AWFUL SLAUGHTER. Constantinople, Sept. 2.-Additional facts concerning the recent massacres are slowly coming to light. It is estimated that 5,000 persons perished, and that scarcely a male Armenian escaped in the Hassin Pasha and Haskoi quarters. Forty-five women and children in the Hassin Pasha quarter sought refuge on the roof of a house where they were discovered, slaughtered and their bodies thrown into the street. It is reported that Jews assisted the Turks in pointing out the homes of Armenians, and it is believed that 300 of the Mussulmans arrested are members of the Young Turks party and not partakers in the massacres, as the Porte asserts. The foreign diplomats at Constantinople have sent a second note to the Porte calling attention to the con-clusive evidence obtained that the Moslem mob which massacred Armenians was organized with the connivance of certain officials. It is known also that hundreds of ruffians were brought from the Asiatic side of the Bosphorus to take part in the work of murder and rapine, and were sent back to their homes after the bloody work had been finished.

THE IRISH CONVENTION.

Canada Does Not Despair for Ireland-

Necessity for United Action. Dublin, Sept. 2.-At yesterday's session of the Irish convention, Dean Harris, of Toronto, said that the Canadian delegates attended the convention at a great personal sacrifice. and he appealed in God's name for unity, adding that when any section of the Irish press charged them Constantinople, Sept. 2.—Quiet now prevails here, and it is hoped that all danger of further liefty aroused an intense outburst of the Irish National Federation; Mr. of Newfoundland, and Mr. Phillips, of Scranton, Pa., spoke in turn, and implored the different Irish factions to unite. All the speakers mentioned dwelt upon the fact that their instructions were not to say a word against any Irishman. Father Marshall, of Manchester, New Hampshire, said it was a mater of no importance whether Mr. Dillon, Mr. Healy or Mr. Redmond should be chosen the leader of the party, but it was of the utmost importance that one man should rule with a strong hand.

Rev. Dr. Phillips, of Scranton, Pa., could not agree with Father Marshall that a tyrannical leader was necessary. He hoped that out of this convention would arise a leader whom Ireland could trust. London, Sept. 2.-A dispatch to the Daily Telegraph from Dublin says that to all intents and purposes the Irish National Convention is over, and the the common opinion is that it has been a complete failure. The morning papers speak of the convention at Dublin as seems likely to assume the form of a melancholy wake over the corpse of Irish parlia-mentary agitation. The Healyite-Par-nellite section, despite the Pope's prayer for the end of dissension, still hold aloof, thus widening the breach which it was the convention's object to close. The amendments to be proposed today suggesting a con-ference of representatives of the different sections of the party, even if passed, will lead to no practical result. It is understood that Dillon and Davitt are much distressed with regard to the olive branch held out by them to their opponents, which they hoped till the last moment might be

It was also agreed that, in view of the fact that it might prejudice German consular rights to act otherwise, Said Khalid, the usurping Sultan, who escaped from the burning palace at Zanzibar and took refuge at the German consulate, should be surrendered to the British authorities if he is guaranteed treatment as a prince and a prisoner of war.

Mrs. Jarvis, of Wreay Street, Also Injured-Scene of Excitement at a Polling Booth.

A serious runaway accident occurred this morning about 10:30, resulting in the injury of Mrs. Jarvis, of Wreay street, South London, and a young man who is working for Wm. Hunter, liveryman.

The scene of the accident was on Bruce street, in front of the polling booth near Cathcart street, where voting was in progress on the sewerage bylaw.

Mrs. Jarvis had just cast her vote, and had got into the wagonette to return home. She had her little girl with her, and Mr. Harry Gardiner was Five Persons Imprisoned by the also in the rig, which was driven by a young Englishman, whose name was not known even to his employer. When turning around, the driver evidently thought the carriage had a hack gearing, and turned very short; but the wheels caught, causing an upset. Mrs. Jarvis received a scalp wound and bruised arm in the fall. The driver fell over the dashboard and was dragged about two hundred feet at the horse's heels. He was bruised and scraped from head to foot, but no bones appear to have been broken. The other occupants of the rig were not hurt.

The horses became frightened when the rig turned over, and started off, dragging it on its side. Mr. Wm. Westcott was outside of the polling booth at the time, and dashed after the team. He made one of the pluckiest stops ever seen. He succeeded in catching a rein, and, though in great danger of being thrown down and trampled to death, he held on, and without doubt saved the life of the driver. When the unconscious young man was extricated from his dangerous position he was placed in a buggy, and taken to Hunter's sta-Mrs. Jarvis was driven home. The injured people were attended by

Dr. Piper, who was an eye-witness of the accident. Mrs. Jarvis will probris aroused an intense outburst of enthusiasm when he said: "Men have despaired for Ireland, but we in Canada have never despaired, and will never do so as long as Irishmen live."

The Strong Snatch Food from the Wea

-Military Sent to the Scene. Calumet, Mich., Sept. 2.-So distressing has become the condition of the fire sufferers in Ontonagon that they have nearly returned to a condition of barbarism. The food contributed is away below the demand, and the strong and able-bodied fight the weak and grab the sustenance for themselves, leaving the weaker to starve. The authorities there have been unable to meet the condition, and a squad of Company "D," Fifth Regiment, has left for the fire district to protect the supplies against the raids of the halfcrazed sufferers. Gov. Rich was appealed to and will send the entire to guard the food, if necessary.

Flames and Burnt to Death.

Tignish, P. E. I., Suffers to the Extent of $100,000.

Special to The Advertiser. Vankleek Hill, Ont., Sept. 2.-Last night the Commercial Hotel here was burned to the ground. The fire made such rapid headway as to cut off the escape of Mary Louise Yandeau, Christy Villeneuve, Josephine Deschamps, Mrs. T. Finn and Miss K. McLeod, all of whom were burned to death. All efforts to rescue the unfortunate people were thwarted by the intense heat, and the flames, which drove the firemen back, while the doomed inmates cried piteously for help. It was with difficulty that the main street was saved from destruction, and only the heroic work of the firemen and citizens prevented the further spread of the fire. The building, which was owned by George Constantineau, was valued at $10,000, and insured for $4,500. Halifax, N. S. Sept. 2. — The town of Tignish, P. E. I., is reported to have been almost wiped out by fire. Six or seven blocks, including nearly all the principal places of business, were destroyed. The loss is heavy. The properties destroyed included J. H. Myrick's store, the post-

Takes Paris Green. New York, Sept. 1 .- Because of a scolding received after she had broken a glass in a show case in her father's store, little Rosie Schuman, of 26 Cross street, Newark, tried to commit suicide on Saturday night. The smashing of the glass seemed like a calamity to the 14-year-old girl after her father scolded her, and several hours later she went to a drug store and bought 5 cents' worth of State militia in the Upper Peninsula paris green. Returning to the house she put some of it in a glass of water and gulped it down. It made her very sick, and she became so frightened that she screamed for help. Her mother and several neighbors gave her antidotes, and the patrol wagon took her to the city hospital, where she is now reported to be out of

They have been gathered into Sunday schools and evening schools, their rights have been defended in the courts, and many times have deputations from the missionary boards and other benevolent societies petitioned our Government in the interest of just legislation for the Chinese."

Dr. Davis Writes Entertainingly of Atlantic City, N. J.

The Meet Cosmopolitan of Summer Resorts-Thousands of Bathers.

Dr. George C. Davis, of this city, who has been holidaying in Atlantic City, N. J., writes entertainingly of that charming resort, as follows: "The great question which agitates the minds of all Americans who are 'well-to-do' and in 'comfortable circumstances,' is 'Where will we spend our holidays?' Numerous are the resorts which are frequented by these pleasure-loving people. As a general rule wealth decides the place that will keep a person cool during the warm weather. The exclusive set patronize Newport and Long Branch, while those who are not of the 400 go elsewhere. The most cosmopolitan watering place in the United States is Atlantic City, on the New Lorsey cost. It is known. in the United States is Atlantic City, on the New Jersey coast. It is known all over this continent, and it is no wonder. The resident population is 22,000. This is in winter, but in summer this number is increased by hundreds of thousands; in one day 169,000 journeyed there from Philadelphia alone. The city is composed mainly of hotels and boarding houses. There are hotels and boarding houses. There are over 100 of the former, many of them of immense size. "The great attraction of Atlantic City is the board walk. It is fifteen feet from the level of the beach, and is seven miles long and 50 feet wide. It is built on iron girders, and cost $140,000. It faces the sea. Immense pavilions are built out from the walk on the beach, which are filled with thousands of spectators who watch the bathers beneath. The back of the walk is lined with buildings, which are filled with different attractions, or with the wares of tradesmen who wish to make an honest penny during the warm spell. Back of these again, running at right angles to the walk, are the large hotels, filled with guests. To promenade this immense walk at night is a pleasure which cannot be described. It is crowded from end to end. The ladies are dressed in evening attire, while the gentlemen as a rule wear light summer suits. All nations are represented here, and all conditions and all ages met with in life.

"One thing will particularly strike an observer, and that is the number (both in the surf and on the walk at night) who are long past middle life, but who still richly enjoy a bathe in his physician, Dr. Marck.

The members of the Presbyterian Board of Missions were early on hand to greet China's Grand Old Mandarin. The secretary of the board, F. S. Ellenwood, delivered an address on belief of the cord. fectly incredible the number who bathe daily. Blue is the prevailing color for bathing suits, both for ladies and gentlemen. The former wear costumes high in the neck, and skirts which completely cover knickerbockers of the same material. A pair of black stock-ings, with a straw hat tied on the head complete the outfit. Gentlemen wear knickerbockers, tight filting, with a tight-fitting sweater. To see this crowd is something wonderful, and it cannot be described. "You can travel the entire length of > velous. One of the views shows was the Falls of Niagara. The water was seen flowing as naturally as could be seen from the Clifton House at Niagara Falls. This was not as wonderful as Fitzgerald, the great sensation at present in New York. It would not be difficult to believe that in place of looking as a sense of looking on a screen you were sitting in a theater, watching this great dancer. Every movement was produced accurately, and what is more peculiar colors are shown perfectly. Another thing worth noting about this resort are the life-saving crews. These brave fellows are attired in bright red shirts and knickerbockers of blue. Each man has a lifeboat, and in it is a life buoy. which can be thrown to a swimmer who may be in distress. These men are just outside the line of the great body of bathers. It is only good swim mers who ever need their services those who wish to show off their great ability as swimmers, and who go be-yond their depth. Children as young as 3 years are to be seen in the water every day. No harm could possibly come to anyone who did not desire to pose as a great swimmer. Hops are held in hotels every night. Leaders Take Positions on the Important Question.

Sir Richard Cartwright Turns the Tables on Sir Charles Tupper.

Another Liberal Member Confirmed in Ottawa, Sept. 2.-Upon the order of the day being called in the House of Commons yesterday, Sir Charles Tupper asked that the papers relating to An old-fashioned camp reeting will the fast-line service should be laid on the table. The Opposition leader said double knit, worth 50c, selling grounds are near Melbourne. Sunday that, with a question of so much imnext will be the last day of the camp portance, and one in regard to which there had been some differences of opinion expressed in the press as to held that it was right and proper for for the last three years has been af-flicted with cancer of the upper jaw, the actual facts, it was very desirable that all the papers should be brought died on Sunday last. The funeral was conducted by the Ancient Order of Foresters, of Komoka, and was largely down. Premier Laurier replied that this was a question that the Government had had under consideration. Communication with the Imperial authorities had been going on. He would be in a position within a day or two to state whether the Government could lay on the table all the papers. He was himself anxious that they should be brought down.

PARTISAN OFFICIALS

The penalty to be attached to the offensive partisanship of public offi-cials was again the main theme of debate today, and a set of circumstances combined to bring the leaders into it. The range of the discussion broadened sufficiently to allow of a revival and repetition of some of the eading arguments for and against reciprocity with the United States, although it might be difficult to associate the two subjects. The efforts of the Opposition were directed to a de-fense of their friends in the civil service who had actively participated in recent election in behalf of the Church, and was highly esteemed. late Government and to attempt to excuse their conduct. Among the speakers were the Prime Minister, the leader of the Opposition, Sir Richard Cart-wright, Mr. Foster and Mr. Hugh Tuesday evening, Mr. Ben. Graham,

John Macdonald.

MR. FOSTER ANSWERED. Mr. Foster bewailed the fact that Ontario Government officials had participated in Dominion elections. He argued that their case was on allfours with Dominion Goevrnment civil service partisans. In some cases officials of the Provincial Legislature had run as candidates for this House. He asked the member for Kingston (Mr.Britton) whether he had not been an official of the Province of On-Mr. Britton readily replied that he had been in receipt of a salary from the Ontario Government. He gave that He had sacrificed $3,500 a year for the sake of obliging his friends who wanted him to become a candidate for this House. He added that he was not aware of anyone on the her side of the House doing the same thing. (Ministerial cheers.)

Mr. Foster remarked that in that case he would drop the argument he was going to proceed with. Mr.Lister (laughing)-If he had been a Tory he would have hung on to the

Mr. Foster-If he had been defeated he would have been reinstated. Mr. McMullen-How many Senators did you reinstate? Mr. Britton explained that the mere fact of his being elected had of itself disqualified him from continuing in his position.

AN UNASSAILABLE POSITION. Premier Laurier very clearly put before the House the course which the Government intends to pursue in dealing with officials who have flagrantly transgressed the law of political neutrality. While the Prime Minister accords to every public servant the right to hold whatever political opinions he chooses. and to express them through the medium of the ballot box, he maintains the ground that a man in the Government's employ who actively and offensively participated in politics takes his official life in his hands. He has no desire to act arbitrarily in the matter, but is prepared to accord a fair hearing to every man accused of offending in this particular. He proposes that civil servants who want to be politicians shall not be hampered by the restrictions of office in the attainment of their aspiration.

Mr. Laurier said Mr. Foster had expressed surprise that he had not taken part in this debate. "I did not think it was necessary," said the Pre-mier, "because my sentiments are well known. I took occasion to express them in the session of 1888, and I repeated them in the session of 1891, when a servant of this Government, the highest in the service, the High Commissioner himself — (Ministerial cheers)-left his post in London to come and take an active part in an election, to the scandal of the whole btained circulation to the effect that population-(hear, hear)-and James Park, merchant, of this place, having done what service he could for had received notice from his landlord his party returned to England and to vacate his place of business on the charged charged his expenses to the country beside. Mr. Lister—But you went back.
In explanation of the payment by the country of his expenses during that absence from London, Sir Charles said that his visit to this country had not been confined to taking part in the elections. It would be remembered that he had gone to Washington on an important mission. (Ministerial jeers.)

Dr. Landerkin-It lasted just three minutes. (Laughter.) Sir Charles said many men would stay out of the civil service if not allowed to remain politicians. The English civil service permitted it. Richard Cartwright asked Sir Charles if he would give any instance of a civil servant in England of the smallest kind taking active part in politics, being a member of a commit-tee or canvassing for a candidate. officers of the army and navy not only took part in elections, but were mem-

Sir Richard Cartwright rose imme diately afterwards and quoted from a speech made by Sir Charles Tupper in 1887, in which the Conservative leader took the straight ground that civil servants might vote, but were not justified in taking an offensive part against the Government of the thought it might be worth considering whether civil servants should not be put upon the same footing as the judges of the country, who did not think they were insulted by being deprived of the franchise. He then had some fun with Sir Charles Tupper about his famous loyalty-preserv-ing campaign tours while High Commissioner, and concluded by saying that after the manner in which the Government of Hon. Alexander Mackenzie had been betrayed by partisan spies, if such are found now to exist, and to have shown by their conduct that they are such, they must be made to understand that they carry their political lives in their hand. Hugh John Macdonald made his first peech since he entered public life. He tried to draw a distinction between active and offensive partisanship, and civil servants to work for the success of the views they held.

Mr. Macdonell (Selkirk) took the view that civil servants should vote, but not actively participate in elections, and if they did they should not express surprise if they lost their jobs.

Mr. McNeill (North Bruce) dissent-

ed from this view. GETTING THE MONEY.

When the House was about to go into committee of supply, Mr. Foster complained that his estimates, which he new Government has taken up, had not been very much reduced. They are cut down about half a million Why was not Mr. McMullen objecting?

Mr. McMullen said the expenses had been run up by the previous Government. They could not be cut down all at once. Why did the ex-Finance Minister quarrel with his own estimates, submitted to Parliament by him a month or two ago? Finance Minister Fielding bantered Mr. Foster, on kicking over his own estimates, and at once proceeded to business by proposing $446,5000 should be appropriated for the annual drill of the militia.

Who Dismissed Him?

"In order to prejudice the public work up public sympathy for Sir Charles Tupper and his colleagues of the late Government, certain journals declare in big, black type that the Tupper Government was dismissed by his Excellency." says the Montreal Witness. That is a very foolish attitude to assume. The fact is that the electorate of Canada dismissed Sir Charles Tupper and his associates on the 23rd of June, and the bitter attack on the Governor-General is made because it was impossible to use the Queen's representative as an agency to keep the Tupper machine going indefinitely.

London and Port Stanley.

The holiday season at Port Stanley s about over, and notwithstanding the keen rivalry of Springbank attractions, the L. E. and D. R. Railway has done a splendid business. The service was never better than this year, and much ahead of the service of many previous years. A vast number of people have been carried to and fro without accident. The officials of the road, from Mr. Woollatt and Mr. Young down, have been courteous and attentive. There is no reason why the business next year should not be still greater. It has been suggested that the authorities may next season run more frequent and still quicker excursion trains, and perhaps provide some special attractions, as in the case of Springbank. Port Stanley and Springbank are not rivals. They are different, and there is ample

North Oxford.

At last accounts, the contest in North Oxford bye-election for the Legislature has narrowed down to Mr. Andrew Pattullo and Dr. Adams. Mr. Pattullo is not only the nominee of the Liberal convention, but a gentleman who has cone much to advance the interests of the country, and who in the wider Provincial sphere could be relied on to do much good work as an independent, fearless representative. The London West Council's Action on Those Writs.

The Selicitor's Communication Put on the Hook-Renewing a $1,000 Note.

Last night's meeting of London West Council was a quiet one. The serving of the writs seemed to take the vim out of the members. Just before the meeting Reeve Saunby stood at the corner of Ann street, and felt disappointed because he had not received his writ, when he knew the others had. At 8:15, when he entered the gate. Deputy Sheriff Watter-worth bade him good evening with a smile, and presented him with two writs-One for himself personally, and the other as a representative of the village. There was little business, and this was soon hurried through. After the communications were read the letter of Mr. Scatcherd relative what action the council would take was read. On motion of Mr.

Collins, it was filed. The Reeve-Does anyone object to this being filed?

Mr. Hamilton-I have no objection, I am sure. The other people have taken all the action. The finance committee reported that no action be taken in the matter of refunding John Deacon's dog tax, and that Mr. Meehan's statutelabor tax and the cost connected with it be refunded. Mr. Barclay was also refunded $1, which his daughter had been wrongfully frightened into paying for a dog he didn't own. The report was adopted.

Louis Ludwig came before the council with a complaint that he had

He thought Mr. Scarrow made a good in the council An Impromptu Meeting and Strongly Worded Speeches.

Councilors Say Hard Things of the Issuers -Public Meeting Called.

It was 9:15 when the London West Council adjourned last night, and the crowd of disappointed spectators and ratepayers rose to wend their weary way to their abodes. Then ex-Reeve Spence told them to wait a minute. He stood up and in a clear voice declared himself in emphatic and under the country of the mistakable terms. He said there were many ratepayers who, upon reading the newspaper accounts of the debentures and the assuing, had come there with the view of learning something about the matter, and what action the council proposed to take in regard thereto. He for one would like to know, and he thought that an impromptu meeting should be held there and then. The time had come when the village people should take things in their own hands and do something towards making themselves felt. He said there were a few people in the village who tried to make capital out of the poor people of London West and earn a living off them. The longer things went on the worse they seemed to get, and the time had now come for the ratepayers to take hold of the matter and cry "Stop." A threat had first been made that a writ would be served, and this was the result of the threat. It was a piece of spite.

This idea seemed to meet the approval of the whole assembly, and Mr. Ferguson was immediately elect-ed to fill the chair. Councilor Hamilton having declined, as he was one of the concerned parties.

Mr. Ferguson called upon ex-Reeve Spence, who said he could not add much to what he had already said. He did not know why the writs had been issued, but supposed it was to make the council do something they had not done. He did not know any sensible ratepayer who would do an action of this kind-run the village into another lawsuit and eat up the finances that should go towards the permanent improvement of the village. He had been told that Mr. Parkhouse was not a ratepayer. In the writ it was set forth that the council had not provided the sinking fund. That same cock and bull story came up when he was reeve, and it was this class of talk that caused him to resign his seat. Then the very man who was at the bottom of all this was guilty of the same thing. When he sat in the reeve's chair he did not provide any sinking fund. Mr. Macdonald, he said, had no right to take the chair he had vacated. Mr. Macdonald had stolen the seat and usurped the power of reeve. (Applause.) They should start out and hurl into oblivion such men as that.

Voice—Did they provide a sinking fund last year?

stood his sentiments pretty Reeve Saunby said he had been the recipient of two writs. He did not want to salt the ratepayers and himself for debentures for 30 years at 5 per cent. He said not long ago Lambton had issued debentures which had been taken at 4 per cent and a premium. He did not understand why they should pay 1 per cent more and lose the premium. This man needof a noble soul, and had spurned the bribe and told them to do their own dirty work. The issuing of this writ he said was a mean, dirty action. him it looked like the outcome of the last election. When he (Mr. Saunby) was elected last January there were rumors raised from a wellknown source that he could not qualify, but these had no effect upon him. They had placed him there to do the village business, and he knew the people would stand by the council. ong as there was a shot in the locker he would fight it out. Councilor Hamilton commented first on the large attendance at the quiet council meeting, and thought they were expecting something. He said he understood a great many lawyers had refused to have anything to do with the issuing of the writ, because there was not enough in it. He said it was a piece of spite, and that the document itself was one of the most complicated things he had ever seen. It made every ratepayer in the village equally responsible. If the villagers stood at the back of the men who had stood by them the people in the city would respect them and they would soon be No. 7 ward. He and was a trusted employe of would fight it out. It cost only $4 or $5 to institute a writ and the rest went down into the lawyers' pockets. He thought Mr. Moore must have been specially favored as he was the only one who didn't receive one of those nice documents. He said the issuing of these writs was ill-advised, and the man whose tor will remove your Corns in a few days. It will give almost instant relief and a guaranteed cure in the end. Mr. Spence here wanted to know whether one man was going to run the council or not. How could against him, because they could not see through his scheme, and he was at the top and bottom of this action. If the council were not competent to do the business the villagers should do it. Mr. Moore said Mr. Parkhouse was a relative of his, but that they had not spoken for years. He went on to say that he had always tried to vote in the council.

Mr. Duff—Mr. Scarrow told me he enough. Mr. Duff said that so far as being unseated was concerned, to him it would be rather a relief than a punishment. He had tried hard to things in order, and was under the impression that he had succeeded very well. If Mr. Macdonald wanted to run again, and was under the im-pression that the people wanted him, he would put up the cost of an election if Mr. Macdonald would do the same. This would give Mr. Macdonald another chance to meet defeat. (Applause.)

Mr. Hamilton thought a public meeting should be held so that the ratepayers could express themselves and learn something of the matter. This idea found favor, and a meet-ing will be held on Friday night to discuss the matter.

The meeting broke up at 10:30.

CHARGED BY A COW.

London Cyclists Dilemma - His Aeolian Harp Offended the Bovine.

Music hath no charms to soothe the bovine breast! Henceforth when a city cyclist takes a country spin, he had better hang his Aeolian harp upon the wall at home. Mr. Charlie Hastings, of 106 Center street, London West, whirled over the rural highway near Byron the other evening, while the harp on his wheel sang to the breeze in sweet elastic tones and incompanied the birds, which warbled in the trees. So harmonious did everything look and sound that he little suspected the spirit of discord lurked in an innocent appearing cow on the road ahead. At the approach of music, her cowship pricked up her ears and switched her tail, while a fierce light came into her usually mild eyes. Then she lowered her stately head, and before the rider could pass her, she had both him and his wheel on both horns of a very bad dilemma. They were unceremoniously dumped into the ditch. Hastings picked up himself and his bike very cautiously, and by a sudden mount succeeded in escaping from her cowship, who was rallying for a second charge. She accomplished her main object, however. The harp was shattered.

Girl's Complaint,

Says That Frank O'Keefe, of London, Robbed Her,

O'Keefe's Career in London-Tried to Pose as a Nobleman Here-Was Married in This City.

During the whole of the summer of 1895 and a large part of last winter, a slick-looking fellow calling himself Frank Thursby, lived in the city. He wore good clothes and good jewelry. He was an artist by calling, he said, and he showed considerable skill with the brush. His specialty seemed to be the nude. He sold a few of his pictures, and appeared to have plenty of cash, which he assured his friends was not acquired wholly by work. He gave them to understand he was in independent circumstances, and hinted at noble English birth. His linen was marked Sir Francis Thursby, and he had a superficial air of shaven, smooth-talking chap, parti-cularly attentive to the ladies. He left in the spring, and now turns up in Detroit under his proper name, O'Keefe. A working girl, Maggie Carr, of 83 Lafayette avenue, seeks his arrest. O'Keefe secured her confidence and finally her case—the earn-His remittances (?) were often late, and he borrowed money to float himself until they arrived. Miss Carr says that he was formerly an attendant at the London Asylum, and that he is married, but separated from his wife. Her information is correct. He worked at the Asylum eight or nine years ago, and while there was badly beaten by a patient. Some of his friends say he never recovered from the effects, and that the injury accounts for his since way-About six years ago career. he married a domestic at Hellmuth College, but they are living apart. He has wandered over the continent, living by his wits since then. While in London, O'Keefe boarded on Park avenue, and so far as known behaved himself here, and left

Mrs. E. Bevin and Her Husband Not an Agreeable Pair.

Elijah Bevin, of London West, was a prisoner in the dock at the Police Court this morning. When his name was called Mr. Frank Love said Mrs. Bevin wished him to ask the clemency of the court on her husband's behalf. This did not meet the views of the police magistrate, and Mrs. Bevin was called. She said her husband had gone away and left her for over two months. While he had gone she rented a room to an old couple. After Bevin came back she had gone one day, and in her absence he had tried to evict the roomers.' "Does he support you when he is home?" asked the magistrate. "I take

Mrs. Bevin said she didn't want to be hard on him if he would behave himself.

Bevin (from the dock to his wife in the witness box)-Didn't you tell me the other day that if I came home you would give me a room to myself and that you couldn't do without me? Mr. Love said the wife would be satisfied if he promised to stay away from her and contributed to the sup port of his child. The magistrate bound the prisoner over in two sureties of $50 each to keep the peace.

"I can't find them, sir," said the prisoner. "You had better send me down for two years. The Police Magistrate-I haven't the Prisoner-Well, give me until the Thousand Islands Withdrawn from Sale.

Scandalous Transaction by the Late Government.

Significant Investigation Now in Progress.

(Special Telegram to The Advertiser.) Ottawa, Sept. 2.-It is learned that the present Government have withdrawn the Thousand Islands from sale, with the view of their being acquired by the Government of Ontario for park purposes. It will be remembered that the Hon. Mr. Daly placed these islands in the market, against the protest of the public. A large number of in the back. I tried numerous linithe islands were acquired by the ments and other medicines in an effriends of the late Government, one of fort to get relief, but nothing did me which was purchased by Hon. John Haggart, through Mr. Alexander Ferguson, of this city. The island was sold for 2000 although Mr. Alexander W. Standard W. Standar sold for $900, although over $1,000 had been paid for it by J. T. Craig, Toronto. The deal was put through by mend it." the Deputy Minister of Indian Affairs. As soon, however, as Mr. T. B. Rubidge, who claimed the pre-emptive right to purchase the island, found out that it had been purchased for the Hon. Mr. Haggart, he pressed his claim, and the department sold him a reserved island, which was valued at $1,000, for something like $200. Had the late Government accepted the proposition of the Ontario Government to sell them the islands at a fair valuation, the public ere this would have had the benefit of them as a public park, and the Indians would have realized on them, whereas now the best islands have been disposed of, while the poor islands and rocks remain, and Indians will only receive something like $30,000, less all the expenses of advertising. It will now be necessary for the Ontario Government to expropriate in the case of those islands which have been sold and are being held by speculators.

In the debates committee today the conduct of three French translators-

Vanasse, MacLeod and La Salle-for interfering in the late elections, was under review. Vanasse admitted that he had said in Richelieu county that Laurier and Bruneau were traitors to grandiosity that passed current with their race and religion. La Salle and the unsuspecting. He was a smoothwere made against them, and the case had been further postponed. A charge was also laid against Joseph Boustead. His case will come up at the next meeting. It is acknowledged gen-erally that all of these parties were more or less engaged in politics, but fidence, and finally her case—the earnings of years. In Detroit he said he was an artist, with a studio at Minneapolis; that he was very rich, and those translators who were Liberals, had an allowance of $450 a month. no examination was made into the case, Mr. Chapleau securing their dismissal without any investigation.

-The Salvation Army yesterday afternoon conducted the funeral of Mrs. W. J. Armstrong, one of their mem bers. The services at the Citadel were conducted by Brigadier Margetts, assisted by Sergt.-Major Wright, Treasurer Andrews and Staff-Capt. Cowan, the latter singing "The Beautiful City." The band, about 75 soldiers and a number of friends in carriages accompanied the remains to the cemetery, with the following acting as pall-bearers: Messrs. David Andrews, David Break, Alf. Vick, "Father" Castle, James Smith and Jacob Smith, all members of the corps. The brigadier and officers spoke at the grave at Mount Pleasant Cemetery, and prayed for the bereaved family. It was the intention of the soldiers to have a double burial, as Miss Sarah Harwood. another member of the army, died on the same day of typhoid fever. The fever was of a very dangerous form, however, and the medical health officer ordered the remains of Miss, Harwood to be interred on Monday.

-The Advertiser is asked to publish the following: "The funeral of the late Charles James Bradshaw, who died in Essex on Wednesday, Aug. 19, took place from the M. C. R. depot on Aug. 21, to Woodland cemetery, on arrival of the 11:40 train. The remains were accompanied to London by his mother and sister (Miss Jennie), and his aunt, Mrs.Belton. The pall-bearers were his brothers, William F. and Thomas B. Bradshaw; his uncles, W. J. and R. T. Barnes; his cousin, Thos. E. Barnes, and M. J. McGrady, medical student and an old school mate of deceased. Services were conducted at Essex, in the drawing-room of the hotel (which was handsomely decorated with flowers), and were conducted at the grave by Rev. Mr. Seaborne. The remains were enclosed in a handsome casket, which was literally covered with flowers (of the most magnificent design). The deceased went to Essex some time ago on a vacation, and while there was taken suddenly ill. The services of Drs. Brien and Brien were immediately summoned, but despite the utmost of those skillful gentlemen and careful nursing of his mother, sister and many friends, he passed away. The deceased was a young man of sterling qualities, and was highly esteemed by all who had the pleasure of his acquaintance. Essex and Detroit papers please copy.

CHARGED WITH ROBBERY. Detectives Rider and Nickle arrested Wm. Perkins, of London West, this morning, on a charge of stealing $40 from Wm. Roach. It appears that the men were around last night, drinking together, and when Roach became incapable, it is alleged that Perkins took him up to Blackfriars bridge, and there, on the bank of the river, went through his pockets for $40.

T'll do naething of the kind. Katherine. You'd be spoiling the bonnie silk dress you hae put on. Go to the house and sit wi' Mistress Gordon. She was asking for you not an hour ago. And. Katherine, my bonnie lassie, dinna gie a thought to one word that black-eyed nephew o' hers may say to you. He's here the day gane the morrow, and the lasses that heed him will get sair hearts to them-

The bright young face shadowed and a sudden fear came into Madam Semple's heart as she watched the girl turn thoughtfully and slowly The blinds of the house were giosed against the afternoon sun, but the door stood open, and the wide, dim stairway was before her. All was as silent as if she had entered an enchanted castle. And in the upper hall the closed doors and the soft lights falling through stained glass upon the dark, rich carpets made an element of mystery, vague and charmful, to which Katherine's sensitive, childlike nature was fully responsive.

Slowly she pushed back a cavy mahogany door, and entered a large room whose richly wainscoted walls, heavy friezes, and beautifully painted ceiling were but the most obvious points in its general magnificence. On a lounge, covered with a design done in red and blue tent stitch, a well-dressed woman was sitting, reading a novel, of Spirit," "The Maid of "The Curious Impertinent," 'The Girl of Spirit,' and other favorite tales of the day were lying upon an oval table at her

But she had no time to defend her self, for with his cavalry cap in his hand, and a low bow, Captain Hyde entered the room, and Katherine's heart throbbed in her cheeks, and she trembled, and yet withal dimpled into smiles, like clear water in the sun-shine. In a few minutes afterward she was going down the terrace steps with him, and he was looking into her face with shining eyes, and whispering the commonest words in such an enchanting manner that it seemed to her as if her feet scarcely touched the low, white steps, and she was some sort of glorified Katherine Van Heemskirk, who never, never, never could be unhappy again. They did not go on the river. Cap-tain Hyde hated exertion. His splendid uniform was too tight to row in; he did not want a third person near in any capacity. The lower steps were shaded by great water beeches, and the turf under them was green and warm. There was the scent of lilies around, the song of birds above, the ripple of water among pebbles at their feet. A sweeter hour, a lovelier maid, man could never hope to find, and Captain Hyde was not one to neglect his opportunity.

"Let us stay here, my beloved," he whispered. "I have something sweet to tell you. Upon mine honor, I can keep my secret no longer." The innocent child! Who could blame her for distening to it? At first with a little fear and a little reluctance but gradually resigning her whole heart to the charm of his soft syllables and his fervent manner, until she gave him the promise he begged for-love that was to be for him alone: love for him alone, among all the

What an enchanted afternoon it was! How all too quickly it fled, one golden moment after another! and what a pang it gave her to find at the end there must be lying and deception, for, somehow, she had been persuaded to acquiesce in her lover's desire for secrecy. As for the lie, he told it with the utmost air of candor.

"Yes, we had a beautiful sail; and how enchanting the banks are above here. Aunt, I am at your service &morrow, if you wish to see them ' your servant, captain; but I am an indifferent sailor, and I trust I have too much respect for myself. and my new frocks to crowd them into a river cockboat.'

In a few minutes Joanna and the Elder came in. He had called for her on her way home, for he liked the society of the young and beautiful, and there were many hours in which he thought Joanna fairer than her sister. The tea was served in a pretty parlor with Turkish walls and colored windows, which, being open to the garden, framed lovely, living pictures soming trees. Everyone was eat ing and drinking, laughing and talking, so Katherine's unusual silence was unnoticed-except by the Elder, who, indeed, saw and heard everything, and who knew he did not see and hear by that kind of prescience to which wise and observant years attain He saw that the cakes Katherine dearly loved remained upon her plate untasted, and that she was un-isually, suspiciously quiet. After tea he walked down the garden with Colonel Gordon. The lily bed was near the river, and he made the gathering of some lilles for Katherine an excuse for going close enough to the pier, to see how the boats lay, and whether the oars had been moved from the exact position in which he had placed them. And he found the boat rocking at its moorings, tied with his own peculiar knot. It told him everything, and he was sincerely troubled at the discovery.

breaketh the bone." When Solomon said this he put a whole volume into one phrase. The words of the text simply set forth the fact that there is a tremendous power in a kind word

If I had time, I would show you kindness as a means of defense, as a means of usefulness, kindness as a means of domestic harmony, kindness as best employed by governments for the taming and curing of criminals, and kindness as best adapted for the settling and adjusting of international quarrels; but I shall call your attention only to two of these thoughts.

And first, I speak to you of kindness as a means of defense. Almost every man, in the course of his life, is set upon and assaulted. Your motives are misinterpreted or your religious or political principles are bom-barded. What to do under such circumstances is the question. The first impulse of the natural heart says: "Strike back. Shot for shot. Sarcasm for sarcasm. An eye for an eye. A tooth for a tooth." But the better spirit in the man's soul rises up and says: "You ought to consider that matter." You look into the face of Christ and say: "My master, how ought I to act under these difficult circumstances?" And Christ answers: Bless them that curse you, and pray for them which despitefully use you. Have you ever in your life known acerbity and acrimonious dispute to settle a quarrel? Did they not always make matters worse and worse and worse? About 55 years ago there was a great quarrel in the Presbyterian family. Ministers of Christ were thought orthodox in proportion as they had measured lances with other clergymen of the same denomination. The most outrageous personalities were The division became wider, the animosity greater, until after a while some good men resolved upon another tack. They began to explain away the difficulties; they began to forgive each other's faults; and lo! the great Church quarrel was settled; and the new school Presbyterian Church and the old school Presbyter ian Church became one. "But," you say, "what are we to do when slanders assault us, and there come acrimonious sayings all around about us, and we are abused and spit upon?" My reply is: Do not go and attempt to chase down the slanders. Lies are prolific, and while you are killing one fifty are born. All your demonstrations of indignation only exhaust yourself. You might as well on summer night when the swarms of insects are coming up from the mea-dows and disturbing you and disturbing your family, bring up some great "swamp angel," like that which thundered over Charleston, and try to shoot them down. The game is too small for the gun. But what, then, are you to do with the abuses that thew Hale took off his robe and put come upon you in life? You are to live them down! I saw a farmer go Christ took off his robe of royalty had wandered off from the hive. As he moved amid them they buzzed his native tongue; but if Katherine Van around his head, and buzzed around his hands, and buzzed around his feet. If he had killed one of them they would have stung him to death. But he moved in their midst in perfect placidity until he had captured the swarm. And so I have seen men moving amid the annoyances, and the vexhave never seen a princess."

'My dear, you must allow me to laugh a little. Will you believe it, and bid her keep her soul sweet and pure as their white bells. It will work. It has worked. I believe it is the last Christian grace we win. You know there are fruits which we gather in June, and others in July, and others throat, and the picturesque curl and in August, and others in September, "It is all extravagance in mode and flow of her fair hair. Captain Hyde and still others in October; and fancy. I pass now to the other thought, and In all communities you find vent Neil losing sight of the advan- ment of professed Christian people, or through prying curios-ity about the future world, there are "The vera air o' this room is gun- ity about the future world, there are powdery," thought the Elder: "and a great many people who become ane or the other will be flinging a skeptical in religious things. How spark o' passion into it, and then the shall you capture them for God? deil will be to pay. O'er many women Sharp argument and sarcastic retort never won a single soul from skep-ticism to the Christian religion. I have noticed that when skeptical people are brought into the kingdom of Christ, it is through the charm of some genial soul, and not by argument at all. Men are not saved through the head; they are saved through the heart. I have more faith in the prayer of a child 5 years old, in the way of bringing an infidel back to Christ and to heaven, than I have in all the hissing thunderbolts of ecclesiastical controversy.

What I have said is just as true in the reclamation of the openly vi-cious. Did you ever know a drunkard to be saved through the caricature of a drunkard? Your mimicry of the staggering step, and the disgusting hiccough, only worse maddens his brain? But if you come to him in kindness and sympathy; if you show him that you appreciate the awful grip of a depraved appetite; if you persuade him of the fact that thousands who had the grapplinghooks of evil inclination clutched in their soul as firmly as they now are in his, have been rescued, then a ray of light will flash across his vision, hand were steadying his staggering of a highly respectable Christian wo-man of the city of Richmond. He went to her, he thanked her for her all, he became the consecrated disciple of Jesus Christ. Kind words are so cheap, it is a wonder we do not use them oftener. There are tens of thousands of people in these cities who are dying for the lack of one kind word. You can never drive men, women, or children into the kingdom of God. A March northeaster will bring out more honeysuckles than fretfulness and scolding will ever bring out Christian grace. It wish that in all our religious work we might be saturated with the spirit of kindness. Missing that, we miss a great deal of usefulness. There is no need of coming out before men and thundering to them the law unless at the same time you preach to them the Gospel. The ou preach to them the Gospel. The world is dying for lack of kindness The young people want it just as much as the old. The old people sometimes seem to think they have a monopoly of the mheumatisms and neuralgias, and the headaches and the physical disorders of the world; but I tell you there are no worse heartaches than are felt by some of these young people. Much of the work is done by the young. Raphael died at 37; Richelieu at 31; Gustavus Adolphus died at 38; Innocent III. came to his mightiest influence at 37; Cortez conquered Mexi-25; Grotius was attorney-general at 24; and I have noticed amid all classes of men that some of the severest battles and the toughest work come be-fore 30. Therefore we must have our sermons and our exhortations in prayer meeting all sympathetic with the young. And so with these people further on in life. What do these doctors and lawyers and merchants and mechanics care about the abstractions of religion? What they want is help to bear the whimsicalities of patients, the browbeating of legal opponents, the unfairness of customers who have plenty of fault-finding for every imperfection of handiwork, but no praise for twenty excellencies.

We want in our sermons not more metaphysics, nor more imagination, nor more logic, nor more profundity, but more sympathy.

The chief characteristic of our Lord was kindness. A gentleman in England died, leaving his fortune by will to two sons. The son that stayed at home destroyed the father's will and pretended that the brother who was absent was dead and buried. The absent brother, after awhile, returned and claimed his part of the property. Judges and jurors were to be bribed to say that the returned brother and son was no son at all, but only an impostor. The trial came. Sir Matthew Hale, the pride of the English court room, and for twenty years the pride of jurisprudence, heard that that injustice was about to be practiced. He put off his official robe. He put on the garb of a miller. He went to the village where that trial was to take place, and somehow got empaneled as one of the jurors. The briber came around, and the man gave ten pieces of gold to the other jurors, but as this was only a poor miller the briber gave to him only five pieces of gold A verdict was brought in rejecting the right of this returned brother. He was to have no share in the inherit-"Hold! my Lord," said the milance. ler. "Hold! we are not all agreed on this ve lict. "Who Where do you come from? judge on the bench. said tl was: "I am from Westminster Hall; my name is Matthew Hale, Lord Chief Justice of the King's Bench. Off of that place, thou villain!" And so the injustice was balked, and so the young man got his inheritance. It was all for another that Sir Maton the garb of a miller. And so and put on the attire of our human ity, and in that disguise he won our eternal portion. Now are we the sons of God. Joint heirs! We went off from home sure enough, but we got back in time to receive our sternal inheritance. And if Christ was so kind to us, surely we can afford to

Mr. Frederick Zeigler is well known in and around Seaforth, where he has lived for many years. His prolonged and terrible suffering from rheumatism and la grippe is also well known to most of the physicians of that town, having been treated by them for years without any relief. Mr. Zeigler writes for the benefit of the readers of the Huron Expositor:

"Fourteen years ago I was seized with rheumatism. I have suffered terribly with it, the pains at times being almost unbearable, I tried several of the best doctors, but to no avail, about four years ago I was taken with la grippe. I then doctored with five of the best doctors for five months with little or no relief. I paid over $150 in doctors' bills and medicines of various kinds. I at last procured three bottles of Wılliams' Royal Crown Remedy and Pills, and by the time I had used one bottle I began to feel better, and when I had used two and a half bottles I was completely cured, and have remained in perfect health ever since. I believe it to be the best medicine ever introduced in or about these paris."

* * Williams' Royal Crown Remedy and Pills is a wonderful blood purifier and system builder and should be continued until the cure is complete, and always kept in every house, asit is the most economical medicine manufactured.—Huron Expositor.

The School Trustees Pick Their Champions for the Fray.

Motion to Grant Pupils a Half Holiday Defeated.

Parents Complain About a Principal-Inspector Carson Reports on the New Term - Applications for Positions.

Perhaps the confident hope that they would get even with the aldermen at tomorrow's baseball match accounted for the good humor of the school trustees at last night's meeting of the board. Everything passed off very pleasantly, and when dry business details had been disposed of, Trustee Hunt in the goodness of his Trustee Hunt, in the goodness of his heart, moved to give the pupils a half-holiday so that they might witness the great performance at Springbank, about which the community is so agritated. Trustee Logan was with him. He thought it would be a great thing for the children of the high and public schools to see the trustees play ball and become acquainted with the merits of their representatives. "Are you joking, or do you mean it?" asked Trustee Buchner, looking dubiously at his sporting colleagues.

The latter assured him they were in deadly earnest. "But then the Fair comes next week, and the children will want holidays then," protested Trustee Steph-

"Oh, the Fair can't compare with this ball match," replied Trustee Lo-Trustee Martin-Has our challenge been accepted by the aldermen?

The Secretary—Yes, Mr. Kingston assured me that the aldermen would be down at Springbank looking for blood on Thursday afterno Trustee Hunt contended that the match was in a good cause, which should be encouraged. Trustee Griffin said the children had had two months' holidays, and had just got down to work again. It was unreasonable to give them a holiday cessfully for three or four years. The principal claimed it was the fault of the pupils, but this the petitioners did not believe, and they could not afford to keep their children there any longer.

The petition was sent to No. 1 com-AFTER THE HOLIDAYS. Inspector Carson reported that all the public school classes were begun excepting the seventh grade in Col-borne street, the fifth and sixth grades in St. George's, and two rooms in the Wortley road. It was expected that the rooms in Colborne and St. George's schools would be ready in a day or two. The teachers in the four schools, which he visited, were all on duty, looking well after the holidays. If night schools were to be established this year it was time to consider the matter. The irregular attendance and lack of interest last year gave little couragement for reopening them. Mr. Carson, in reply to Trustee Greenlees, said he did not know when the Wortley road rooms would be ATTENDING THEIR OWN SCHOOLS Trustee Anderson's notice of motion. requiring all pupils who wished to at-tend schools outside their own disto apply to No. 1 committee instead of the inspector, was adopted. A number of such requests were re ceived, but Trustee Buchner moved that all pupils now attending schools out of their own districts return to the proper ones. This was carried. COMMITTEE REPORTS. Trustee Griffin presented No. 2 committee's report. It advised teachers to pay attention to the regulations regarding the health of teachers and pupils, and reported progress on the matter of appointing a Collegiate Institute drill instructor. The board decided to reappoint Mr. McCrimmon to the latter position on Mr. Merchant's recommendation. Mr. Merchant said the progress in drill had been fair, and in gymnastics exellent. The only fault was a little ack of vim in the drill. Trustee Hunt presented No. 1 committee's report, which recommended a number of minor repairs. A long dis-cussion over blackboards ended in the decision that the construction of side blackboards and repairs be done under the engineer's direction. Another clause recommended no change in the janitorships at Colborne and Rectory street schools, the principals reported favorably on the ladies filling those positions. The clause to spend $150 on a porch for the Wortley road school passed after some objection to the cost.

A $100 SLIP.

Mr. Edgecombe, book-keeper for Contractor Sargent, said he made a clerical error of $100 in Mr. Sargent's tender on St. George's school improvements. He asked that it be refunded, as the tender would even then be $300 lower than any other. The mistake was made in adding up a row of figures. The matter was referred to No. though a motion was made to pay the sum.

COMMUNICATIONS, ETC. Miss Beatrice Thompson asked for eave of absence for eighteen months to study for a second class certificate.

Applications for positions on the kindergarten and public school staffs were received from Misses Etta Moore, Katie Laidlaw, Susie Heritage, Evelyn Eldon, W. D. Spence and Lillian
