CHAPTER IV.
AT THE TOWERS

Lord Cecil looked up enquiringly. The marquis dipped his white fingers in the finger-glass, and added, smoothly:

"He ran off with a girl to whom I was going to be married. This is her daughter, and I am naturally attached to her."

The idea of the marquis being attached to any human being on the face of the earth almost raised a smile on Lord Cecil's face. He might have laughed outright; the marquis would have made no sign. He sipped his wine slowly, then he said:

"She is what the people call a beautiful girl!"

This was put as a question, and Lord Cecil hastened to reply:

"She is very beautiful, sir."

"If you say so!" said the marquis, with an inclination of the head which brought the colour to Lord Cecil's face, and caused him to mutter:

"I can't stand this much longer."

"I beg your pardon?" said the marquis, blandly.

In his embarrassment Lord Cecil seized the decanter and poured out a glass of wine, and the ghost of a smile crossed the marquis's face.

"It is rather singular that Lady Grace should have mentioned the army," he said. "It reminded me that I wanted to speak to you on the subject. First let me thank you for complying with my desire."

Lord Cecil smiled, but rather grimly.

"I don't think I could have done otherwise, sir," he said.

"Ah! true—yes. I think, if I remember rightly, that I made the continuance of your allowance subject to your resigning. No doubt you thought rather arbitrary. Permit me to explain it. I could not afford it."

Lord Cecil stared in an unfeigned astonishment, which appeared to give the marquis immense satisfaction.

"I generally avoid business matters," he said, slowly, and as smoothly as ever, "I leave them to my steward and lawyer. But I think we had better speak of them—it is a good opportunity. It will surprise you to hear, no doubt, that I am a poor man!"

Lord Cecil certainly looked surprised. The marquis smiled.

"Yes—yes," he said, slowly, as if he enjoyed making the statement. "It appears that I have spent rather more than double my income for say fifty years past, and I imagine that my father and grandfather must have done the same—at least that is the only way in which I can account for the fact that the whole of the free estates are mortgaged up to the neck. Up to the neck," he added, as if it were a line of especially beautiful poetry.

Lord Cecil sat silent and attentive.

"The land that couldn't be mortgaged will, of course, come to you," continued the marquis, and his tone conveyed his infinite regret; "but even the income from that will be drawn upon to pay the interest on the others. Consequently," with bland and icy politeness, "you will probably be the poorest peer of the realm."

Lord Cecil remained silent, his eyes fixed gravely on the pale, set face, which bore not the faintest indication of regret.

"It is an uncomfortable position. I cannot imagine a more deplorable one—can you?"

Lord Cecil nodded.

"I don't think I have realised it yet, sir," he replied.

"Ah!" said the marquis. "But you will. I haven't felt it because, you see, I have been able to raise money for myself. That is unfortunate for you, of course; but I imagine you would have done the same in my place."

Lord Cecil did not reply. The heartlessness of the speech simply staggered him.

The marquis waited, as if to give him time to digest this charmingly candid statement, then remarked, in as casual a voice as if he were commenting on the weather:

"Lady Grace's grandfather made his money and his title out of beer. She will be immensely rich, I believe, and will not require the small sum, though it will be my all—which I shall leave her."

He paused and looked up at his white hands, then in an utterly wearied voice, as if he had exhausted all the interest in the subject, said:

"I am glad you think her so charming. Pray, do not let me keep you from her any longer!" and he rose and stood like a statue.

Lord Cecil pushed his hair back and rose, his handsome face rather pale, his eyes flashing.

"Do I understand, sir—do you want me to understand that you wish me to"—he hesitated a moment, then brought it out bluntly—"to marry Lady Grace?"

The marquis surveyed him from under half-closed eyelids, as if he were some insignificant object at a distance.

"Certainly not," he said, smoothly. "I was merely making an attempt—"

"Certainly not," he said, smoothly. "I was merely making an attempt—"

And the Worst is Yet to Come—

"Shall I tell you what you are thinking?" she said.

He looked at her enquiringly.

"You are wondering what train you could catch to-morrow morning."

He started.

"Right the first time!" he acknowledged, with a short laugh.

She moved her fan—it was a large one of fancy blue feathers—which in juxtaposition with her face made its fairness seem dazzling.

"Well, don't," she said, "for my sake."

"For your sake?" he said, half-absently.

"Yes. Don't you see that you would leave me alone? You would not be so cruel! And after two days only."

"It seems about two years," he said, grimly.

She laughed softly, her eyes still fixed on his face, as if it were a book whose pages she was reading.

"How charming the marquis is, isn't he?"

"Charming!" he assented, with a volume of bitterness in the word.

"You must be so glad to be here with him, and it is the first time for ten years!"

"And the last for another ten," he said, under his breath; but he heard him.

"Don't say that. After all, he is not so bad when you know him."

"There are some people one doesn't want to know, Lady Grace."

"And then we must make allowances," she said. "Why do they call him Wicked Lord Stoyler?" she asked him, not abruptly, but in the same soft voice that most people found acted upon them like a caress.

"I don't know. For good and fully sufficient reasons, I've no doubt," he replied.

"Do you think he has murdered anybody, now?" she inquired, with a smile.

"I don't know. Perhaps, I dare say. At any rate, I'm quite sure a great many people must have longed to murder him."

"Oh, fie!" she said, touching him with the edge of her fan; "and your uncle, too! I wonder what he has done?"

"I was just wondering what he hasn't done," said Lord Cecil, grimly.

She laughed.

"You amuse me, Lord Cecil."

"I'm awfully glad," he said. "I didn't think it was in me to amuse anyone to-night."

"You have had rather a bad quarter of an hour—yes?" she said, softly.

"What a happy woman the marquis's wife must have been."

Lord Cecil started.

"I didn't know—" he said, enquiringly.

She laughed and the fan moved to and fro in rhythmic curves.

"No? Oh, yes, there was a marchioness once. Years and years ago. I believe he killed her—with kindness."

"Poor woman!" he said, under his breath.

"Yes. But that's the mystery. No one knows, you see, and never will know. Everybody knows about his ruining his cousin, Lord De-igh, at cards; he committed suicide, and so the marquis inherited the Denbigh title; and about his shooting old Lady Dalrymple's son—they say that the marquis fired before the word was given; and about his running away with that foolish Lady Penelope—she died in a garret at Dieppe; but nobody knows about the marchioness. How shocked you look!"

"Do I?" he said. "I didn't think I was capable of it. But surely that isn't all he has done?" he said, with great sarcasm.

"Oh, no; these are trifles which I happen to remember hearing about. They are only trifles."

"That is all," he said.

They were silent for a moment or two; then she said, in the same voice, too low and soft to reach the old lady sitting at the other end of the room: "And now shall I tell you what you are thinking about, Lord Cecil?"

(To be Continued.)

Fashion Plates.

2389. This portrays a style as attractive for frocked, embroidered crepe or voile, as for serge, gabardine or satin. The underwaist and sleeves may be of crepe de chine, or georgette, chiffon or net. Linen and organdy, serge and satin are good combinations for this design.

The pattern is cut in 3 sizes: 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 18 will require 5 1/2 yards of 36 inch material, if the skirt is made with tucks, and 4 1/2 yards if edge is about 1 1/2 yard.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

A COMFORTABLE HOUSE DRESS.

2378. Here is a model that is especially desirable for mature figures. The sleeve may be in wrist length, close fitting and finished with or without a cuff, or it may be in elbow length made without tucks. Width at lower with a neat cuff finish. Width of dress at lower edge is about 2 1/4 yds. Percale, drill, khaki, chambray, gingham, poplin, flannelette and lawn may be used for this design.

The pattern is cut in 7 sizes: 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48 inches bust measure. Size 38 will require 6 yards of 36 inch material.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

The Newest 1919 Trench Coats!

The Trench Coats for men we are now showing arrived on the last English boat and are quite the finest Coats we have ever handled. They are the product of a first class English firm, famed for its Military Tailoring, are built of fine quality Gabardine in all shades of Khaki, well-lined with smart-patterned Twill Plaid. Pockets velvet lined. Three very special features in these Coats are: (1) Extra high and well-fitting storm collar; (2) extra wide revers, forming when fastened ample throat and chest protection; (3) an entire interlining of Oilskin, rendering them not only doubly waterproof but absolutely wind and cold proof as well; forming an ideal Coat for all weathers. All Coats are belted and strapped at wrists. All sizes.

Hoseless Era Has Returned.

Paris.—Parisian modistes have evidently reached the end of their creative resources in dressing the feminine world. Now they are turning to the less laborious task of undressing them artistically. Enter the hoseless leg.

Nothing below the knee is the first edict of the new order, consequently Paris Mannerquins have appeared in the paddock of the fashionable Long-champs race track without stockings.

For the ultra chic the shadow stockings is, figuratively speaking, on its last legs, at least during the coming summer. Working girls welcome the change. Less expensive.

For plain, undecorated, flimsy, seersucker, silk now sell at $10 a pair in Paris. Wear 'em a few days and 'bloody,' full of ladders. In any event they were designed to give the bare leg illusion and now they are getting down to the real facts.

So the modistes arrayed their Mannerquins in abbreviated frocks and sent them to Longchamps with the breezes blowing about the knees.

Milk white calves shared interest honours with the ponies, with the ponies on the small end of the interest. Short dresses were worn as if to ensure the wearer her exhibition would receive the proper amount of attention. They got it.

The shoes are said to be worn in low cut with leather doo-dads running criss-cross around the ankles. Oh, yes, about 50 per cent. of the girls wore either silver or gold bracelets about the ankles. They were very narrow—the bands—and some of them had bells attached which tinkled as they walked—placed there, no doubt, "to guard against attracting the gaze of men."

But one demure Little Mannerquin had 'em all beat for maintaining a modesty front; she had little mirrors inset in the bracelets which shot rays of sunshine in all directions.

POOR FISHING AT PORT au PORT—The fishermen at Port au Port are doing a little with the codfish. Their opinion is that the water is too cold, owing to the great quantity of ice around, for the fish to strike near the land. Caplin are also very scarce in that neighborhood.

Pioneers of Prohibition.

No other part in the composite of racial inheritance that makes up the American electorate, perhaps, worked more unanimously to bring about prohibition in the United States than the three or four hundred thousand Finns. To the Finns the term "temperance" means "prohibition." The Finnish temperance societies have been long established, and the Finns, according to a recent analytical study of this element in the population, may be counted among the pioneers in the prohibition movement. It is interesting to know, in this connection, that Finland voted itself "dry" as long ago as 1905, although the Tsar, then ruling Finland as a Russian dependency, refused to allow this expression of the national wish to be enacted into law. Although comparatively a drey in the American electoral bucket, the Finns have been associated with the country from early days, the first arrivals having settled in what is now Delaware in 1627.—Christian Science Monitor.

Test Flight.

The newly rebuilt Martinsyde bi-plane was up this afternoon on a test flight taking the air at 2.30, and had a most successful try out. Mr. Raynam has had several new improvements made to the machine, one being the addition of an extra oil pipe; another being a different adjustment in the swing of the propeller, both of which worked well.

Items of Interest.

Gathered From Everywhere. Toronto possesses the first aerial taxicab in Canada. It is run by T. MacLew Nesbitt, formerly of the R. A. F., and is in great demand by those in search of a new sensation.

Ontario's referendum on the sale of alcoholic beverages is to be held in the Autumn, when the electors will have the privilege of deciding whether whiskey shall be sold over bars, or in sealed packages, or not at all.

Miss Boutet, of Paris, who has just died at Perpignan, at the age of 75, has left her whole fortune to France, to be devoted to the work of rebuilding churches destroyed by the Germans. The amount will exceed 500,000 francs, or $100,000.

Among the advertising oddities that recently appeared in the London Times is the following: Haunted or disturbed properties—A lady who has deeply studied this subject and possesses unusual powers will find out the history of the troubles and undertakings to remedy it. Houses with persistent bad luck can often be freed from the influence. Strictest confidence, social reference asked and offered.—Zonke, Box Z 176, The Times.

Very curious was the wedding which took place at Hull, Great Britain, in which the bride, Susan Linquist, is seventy-four years of age and the bridegroom, John Thompson, dock laborer, sixty-nine years. The bride, who was given away by a boy of thirteen, had been twice married before. She was the oldest, she said, of a family of twenty-six, including step-children. The bridegroom was a widower. He lost his first wife in a Zeppelin raid on Hull, when his home was demolished. The bride said she had two previous marriage certificates framed and hung on the wall at home, and she intended also having this one framed.

A Good Opportunity.

A new boarder was a novelty at Mrs. Starr's establishment. You see, most of the occupants were Civil Servants, and we all know what fixtures they are.

The new-comer—in the Pensions Department—was therefore given great attention at the dinner-table.

"The study of the occult sciences interests me very much," he remarked. "I love to explore the dark depths of the mysterious, to delve into the regions of the unknown, as it were, and to—"

"May I help you to another sausage?" interrupted the landlady.

And she never knew why the other boarders smiled audibly.

One Relates to Other.

The regulation of food prices without a corresponding regulation of wages would make food still scarcer. The higher the cost of producing in the city what the farmer has to buy, the higher the cost of producing on the farm what the city dweller has to eat. Unless, therefore, the ministers are prepared to undertake the all-round regulation of both wages and food prices, regulative efforts are not a hopeful avenue of escape from the increasing cost of living.—Edmonton Bulletin.

The Shower of Honors.

Everyone will welcome the bestowal of the Order of Merit on Sir Douglas Haig and Sir David Beatty. This rare and honorable distinction, limited to a membership of twenty-four, is well deserved. So is the long list of military decorations in the Birthday Honors. For the rest we can only be surprised that so many people can be found who welcome decorations which no longer carry distinction, and hope that this will be the last thunder-shower of "war honors," and that after the somewhat muddled waters will be allowed to subside.—Westminster Gazette.

NOT MR. BUGDEN'S.—The motor boat picked up in Conception Bay yesterday is, we learn, not that lost by Mr. Bugden of Logy Bay, but it is reported that a power skiff has been found by some Fermeuse men, which might be the Logy Bay one.

THE HIGH COST OF HASTE.

RUTH CAMERON

There is no more common American habit than that of doing everything with a tenseness and eagerness out of all proportion to the necessity for speed and the value of the thing we are doing.

I had a friend of whom a mutual friend says never does anything, plays a game or starts on a walk or engages in a conversation without being tense about it.

We all know people like that—some of us very near home. But I wonder if we all realize, fully, how much this habit of hurry and tenseness takes out of us.

I had it put up to me in such a very vivid way recently that I got an entirely new sense of the cost of being tense.

The Rest Doesn't Make Up. "Suppose," said the "Man-Who-Thinks," "that you walk four miles at your ordinary gait, say an hour and ten minutes, on one occasion. Suppose another time you run these four miles in half that time and rest the remaining thirty-five minutes, will you be in as good condition at the end of your trip as you were the first time?"

I said that I didn't know, never having tried it, but I had my suspicions.

"Exactly," said the "Man-Who-Thinks," "and they are correct. You can't possibly make up the energy you have used up in driving yourself at the higher rate of speed by resting thirty-five minutes or twice thirty-five minutes."

Ten Times the Power to Double the Boat's Speed. "I suppose you know," he went on, "how much more energy it takes to raise the speed of a boat from ten knots to fifteen or twenty knots as to drive her ten and about ten times as much power to drive her at twenty knots as at ten,—though that is, of course, only twice as fast.

"Would it be the same with a body as a boat?"

Bodies Are Engines, Food is Fuel.

"Perhaps not exactly but that law (which is, to put it mathematically, that the power required varies approximately as the cube of the boat's speed) holds true in the air and along the ground with engines, and, as your body is a kind of an engine with the food you eat acting the part of the fuel, the law ought to come pretty near holding good there."

"I wonder if that's why I'm twice as tired after an afternoon's shopping when I've hurried every minute than I am after a whole day if I've taken it easy?"

"That and the added burden of mental strain, I should say," said the Man-Who-Thinks.

Rather an interesting and arresting point of view for those of us who have "Americanitis," don't you think?

A World Wide

Revolution.

Mutterings of rising peoples and the creaking of rocking governments, reports of hunger and oppression, and rumors of the whirlwinds that follow them. Charles Sheldon in the Times hints darkly at an industrial crisis in France that may develop into a revolution, and the lack of power on the part of the government to resist the forces that may be generated by the general strike; French, English, Italian, and Belgian labor leaders are discussing plans for a strike that would tie up the continent of Europe and render inevitable the overturn of established authority; the Austrian communists seem about to get possession of the power in Vienna; the radicals are near a victory in Berlin; Asia is awakening from her long, sullen acquiescence—Corea has declared her independence in defiance of Japan, China has suddenly wrenched at her economic bonds, and, in an effort to strike back at the dominant European, declared a boycott of European goods. Not all this news is bad. Sometimes, no doubt, it is impossible to obtain requisite liberties without a resort to violence. But only a very thoughtful observer could take pleasure in the spectacle of a world in process of revolution. For the real advancement of liberty among men seems to progress no faster in these times than at others, and the price for the steps taken is paid in bitter suffering. It was England that invented the bloodless revolution. It would be well for the earth to take a leaf from her memoranda.—New York Globe.

THOSE UNFORTUNATE BREAKS.

When I was very wise and young I kept no brakes upon my tongue. I let it gallop, trot or pace At any time or any place. And frequently to my chagrin I used to exercise my chin. But I am older grown to-day And do not have so much to say. Unless I'm certain of my ground My vocal chords don't make a sound.

"Oh, goah!" said I, with courage rare "Who is that homely woman there? In all my days I've never seen A living human, butter bean, But there's a dame from feet to chin That's just as fat and just as thin! She's one the angels high above Would find it difficult to love. Yet some guy's tied to her for life!" "Yes," said the stranger, "she's my wife."

"Of all the boos that I recall, There goes the biggest boob of all, If that bird had a pound of brain, He'd still be far from being sane." The pretty dame turned her head: "That is my brother Joe," she said. "There goes a chap that I detest. He is a nuisance and a pest." The lady's cheeks at once turned red. "That is my husband, sir," she said.

Oh, lessons, I have sadly learned As with chagrin my cheeks have burned! Oh, splutterings, I've made in vain As I've attempted to explain! Oh bitter hurts I've tried to nurse And soothe, always to make them worse!

Now I am older grown and gray And do not have so much to say. I hold my tongue, and never let It utter speech I may regret.

Dear Sirs,—This fall I got thrown on a fence and hurt my chest very bad, so I could not work and it hurt me to breathe. I tried all kinds of Liniments and they did me no good. One bottle of MINARD'S LINIMENT, warmed on flannel and applied on my breast, cured me completely. C. H. COSSABOOM, Rossway, Digby Co., N.S.

Once more Fashion decrees that the corsage shall be fastened behind with a row of tiny buttons. Pompons are coming back—Paris decrees it. Usually they are of tightly bunched and clipped ribbon.

Seeking Wider Expanses

Already there is talk of flying an airplane across the Pacific! That, nobody seriously doubts, will be done some day, but it will not be to-morrow or next week, and for the present the conquest of the Atlantic is so far from complete that the attention of aviators should not be distracted to the greater ocean.

Yet the broader reach of water does have its attractions, and it would not be at all difficult to chart a course across the Pacific that might be followed by an aerial navigator—even now, for the Pacific is as well provided with islands as the Atlantic is ill-provided with them, and though not a few of the islands would be troubled resting places for airmen, in a majority of them they would be safe enough.

At any rate, they would have a wide field of choice, and descent in the lagoon of an atoll would be ideally safe and convenient.—N.Y. Times.

Rules for a Model Husband.

A husband should know enough about the rearing of children, and the work of the house, to be independent if his wife dies, or goes home to mother, or takes to politics.

The average man is a pitiful sort of a boob when left alone with the children. And there is no excuse for him not knowing where the safety pins go in the clothes of little brother, or where the flour bin is, or what the china dish cloth is on earth for.

A man can learn to cook his own meals in much less time than it takes to master golf, and washing dishes is not much harder than going fishing.

Indeed the husband can put on and take off the family wash, and who keeps the distinction between boiling the white clothes, and not boiling the colored clothes, may easily save himself a lot of grief, and several round ten dollar pieces.

The husband who can make bread, and turn out a batch of cookies, and achieve a custard pie with a decent bottom crust, has the edge on his brethren, who eat from a can when their wives are away, and who, in desperation, acquire another perfectly needless wife when number one goes to heaven, or the divorce court.

The man who can once a week take charge of the evening meal and leave the pantry as he found it besides, will be a happy husband.—Vancouver Sun.

Austria's Punishment.

It is one of the ironies of fate that the one European Power, which is agreed by all to have been only secondarily responsible for the most terrible war of the ages, has been compelled to submit to and receive the heaviest punishment. Germany used Austria as a catspaw in 1914, and the Empire of the Hapsburgs suffers more in the peace settlements than the arch-criminal. The history of Austria for the past thousand years, has been the history of Europe. Now the dual monarchy has fallen and the peace terms presented to the Austrian present Government for acceptance mean practically the absolute dismemberment of the once proud nation, which ranked as first among the Great Powers.

It might appear on the surface that it is unjust that more severe punishment should be imposed upon Austria than was meted out to Germany, but the fact of it being so lies not in a statement that the Allies were more harsh, but that the very nature of things brought it about. Germany is to all intents and purposes one race of people, with but one practical purpose. Austria is not, consequently the circumstances of the late Austro-Hungarian Empire are radically different. It is composed of conglomerate races of peoples each one having its own ideas and ideals, its own language and customs, history, national or racial pride and ambitions. The bond which united these widely diffuse and complex peoples was the Hapsburg crown. With the dissolution of that bond the ethnological structure fell to pieces, there being nothing by way of a substitute which was capable of keeping it together. The Hapsburg dominion was not due so much to the sword as to marriage, and from the simple dukes of the twelfth century they had, through matrimonial influences, grown into mighty potentates by the sixteenth, and had included in their honors the crowns of Hungary and Bohemia. When the kingdom of Poland was partitioned the Hapsburg took their share of the spoil, and put down with a heavy hand any and every attempt of the subjugated Poles to recover their freedom. The league of oppression was too strong. Now from their imperial station the Hapsburgs have fallen to the rank of private citizenship, while Poland watches with keen eye the measuring out and operation of poetical justice. Bohemia also is regaining her lost individuality, and the other Slav races which were subject to the Austrian despotism now see the way open for their entrance into nationhood and independence.

In diplomatic circles Austria was regarded as the stabilising factor of South Eastern Europe. By her own act of blind obedience in becoming a mere vassal of Prussia, this quality was destroyed, as not one of the Austrian, nor other European statesmen saw the precipice toward which she was walking blindfold, when she entered into friendly relations with Prussia, following the defeat of the Austrian armies at Sadowa, July 3, 1866, and from that time gradually declined until she became a mere satellite of Hohenzollernism. By one stroke of the pen Austria has now been reduced to her national dimensions of one thousand years ago, and is consequently no longer the superior power in the Balkans. Italy may take that position by virtue of certain territorial assignments, but the young nations, freed from Hapsburg oppression and tyranny will enter upon their inheritance enjoying the benevolent protection of the League against the ambitions of restless neighbors and, also, and no less necessary, against the exuberance of their own fiery youth. Out of the destruction of the Empire of the Hapsburgs there thus arises never and younger nations, which will keep the torch of liberty burning, wisely directed by the League, at once their protector, guide and friend.

Thanks "Telegram."

Dear Sir.—At the Methodist Conference, recently held at Carbonar, the following resolution was passed: "Resolved, that the thanks of this Conference be tendered the Evening Telegram for the space given to the reporting of the Conference Sessions, and for the daily supply of papers."

Yours sincerely,
HARRY ROYLE.

A Famous Anniversary.

On July 4, 1776, the famous Declaration of Independence was signed by the American Congress, and the United States came into being. Up till that time America, like Canada, Australia, and all our other Dependencies, had been a colony of Great Britain, but dissatisfaction with British rule and distrust of the English Government sent over, had culminated in a rebellion which led to the drawing up of the Declaration. For many years England refused to recognize the United States, and made every effort to recapture the country, but, hampered through being at war with France, and, later on, with Spain, Holland and Denmark, she was unable to devote a large portion of the Army and Fleet to the task, and the greater part of America slipped from her grasp for ever. To decide what was exactly the cause of the secession of America would be a hard task. Some blame the Stamp Act, others the Writ of Assistance, whereby an excise man could search anybody's house for contraband goods; while the majority attribute it to the reduction of the Tea Tax; but in all probability the pinpricks caused by the various Acts were merely incidents that contributed to the general rising, for the people were ripe for rebellion, and had decided to throw off their allegiance to the British rule at the first opportunity. It should be remembered that the ancestors of the majority of the colonists in Boston and other towns on the eastern seaboard of America had left the British Isles owing to the persecution in some form or another. England, 300 years ago was not the free country it is now, the Catholics, Protestants, Quakers and nonconformists had at different times, suffered the grossest persecution. It was, therefore, people who were unable to live in peace, and Jacobites who had been dispossessed of their estates on the accession of William III, that emigrated to America. Men who had suffered severely at the hands of the Mother Country were not calculated to make the most loyal of colonists; and the descendants of these emigrants naturally entertained a very generous dislike of England and all her works. The anniversary of America's independence is, every year, kept up with the greatest rejoicings, throughout the land, and this year will be even more so, as the two nations have come together again in the interests of civilisation.

Summer Resort.

The numerous guests and pleasure-seekers who for years past have been entertained at Brennock's, will be pleased to learn that the establishment recently destroyed by fire has been replaced by a neat and attractive bungalow which is now open for the convenience of summer visitors. Brennock's, in the past has borne a high reputation as a capital house of entertainment, and we feel sure that those who patronize the place in the future will be treated with the customary prompt and careful attention.

Trip to Palestine.

At the closing session of the Methodist Conference at Carbonar the Rev. Mark Fenwick was elected, as beneficiary under the Macpherson bequest, to visit the Holy Land. This action shows an appreciation of the Reverend Doctor's hard work and unrelenting zeal in the cause of the church, he having been for a number of years Superintendent of Missions in Newfoundland. During his tenure of office Missionary giving has been trebled by Newfoundland Methodists.

Other clergymen who have been elected for this tour are Rev. W. H. Browning, F. R. Matthews, Charles Lench, J. R. Saint, but because of war conditions none of them have yet taken the trip. The Telegram congratulates the fortunate cleric, and trusts that the quintette may be able to see for themselves, this year, the Sacred Spots where the Master whom they serve visited, and follow in his footsteps from Bethlehem to Calvary.

That Fatal Accident.

We learn from persons arriving in the city from the West Coast, by yesterday's express, more particulars of the fatal shooting accident at Burnt Islands, Burgeo and LaPoile district, than were contained in the official notification of the tragedy, the principals being two brothers named King, both being quite young.

On the morning of the sad accident a man who had been out birding, left his gun in the stage of the father of the lads, and the elder out of curiosity started pulling back the hammers, one of which, the gun being double barreled, he left at full cock. Just as he was about to lay the weapon down, in some unaccountable way the hammer fell exploding the cartridge, the charge of which entered the body of the younger brother who had that moment come into the stage, killing him instantly. The father of the boys on learning of the occurrence became frantic with grief and had to be restrained from doing himself bodily injury. The innocent but unfortunate lad who was the cause of the tragedy, has been suffering from physical and nervous collapse and is confined to bed. Much sympathy is expressed for all the parties by the people of Burnt Islands and neighboring settlements, over which the accident has cast a gloom.

G. W. V. A.

A general meeting of the Great War Veterans' Association was held in the C.C.C. Hall last night. President Mitchell in the chair, and some 300 members attending. Speeches on matters of interest to the Association were delivered by Captain L. C. Murphy, and Mr. B. B. Harris. Lieut. Colonel Bernard was present and spoke at length on the objects of the Association, advising broadmindedness on the part of the members in their dealings with others and co-operation among themselves. He also expressed his deep interest in all that pertains to the advancement of the Association. Captain J. Fox spoke along similar lines and referred to two things, which the Association might actively take up, namely, education and inland transport. Major G. Emerson endorsed the opinions of the previous speakers, and wished the Association every success. Hearty applause greeted the remarks of the different speakers, whose presence was greatly appreciated.

Motor Boat Picked Up.

The lost motor boat, advertised for by Benjamin Bugden of Logy Bay in yesterday's Telegram, is apparently the same craft as that picked up in Conception Bay yesterday by Mr. John Parsons of Bay Roberts. If this proves to be the case, Mr. Bugden will be a delighted man.

City's Health.

During the week 6 cases of diphtheria, 1 of smallpox and 2 of suspected typhoid were reported to the Health authorities. Four residences were disinfected and released from quarantine. At present in hospital are 23 diphtheria, 1 typhoid, 1 typhus and 2 smallpox patients, while 1 with diphtheria and 2 with smallpox are being treated at home.

A New Firm.

Messrs. Harris & Elliott, wholesale dealers in Hardware and Provisions have opened for business in McBride's Cove. Messrs. Fred Harris and Sam Elliott, the principals of the firm, are both well known young business men with wide experience, in their different lines, and lots of push. Their enterprise deserves, and no doubt will receive, a liberal share of patronage.

Patients Doing Well.

The two seamen who were landed on Monday from the banking schooner Nellie & Carrie, suffering from Typhoid fever, are doing well at the Hospital.

Prosperous Newfoundland.

Mr. W. H. Liddy, of Torbay, who lately returned from a visit to the United States, informs us that while in New York, he passed a very pleasant week with Mr. Patrick Ryan, formerly of Torbay. Mr. Ryan left here about twenty years ago, when about 19 years of age, and quickly forged to the front in the great city. He is now manager of the Fulton Fish Market in New York, and has his four brothers with him as assistants. He has a splendid home which he purchased a few years ago, and while Mr. Liddy was there, Mr. Ryan showed him the sights of the city and neighborhood by taking him round in his automobile. Mr. Ryan is only another example of those upright, honest, industrious fishermen of Newfoundland, who, when given the opportunity, make good in whatever part of the world their lot may be cast. In former years Mr. Ryan took a great interest in our annual Regatta, and to-day he always extends a hearty welcome to any of his countrymen who visit the American metropolis, and takes great delight in talking over events of the past which took place when he was in his native land.

Clerks' Union.

At the meeting of clerks, held in the T. A. Armoury last night, the election of officers of the newly formed Association, conducted by Mr. W. Smith with Messrs Thomas Peckham and Parsons as scrutineers, resulted as follows:—Chairman—R. Lilly. Vice-Chairman—Jas. Butler. Secretary—B. Snow. Treasurer—S. R. Penney. An executive committee consisting of representatives of the different departments in each employ, was also appointed. A number of applicants were admitted to membership, after which the meeting closed. The date of next meeting will be decided on by the executive and announced later.

Hymeneal.

A very quiet wedding took place in St. Mary's church on Monday night when Miss Alfreda Riggs, daughter of the late John and Mrs. Riggs of this city was united in the bonds of holy matrimony to Mr. Garland Rodgers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Rogers, of Twillingate, Rev. A. B. S. Stirling officiating. The bride was given away by Mr. James Jacobs. Mr. Charles Harter acted as best man. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Sadio Riggs, and her cousin, Miss Esie Jacobs. After the ceremony the happy couple drove to Bowring Park thence to the home of the bride's parents where a quiet repast was partaken of. The bride received many useful presents. Mr. and Mrs. Rogers will reside at Smithville. The Telegram unites with other friends in wishing the newly married pair every happiness.

THE TOWER FOR WILHELM.
LONDON, July 3.
William Hohenzollern, the former German Emperor, will be brought to England in a British ship, and imprisoned in the Tower of London, according to the Daily Mail. The death penalty will not be sought, the newspapers point out, but if he is found guilty, the Allies will ask his banishment for life to a remote island, following the precedent of Napoleon to St. Helena. The international trial court has determined to try the former Crown Prince, Frederick William, who will also be arraigned before it.

DIRIGIBLE FOR NEW YORK.
LONDON, July 3.
The position of British dirigible H-34, according to reports received by the Air Ministry at three o'clock this morning, was 51.20 north latitude, and 48.48 west longitude. This gives the position of the craft as just east of Newfoundland. A message received by the Air Ministry from the dirigible at 8.45 o'clock last night, Greenwich time gave the position of the craft as 53.10 north latitude, and 45 west longitude. "The message added, 'We are flying at 1600 feet. All well on board. We expect to reach New York on Friday.'"

CHAMPIONSHIP FIGHT.

Regulin is a laxative, but not therefore a medicine. Regulin is taken with the food and its action is to produce a natural and moderate action of the bowels. It mixes with the food and produces its results gradually but no less surely. Quite tasteless, it will go with any kind of food not entirely liquid, and those who take it do not get the impression that they are taking medicine—as they really are not. For obstinate or habitual constipation, Regulin is well worth trying. Price 75c. a package.

A Proclamation.

GEORGE R. I.
Whereas it has pleased Almighty God to bring to a close the late widespread and sanguinary war in which We were engaged against Germany and her Allies; We therefore adoring the Divine Goodness and duly considering that the great and general blessings of Peace do call for public and solemn acknowledgment, have thought fit by and with the advice of our Privy Council to issue this Our Royal Proclamation hereby appointing and commanding that a General Thanksgiving to Almighty God for these His manifold and great mercies be observed throughout Our Dominions on Sunday, the sixth day of July; and for the better and more devout solemnization of the same We have given directions to the Most Reverend the Archbishops and the Right Reverend the Bishops of England to compose a form of prayer suitable to this occasion to be used in all churches and chapels and to take care for the timely dispersing of the same throughout their respective dioceses; and to the same end We do further advertise and exhort the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland and all spiritual authorities and Ministers of religion in their respective churches and other places of public worship throughout Our United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and in all quarters of Our Dominions beyond the seas to take part as it may properly behoove them to do in this great and common act of worship and We do strictly charge and command that the said public day of Thanksgiving be religiously observed by all as they tender the favour of Almighty God and have the sense of His benefits.

Given at Our Court at Buckingham Palace, this first day of July, in the year of Our Lord one thousand nine hundred and nineteen, and in the tenth year of Our Reign.

Proclamation.

By His Excellency Sir Charles Alexander Harris, Knight Commander of the Most Distinguished Order of St. Michael and Saint George, Companion of the Most Honourable Order of the Bath, Commander-in-Chief, in and over the Dominion of Newfoundland.

WHEREAS by His Majesty's Royal Proclamation dated the first July, 1919, the King has been pleased to appoint Sunday, the sixth day of July instant, as a day to be observed throughout His Dominions in public and solemn acknowledgment of the great and general blessings of Peace; AND WHEREAS His Majesty has further expressed the hope that as far as possible all parts of the Empire should adopt the same day of rejoicing but has been graciously pleased to recognise that absolute identity of date is not in all cases possible.

NOW, THEREFORE, I have thought fit, by and with the advice of My Executive Council, to issue this My Proclamation hereby appointing and commanding that a general Thanksgiving to Almighty God for these His manifold and great mercies be observed throughout this Dominion, in St. John's on Sunday, the sixth day of July instant, and in all other places in the said Dominion on Sunday, the 20th day of July instant.

AND to this end I do further advertise and exhort all spiritual authorities and Ministers of Religion in their respective Churches and other places of public worship throughout this Dominion, to take part as it may properly behoove them to do in this great and common act of worship.

AND I do further order that the General Peace Celebrations shall be held in this Dominion on Monday, the 4th, and Tuesday, the 5th, days of August next, which said days shall, for this purpose be set apart and observed throughout the Dominion as Public and Bank holidays.

Given under my Hand and Seal at the Government House, St. John's, this 4th day of July, A.D. 1919.

By His Excellency's Command,
J. R. BENNETT,

The Case of Ireland.

American newspapers of the better class condemn the United States Senate for meddling in the affairs of Ireland. The Wall Street Journal says: "Ireland has the freest local self-government, the greatest prosperity, the lowest taxation and the fewest dependents of any country in Europe to-day. She escaped conscription, and her voluntary contribution to the war was 10 out of every 270 of her male population as against 10 out of every 75 in England and Scotland. Ireland, in fact, enjoys a typically Irish grievance; with her soil unavagaged by war, with war profits in every industry, she has nothing to grumble at. "If we are sensitive about our internal affairs, as we know we are, is it not possible to realize that other nations are in the same case? Great Britain governs more people of color other than white than all the other nations of the world put together. Our eight million of negro population would be a mere drop in the bucket in India alone. Suppose, in return for our discourteous interference in English domestic affairs, the British Government were to say that our disfranchisement of the negro in the South, in flat defiance of the fifteenth amendment to our constitution, has a disturbing influence upon British government of colored races in Africa, India, New Zealand and elsewhere? "What would be our reply? An administration with a backbone would tell the British Government to mind its own business." The Senators are, of course, playing for the Irish-American vote, but that cannot be taken as an adequate excuse for their interference in the domestic affairs of Great Britain. The Irishmen, at whose instance the Senate passed its offensive resolution, are the Sinn Feiners who co-operated with Germany during the war and who to-day are leagued with the Russian Bolsheviks, says the Toronto Globe. The purpose of these Irish rebels is, in fact, to upset constituted authority, smash the British Empire, and set up an Irish republic. Such a republic would be a new and greater Heligoland, aimed at England's heart. There is not going to be any Irish republic. That is a fact to which Irish people the world around should become used without further delay. The cure for Ireland's ills is a large measure of self-government under the British flag. This the British people have offered them more than once in the last few years. A government of this kind would have been in operation long ago had the Irish people been able to agree among themselves.—Sydney Record.

Three base hits: Kielly, 1; Two base hits: Kielly, 1; Strike Outs: by Ellis 13, by Smith 13; Bases on Balls: Of Ellis 4, of Smith, 9; Hit by Pitcher: By Ellis 2, by Smith 1. Umpires—Chesman at the plate, Montgomery on the bases; Scorers—Channing and Merner.

PLAYERS.

Red Lions—Hiltz, c.; Ellis, p.; Payne, 1b.; Callahan, 2b.; Gushue, 3b.; Munn, ss.; Kielly, cf.; Gushue, rf.; Carter, lf.
Wanderers—McCrindle, c.; Smith, p.; Hartnett, 1b.; Smith, 2b.; Brown, 3b.; Burton, ss.; Dobbin, rf.; Knight, lf.; O'Regan, cf.

The Lions tied up the score in the 7th, and when Bobby Smith lost Ellis's pop-fly in the ninth "Nuts" just stuck around the old second sack until Kielly's bingle and Hiltz's Texas leaguer brought in the winning run.

Hartnett had the chance of a lifetime in the 8th when with the bases soused and only one down, he biffed the ozone three times. And of course Brown who followed him couldn't be blamed for imitating the Big Chief.

All the fans were pleased to welcome back the old vets—Billy Callahan and Cockey Munn—both of whom played excellent ball on the field, but their batting eye needs a little tuning up.

Kielly was in good batting form—being credited on the score sheet with a doublesacker and a triple.

Smith—the grand old man—pitched well but his support at times was simply rotten.

Ellis seemed in too big a hurry to get them sizzling over the plate, and this is why so many walks were made against him.

Didn't Cockey's zebra stockings look familiar?

The Lions without St Jenkins were like a Fifth Avenue grandma without her war paint.

Britt was missed, but McCrindle substituted as backstop very well, though his rainbow throw to second will never be effective.

Both umpires had a very quiet evening and nothing occurred to disturb their equanimity.

The Brown and the Smith families seem to be well represented on the Wanderers.

The end of the first round finds the B.I.S. and Red Lions with even percentages, with the Cubs and Wanderers tieing in the second division.

The B.I.S. and Wanderers will furnish the excitement on Tuesday evening. Fruch and his "entants terrible" are just thirsting for revenge after the 17 to 7 jolt they received at the previous clash.

Get to-morrow's Telegram for the averages of the players to date. They are being kept very accurately this year by the Official Scorers Messrs. Channing and Merner.

It's easy enough to be pleasant, when existence moves onward serene; but the bloke whose white is the one who can smile, when the pill is scorching his brain.

Some players are born lucky; some have luck thrust upon them; and some sign with a team like the Lions.

No, Myrtle, (yes, she's in again), the meanest guy in the world is the man who left $500 to be paid to his son when the Wanderers win another pennant.

THE LIONS.

You didn't get the frenzied cheers as chessy champs in Balldom's fray. Your pennant rush in other years was stronger through the season's play. No Series' glory's touched your scions, nor Aifen Cup repaid your crew; But, oh, you courage-toting Lions, with scrap and pepper, here's to you. With Old Kid Jinx athwart your frames, and Hard Luck near at every start, you clawed and fought for all your games and showed what men call grit and heart. With half your ball-club off the job, you didn't squeal or madly rant; but tore right in and showed the mob the gamest baseball club extant.

When Fate dispelled your pennant dream and tried your courage to the core, with just a banged-up crippled team, you Lions came right back for more. You didn't quit; you didn't wilt, but battled on with all your scars. And, oh, you Lions, here's to you! The gamest club this side of Mars.

Ethie's Report.

REACHED BATTLE HARBOR.

The s.s. Ethie, Capt. E. English, succeeded in reaching Battle Harbor on her last trip for the first time for the season. The ship left here on the morning of the 21st, and after calling at intermediate ports arrived at Battle Harbor on the 24th. She experienced heavy ice and much fog. No seals were got at Battle Harbor the past spring and cod had not yet struck in, and no salmon going. The Ethie was the first steamer to reach that port this year; as she was leaving, the Terra Nova arrived. There was heavy ice along Labrador from Chateau northward. No cod at Henley, Chateau or Red Bay, but much ice yet. Sign of cod at West St. Modeste with jigger, but ice was setting in on the shore on the 25th. At Lance au Loup and Forteau there was a sign of cod when the Ethie was there. The Theia, with the Neptune in tow, reached Blanc Sablon on the 25th. There was a good sign of cod at that place and also at Long Point. On the 26th caplin struck in at Salmon Bay, there was also a sign of cod, while at Bonne Esperance one trap had three qts. that morning; no caplin. At Flower's Cove, sign of cod but no caplin. Very little doing with fish of any kind at Brig Bay. Two or three traps at Point Riche had 15 qts. cod. At Port Saunders two traps had 25 qts. each, nothing doing on trawls. At Daniel's Harbor, not much doing, and similar conditions existed at Parson's Pond. At Cow Head, traps had 25 qts. and at Trout River there was good fishing. The young man Gould, of Flower's Cove, who was accidentally shot was taken to Battle Harbor for treatment. The Ethie got back to Curling Saturday. Several passengers came by her. She sailed again yesterday afternoon—Western Sta., July 2.

With the Rod.

(Western Star.)
Serpentine River—C. C. Clefford, of New York, spent a few days fishing at Serpentine River, and landed 13 salmon, ranging in weight from 23 pounds down to 12 pounds. William P. Brake was guide.

A. M. Smith, of Halifax, secured 2 salmon while fishing on Serpentine River, weighing 6 and 12 lbs. He returned to Curling last Wednesday.

Ellas, Simon and M. G. Basha, and D. Joseph, spent a few days trout fishing at Serpentine River and secured about a barrel, the fish weighing from 4 to 6 lbs. There were "piles of trout there."

Harry's River—Alfred E. Silver, who is fishing at Robert Pool, had caught four salmon up to Saturday, weighing respectively 26½, 20 and 19 lbs., and 14 lbs.

Walter J. Jones, who is also fishing at Robert Pool, had four salmon landed up to Saturday, two weighing 23½ lbs. each, and the other weighing respectively 22 and 6½ lbs.

R. C. Vanname is fishing at Lower Force le Plane, on Harry's River, and had two salmon up to the end of the past week, one weighing 20½ lbs. and the other 7½ lbs.

A. Cobb landed a 20-pounder from Dump Pool last week.

Fox Island River—There are three sportsmen on Fox Island River, namely, Frank Dumont, Z. Dumont, and Willard Metcalfe, all of New York. Last Tuesday Frank Dumont caught a 26-pound salmon, the first for the season for that river. They are doing remarkably well with sea trout, which fish weigh from 1 to 6 lbs.

Codroy—During the third week of June 27 salmon were landed from the various pools of Grand River. Good many sportsmen are camped at Tompkins, Doyle's, and South Branch, and others arrive by almost every train.

Grand Bay Brook—Salmon fishing has not been very brisk this season. Two fish were taken during the week ending 21st ult., weighing 10 and 16 lbs. respectively.

SOLOMON ROBERTS.
In the death of Mr. Solomon Roberts, J.P., Change Islands, which took place at the Southcott Hospital, St. John's, on Thursday, July 3rd, there passed away an eminently outstanding personage. Mr. Roberts had been ill for some months, but his sufferings were borne with patient and tender resignation. The deceased was an indefatigable worker, being for many years actively identified with the Methodist Church, and also took a most active part in Patriotic and Red Cross work. For the past five years he has been president of the Men's Patriotic Association, Chairman of the Red Cross Society, and for many years Justice of Peace. He was a man of sterling qualities, a wise counsellor, a loyal friend, and leaves behind him influences that are uplifting, ennobling and Christlike. His life was actuated by a spirit of love and sacrifice. He was always ready with advice and help and many a lonely widow and orphan will remember him as a friend indeed. Mr. Roberts is survived by a sorrowing wife, six sons, and three daughters, one of the latter still serving in France as a Red Cross Nurse. To these we extend our sincere sympathy in their loss of a loving husband and devoted father.

Methodist Conference.

CARBONEAR.
(Tuesday.)

The afternoon session of Tuesday, July 1st, was convened at 2.30, Dr. Bond in the chair. After singing a hymn the Rev. C. R. Blount led in prayer.

The Report of the Lay Session.

The following recommendations and resolutions are submitted by the Lay members of this Conference for information, consideration and action:

(1) In view of the alleged laxity in the carrying out of the Prohibition Act, this Layman's Association of the Newfoundland Conference appoints a Committee consisting of J. C. Puddister, Esq., Jabez LeGrow, Esq., and W. H. Peters, Esq., to interview (a) Mr. W. White, the Methodist representative on the Liquor Control Board, with a view to having more stringent regulations put in force for the procuring of liquor through the Controller's Department, and getting an outline of the present regulations; (b) Minister of Justice with a view of getting his opinion and advice on the better carrying out of the Prohibition Act now on the Statute Book, and the passing of regulations by the Governor in Council for this purpose.

(2) We recommend the appointment of a Committee consist of Dr. Fenwick, H. N. Burt, Esq., and R. F. Horwood, Esq., to look after civil appointments as in the past year. The Laymen have carefully considered this matter and feel assured that the vigilance of this Committee in the past fully justifies its reappointment.

(3) We desire to extend our heartfelt congratulations to the Superintendent of Missions, Dr. Fenwick, and to the devoted Ministers on our various Circuits and Missions who, through their consecrated zeal and devotion, achieved such splendid missionary results during the past year. This Lay session strongly supports financial campaign to rouse the extra Missionary Fund and the Superannuation Fund, which will take place in December next. This Association will co-operate to its utmost and assist in carrying these matters to a victorious conclusion.

(4) This Lay session wishes to record its pleasure in the safe arrival to his own Conference of the Rev. S. H. Soper, B.A., and wishes to tender its congratulations to him on his very successful work in our West China Mission Field, and his splendid address thereon to which the Conference listened with much pleasure at the Annual Conference Missionary Meeting.

(5) We note with great pleasure the large number of young people who are being nurtured in Catechumen Classes.

We also place on record our highest appreciation of the Class Meeting as a means of refining and developing Christian experience, and would strongly urge allegiance thereto on the part of the whole Conference.

A. VATCHER, Secretary.
A. SOPER, Chairman.

The Report of Sunday Schools and Young Peoples' Societies.

In reviewing the work of the Sunday Schools and Young Peoples' Societies for the past year it is pleasing to note that there are many features in connection with it which constitute a cause for profound thankfulness to the Great Head of the Church. But while this is so, we must deplore the fact that there is lack of uniformity resting on the presentation of facts from the respective Circuits and Missions throughout the Conference, to such an extent that the decreases which our schedules show are more apparent than real.

Total number tabulated . . . . . 22,586
No of officers and teachers . . . . . 2,754
Entire membership . . . . . 25,123
Joined the Church this year . . . . . 483
New members of the Church . . . . . 2,994

Your Committee begs leave to present for the consideration of this Conference the following recommendations:

(1) That in the interest of uniformity the ruling of the account of the Mission Board re juvenile collectors be observed, which is as follows: In the future amounts raised by juvenile collectors are not to be included in the amounts raised for Missions in the Sunday School schedules.

(2) That in view of the fact that the Prohibition Act placed upon the statutes of our Dominion is not being strictly enforced, and that the boys of our country are still confronted in a large degree with the temptation to indulge in intoxicating drink, we recommend that the Superintendents of all Circuits and Missions be requested to use their influence to induce our young people to sign the Temperance and other Social Service pledges in our Sunday Schools.

(3) That in order to stimulate activity and increase the efficiency of our Sunday School workers we recommend that we emphasize the importance of holding meetings of the regular Board of Management monthly or quarterly as per discipline.

(4) We also recommend that this Conference request the Council Secretary of the Sunday School Department to provide a column in the circuit schedule for tabulating the number learning Catechism in our Sunday Schools as heretofore.

(5) In view of the fact that an apparent decrease exists in the number of children attending the Sunday Schools throughout our Dominion, we strongly recommend that on every Circuit and Mission earnest efforts be made to have every Methodist child in our communities enrolled as a member of the Sunday School.

(6) We recommend that a Sunday School be organized on every preaching appointment on all our Circuits and Missions wherever possible.

(7) Recognizing the need for more thorough training on the part of our teachers, we recommend that wherever possible in every Sunday School a teachers' training class be organized, and that the course recommended by the department be adopted.

(8) We also recommend that the General Secretary or one of his assistants be requested to be present at the Convention to be held at St. John's some time during the Autumn.

(9) On ballot, Brother Ward was elected Conference Secretary of Religious Education.

(10) We recommend that the District Secretaries of Religious Education be reappointed.

(11) We further recommend that this report be printed in the Year Book of the Church.

Respectfully submitted,
E. POLLETT WARD, Chairman.
S. BENNETT, Secretary.
The report was unanimously adopted.

After a series of resolutions, thanking the many brethren and friends who have in any way contributed to the success of the Conference, especially the kind friends of Carbonear who have so hospitably entertained the members of the Conference during its sessions, the members unanimously adopted a resolution expressing heartfelt sympathy with Dr. Fenwick and family on the great loss that they have sustained during the past year, putting on record their high appreciation of the noble services rendered by the late Mrs. Fenwick. She shall be missed, for her seat shall be empty. Methodists of St. John's will never forget her unswerving devotion to the Church and faithfulness in the Missionary efforts for the extension of the Kingdom and the glory of God.

The Conference then rose while the President and Secretary signed the Minutes. Prayer was offered by Prof. DesBarres. Benediction by Dr. Bond closed the most successful and inspiring Conference in many years.

British Soldiers' Devotion.

(From the London Times.)

The Indian mail brings details of the circumstances in which two British warrant officers lost their lives in saving those of a railway official and his family. The incident occurred in the Punjab, at Kasur, between Firozpur and Amritsar. Mr. Sherbourne, signal and interlocking inspector on the North Western Railway, was a passenger with his family in a train held up a mile from Kasur Station. Looking out he saw all the passengers leaving the train and getting on a high bank. About 300 yards in front of the train there was a mob of over 2,000 men. Hon. Lieutenant Selby (Ordinance) and Sergeant Mostyn, R.A., carried Mr. Sherbourne's children from the train to the gate-keeper's hut at the level crossing, and their father followed. The mob ran to the hut, smashed in the door and window, and dragged out the soldiers. One of the rioters went in and began to drag Mr. Sherbourne out. Thereupon Khairuddin Khan, traffic inspector, pleaded with the rioters not to hurt Mr. Sherbourne, and they cleared off. The inspector then took the Sherbournes to a village close to the railway. Meanwhile the train was looted, damage was done to the railway station, and the mob killed the two soldiers. At the village the attitude of the people was hostile, but an hour or so later the district superintendent of police arrived and rescued Mr. Sherbourne and his children. At the "tashil," or land revenue office, the crowd was driven off by the armed police with a loss of one killed and about six wounded. Order was restored on the arrival of military reinforcements from Firozpur.

She Hesitated.

"And so you proposed to Ethel last night?" asked the young man's sister. "Yes, I did," replied her brother sadly. "And did she give you any encouragement?" "Oh, yes!" "Then have I to congratulate you?" "No; she refused me." "But I thought you said she gave you some encouragement?" "Well," said the youth reluctantly, "she looked at me three times before she refused me!"

Bulldog Charges Aeroplane.

Bulldogs and airplanes don't agree. When they fight the net result is generally one less bulldog. It happened in Brantford. The bulldog is dead, but the airplane is damaged. Capt. Harold White, D.F.C., and Jack White, noted motorcycle racer, flew a plane from Toronto, and everything went well until they tried to alight on the waterworks property. Then the bulldog went at the machine like an old-time cavalryman, and disregarding tactics, he charged right at the front. He hit hard, just where the propeller was revolving. It was a gallant effort, but the air was filled with little bits of bulldog. There will be

Wellington THE UNIVERSAL PIPE

The Wellington is a storehouse of good smokes—clean, cool and easy. Three things about Wellington make it so. First, the well catches all moisture and stray tobacco. Second, the top opening bit sends the smoke away from the tongue. And third—which is mighty important—the Wellington is a C. Pipe of genuine French briar, guaranteed against cracking or burning through. All good dealers sell Wellington in all shapes and sizes. $1.75 and up.

Bravest Man in Italy's Army.

Bearing the scars of 148 wounds, received in every big engagement in which the Italian armies participated, Pte. Felice Crespi, of Toronto, has arrived in New York on the Italian troopship Francesca, which brought 1,060 Italian reservists. Crespi's breast was literally covered with medals, and he was acclaimed by a party of friends gathered to meet him as "the most honored soldier in the Italian army." He wore one of the eighteen Italian gold medals of valor awarded by the King of Italy during the war, the French War Cross, British Distinguished Service Medal, four silver and three bronze medals and the insignia of the Legion of Honor. Leaving his wife and four children, Crespi sailed from a Canadian port in 1915 to fight under the Italian flag. During his absence his wife died.

New Date for Millennium.

"If Moses was to descend upon the earth to-day he could very probably solve most of the distressing problems of the day, but I have not the slightest doubt but that Moses would be clipped into jail, just as we were," said Alexander Hugh MacMillan, at the closing session of the convention of the International Bible Students' Association, yesterday afternoon in the Academy of Music, Brooklyn. The speaker said he wanted to warn all the sinners to prepare for the millennium, which is to arrive in 1925.

"Moses and Abraham will be here then," he declared, "and we shall be associated with the holy ancients when the Kingdom of God is upon the earth. These ancients will help to restore man to a proper civilized condition."—N.Y. Times.

Nobility Have Marital Troubles.

Society in London figures largely in the divorce court calendar for the coming term. The Duchess of Westminster is suing for divorce, and the Duke is defending the case. This is the culmination of differences which, according to rumor, have lasted for a long time; but during the war both were actively occupied, the Duchess in running a convalescent home at Gifford House and hospital at Etaples, and the Duke as Lieutenant-Commander in the Royal Naval Reserve, as an officer on the staff of Lord French, and as commander of an armored car detachment in Egypt. Marchioness of Conyngham and Baroness Kenyon are both suing for restitution of conjugal rights, and Lady Clifton is petitioning for divorce. Sir D. Lawson, Baronet, on the other hand, is suing for divorce from his wife; while Madge Titheradge, a popular actress, is asking for a divorce from her husband, Charles George Quartermaine.

A Dog Who Knew.

In an issue of Our Dogs of over 20 years ago there is to be found an interesting story of a dog from Lisbon, Portugal. He was a Newfoundland, a very wise and well trained animal, and his master had occasion to spend some weeks in a London Hotel. One of the porters at the hotel struck at the dog who was quietly waiting for his master. The dog appeared not to take offence at the wholly uncalculated act, but the next morning, when the porter was polishing off the brass plate on the door, bending over at his work the huge dog went up back to him, and with a heavy blow of his great paw he knocked the man over. Then he trotted off with a dignified gait, paying no more attention to the man. Some of the days during his stay in England the weather was stormy, and whenever his paws would be muddy he would walk very quietly up and down the stairs and along the halls, but when they were dry he would make as much noise as any lad, running up and down.

In the courtyard at the rear of the hotel, was a well with a pump. One day the dog, being very thirsty, went out and sat by the well, but no one gave him a drink, though he looked longingly at the men as they came and went. Finally he was seen to go into the outer kitchen, and there he spotted an empty pail. He took this in his mouth, took it out to the pump, and then began to bark. One of the men came and saw at once, of course, what the dog wanted. After he had drunk all the water he wished he knocked the pail over with his paw, emptied the remaining water in it, and then, soberly carrying it back into the kitchen, set it down where he had found it.

A Fatal Demonstration.

Chicago, June 17.—In demonstrating the Dempsey knockout blow which was to win the championship from Willard, Edward Foss killed his friend, Frank Feeney. The Dempsey-Willard fight had been the topic. Foss declared that Dempsey would win by a knockout. Feeney said he would bet his life on Big Jess. Jack will deliver the knockout like this, said Foss, shooting a blow to Feeney's chin. Feeney fell to the sidewalk a dead.

ROYAL GARDEN PARTIES.

The garden parties at Buckingham Palace that are to take the place of evening Courts this year will follow on very much the same lines as those given by the Duke of Atholl on the behalf of His Majesty in the grounds of Holywood Castle. A canopy will be erected in the grounds, under which their Majesties will sit to receive their guests, and they will be surrounded by the various members of their family. Two of the Guards bands will be in attendance, and refreshments will be provided in specially arranged enclosures and marquees. In the event of the weather being wet, the guests will be received in the great ballroom, and the whole of the reception suite will be available for the guests. Applications are already pouring in to the office that has been provided for this purpose in St. James's Palace, and these will all have to be very carefully scrutinized before the necessary "commands" can be issued.

AFTERNOON PARTIES AND MORNING DRESS.

"Morning dress will be worn" is the official direction for these afternoon parties. The Courts will not be resumed this year. This authoritative intimation of the resumption of Court life—as invitations to these functions will be equivalent to and recorded as attendances or presentations at Court—proves a distinct relief to Society, the numbers of those Royally "presentable" having greatly increased since 1914. The holding of Royal functions in the afternoon is no new thing, for Queen Victoria always at that time held her drawing rooms, but King Edward revived the idea of Courts in the evening which his present Majesty carried on until the outbreak of war. Probably the first garden party which was accounted a Court function in Victorian days was that given at Windsor by the Queen in 1897, just after her Diamond Jubilee, at the suggestion of the then Prince of Wales, always the most tactful of social diplomats, to which were invited the members of the House of Commons. These had been treated with scant courtesy by the Court officials at Buckingham Palace when they went in a body to present a loyal address to her Majesty, but their annoyance, which was at once pronounced, was allayed by the special Royal welcome a little later.

PEACE CONFERENCE PAINTER.

Sir William Orpen, the British

Government's official artist at the Peace Conference, starts this week on his portrait of President Wilson. Sir William adopts a method with all his sitters which, perhaps, no other artist follows. Never troubling about preliminary sketches, he begins after a critical study of his subject by painting the right eye, around which he proceeds to build up his picture. Already he has painted the portraits of thirty of the delegates at the Conference, his last sitter being Colonel House. Sir William has a study at the Hotel Astoria, and there his working hours are as regular as a bank clerk's. He has been commissioned, by the War Cabinet to paint three big pictures, one of the proceedings in the Salle d'Horloge in the Quai d'Orsay, Paris, one of the delegates at ease in the ante-room, and a third of the ceremony when the Peace Treaty is signed at Versailles. During the war Sir William Orpen presented £70,000 worth of pictures to the nation. Meantime he painted in the battle zone with the rank and pay of a Major, and found his own materials.

AUSTRIANS SNUB GERMAN DELEGATES.

The Austrian delegates at Saint Germain-en-Laye have administered a smart rebuff to their German counterparts at Versailles. The latter avail themselves of every opportunity for joy riding in the cars which Colonel Henry, who is in charge of the general arrangements, has placed at their service. Count Brockdorff-Rantzau in particular motors daily and is becoming a familiar figure in the Bois de Boulogne. Herr Renner, however, has no such ambition. When motor cars were offered to him, and to his colleagues he politely declined to make use of them on the ground that the Austrians do not wish it to be said that their stay at Saint Germain-en-Laye is in any way an occasion for pleasure trips. Parisians who have been amazed at the way in which the German "Tourists" have been "doing" the district are enjoying the reproof.

RIVER THAMES REVIVING.

It looks like a big season up the river. There is not very much paint about as yet, nor is it likely that the houseboats and bungalows will ever look so smart and fresh as they did in the past, when the stretch above Henley or from Kingston to Hampton Court was a sort of Royal Academy of the house painter's art. But nearly

THE KING AND THE NAVY.

The arrangements for King George's review of the ships now in commission in home waters are practically complete, though the date cannot yet be fixed owing to the uncertainty of the date of signing the Peace Treaty. This review will take place in the famous anchorage at Spithead, and the King and Queen will travel down from London to Portsmouth, where they will embark upon the Royal yacht Victoria and Albert and pass through the lines of the assembled ships, which will once more be dressed in "rainbow" fashion. Subsequently the King will go on board the flagship, and will address a short speech to the senior officers, who will be assembled there, and the flag officers present will then be invited to take lunch on the Royal Yacht. The Prince of Wales will accompany the King upon this occasion and will be promoted to the rank of captain in honor of the occasion. This review will be an unusual event in the future, and will usually take place about the commencement of July. The assembly of ships will disperse almost immediately after the review to pay a series of visits to various places around the coast.

WORK.

WALT MASON.

I toiled along for many years at hoeing beans and grooming steers, with weary bone and thigh; and I looked forward to the day when I could throw the tools away, and have no work to do. Then I would have no grievous task; on downy beds of ease I'd bask, and drink red lemonade; for me there'd be no beastly grind, I'd sleep all day if so inclined, and through cheap novels wade. At last the day I longed for came; bliss percolated through my frame; "At last," I said, "I'm free; this getting up at break of day to milk the cows and pitch the hay—no more of that for me!" Then for three weeks, or maybe five, exulting that I was alive, I loafed around the grad; pitched horseshoes on the village green, and monkey with the slot machine, and fancied I was glad. But soon my life became a bore; I yearned to have a man-sized chore, to make me tired at night; I longed to plow the rows of corn, and hear the old tin dinner horn, and have an appetite. Another month of gilded ease, and my old dome was full of fleas, and bats and things like those; the loafing life had lost its charm, and I went whooping to the farm, where toll is all that goes. I pity all the stouthead who works and sweats the long day through; who knows, when comes the close of day, that he has grown a bale of hay, or, peradventure, two.

Would Make Bolsheviks.

There is some talk of deporting the arrested Winnipeg strike leaders without civil trial. We do not believe the government at Ottawa would sanction any such arbitrary abuse of power. It would be a gigantic blunder. These men are entitled to a fair, public trial. If they don't get it, there will be trouble, and the federal government will be responsible for what happens.—Hamilton Herald.

Week-Old Corns Should Be Unthinkable

These positive facts are now known to millions. The pain of a corn can be instantly stopped, and forever.

The corn itself can be ended completely, and usually in two days. The method is scientific. It consists of attaching a Blue-jay plaster, forgetting the corn, and letting things take their course. The results have been proved by experience.

They have been proved to so many people that corns are now comparatively unimportant.

Corn aches are needless. Paring corns is folly. Old-time harsh and mussy treatments have no place today.

You will know these facts, and quickly, if you'll try a Blue-jay on one corn. Do it tonight, and the whole corn question will settle itself forever.

Clemenceau and Lloyd George.

It is really true that Clemenceau shook his fist under Lloyd George's nose, there are certain obvious advantages in having such meetings held in secret. So much freedom in the expression of opinion would hardly be possible in open session.

MINARD'S LIMEWATER CURE FOR DIPHTHERIA.

One On Him.

An amusing story is told by an American business man about his first experience as the travelling representative in South America of a North American firm. Having no very fluent command of Spanish, he had provided himself with a talking machine, the records of which had been made to tell his story in the tongue of the listeners. When opportunity arrived he turned the crank and the machine made its carefully prepared remarks. The natives listened with respectful interest until he had used up the last of his records, and then they told him in reasonably intelligible English that they had enjoyed the performance, but could very well continue the business discussion without either the talking machine or an interpreter. Considering that the talking machine is not so very old itself, the story is an interesting commentary on the trade relations between the two halves of the American continent.

is evidently in a position to know what he is writing about. If this is a true representation of Militant Socialism, it is certainly a most foolish and dangerous cult. It is hoped that only a small minority in England hold these views, and that their tribe will decrease. It is a most hopeless creed without either faith or charity. Its adoption would involve great dangers; there is no possibility that it would improve conditions in this life in any way, and, as far as the future life, it robs its victims of all hope.

Is This Socialism?

(The Sentinel.)

In the Life of Faith, London, England, H. Musgrave Reade alleges that Socialism is a menace to Christianity. It is pointed out by the editor that Mr. Reade writes with authority previous to his conversion in 1909, was closely identified with Socialism, having been a prominent leader and writer in the cause. He declares that "the present militant socialism is distinctly German in its origin. Karl Marx, Liebknecht, and Kautsky were the first teachers of Modern Bolshevism, i.e., the Class War." After discussing the dangers of extreme Socialism from an economic and social standpoint, he charges with being an avowed enemy of Christianity, and continues as follows:

All over the country there are Socialist churches, and according to the L.L.P. Year Book there are now Socialist Sunday schools attended by thousands of boys and girls. They have "Ten Commandments," these are short phrases which the children repeat. There is nothing of them. Indeed, the secretary of the Clarion, July 28, 1911, writes that there is no room for the old Bible fables. They have "Lessons," the titles of some are: 'Bloody Sunday,' 'Capitalist Murders,' 'French Revolution,' and 'Red Flag.' Many of the teachers are Agnostics. They have hymns. These include 'Arise ye wretches,' 'That matchless hymn, O Lord, Lover of My Soul,' is composed as an 'unwholesome wall' in the Clarion, August 14, 1911. They have a 'Doxology.' This begins 'No hours from on high deliver,' and so on. They have a 'Catechism.' They call it the 'Red Catechism.' It is void of all Gospel teaching. They have 'Saints.' In their Children's Magazine they print biographies of 'Socialist Saints.' These have included republicans and murderers. They have 'Testimonies.' 'Young converts' (as they are called) get up and testify that 'religion is superstition.' "Thus God is blasphemed, the Bible denied, and the Gospel parodied. The poor, unhappy children go among their fellows and sow these seeds of unbelief—surely a serious menace to the England of to-day and the future." The Life of Faith is a most reliable Christian journal, and Mr. Reade
