THE LAST THREE DAYS in March are known in parts of England and Scotland, as "the Borrowed Days," or "Borrowed Days." The story is that March borrowed them from April in order to kill some "hogs," i.e., sheep in their second year. It was considered so certain that these days would bring foul weather, that when one of them was fair, the day was considered a miracle. One day Edinburgh, a preacher in the town gave thanks for it as a miracle. Of course, since the reformation of the calendar, the three days to which the name used to apply fell on the 9th, 10th and 11th, of April; but a few rough days at the end of March often give a colour to the superstition.

ACROSS THE CONTINENT.
An interesting letter from a former resident of Goderich.
The following is contained in a letter to Mr. Thos. Kydd, from Mr. Richard T. Robinson, a gentleman who left Goderich a short time ago, to seek a fortune in the West:
VANCOUVER, B. C., April 6th, 1889.

According to promise, I now send you my impression of this country. When I left Goderich, there was plenty of snow, but, as soon as the main line of the C. P. R. was reached, the snow was almost gone, and this continued until Winnipeg was reached. The scenery along the north shore of Lake Superior is very grand, but the effect is in a great measure spoiled by the blackened and charred remains of the forest, which for miles, on either side of the line, has been swept by fire. There was an accident a few days before I went on the C. P. R., close to Middleton, on the north shore, several cars loaded with horses and sheep having gone through a trestle bridge. I saw them myself lying in a confused heap at the bottom of the ravine as the train passed over. I stayed one day at Winnipeg. It is a very muddy place and everything looked dirty. I then went on to Portage la Prairie. Another day was spent there looking through the country. The prairie here is as level as a lawn; not a tree fit for anything except a few along the banks of the river, at some distance from the town. The next place I visited was Birtle, on the M. & N. W. Railway. This would be a splendid place to settle in if it were not for the summer prairie fires. I left Birtle on the 16th and returned to Portage la Prairie to connect with the Pacific Express. Owing to a very heavy passenger traffic the train was fourteen hours late, and continued behind time all the way. In fact it was delayed at Winnipeg, Reg and came on in two sections.

We had to wait at Brandon three hours to allow the second part to come up, when it was joined to the first, and then proceeded on our journey with two engines. I had been told that the train had been passing through a settled country, with plenty of farmhouses visible. Proceeding west we soon left the settlers behind and for many miles there is scarcely a house to be seen, although I believe farther east to the town that part of block F owned by him, opposite the jail, on condition of the corporations planting trees on it and making it a place of recreation.

MOVED BY DEPUTY REEVE SMITH, seconded by Dunlop, that the offer of the Hon. A. M. Ross be accepted, and the chairman of the public works committee arrange for the survey of said lot, and that transfer be made at the expense of the corporation. Carried.

REVEE W. B. HALL.

WORD WAS RECEIVED last week by Mr. McBride from Dakota of the unfortunate case that has happened to Mr. C. W. Olds, a gentleman well known throughout this section. Mr. Olds was engaged in farming near Loda, Macpherson Co., Dakota, and one evening recently his house was burned to the ground, and he himself was burned to death. He was cremated and buried on Sunday morning, March 31st. She was a good woman in every sense of the word, and her death is an irreparable loss to her sorrowing husband and the large family of young children so early deprived of a mother's tender care and wise counsel. Her remains were taken back to Aspin for interment, the funeral taking place on the following Thursday.

THE WARREN (ILLINOIS) SENTINEL has the following concerning a young man who formerly lived in Belgrave, Haron county, Ont.: Thursday afternoon, March 7, all Warren was thrown into a reign of excitement, caused by the reports that flew from one to another that Dr. Will Walton, our veterinary surgeon, had been thrown from his buggy near the residence of J. Cheynev and killed. The unfortunate young man was in his 20th year, and was among a party of young men, when, among a party of Scotch, English and Irish countrymen, he formed that reverence for the Sabbath and sacred things that never forsok him. In 1874 his parents came to Warren, where he ever since resided with them, except while attending the Ontario Veterinary College at Toronto, from which he graduated in 1877. In the spring of 1888 he was appointed assistant State veterinarian in Illinois, and held that appointment at the time of his death.

What Selected Railway Released—Inter-ster Insurance Statistics.

OTTAWA, April 14.—Judge Downes of the Calais, Me., and Mr. John D. Chittenden of St. Stephen, N. B., waited on the Minister of Customs on Saturday in relation to the seizure by Customs officers a few months ago of 44 miles of the Calais and Penobscot Railway, a road running along the international boundary. The seizure was made on the ground that material used in the re-laying of the road had been unlawfully imported without entry at the Customs. It is reported that the satisfaction of the minister that the duty on all the material so imported for the past ten years would not exceed $50, and that with respect to this the strict letter of the law had unwittingly been departed from owing to the peculiar situation of the road. The minister coming to the conclusion that a case of this nature was a departure from the strict letter of the law was not inexcusable, decided to have the seized strip of road released and the delegation left well satisfied with the result of their interview.

Revenue over Expenditure—$1,766,464.

Revenue over expenditure, $1,766,464. Compared with March, 1888, the revenue shows an increase of $500,000, principally in customs and excise receipts, and the expenditure shows a decrease of $407,000.

For the completed nine months of the present fiscal year the revenue has been $2,250,000, 940,616 and the expenditure $2,729,291, leaving considerably over $4,000,000 surplus for the nine months. A comparison with the same period of the previous year shows an increase of nearly $2,500,000 in revenue.

TORONTO TOPICS.

An Interesting Budget of News and Gossip From the Queen City of the West.

TORONTO, April 17.—The event of the week has been the hearing of the libel suit brought by Contractor Farquhar against John Ross Robertson, the proprietor of the Evening Telegram. Robertson both by letter and in his paper disparaged Farquhar's claims to be a first-class cedar block and asphalt roadway builder.

Farquhar brought the suit for $250,000. The case lasted ten days and has awakened great interest throughout the city. The jury retired Saturday morning, returning after nearly 60 hours of deliberation, and delivered their verdict for the defendant, with the recommendation that both parties to the suit should pay their own costs.

Lionel York, perhaps the largest contractor in Toronto, died suddenly at his home on Saturday night of heart disease. His death was a surprise both to his family and his physicians. Mr. York was the contractor for the new Parliament buildings which are now in process of erection on the Queen's Park. The amount of the contracts totals over $800,000.

Terence W. Powderly, of Scranton, Pa., Master Workman of the Knights of Labor, was in the city Saturday and spoke before a large and exceedingly enthusiastic audience in the evening. His address was on the principles of the Knights of Labor and crystallized its objects by the statement: "I believe that the intelligence of mankind should be put forth to the end of becoming the slave of man, instead of enslaving the men."

A Chip of the Old Block.

It is often said that Hon. C. H. Tupper, the Minister of Marine and Fisheries, is a veritable chip of the old block. To one who studies his manner and methods in the House, the resemblance between him and his father became clearer with every day.

Like Sir Charles, he is not put out of countenance by anything, but outwardly all the dangers that confront him. He is a past-master in the art of audacious "bluffing," and it is his plausible readiness of speech, always standing him in good stead, which is the characteristic of his father.

In disposing of troublesome enquiries the sire's voice is fully the appanage of the son. He is diffident, but when apparently candid to a high degree; but when everything is said, there is very little satisfaction in it all for the question.

Charley Tupper, as his friends like to call him, is in his thirty-fourth year, and looks younger. His friends regret that Sir Charles' baronetcy, which is hereditary, will go to Stewart Tupper, for "Charley" is only the second son.

But there can be little doubt that the honors his own ability and luck will win for him without less than his father's.

His face is stamped with alertness, self-reliance and vigor; his gaze is bright and direct, and his voice is one that instantly takes the attention of his hearers.

THE WEEK AT OTTAWA.

OTTAWA, April 16.—On Wednesday last Sir Richard Cartwright criticized the Government on the $20,000,000 loan of last year.

He offered a long resolution reflecting on the Government which was lost by a vote of 74 to 117.

Sir Richard's criticism was that the loan had been secured under such conditions that instead of having 50 years to run it was to be repaid, in annual instalments, in 5 years.

The House will adjourn for Good Friday, but will sit Saturday and on Easter Monday.

The annual report of the Fisheries Department for 1888 has been presented. This shows the total yield of the fisheries during the year to have been $17,500,000 the figures by provinces being:

Children's Friendships.

Children are apt to seek the society of other children at about the sixth year of their age. This should be a watchful period for the parents, as friendships contracted at this time have a very decided influence on the mind, morals and character of their children. Nearly every child is influenced for good or evil through early associations. If allowed to be constantly with a nurse, their language and manners will in nearly every case be identical with those of the nurse. A mother should spend the greater portion of every day in the society of her children. If to rid herself of their noise she permits them to seek companionship outside, she has no one to blame but herself if their manners and morals are corrupted. All children require the companionship of those of their own age, but it is very essential that the parents should choose their companions.

More Trouble May be Expected.

If you do not heed the warnings of nature and at once pay attention to the maintenance of your health. How often we see a person put off from day to day the purchase of a medicine which if procured at the outset of a disease would have remedied it almost immediately. Now if Johnston's Tonic Liver Pills had been taken when the first uneasiness made its appearance the illness would have been "nipped in the bud." Johnston's Tonic Bitters and Liver Pills are decidedly the best medicine on the market for general tonic and invigorating properties. Pills 25c per bottle. Bitters 50c cents and $1 per bottle, sold by Goode the Druggist, Albion block, sole agent.

Manual Training is One of the few good things that are good for everybody.

Manual training is one of the few good things that are good for everybody. It is good for the rich boy, to teach him respect for the dignity of beautiful work. Good for the poor boy, to increase his facility for handling tools, if tools be the things he must handle for a living afterwards. It is good for the bookish boy, to draw him away from books. But, most of all, it is good for the non-bookish boy, in showing him that there is something he can do well. The boy utterly unable, even if he were studious, to keep up in school, if he were to be taught manual training, would be a different boy.

THE HOME CIRCLE.

Failures as Wives. It is my constantly increasing conviction that, after the marriage vows are taken two-thirds of the power necessary to the creation of an enduringly happy home lies with the wife. It therefore follows that two-thirds of the fault in here where the home becomes a failure, here where the home becomes a failure, here where the home becomes a failure...

THE CAUSES OF FAILURE. I would classify the failures of wives in their duty as follows: First. Those who lack liberality of mind. Second. Those who complain and find fault. Third. Those who are selfishly wasteful and extravagant. Fourth. Those who are petty tyrants and naggers. Fifth. Those who lack tact.

Now, if a wife has love, patience, good temper, beauty and accomplishments, yet any one of these five faults above mentioned may serve to ruin her home and make her husband wish he were single again. A wife's love should be as liberal as the love of God. She should study the daily habits of her lover before she marries him, and then she should allow his life to run as nearly as it is possible in those old channels of pleasure without trespassing upon the honor or purity of the new relation.

I know a woman who always sits up until her husband's return at night when he goes to the club. He was fond of a skilful game of cards, and he has never been known to return home intoxicated. There is nothing for her to fear or condemn in his occasional visits to the club, but she destroys all his pleasures by "waiting up" for him, and if he stays late he finds her with a silent, but accusing, face at the door, and in the morning she complains of a headache and looks at him with the eyes of a martyr. She has destroyed his enjoyment in his old pleasure and given him no attractive view of herself at home to lead him to abandon it.

It is foolish to expect a husband, who has entire access to his wife's society, to make the same sacrifices to be with her for an evening that the lover makes, who is only admitted to the loved one's presence for an hour. It is no indication of any lessening of love if he sometimes goes out and leaves her at home. A jewel may be very precious to us, even if we do not always wish to wear it in sight and gaze upon its brilliancy.

Some women seem to marry with the idea that "wife" means "interferer." They set themselves to work at once to revolutionize the man's whole life, and demand attention which, if they exercised a little gentle patience, would be gladly given.

The woman who saves up her household worries and her bodily pains and aches to entertain a husband with on his return home, drives a sure nail in the coffin of conjugal happiness. If you are ill enough to need special consideration or attention, tell your husband, and he will bestow it almost invariably, for men are, as a rule, very tender-hearted and sympathetic toward a woman's suffering; but the complaints that are talked of every hour in the day cease to excite any sympathy, and only serve to weary and annoy the listener.

Life and Limb. Are often in jeopardy through various accidents on land and water. A prompt relief and sure cure for all painful wounds, bruises, burns, cuts, scalds, rheumatism, neuralgia, sore throat and croup is Hagyard's Yellow Oil, known as reliable over 30 years. Keep it in the house always.

To Worry nor often Worry. Not to worry. Worry never helped anyone along, and never made anyone happier. It does not drive away clouds, nor remove mountains, nor make the insight clearer, nor the heart lighter, nor the mind calmer. It destroys the temper, the appetite, the digestion and the general health. It gives the face an unhappy expression, affects the complexion and makes wrinkles. If worrying women could be thoroughly convinced of all this they would worry less.

A worrying woman is a burden to herself and an infliction to all those with whom she comes in contact. It may not be an easy thing to cultivate a calm and cheerful way of looking at things, but it can be done. A habit once formed is one of the most difficult things to get rid of. A pernicious habit is a tyrant, but a habit that benefits one's self and helps one's neighbor is a delightful commander to serve. The probation is sometimes long and tedious and the discipline severe, but when one is fairly enlisted in the noble army of the knights of the cheerful habit the hardest part is over, and thereafter the line of march is comparatively easy. It is always the first steps that are difficult to take, in virtue as well as in vice.

A writer attributes the angularity of American woman to worry, and says that it increases with indulgence, like anger, or appetite, or love, or any other human impulse. It opens the mind and unites it for any kind of work, and surely the woman who worries, who frets continually about trifles, is to be avoided. The woman who jumps up in the midst of a conversation to remove a speck of dust from the piano, who relates the worries of her servants to her guests; the woman who frets because her child has a ruffled dress, or because some one brings a little mud in on the carpet, and about many other similar things that are of the least possible consequence, is wise as to the last degree. Life is too short to be spent in this way, and, generally speaking, we have serious troubles enough. To fly into a passion at some trifling occurrence that is not altogether pleasant, is senseless. Look at the other side of it, and perhaps it may be a ludicrous aside.

Said to be splendid. "I am pleased with Burdock Blood Bitters, because it cured my rheumatism completely. My son also, and many other people in this vicinity, have used it and say it is splendid." Mrs O. Perreault, Rat Portage, Ont.

English Gall. The following three advertisements recently appeared in an English paper: Wanted, an able-bodied man at country rectory, willing to make himself generally useful; must have thorough knowledge of chickens, pigs, and understand milking, must be able to drive horses and groom them, ring the church bells, dig graves, be cheerful mourner, and not object to carry a coffin; where parlor maid is kept. A Pious Young Man desires to be received into a respectable family, where the excellence of his example and superior morality might be considered as an equivalent for board and lodgings. Adoption. Youth, 19, highly respectable family, gentlemanly appearance, is willing to be adopted; reasons and particulars on application. When you think the world cannot get along without you, pull a hair from your head and see if it makes you bald-headed.

Odors of the Body. A certain odor is natural to the body, and it is not necessarily a disagreeable odor. Indeed, that of a clean body is positively pleasant. It is rarely agreeable later in life, because few persons have perfect health and the full, normal action of their eliminative organs. The lungs and the skin are the chief eliminators of what offends the sense of smell. Every one is familiar with the disagreeable odor in the breath of persons who have been eating onions. Other kinds of food and alcoholic drinks also produce an offensive odor, and so do various digestive derangements or effete matter circulating in the blood, acid being eliminated by the lungs. The emanations from the skin often receive a disagreeable odor in consequence of the skin being required to do work that has been impermissibly done by overburdened or diseased kidneys, or by constipated bowels. In the case of overburdened kidneys the help given by the skin serves to prevent serious harm. In the case of diseased kidneys, it greatly aids in prolonging life.

What is the origin of the disagreeable odor from the skin may be best understood by marking the points of the body—the armpits, for instance—where the sweat glands are most numerous. It will be seen that, in all cases of this kind, the removal of that odor must come from improving the general health, as well as from frequent bathing.

But besides these causes of disagreeable odor, there is another still more marked—the derangement of the functions of the skin itself. It is characterized by an excess of perspiration which, as well as from offensive acid smell. It is most frequent in the feet, hands and armpits. When the feet are affected, the soles are generally burning hot, red and exceedingly tender. If there is any nervous debility in the case—and this is often the case—the diet should be nourishing and tonic, and the tonic remedies should be administered. Sir Erasmus Wilson, the highest authority on skin diseases, says that the affected parts should be washed with janiper—tar-soap, and sponged from time to time with a lotion consisting of one part of liquor ammonia to three of water.

When the feet are affected, let the patient have two pairs of stockings, and interchange them daily, hanging the pair not in use out to dry, preferably in the sun. This will answer every purpose. In the case of women "leaves protractors" should be used.—[Youth's Companion.]

In Brief, and to the Point. Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver is misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature. The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existence. It is easily put out of order. Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics. But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

Remember!—No happiness without health. Green's August Flower brings health and happiness at a dyspeptic. Ask your druggist for a bottle. Seventy-five cents. eowly

Dr Arnold, of Rugby, the great ardent lover of boys, used to say, "Command me to boys who love God and hate the devil." The devil is the boy's worst enemy. He keeps a sharp look-out for him to try to win them, and then, when he gets into trouble, he always sneaks away and leaves them! Not a bit of help or comfort does he give them. "What did you do it for?" he whimpers, "You ought to have known better!" Now, the boy who has found out who and what the devil is ought to hate him. It's his duty. He can afford to hate his enemy of all that is good and true with his whole heart. Hate the devil, and fight him, boys; but be sure and use the Lord's weapons.

The British Weekly has published a valuable series of articles on "Tempted London." They are ably written, calm and dispassionate in tone, and supply ample room for thought as to the manner in which the young and friendless in the great metropolis might be preserved from the dangers to which they are so constantly exposed. The great increase in gambling, and the recent rapid multiplication of places where chances are played, show that the evil is becoming more dangerous than ever. Correspondents are naturally asking whether Church bazaars, etc., have not some relation to this insidious and injurious habit. A church lottery or raffle is kin to the games played in workmen's clubs, and other resorts where the gambling habit finds free scope. The difference is only in the place and its associations, and the class of people who frequent them. It is high time for the Christian church to abstain from every form of evil. In continuing questionable methods of raising money for religious purposes, the church rests under a terrible responsibility.

HURON SIGNAL, FRIDAY, APRIL 19, 1889.

MORRISON, the Mezanic outlaw, continues to roam at his own sweet will up to the time of writing.

On Tuesday evening of last week the members of the Nile Lodge, No 103, of the I. O. G. T., engaged in a very interesting spelling match.

Heigh ho! you see how Leoburn takes the cake in prices; but Mr James Lunk later sold a heifer to W. Andrews for $55 which will make some of the sweetest roasts that a Goderich man has eaten for his Easter dinner for ages.

THE DEACON'S WEEK

BY ROSE TERRY COOKE.

The communion service of January was just over in the church at Sugar Hill; and people were waiting for Mr Pankes to give out the hymn; but he did not give it out; he had his book down on the table and looked about on his church.

He was a man of simplicity and sincerity, fully in interest to do his Lord's work, and to do it with all his might; but he did sometimes feel discouraged. His congregation was a small one; his services and ministrations for Sugar Hill were cut in two by Sugar Brook—a braiding, noisy stream that turned the wheel of many a mill and manufactory; yet on the hills around it there was still a scattered population, eating their bread in the full perception of the primeval curse. So he had to contend with the keen brain and skeptical comment of the men who piqued themselves on power to hammer theological problems as well as hot iron, with the jealousy and repulsion and bitter feeling that bred the communistic hordes abroad and at home; while perhaps he had a still fiercer task to speak the sluggish souls of those who used their days to struggle with barren hill-side and rocky pasture for mere food and clothing, and their nights to sleep the dull sleep of physical fatigue and mental vacuity.

It seemed sometimes to Mr Pankes that nothing but the trumpet of Gabriel could arouse his people from their sins and make them believe in the Lord and follow his footsteps. Today—a long time before today—he had mused and prayed till an idea took shape in his thought, and he had been to put it in practice; yet he felt peculiarly responsible and solemnized as he looked about him and forebode the success of his experiment. Then there flashed across him, as the words of Scripture will come back to the individual Bible reader, the noble utterance of Gabriel concerning Peter and his brethren when they stood before the council: "If this counsel or this work be of men, it will come to naught; but if it be of God you can overthrow it." So with a sense of strength the minister spoke.

"My dear friends," he said, "you all know, though I did not give any notice to that effect, that this week is the Week of Prayer. I have a mind to ask you to make it for this once a week of practice instead. I think we may discover some things, some of the things of God, in this manner, that a succession of prayer meetings would not perhaps do so thoroughly as to us. Now, when I say this, I don't mean to have you go home and vaguely endeavor to walk straight in the old way; I want you to take 'tonics,' as they are called, for the prayer meetings. For instance, Monday is prayer for the temperance work. Try all that day to be temperate in your life, in act, in indulgence of any kind that is hurtful to you. The next day is for Sunday schools; go and visit your scholars, such of you as are teachers, and try to feel that they have living souls. Save, Wednesday is a day for fellowship meeting; we are cordially invited to attend a union meeting of this sort at Bantam. Few of us can go twenty-five miles to be with our brethren there; let us spend that day in cultivating our brethren here; let us go and see those who have been cold to us for some reason, heal up our breaches of friendship, confess our shortcomings one to another, and act as if, in our Master's words, 'all ye are brethren.'"

"Thursday is the day to pray for the family relation; let us each try to be to our families that day in our measure what the Lord is to his family, the church remembering the words, 'Fathers, provoke not your children to anger; husbands, love your wives, and be not bitter against them.' These are texts rarely commented upon. I have noticed, in our conference meetings; we are more apt to speak of the obedience due from children, and the submission and meekness our wives owe us, forgetting that duties are always reciprocal.

"Friday, the church is to be prayed for. Let us then, each for himself, try to act that day just as we think Christ, our great Exemplar, would have acted in our places. Let us try to prove to ourselves and the world about us that we have not taken upon us His name lightly or in vain. Saturday is prayer-day for the heathen and foreign missions. Brothers, you know and I know that there are heathens at our doors here; let every one of you who will, take that day to preach the Gospel to some one who does not hear it anywhere else. Perhaps you will find work that you know not of lying in your midst. And let us all, on Saturday evening, meet here again, and choose some one brother to relate his experience of the week. You are willing to try this method please to rise."

Everybody rose, except old Amos Tucker, who never stirred, though his wife pulled at him and whispered to him imploringly. He only shook his grizzled head and sat immovable. "Let us sing the doxology," said Mr Pankes; and it was sung with full fervor. The new idea had roused the church fully; it was something fixed and positive to do; it was the lever-point Archimedes longed for, and each felt ready and striven to move a world. Saturday night the church assembled again. The cheerful eagerness was gone from their faces; they looked downcast, troubled and weary—as the pastor expected. When the box for ballots was passed about each took a bit of paper from the sheet placed in the hymn books for that purpose, and wrote on it a name. The pastor said, after he had counted them: "Deacon Emmons, the lot has fallen to you."

"I'm sorry for't," said the deacon, rising up and taking off his overcoat. "I ain't got the best of records, Mr Pankes, now I tell ya."

"That isn't what we want," said Mr Pankes. "We want to know the whole experience of some one among us, and we know you will not tell us, either more or less than what you did experience." Deacon Emmons was a short, thick set man with a shrewd, kindly face and gray hair, who kept the village store, and had a well earned reputation for honesty.

"Well, brethren," he said, "I don't know why I shouldn't tell it. I ain't pretty well ashamed of myself, no doubt, but I ought to be, and maybe I shall profit by what I've found out these six days back. I'll tell you just as it come Monday I looked about me to begin with. I am amazed in the doctor says it ain't good for me—the doctor says it ain't; but, dear me, it does set a man up good, cold mornings, to have a cup of hot, sweet, tasty drink, and I haven't had the grit to refuse. I knew it made me what folks call nervous, and I said cross, before night comes; and I knew it fetched on spells of low spirits, when our folks couldn't get a word out of me—not a good one, anyway; so I thought I'd try on that to begin with. I told you it come hard. I bawkered after that cup of coffee dreadful! Seemed as though I couldn't eat my breakfast with out it. I feel to pity a man that love liquor more'n I ever did in my life before; but I feel sure they can stop if they try, for I've stopped, and I'm a going to stay stopped."

"Well, I come to dinner, there was another fight. I do set by me the most of anything; I was tetch on you pie, as you may say. Our folks always had it three times a day, and the doctor, he's been talkin' and talkin' to me about eatin' pie. I have the dyspepsy like anything, and it makes me useless by spells, and controllable as a weathercock. An' Doctor Drake he says there won't nothin' help me but to diet. I was readin' the Bible that morning, while I sat waiting for breakfast, for 'twas Monday, and wife was kind of set back with washin' and all, and I come across that along there; I did it not to one of the least of these, ye did it not to me." The other man's old mother says to me before he comes in from the shed, says she, "He's been a sayin' that if folks practiced what they preached you'd ha' come round to look up afore now, but he reckon you'd kinder look down on milk hands. I'm awful glad you've come, Bretherin, so was I! I tell you that day's work done me good. I got a poor opinion of Josiah Emmons, now I tell ye; but I learned more about the Lord's wisdom than a month o' Sundays ever showed me."

A smile he could not repress passed over Mr Pankes' earnest face. The deacon had forgotten all external issues in coming so close to the heart of things; but the smile passed as he said: "Brother Emmons, do you remember what the Master said: 'If any man will be first he shall be last of all, and whether it be of God, or whether it be of myself?'" "Well, it's so," answered the deacon, "It's so right along. Why, I never thought so much of my Bible class, nor took such interest in 'em as I do today. I got some more real' now, too."

"Now, come fellowship day. I thought that would be all plain sailin'; seemed as though I'd got warmed up till I felt pleasant toward everybody; so I went around seein' folks that was neighbors and 'twas easy; but when I come home at noon spell Philiary says, says she, 'Square Tucker's black bull is into th' orchard a-tearin' round, and he's knocked two lengths o' fence down flat.' Well, the old Adam riz up then, you'd better b'lieve. That black bull has been a breakin' in my lots ever since we got in the aftermath, and it's Square Tucker's fence, and he won't make it bull-strong, as he'd oughter, and that orchard was a young one just come to bear, and all the new wood crisp as cracklin' with frost. You'd better b'lieve I didn't have much feller-feelin' with Amos Tucker. I jest put over to his house and spoke up pretty free to him, when he looked up and says, says he, 'Fellowship meetin' day, ain't it, deacon? I'd ruther he'd ha' slapped my face. I felt as though I should like to slip behind the door. I see pretty distinct what sort of life I'd been livin' all the year I'd been professor, when I couldn't hold on to my tongue and temper one day.'"

"Breth-er-en," interrupted a slow, harsh voice, somewhat broken with emotion, "I'll tell the rest on't. Josiah Emmons come round like a man an' a Christian right there. He asked me to forgive him, and not to think 'twas the fault of his religion, because 'twas him and nothin' else. I think more of him today than I ever did before. I was one that wouldn't say I'd practice with the rest of ye. I thought 'twas everlastin' nonsense. I'd ruther go to forty-nine prayer-meetin's than work at being good a week. I believe my hope has been one of them that perish; it hasn't worked, and I leave it behind to-day. I mean to begin honest, and it was seein' one honest Christian man fetched me round to it."

Amos Tucker sat down and buried his grizzled head in his rough hands.

"Bless the Lord," said the quavering tones of a still older man from a far corner of the house, and many a gleaming eye gave silent responses. "Go on, Brother Emmons," said the minister.

"Well, when next day come, I got up to make the fire, and my boy Jo had forgot the kindlin'. I'd opened my mouth to give him Jesse, when I came over me suddenly in the time of the day of prayer for the family relation. I just tetch in the kindlin' myself, and when the fire burnt up good I called wife."

"Dear me," says she, "I've got such a headache. I declare, she's turned over on't. I didn't mind that, for women are always havin' agones, and I was jest a going to say so, when I remembered the text about not bein' bitter against 'em, so I says, 'Philiary, you lay abed; I expect Emmy and me can get the kindlin' this mornin'." EMPRESS AUGUSTA OF AUSTRIA AF-FLICTED WITH INSANITY.

Sister William Exasperated by the Failure to Suppress Protestantism and Determined on a Rigorous Gag Law.

BERLIN, April 13.—The Court of Appeal's revocation of the police decree against the Volkzeitung and the failure of the prosecution of the Freiising-Zeitung exasperate the Emperor and confirm his determination to insist upon a bill to accoutre the rigors of the ordinary press law. An intimation has been made to the leaders of the National party through Count Herbert Bismarck that a press law compromise must be abandoned, the Government finding it necessary to press upon the Reichstag a measure to control criticism. This decision promises an upheaval of parties during the remainder of the session. The persecution of the press excites every populous centre in Germany, is strengthening the Progressives and Socialists, and has had important results on the country that the Emperor's future will justify the worst fears of his despotic tendencies.

Advice from Vienna state that the Empress of Austria has been attacked by the family malady—insanity. She suffers from long spells of melancholia and entertain delusions, accusing herself of the death of Crown Prince Rudolph. She is possessed with ideas of suicide, thinking to leave the Emperor free to re-marry. Sometimes she dandles a cushion or a pillow, thinking it a new-born heir to the throne. The Emperor is greatly affected. He suffers from insomnia and has no rest for work, taking only a languid interest in State affairs. It is reported that he has consulted with Count Kalnoky and Count von Taaffe upon the advisability of abdication in favor of his nephew Franz. It is also said he wrote to the Pope declaring that he longed for rest and wished to retire, and that the Pope's response urging upon him the necessity of submitting to the decree of God, combined with the protests of the Ministers, induced him in the meantime to remain upon the throne.

The Habilitates of Emil Trelitz, the grain dealer who failed recently, are 3,300,000 marks and 1,400,000 marks. The failure of Zelter & Co., grain dealers, has affected the Boerse owing to the firm's stock speculations. The firm's debts amount to 1,300,000 marks. The assets are meagre. The two failures involve several smaller firms.

Sydney O. Danes, the alleged spy, has been sentenced to 4 years imprisonment and his accomplice Hartung has been acquitted. The trial was secret.

The Hereditary Duke and Duchess of Oldenburg and Countess Hope have had a narrow escape from death recently while journeying from Bombay to Calcutta by steamer. They and many others were taken ill with symptoms of poisoning. Seven passengers died, while the four mentioned and the others recovered. It was found the meals had been cooked in uncleaned copper vessels.

DUBLIN, April 13.—During the evictions on the Ophir estate yesterday the agent and a number of emergency men scalded and otherwise seriously wounded.

They Should Pay Up.
DUBLIN, April 13.—Forty tenants on the Marquis of Lansdown's estate have received notices of eviction.

Boulanger's Trial.
PARIS, April 13.—M. Merlin has been elected president of the commission of the Senate which will conduct the trial of Boulanger.

A meeting of the members of the legislative party of the Right to-day adopted a resolution against the trial of Boulanger by the Senate. One of the main characters of the court as a parody on justice.

Funeral of M. Chevrolat.
PARIS, April 13.—The funeral of M. Chevrolat, the aged chemist, was held to-day with imposing ceremonies. All the city authorities and many persons of prominence were present.

A Billiard Arrest.
CONSTANTINOPLE, April 13.—The Billiard Meyer has been arrested here and sent to St. Petersburg. He had in his possession a revolver and a quantity of poison.

STILL IN DOUBT.
The Fate of the Passengers of the Danemark not yet known.

LONDON, April 13.—A despatch to Lloyd's from Copenhagen states that the abandoned steamer Danmark had on board 626 passengers, 54 officers and crew. Another despatch from Copenhagen, however, states that there were on board the steamer 368 passengers from Copenhagen, 131 from Christiania, 79 from Christiansand, 75 from Malmo and 14 from Goteborg. There were 26 cabin passengers on board, including five children. There is as yet no news of the Danmark's passengers.

Saved by Delay.
NEW YORK, April 13.—The steamer Island, which belongs to the same line as the abandoned Danmark, has arrived here, but brings no news of the latter vessel. On board of her were many strange passengers who intended to have sailed on the Danmark, but through delay they had to wait for the Island.

This Steamer is Safe.
GLOUCESTER, Mass., April 13.—Advice received here state that Captain Robinson of the fishing steamer Geo. H. Chance, reported wrecked off the coast of Oregon, with the crew missing, is safe at Oregon.

Twenty Lives were Lost.
SAN FRANCISCO, April 13.—Advice per steamship Alameda state that the schooner Northern Bell foundered on Feb. 28 off the Molokai Island, Banks Group. Four white men and sixteen natives were drowned.

REFUSED THE VERDICT.
The Calgary Murder Trial—A Winnipeg Boy Missing.

WINNIPEG, April 14.—In the Calgary murder case yesterday the jury found a verdict of not guilty. The court refused to accept the verdict and sent the jury back to reconsider. At noon they came into court and said they couldn't agree and were discharged, the prisoner being remanded to the next session. Great indignation at the verdict is expressed and an indignation meeting is talked of.

License Inspector English's 11-year-old boy has been missing since Wednesday and it is believed he has been taken by a stranger to Montana.

It turns out that Birsar Coledeugh of the asylum has been practically dismissed.

Large quantities of poultry are being smuggled into Manitoba from Dakota.

Seven Years for Knave.
BROOKVILLE, April 13.—Alex. J. Knave, music teacher, who on Wednesday pleaded guilty to forgery, was today sentenced by Justice Paterson to seven years in the penitentiary.

Paris Fashions.

Green continues to be the color of the year, but as autumn approaches it loses its brilliant tone, and the shades of myrtle, sea and sage have replaced the more brilliant hues. These will be used all this autumn and they withstand the effect of damp and climate better than most other colors.

Frenchwomen are still faithful to the polonaises and coats. Now that Paris is deserted as far as fashionable society is concerned, blue and red are much worn again, especially blue woolens trimmed with red silk; both tones will stand out well against a sea air—far better, by the by, than the huge steel buttons with which many of them are adorned, matching large steel buckles at the belt.

Such dresses have mostly full or puffed sleeves rather than tight coat form. Jacket leathers are rarely seen in the country—all useful hats are trimmed with straight wing feathers or flowers.

Hoods are a head-covering which, in our time, we elect to adopt almost entirely for ornament, not for use, though their serviceable capabilities are far greater than are realized in modern days.

Feleries with hoods lined with a bright color, which serves to redeem them from dowdiness, are made in winter with most of the autumn, seaside and country gowns, as they are slipped on in a minute; and the dress is equally complete without them.

Wafer-pets are likely to be the fashion of the future—the immediate future, I should say; and some of the new woolsens are made with skirts in which those of a distinctive color are graduated towards the top, the silk trimming used matching the tone of the spots.

The Incurable jackets, cut straight at the waist, having large buttons at the side, where they fly open, and with revers at the neck in some solid color, are much worn with full yokes and striped skirts; for example, a mauve and white striped cotton or wool skirt with a soft silk jacket.

Stripes are often so treated on one dress that they look like two stuffs; for example, many skirts are horizontally tucked (which reduces the stripes to a solid mass of color) and then overlaid with the fabric left in its original condition. Sleeves tucked at the shoulders and wrist leave the elbow piece of a different width of stripe.

Wide moure sashes are universally worn at the back, and threaten to be so considerably wider as to form a train piece in themselves.

Suede, chamois and the long gamut of neutral tones which go by so many names, are superseding gray for travelling and country wear; they keep in condition so much longer. Huge red cotton parasols are the fashion now at French watering places, and brightly colored umbrellas are especially worn when red stockings are worn with shoes; French women show a decided preference for shoes rather than boots.

Yokes, straight and pointed, are introduced into the bodies of any gowns, and second a wide collar or waistline. Foulard is not too cool for waiving yet, and is a fabric with so much to commend it that it is likely to find favor a year hence. White printed on a color is being superseded by colors printed on white; but they are not so generally serviceable. Foulard parasols are ingeniously painted; they recall some of the pretty figures on Dresden china, and so does a very popular style of dress, the bodice long, but filled in with a fichu of mousseline de soie. Jabots of wide hemmed and plaited laces make dowdy dresses fit for fetes, and with a few yards of muslin and soft silk those who have clever fingers contrive to make an endless variety with but few gowns.

For over five years we have used Hayward's Yellow Oil in our family for coughs and colds, burns and sore throat, and our experience is so satisfactory that we would recommend the medicine to "any person." Mrs. F. Sanderson, B.S.worth, Ont.

A Short Story.

Dr. Guthrie once told the following story: "One of our very little fellows but uncommonly smart, entered the lists and carried off a prize against the whole of England and Scotland by his answers to the question: 'Can you give the history of the apostle Paul in thirty words?' His answer was, 'Paul was burnt at Tyros and brought up at Jerusalem, he continued a persecutor until his conversion; after which he became a follower of Christ, for whose sake he died.'"

Not a Book & not

Mr. Goode, druggist, is not a book agent, but has the agency in Goderich for Johnston's Tonic Bitters, which he can heartily recommend for any complaint to which a tonic medicine is applicable. This valuable medicine has been with most astonishing good results in cases of general debility, weakness, irregularities peculiar to females, extreme paleness, impoverishment of the blood, stomach and liver troubles, loss of appetite, and for that general worn out feeling that nearly every one is troubled with at some part of the year. Don't forget the name Johnston's Tonic Bitters. 50c. and $1 per bottle at Goode's Drug Store, Albion block, Goderich, sole agent.

Pray don't let me disturb you.

said a six-foot Texan, as he dropped into a chair in the editorial rooms of the Daily Bulldozer, and coolly levelled an army revolver at the head of the editor. "I merely called to ask an explanation of the personal paragraph referring to Colonel Kilgore, in the last Bulldozer." "You are not disturbing me at all," replied the editor calmly as he removed an exchange on the table and disclosed a double-barrelled shotgun loaded with slugs pointed directly at the colonel's mauly bosom. "You see," continued the editor, playing a tattoo with his jewelled fingers upon the triggers, "we are so over-ran with obituaries that we have very little time to investigate—"

My wife suffered for five years with that distressing disease, catarrh. Her case was one of the worst known in these parts. She tried all of the catarrh remedies I ever saw advertised, but they were of no use. I finally procured a bottle of Nasal Balm. She has used only one half of it, and now feels like a new person. I feel it my duty to say that Nasal Balm cannot be TOO HIGHLY recommended for catarrh troubles, and am pleased to have all such sufferers know through its use that they will receive instant relief and CURE.

It is a light type of diphtheria in Brussels at present. Only a few cases, but people cannot be too guarded.

Mr D M Malloch, Public School Inspector, was in Seaford this week, and spent a couple of days in that school.

Mr Thos. Irwin, of H-ville, left on Tuesday last for Portage, in Prince Rupert, which he will gain his fortunes in future.

J. R. Gray, of Brussels, was granted leave of absence for a month by the Postmaster-General and has gone to Winnipeg.

John Asper, of Brussels, has purchased what was known as the Bennett property, from the Dion. The price paid is said to have been $1000.

Don Owen, of Brussels, arrived home last Friday from his visit to Manitowish. He was so pleased with what he saw and heard on his trip very much.

Mr S. C. C. Clinton, who has been confined to the house for a couple of weeks, is now very low. It is said he is suffering with cancer of the bowels.

Joseph Atkey, late foreman of Hess Bros' factory, Listowel, was on an address, a gold pocket, chain and dressing case prior to his departure for Montreal.

Mr Albert Cooper, Clinton, who has been in Toronto attending Commercial College during the past three months, is home again, a full fledged book-keeper.

Mr Wesley Griffin, Clinton, last week received a telegram offering him the school in Manitowish where he formerly taught, and he left at once to enter upon the duties.

The Rev Mr Dobbin, of Caledon East, who was charged with a serious crime, but has been honorably acquitted, was formerly a resident of the township of East Wawanosh.

James Watson, Grey, moved this week to his new home near Bluebell, Kent Co. Mr Watson will garden and go extensively into beekeeping, fruit, &c.

J H Dalarge, of Wingham, has purchased from H. N. Smith, Esq., of Fashion Stud Farm, Trenton, N. J., the four year-old trotting stallion "Saragat," 4168; three year-old record, 2:38.

A short time ago Mr E. Turner of the West End sent a team of valuable horses to his son in Manitowish, but unfortunately both animals died before reaching their destination. They were valued at $400.

The energetic Principal of the Clinton Collegiate, Mr Turnbull, has again received the assent of the Educational Department, that Clinton may be a centre for those who intend to write for 1st Class Grade C.

Mr James Bowie, formerly of Clinton, who has been farming in Dakota for several years, has rented his place to his brother; last year the frost destroyed nearly all his stock. He has gone to Denver to reside.

There are a great many farms offered for sale in Manitowish and very few purchasers. The emigration to Manitoba and the Northwest has had a tendency to depreciate the value of property here somewhat.

Mr H. Teweley, Clinton, has a cat that he has owned for four years, and he calculates that it has eaten, at the very least, one pound of meat per day during that time. It has evidently "eaten its head off" several times over.

The other day as Mr J. Herbert was driving his blood mare down the hill by the Exeter cemetery, one of the hold-back straps broke, allowing the buggy to run forward, causing a serious runaway. Mr Herbert was thrown from the rig.

Mr David Hay, of the Seaford and Bayfield stage line, who has been residing in Paris all winter, has come back to Bayfield for the summer and will run his old route as formerly, and will connect with all trains at Brucefield and Seaford.

Capt Hoag, who has had charge of the Salvation Army, Seaford, for some months, will "farewell" on Sabbath evening next. He is an efficient officer and an earnest, indefatigable worker and was deservedly popular with the members of the Army here.

We learn that Mr John Danby, son of Rev Mr Danby of Seaford, who passed his primary examination at Trinity Medical College so creditably, has obtained a situation as school teacher in Manitowish for the summer.

Sunday, April the 28th, has been set apart, as Grand Anniversary Day, for the Royal Templars of Ontario. The members of the Order at Seaford are making arrangements for holding two public meetings on that day. The Rev John Gray, the eloquent hammer orator, has been secured as one of the speakers.

Thos Moore, of Wingham, has met with a serious accident. He was carrying shingles up on the roof of a building being erected on Albert street, and when he reached the top his feet slipped on the snow. He fell a distance of seventeen feet, breaking his arm in two places, injuring one of his legs and having a general shaking up.

We have much pleasure in congratulating Robt. Knechtel and J. W. Shaw, Brussels, on the stand they took at Trinity University. The former headed the honor roll of his class and the latter stood in the 1st class. Will Milne, of Blyth, has passed his final examination and will soon be in a position to affix M.D. to his name.

At the recent examination held at Knox College, Toronto, we are pleased to notice that Mr Joseph Elliott, B. A., of Bayfield, passed his first year in Theology with the highest honors. Mr Elliott not only stood first in Apologetics, Church History and Old Testament Introduction, but succeeded in carrying off a scholarship of $50.00.

We congratulate the Rev M. C. Russell on having completed successfully his course at Knox College, Toronto. He is well and favorably known as the eldest son of Mr E. Russell, of the 13th con. Goderich township. It will now be in order for Mark to take the next "course" that young ministers usually do as soon as they are ordained.

Some of the citizens of Benmiller have been trying to get up shares to get a branch of the Bell telephone run out from Goderich; when they get the telephone, rollers in the mill and a branch of the C. P. R. from Guelph, they will stand a good show of taking the town-ship hall away from Smith's Hill; we think they will be entitled to it anyway.

Mr Francis Walters, of Tuckersmith, has a horse that has attained the ripe old age of 33 years. It was formerly owned by Mr Isaac Rattenbury, but at his death Mr Walters purchased the animal and has had it in constant use ever since. We think it is one of the oldest horses in this part of the county, if not the oldest.

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites
Is sold all over the world. It is far superior to plain Cod Liver Oil, palatable and easily digested. Dr. Martin Miles Stanton, Bury Bucks, London, England, says: "I have prescribed Scott's Emulsion, and taken it myself. It is palatable, efficient, and can be tolerated by almost anyone, especially where cod liver oil itself cannot be borne. Sold by all druggists, 50c. and $1."

From our own correspondent.
WEDDING BELLS.—On Wednesday last one of the most popular young ladies of the Nile, Miss Mary Jones, second daughter of Mrs Jas. Jones, of Auburn, was united in matrimony to Mr James Goodfellow, of Belleville, Ontario, at the Nile, by the Rev J. A. Anderson, of Goderich. As the bride was a general favorite the attendance at the ceremony was large. The bride-aid was Miss Lettie Symington, one of Auburn's most highly esteemed young ladies. The groom was nobly assisted by Mr Robert Jones, brother of the bride. The bride and bridesmaid were arrayed in golden brown satin and bodices of cream Irish lace, and on their left shoulders they wore wreaths of white roses and snow drops. The groom and groomsmen were attired in morning suits. The presents were numerous and costly, including several silver sets. One I might mention was a most beautiful silver water pitcher from the groomsmen. After a wedding supper at the residence of the bride's brother, Mr Jas. Jones, all retired to their homes, leaving their best wishes with the newly married couple for their future happiness.
