

Biggs Tells Kent Farmers About His Road Policies

Declares Dominion Highway Act Is Causing Trouble For The Provincial Government—Says Federal Election
Will Be Held In November.

THAMESVILLE, Sept. 1.—The annual picnic of the Farmers' Clubs of this district was held today in Mason's grove, just north of the town, a representative crowd being in attendance. Hon. F. H. Biggs, minister of highways, was the principal speaker, giving in his address the working of building roads throughout the province.

A Broad Policy.

Mr. Biggs commenced his address with the development of highways, and stated that the Government did not intend giving good roads to a few large centers, but fairly good roads to all. He graded the people into three classes, those who wanted roads without paying for them, those who claimed the roads were good enough, and others who know how to build roads better than the Government.

The United States, he said, is sending thousands of tourists to Canada, who while here had to be fed the farmers benefitting by selling their produce at good prices, but good roads were needed first to secure the travelers. It was the intention of the Government to use local labor on the roads, which, with terms from the farms, meant a return of the money expended back to rural, as well as urban centers.

Of the cost of the new highway from Thamesville to Walsby, which Mr. Biggs officially opened today, the Government paid 60 per cent, the country 20 and the people 20. The road has been built at a cost of $75,000 for two and a half miles, and the minister said it was the strongest made in the whole province.

He urged farmers to sign contracts for hydro, as the Government wanted to see hydro used on every cross road of the province. He also touched on the subjects of rural credit system, the timber probe and the superannuation bill.

Questions Policy.

Harry J. French of Dresden spoke on Government doings, and could not see where the radical project was of advantage to the country.

Mr. McQuarrie of Wallaceburg, father of cement highways in Western Ontario, urged his hearers to spend every cent they could in better roads.

Mr. Biggs was motivated to the spot where the Indian chieftain, Tecumseh, fell, and where the Government may lay out a park. He promised to send Mr. Moore, provincial landscape forester, to look over the situation to ascertain what trees would grow, and gain other necessary information to make the place a beautiful stopping point on the provincial highway.

CONSTRUCTION WORK.

Within two weeks all the 55-pound rails in the Hamilton-Toronto division of the G. T. R. will be replaced by 100-pound steel. When the work on this stretch of track is completed, new rails will be laid on both the east and west bound tracks between Copetown and Linden Junction. Altogether nine miles of new 100-pound steel will be laid between the two points. The rails for this work have already begun to arrive, according to Superintendent C. F. Forrester of the local division.

HEAVY TRAFFIC.

Many hundreds of people from this city and points west and north are daily attending the exhibition at Toronto. Some of the C. P. R. trains are carrying over six extra cars and even then the trains are loaded to capacity. A special left the G. T. R. station at 8:30 yesterday morning. Excepting for two specials, which will leave Toronto for London Monday evening, the C. P. R. will run no specials between London and Toronto.

COWS AND OTHER THINGS.

Now, cows, according to Noah Webster, are useful things. Bill is willing to admit that they are useful, providing they are kept in their own place, but when they get on a railroad track they become a pesky nuisance. Even on an ordinary railroad no one can tell just what an ordinary cow will do, but when extraordinary cows go on a ramp on an extraordinary railroad, the train crews are often confronted by a problem.

As Post Bill in addition to his baggage-smashing duties does the shopping for all the housewives along the London, Huron and Bruce, he asks forbearance from all his readers, if perchance he now and then misses a chapter of this tale of a cow.

Meighen's Campaign Will Be Directed Against Progressives

Fight Will Be Short, But Keen, and Women's Vote Will Be a Big Factor in the Decision.

OTTAWA, Sept. 1.—Canadian Press.—The coming general election will be the first fought with four definite parties—Government, Liberal, National Progressive and Labor—in the field. It will be contested on existing distribution of seats, but under the new election law, what the result will be is beyond the most daring of political prophets, except that it is likely to result in the election of a coalition government. Recent results in Alberta indicated the powerful grip on the prairie provinces of the National Progressives, and the prime minister's speech in London tonight is indication that it is against the anti-protectionist views of the National Progressives that the Government's campaign will be chiefly directed.

Short But Keen.

The campaign will be short, but keen. The prime minister's announcement of an election before the new year is taken to indicate that there will be little delay in cabinet reconstruction and in the issue of writs, with the holding of the election as soon as the necessary official preparations can be made.

Women Big Factor.

Thousands of women will vote who were not enfranchised in the last election. The female relatives of soldiers were entitled to the vote. The new election law enfranchises all women, with certain exceptions in the case of women of foreign birth, who are over the age of 21 years. General speaking, every person, male or female, will be qualified to vote when not being an Indian ordinarily resident on an Indian reservation—(a) is a British subject by birth and naturalization, and (b) is of the full age of 21 years, and (c) has ordinarily resided in Canada for at least twelve months, and in the electoral district where such person seeks to vote for at least two months immediately preceding the issue of the writ of election. It is provided, however, that any Indian, who has served in the naval, military or air forces of Canada, is eligible to vote, unless otherwise disqualified.

WILL VISIT MONTREAL.

OTTAWA, Sept. 1.—Their Excellencies Lord and Lady Byng of Vimy arrived in Ottawa, accompanied by the entire Government House party, this morning, and drove at once to Government House. Their excellencies will leave on Saturday for Montreal, and will spend a few days in that city.

RETURNS TO POLICE COURT WITH NEW FACIAL DECORATION

Steve Zaronak Remanded to Jail As Result of Carousal.

Steve Zaronak, who administered a few autumn tints to his wife's optic, and was fined $5 and costs yesterday, was back this morning, displaying an eye which was decorated with the identical coloring that was applied to his better half. Steve, however, went a step farther, and included his nose in the color scheme, this part of his face being of a brilliant scarlet hue.

Police did not object to the coloring, but to the means of application. Had the Pole used the "nose paint" externally all would have been well with him, but he imbued it, and although this procedure might be called interior decorating, it is not a recognized one by the O. T. A. when the painter goes away from home to work.

An officer stated that Steve had come out from under the family roof and gone abroad, handing an abundant supply of abuse to neighbors and others of the general public, not even excepting the policeman.

"I was underneath my own tree. He's mad to me. I cried like little baby. I never drank," declared Steve emphatically when the officer gave evidence against him.

The court decided that the prisoner was not in fit condition to be turned loose among his fellowmen this morning and so remanded him for two days. As Annie, the 3-year-old interpreter for the Polish residents of London, was not on deck, Mrs. Zaronak was completely out of the argument, as she only knows two languages, Polish and the sign language.

COULD NOT PLAY IN BAND CONTEST

Last-Minute Change in Program Barred G. W. V. A. Brass Band.

Through a last-minute change in the band contest program, in which the local G. W. V. A. Band was to participate with other bands at the Toronto Exhibition on Thursday, the local band was unable to attend. The band had rehearsed the selections scheduled to be played, but at the last moment the official in charge sent word that the program was changed.

As notification did not reach C. C. Irwin until the day on which the program was to be rendered, there was not time to rehearse the new selections, and the band was allowed to withdraw from the contest.

The band is under contract with the Western Fair Board to play three afternoons and nights during Fair week, Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

The band will continue to provide concerts at Victoria Park on Sunday evenings as long as the weather permits. One will be given next Sunday at 8:30.

EXPERIENCES TROUBLE WITH CUSTOMS OFFICER

Visitor Pays Duty Rather Than Have Trunk Seized.

Thomas M. Egelton of Chicago, who with his wife, son and daughter, is visiting his father, Thomas W. Egelton of London street, describes the grumpy roads of Ontario over which he motored as "wonderful." He drove to Lion's Head in the Bruce Peninsula, and said that if he was permitted, he could drive from London to there in three hours. There were no roads at all in Michigan compared to the ones here, he declared.

One incident connected with his trip which he did not relish was connected with a local customs officer. Mr. Egelton rather than be encumbered by his trunk when motoring here from Chicago, shipped it to London. It was filled with wearing apparel, including a few new collars. The officer forced him to pay about $3 duties on his clothes. When he protested the officer stated that he would seize the trunk if the duty was not paid. Mr. Egelton promises to take the matter up with Ottawa officials.

Twenty-two years ago, this former Londoner went to Chicago, and since that time has elevated himself to a responsible executive position in Rothchild's, a big Chicago firm. He is a nephew of Detective-Sergeant Robert Egelton.

GREY RAT'S AERIAL WIRE STUNT DRAWS A LARGE AUDIENCE

Free Show Was Witnessed on Richmond Street Thursday Night.

Many thousands of people who visited Port Stanley this summer watched in awe day after day while Prince Nelson performed on a small tight wire high above the ground. The performance was believed to be a worst act of the kind, as the act was, a still greater wire performance was enacted on the main corner of this city Thursday night before the admiring eyes of hundreds of passers-by.

With only long white whiskers to balance him and a long scaly tail flapping from side to side, a large grey rat walked the high-tension wires of the hydro-electric on Richmond street, from King to Carling streets.

The performer of this free tight-wire act was first seen at 9:30 o'clock climbing an isolated wire high above the sidewalk immediately in front of the G. N. W. telegraph office. He looked calmly over the office premises, but evidently came to the conclusion that, with its clicking instruments, it would be much too noisy for an ideal home, and so he continued his precarious way northwards.

He reached a post, but the broad expanse of the crossbars, with their offer of a sure footing, did not tempt him in the least. He climbed over the glass insulator and scurried along the wire to the next post. The Royal Bank building apparently seemed to austere to make a comfortable home, and the Smallman & Ingram building also failed to appeal to his astute ideas, and both were in turn passed by.

Approaching Dundas street, the wire rose still higher until when the intersection was reached they quivered at a dizzy height from the vibrations of the constant heavy traffic below. No one among the many watchers believed that the venturesome rodent would dare attempt the crossing. They, however, underestimated his nerve and ability, for after a moment of hesitation he stepped carefully on a gently-swaying wire.

Far below, 45 feet or more, autos dashed with screaming horns, and halted or passed on, while street cars, with clanging gongs warned mere pedestrians to get out of the way. But the turn of confusion did not daunt the daring little forager. Many watched breathlessly as the furry body flashed almost white against the dark sky. In peculiarly little jumping made the crossing until he reached in safety sound footing on a post on the far side.

Even then he did not stop, but seemingly reassured by his accomplishment, he started once more, and with incredible speed passed two poles until Carling street was reached. Here he stopped and made a study of an inviting branch wire which made a fork in his road. The branch wire led downhill and he chose the easier way.

He crossed Richmond street in a run, and followed the wire close until he was lost to view in the darkness of an alley.

MUCH INTEREST IN ELDERBERRY CROP

Many Forms of Home Brew Now Possible Is Report.

"Good morning! How is your home-brew coming?" is now a common salutation in London. In all sections of the city and in many of the best homes, one can detect mysterious "pops" if one only takes time to investigate. Long walks into the country are now the vogue, but the walking is not just for mere pastime. There is a reason, which can be found by the roadside. It is the elder bush on which the famous little berries which can be used to make a beverage with a "kick" much stronger than the O. T. A. permits.

Rhubarb and Parsnips. Rhubarb sticks and parsnips are also finding their way to the melting pots in many homes. The dandelion, at one time regarded as an obnoxious weed, is now held to be a valuable crop by those who enjoy a "nip" or "three fingers."

This product of the soil has been garnered, while the rhubarb, the parsnip and the elderberries are now en route to the cellar. As the crop of grapes, which still remains in the field waiting for the frost, is good in quantity as well as quality, it is now assured that there will be Christmas "cheer" in London when the cold winter nights set in, and the home-lover invites a few intimate friends to gather around the hearth to tell stories of art-prohibition days, and sample the liquid, the progress of which he has watched "interestedly for a number of months."

ONLY ONE CONDITION.

DUBLIN, Sept. 1.—A statement which, in view of the peace negotiations, may be significant, appears in the Irish Bulletin, official organ of the Daily Eireann. "Ireland makes but one condition," says the paper, "that it be a free nation. The long antagonism between Ireland and England arose solely from England's attempts to make the subjection of Ireland the first condition of the alliance, which should naturally exist between them. Whatever qualifications of 'complete and economical separation' are made necessary by physical and historical facts will be acceptable to Ireland, provided they are consonant with the principle of government by the consent of the governed."

QUICKLY QUELLED.

BELEFAST, Sept. 1.—Belfast was quiet today, with the exception of an occasional outbreak of firing during the morning, which was quickly quelled. Strong detachments of police and military with armored cars patrolled the affected areas.

The sensational statement that a Sinn Fein official had authorized the Irish Republican army to intervene in the rioting here yesterday was made this afternoon by Col. Duffy, Sinn Fein liaison officer for Ulster. Col. Duffy declared that "after the refusal of the military and police to act" during the rioting, the Irish Republican army took action for the protection of Catholics. "His statement indicates that Sinn Fein sympathies participated in the firing as he said that 'today, as a result of representations made to me, I ordered my troops to cease fire.'"

DISCUSS PLANS FOR CHILDREN'S DAY AT THE WESTERN FAIR

Arrangements for a special meeting of the Fair Board, together with representatives of the different societies of the city, such as the Kiwanis, Lions, Child's Welfare Society and others, have been made with the president of the Fair Board, Lieut.-Col. W. M. Garrison and Mayor E. S. Little, and will be held in the Western Fair offices this afternoon at 4:30.

It will be a get-together meeting to decide which day will be the best to set aside for the children of London and Western Ontario for visiting the Fair. The best means of transporting the children to and from the grounds will also be discussed.

The staff of the Western Fair are swamped with entries and other work pertaining to the exhibition, and are working overtime to keep up with the extra demands being made of them at present.

So great has been the rush of work in the last few days that additional help has been secured.

Saturday will be the last day on which the office in the Dominion Savings Building will be in use. On Monday, September 5, the staff and equipment will be moved to the Fair grounds and will be located there until after the exhibition.

WESTERN ONTARIO BANDS TO ATTEND BIG S. A. CONGRESS

The annual Salvation Army Congress will be held in Massey Hall, Toronto, during the week of October 8 to 11. This will be the last congress conducted by the present commissioner, W. J. Richards, as he is now under farewell orders. Rumors are current to the effect that he is to go to Melbourne, Australia.

Quite a number of Western Ontario bands have signified their intention of attending the congress, among them being the Silver Band of the Windsor division. A number of others, not yet heard from, are expected to take advantage of the occasion.

Although several names have been suggested as the probable successor to the present commissioner, nothing definite regarding the post has been made public. One rumor in circulation is that Col. Hugh Whitmore of Toronto will succeed to the position.

City Briefs

WRIT ISSUED.—D. J. Matheson of Komoka, through his solicitors, Buchner & Ramsey, has issued a writ in the county court against N. Cohn of Windsor for $518.15, the amount of a promissory note alleged to have been made on August 24, 1915.

KIWANIS LUNCHEON FRIDAY.—Rev. Perry Dobson, principal of Alma College, St. Thomas, who is also a member of the Kiwanis Club, will be the speaker at the Kiwanis Club noon-day luncheon at the Tecumseh House today.

THREE FINGERS AMPUTATED.—Robert Smith, a brakeman on the C. & P. R., suffered a badly-crushed right hand when he got the appendage caught in a coupling while on duty in the east-end yards yesterday afternoon. He was taken to Victoria Hospital, where it was found necessary to partially amputate three fingers.

SEEKING U. EXTENSION COURSES.—The growing importance of the University of Western Ontario was clearly indicated by several requests received by Lieut.-Col. W. J. Brown, that the extension course of the university be extended to cover organizations in many points outside of the city. Clubs of various descriptions, libraries, teachers' institutes and various other organizations have sent in urgent requests for lectures.

THREE BICYCLES STOLEN.—Three bicycles were reported to the police as stolen yesterday. One belonging to Harold Neil, 465 Dorinda street, was taken from a garage just north of Dundas street. Its number was 27053. Clayton Thompson, 556 Colborne street, reported his bicycle, which was taken from the Pettit Pattern Works, 455 Dundas street, and bore number 26555.

ASSISTANT TO DEAN TUCKER.—Rev. Dennis Bright, of St. Catharines, has been appointed assistant to Rev. Norman Tucker at St. Paul's Cathedral. Mr. Bright served with the overseas forces for a period of four years, and has been a professor at Ridley College for the past two years. The couple of years, and the new assistant is especially well qualified to handle this branch of the work in addition to his parochial duties.

NEW MOTORCYCLE COPS.—Two dismissals and two appointments have been made in connection with the motorcycle squad of the London police force within the past few weeks. Constable Albert Cowie and Constable Spearman, who were motorcycle officers, have left the force, and Constable David McLeod and Ernest Inch have been appointed as their successors. Constable Monahan has been on the force for several years, and has had previous experience in the operation of motor vehicles. He was taken on the strength several months ago.

STRUCK BY AUTO.—A lad named Flemming, who is said to live on Lorne avenue east, was struck by a motor car at Dundas and Charlotte streets, about 9 o'clock Wednesday night while he was riding a bicycle. He sustained severe bruises and abrasions to the face and body. After medical aid was summoned he was removed to his home. Witnesses of the accident state that the boy attempted to turn on to Charlotte street off Dundas in front of a motor car, and misjudged the speed at which the car was traveling. The motorist drove to the curb in a vain attempt to avoid hitting the lad.

REPORT INCORRECT.—Denial of the report published in a local paper this morning to the effect that Thomas Adams, Dominion town planner, of Ottawa, will be paid a sum not to exceed $5,000, for three years service to the city of London, was made by Mayor T. J. Murphy, chairman of the London Town Planning Commission, today. "That is a mistake," Mr. Murphy informed The Advertiser. "That reporter is wrong. The agreement to be signed calls for a payment of $500 this year, $1,250 in 1922, and a similar amount in 1923, which amounts to my arithmetic totals $3,000. The report published is not very accurate, being $5,000 out."

It is expected that Ald. John Bridge, who was also appointed to the London railway commission by the city council last January, will also resign as a railway commissioner, otherwise, according to city officials, he can be disqualified from acting as alderman, according to City Clerk S. Baker. It is understood that September 1 was the time limit for the act for such resignations to be tendered, but it is intimated that no action will be taken to unsettle Ald. Bridge, provided that he resigns before the next city council meeting.

A few weeks ago, Ald. Bridge informed The Advertiser that he was resigning by September 1, which date, he stated, was the time limit. However, his resignation has not yet been received by City Clerk S. Baker, who says: "Ald. Bridge can now be disqualified, according to the statute."

"INTENT TO HARM" MAY BE ADDED TO CHARGE OF ASSAULT

J. A. Aked, Accused, Under $100 Bail, Pending Adjournment of Case.

Judging from the evidence presented in police court this morning, J. A. Aked dealt James Persall a cowardly blow on the face at their rooming house a few days ago. Persall, who is a street railway motorman, said that he was sitting on the verandah of his stopping place reading a newspaper, when Aked came out of the house and remarked that a certain girl had told him that Persall had no use for him. He figured that he would lose four working days as a result, and would have a doctor's bill to pay.

Aked Pleaded Guilty.

Deputy Magistrate P. H. Bartlett decided to adjourn the case for one week and place it in the hands of the crown attorney in order that he might, if he chose, change the charge from common assault to assault with intent to do bodily injury. Aked may face this more serious charge next week. He was told by the court, who termed the assault "outrageous," that he had better come to police court prepared to recompense Persall for his loss of time, for any doctor bills which Persall might be taxed with, and also to pay a fine. Aked is now out on $100-bail.

POLITICAL POT

course, if the party considers that he is the only one to win the seat to party to doubt he his duty to the party to again enter the field."

"As I have never been offered the nomination I can truthfully say that I have never considered for a moment the question." Mayor E. S. Little declared today to The Advertiser in answer to a question as to whether he would be the Liberal candidate at the coming federal election.

"Should the offer be made," the mayor continued, "that would then be time enough to consider it."

No official candidate has yet been declared upon by the local Liberal chiefs. The unexpected announcement by the premier last night, however, makes it necessary for immediate action. It is not improbable that ward caucuses will be held directly after the next week for the purpose of selecting with popular approval a suitable candidate.

Although Mayor Little himself has not considered the possibility of his nomination, many representative electors have for some time past been strong in their expressions of a hope that he be the choice.

Reliable Labor circles it was announced this afternoon that there can be no decision rendered as to the political situation locally until a convention is held. A L. R. C. gathering, it was intimated, will undoubtedly be called for this purpose during September. Until then no announcements as to candidates can be taken as official.

It is no secret, nevertheless, that both Arthur Mould and Frank McKay are looked upon with favor by the great mass of the Labor following. Nothing definite, however, has transpired as yet, and it has not even been decided that the Labor party will actually contest London.

URGES PEOPLE BE TAUGHT TO COME CLOSER TOGETHER

Rev. Perry Dobson of St. Thomas Calls It Big Movement.

SAYS ALL MUST HELP

No Reason For Bitterness Between Two Provinces, Claims Speaker.

Rev. Perry Dobson, principal of Alma College, St. Thomas, a member of the local Kiwanis Club, addressed the Kiwanis Club members at their weekly noon-day luncheon in the Tecumseh House today.

Kiwanian Dobson cited various incidents connected with the Kiwanian Club since he has been a member. "I am glad to be a member of such an organization. One of the club's biggest issues is to teach the people to live together. It is a big movement and the concerted action of every member of all the big organizations is necessary to make it a success," he declared.

"To make it possible for people to come closer together it is necessary that the barriers existing between Quebec and Ontario and the United States and Canada be removed."

Almost Unintended.

"Early in the country's history surveys planned a track dividing Canada and the United States. The track could be seen running up hills and down dales, and it was dotted with cement posts, and now that is practically all that remains, a mother nature almost obliterating the trail."

"It is up to every member of these businessmen's organizations to assist in bridging the gap between our provinces. No matter how small our influence, it will have some bearing on these big questions if applied in the right manner."

"Although our neighbors are of a different color or race they have the same feelings as we have. They like freedom and are glad to be living. There is no reason why there should be that bitterness between Ontario and the province of Quebec," concluded Kiwanian Dobson.

W. Cason, S. F. Howard, David Allen and L. M. Houlding, who had in charge the Kiwanian camp at Sage's farm, 513, 515 and 517, were each presented with a gold signet ring, bearing the Kiwanian Club emblem, in appreciation of the good work they had accomplished. Mr. Howard made a speech, outlining what work had been done and the influence that such a camp has on the children.

Miss Nettie Jones delighted the Kiwanians with a selection of solos. F. W. Willgoose was accompanist.

CHANGES ON STAFF OF "Y" ANNOUNCED

Several important changes in the staff and personnel of the local Y. M. C. A. went into effect on Thursday, September 1.

Arthur Horwood, formerly assistant secretary, will be assistant secretary to David Allan Murdoch, formerly connected with general work in the office, will be assistant membership secretary to Robert E. McLeod, formerly connected with the work of the boys' department in connection with the boys' locker room.

The business men's class, which will open on September 28, will meet three nights a week instead of two, which was the plan in force last year. Quite a few changes have been made in the program of this class, and will be made known early next week.

Edward J. Jenkins, secretary of the "Y," and Lloyd M. Houlding, boys' secretary, are expected to return Saturday or Monday from Lake Couchiching, where they have been attending a series of lectures and courses pertaining to Y. M. C. A. work.

GLASS WAS GIVEN PRAISE DUE OTHERS

At last night's Conservative rally great words of praise were bestowed upon the credit in the column under the name of S. Frank Glass, M.P., for bringing to this district the Westminster Hospital.

It was pointed out today, however, from the opinion of city hall figures that the Unionist member for East Middlesex did not figure so prominently in the deal as the eloquent speakers at last night's meeting would have the electors believe.

"In 1917," commented City Treasurer Bell today, "under the recommendation of the board of control, the city of London acquired the property of the disposal of the Government on the condition that a hospital be established."

Mayor E. S. Little was chairman of the board in question, the other members being Messrs. Moore, Saunders and Merryfield.

COUNCIL MEMBERS ARE ARRESTED FOR REFUSING TO RAISE THE TAX RATES

London, Sept. 2.—Demonstrations in which many thousands of London's unemployed participated, occurred last night, and marked the culminating point of unrest among the idle, which has prevailed here during the past several weeks. Members of the borough council of Poplar, a section of London, were arrested and lodged in Brixton for refusing to raise the tax rates in accordance with an order from the London county council which had taken action to raise funds to care for the destitute. The arrest of the remainder of the council members, some of them women, was expected today.

The Woolwich board of guardians was asked by a deputation of a monster demonstration to pay 25 shillings a week to each unemployed man and with the aid of a similar dole of eight shillings for each child. Demand was also made that rents should not be collected from men out of work. These demands were rejected by the board. Several men who had spent Wednesday night in a workhouse in Hackney, refused to leave in the morning. They were arrested and later sentenced to a week's imprisonment. Belief was expressed today that a royal commission would be created for the purpose of conducting an inquiry into the question of taxes, and the equalization of rates for the relief of the poor.

LONDON'S BORROWING FAR FROM EXHAUSTED, SAYS CITY TREASURER

"Statements Made To Contrary Are Entirely Erroneous and Misleading," Declared Mr. Bell—Figures Quoted Showed the City's Financial Standing Sound.

"That is entirely erroneous and misleading," commented City Treasurer Bell, commenting upon the statement that "the city's borrowing power was fast becoming exhausted."

The following is a complete concise report from the office of the city treasurer:

Assessment and Debenture Debts.

Assessed value of taxation made in 1920, $53,556,246.

The total debenture debt to date, including the city's portion of local improvement debentures ($305,551.39) is $10,700,750.17.

The net debt against borrowing power under the city of London act of 1906 is $8,243,905.12.

The limit of borrowing power as per section 22 of this act is 14 per cent of the assessed value of whole rateable property, as shown by the last revised assessment roll, which sum is $53,556,246, equal to $7,553,874.44.

Therefore, the amount still necessary to reach limit of borrowing power is $1,909,965.32.

Far From Exhausted.

This is the position of the city treasurer, Mr. Bell, who declared that the city's borrowing power was far from exhausted.

London's assessed value for taxation is $53,556,246, and 20 per cent of this, according to Bradshaw's basis is $10,711,249.20. Then, again, basing it on Bradshaw's opinion as to population, London with 553,251, at $200 a head, is $11,065,020.

Judging from this comparison based on one of the best experts in Canada, Mr. Bell contends "that the city is not so bad off as certain persons would have the citizens to believe."

Compares Favorably.

That London compares very favorably under this basis is the city treasurer's opinion. London's gross debt, he says, according to the above basis, is $9,451,569.92.

LATE MRS. LEAKE, AUNT OF ALBERTA PREMIER

Funeral Held This Afternoon to Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

The funeral of Mrs. Grace Mountjoy Leake, who died on Wednesday afternoon, was held from her late residence, 166 Central avenue, this afternoon, at 3 o'clock, to Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

Services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Jewett of the First Methodist Church.

Mrs. Leake was a resident of this city for 72 years, and is survived by five daughters, Mrs. L. Hlen, of East Aurora, N. Y.; Mrs. C. Willgoose, of Fairmont, Sask.; Mrs. F. Munroe, of Sacramento, Cal.; Mrs. John Graham of this city, and Miss Jennie at home; two sons, R. F. Leake of Sacramento, Cal.; F. P. Leake of Ingersoll; and one sister, Mrs. J. C. Black of Sacramento, Cal. The premier of Alberta, Hubert Greenfield, is a nephew.

The pallbearers were J. Buchanan, A. Karstun, B. Mantell, A. Hord, C. Keene and R. Bland.

ADVISES METHODISTS TO ATTEMPT REFORM OF MODERN DANCE

Chicago, Sept. 2.—Dancing masters, having failed in their efforts to design a dance which would meet with the approval of the Methodist Church and cause it to lift its ban on dancing, Dr. C. H. McCrea, assistant editor of the Northwestern Christian Advocate, a church publication, suggested today that Methodists now undertake to reform the dance. He suggested, in an editorial, some form of mutual athletics that will save all that is harmless and provide all that is lacking in social life of young people of both sexes."

Edward J. Jenkins, secretary of the "Y," and Lloyd M. Houlding, boys' secretary, are expected to return Saturday or Monday from Lake Couchiching, where they have been attending a series of lectures and courses pertaining to Y. M. C. A. work.

FINED $10; WORKED HORSE WITH SORE

For the second time in two weeks, Edward Hartnell was fined $10 and costs at the Carling street court for being cruel to one of his horses. Two weeks ago the horse was reported to be in an unfit condition to work, and because Hartnell was working it he was fined. A few days ago Constable Agmon Barryman noticed the horse at work again. It was hitched to a gravel wagon, and even when the wagon was empty the horse flinched because of the strain on a large sore on its shoulder. The officer saw it when the wagon was loaded with gravel. He ordered Hartnell to unharness the horse and take it to the barn.

The defendant stated that he thought that the horse was sufficiently well to be worked. He said that the sore broke when the horse was working.

After being heard the second time, Hartnell was warned that a third offence would mean his immediate arrest.

GERMANS STILL POSSESSED OF VIVID IMAGINATIONS

London, Sept. 2.—There are many in Germany who think a "trial of military strength" between Great Britain and France is not far distant if they should come to cooperate. It is declared by John Eloff Boodin, professor of philosophy at Carleton College, Minn., in a lengthy interview published in the London Times.

Professor Boodin has been visiting Germany. In his opinion, the old spirit of German "kultur" still lives in the educated circles of Germany.

CITY PUPILS DO NOT HAVE TO PAY FEES

All Citizens Will Be Taxed Instead—County Must Pay.

Senior Public School Inspector C. B. Edwards announced definitely today that the city pupils attending the collegiate institute here, citing the high schools act as authority for his statement.

He quoted section 1 of the regulations: "No fees shall be payable by pupils attending a high school which they have a right to attend under the provisions of this act. Pupils other than those referred to attending high schools shall pay such fees as the board may prescribe, but such fees shall not be greater than the average cost per pupil for education on the high school."

"It simply means that there will be no fees charged city pupils or county pupils," interpreted the inspector, "but tuition of the latter children must be paid for by the county, as they have a right to attend our collegiate under certain conditions, namely, payment of a fee laid down by the board of education, which gives the pupils that right. The fees for city pupils will be made up by taxing all the people in the city."

TURKISH NATIONALIST FORCES WITHDRAWING BEFORE GREEK DRIVE

Constantinople, Sept. 2.—Turkish Nationalist forces, which have been fighting a desperate battle against the Greeks in the loop of the Sakari River in Asia-Minor, are withdrawing toward Angora. Both the Greeks and the Turks have suffered heavily during recent fighting, but the Turks were outnumbered, being able to bring only seventeen divisions into the battle line against the entire Greek army.

DEVOTE ON 10,000 BYLAW STORM SEWERS

Board of Works Sends Recommendation to the Council.

L. THOMAS, Sept. 1.—The board of works at its regular meeting tonight recommended to the council that a by-law be passed for the construction of a part system of storm sewers given the people at the January session.

The city engineer made a voluminous report on the sewerage conditions in the vicinity of St. Ann's Place and in street. In this area, said the engineer, there are four stretches of feet long, and it is extremely difficult to get through them with the sewers. The sewers were constructed in the early days of the city and were with open joints. The engineer outlined the system at present in use as a combined sewer with the following results:

Queen street centre to St. Ann's place.

Queen street, St. Ann's to Wellington street.

Metcalfe street, centre to St. Ann's place.

St. Ann to Wellington.

St. Ann, Queen to Metcalfe.

For the first system it will require 12-inch sewers, and a 15-inch; and a 12-inch. These sizes are calculated on the basis of 2.8 inches of rain per hour, and a population of 28 persons per acre. The present density of population in that district is 28 per acre.

Under Pressure.

If water sufficient to fill a 12-inch pipe is forced through an 8-inch pipe, the water, instead of flowing under gravity, commences to flow under pressure, with the result that the pressure seeks relief at every available outlet. The only outlet being the service connections, with the result that the cellars are flooded.

The present sewers, advised the engineer, were never intended to act as combined sewers to the extent that they are now loaded. The old plans show generally provision for houses every 60 feet. Now there are double that number being served.

The Only Remedy.

The only remedy at present, said the engineer, is the immediate construction of storm sewers, this relieving the present sewers of all storm water. Six new manholes are required in the district to make the sewer accessible for easy and sufficient maintenance. What has been said of Queen street district is generally applicable to the entire city.

The city has outgrown the sewerage system for use as a combined sewer.

Proposes Debentures.

The engineer suggested that the capital expenditure should be met by an issue of 15 or 20-year debentures. No street should be improved, whether with a permanent or semi-permanent surface until the necessary storm sewers have been laid.

The engineer estimated the cost of a new street system at $3,375, which includes $2,000 for land damages. Using this as a basis for estimating the cost of the sewerage system, the engineer estimated the cost of the sewerage system at $3,375, which includes $2,000 for land damages. Using this as a basis for estimating the cost of the sewerage system, the engineer estimated the cost of the sewerage system at $3,375, which includes $2,000 for land damages.

In carrying out the four works indicated, with the usual contingencies that may arise, the engineer recommended a by-law to cover an expenditure of $30,000.

Work for Next Year.

The engineer was instructed to submit a plan of the improvements necessary to be made in several sections of the city, so as to allow for the initial work this year.

Several streets were named residential streets, including Roseberry, Place, Southwick street from Center to Roseberry, West Railway, Metcalfe west from Talbot, William, Center to Wellington, and Horton street.

COMMITTEE FAVORS NEW SHIPPING BOARD

Would Adjust Freight Rates and Other Marine Problems.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—The report of the imperial shipping committee, which was made public today, recommends the substitution of the imperial shipping board for the present constituted committee.

According to the report the shipping board would consist of representatives of the shipping companies, the government, and the public. The board would have the power to recommend the government to take such action as might be necessary to secure the most efficient and economical operation of the shipping service.

The committee recommends that the chairman of the board should be paid, and that there should be six representatives on the board who would act for the shipping and commercial interests of the whole empire.

It is suggested that the rotation of these representatives among the dominions of the empire could be arranged. The committee thinks the board should be incorporated by royal charter. They estimate that the total expenses in connection with the functioning of the board would not exceed a few thousand pounds, which, the report says, could be met by agreed contributions from each part of the empire.

GEOLOGICAL FREAK

Vienna, Aug. 29.—The geological freak of a great mountain disintegrating so fast that it is discernible day by day—a thing that "thinks" takes thousands of years—is occurring in the Aussee region. The Aussee Sanding, rising over 4,000 feet, is simply collapsing. Its great cones and pinnacles are crashing and tumbling as if undermined by gnomes, the forest that closed the gorges lie flat or move slowly and steadily downward, piling into the valleys, and the turf carpet moves with them. At three and three-quarter miles of critory are involved in the movement, and hundreds of sightseers saw the avalanches from opposite slopes. The phenomenon has been in progress for a year, with gradually increasing acceleration. One scientific explanation is the presence of an abnormal quantity of water in the chalky limestone core of the mountain, causing the collapse of great caverns and the slipping of strata.

THE COMING FIGHT.

That a general election will take place before the close of the present year was the momentous night by nouncement which was made in London last night by the Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, prime minister of Canada. A definite statement on this matter has been anxiously and eagerly awaited for many weary months
by the people of the Dominion, longed for a cessation of the uncertainty and unrest which has proved a stumbling block to the post-war period of reconstruction
and recuperation.

No other course was open to Premier Meighen.
By-election after by-election has demonstrated widespread dissatisfaction with the present patchwork regime, without beginning and without end, and the murmurings of the people have every day become louder.

From Lapland to Patagonia, from sea to sea,
civilization has been taught that the Great War was fought in order to make the world safe for democracy;
but so far as Canada is concerned the conclusion of the titanic struggle in Europe found democracy held up and its hopes and aspirations balked by a Government
clinging with barnacle-like tenacity to the ship of state and completely impeding its progress.

It is well that Mr. Meighen, apart from any motives
of expediency which may have directed his decision, has so far benefited by his visits to Montreal and other parts of the country that he has been able to acquire a better knowledge of political perspective. His visit overseas, while clarifying his vision imperially, withdrew his hand from the pulse of Canada, and now that he grasps the situation, no other course is open but that which he has intimated.

The democracy have now the opportunity of closing their ranks and winning the fight for progress and justice, and win it they shall. The forces of progressive Liberalism must unite and sweep away every vestige of reaction and usurped privilege. The men of the country who fought for truth and justice must prove that they can be victors in peace as well as in war.
There was never a time in the history of the country
in which there was more need for united action in securing those reforms without which no country can prosper, nor the happiness of its people be assured.
Progress is the Liberal rallying cry, and progress is bound to triumph.

FEDERAL FINANCE.

The Liberal rally at Seaford will long be remembered as one of the most notable open-air gatherings
that ever took place in Western Ontario, inasmuch as it was the occasion of a telling denunciation of the incompetency of the Government by the leader of the Opposition, W. L. Mackenzie King. The extravagance of the Meighen administration was one of the special targets for the broadsides of the Liberal leader,
and he particularly attacked the action of the Government in taking over the railroads without even asking the opinion of the people. Where such enormous expenditures were involved, the least that could have been done was to get the feeling of the country.

But the last thing that the present administration at Ottawa has thought of for the past year or two is to consult anyone but themselves. The deficit on the railroads this year is enormous, and the result of all these expenditures is that every man, woman and child in the Dominion is saddled with a burden of $55 per head. This is the Federal burden alone. Notwithstanding the repeated efforts of the Opposition to obtain information on these enormous commitments,
no elucidation has been forthcoming, owing to the evasive and arbitrary methods of the Government.

The country has thus been bled without power to resist, confidence has been shattered and industry paralyzed. The tariff revision which was to have proved a medium in the restoration of stability has proved a broken reed, and its effects, such as it is, have been but an aggravation of the situation so far as the people are concerned. It is not a case of tariff versus free trade, as Mr. Meighen wants to make out, but a tariff, while not permitting restrictions on the commodities and industries essential to the welfare of the people, affords a fair measure of revenue. As Mr. King has pointed out, it is impossible to raise by direct taxation the hundreds of millions that are required. A fair and equitable tariff is to be arrived at by evolution and not by revolution, and no class
should be particularly favored in framing it.

THE REAL ALLIANCE.

The government press in Canada is vastly exercised
these days over "unholy alliances" of its opponents.
It scents Bolshevism in the possibility of groups in Canada that do not hold to its doctrines taking any steps to achieve their ends. Unionist editors lift their hands in holy horror against those who would challenge
the right of the anointed party to carry on the government of the country. But, after all, the real alliance that has already been consummated in Canada is the alliance of the common people who are determined to end the reign of power of the group who now have things in their own hands at Ottawa.

It comes with exceeding humor from the people who joined hands with Bourassa in 1911 to talk about
"unholy alliances." If ever there was a despicable alliance it was that one, when men who but a few months before had been regarded as traitors by the ultra-loyalists of the Tory party were taken to that party's bosom and told that they could have anything

they wanted if they would only "beat Laurier" and deliver the Quebec seats. Mr. Meighen was not in the cabinet at that time, but the young lawyer from the West was even then very close to the heart of things, and he probably knew all that there was to know about
the bargain that was entered into with Messrs.
Bourassa and Lavergne.

Lavergne is the man who let out some of the details
after the election was over. He, with his typical vanity, boasted that he had been told that he could name three or four of the ministers of the new cabinet, and it is the general belief at Ottawa that he did name them—Monk, Nantel, Pelletier and Blondin. Mr. Monk would have had a place in any case, no doubt, because of his real ability, but it took a Lavergne and this promise
from the Tory leaders to shoulder the cabinet with a Nantel or a Blondin. Yet in they went, and what is more, they stayed there. Evidently Lavergne was still a power behind the throne.

No one has ever expressed very great surprise over the things that Mr. Lavergne allowed to become known.
It was quite well known after 1908 that unless the leader of the party won the next election his tenure would end. There had been serious quarrels in the Tory party after the disaster of 1908, and the men who were in control when 1911 came around would have sold their political soul to the devil for a victory at the polls. There are some who think that they actually did come near such a bargain when they allied themselves with the Nationalists.

Yet these are the people who prance and stamp and call down the malediction of heaven against any alliance that is directed against their own security. It would be pitiable if it were not so absolutely ridiculous.
The party that is now nearing defeat is the party that has sought on every occasion to vilify its opponents,
to call the former party Bolsheviks and the Liberals traitors. What its ministers have said upon the platform, sometimes guardedly, the weekly "hot air" bulletin from Ottawa says openly and scurrilously. If there were the opportunity the Meighen party would begin today by branding its opponents un-British and Bolshe-vist, and would try to carry this next election by waving the flag. It is a question if it will not attempt that sort of thing yet. The difference between 1921
and 1911, however, will be that in the meantime the people of this country have been able to discern between men whose love of flag and country is in their hearts and those whose idea of flag and country is something to be exploited for power and for profit.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Labor Day parade will include many who through no fault of their own toil not, neither do they spin.

Those Daily replies to Lloyd George are becoming more daily all the time, and show no prospect of becoming weakly.

A building trades official reports a big drop in the cost of construction. We had already heard from somewhere the buildings were falling.

The Turks are reported to be still retreating before the Greeks. If they keep on their course eastward the Japanese will soon be attacking them in the rear.

The discovery has been made that turkeys are very useful in eating the grubs off tobacco plants. This shows that these birds have more uses than being table ornaments on Thanksgiving Day.

The official end of the war, so far as Britain is concerned, has also put an official end to that dear old creature, D. O. R. A. Her demise coincides with the restoration of John Barleycorn to many of his pre-war privileges.

It is alleged that two whiskey spotters were so enthusiastic in their profession that they had to be taken to the police station by their prisoners.
That "hooch" must have been some stuff to produce
such topsy-turvy results. Of course, this did not happen in London.

MR. FORD IN THE NEWS.

[New York Times.]
Henry Ford, more than once, has been the object of adverse criticism from his fellow-citizens, and more than once they have laughed at what seemed to them his folly or his ignorance. Few, if any of them, however, have ever, or for long, failed to appreciate a certain essential likeableness of the man, and there is no doubt whatever that he must have something approaching genius for fixing attention on his doings and adventures, for exciting interest and supplying material for comment.

Often, perhaps, than anybody else whose known activities have been confined almost continuously and almost exclusively to business and money-making, he has figured in "first-page stories" in newspapers pretty well all over the world; and the little car which is the source of his fame as of his fortune, though usually referred to in terms of half-humorous, half-contemptuous disrespect, is far better known to far more people than any of its rivals—
and gets far more free advertising, as he is well aware—
than all the other cars put together.

Mr. Ford's latest invasion of the front pages was a highly characteristic one. It revealed him as the hero, modest enough, but not shrinking, of a battle with "Wall Street," victorious, but not too exultant, and naming no names, so that nobody can be offended—audibly. That is a role of the sort that on the stage is called "sympathetic."
for "Wall Street" has done so many folk what Mr. Ford says it didn't do to him, and is held in disrepute by so many others, that the election of its abashed and foiled representative, as described by Mr. Ford, will breathe a vast multitude of faces with smiles.

It was a tale of millions, too, always a luscious subject, and as usual Mr. Ford has secured the services of a competent writer to tell it.

WHEN POMPEII WENT DRY.

[Montreal Star.]
Archaeologists are finding interesting things among the ruins of Pompeii these days. The digging out of the city which was overwhelmed by a whirlwind of burning ash from the crater of Vesuvius on that awful 24th of August, A. D.
79, has been going on at a leisurely pace for many years, and the rewards of labor have been of unusual value. The latest discovery is that of a restaurant, or, more properly, a saloon, for the principal object of interest in it was the bar.
Glass bottles and beer pumps were not a vogue in those days, but terra cotta amphorae served the purpose quite well and there appear to have been a number of them about.

There was a small furnace too, which apparently puzzled the excavators. Classical literature is dumb on the subject of "hot Scotch," and the climate of Central Italy does not lend itself to that sort of tipple.

But in spite of this bar, and doubtless, others like it, Pompeii "went dry" all of a sudden, went dry and stayed dry for more than eighteen hundred years, went dry with a finality, a completeness and a strict observance of dry conditions that must have satisfied the prohibitionists of the day. There have been no bootleggers in Pompeii for nearly two thousand years. But they have dug up at least one bar, and the very secrecy which surrounds the operation is suspicious. The public is being rigidly excluded, and quite rightly, so long as there is a chance of other cauldrons turning up. Archaeologists are much as other men, after all,
and two thousand year old Falernian or whatever it may be, is mighty welcome. It looks as though the dry days of Pompeii were about over. Later news will be awaited with intense interest.

POETRY AND JEST

FOOLS AND FOREST FIRES.

[James Lawler.]
Tommy and Tony were two pretty pets;
They went to the woods and they smoked cigarettes.
They tossed matches here, and they
tossed the stubs there.
Till suddenly wicked flames filled all
the air.
These flames burned the forest; they burned up the crops;
They burned up the homes and the
factories and shops.
They burned up the church, both the
nave and the steeple;
They burned the village, and, alas!
many people.
Now when you go into the forest
shades cool,
Don't say Tommy or Tony, act like a fool.
Don't be careless with fire, don't toss
cigarettes.
Then the forest won't burn and you'll have no regrets.
As for Tommy and Tony, they'd escaped once before,
And carelessly thought they could do it
some more.
But found, to their sorrow, public feeling had risen.
So, now they are spending six months
in a prison.

PORTUGUESE APPRECIATION OF TREES.

In many places where timber trees are to be found in Portugal, one sees
the following inscription:
"Ye who pass by and would raise your hand against me, harken ere you harm me."

"I am the heat of your hearth on the cold winter nights, the friendly
shading screen from the summer
sun, and my fruits are refreshing
draughts quenching your thirst as you journey on."

"I am the beam that holds your house, the board of your table, the bed
on which you lie, and the timber that builds your boat."

"I am the handle of your hoe, the door of your homestead, the wood of your cradle, and the shell of your coffin."

"I am the bread of kindness and the flow of beauty."

"Ye, who pass by, listen to my prayer: Harm me not."

OTHERS' VIEWS

JUST BEFORE THE STORM.

[From the Nomad in the Boston
Transcript.]

A common scene—but for the vividness and imaginativeness of the description the Nomad presents it:

It was a sleepy, sultry day in July.
The yellow sun, high overhead, poured withering rays straight down to earth
and cared not who fainted and fell prostrate at its feet. Not a sound was audible in the steaming, hot atmosphere excepting the noise of the locust, as he pierced the air with his persistent, stinging movements. Even the birds
were silent, and sat with drooping wings and open mouths among the shady branches of the trees. The wild roses lost some of their pinkness and hung their lifeless heads, as the seorch-ing breath of the south wind touched their cheeks.

A diminutive cloud drifted across the cerulean sky; then another followed in its wake; others gathered and skipped faster in an effort to catch up with the leader. A larger cloud than the rest
brushed across the sun's face, and soon
after was overtaken by a black monster that completely obscured the light. The sky changed from a bright blue to a dark, mysterious color; blackness fell upon the earth. The tiny birds rustled uneasily on their perches, and uttered frightened little chirps. The leaves stirred in anticipation of an unknown, impending something they could not comprehend; while the roses and other flowers, quivering in one last effort to straighten their stems and hold up their heads, collapsed in helpless little piles upon the ground. A dashing, cold wave of air rushed by in pursuit of a warmer one.

There was a low grumble; a deep,
long-drawn-out rumble; a vivid yellow
flash through the sky; then a splitting, harsh crash, followed by a big drop; a splash; two or three splashes at once, and then down tumbled
the welcome, cooling rain to soothe the panting earth.

KING GEORGE'S PROPERTY.

[London Daily Express.]

The King's estates, which belong to the Duchy of Lancaster, are scattered over twenty-two English and Welsh counties. The most valuable portion,
however, is that in the county of London, which has belonged to the royal family ever since 1260, when Queen Eleanor bought the Hospital of the Savoy from the monks and gave it to her second son Edmund, Earl of Lancaster. At the time of its demolition by Wat Tyler's followers the Savoy
was called "the finest manor in England." It still has its court leet, which sees that the boundary marks of the manor are kept in good order; a jury
of sixteen being appointed for the purpose of beating the bounds once a year.

One of the boundary marks of the manor is on the Lyceum stage, another in a cellar in Child's Bank, a third in Burleigh street and a fourth in Cleopatra's Needle, and a fifth underneath the Middle Temple lawn. Here a stone block has to be lifted up, and formerly there were keen disputes between the Inns of Court officials and the Savoy jury over the jury's right of entry. Since 1907, I think, this difference has been composed.

GOOD FOR MARY.

[Toronto Globe.]

Amundsen, the Swedish Arctic explorer, was detained for a long time at point on the coast of Siberia, and the delay was attributed to a broken propeller, impenetrable ice, and other causes. The real reason was given by him in a letter to the Aftenposten of Christiania. What held them up, he says, was the sickness of Mary, the cook.

"If anyone had told me a year ago
that it would be possible to take a woman on a voyage like this I would have ridiculed the idea. But Mary was highly recommended and we took her
on. Aside from being a matchless cook, she was the cheerleader of the party until taken ill. Amundsen firmly believed that there have always been too many men in former expeditions, and his experience with Mary will undoubtedly lead future polar explorers to include a "cheerleader" among the crew.

A SLAVE TO A BUNCH OF KEYS.

[Montreal Herald.]

Are you a slave to a bunch of keys?
Most people are, and they realize the extent of their serfdom only when they take a vacation. A friend of mine remarked on the fact the other day. "On the first day of my holiday," he said,
I always perform a symbolic rite of deep significance by dropping my bunch of keys into a drawer. As the chain follows the keys, like a cable following its anchor, I feel myself unshackled.
There go the hall door key of my apartment, the Yale key of my own door, the office key, my desk key, a safe key, my kit bag key, not to be used for three weeks, and several other keys.

"And then at the end of the holiday,"
he continued, "I again take up my burden and carry the evidence of my servitude once more."

It is desired to make armed persons committing train robberies liable to penal servitude for life and never to let the courts consider extenuating circumstances in the case of such crimes.

For murders committed in railway trains the death penalty is demanded, which at present is not inflicted in some Swiss cantons. This bill aims at being a preventive measure, for hitherto Switzerland, unlike her neighbors, has had few railway robberies.

GERMAN WORKERS ASK HIGHER WAGES

Say Labor Pays 10 Per Cent of Taxes, Capital Only 2 or 3.

BERLIN, Sept. 1.—A general wage increase is demanded by German workers following the general strike in the Government's new tax demands. The rise in the cost of nearly all commodities in Germany is much more precipitous than was the decline in the value of the mark recently. The general clamor for higher wages to meet these new conditions threatens to make salary increases a dominant political issue when the Reichstag meets.

Trade union officials declare that the German wage-earner now carries 10 per cent of the total tax payments and that this percentage is automatically deducted from his wages each week, while capital pays only 2 or 3 per cent.

There is much popular indignation over reports that Hugo Stinnes, the German industrial leader, did not make a declaration in connection with his taxable income last year.

The Socialist parties are back of these demands by wage-earners. Herr Weis, leader of the Majority Socialists, in a speech made here a few days ago, threatened to oppose the entire tax bill of the Government unless important modifications were made in it. He scored conditions which permitted the doubling of the price of bread as well as artificial price control by the Government was removed.

The new tax on sugar and coffee is among the levies which the German people resent. At the same time they demand a tax on gold values that will fall on capital. Socialists, who are participating in and shareholding in profitable enterprises.

Nationalization of the so-called fundamental industries, such as coal, is still the slogan of the Socialists, but it is being less ardently shouted than was the case last year.

Dr. Helfand, a leading Socialist capitalist, has recommended the grouping of the so-called fundamental industries, including the railroads, and that a new mortgage be placed on the end of the road that the state could raise a foreign loan on this security. However, he does not suggest who would grant such a loan. Neither is there forthcoming any suggestion how the railroads could be made to pay without raising their rates, nor how this method reconciled with the demand of the Socialists for increased wages, while the payroll is the largest item of the railroad deficit.

This proposal is being strongly resisted by the Chamber of Commerce in business circles, which are organizing against any Government control or confiscation of their plants or production.

MANY DODGE VOTING ALL OVER ARGENTINA

Compulsory Law Is Evaded and Courts Are Clogged With Ballot Cases.

NUMEROUS BLANKS CAST New Law Making Elections Secret Increases Number Exercising Suffrage.

Buenos Aires, Sept. 1.—Students of American politics who have observed the operation of the compulsory registration and voting law of Argentina have discovered that a large number of persons registered and entitled to vote in that country still keep away from the polls.

Although penalties are imposed by the Argentine law, its strict enforcement has been found impracticable, especially in the large population centres. The cases of failure to vote are still so numerous that the courts would be clogged with them if they did not accept the excuses of thousands who plead inability to vote because of illness, absence from home or other reasons.

Nevertheless, the Argentines believe the combined features of compulsion and secrecy in the law, which were adopted in 1911, have proved a success because, under its operation, the number of voters has increased to more than 68 per cent of the number eligible.

Prior to enactment of the measure the apathy and indifference of the Argentine elector probably was as great as in the United States, or greater, owing mostly to the disbelief here in the honesty of elections.

All Males of 18 Must Register. The law requires the registration of every male citizen of 18 years for the purpose of voting coincidently with his registration for compulsory military service. It imposes a fine of 10 pesos or forty-eight hours' imprisonment for failure to cast a ballot at a national election.

In the presidential election of 1910, prior to the enactment of the compulsory law, when the population of the country was a little more than 7,000,000, only 738,294 citizens voluntarily enrolled and 442,362 voted. A considerable number of these votes, it is generally admitted, represented the activities of "repeaters."

In the Congress elections of 1912, the first held under the secret and compulsory law, 325,401 were registered and 1,139,254, of which 745,825 voted, or an increase in voters over 1910 of 68.5 per cent.

Small Ratio in Buenos Aires. In Buenos Aires, the federal capital, with its population of 1,700,000, the proportion of non-voters to those registered was only 20 per cent. This was ascribed to the keener interest in politics there. Comparatively few of those who failed to vote were fined.

The Argentine law fails to prevent voters from casting blank ballots. Some do, and there is no way of identifying them. As in the United States, the voter gets a ballot that cannot be identified afterward. He may therefore merely go through the form of entering the booth, sealing an unmarked ballot in the envelope provided for him, and depositing it in the ballot box outside and thereby comply with the law.

Voters in each district are checked up by means of the military enrollment, and are identified at the polls by the "libreta de enrolamiento" that every Argentine youth must possess upon reaching the age of eighteen and which he permanently preserves. This contains a photograph, thumb print, physical description and blank spaces upon which the elections officials place their seal when he votes.

This system has virtually eliminated fraudulent voting in Argentina. "Repeaters" no longer flourish. The only possibility of fraud is in the counting of the votes.

Radicals Still in Power. The first national election under a secret and compulsory law resulted in a triumph of the Radical party, which is still in power. This party had contended that under the old law it had been robbed of elections by fraudulent voting and at several elections its followers abstained from the polls, saying it was useless to vote. With the passage of the new law it entered the Congress campaign of 1912, under the leadership of Hipolito Yrigoyen, won the elections, and in 1916 elected Yrigoyen president.

Although apathy and indifference to elections by persons of voting age in the United States have long been subjects of complaints, statistics showing the number who fail to go to the polls in this country are not available for comparison with those of Argentina.

Both registration and voting are compulsory in Argentina, while neither is in the United States.

The 1910 census showed there were then in the United States 55,554,905 persons over 21 years old. Of these 25,999,151 were men and 24,555,754 women. The total vote for president in 1912 was a little in excess of 15,000,000. The census figures for 1920 on persons of voting age have not yet been made public. The foregoing figures would not represent accurately the number of persons entitled to vote, as they include aliens and others disqualified by restrictions imposed by the different states.

UNIVERSITY OFFERS COURSE IN BREWING

Birmingham Installs Chair of Bio-Chemistry of Fermentation To Get Better Beer.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—There is good news for every American who has been wrestling with weird products coming from his own kitchen or cellar in an announcement just made in Birmingham, England. Birmingham University has established a chair of "bio-chemistry of fermentation, and any home brewer can tell what it is. All he has to do is to go to Birmingham and take a course, capturing the degree of B. C.—bachelor of bio-chemistry. The course requires only a few months' study, provided the student has a sound foundation. But it is a theoretical rather than a practical foundation that is required, for the course constitutes more testing over a Bunsen flame than with the practice of brewing.

nounced the course with a view to getting better beer in England, as brewers here have decided they cannot make it stronger than it is at present. Every one is disgusted with the watery war-product of even such famous houses as Bass, and there is a general demand for improvement.

In the old days each locality had its own recipe. Many a farmer's house had its own brewery, and there were as many kinds of ale and beer as leaves on trees—the mild Kent, the "heady" Wiltshire, and Scotland's "best," which an exiled French king called equal to Burgundy.

Now, however, everyone says the product has sunk to such unimpressive mediocrity that some devotees are even thinking of going to America to try the "mud" variety. Hence Birmingham University goes to the rescue.

The chancellor of the university, however, has warned applicants that their applications for enrollment will be considered strictly in the order of their merit, and, above all, cautions all applicants not to send any samples of their home brew product.

SPARE ROD AND SAVE CHILD, SAYS DOCTOR

Head of French League For Moral Hygiene Seeks Anti-Thrashing Law.

PARIS, Sept. 1.—Has an angry father a right to administer the rod to an erring child? The French League for Moral Hygiene, headed by Dr. Toulouse, a famous physician here, says, "No," and is preparing to appeal to the Chamber of Deputies for a revision of the law which gives a parent the right to direct by the use of force the conduct of his child.

The French law provides that a father can ask for the detention of his minor children in jail if the offence is of a serious nature, but the League for Moral Hygiene asserts that even a correctional school is injurious to a youth's prospects, as contact there with more serious criminal instincts is inevitable.

Regarding the cutting of a stout branch for application to sensitive parts of a child's anatomy, Dr. Toulouse contends that such "persuasion" has a negative effect, and is likely to drive children from home, while he holds it is certain to develop hatred in a family circle.

It may be added, however, that Dr. Toulouse has no children.

A canvass of the league's committees shows a majority of their members favor France's efforts to increase her population.

UNTOLD MISERY SWEEPING OVER STRICKEN LAND

Children Eat Clay and Carrion, Swell Up and Die.

VEGETATION DEVoured Black Pall of Desolation Throughout Samara— Soviets Helpless.

Moscow, via Riga, Sept. 1.—A vivid and terrible account of famine conditions has been published in Moscow by a writer named Irenitskii, who has just visited the worst sections of the Samara Government in an automobile with Kalenine, president of the famine relief committee. Under the headline, "Living Death," he tells how the inhabitants of two villages were trying vainly to fight the slow agony of hunger by eating a horrible green mixture of weeds and leaves, or yellow cakes whose principal component was clay, or else scouring the fields in search of scraps of carrion. He says:

"Our automobile is jolting across the wide Samara prairie. All around is wilderness and desolation. Here and there are the bones of dead horses, with the frayed remnants of skin adhering. Occasionally we pass furrows of black earth, and occasionally a peasant still working the fields with a team to prove that the land our people hold so dear is not entirely abandoned. We meet, too, little flocks of frightened sheep being driven to market from the pastures that will feed them no longer. Our goal is the two villages, Vysozka and Sukhaya-Vysouka, whose population, according to the official report of Samara, is literally dying by inches. Now we are approaching Vysozka. Black barns and thatched huts surround meagre gardens. Men and women glance at the automobile with dull, incurious eyes, and children appear at doorways to see us. At the headquarters of the local Soviet, we are greeted by the president, a tall, burly peasant, whose face shows purple excitement at the sight of a distinguished visitor. For Kalenine's arrival is unexpected. "We would have rung the bell to announce your coming," he says, "but owing to the separation of church and state we must first ask the permission of the church soviet."

While Kalenine is discussing the situation with him and the affair of the bell is being negotiated, I go for a walk through the village. After a few steps I am accosted by a talkative old woman. Bits of Carrion. "The people won't gather quickly," she begins. "They are out gathering the fields. The gleaners used to get up to five pounds a day, but now the fields are stripped bare. We are eating weeds, wild oats, clay and sunflower heads. It burns your inside, your stomach swells and then you die. For the sake of Mary, Queen in Heaven, don't let us all die of hunger. Yesterday they buried two children. Their father collected some bits of carrion in the fields and gave it to them, but they got worse and died. We've eaten everything. The cattle have been cut up and eaten. The last scraps of bread are gone. Mothers' hearts are being wrung with the cries of their children, for whom there is nothing. In the fields the rye stalks are being cut, and now even the grass is dying. Oh, Red Sun, what misery is ours." She crossed herself towards the fiery globe in the west. "It is a living death," she continued. "One walks as if always going uphill and one's legs refuse to move under one." She began weeping noisily and a deep note of a bell rang out like a death knell overhead. My attention was attracted to a young woman, almost a girl, who was staggering alone from fence to fence holding the rails. "This is Agrippina. Her husband is working in Tashkent," said my companion. I shook her hand. She raised her lined, hollow face, which had puffs under the eyes like an old man. This girl is 19.

"What's the matter?" I asked. She doesn't answer, but stares blankly as if looking at another world. "My head keeps going round," she says suddenly in a matter-of-fact voice, in which there is no note of complaint. "Tell him all about it," says the old woman. "It's going round, going round," the girl repeats drowsily. "I keep falling down and can't walk at all." The tone is low and melodious, but faint as thought; the words are spoken in a breath.

Weeping for Food. Gradually a crowd of women and children surround us. Seeing that I am writing in a note book, they begin to implore me to put down their names also. My companion explains that I am a journalist, but they don't believe her. "Write my name!" cries one. "Helen Grebenkin, husband away a year at the war in the Red Army, and no news of him. I've sold all my clothes and my child is living water." "Write me, little father," breaks in another. "Last winter we had six horses, two cows, twenty sheep, and now there's not even a speck of dust left in the house, and there are eleven of us to be fed. We sowed fifteen acres, but didn't reap a single ear. The locusts ate all of it."

"Comrade, at least, write my child," came a pleading voice. "We ground but a pound of barley from three acres. That was all and it's gone." She thrust forward her little girl, three or four years old, wearing a ragged shirt that showed her bare shoulders. "Write her down, comrade, or she will die, for already we are eating grass like the horses."

The child is a skeleton with hollow cheeks, fever-bright eyes and arms and legs like stalks of fennel. Under the little shirt her swollen stomach sticks out big as a ripe melon. I touch flesh which is as hard as stone. It feels smooth, slippery and is covered with a network of blue veins. The child is still as a tiny corpse dragged out of its coffin, clasped in her mother's fingers. A dark green raw cake which suddenly she bites greedily. I shudder, sickened, for let my well-fed readers forgive me—the stuff the child was gobbling instead of bread looks exactly like a lump of cow-dung.

"There's Paskovia," cries the old woman who first joined me, as through the crowd comes a woman with a youngish face, strong, proud and calm, baby in her arms, and a child tugging at her skirt. "Come in my hut," she says, "and see how we live—our only food is pigweed and raw pumpkins." I followed her to the door, stoop and enter the clean, but which smells of dried grass. On the floor there are pieces of cucumber rind. "The children picked that up on the road," says the woman. "I told them not to, but they still do it. Their tummies hurt so, they're so hungry. I took them to the orphanage, but they can't take them there."

"As we were coming back they cried: 'Mamma! Mamma! We're so hungry, are we going to die?' I looked at the children. Their poor pinched faces were as fine as their mother's—splendid stock. Will Freeze in Winter. "Anyway, we will freeze in the winter," Paskovia continued. "We have exchanged all our wood for milk. We had four little sheep. But they're gone, and we've sold everything down to the last empty boxes. Even the cat is dead. It spun round and round, then jumped into the air and died. What shall we do now? She is so splendid, brave and tight lipped that my heart well nigh burst at the thought that such as these must die. By now the bell had summoned the crowd from the fields, and Kalenine is already addressing them. "Why should I say more? It is every-where the same picture. It is not a newspaper 'horror,' but in very truth the Samara region is dying quietly, unsensationally. Those who had money fled to wander hopelessly along the Volga rivers or to the railroad depots of the towns. Many such are returning home to their villages—to die. So there's no crying about, nor cursing, nor murmuring or revolt, but they all say, 'It is a living death.'"

If you want 'horrors,' here is one. In Sukhaya-Vysouka a peasant died, aged 50 years, named Fedor Koinikoff. Before he died wounds in his legs opened from hunger, and in the morning, according to the president of the local Soviet, foul worms began to breed. When the sores were washed the worms were removed, but when one passed his door, said the president, "he staggered to the window crying for food, until the neighbors could not bear it. One day he died, and we buried him forthwith because of the worms that were in him."

In the village register there is a long list of deaths from hunger, though that is not always the direct cause inscribed. "The children died of exhaustion due to hunger," and so on, "hunger dysentery," "hunger tuberculosis," "hunger cholera."

As we drove away, a woman's voice is raised sobbing from the midst of the respectful crowd: "Take us away, comrade, take us away, for we are dying."

PROVINCE WILL BORROW AGAIN

New Loan For $15,000,000
To Be Put Through Shortly.

TORONTO, Sept. 1.—A new provincial loan will be launched within a few days, which, it is understood, will amount to $15,000,000. The sum of $7,000,000 is required for the hydro, while $10,000,000 is required for treasury notes.

While no official announcement has been made as yet, it is contended that the bonds will be offered in Canada, as the Toronto market is not regarded as attractive at present except in case of an emergency.

SARNIA MAINTAINS BUILDING RECORD

Total For Year Is Likely To Double That of 1920.

SARNIA, Sept. 1.—Although it failed to equal the total of $83,438, recorded in the month of July, Sarnia's building record for August was a good one, amounting to $69,155, with a total of 25 permits issued. Adding last month's total to that of the previous months brings the aggregate for the year up to $1,137,192, while the amount for the entire twelve months of 1920 was $742,294.00. Permits granted this year to date total 487.

Stork Was Busy. The stork maintained the lead in the mortality race in this city during the month of August, according to the vital statistics report.

Which shows that the long-legged bird made 24 calls here during the 31-day period, while the grim reaper paid but 19 visits. Cupid, however, was not particularly active, only 12 nuptial knots being tied, 5 more than recorded in the preceding month of July. In the previous month 12 deaths and 37 births were registered.

Taxes Coming In. The total amount of taxes, including water rates and tapping charges, paid into the office of City Tax Collector William Nickell during the month of August, just closed, exceeded by $7,241.86 the gross revenue for the corresponding month of 1920, figures last reported today show.

The water rates and tapping charges turned into the city exchequer last month were distributed as follows: 1921, rates $4,922.79, tapping charges $382.50; 1920, rates $640.72, tapping charges $67.10; 1919, rates $24; 1918, rates $5.63—making a total of $5,642.74.

ILLEGAL SEARCH COST GOVT. $500

TORONTO, Sept. 1.—The Ontario Government paid the check for $500, the judgment awarded O. E. Fleming, K.C., of Windsor, by the court for the illegal search of his pleasure yacht near Detroit by Rev. J. O. L. Spracklin, at that time a license officer. Mr. Fleming, who was asked where the money came from, refused to say, but contented himself with: "I received the money and the incident is closed."

Hon. W. E. Roney, attorney-general of the province, under whom the O.T.A. is being enforced, was questioned today. "The check went through about two weeks ago," he said. "Perhaps it was not a legal liability for the Ontario Government, but the man was in our employ and it was his mistake."

DOHERTY ANALYZES PUBLIC LEGISLATION

Constructive Suggestions Are Given by St. Thomas
City Solicitor.

TORONTO, Sept. 1.—Various advanced suggestions as to necessary perfection of municipal laws in justice to the municipalities were offered by City Solicitor W. B. Doherty of St. Thomas at this morning's session of the Ontario Municipalities Association in the 23rd annual convention. Mr. Doherty preliminarily gave a comprehensive analytical resume of public and private municipal legislation of this year, concluding with comment and constructive suggestions. He directed attention to the tendency in late years to passage of legislation imposing additional burdens on municipal taxpayers, especially in cities and towns. "This morning the convention discussed Ontario highway laws, with special reference to suburban areas, then divided into sections for more rapid clearance of the agenda. The urban section dealt exhaustively with the two-plateau fire department system, objection being virtually unanimous not to the two-plateau system so much as to compulsory allowance of one day in seven to firemen. The section continued in discussion of the disposition of police court fees and the obligation upon cities to pay in part certain shares of the school costs. Simultaneously the rural section is debating the dog tax law and the creation of municipal officers as issuers of marriage licenses.

Scott Doubtful U. F. O. Promises

Believes That Oxford Farmers Want a Rural Candidate.

[Special to The Advertiser.] WOODSTOCK, Sept. 1.—John Scott, defeated Labor candidate at the last provincial election, has not much faith in the promise of North Oxford U. F. O. that delegates at the coming U. F. O. convention will be instructed from the platform to support the Labor nominee. Mr. Scott said today that despite the fact that Premier Drury had agreed with him that it would be advisable to put a Labor man in the field, he did not think the Farmers of the committee would accept this viewpoint. "The Farmers are determined to have a Farmer in the field," he said, "and although the U. F. O. executive agreed to instruct their delegates to support Labor, I have not much faith that the Labor man will get the support of the Farmer candidate." It is now certain that the Conservatives will hold a convention, when the question of a candidate will be fully discussed.

FENHALE—DENNIS.

ST. THOMAS, Sept. 1.—The marriage of Miss Lulu May Dennis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Dennis, Edgware road, Yarmouth, and Roscoe Penhale, Woodworth avenue, St. Thomas, took place yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. George Swartz, formerly of Grace Methodist Church, officiating. Mrs. George Swartz was matron of honor. Gordon Penhale was best man, and Miss Emily Close, St. Thomas, was the prettiest flower girl.

HEAVY LOSS WHEN SAWMILL BURNED

MIDLAND, Sept. 1.—The sawmill of Mason & Company, situated at the der Bay was destroyed by fire last night, with over six million feet of hardwood lumber, fifteen hundred cords of hardwood slabs, thousands of hardwood broom handles and a large barge loaded with lumber. Several buildings including the men's boarding-house, house, garage and blacksmith shop, went up in flames. Besides Mason Company, who own the bulk of the stocks, others interested are the B. Rock Lumber Company of Buffalo, Huntington & Fiske of Buffalo, Maschew of Midland, and Walter N. of Detroit. Seventy men were employed in the mill, which will probably be built.

A New Unified Express Service the Canadian National Express Co

TO extend their service and increase their usefulness, on September 1st 1921, under the name of Canadian National Express Company, a consolidation of the business and operations from 3465 offices of the long-established and well-known Canadian Express Company and the Canadian National Express Company became effective.

The facilities of each of the two Companies are thus, in effect, doubled. The direct and tangible advantages to the public of this unified service will become increasingly apparent in each department.

More Cars of Various Types are now available. The cars of the railways are now being used interchangeably throughout the National System of Railways, to speed up the service.

A Consolidated Vehicle Service in the cities and larger towns ensures prompt response to public calls. Fleets of speedy motor trucks and express wagons will speed up the service.

Consolidation of Local Offices in various cities under a single head will centralize control of operations, eliminate duplication, and speed up the service.

Exclusive Fast Express Trains are operated between some of the large centres. Their arrival and departure is timed to allow receiving packages as late in the day as possible for delivery to consignees early the following morning, speeding up the service.

Articles of Value. The shipment of these, for which the express service is especially adapted, will benefit by the co-ordinated facilities. A trusty messenger in each car and a reliable driver on each wagon guard every package. The services of these men are so important that each of them is bonded to ensure security.

This Service is Yours

The Government Railways of Canada are back of the Company's every receipt for goods. Each receipt is an insurance policy. Good for a valuation up to $50.00 without extra charge, it can be increased at slight additional cost. As a vital factor in business and social life, the Company welcomes suggestions from the enlightened public it serves.

William Duffin Lost All Season's Crops in Destructive Blaze.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
THORNDALE, Sept. 1.—During the heavy thunderstorm this afternoon the fine barns of William Duffin, con. 3, West Nissouri, were struck by lightning and completely destroyed, with all the season's crops. The flames also destroyed a drivehouse and granary adjoining. By hard work the hogs and hens were saved. The loss, which will run into several thousands of dollars, is only partially covered by insurance. The continuation school opened this morning with Miss Cohoon of Alvinston as principal and Miss Copeland as assistant. There were over 50 pupils present, and when all have registered it is expected there will be an attendance of over 70.

THORNDALE public school will open on Thursday, Sept. 2. The Women's Institute met this afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. Brown. There was a good attendance, and splendid reports were given of the work accomplished in connection with the improvement of the cemetery.

LONDONER HELD IN CONNECTION WITH HOLD-UP

Charles Anderson Alleged To Be Implicated in Port Burwell Affair.

ST. THOMAS, Sept. 1.—Charles Anderson, 60 Palace street, London, was arrested yesterday afternoon at that city on a warrant charging him with being implicated in the recent hold-up at Port Burwell. Mr. Anderson was taken to Port Burwell last evening and was arraigned today before Police Magistrate Backus and later was allowed out on bail. Mr. Anderson is said to be an engineer on the C. P. R. London.
Anderson's apprehension was brought about in a peculiar manner. The bandits visited the home of Mrs. Cameron in Port Burwell and were interrupted by C. H. Travis of that village. They left the Cameron home suddenly and Travis gave chase. At the sheds of the Methodist Church the robbers turned on him and fired several shots, forcing him to give up the chase. The robbers escaped in a high-powered automobile. Travis, in company with Detective Chute, later searched the path taken by a gold watch, which had evidently been dropped by one of them. From marks in the watch, Detective Chute traced its ownership to a London jeweler, who identified it as a watch which had been exchanged for a repair watch some time previously. He named Anderson as the man who had brought in the watch for repair and had been given the other watch to carry. Detective Chute visited London Wednesday morning for the purpose of apprehending Anderson and questioning him about the robbery, but did not find him. Hearing that he was wanted by the police, Anderson is reported to have visited the London News office, declaring that he was innocent of the burglary.

AT THE GRAND.
"The Miracle of Manhattan" is the feature picture now appearing at the Grand Theatre and being shown three times today and again on Saturday. Elaine Hammerstein takes the leading role and is supported by an all-star cast.

The story deals with a young society girl, Evelyn Whitney, who has become engaged to a man of prominence, although he is nearly twice her age and has a rather unenviable reputation. One night she is aroused by a noise in the kitchen and going downstairs discovers a girl-tramp eating ravenously and with a large collection of the household silver at her side. In reply to Evelyn's questions the girl tells her that she has been in the country but two months and unable to find any employment, and in desperate circumstances she had entered the room in search of money and food. Evelyn does not believe her story and suggests that they change places to try out her side of life.
That evening Evelyn starts out on her enterprise, and following this life for about two weeks, concludes that the other girl was right and decides to give it up after one more trial. A few hours later, chance directs her to an underworld resort, where she obtains a position as a cabaret singer. Here she meets Larry Marshall, erstwhile leader of a notorious gang, but now trying to go straight. Little other recommendation is needed for the picture than the fact that Bryant Washburn, one of the most popular comedians of the screen, appears in the leading role. The play is the screen version of the uproarious stage farce of the same name.
In the production Mr. Washburn appears as George Howell, a young attorney who gets into a maze of difficulties when he leaves his bride to go to another city on a business trip. The plot, based on the world-old story of suspicions and circumstantial evidence, twists and turns so that the laugh-producing situations are innumerable, as well as irresistible. In addition to the young and funny policeman, mixed in generous quantities, a regular vamp, another man's love letters and some stolen jewelry are the main ingredients of the comedy.
Mr. Washburn's impersonation is a finely-drawn characterization that brings a continual stream of laughter. Opposite him Louis Wilson appears to good advantage. There are other well-known players.
The boy, Edgar, is presented again in another of Booth Tarkington's wholesome and refreshing comedy stories of boy life. The picture is called "Edgar's Feast Day." There is also an episode of the "Hope Diamond Mystery," a film of adventure and other screen features.

AT LOEW'S THEATRE.
Jack London pictures have always made a hit with London movie fans, and "The Little Fool," adapted from "The Little Lady of the Big House," by the famous author, which is showing at Loew's Theatre the latter half of this week, is no exception.
The story is woven around a young wife named Paula, whose husband, Dick Forrest, lives in a mansion known as "The Big House." She attracts the attention of all male visitors to the house because of her patronizing air and her daredevil stunts, such as diving off a cliff on horseback into a pool. Dick regards her actions as harmless, for they have been married. However, his friend, Evan Graham, falls deeply in love with her, tells her husband about it, and offers to leave. The husband becomes enraged because of his wife's apparent dislike for his carress. He tells her to leave with his friend. At this juncture the story comes to a startling climax.
The Criterion Four, a quartet of male singers, pleased with many popular and original songs. Several encores greeted their work.

LONDON NURSE TO BE LADY SUPERINTENDENT OF TORONTO HOSPITAL

Miss D. Hutchinson and Miss J. Mortimore of Victoria Staff Resign.
At the regular meeting of the hospital trust, held at Victoria Hospital on Thursday afternoon, the resignations of Miss J. Mortimore, assistant superintendent of the hospital, and Miss D. Hutchinson, head nurse of the operating room, were accepted with regret. Miss Hutchinson has accepted the position of head nurse of the Victoria Hospital, Toronto. Her resignation is effective September 10, while that of Miss Mortimore is effective at once. Appointments to fill the vacancies caused by these resignations were referred to the house committee, composed of W. M. Garthshore and James Gray, with power. Tenders for meat supplies for the hospital for the ensuing year were opened, and Anderson & Co. were awarded the contract, their being the lowest bid.
Superintendent T. Heard's report for July was read, showing the number of patients admitted 363, number of patients discharged 424, births 30, Deaths 15, treatments at free dispensary 553, cash receipts $15,067.74. Accounts were passed at the meeting totalling $25,640.
All the members of the trust were present, namely, Lieut.-Col. W. M. Garthshore (chairman), James Gray, J. W. Laidlaw, Mayor E. J. Little and Supt. T. H. Heard.

FATALLY HURT WHEN CREEPING UNDER TRAIN

Harry Aldort Mangled At Waterloo Crossing in Kitchener.
KITCHENER, Sept. 1.—The unprotected Grand Trunk crossing at Waterloo street, where there are eight lines of railway tracks, was the scene of a fatal accident today, the victim being Henry Aldort of 170 South Cedar street, a local junk dealer. According to eyewitnesses, he attempted to cross under the Galt-Elmira train, and when it started to move, he became confused. The body was horribly mutilated, one leg being cut off almost entirely. Death was instantaneous. An inquest will be held on Friday. Aldort was 45 years of age and leaves a wife and seven children.

Laying Corner-Stone.
The corner-stone of the Y. M. C. A. building at the corner of Wellington and Weber streets will be laid Saturday afternoon by Mayor Grebe.
The public schools opened Thursday with an attendance of between 80 and 90 per cent. That the full 100 per cent was not reached was due to the fact that many of the pupils were under the impression that the schools did not open until Tuesday, September 6.
Will End Tonight.
The Century Convention and re-opening of the new head office of the Mutual Life of Canada, which has been in progress since Wednesday, will come to a close Friday evening. Agents of the company from coast to coast have been in attendance, and the convention was the best ever held in the annals of the institution. Wednesday a banquet was held in the new assembly hall, which proved a most delightful affair. Thursday afternoon a big family picnic was held in the Waterloo Park, winding up with a fine band concert by the band of the Waterloo Musical Society and a dance in the pavilion.
Clark Van Every of Waterloo died at his home today, aged 73 years. He had resided in Waterloo for over a quarter of a century. His widow, two sons and three daughters survive.
The Y. P. A. convention, which has been in progress in the Evangelical Church, Waterloo, the past two days, came to a close tonight. Many delegates were present from all parts of the province, and it was one of the most successful yet held.

GALT COUPLE ARE GOING TO SIMCOE
Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Preston Honored by Members of Church.
GALT, Sept. 1.—Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Preston, prominent workers in the Alliance Street Methodist Church, leave on Friday to make their home in Simcoe. Mr. Preston was recording steward of the quarterly of that body and the members of that body and of the board of trustees, knowing his fondness for fishing, presented him with a fisherman's outfit. Mrs. Preston was presented with a club bag by some of the ladies of the church, while her nieces gave her a quarter-cut oak chair.
Work on the new public utilities building is being rushed. Today the steel workers completed their job. The collections of customs and excise duties at the local port in August amounted to $28,68.55.
The city today has 265 men employed on public works, while a year ago when men were badly wanted the most they could get was 22.
During August building permits for a value of $25,712 were issued from the office of City Engineer D. T. Black. Included in the permits were five for new dwellings.
As guests of His Worship Mayor S. E. Charlton, the members of the municipal relief committee had a most enjoyable outing to Grimsby Beach. The police have traced the responsibility for some recent house thefts to a quartet of boys, under 16 years, who were brought up in the juvenile court.

COMPLETE REPAIRS BEFORE FAIR WEEK

Pavement at Main Corner Now Torn Up For Many Feet.
Preparation for the Western Fair are well underway, the pavement on Richmond street, immediately south of the intersection of Dundas street, between and in the vicinity of the street car tracks has been torn up for many feet, making one-half of the road almost impassable.
It is a time-honored custom in this city that some portion of the roadway in the business section of Dundas, Richmond or King streets should be torn up during the Western Fair week. Almost without exception the traffic is disrupted each year in this way and an unsightly blotch of destruction impressed upon the minds of all visitors.
Although at times the city engineering department has done its share to disrupt things, it is not the only or most frequent offender. The City Gas Company and the London street railway have also been guilty of offences of this nature from time to time. This year the destruction of the roadbed on Richmond street is being wrought by the street railway company.
However, things may be not as bad as they seem. For Manager C. B. King of the London street railway assured The Advertiser yesterday that the company had no evil designs against Fair week. The work at the intersection, he said, will be completed by the end of this week or long before the opening of the Fair, and the brick pavement replaced smoother and better than before.

REWARD NOT RENEWED.
