once come from the body of the order. Mr. Cameron in trying to be all things to all men, plays a very tricky game; but as it is played in the eyes of the public, its trickery is very liable to be exposed. CARLETON PLACE.

Wednesday, July 22, 1863.

The New Yorkers have had a terrible time of it in trying to resist the Draft. From the reports which we publish to-day, it appears that the authorities were quite unable to quell the disturbance at the outset and that it soon assumed a serious aspect. Even the police were subjected to the most brutal treatment and driven from the streets. So much terror did the mob excite. wherever they appeared that even compan-The Orangemen of the county of Perth ies of regular soldiers, who were brought to face them fired and then fled on the "double"! followed by the rioters, who finding some of their numbers killed, were more bent on revenge than ever.

There is no doubt that the outbreak was first caused by the hearty detestation of the conscription law which appeared to draw such a distinction between the poor man and the rich. While the latter had the greatest stake in the war, so he was less willing to assist in putting down the rebellion, and was exempted from the performance of the duty demanded of him, by the payment of a sum which the poor man could not com mand. But when a large city is at the mercy of a formidable mob such as that which has ruled in New York for the past few days, the original motive of the organization is quickly forgotten and so in this case, the into a riot of thieves and plunderers, whose conduct excited the deep indignation of all law-abiding citizens. Judicial Changes

The retirement of Mr. McLean from the Queen's Bench has naturally excited a good deal of speculation as to his probable successor; and it seems to be conceded on all hands that Mr. Draper is entitled by his ability and experience to the Chief Justiceship of the Queen's Bench. It is supposed that Mr. Justice Haggarty and Mr. Justice Morrison, and Mr. Draper, will constitute

If these anticipations should prove cor rect, it would follow as a natural consequence that Mr. Justice Richards must be come Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, in room of Mr. Draper-and we believe tribute to a very worthy man there would be but one opinion as to the propriety of the appointment.
