QUEBEC LIQUOR LAW AT WORK

Enormous Drink Bill—Increase of Drug Evil—Moral and Social Blight of Drink—What Men Who Know and are on the Ground Say—Presbytery of Montreal Adopts Striking Report—Warning to all Canada.

The following report was submitted to the Presbytery of Montreal by its Special Committee on Temperance Reform, April 16th, and the recommendations accompanying the report were unanimously adopted. The Presbytery further resolved that the report be printed and circulated throughout our churches.

William Munroe,
William S. Leslie,
Committee

COMMITTEE ON TEMPERANCE REFORM

To the Presbytery of Montreal:
Your Committee on Temperance Reform begs to report that in its judgment the Temperance situation here is such as to call for the most serious consideration of the members of this Court. There is nothing to be gained by concealing from ourselves the fact that in this country the cause of Prohibition has recently received several serious setbacks. A few years ago a referendum suddenly sprang upon the voters of the Province of Quebec resulted in Temperance workers losing most of the splendid gains they had at that time achieved. Although the referendum referred only to the sale of beer and wine, our Provincial Government promptly passed the Quebec Liquor Law and established government stores for the sale of hard liquors and by a system of tavern licenses made provisions for the sale of beer and wine. By subsequent amendments the few original restrictions have been largely removed and today the liquor business flourishes in our midst to an extent unknown hitherto.

British Columbia has followed the example of Quebec, and is now under a law that provides for Government Control on much the same lines as in Quebec. That is by Government stores for the sale of hard liquors and licensed taverns for the sale of beer and wine. There, after being a short time under the benefit of Prohibition, a reaction swept the Province under the power of liquor control. In June last, in a referendum in which the forces of Temperance put forth their best efforts and hundred of zealous workers devoted their abilities and energies to convince the people of the need of maintaining Manitoba's traditional temperance policy, Manitoba went wet, as to the sale of beer and wine. In the same month, in Ontario, while it is true Prohibition was not the chief issue, it was an issue and in the election there the parties that stood for prohibition were overwhelmingly defeated. Since then Alberta has followed and has instituted a system of government control. The defeat of prohibition in these provinces, together with the ceaseless lauding of Quebec's Government control system, ought to rouse temperance workers to greater efforts than ever before.

A RETROGRADE MOVEMENT

For all these events indicate a retrograde and reactionary movement in the popular mind. Most reformers have had to endure discipline, while their reforms were new and untried. But to lose the ground gained after many years of education, and held in some instances for almost a decade, is a disappointing and bitter experience. There is no use blinking the fact—The booze trade is having a temporary return. We have not been able to consolidate and hold the gains made under the stress and discipline of war. We need to learn that only sleepless and eternal vigilance can save us from the invasion of the liquor interests and the campaign, cleverly but unscrupulously carried on by the Moderation League. We are facing the evil in a new disguise in the beneficent roll of tax saver. The time has arrived when the churches of this land should unite upon a great and insistent campaign of education carried through on a scale commensurate with its importance. Unless our religious and reform forces can unite to resist those who make profit out of the misfortunes and vices of their fellows, it will be difficult to prevent the complete return to power of this arch enemy of right social conditions.

From the standpoint of Temperance reform the Quebec Liquor Law has been a flagrant failure from the outset. For the first month the act was in force, May, 1921, liquor sales totalled $380,173. June increased 66 per cent—$466,243, July 160 per cent—$729,000 Aug. 267 per cent—$1,029,996, Sept. 298 per cent—$1,115,695, Oct. 340 per cent—$1,225,995, Nov. 460 per cent—$1,564,760, Dec. 792 per cent—$2,470,295, (nine times as much as in the first month.) ($166,716 of beer exported.)

On a mandate approving of beer and wine only, the government breaking faith completely with Temperance reforms, established itself in the business of selling hard liquors and in 8 months increased the sales 792 per cent. As a promoter of the use of intoxicating liquors, the government has been altogether too successful. As a means to eradicate great social evils and restrain traffic that causes incalculable social disorder, the Quebec Liquor Law is a lamentable and flagrant failure. For the consumption of liquors has since increased beyond this startling record. For the year ending April 30, 1922, the sale of hard liquors in government stores totalled $15,212,801. In addition to this breweries sold to taverns 22,653,233 gallons of beer or $15,684,670. Total drink sold nearly $31,000,000 for the first year of the act.

THE SLAUGHTER OF THE INNOCENTS

Thousands of Children Sacrificed in Canada Each Year—Seeking a Remedy

By Dr. Shearer
Canada sacrifices 30,000 little babes under one year of age every year! Somebody said about the close of the war that the trenches in France and Flanders were a safer place for Canadian life than the cradles in Canada! What is far more serious, this is absolutely true Canada lost 10,000 of her fine young men each year of the great war. She loses 30,000 of her little babes every year alike in peace or war.

Who slaughters the innocents? Sometimes it is the parents through ignorance. Sometimes doctors or nurses or midwives through blundering. More often it is the fault of all of us in our respective communities. We were ignorant or we were indifferent, and we also those in authority to slay with impunity these little ones in scores or hundreds or thousands through permitting unsanitary conditions, or by supplying impure water or impure milk to the public and therefore to the babes. Supposing your city or community is guilty of allowing impure milk or water to be supplied to its people and one hundred or one thousand babes perish through a consequent epidemic, can you say as the preachers did of old over little graves "The Lord gave the Lord has taken away, blessed be the name of the Lord"? Assuredly not. We can say "The Lord gave"; we cannot say "The Lord has taken away." We shall have to say "Cursed be the name of the city or community."

Out of every thousand babes born in Canada, over one hundred—or more than one in the ten—die before they reach their first birthday. In New Zealand only forty out of a thousand die during the first brief year of life. Canada can have and ought to have as low an infant mortality rate as New Zealand. Toronto has in the past ten years reduced its infant mortality rate from 130 to 65. Montreal from 250 to 155. London, Calgary, and other western cities have cut their infant mortality rate in two. Why ought this not to be true of every city or rural community in all Canada? It is possible. It is our duty. It will not result by chance. Nothing but active, earnest, co-operative endeavor on the part of everybody will bring it about. Jesus said, "It is not the will of your Father in Heaven that one of these little ones should perish." He also said of all those who cause actively or passively one such little child to stumble "It were better for him that a great millstone were hanged about his neck and he were drowned in the depths of the sea." He also said "See that ye despise not one of these little ones, for their angels do always behold the face of my Father in Heaven," and "He that receiveth one of such little child in My name receiveth Me." And yet again he said, "Inasmuch as ye did it not to one of the least of these ye did it not to Me; therefore depart from Me ye accursed." These are terrible words. They are the words of the meek and lowly Jesus. Let us take them to heart.

FINDING USES FOR OUR HARDWOODS

Canada has large areas of hardwood forests, the forested provinces all being well stocked with maple, birch and beech. What uses it can be put to, is a problem which is at present interesting all concerned with the utilization and conservation of the forest, says the Natural Resources Intelligence Service of the Department of the Interior.

Hardwood logging has been but little developed, due in part to the fact that there has been comparatively little demand for hardwood logs, and also to the fact that they cannot be floated down the streams to the mills as readily as the coniferous species.

There are, however, many small factories in Canada using hardwood almost entirely in manufacture, while many of our larger industries use large quantities of hardwood. The greater variety of the better grades of softwoods, however, is given to the use of hardwoods as substitutes for many purposes, and the volume is gradually increasing. That Canadian maple is a very satisfactory substitute for American hickory for handle purposes has been demonstrated by a large Glasgow, Scotland, firm of handle importers and distributors. The Canadian Trade Commissioner at Glasgow reports the results of tests made as to the suitability of Canadian rock maple for handles for miner's picks, axes, and similar tools, with the result that while the maple was not as strong as the hickory, it was amply strong for the purpose. The firm in question has carried on an active campaign to increase the use of maple handles and has succeeded in building up a large trade.

There are many other articles which might be produced from hardwood, especially the smaller lines of wood goods. Maple and birch are being largely used for flooring and interior finish, being very satisfactory for the purpose. Hardwoods can be used for pulpwood, but owing to difficulties of transportation and the heavy loss by sinking of logs little is used in making paper.

Maple, birch and beech are three of our more important hardwoods, but elm, ash and hemlock are also used to a considerable extent, elm being especially useful in the cooperage industry.

The above two suggestions from the United Kingdom may lead to other uses being made of our hardwood forests to build up an increasing export trade.

MONCTON PEOPLE WERE DELIGHTED

"The Sign of the Cross" Was Many Glowing Comments From Press of That City.

That Moncton was delighted with the splendid entertainment "The Sign of the Cross" when shown there is evident from the press comment of the two leading papers of that city. Below appear extracts from the Times and Transcript.

The Times, (Moncton, N. B.)—Making her debut before the public in an exceptionally heavy undertaking, May Rance MacKinnon last night in the city hall, carried off honors in her rendering of the piece, "The Sign of the Cross." For over two hours she held the audience in rapt attention while she took in turn the parts and speeches of no less than seventeen characters as she unfolded a tale of ancient Rome dealing with the persecution of the early Christians. The city hall was crowded beyond the doors to hear the recital which was given in aid of the child welfare.

The Transcript, Moncton, N. B.—May Rance MacKinnon, in making her debut before a large Moncton audience in the city hall Wednesday evening, received much favorable comment in her rendition of "The Sign of the Cross." For a period lasting over two hours Mrs. MacKinnon held her audience at attention while she took exceptionally well the parts and speeches of seventeen characters, while she unfolded an interesting tale of ancient Rome dealing with the persecution of the early Christians. The hall was packed to the doors. Mrs. MacKinnon possesses an impressive style of elocution and her work on Wednesday evening won her much favorable comment.

Mrs. MacKinnon will be in Campbellton tomorrow night and will present this high class entertainment in the Presbyterian Church in aid of the Soldiers Memorial Hospital. All those who enjoy entertainment of a high order should let nothing interfere with their being present, for this will be a treat too good to miss.

FUNNY ISN'T IT
"Isn't it funny that a man who thinks he is a business man will get up in the morning from an advertised mattress; shave with an advertised razor and put on an advertised undershirt; advertised shirt, collar and shoes; eat himself at the table and eat advertised breakfast food; drink advertised coffee; put on an advertised hat; light an advertised cigarette; ride to his place of business in an advertised car; eat himself at an advertised desk in an advertised chair; then turn down a newspaper advertising solicitor on the grounds that advertising does not pay."—The Eastern Democrat, Boston, Ohio.

BETTER STAY IN NEW BRUNSWICK

Reports From United States and From Persons Who Have Recently Returned From Across the Border, Indicate Employment Conditions Not Promising—Better to Stay at Home.

Reports from the United States, and from persons who have recently returned home from that country, indicate that all has not been a bed of roses for New Brunswickers who have been leaving their own province to seek employment there. In a letter from one point in the New England States a former resident of Kings Co. announces that the concern with which he has been employed has closed down showing 17000 men out of work. Not only he has lost his job, but several other men from Kings met with similar mishap and are now seeking employment elsewhere. Up to the present they have been unsuccessful and the probabilities are that they will return to New Brunswick. In fact they are writing home for positions.

From another city in the eastern United States comes the intelligence that Canadians joining the building unions are being charged an initiation fee of $75 with dues amounting to one dollar per week. This is rather an excessive charge, but those taking engagements there are compelled to subscribe to the union wages or forego employment. Indications are that the labor market in at least some parts of the United States is oversupplied.

It might be well for those who contemplate leaving for the United States to assure themselves that there is a reasonable possibility of securing work before they leave here. This is particularly true in the case of men who are already engaged in some occupation in this country.

It will not make times any better in these parts to reflect upon the condition of our neighbors to the south, says the Telegraph-Journal, but it is worth while to remind those who believe they have only to cross the border to experience good times that quite a notable change in conditions in New England has occurred in recent months. An industrial survey made by a Federal department named in the paper indicates that the building industry is still active there is not the same activity in other lines. For example, the report from Maine says that the shoe factories and textile mills are closed entirely, and in time schedule, and the surplus of workers are unable to find employment in other lines, while there is also a surplus of men in the ship building industry. In New Hampshire textile mills and shoe factories are on part time, and the workers unable to find other work. Hosiery mills are on a four-day-a-week basis. In Vermont most industries are running on short time, with a surplus of workers in the granite, textile and woodworking industries and railroad repair shops in some sections of Massachusetts the textile mills are closed entirely, and in others they are working on a part time basis, and the surplus workers are not finding other employment. In Rhode Island practically all industries slowed up during the past month. Many are on part time. This is the report for the month of April. It shows that times are not as good in the New England States as they were last year, and the reports from other parts of the country are to the same effect. Apparently the peak of industrial activity has been passed for some time to come, and those who go across the border hoping to find work plentiful are likely to be disappointed. No doubt a large number of people who have gone from these provinces to seek employment during the last year or two find themselves no better off than if they had remained at home. We hear of the success of some who find good positions at high wages, but are not informed regarding those who experience difficulty in earning a living. It may be that the time is near at hand for a well organized movement to induce foreign provincialists to reduce home, even at some cost to the province in having them re-established in their native land. In any case, it should be clearly pointed out to those who may be discouraged with their prospects here that they have no guarantee of greater success on the other side of the border.

U.S. PAPER MILLS MOVE TO CANADA

Gradual Removal of Newsprint Mills to This Side of Boundary Line Forecasted.

New York, June 2.—Looking forward to the gradual removal of its entire newsprint manufacturing interests to Canada, the International Paper Company will break ground in the near future for the erection of a new plant in the Dominion, Philip T. Dodge, President of the company, announced today.

"Action of the United States Congress in placing newsprint on the free list," Mr. Dodge said, "has dealt the United States industry a death blow. We will continue manufacturing in the United States for a long time to come, but without a tariff to protect us we cannot thrive. We will continue because we own vast timber tracts but when these are exhausted we will cease manufacturing. We cannot compete against the cheap labor of foreign countries.

"Our plants in the United States will be utilized for the manufacture of electricity for which we have a well-equipped engineering force. The company of which I am the head will suffer no loss."

WHY WE DOFF OUR HATS

Most people extend the right hand on meeting a friend, but few realize that they are imitating the cavalier of the Middle Ages, who held out an unarmed hand as token that his sword was sheathed, and that he was friend and not enemy.

You take off your hat when you enter a house—but why? It is because the knight of old doffed his helmet—the most vital part of his armor—when he arrived to show that he came in peace. And as he touched his helmet on meeting a friend to show that he was prepared to unhelm, his descendant of today touches or raises his hat.

Even the clothes we wear are distinct in showing allegiance to more ancient ones. What is the Norfolk jacket but a reproduction of the chain-mail hauberk, with the belt for the sword. The frock coat is the old time wafrenok, which was worn over armor.

The clergyman's cassock is a survival of the days when almost all men were skirted; while the wig which to-day barristers don links us with the time when every gentleman wore the horsehair peruke.

SMUGGLERS AND OFFICERS AT WAR

Sensational Developments in Temiscouata Country—State of Siege Said to Exist Along Border

Quebec, June 3.—If reports received from Temiscouata prove accurate open warfare is on between bootleggers and Canadian and United States Revenue men. The situation is considered most serious. Some four hundred men are reported to have been enlisted under the direction of one of the bootlegging ring leaders.

Information reaching The Telegraph is to the effect that the townships of Sully, Escourt and Riviere Bleue, which are located near the border, and where early last week the smuggling of "Charrette" and "bagasse" as well as of other brands of home brew across the border was only prevented by the shooting down of the horses drawing the trucks, are in a condition resembling a state of siege with some American officers being cut off from their headquarters.

On Saturday afternoon the Revenue men were advised that it was planned to make another attempt to smuggle liquor over to the State of Maine. Both the Canadian and the U. S. customs men made arrangements to meet the situation and frustrate the effort, and after planning their escapade, they waited for the arrival of the run runners. The reports received were to the effect that some 1500 gallons of liquor would be taken across the border.

But when the ring leader was advised that there had been a leak and that the liquor would not be easily smuggled across he decided to mobilize a real army and called at several lumber camps where he is said to have been successful in bringing together some four hundred men.

This last move was made on Saturday afternoon and since then there has been no further developments, both sides waiting for the next step. What renders the situation unusual is that the story goes to the effect that some of the American customs officers are on the Canadian side and unable to go back across the border unless they come to a hand struggle with the smugglers.

GROWING THE YOUNG STOCK RIGHT

(By Professor H. R. Lewis)
The best time to wean the chicks from the brooder, will depend in large part upon the breed, the season of the year, the location of the colony house, and the protection which can be given the chicks. Leghorns and other light active breeds are very susceptible to sudden changes early in their development. This is due to the strain on the system by excessive feather growth. Greater care must be used when changing them. They crowd badly if the temperature is too low; a heavy mortality follows. In the cold weather of early spring the weaning period must be postponed until the chicks attain a greater age than would be required if they were hatched later in the spring, and were transferred during warmer weather. It is very undesirable to wean the chicks during the damp weather.

Then again, if the colony house is in protected spots especially early in the season, and located near the residence, where the birds can be looked at late at night and early in the morning for the first week or two after weaning, the chicks can be carried without harm under these conditions. As though the colony houses were in a dark, unprotected spot. For the first weeks after weaning, the chicks require quite close watching, as they have to be protected from sudden showers and extreme changes in weather conditions. The colony house requires special manipulation during cool spells in spring. If it is possible to arrange a portable heater in the center of the colony house, the chicks can be weaned much earlier. These heaters can be simply constructed and can be raised and lowered from the ceiling. Anything of this kind which will prevent the chicks from chilling and crowding at weaning time, is highly desirable.

Free Range the First Necessity
The best growth and the most vigorous chicks can only be realized by giving the growing birds an abundance of free range. Overcrowding, both as to area of land and housing space, will cause much trouble during the developing period. With small flocks, it is possible to give the chicks a free range on limited range or in bare yards, but this is the exception. Such a plan requires more time and expensive methods of feeding. Many large farms have similar small flocks, giving the growing birds, and have abandoned the practice. Large areas for young stock are preferred even if close confinement is practiced with the layers. Abundance of clean water, not only means more vigor, but it also aids in reducing the cost of feeding. Much feed can be obtained from worms and insects. If the range is properly used, the grains fed can be reduced in proportion to the amount of such green available. Best of all abundance of range, means clean ranges, which in turn, means healthy birds.

Green Feed Essential

There is nothing more essential on the range for growing chicks than an abundance of green feed. Green feed of a succulent leaf type, carries with it large amounts of vitamins, which have proven to be so essential to good growth. Where limited range is attempted, considerable expense must be incurred in growing and providing the greens from an outside source, and a permanent, sod range is ideal. Where the chicks are reared in such numbers as to destroy the grass, it is often found necessary to divide the range and practice rotation, in which case quick growing succulent crops are grown, and the birds allowed to eat them first from one crop and seedling brooder ranges, in timothy, clover, and alfalfa; the proportion of the legume seed in the above mixture depending upon the alfalfa desired in the resulting crop.

Do Not Leave Out the Shade

An abundance of shade is necessary for the healthy development of the chicks. The most desirable shade is that which is made by a growing plant, as it is much cooler and gives off considerable moisture. The best practice is to plant the range in fruit trees, such as peaches, plums, or apples. An old apple or peach orchard can be profitably maintained as a range area for the shade which can be derived. When no trees are present, or while the trees are getting their growth, it will be found profitable to plant such crops as corn, sun-flowers and, if there are fences, flowering beans may be grown.

The Colony Houses

The health and growth of the chicks in summer, depends in large part upon the design and construction of the colony houses. These shelters need not be large; a house ten by twelve being easily portable and handling 300 to 200 pullets through maturity handsomely. There are three essential factors which good colony houses must possess.

1. They must be portable and easily moved.

2. They must be fresh air, crowded, stuffy quarters will weaken the vitality of the chicks.

When providing ventilation, plan to have the front of the house largely open, the back and end walls solid, thus preventing drafts. Too small colony houses are undesirable.

3. They must be well placed in them and hence insufficiently ventilate them. By all means, place the colony houses at frequent intervals about the range.

Here and There

British Columbia's agricultural production last year increased in value $1,000,000 over the 1922 period, as compiled by the provincial Department of Agriculture show.

A steady increase in the volume of wheat exports from Canada is noted in the monthly statement just issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. In April, 1924, 6,086,465 bushels in all were exported, as against 5,143,204 in April, 1923.

It is anticipated that hundreds and thousands of visitors to the beautiful Annapolis Valley, Nova Scotia, will help to celebrate the famous fruit-district's "Apple Blossom Sunday," which falls on June 8th this year. The entire orchard belt, extending from Annapolis Royal to Windsor, a distance of about 100 miles, is always white and pink with blossom in the first part of June.

Hon. Honore Mercier, Minister of Lands and Forests, speaking of arguments made in the province for forest protection this year, stated: "I really believe that the way the service is organized and with the good-will manifested by all classes of the community, who realize the importance of protecting our national domain, the year will be a good one and the losses reduced to a minimum."

The report of the statistician to the board of grain commissioners for April, recently issued, records the heaviest spring great lakes shipping season on record. The report says that there are indications that all the surplus of the western grain will be moved as fast as transportation facilities permit, as export purchases are to be heavier than usual and all ocean tonnage out of Montreal for May and June has already been engaged, as well as part for the July loading.

Something new in the way of railway equipment is the new storage battery car now operating over Canadian Pacific lines between Galt and Hamilton. The car attains a speed of 25 miles per hour and makes two trips a day in each direction. It has three compartments: general, passenger, smoking and baggage, is of all-steel construction and will accommodate 50 passengers. The service is reported to be giving every satisfaction to the people of the district.

Interviewed in Vancouver as to the success of the round-the-world cruise completed on May 24th by the "Empress of Canada," E. W. Beatty, said: "To gauge the success of the 'Empress of Canada' round-the-world cruise one has only to ask the passengers their opinion of the entire trip. I spoke to several while crossing from Victoria and without exception they all expressed their complete satisfaction with the trip, its officers and the arrangements made and carried out since the day she left Vancouver, almost five months ago."

"That is good enough for me. It is simple demonstration that the Canadian Pacific can successfully conduct cruises in competition with any organization in the world and maintain that company's standing as a credit to Canada. The 'Empress of Canada' has carried the Canadian flag over the seven seas and into most of the world's great ports, and the missionary work she has done for Canada in the various countries touched should not be lost sight of. As one result of the undoubted success of this cruise, we look forward with renewed interest to the Canadian Pacific cruises of next season. They include the West Indies, the Mediterranean and another round-the-world cruise which will be made by the 'Empress of France,' already overhauled and fitted with a view to providing the greatest possible comfort for her passengers. The experience gained this year will greatly help in enabling us to make these cruises even more successful than those recently completed."

GOOD SCHOOLS PAY

Good schools do pay! They pay enormous dividends in things that are lasting and that mean most in the Nations real advancement. Not only do they pay a people in such measureable quantities as literacy, intelligence, and greater earning power, but they pay even greater dividends in unmeasured values. A good school system, offers to everyone who will take it the intellectual heritage of the ages; it frees him from the grip of superstition and fear; it enlarges his interests; it deepens his appreciation for beauty, for truth, and for mankind; it inspires him with a desire for service; and gives him power to carry out this desire.

Can any institution promise more?

LATE NEWS FROM THE SHIRETOWN

Fresh, Newy Items of Varied Interest—Happenings in and About Dalhousie

Dalhousie, N. B. June 4—Ideal weather prevailed in the shiretown on Tuesday and our citizens quietly celebrated the King's fifty ninth birthday. The Public School, The Banks and the Post Office being closed, and with the clean appearance of the town, with several flags flying to the breeze, and the many automobiles moving about, the place, really had a holiday appearance. Some people motored to Charlottetown, others went fishing on the wharves, and over fifty children went towards Dalhousie Mountain, where they found a nice level field to play ball, and at the same time enjoy a grand view of the River and Bay. A large number of children were made happy in the afternoon, when they attended the entertainment, which was put on in the Opera House, under the direction of Mrs. Ray Ferguson of Campbellton.

"WEDDING BELLS" HERE JUNE 16

They Were Even at the Altar, "But The Villain Still Pursued Her."

The Opera House here, on the evening of June 16th will be the scene of happy events, when no less than three weddings will take place amid the chiming of bells and the sweet strains of the wedding march, as the happy (?) couples wind their way to the matrimonial altar.

But, alas! amid all the joyfulness there will come sorrow, for following in their wake death will come to the aged. One beautiful young bride, ever true to her vows, is misjudged, and persecuted, and all through the machinations of the villain who seeks her wealth. Happiness, however, comes to her at last.

This will all happen in the play to be presented at the Opera House on the evening of June 16th when the Citizens' Band Dramatic Club will make their first appearance in the London and New York success, "Wedding Bells". This fascinating play is brimful of comedy, and upon its dramatic foundation is built a thrilling melodrama.

"Wedding Bells" is something new, and is making a decided hit wherever played. Last week it finished a successful full week's run at one of the leading play houses in Toronto. This itself should be a guarantee that to miss seeing it here will mean disappointment.

RED CROSS MEETING

MORE GLOWING COMMENTS
Following are three press notices which speak very highly of the ability of May Rance McKinnon who will appear before a local audience in the Presbyterian Church on Friday evening when "The Sign of the Cross," a dramatic monologue in three acts will be presented under the auspices of the Soldiers' Memorial Hospital.

Delicious Dishes For Home Dinners

It is not always the most elaborate dinners that taste the best. Oftentimes the little "made dishes" prepared from so called left-overs, are even more appetizing. One delicacy of this character is made of a stuffed, boiled chicken, young rooster or turkey that escaped the holiday demand.

The bird should be given the usual singeing, cleaning and washing and the neck should be removed and the sinews drawn from the legs. It may then be stuffed with a good sage and onion stuffing to which a few raisins may be added. Next, sew up the vent neatly and make a neat well-sewed in French breast. Truss the bird firmly, rub it over with a cut lemon and place it in the kettle to boil. Add to the water a half cupful of vinegar, a sliced onion, four cloves, a few stalks of celery, half a bay leaf, a quarter bud of garlic and a few sweet herbs. Boil the mixture gently until the bird is tender, then lift it to a hot plate. Carve the bird and arrange the joints and sliced meat around the dressing, which may be placed in the centre of the dish. Have ready, a good caper sauce and turn it over all. Garnish the dish with sprays of parsley and toast appetizers. This makes a delightful dish which is liked by all. The caper sauce is simply a good drawn butter with a quarter of a cupful of well-washed capers added.

SPINDLED SCALLOP

Drain and dry a quart of medium-sized scallops. Make a marinade of the juice of a large onion, the juice of a lemon, pepper, salt and a half a cupful of melted butter. Let the scallops stand in the marinade, stirring them often, for twenty minutes, then slip them onto well-buttered skewers, wrap a small piece of bacon around each scallop and broil them. Heat the marinade. When it is hot, pour it into the beaten yolk of an egg. Dish the scallops on toast squares and pour the thickened sauce over them. Garnish them with fresh watercress sprays. Serve baked potatoes and stuffed tomatoes with the scallops.

SEAD ROE IN RAMEKINS

Rinse the roe and put it on to par-boil in cold water, adding pepper, salt, two tablespoonfuls of vinegar and a sliced onion. When the water reaches the boiling point, let it boil fifteen minutes gently, then drain and break the roe into small pieces with a silver fork. Add a large grated onion, a tablespoonful of chopped celery leaves, a minced seeded pepper, a tablespoonful of minced parsley, pepper, salt, a small cupful of dry crumbs, a beaten egg and a half cupful of chopped, fresh pineapple or a little canned, grated pineapple. Fill well-buttered ramekins dishes with the mixture and add a little pineapple juice and a lump of butter to each ramekin. Bake the roe until it is a delicate brown on top. If liked, a little grated cheese may be sprinkled over it before it is baked.

CREAMED CODFISH PATTIES

Poach two thick codfish steaks in hot water. When they are done but not broken, lift them with a skimmer to a dish and let them stand to cool slightly, then free them from skin and bone and flake them. Have ready a good rich cream sauce. Add to it a hard boiled egg put through the ricer and a quarter cupful of washed and drained capers. Add the fish. Have ready as many hot patty shells as are needed. When ready to serve, place the shells on hot plates, fill them with the creamed fish and put on the tiny tops. Garnish them with sprays of parsley and stuffed olives.

For the Man Who Doesn't Like Sandwiches

Does your man carry his luncheon? Many men do nowadays, for it takes time right out of the middle of the day to go out, and there are few places where it is really convenient to have a luncheon sent in. Also, a luncheon from home saves money, and this counts.

For the man who does not like sandwiches plain bread and butter may be spread, and sliced meat may be cut in convenient pieces to eat with it. Or he may enjoy salads and the little made dishes in little paper ramekins that are so easily disposed of.

Men like cheese toast as a rule. This is made by lightly buttering bread, then sprinkling it with grated cheese—old English or dairy—dusting it with a wee bit of red pepper and placing it in the oven, long enough to melt and lightly brown the cheese. This is very tasty with cold sliced meat.

Hard-boiled eggs chopped and mixed with mayonnaise and a few chopped chives are delicious with plain buttered bread. A cheese and chopped nut mixture is appetizing, and carries well in one of the small paper ramekins. If a man likes stewed prunes drain off the juice, remove the stones and chop the prunes coarsely. They are delicious to eat with bread and butter.

Ham or tongue minced very fine, then seasoned with mustard, makes another mixture that is very good with bread. If the man carries his lunch regularly he will in all probability have a fork, spoon, stainless steel knife and paper napkins tucked away in a convenient desk drawer. A nice baked apple may be carried in the little container and will prove a great addition to the feast. Cold hash is appetizing if well made. Cold veal or lamb should be chopped fine and have added to it a third of the amount of cold boiled potatoes, the juice of an onion, pepper, salt and a little brown sauce, just enough to hold the hash together in a soft pat. This mixture is a favorite with men.

The hash may also be made of boiled chicken moistened with mayonnaise made without mustard. Another novel food to eat with bread and butter is a pat made of boiled and mashed chick peas. The peas are mashed and hot butter, pepper, salt and a little sugar is added. When the mixture is cool enough heavy French dressing is worked into them to make them soft enough to form a cake or pat.

TAN CREPE FROCK SHOWS INTERESTING COLOR TOUCHES

Tan crepe is never lovelier than when it adds narrow trimming bands for color contrast. This frock of tan line chooses rose and blue and green for its trimming bands. It applies them in straight lines down the front and in interesting curves on the diminutive sleeves. There are inset pleats at either side for walking fitness, while two rows of cording mark either hip.

NOVA SCOTIA GIRL'S SLAP IN THE FACE TOPPLES A NEW YORK POLICEMAN OVER ON THE STREET

The Girl Angered at Interference of Cop in Dispute Over Taxi Driver's Fare Girl Arrested but Allowed to go on Suspended Sentence.

New York, June 3.—Jeanette Gulden, a Canadian girl of 26 winters, will have something to brag about to her grandchildren in future years. She slapped a big New York cop across the face with so much gusto to-day that the policeman toppled over backward and sat down on one of New York's cold, hard sidewalks.

By so doing, however, Jeanette got herself arrested for disorderly conduct. And the arrangement that followed prevented her from getting aboard the steamship Sylvia, which was to take her to Nova Scotia at 11 o'clock this morning. Jeanette does not care. Why should she? She did something few girls have accomplished—she sat a New York cop down.

Jeanette, from description sent in by Policeman Mulligan, who played the part of He in this sidewalk version of He Who Gets Slapped, is very pretty in a brunette, Canadian way. And life in the open spaces has made her slaps something to be proud of. They mean something—especially in the life of a policeman who isn't used to them. As Policeman Mulligan of the West Sixty-eighth street station can prove.

Jeanette's little drama happened at Sixty-third street and Broadway at about 5 o'clock according to Policeman Mulligan. Jeanette and a man and another girl, and a bottle of liquor were in a taxi cab that had drawn up to the sidewalk. They were engaged in that age-old argument indulged in by taxi riders, Why should the meter be so high when we haven't enough money to pay the driver?

Argument Waxed Warm
The argument waxed hot and furious—until the officer of the law came along. Policeman Mulligan believed in his heart that justice should be on the side of the taxi driver and ordered the passengers to pay their fare $1.60. They did, but as Policeman Mulligan will testify, they did so with an "ill grace." And as the taxi drove off, Miss Gulden decided she would show Mulligan where to get off. Her first broadside—delivered with a fine sense of Canadian sarcasm—was:

"You're a fine cop! You're nothing but a typical New Yorker—taking that meter (it's a meter) is evidently Canadian for taxi driver) part like that!"

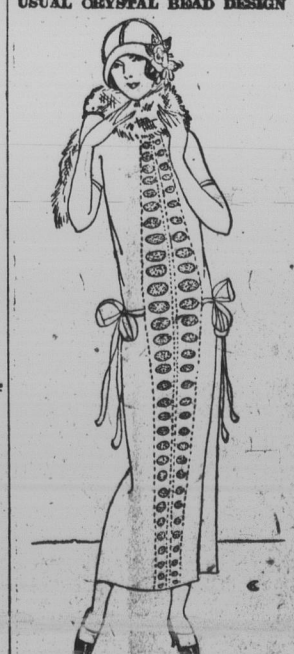

"Aw, gwan!" answered Mulligan, never losing his sense for repartee for a moment.

Smack! Miss Gulden had put her heart in her work and given poor Mulligan one of those slaps that one never forgets. It resounded for half a block. Mulligan couldn't stand up under it.

Policeman Is Crushed.
Whether it was from pain, chagrin or embarrassment, no one but Policeman Mulligan ever will know—but he fell over backward and sat down. Policeman Mulligan, as the saying is, was crushed, bruised and beaten.

He was on his feet in a moment, however, and promptly arrested Miss Gulden. She was taken to the West Sixty-eighth street station—where the cops and detectives were most respectful—and arraigned before Magistrate Ryttenberg late in West side Court. He gave her a suspended sentence and told her that nice little girls mustn't knock big policemen over the head, but she has that

SOFT CREPE FROCK HAS UNUSUAL CRYSTAL BEAD DESIGN

Soft crepe of the satin-back variety makes the effective frock sketched above. NEW CURE FOR INSANITY CLAIMED

London, Ont. May 26.—Some time ago a youth from a Western Ontario town who is a university student developed mental trouble and his case was regarded as extremely grave. PASSENGER TRAIN
"SWIPE" FREIGHT

Three Persons Killed and About Fifty Injured on Wabash Line Near Attica, Ind.—Split Rail Blamed.

Attica, Ind., June 3.—Three persons were killed and approximately fifty were injured, about ten of them seriously, when Wabash passenger train number 2, en route from St. Louis to Detroit, sidetracked a freight train at a crossing ten miles west of here last night.

The passenger train, one of the fastest on the system, is believed to have been thrown from the track by a split rail, and to have crashed into the freight, which was standing on a siding. The engineer and two passengers were killed outright and several others were injured so badly that little hope is held for their recovery.

The engineer of the freight, G. M. Birchard, of Peru, Ind., who was killed outright, was the only one of the dead who had been identified at an early hour of to-day.

MOTHER OF TWIN BOYS

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Relieved Her of Inflammation and Great Weakness

West St. John, N. B.—"I was in a general run-down condition following the birth of my twin boys. I had great deal of inflammation, with pain and weakness. Finally my doctor recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. He said that your medicine would be the only thing to build me up. I am sure he is right, for I am feeling much better and am gaining in weight, having gone down to ninety-three pounds. I was in bed for over a month, but am up again now. I have recommended the Vegetable Compound to my friends and give my permission to use my letter."—Mrs. Elmer A. Hecim, 54 Rodney St., West St. John, N. B.

There are many women who find their household duties almost unbearable owing to some weakness or derangement. The trouble may be slight, yet cause such annoying symptoms as dragging pains, weakness and a run-down feeling.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a splendid medicine for such conditions. It has in many cases relieved those symptoms by removing the cause of them. Mrs. Hecim's experience is but one of many.

For over an hour Mr. Downs held the close attention of the large audience as he related the wonderful work that was being done for the Blind and he gave examples of what had been done in the Institution in Halifax for many New Brunswickers, who had gone to the School for the Blind at Halifax.

The picture films, showing the work of the pupils of the school and the variety of work done by the Blind was much appreciated by the large attendance.

CAMP KITCHEN OF ROMANS FOUND

English Excavators Dig up Cookhouse of Ancient Legions at Folkestone.

London, June 4.—A camp house where probably in olden times the unwelcome Roman legions once fasted, has been found among the group of newly discovered Roman remains at Folkestone, on the English Channel, where the first Romans are said to have landed. The remains consist of two buildings, in each of which are about seven hearths. This leads to the belief that they were used as the cook houses and dining hall of the early Roman camps.

The base of a watch tower also has been found, built in a wall which evidently surrounded the camp. Several burial urns and Roman glass have been dug up, all in perfect condition.

The excavations are being made under the supervision of experts from the British Museum, to which institution the relics will be given.

During the attack of Oct. 6, 1915, also, in open territory, rescued several wounded and brought them to our lines. Was wounded in the head during the afternoon. "Blinded."

In a broken voice, that showed the deep emotion stirring him, Father Thomas thanked the Government of France for the honor done to him.

"How can I discharge this new duty which I have contracted with France?" he continued. "No more can I offer my life on the field of battle. But powerful weapons are still mine, piety, prayer, above all the angust sacrifice of our altars. I can still battle and show myself a true son of France and every day of my life devote myself to the welfare of my Motherland."

Leon Bobb, now Father Thomas, was born at Little France. He came to Canada several years prior to the outbreak of the war. As a companion on board ship he had the late Dom Antoine, abbot of the Monastery of Notre Dame du Lac de Deux Montagnes.

The friendship acquired on shipboard was continued in Canada, and Leon Bobb became Father Thomas of the Trappist Order. On the declaration of war, the monk left Oka and joined the colors of France, achieving the glorious war record that attained during reward in this ceremony.

The latter read the following official Army citation issued over the name of Marshal Joffre from the Grand Headquarters of the Armies of the East on November 15, 1915, at which time the Medaille Militaire was conferred upon Father Thomas:

Bobb Leon—stretcher bearer of the Ninth Zouave Regiment; exceptional devotion to duty; mentioned in Division order on October 9th. In full daylight and in open territory sought under violent machine gun fire. Rescued one wounded soldier who was able to give information on the organization of the German defenses.

FEARFUL TOLL IS TAKEN IN SCHOOL
Fire Claims 22 Lives Where School Normal Were Being Developed

Los Angeles, Cal. June 3.—Twenty-two people lost their lives on Saturday at Playa de Rey, 18 miles from here in a fire which destroyed the Hope Developments School for sub-normal children. Before the apparatus from Venice could arrive the structure was a mass of flames. Thirty-eight children were housed there when the fire broke out. One of the first rescue squads to arrive was a staff of nurses from St. Catherine's Hospital at St. Monica. They were instrumental in rescuing 18 children.

Twenty of the charred, twisted forms of what had been children less than 10 years old, girls in their teens or young women in their twenties—still children in mentality were prepared for burial at a Venice mortuary near the scene of the blaze.

Eighteen of the charges, most of them suffering from minor burns, were at St. Catherine's Hospital, Santa Monica.

Also in the morgue were the bodies of Mrs. Drew Thomas, 48, head mistress of the school, formerly of Columbus, Ohio, who sacrificed her life in a vain effort to lead her girl charges from the flame-swept structure, and Wilfred Ringler, 14, adopted son of Mrs. Mary Jacobs, operator of the school.

Thirty Years Experience

You can't have a better motor today who was not born when Dunlop Tires first appeared on the highways of Canada.

Thirty years is a long time in the tire business. It is the very beginning of the industry. 1894 saw the world's first pneumatic tire; 1894 saw the industry taking hold in Canada.

Doesn't it stand to reason, in view of the above facts, that we must be better equipped and better qualified to serve the exacting demands of tire users?

Knowing the past of the Tire Industry so well, we must have pretty good intuition regarding not only the needs of the present, but the possibilities of the future.

Prest-O-Lite Plates produce Prest-O-Lite Power

PREST-O-PLATES make Prest-O-Lite the all-weather battery, just as they make it the long-lived battery. Heat cannot buckle them nor cold impair their efficiency. In construction, Prest-O-Plates are designed to withstand the abnormal conditions under which batteries are often expected to perform. Prest-O-Plates are found only in Prest-O-Lite Batteries.

The Prest-O-Lite Battery is 100% made-in-Canada—the product of the largest battery manufacturing plant in the British Empire. For that reason it can be sold at a price far lower than its quality would seem to warrant. There is a Prest-O-Lite Battery to suit your car, and a thousand Prest-O-Lite Service Stations in Canada to keep your battery up to full efficiency.

JAMES LOUDEN

YPRES, SIX YEARS AFTER WAR STILL FIELD OF TRAGEDY

(The following article was written following a recent visit to the scene of the World War carnage in Flanders by a correspondent who was "in the line" during the war. It is a graphic picture of Ypres six years after the war.)

The mud of Flanders, particularly in the Ypres sector, still tells the story of the war. On other sectors it has generally been possible to obliterate the scars of the great bombardments; and even where ruined buildings remain, the soil itself is cultivated, or, at any rate, leveled and heaved.

But in the Ypres sector, the flat marsh lands remain in many places much as they were left when the armies dispersed. There are whole tracts of ground, between villages whose names are history, still pitted and churned. There are splintered trees and dumps of wire and scrap-iron, and the debris of gun emplacements and dugouts. It is like this around Ploeghelde and Passchendaele, Pilkem and Boesinghe.

I stood on the hummock north of Boesinghe, and tried to send my imagination back to an April day of 1915—that day when, with a steady wind blowing towards the British lines, the Germans launched the first gas attack of the war. The extreme left of our line on the Yser Canal, where the Canadian joined up with the French, received the cloud-attack, before any defense against gas had been devised.

There was that choking smell in the air, and, after a spasmodic, men dropped in agony. It was before the days when the wailing sound and the dud-like detonation of gas shells, followed by the white, heavy ball of cloud, were a commonplace of trench life. After that first attack the sense of anti-gas measures was born. It began with socks and handkerchiefs and bits of rag dipped in water, and the primitive bottle-respirator.

Closing my eyes, I heard the Stremmen horns or the wind, and recalled an alarm at night behind the lines when we sprang up and adjusted our helmets in an evil darkness alive with fear.

The railway runs once more thru those villages whose names have gathered so much splendor. A man who did not know in what neighborhood he was could sit by a carriage window today and read something of the war, to right and to left of him. And the name on each station building would give him a thrill. The places themselves, like those on old tinny maps, are all renewed. Vlamer-tyne would make the old soldier gape. Langemarck would puzzle him. I had been asked by a friend to locate an estaminet in Poperinghe, and a certain position where the big guns had remained for some time. But I could find no trace of either.

SCENE STILL THRILLS

The thought that one is actually standing on ground so sanctified numbs the mind. There is no step you can take, for miles and miles, without marveling. Those few years ago the very air was every human sensation. Here walked and crawled and lay boys from little village shops, Mayfair bachelors, shopkeepers, clerks, their hearts eaten away by longing for home.

Here there was wild courage and sickening terror. Here it was, on the very spot on which I stood, that some weary man flattened his body against the earth, before the tornado, and saw the night rest into great jagged flames. Here last letters were written, crude wills made, laughter and youth offered up at a word, in solemn sacrifice.

I came into Ypres at dusk, and found any number of hotels where everybody spoke English, and catered for nightworkers. As this was not the season for sightseers (who all more in flocks together at a given signal from the calendar) the hotel people were obsequious, and prepared to over-charge me with disarming smiles. But the Muse Clio, whose duty it is to record the deeds of heroes, came down from Parnassus, and led me through the gathering darkness to adventure. Near Meun Gais I found what had once been the site of gun emplacements, but was now a kind of hotel presided over by an ex-officer.

STRANGE CONTRAST

I went through a yard full of crumbled concrete into a room where they gave me food and wine, and climbed to my bedroom by a stair-case that seemed to be suspended between earth and heaven. It ended wondrously on a dinky platform, on which was a door. Through this I passed to my bedroom. The window looked out across the water at the gashed ramparts. The sky was crowded with stars, and the night was still as though one of those sudden hushes after the fury of the guns had fallen around me. Once more ghosts crowded about me, and my sleep was troubled and left me unrefreshed.

The next morning I went out into warm sunshine to see Ypres. It will soon be a typical show-place. The shops opposite to the Cloth Hall are in the best tradition. Souvenirs are sold, and, as I said before, there are hotels waiting with open doors to receive the throngs.

While one-half of the town seems to be tricking itself out to capture sensation-hunters, the other half is trying to build something out of the tragedy of shattered houses and crime of pick and shovels and the rap of saw and shovel.

I walked round the ramparts, going slowly by the little groups of crosses and looking out across the flat lands to Diksbusch and Kemmel beyond it, where there are still German dugouts; to St. Eloi, Hollebeke, and Mesines Ridge. I watched the men at work below, and could see the new Ypres being shaped and chiseled. "For all the ghostly, gasping ruin of the Cloth Hall and cathedral," said I to myself, "something of all this murdered holiness will surely cling to the new red bricks." What a ground to build upon!

THE LONELY CROSS

In the spring sunlight the men hummed and whistled, and on the ramparts birds sang above desolation; and I could have set there all the long day, drinking good wine as an accompaniment to thoughts too deep for speech. But I went on presently, back to the Menin Gate, from the Lille Gate, and walked out along the interminable road that leads through Hooge and Gheluvelt, each with its inheritance of violence and valor.

On these roads of the war the mind takes on the old pattern and is bathed in the old atmosphere. Forgotten jests return; phrases, strong curse words, peculiar intonations in a comrade's voice; and, most of all, the songs—the jaunty, arrogant songs that cock their feathers, the mournful, dirge-like songs that partially hide rare humor under a transparent grouse: "I don't want to die," "Pack up your trouble," "We are Fred Karno's Army," "My old man's a fireman," and the beautiful tune of "Après la guerre," with its quaint, unlicensed words set to the old air of "Sous les ponts de Paris." A hundred shades of emotion succeeded one another in an hour. Tears and laughter are mixed in the mind as it remembers, and finds how nearly it had forgotten.

But there is little enough laughter in these rambles, although Sanctuary Wood is at peace and Hell Fire Corner tidied up. And I think of all that I saw I was moved most, not by ruined cathedrals or medieval buildings in tatters, not by dead trees or old walls laid low, no, not even by cemeteries—no, not even by the nameless graves in the cemeteries. Of all I saw I was torn most by a single lonely cross of wood, with no name upon, standing crooked and weather-stained in a field near Ploeghelde—in a field all gay with the sunshine of a new spring. The world's next poet might be moved to an epic by a lesser thing.
