THE INVASION. London, Jan. 2.—A dispatch to the Times from Cape Town says that conequent upon a letter signed by the leading British inhabitants of Johannesburg, which was sent to Dr. Jameson at Mafeking on Saturday, he crossed the Transvaal from near Mafeking with 700 men next day. It is known that he passed Melmani at 5 o'clock Monday morning. No fur-ther direct news have been received

Conduct of that kind betrays a remarkable ignorance of the rights of this country over Transvaal, and of her resolution to enforce them. Whatever else we may tolerate at the hands of the Boers, we will not tolerate foreign intervention in any shape within the Transvaal, nor suffer the Transvaal to fall into anarchy." The Times understands that Dr. Jameson's force is well provisioned for four days' march, and supposes that the wires have been cut so that it is impossible for telegrams to reach him. It will probably take him four days to reach Johannesburg, and the o posing forces. It is estimated that the Boer force, well armed, consists of 800 to 1,000 men with Maxim guns, and about 5,000 burghers, armed with their own rifles and self-supporting. THE LEADER OF THE INVADERS. The invasion of the Boer territory is led by Dr. Jameson, the British commissioner, who was so successful in his operations against King Lobengula, resulting in the annexation of Matabeleland to Cape Colony. The afternoon papers in their comments recognize the fact that the invasion of the Transvaal, although made upon the urgent request of thousands of Englishmen and others in the Transvaal, who complain that they have to pay the whole revenue of the country, while being denied representation, is likely to give particular offense at Germany, whose friendship at this critical stage the Marquis of Salisbury is most anxious not to lose.

THE BOERS ADVANCING. The Boers can put in the field about 3,000 good fighting men, supported with Maxim guns. The Transvaal president, Kruger, has called upon the burghers to defend their country, and a serious conflict is anticipated in spite of the fact that the Colonial Secretary, Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, has telegraphed to Dr. Jameson to withdraw into British territory, and has urged President Kruger to do his utmost to prevent bloodshed. A dispatch received here from the Transvaal says: The burghers are advancing to meet Jameson. A conflict is hourly expected.

ARBITRATION OFFERED. Great Britain, through the Colonial Secretary, has offered to arbitrate the matter, but it is feared the offer has come too late, and that most serious consequences are to be apprehended. The Globe this evening says a rumor has reached London that Dr. Jameson has arrived at Johannesburg. Sir Hercules Robinson has by proclamation publicly repudiated Dr. Jameson's action, and has enjoined the British subjects to obey the law and remain quiet. Dr. Jameson and his officers have also been ordered to retire im-mediately. It is hoped that a collision will be averted, but Dr. Jameson cut the wires as he advanced.

Mr. Cecil Rhodes, Premier of Cape Colony, states that Dr. Jameson acted without his authority. As soon as he heard that he contemplated entering the Transvaal he endeavored to stop him, but found that the wires were FIGHTING MAY BEGIN ANY MIN-UTE.

The cablegram sent by Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain to Dr. Jameson the administrator to the British South African Company, ordering the return of the force of 500 armed men, which Dr. Jameson is alleged to have led into the Transvaal, cannot reach him until he arrives at Johannesburg, at which place there are arms enough to equip 30,000 men for fighting. President Kruger, according to the latest information received here, has called the burghers to arms, and a large force of them is proceeding against Johannesburg. They are advancing rapidly, and a battle is hourly ex-

Pretoria says that a rising has occurred at Johannesburg. It is added that 300 more armed men belonging to the British Chartered Company crossed the frontier Tuesday evening, and that President Kruger is determined to repel the freebooters by force of arms. A conflict between the Boers and Englishmen is expected today.

APPEAL TO GERMANY.
The Hague, Jan. 2.—The Minister of the Transvaal Republic left here yesterday morning for Berlin in order, it is believed, to make strong representations to the German Government on the subject of the invasion of the Transvaal Republic by the forces of the British South Africa Company. The Standard prints a dispatch from its Berlin correspondent saving that the news of the invasion of the Transvaal has caused a storm of indignation in the German capital that has rarely been witnessed. Emperor William yesterday summoned by teleto the new palace Baron Marschall Von Bieberstein, Secretary of that there is excellent reason for bean official inquiry to Great Britain as British Government in regard to the in the immediate vicinity of Matanzes. invasion of the Transvaal by the British South African Company. London, Jan. 2.—The newspapers this morning unanimously express approval of the action of Colonial Secretary Chamberlain in ordering the return of the Transvaal expedition. The Secretary, while they denounce Dr. Jameson as a lawless freebooter. The Conservative papers recall proofs of Dr. Jameson's ability and discretion, and urge that he be not condemned until the reasons for his actions have been made known. The Times gives a qualified approval of Mr. Chamberlain's course and expresses the strongest sympathy with the foreign residents of the South African Republic.

The Times prints a dispatch its Berlin correspondent, in which he says: The crisis in the Transval endangers British relations with Germany. The Government hitherto has endeavored to restrain the newspapers over which it has some control, judging from what has already been written one does not like to contemplate what will happen when the restraint is removed. When the German residents of the Transvaal cannot but be affected by a grave breach of the public peace, Germany cannot be at a loss for a concrete case for interference if she is determined to interfere. There is some reason to believe that she is determined and resolved under no circumstances to tolerate a disturbance of the statu quo in South Africa. MOTIVE OF THE MOVEMENT.

It is reported that Dr. Jameson wrote to Commandant Mario, who cautioned him to retire, as follows: "I have in-formed you that I intend to proceed with my original plans, which are not hostile against the people of the Transvaal. But we are here in reply to the invitation of the principal residents of the Rand, to assist them in their demands for justice and the or-dinary rights of every citizen of a civilized state." It appears from this let-ter that Dr. Jameson was not induced to take this extraordinary step of invading a friendly country in time of peace by the fear for the safety of women or children or of a native uprising; but in order to support a political movement, which is in the nature of a constitutional agitation for a redress of grievances. Chas. D. Johnston, boot and shoe doubt

Two masked men sprang from the shadow of Mon tried to strangle him. The other made Murphy with robbers before, and he knew what to do. Making a feint to assist the robbers, he drew his revolver and fired without an instant's warning. The man uttered a cry of pain and tried to run. He went a few steps and fell, with blood streaming from a wound in his abdomen. Before the police arrived the man was dead. Seeing the man fall, Justice Blune turned his revolver upon the other man, who was trying to escape, and fired several shots after him, none of which took effect, as far as known. After the shooting the two went to the Harrison police station and told what had occurred. The patrol wagon was sent out at once, and one highwayman ws found lying dead where he fell.

"Why, just go to meeting! There's a set that sit and look around over the church, spying out things to talk over Monday. They notice every garment that comes down the aisle, and every movement that's made.

"Then there's the set of those who pay attention. They look at the minister, but what for? They are just weighing his words, in order to trip him up. 6 Some think he uses one hand to gesture with more than the other, and some think his feet are braced back too far. I heard one weman say she couldn't enjoy his preaching because that lock of hair on his crown stood up so brashy. Every word he lets fall is passed judgment on."

Mrs. Bragdon stopped talking because she was breathless.

"Seems to me you noticed considerable more than the sermon to think all this up," said Mr. Bragdon slyly.

For School Children,

Plaid dress material is worn by children of all ages. The little one just out of baby dresses is fitted out with high-colored plaids that delight her heart, while the miss who is just emerging into the young lady uses much the same style of plaid for the broad collars, vests and cuffs that ornament some quiet-colored gown.

For serviceable wear, select a firm piece of all-wool plaid. Many of the school dresses that are made up in cotton and wool plaids will hardly wear long enough to pay for the making; or, if of home manufacture, the mother's time is usually too valuable to spend in this way.

A pretty style for a school dress shows a full round skirt, as plaids do not cut to show to as good advantage when gored. Make the waist in blouse effect, with a full droop in the front which will extend an inch below the waist line. Gather the fulness at the top into four shirrings placed half an inch apart, and following the shape of the neck; this will form a short yoke. The fulness is then carried straight down to the walst line at the back, and gathered there with four rows of shirring which extend upward two inches on the back, while the front is simply gathered once at the waist and allowed to droop.

The sleeves for these dresses are mostly in the new bishop shape, hanging loose To be at work, to do things for the and full from the shoulder, and confined at the wrist by a short cuff of the material.

> Stock collars of velvet, fastened at the same, gives a pretty finish to the neck.

in plain brown, green or blue cheviot some length to the Northwest. serge, made with slightly gored skirt and waist, having a drooping blouse effect in front, the fulness at the top being confined in three box-pleats which extend down to form a yoke.

These pleats are ornamented with tiny gilt or mother-of-pearl buttons, which are placed in clusters on both sides of the pleats where they meet together. Below the yoke effect the fulness hangs it droops. The back is closed with the tiny buttons, and is plain at the neck and shoulders, the fulness at the waist being laid in gathers, which are shirred. The sleeves are in full bishop shape, gathered into a narrow cuff at the hand. This cuff is ornamented on the inner seam with a cluster of these tiny buttons.

A dress made over for a child from an older person's gown can be prettily decorated and given a childish effect by the broad collar which extends well over the shoulder. This should be made of a brightcolored plaid which will harmonize well with the general color of the material.

If the bishop sleeves are provided, the cuffs should be of the plaid, and also the high collar for the neck.

If it is possible, have a dress for a schoolgirl that can be kept especially for rainy days and snowstorms. There are waterproof fabrics which are excellent for this purpose, or an old dress may be utilized. if preferred.

For coasting, there is nothing better than the divided skirt made of waterproof material in dark colors. This should be made full enough to allow for tucking in the regular dress skirt and petticoats, for even with a short dress the bottom of the skirt will often be wet and drabbled from The world's a cycle, and all society dragging on the snow. With the long coat, these divided skirts will not be noticeable.

Snow boots that come high up on the leg are better for most days in winter than the long rubber boots. The latter are very apt to make the feet cold and induce chilblains, while the snow boots, if worn over the regular boot, with leggings, will provide for warm, comfortable feet in the coldest weather.

Purchase a heavy double mitten for the girls' out-door sports rather than the light single one that is usually sold for that purpose, and if it does not come up high on the wrist, crochet or knit a piece for lengthening it, as it is important to keep the wrists well covered in cold weather.

Coats for school children from six to fourteen years of age are made long to extend a few inches below the dress skirt: for children over fourteen, the short reefer jackets are worn. Cloth caps of Tam o'Shanter shape in plaids and plain dark effects are jauntily turned up on one side, with one or two quills stuck through a knot or flat bow. These are usually becoming to all children's faces, and are well adapted to school wear. Other hats are in English walking shape, with wide band and bow at the side. More dressy hats are in wide shapes covered with velvet or cloth, and ornamented with ostrich tips and pempons.

Just About the Sailor Collar. To perpetuate the memory of the linen sailor collar, it will be seen throughout the fall and winter in velvet and satin. It legs could carry him. is exactly the same shape as the collar worn all summer and promises to he just as much the vogue. Many of the new plaid silk waists to be worn with plain cloth skirts are made with a sailor collar of velvet matching the skirt in color. The collars are sometimes bound with ribbon and then again they have a jet finish. During the winter they will be seen with a fur border.

A somewhat remarkable attempt at burglary was perpetrated at the hardware store of George Bowditch, Dundas Woodstock, shortly after midnight Monday. Miss Bowditch, who was sleeping upstairs, heard a noise caused by breaking glass, and arose. She proceeded down stairs and pluckily entered the dining room. The curtains were pulled close over the window, and she could see them moving, as if disturbed by the breeze through open window. She advanced quietly the curtains and suddenly pulled them aside. For an instant she was startled to see the form of a man immediately before her, but the visitor was so surprised and frightened at the lady's sudden appearance that he yelled "Murder!" dropped from the window-sill and ran off as fast as his

Civil War or Civil Rights. The world-wide dimensions of the English-speaking possessions and influences has again been illustrated by the serious condition of affairs in South Africa, detailed in recent cablegrams to this journal.

As a result of ther victories in the Yapoleonic wars, Great Britain secured control of Cape Colony, the extreme southern section of Africa. The colony was at that time peopled by the descendants of the original settlers from Holland, who were known as Dutch Boers. Naturally enough, a considerable pontion of the Boers refused to submit to British conquest, and so trekked to the then unknown lands in the far north. First they formed the Orange Free State, and then the more adventurous of them crossed the River Vaal, and founded the Transvaal Republic. Great Britain finally recognized the independence of the two Boer republics, the Orange Free State and the Transvaal, in 1854 and 1852, and had bound itself by the Sand River convention never to encroach north of the Vaal River. After the discovery of diamonds in 1871, however, Great Britain annexed the diamond fields beyond the river. In 1867, while the Boers were in conflict with the natives, over-zealous English-speaking settlers prevailed upon the British Government to attempt the annexation of the Transvaal, and a British commissioner was sent with a small force to carry out the project. He issued a proclamation suppressing the republic, and formally annexing the territory to the South African colonies of Great Britain. For a time the Boers sullenly acquiesced in the scheme, but when the trouble with the natives was over the Boens began to show resentment against what they regarded as oreign domination. When it was deeed that English should be the official language in courts and schools the Boers rebelled, and preparations were made on both sides for war, which threatened to assume formidable proportions. Meanwhile the Brit-1sh Government, under Mr. Gladstone, had made a full investigation into the methods pursued in accomplishing the annexation, and had found that the Boers had not been treated in a straight forward or fair manner. Orders were therefore given that peace should be concluded without further bloodshed, and the rights of the republic restored

Since then the Boers have maintained their republic in their own way. It has prospered in the last fifteen years, and chiefly by the influence of British and American settlers and through the investment of their capital in its natural resources. The Boer leaders, however, have remained strongly suspicious of these pushing Englishspeaking settlers, who now form a far greater proportion of the population than do the descendants of the Dutch. These stolid Boers, on the advice of President Paul Kruger, a man of great influence, refuse to give the European and American settlers known as the Uitlanders, any political rights. The outrageous character of this disability is pointed out by Prof. Bryce, M. P. for Aberdeen, who has just returned from a recent visit to South Africa. He assents that the English-speaking settlers bear threefourths of the burden of taxation, yet the Boer Government deprives them of the right to vote or to be elected as members of the Parliament, and will not allow any language except Dutch to be taught in the State schools, the cost of maintaining which is almost defrayed by the Uitlanders, Mr. Bryce says that after eight years of fruitless remonstrance and agitation, the Ultlanders have arrived clusion that the existing laws and the system of government are incapable of affording them relief, and the Boers retort that if they dare to venture beyond the bounds of constitutional action they will answer with their Maxim guns in Johannesburg. The dtuation is distinctly menacing, but the Immense money stake both sides will have to risk in the event of war may, and probably will, work for peace, though the report that armed forces are already in the field is not reassur-

The English and American settlers, though apparently determined that the majority must have some rights as eltizens which the minority shall be bound to respect, protest, and it is alleged with perfect sincerity, that they do not desire to return to monarchical rule, but that, even if civil war results, they will still maintain the Transvaal as a republic. It may be humiliating for the Boer hold their own in a contest for supremacy with the ever-advancing handles all the cloth made commis-Anglo-Saxon race, but what are they to do about it? They are now but as holders' dividends, allowing for waterone to three in the Transvaal, and they cannot expect that three will permit one to ride rough-shod over those rights which freemen have everywhere and in all ages cherished.

The New General Manager.

Mr. Hays, the new general manager of the Grand Trunk Railway, began his official duties yesterday. There are the highest hopes that Mr. Hays will prove a successful administrator of the affairs of this great corporation. Though but a comparatively young man, he comes to Canada with a judgment ripened by experience in managing one of the great systems with which the Grand Trunk has in the past had friendly interchange of traffic. He brings to his new duties a temperament eminently fitting him to make the best of the opportunities offering to advance the interests of the road. And he has reassured the thousands of employes of the road by the statement that wherever faithfulness and efficiency are demonstrated there will be no change among the workers. With a few weeks of the close personal counsel of the retiring general manager, Mr. Seargeant, who goes to England as consulting director, Mr. Hays will be put in possession of valuable information which will help him in the future conduct of the system, and he has promised to still further inform himself as to its conditions and possibilities by visiting, at an early date, such centers of the system as London.

The welfare of Canada is so built up in the prosperity of its great railways that everyone will wish such a turn in the tide of affairs as will enable the Grand Trunk to prosper as it has never hitherto done. When the railway men are busy, and find plenty of paying traffic for their roads, we are all busy and prosperous. A New Year wish, in which the people of this city, with its large interests in the Grand Trunk, can most heartily join, is: "Success to the new general manager, and increased prosperity to the Grand Trunk."

Manufacturers Favor a Change. Comenting on the great Liberal victory in Jacques Cartier, which came close on the heels of that in Montreal Center, the Montreal Herald says:

"The altered complexion of the vote of Lachine and St. Laurent is an indication of a like change of opinion on the part of the manufacturing and commercial classes of the county proper. It is not out of place to assure the Conservatives who have thus assisted at the triumph of the Liberal principles that they have decided to intrust their interests to safe hands. The Liberal party is led by a safe man, who is surrounded by safe men. The leader and his party at large have too great a stake in the country to enter upon any readjustment of the fiscal policy the country that shall not conduce to the greatest possible increase of industrial activity an national activ-

The fact is that a very large number of the manufacturers of Canada are supporters of the Liberal policy of free or low taxed raw materials for manufacturers, a revenue tariff on manufactured goods, and a high tax on articles of luxury which only the rich import. Many persons who have hitherto supported the high tax policy of the men in power in Montreal Center and Jacques Cantier contributed towards the recent victory of the candidates who go to Ottawa to support Hon. Wilfrid Laurier, and our information is that in every constituency of the Dominion a similar desire exists for a change for the better. It is bound to come at the general elections this spring.

By the Way.

The Dominion election in Charlevoix, long postponed because of the demoralization among the men in power at Ottawa, has finally been fixed for Jan. 27. This is over three weeks after the meeting of the Dominion Parliament. The constitution, about which Mr. Bowell and his friends are so very solicitous, is thus trampled under foot, in the case of both West Huron and Charlevoix. The freemen of those constitutions have, however, to be reckon-

Premier Reid, of New South Wales, at a New Year's banquet at Sydney, expressed his confidence that there was a great future before that Australian colony, "under the policy of free industries and free commerce." With free raw materials for manufactures and emancipation from combine rule, every industry in the Dominion

Prof. John Fiske's differentiation between jingoism and Americanism is timely and to the point. He tells the simple truth, comments the Boston Herald, when he says that much of the United States jingo talk of the last two years has come from the advocates of war tariff and an unsound currency, and it has served as a political trap into which it is melancholy to see certain persons blindly walking, from whom better things had been ex-

"The abbreviation of time," he says, "tinges with a browner shade the evening of life," and he explains that the advancing years seem swifter and swifter for the reason that we involuntarily measure time by our own consciousness of it. Every year is compared with the sum total of those that have passed, so that at 20 it is but the 20th of our existence, but at 50 it is the 50th part, and seemingly ever so much shorter. But, whatever the reason, time flies for us all, and however much we may have to regret in any retrospect of life we are on safe ground if we can still look forward hopefully. The past,

Sunday School Anniversary Services at Thorndale-Items From Florence.

FLORENCE.

Florence, Dec. 31.-Miss Trude Lawence has returned from visiting friends in Glencoe. Mr. S. Ingles spent Sunday here, the guest of Mr. W. Walker. Miss M. White is spending the holidays ot home. Miss Maria Tweed gave a party on Friday evening and a very enjoyable time was spent. Miss Nellie Young entertains a few of her friends this evening to a card party.

THORNDALE.

Thorndale, Dec. 31.-The Sunday school services in connection with the Methodist Church were held in the church Sunday and Monday, Dec. 29 and 30. The church was beautifully decorated with evergreens and flowers, presenting a very pleasing appearance. Rev. H. D. Moyer, of Thamesford, conducted the services on Sunday both morning and evening. The discourses were so plain and simple that the smallest child could understand, and yet so full of truth and solid thought that the wisest could not but be bene-fited. The programme of Monday was beyond the expectations of all. The Rev. Mr. Moyer was there with his famous Thamesford choir, and delighted the audience with several selections suitable to the occasion. Mr. B. B. Mc-Carty gave two solos in his exceptionally pleasing style. The instrumental selections by the Misses McCarty were also much appreciated by the large audience. Rev. H. J. Uren, of London, formerly of this circuit, gave a very instructive address, as well as a solo in his full, sweet tone, which was received in such a manner as to show that he is still living in the hearts of his former parishioners. The children of the school all deserve great praise for the manner in which they "said their little piece and made their bow,' and reflected no small credit not only upon themselves, but also upon those who had so carefully prepared them. Among other good ones we must make special mention of Master Ashcroft Southworth (a little boy of 6 years), with his recitation, "The Volunteer Organist." in which he distinguished himself as an elocutionist far beyond the ordinary, and little Willa Harding, in her solo, "Rock-a-bye Baby," merited great applause. Rev. J. J. Sinclar, our popular young pastor, interested all in a very impressive address. Last but by no means least, came the secretary's report, showing an average attendance of 81, and receipts for the year netting over $60, beside mission-Sunday school aid collections, which must be very gratifying to the superintendent and teachers as a result of their hard and faithful year's labors. Before closing we must congratulate the superintendent, Mr. C. R. Walker, on the very efficient manner in which he filled the chair, and wish him and his staff of officers every success in the coming year in connection with their good work.

Composition of the Commission Announced by Cleveland.

Russia Asserts Its Neutrality in the Dispute.

Arbitration Suggested From a French Source-Gov. Morton Deprecates War-Peace Resolutions Passed by the New York Legislature.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.-The President last night announced the composition of the Venezuelan commission, which will consist of five members, as follows: David J. Brewer, of Kansas, associate justice of the Supreme Court of the United States; Richard H. Alvey, of Maryland, chief justice of the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia; Andrew D. White, New York; Frederick R. Coudert, New York; Daniel G. Gilman, of Maryland, president of the John Hopkins University.
RUSSIA NEUTRAL.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 2.—It is semi-officially stated here that the statements made in the St. Petersburg dispatch of Dec. 27, to the Tegeblatt, of Berlin, are unfounded. In the dispatch referred to it was stated the United States had been sounding Russia regarding the dispute with Great Britain on the Venezuelan question, and the former was said to have received the most favorable reply, it being declared that the Russian Government shares President Cleveland's views on the subject and is prepared to support them, at any rate diplo-According to the semi-official matically. statement of today Russia will observe complete neutrality in the matter, her interests not being affected by the Venezuelan dis-

ARBITRATORS SUGGESTED. Paris, Jan. 2.—The Estafette, referring to the Venezuelan situation, says: "We have seen the results of the intervention of Russia, Germany and France in the China-Japan difficulty. Why should they not adjudicate the difference between Great Britain and Venezuela."

GOV. MORTON'S VIEWS. Albany, Jan. 2.—The State Legislature of 1896 assembled at noon on New Year's Day for the first time in many years. Governor Morton, in his annual message to the New York State Legislature, referred to the Venezuelan question. He said: "The doctrine formulated by President Monroe, and which has since borne his name, has become so well established in American national policy that there is no room for doubt as to the opinion of our people con-cerning it. * * * Any disturbance of the existing friendly relations between the United States and Great Britain cannot fail to have a serious effect. * * * I cannot believe that the relation between our country and Great Britain will be ruptured or seriously impaired by the misunderstanding now existing between that country and Venezuela concerning the proper location of the boundary line of their possessions in South America. Arbitration affords a simple, humane and honorable method of determining national disputes; and it is scarcely conceivable at this period of the world's history that any great nation is willing to take the responsibility of the needless sacrifice of human life and the wanton destruction of property, which would be the inevitable esult of an armed conflict. ACTION OF THE LEGISLATURE.

In the Assembly a resolution bearing on the Venezuelan boundary dispute passed unapimously. It says: "Realizing the waste of precious life, the wreck of financial prosperity and the horrors which would be the inevitable results of an armed conflict between England and the United States, we believe that every honorable means of settling any possible differences should be resorted to and exhausted before the relations between these two great nations, which today stand before the world for the most advanced civilization, should be broken." In the Senate a resolution of the same import was adopted, an amendment indors ing President Cleveland's message being voted down.

On the roll call Senator McGarren in timated that President Cleveland's thunder was being stolen, and that Mr. Cleveland had "out-jingoed jingoism."

Senator Pavey took him up. "I am glad," he said, "to see a Democratic Senator admit on New Years' Day the band gave that President Cleveland issued that message for thunder purposes and political gain. We from New York know of its direful effect upon busines. There was no need of such a thing, and especially of proclaiming fight.

BOY SHOT HIS COMPANION.

Two St. Catharines Families Flunged Into Deep Grief.

St. Catharines, Jan. 2.—On Tuesday evening John Haslem, aged 12, and a companion, William Patterson, aged 10, got into an altercation, and young Haslem, who had a rifle, fired a bullet into the other boy's head, causing death in a short time. Haslem was arrested. An inquest was held by Coroner Goodman, and it was shown that the Patterson boy had annoyed Haslem by throwing mud at him. A ver-dict of manslaughter was returned. Both families are plunged in the deepest grief.

AN ACCIDENT. Stratford, Ont., Jan. 2.-A hockey match played here yesterday between the Stratford and the Bank of Toronto clubs, resulted in favor of Stratford by 7 to 5. An unfortunate accident occurred during the game, when Hargraft, a Toronto player, fell and was struck in the left eye by a skate. Two doctors who attended him gave it as

Some of our local Nimrods were in their glory and in excellent shooting trim on New Year's morning, and spent a few most enjoyable hours at Mc-Arthur's farm, South London. The occasion was a shooting match at live pigeons, under the management and direction of McArthur brothers, who by their courtesy and kindness, greatly enhanced the comfort of the shooters. Some very fine shooting was done, 75 per cent of all the birds being scored. The birds were hard flyers, and a driving snow storm that was blowing a the time had no tendency to retard their flight. The following is the score one of the best that has been published of this season's matches:

Speaking at a mass meeting opening the campaign at Deloraine, Premier Greenway of Manitoba said: contest has been forced upon us by the Dominion Government. The contest in 1892 was fought out on this line. The Opposition then were even more in favor of National schools than we. The Dominion Government says now, 'Is there anything that you can suggest to adjust these matters?" I want to see this thing out of the way, want to see it settled, but I want to see it set-tled in the right way. It is said that we have an understanding with Sir Mackenzie Bowell. I want it under stood that we have no understanding with anybody. The Ottawa people want to interfere; but if the people of this Province overwhelmingly say by their votes on the 15th of next month that such interference shall not take place, then it shall not take place. This statement was loudly cheered.

When You Cut

A thing in half you usually spoil it. But that's not true in this instance. We have cut the price of our Capes in half, which is a good thing for those who have any intention of buying, indeed, should clear them out in short order. The price is the only thing that is damaged by the cut, the Capes of different furs being as elegant as when thew were offered at twice the price. But you know why we are making this offer. We scarcely need tell you that if we can't sell these at such very close figures we will have to put them aside, which we don't want to do.

Chicago, Jan. 2.—Wheat has been see-sawed by professionals for a long time. We have now reached a better basis. Supplies are largely reduced from first hands, and the general trade has its legacy of bear proclivities on hand. The situation legitimately is better. The market is so narrow that trade is indisposed to switch around to the side, which has been a losing side, but the facts switch first and the facts have switched. The trade will probably find itself compelled to switch with it. The proverbal January market thaw may develop into a speculative freeze. The worst feature of the market is its narrowness, poverty and prejudice, but these have made the prices what they are and it is about time for a esurrection of speculative effort. Corn—Receipts were large, but the mar-ket did not sag much; look for better prices. Provisions-Light receipts; hogs brought in many outside buying orders of hog producrs and prices were strong and higher. Market is in a good strong position. Think provisions will go higher.

Live Stock Markets.

EAST BUFFALO.

East Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 1.—New Year's market closed at 12 o'clock, and of the 22 cars Canada lambs which came in today only 15 had been weighed up to that hour. General sales were at $5.25 to $5 40—mostly $5.30 to $5.35, but the bulk hold over till tomorrow. Weather cold, and unless run very heavy prospects for steady prices for balance of week are fair.

MONTREAL.

Montreal, Que., Dec. 30.—In live stock circles business was dull, as is generally the case at this season of the year. Cable advices from abroad were stronger in tone for cattle, but values showed no advance over a week ago. Private cables received reporting sales of sheep today just let shippers out. There are no steamers sailing this week from Portland or St. John, N, B., which accounts for the quietness in the trade to some extent.

At the East End abattoir market, today, the offerings of live stock were 400 cattle, 200 sheep, 200 lambs and 15 calves. Owing to the contined mild weather, and the fact that butchers had ample supplies of beef on hand, the attendance of buyers was small, consequently trade was slow and the market was dull, but the tone was steady and values showed no trade was slow and the market was dull, but the tone was steady and values showed no material change from a week ago. There was a number of cattle left over, and, until the surplus stock is cleaned up, little improvement in the situation is looked for. A few sales of the best cattle offered were made at 3½c to 3½c, and inferior sold down as low as 1½c per 1b, live weight. The supply of sheep and lambs was small, there being just about enough to fill the wants of the local trade, and, in consequence, values were steady. More Fighting on the Unhappy Island-Are the Spanish Retreating?

Havana, Jan. 2.-An engagement between the Spanish troops and the insurgent forces has taken place at El Estante, south of Alfonso XII., and not far from the frontier of the Province of Havana. The official announcement says that the troops captured the insurgent positions, but that the loss to the enemy is not known. The insurgents, following their usual tactics, aid not attempt a decisive engagement. but after the skirmish they proceeded westward, devastating the country as they marched onward. The authorities here added the significant statement that the "troops were moved closer to the Province of Havana," which would seem to be another way of saying that the Spanish forces are once more in retreat. Later in the day it was announced here that further fighting between the Spaniards and the Cubans is taking place in the vicinity of El Estante, which, with the announced movement of the Spanish troops closer to the frontier of Havana, leads people here to believe that the insurgents have been in pursuit of the Spanish troops in that vicinity. The latter are commanded by Col. Galvis. In view of the rapid progress of the insurgents' cavalry, Captain-General Martinez De Campos has ordered the Spanish officials in all the disturbed districts to seize all the horses they can lay hands on, to prevent them from falling into the hands of the enemy. The damage being done by the Cubans is really terrible. They have burned the best part of the town of Jaguey, the cane fields of Perla, Rocarie and Australia in that district, and in Navarette the plantations of Vinas, Mondoz, Garay, Escalant and Haza. "Indeed, I fear not," replied the priest absently; and then suddenly recognizing his indisorction, he glanced somewhat severely at the Eve beside him, and coldly said:

"I crave pardon of madame. I answered at random and without listen-ing to her question, May I ask madame to repeat it?" Madame could not immediately reply, for her lace flounce had caught on the twig of a holly bush, and such costly lace must be dealt tenderly withal. By the time it was released and she stood upright again, milali's role was taken the admirable but most delicate role of audacious frankness. Looking straight into the somewhat threatening eyes of her companion, she laughed lightly and said:

"I have surprised your secret, mon pere! and you are angry at me, and no wonder! It was very bold, very irreverent, amd you shall put me to penance the very first time I go to the cathedral; but I did so want to know if that poor boy were alive, and where, and how. day was hers, and went on: "And it is in your interests, mon pere, as a pillar of the church, as well as in mine as a relative, that I wish to find and influence this misguided boy. My poor little Therese is but a puny child; and should she die unmar-Montarnaud and Rochenbois; and after him again comes Berthier de Montarnaud, his cousin, and a bitter Huguenot."

"Is it not, indeed!" echoed the priest. "Madame, you alarm me incredibly, and I fully forgive the little ruse by which you surprised my knowledge of your brother's whereabouts. Still, I do not feel at liberty to give you one word further of information without the knowledge of Pere Despard, and his permission to repeat -- Stay, if would himself speak to you, it might be better, would it not?"

Valerie smiled maliciously. Really, would not be so bad to have this insolent priest, who had so coolly refused to give her the information she sought, forced to come and give her by count, yet more, and she somewhat eagerly

'Oh, yes, mon pere! Give him your orders to tell me all that I desire to know, and bring him with you tomor-

"I can hardly give Monsieur Despard orders in a matter of this sort," reolied the coadjutor coldly, for some thing in the malicious tone repelled and varned him. CHAPTER XXXV.

The piece of land for the doctor's house was allotted by the town, and the tract of woodland apportioned; but "I wish I were a woman like that," when the question of building arose, said Valerie, in bitter admiration, as its was found that the new citizen had listened to the priest's glowing not only ideas of his own, but the periods, and for a moment she really did; then returning to her own life with a little shrug and sigh, she said:
"What vivid pictures you draw of all these things, mon pere. You have these things, mon pere. You have the said indulgent paymaster than the mechanics employed had ever met, and the said indulgent paymaster than the mechanics employed had ever met, and the said indulgent paymaster than the mechanics employed had ever met, and the said indulgent paymaster than the mechanics employed had ever met, and the said indulgent paymaster than the mechanics employed had ever met, and the said indulgent paymaster than the said indulgent paymaste been in Quebec, or at least spoken so courteous, moreover, that these men, with some of these heroes?" townsmen, found no derogation from

Some little gossip arose, however, as the new house approached completion, and still more when it was furnished ant, Pere Despard, but just returned and ready for occupancy; for, although the principal rooms were arranged much after the usual fashion of the time, and filled with the best part of the movables from Molly's own house beyond Falmouth, there were two rooms forming a wing or L, devoted to her husband's sole occupancy, and furnished after his own taste, partly from Molly's stores and partly from articles purchased in Boston, where the doctor made occasional visits, although none of the gossips could ascertain whither he went. The lower of these rooms, connected with the main body of the house by one door, and with the street by another, was Dr. Le Baron's office, library and smoking room; and from it a narrow, enclosed, winding stair led to a room above, called his dressing room, opening into his wife's bedroom, the latter a large and well-furnished chamber, adorned with the famous curtains wrought by Grand-mother Ames and serving as Molly Wilder's bridal dress. The doctor's dressing room, although containing various matters not considered essen-

"And is it furnished with bedclothes?" asked the gossip to whom Desire first confided her discovery. That discreet young woman screwed up her mouth and slowly nodded.
"There's a hard pillow; what it's made of I don't know, but not of good live-geese feathers like those in the rest of the house; and there's a couple of black things that maybe pass for blankets, and there's a sort of rug to lie on. If you call that 'furnished with bedclothes,' why, I don't."

"And he'll leave that poor young woman's bed for such a pig's nest as that!" exclaimed the gossip; and then she and Desire Billings flew in opposite directions to spread the news and the conjectures. The next day Dame Priest called upon the doctor's wife, and after various professions of friendly interest and matronly readiness to aid the young wife by counsel and sympathy, she asked to be shown over the house, rechild; and should she die unmarMolly, a little proud of her new dignity where the couple were stopping and,

A BRAVE CIRL

Saves a Drunken Man From a Terrible Fate.

Dragged His Prostrate Form From in Frent of an Approaching Train.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Jan. 2.—Miss Mary McGill, 18 years old, a school teacher at Miners Mills, near here, while walking along the railroad track toward her home about 7 p.m., noticed a drunken man walking a short distance in front of her. Not wishing to pass him, because it was a lonely place, she walked slowly. He entered a long and deep cut through which the Delaware and Hudson Railroad runs on a heavy grade.

They had walked some yards into the cut, when Miss McGill saw a fast freight enter the other end. The get off the track, but his foot struck a tie and he fell between the rails. After a vain endeavor to rise he toppled over helpless. The engine whistle sounded at that moment.

Miss McGill, who had stemped to the track, realized the peril of the man, and, without thought of her own danger, ran toward him. She was several yards away and the heavy train was rapidly approaching. She tried to raise the drunken man, but he was too helpless to make any effort in his own behalf, and she could not lift him. Summoning all her strength, she grasped his coat collar and pulled him from the track just as the engine dashed past. As it was the cow-catcher caught and bruised the man's leg. The train rushed by with such force that the woman and man were both hurlagainst the side of the cut and fell to the ground. The awful danger to which he had been exposed sobered the man somewhat, and after thanking Miss McGill, he walked away. He was John Cuddy.

BIG GOLD NUGGET

Found in North Carolina - It Weighs Over Thirty-One Pounds.

Richmond, Va., Jan. 2.-Not a little excitement has been aroused in Salisbury, N. C., by the announcement of the finding at El Dorado, Montgomery county, of a large gold nugget weighpounds and 7 ounces avoirdupois and worth $9,000 or $10,000.

A similar excitement was created last summer, when a number of large nuggets were unearthed, two at Crawford, Stanley county, being 10 1-2 and 1-2 pounds respectively.

This last find is one of the largest known, and will put hundreds to work looking for the pockets and placers that exist in that section, covering an area of several counties.

FROZEN IN A FENCE CORNER.

Fatal Result of a New Year's Celebration-A Bottle in the Case. Merlin, Jan. 1.-Yesterday morning about 5 o'clock, Robert Lumley found the body of William Smith in a fence corner, about two and a half miles south of the town line, between Ra-leigh and Tilbury.

Smith had been employed for a considerable length of time as a nurse in the house of Newton Simpson, Lake Shore, Mr. Simpson's father being ill. He was in Ridgetown Monday, and returned to Merlin on the 5:30 train, leaving here between 6 and 7 for the Simpson home. That was the last seen of him until found yesterday morning. Not far from the body was found a half empty flask, and it is said Smith was drinking while in town. He had no overcoat on. The body was frozen quite stiff. Deceased was a widower, about 45 years old, and is not known to have any relatives in this section, although he was very well known. On his person was found a gold watch and scarf pin. No bruises have yet been discovered, or anything to indicate that he met a violent death.

SHOT BY HIS DOG.

One of the Strangest of Strange Shooting

Pawtucket, R. I., Jan. 1.-Louis Lezotte was shot by his own dog while squirrel-hunting in the woods near Rehoboth, Mass., yesterday afternoon. He had a double-barrelled gun with him, and, sighting a squirrel high up in an oak, Lezotte let go one barrel, badly wounding the squirrel. Standing the gun against the tree, Lezotte began to climb to secure his quarry.

The dog, which from the time of the discharge of the gun, had been running excitedly about the tree, began to jump against the trunk, as if trying to follow his master. His paw struck the trigger of the loaded barrel, sending a charge of shot up past Lezotte's side and lodging in the muscles of the right arm near the shoulder. Lezott fell, but managed to make his way to a doctor in Rohoboth, who sent for an ambulance to take the wounded man to the Rhode Island Hospital. A Natural Gas Expert makes a Discovery in Canada.

Natural gas has become so important a factor that many have turned from other vocations in life to study and perfect the modes of transmitting it to our larger cities, but out of the many, very few become experts, and only those of peculiar adaptabilities can hope for success. Mr. T. J. Driscoll, of Pittsburgh, Pa., is one of these favored few. In the Pennsylvania oil regions he is well known, and the fame of his ability at piping natural gas spread to Canada. He was engaged by the Ontario Gas Co., working at the city of Windsor, Ontario, to pipe gas for that place and Walkerville, and while performing this operation, he made the discovery of a remedy which he states made him feel like a new man with an ambition in life. We give his story in his own words: "I have been suffering with a kidney affliction which has troubled me more or less for years. I had tried many of the remedies on the market for such complaints without any relief. During an engagement with the Ontario Natural Gas Co., while piping the city of Windsor for natural gas, I had the good fortune to hear of Doan's Kidney Pills. I pronounce them a boon to mankind, and something which should be in every household. I feel like a new man, with an ambition in life, and wish you every success which is due to such a wonderful medicine.' Doan's Kidney Pills are sold by all dealers for 50 cents per box, or six boxes for $2.50, or will be sent by mail on receipt of price by the Doan Kidney Pill Co., Toronto, Ont.
