DOUBLE SHOOTING AT PETROLEA MOTHER KILLED, CHILD DYING

Wm. Moore Charged With Murdering Mrs. King, Following Quarrel Over Woman's Refusal to Accept Him as a Boarder.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Petrolea, July 8.—Following a quarrel at noon today, Wm. Moore, a young Englishman, shot and killed Mrs. John King, and probably fatally wounded her 12-year-old daughter, Florence. Mrs. King was shot through the heart and died instantly, while her daughter is in the hospital hovering between life and death. Moore used a sporting rifle.

The tragedy occurred at the house of Mrs. King, on the east end of the main street. Just what led up to the tragedy is not yet clear, as the child is unable to tell of what occurred, and Moore has nothing to say. Moore, who was employed at the wagon works, boarded with his victim some months ago, when she kept a boarding and rooming house in the west end of the town. Shortly after moving, however, for some reason Moore was turned out, and was always refused admittance, although he repeatedly tried to get in. This morning he was seen to enter Mrs. King's house, and it is supposed, becoming enraged at again being refused board, shot the woman and child. Policeman Whitlock was passing on his bicycle at the moment of the shooting, and hearing the shots and screams, rushed in and arrested Moore, who surrendered without a struggle. He was placed in the cells, and has made no statement. Mrs. King was a middle-aged woman, and for some time had been separated from her husband.

DOCTOR IN A FLYING AUTO WINS IN RACE WITH DEATH

Sarnia Physician Makes Fast Time to Injured Boy and Prevents His Bleeding to Death.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Sarnia, July 7.—A serious accident occurred at Mandamin this morning, when the young son of Patrick Doyle had his left leg nearly severed by being caught in a moving machine. The lad was assisting his father in the hay when the accident occurred, and in some way he fell in front of the mower while it was in operation. Dr. Merrison, of Sarnia, was hastily summoned, and he made the ten miles in less than fifteen minutes in his automobile, a fact which in all probability saved the youth from bleeding to death. The injured lad was taken to Sarnia Hospital, where everything possible is being done to save the injured leg.

CASTRO AND A THOUSAND READY TO START A REVOLT

[Canadian Press.]
Willemstad, Curacao, July 8.—The Venezuelan Government has positive news that Cipriano Castro, the exiled president of Venezuela, has effected a landing on the western part of Venezuela and today has a following of one thousand men.

SPLENDID WELCOME AWAITS PREMIER

Montreal To Be Elaborately Decorated for Occasion.

Montreal, Que., July 7.—Details of Montreal's welcome to Sir Wilfrid Laurier are now being completed. The Premier and his party will leave Sorel on Sunday about 4 o'clock and proceed up the river to Montreal, being met on the way by a flotilla of tugs and pleasure craft. This fleet will include about 150 craft, illuminated and decorated. Illuminations and fireworks on both shores of the river will mark the progress of the Premier's vessel. The city will be illuminated in the most complete fashion. A triumphal arch will be erected at the point of debarkation, and the various vessels in port will be decorated in honor of the occasion. The city council will attend in a body, and Ald. Gauvin, acting mayor, will cross the Champs de Mars, pass down Jacques Cartier Square, and take up a position on either side of the thoroughfare.

MASS MEETING ARRANGED THE HARBOR TO BE ILLUMINATED FROM END TO END.

Immediately after the reply Sir Wilfrid, the civic authorities and other dignitaries in carriages will leave the wharf by Commissioners street to Jacques Cartier Square, and thence to the platform on the edge of the Champs de Mars. The ascent of Jacques Cartier Square will take place under a dome of light, formed by a series of incandescents sixty feet long and four feet high, covering the entire width of the street. On each side of the square hanging decorations will be displayed. The Champs de Mars will be similarly illuminated, the chief feature being a gigantic portrait of the Premier outlined in fire, with the inscription, "Je me souviens."

BADLY BATTERED

[Canadian Press.]
Montreal, July 8.—With his head and face badly battered, a young man, who was intoxicated he did not know his own name, was brought to the general hospital last night. Constable Trudel happened along as the man was hauled out of the barroom into the street, and he called an ambulance to remove him to the hospital. Constable Egan tried to learn what had happened in the saloon, but was able to get little satisfaction. It was alleged, however, that the bartender had assaulted the man.

[Canadian Press.]
Toronto, July 8.—His back broken in three places, Charles E. Jones was taken to St. Michael's Hospital, and is not likely to live many days. He is a traveller from Norway, N. Y., and had been working for the Davis Tree Company. He was reaching for a limb when he missed his hold and fell 25 feet to the ground.

MR. ESSERY TO STAND Will Allow His Name to Go Before East Middlesex Conservative Convention.

Mr. E. T. Essery, K. C. of this city, will allow his name to go before the next convention of East Middlesex Conservatives, a candidate for the Dominion House. It is also understood that Mr. Peter Elson, the present member, will again go to the convention.

There is a story in circulation, also, that Mr. S. Frank Glass and Mr. Geo. Nobby M.P.E. will allow their names to go to the convention. Both are said to be looking for the nomination and will make a strong bid for the honor.

COM. CROU WAS FINED FOR SPEEDING

It Was Done by Proxy, But It Cost Detroit Official $20 in Fines.

Lansing, Mich., July 7.—Frank H. Croul, Detroit's police commissioner, ran against the arm of the law in Justice Force's court in Lansing township, and as a result he paid $20 in fines.

Several days ago Commissioner Croul sent his chauffeur to this city with his car to have some repairs made to it, and when the chauffeur left for his return trip, it is alleged, he made too much haste through Justice Force's jurisdiction. An officer served papers on the commissioner in his office in Detroit, and settlement was made over the telephone.

LITTLE GIRL DIED FROM EFFECTS SWALLOWING INDELIBLE LEAD

Baby Allowed to Have Pencil Which She Kept in Her Mouth, With Result That Death Occurred.

Anna Viola Harris, a little colored girl residing with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Harris at 11 Maitland street, died in Victoria Hospital on Wednesday after a long illness which commenced after she had swallowed some of the lead from an indelible pencil which one of the other children brought home from school. The baby took a great fancy to the pencil and kept it in her mouth for some time.

This was in March, and although strong and healthy before, the child soon became ill and gradually sank until her death occurred.

The cause of death is given as tubercular meningitis. The funeral was held yesterday afternoon at Mount Pleasant cemetery and the services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Smith, of the B. M. E. Church.

"WELCOME, GIVE US HOME RULE" IRISH GREETING TO THE KING

Their Majesties Given an Orderly Reception Upon Arrival at Irish Capital—Mayor Fails to Turn Up.

[Canadian Press.]
Dublin, July 8.—King George and Queen Mary received a quiet but cordial welcome to Ireland today. The attitude of the people is well expressed by a banner stretched outside the city council hall at Pembroke, a suburb of the capital, which refused to present an official address to the King, reading: "Welcome, We want home rule."

They were received on shore by the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland and driven in state carriages to the Castle of Holywood, where apartments had been especially prepared for their occupancy during their stay here.

The occasion was made a holiday, and the streets were crowded with people, who had come to see what to them was an interesting pageant. Students from Trinity College gathered in force on College Green and gave their majesties a loyal and enthusiastic welcome. The threatened counter demonstration did not materialize.

LONDON PEOPLE HAD POCKETS PICKED ON GRAND TRUNK RY.

A Traveller Lost $100 at Depot, and a Lady $20—A Local Auctioneer Was Relieved of $150 Between Woodstock and London.

A clever gang of pickpockets have been successful in their operations on the trains running between London and Hamilton lately.

Memorial Day they made a rich haul in less than three hours. One hundred and fifty dollars were successfully extracted from the pocket of Mr. Joseph Brown, an auctioneer, somewhere in the vicinity of Woodstock, after he had boarded a train for London. He did not miss the money for some time and does not know just how or where he lost it.

A London lady had $20 taken from her on another train, and a well-known traveller lost $100 in the same way.

Mr. J. F. Hunt, the artist, on the holiday, while standing at the G. T. R. station, in the crowd, saw a man, whom he now believes was the pickpocket. This individual kept in the thickest of the crowd at the depot here, and was conducting himself in a suspicious manner. Mr. Hunt's suspicions were aroused.

The police have had information from outside points regarding a number of other cases of pickpocketing on the trains.

People who are travelling, particularly on the holiday crowds, cannot keep too close a watch on their pockets," said a detective to The Advertiser today. "There is apparently a professional pickpocket, or maybe several of them, working the trains in this district. We have had many complaints both from the city and outside points."

JUDGMENT TO BE GIVEN FRIDAY

Very Contradictory Evidence Was Given in the James Liquor Case.

THE POLICE STORY DENIED Hotel Proprietor Claims He Was Not Selling Liquor After Hours on a Saturday Night.

After listening until 8 o'clock last night to the evidence of the defence in the charge of selling liquor after hours, which Inspector Galpin is pressing against Mr. Charles James, of the Hotel Windsor, Magistrate Judd announced that he would give his decision in the matter next Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

Chief Attorney McKillop argued strongly for a conviction under section 109, which is very broad in its application, stating that there need be no evidence of sale or money changing hands, but evidence that liquor had been consumed or was about to be consumed.

Mr. McKillop contended that the fact that four men were found in a darkened room, one of them with an open bottle of liquor, just off the ice, at his feet, was indisputable evidence of this sort, to say nothing of Mr. James' action in throwing away another bottle when he ran away.

Crown Attorney McKillop argued that there was no doubt that Mr. James went into the bar and had some liquor, one of which he had opened and given to two men to drink, and had the other for the other two men.

Mr. Graydon contended that no hotelkeeper, if he were going to sell after hours, would be silly enough to leave all the doors wide open.

"That is just what a sensible man would do, I think," said the magistrate.

Mr. Graydon contended that there was no evidence of intended consumption.

"How about the open bottle on the floor?" asked the court.

"That was right near two of your witnesses,"

Mr. Graydon urged that all the men

IS NO FRIEND OF THE HOUSEFLY

Dr. Hutchinson Advises the People to "Swat" the Insect.

PUBLIC DRINKING CUPS

Medical Health Officer Says These, in the Public Interest, Should Also Go.

Dr. Hutchinson, medical health officer, is very pronounced in his opposition to the housefly.

"There is no more energetic propagator of disease known to civilization than the housefly," declared Dr. Hutchinson to The Advertiser. "Typhoid and cholera germs are what the housefly likes best to carry, but in this country, where we have no cholera, the disease which the fly finds it easiest to propagate is tuberculosis. The housefly fairly fattens on the sputa of consumptive patients." Plus of any kind he declares to be the favorite food of the housefly plague.

A Filthy Visitor.

"Not only is the fly a menace to public health by reason of the very nature of its food, but its body and limbs are so constructed that they carry, in addition, all kinds of filth from their feeding grounds to the dining-room table of every house to which they are admitted. Dr. Hutchinson has made a close study of the housefly problem for many years, and has repeatedly sought to institute measures against the dangerous little insect. Some time ago a noted scientist and investigator delivered a lecture on the subject before one of the local women's clubs, but no active organization on the part of the London housewives has followed the lecture, nor have any of the women's associations made any plans for a local war on the tiny creature, which is accused of causing so much sickness and suffering to the human race.

Another nuisance.

Another nuisance to public health which Dr. Hutchinson would like to see abolished in the public drinking cup. In many public places and schools these cups have now been replaced by fountain. Dr. Hutchinson stated that he himself had removed the drinking cups from a certain public place where mineral water is drunk in one of the parks. To the public drinking cup he attributes the spread of cancer and other dread diseases from which the human mind instinctively shrinks.

BODY OF AGED MAN WAS FOUND ON THE BEACH AT PORT STANLEY

Case Is Supposed To Be One of Suicide—No One Is Missing From London Who Answers to the Description of the Remains.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Port Stanley, July 8.—The body of an old man was washed up on the beach here this morning about eleven o'clock. There is nothing, whatever, by which he can be identified. It is thought to be a case of suicide.

The body was clothed with the exception of the hat and coat and when found it was evident life had been extinct but a short time.

The deadman is apparently between sixty and seventy years of age.

Coroner Guest, of St. Thomas, is investigating.

So far as known no man is missing from this city who would answer the description.

CENSUS RETURNS WON'T SHOW 50,000 PEOPLE IN LONDON

A Great Many Persons Have Taken Up Their Residence in the Suburbs in the Past Few Years.

Although the figures taken by the assessment department relating to the city's population are showing remarkable increases, the possibility of the 50,000-mark being reached in the official government census is very slight.

"According to the statement of one who claims to be in a position to know the number of persons residing within the actual limits of the city boundaries and eastern limit of London, having moved across into the county, owing to the scarcity of homes in the immediate vicinity of their places of employment, and consequently the returns for London without its suburbs will not be as encouraging as some hoped.

Population Scattered.

It is estimated that there are 55,000 people who consider London their home, but they are scattered in the different suburbs, such as London Junction or Eastmount, Ealing, Chelsea Green, Highland Park, Knowlton Park, Oxford Park and numerous other land surveys, and the people of London appear to be very anxious to learn whether or not the city will have Sunday care after the taking of the census," said Commissioner E. W. Scatcherd today. "If the 50,000-mark should not be reached it will be merely on a technicality, as the area of London is spreading rapidly while the boundaries remain unchanged."

It has been found that a few scattered houses have been missed by the census enumerators. However, this is but to be expected in the carrying out of such a great work, and any whose names have not been taken should notify the commissioner by phone or post immediately. Scatcherd can be located at phone 973.

PARENTS ARE DISSATISFIED WITH EXAMINATION RESULTS

Some of Them Claim That 50 Per Cent. of Scholars Failed in the Promotion Tests—Increase in Percentage Necessary To Pass Is Blamed.

There is some dissatisfaction among the parents of children over the results of the promotion examinations at the public schools. It is said that 50 per cent of the pupils have failed, and as a result the parents are not pleased.

However, Inspector Edwards declares that the pass list was a good, considerably more than 50 per cent. He also states that the results are highly satisfactory to the teachers, and that those pupils who failed may write in September on supplemental examinations to retrieve their position.

"I have been informed that 50 per cent of the pupils in the public schools have failed to pass," said a citizen to The Advertiser. "The papers were difficult, and the increase of the percentage necessary to pass to 60 per cent, has created havoc among the parents. This should be looked into, and if these facts are the case, the citizens should know it. I am commencing to think that there is something wrong with the system. Children cannot go to the public schools until they are six years of age, and if they are successful each year, they will be promoted to the next grade."

POLICE STATION SADLY NEGLECTED

Men Complain of the Insanitary Condition of the Building. NO REPAIRS IN 10 YEARS

Only Office That Has Been in Any Way Improved Has Been That of the Magistrate.

All who have had occasion to frequent the police station lately, and particularly during the recent hot days, are loud in their complaints regarding the conditions that prevail there. The courtroom is kept as clean as it can be, but for ten long years it has had a new coat of paint or any renovating done to it, and the result is that it is most decidedly, as Inspector Edwards has recently stated, "insanitary."

One Office Renovated.

The only respectable place upstairs in Magistrate Judd's office, which was renovated when his term of office expired. The office of Police Court Clerk Moule, adjoining, is grimy with dust, and that of Chief William is little better. The courtroom is filled with foul odors, no matter how much the windows are kept up, predominate.

During the recent inquiry when the jurymen had to gather in the room, with the mercury outside about the 100-mark, the room was simply sickening, and everybody in it complained of the terrible state it was in.

Men Complain.

For a long time the men on the force have been complaining of lack of proper toilet accommodation. There are only two to be used in the whole establishment, one upstairs and one on the ground floor. With 42 men on the force coming in continually off their beats, and wanting to wash up before they go home to sleep, long and tiresome delays are continually experienced, and anything of other discomfort in the crowded and hot room, which is the only place which can be used.

Chief Explains.

"I would have asked for improvements long ago," said Chief Williams to The Advertiser this afternoon. "Only I have been expecting that we would have a new station and a new up-to-date arrangements. I thought, why, this place hasn't had anything done to it in ten years, and the men are fearfully dirty and the whole station needs renovating. We haven't anything like proper toilet accommodation for the men on the force, but we have been making it do, expecting that we would soon have a new place."

LONDON, SATURDAY, JULY 8.

THE ROYAL PAIR IN IRELAND.

King George and Queen Mary are in Ireland today, and whatever may be thought of the Dublin council's action in refusing to welcome their majesties, the people of the Irish capital are giving them the warmest sort of reception.

The last George's visit was in a way prophetic, part of his rounds, followed by similar visits as Hanover, then a part of the royal dominion, and finally to Scotland. Yet, with no other redeeming features as king or as man, George IV. did pay for a time more attention to Ireland and Irish questions than any other British sovereign has done.

Queen Victoria, who likewise made a state visit early in her reign, never went back again in sixty years, and was always distant towards the Irish. King Edward did better and was heartily appreciated for his evident good wishes.

One would think that British sovereigns might have done more to deserve the ready response always made by affectionate Irish hearts to the attentions sometimes graciously paid them. They certainly showed George IV. that they could love even him as the friend of Graham, Moore and Sheridan.

Before steamers came into use, perhaps, there was some excuse for the sovereign's neglect. We read, for example, that George IV. himself had to fight his way back for ten whole days against adverse winds on his return to England. But it does not now look that many hearts to make the transit.

For a long time George V. had opened to some extent as a friend of Catholic relief. He had been cooling before his accession to the throne, but it was only after 1871 that he became the uncompromising and finally harsh, cruel enemy of the Irish cause. The Irish still had some hopes of him in 1871.

The present King has already twice visited Ireland as a prince, and it is evident that he intends to change the custom of fairly ignoring the role of the shamrock. Mr. Redmond has expressed the hope that George V. will open in person the first Irish parliament after home rule becomes law. He would not make a better stroke. The Irish people are in the elements of loyalty, through their emotions and sympathies. George V. may well be the first king of Ireland, acknowledged by the whole and individual Irish people since the almost mythical days of Brian Boru.

A new era is dawning for Ireland, as for Great Britain. Scotland will cease to mar her fortunes. King George may himself do much to banish the one thousand years of strife, the feud of rich and poor, and bring in the thousand years of peace, at last.

THE SCRAMBLE IN MOROCCO.

Germany has not yet made known her designs in entering Agadir, whether she desires a coaling and naval station, convenient as about half way from Hamburg to German Brazil, or a foothold for partitioning Morocco, or merely to put a stop to French and Spanish expansion. The French and Spanish governments are both disclaiming anything more than punitive and preventive policing. The Algerian treaty forbids them to establish any protectorate. But for some time both have been occupying Moorish territories and Shavian Arabs constitute an effective unit in the French expeditionary force at Fez.

The Berbers, who are the vanguard element of the Moroccan population, have always been, unlike the tamer Egyptians, an unruly and war-like race, natural-born fighters. Still in a tribal state, often at feud among themselves, they have never been united and organized except under a Sultan of exceptional strength. Such a force seems no longer to be forthcoming, and European powers pretend to think that Morocco, like the rest of Africa, must be treated as so much tribal land to be divided into spheres of influence, or the Sultan maintained under a protectorate until the country and its government can be modernized and a real national spirit develop among the people. A joint protectorate proved a failure once in Egypt, and Germany or Spain will not concede an undivided protectorate to France.

Great Britain has by far the largest trade interests, Germany almost none at all. But Germany doubtless has ambitions in this quarter, not to speak of her supposed desire for a coaling station. As to this, it is understood that the British Government has unofficially notified Germany that it will not allow the establishment of a German naval station anywhere on the Moroccan coast, and Mr. Asquith has announced that he will fulfill all treaty obligations toward France.

Perhaps Germany's real intention is to press for a political concession, but finally falling this to stick out for industrial and railway concessions as a compromise. It has been thought that the United States as a signatory of the treaty of Algiers, might have something to say in the breaking of the treaty by Germany and virtually already by France and Spain. But in taking part in the convention the United States Government expressly stipulated that its signature involved no departure from its traditional policy of keeping free of European entanglements. Likewise, then, the four powers most interested will be left to settle the question among themselves. It is a hard problem for the new French ministry to have to meet immediately, but the barons keep continually while ministers come and go, and nobody seems to expect a slip that would lead to war.

German newspapers show no ill will at Mr. Asquith's firmness, commenting indeed on his cool and calm common sense. While Mr. German and Mr. Foster, as directors of a great fruit company, appealing to British investors for capital, speak in the most glowing terms of the future of that industry, Mr. Flaville, the head of the Davies Packing Company, represents the prospects of his firm in the same rosy light. Yet Messrs. German and Foster pretend on the political platform that the fruit industry is going to suffer, and Mr. Flaville cried that the packing business would be ruined by reciprocity.

The Davies company announced a six per cent. bond issue of $1,250,000 which was all taken up in one day. Mr. Flaville in boasting the issue told the public of the company's large earnings and its successful competition with the American packers in the United Kingdom, and even to some extent in the United States. He wrote: "It is reasonable to assume that the experience of the past years will be repeated and that if on occasions of year results in no profit in some important branch of the business, compensation will be found in the larger profits of other departments. There is every reason to expect continued satisfactory margin of profit over and above the interest and sinking fund requirements of this bond issue."

Why is it that Mr. Flaville speaks with two voices? As a businessman he says that his company competes abroad with Americans as a politician he said that under reciprocity it would not be able to compete with them at home. As a politician he was ready to go down and die under reciprocity. "I am only an infant, unable to hear up against those big, strong, clever Americans," he said and smiled a child-like smile, very like the smile of the northern Chinese. As a businessman looking for the people's dollars he assures the public that the company will go on making money as before. And no doubt they will.

CALLS THE ARRESTS THIRD DEGREE METHOD

"Kidnapping" of McNamara Stir Up President Gompers. [Canadian Press.] Washington, July 8.—"Infamous" and "third degree methods" were terms used by President Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, in denouncing the arrest of McNamara and other labor agitators by the police.

Mr. Gompers, who was in London on a visit, said that the arrests were a "third degree method" and that the police were using force and intimidation.

He claimed McNamara was taken before a court which, instead of inquiring into the charges against him, merely investigated the personal details of the prisoner. The witness said McNamara was denied counsel and removed to a cell without any trial.

Mr. Gompers said that the arrests were a "third degree method" and that the police were using force and intimidation.

BUCK SHEEP BEATS A BULLYING BULL

Here's the Very Latest Nature Fake Story. Detroit, July 8.—Here is the latest nature fake from the western stock market. A buck sheep, weighing perhaps 125 pounds, thrashed a bull, weighing 1,500 pounds, a few days ago, and the thrashing was complete, the bull refusing to permit the taunting of a red dog before him without resentment.

The bull, which was the bully of the stock market, wandered close to a car where several hundred sheep were being unloaded. A particularly vicious buck sheep ran down the runboard and the bull wandered aimlessly toward it. The sheep drew back and rushed, head downwards, at the bull. The latter met the rush with surprise.

Again the sheep charged and again the bull lowered its head. The two came together, the impact driving the bull to his knees. The bull arose and following wildly, charged at the sheep. The buck drew back and again lunged into its heavier and larger opponent. The bull again fell to his knees. These charges were repeated eight or ten times, the bull growing weaker with each succeeding one and the buck seeming to get stronger. Finally the bull turned and ran to the rear of the yards. The sheep returned to the pack.

Bullets between bulls are common at the yards. Scarcely every afternoon there is a fight that would bring ancient Romans to their feet. One story is told where two heavy bulls fought for an hour. One was finally beaten when its opponent caught it under the front legs and overthrew it.

Sick Headaches and Nervousness

"Fruit-a-tives" Completely Cured Me

Lakelton, Ont., May 12th, 1910. It is my firm belief that every woman should take "Fruit-a-tives" if she wants to keep herself in good health.

It is wonderful how quickly women get better when taking "Fruit-a-tives." These famous fruit tablets relieve headaches and tone up the whole nervous system.

Was there ever one? "Pop!" "Yes, indeed." "What is an accommodation train?" "Why, my boy, it's one a woman can keep from getting under a man's feet when she sees him reading her way."

REPEAL VETO BILL PLAN OF THE LORDS

To Force Asquith to Make Peers Would Mean Suicide.

London, July 8.—Talk of compromise on the constitutional question is filling the air today. The Unionist newspapers at the 11th hour recognize that the King has no alternative but to create sufficient peers to carry the veto bill if the premier so recommends, and say therefore that the House of Lords will commit political suicide if it compels the Government to take that course.

Hence, with a view to saving the Lords' face, they point to the fact that Viscount Morley in the recent debate in the House of Lords showed a disposition to look favorably on an amendment Lord Newton proposes to move on the report stage of the measure, which provides that no bill for the further limitation of the legislative powers of the House of Lords shall be introduced until after another general election.

The Unionists are now inclined to regard an undertaking on the part of the Government not to go any further in the direction of a single chamber Government as an acceptable compromise, and if Premier Asquith should decide to accept Lord Newton's amendment it is understood the House of Lords will move to veto the bill after the House of Commons has thrown out the Lords' amendments.

It is reported that the Unionist leaders have decided upon a policy of acquiescence of the veto bill under protest, with the intention to repeal it when they return to power, and then to proceed to reform the House of Lords, and, as soon as possible, introduce the referendum into the constitutional system.

PIG DRIVER DROWNED BUT PIGGIES ESCAPE

Creek Overflows From Torrent and Carries Herder to Death. [Canadian Press.] Wheeling, W. GREAT BRITAIN'S TRADE. London, July 8.—The Board of Trade returns issued today show that the value of imports into the United Kingdom for the six months ended on June 30, was £234,124,958, a decrease of £22,398, as compared with the corresponding period in 1910.

JUDGMENT TO BE GIVEN

had sworn that there was no liquor asked for or drunk. You don't expect me to believe the story of Mr. James going through the window because he says he heard a noise in the yard, do you?" asked the court. He also commented upon the fact that this was the third charge against Mr. James, and said that he did not expect to see him in the hall for leniency should be made because such was the case.

A Straight Denial. Mr. James, in the box, said he was about three feet away from the bar door when the officers came in. He denied that he had opened the door as the officers had said. He was in the room, he said, because he wanted to direct the porter to clean up the room, and a man was there who had taken sick. As soon as he came out, the four men came in through the hall. He denied the story of Inspector Galpin that from time to time he had taken men to the door of the room, and opened it with a key. Mr. James denied that he had any bottle in his pocket, as had been stated. He claimed that he did not know that the man who came in was Sergt. Birrell and Lucas, and Inspector Galpin.

Cross-examined by Crown Attorney McKillop, Birrell, Lucas and Galpin, not seen Pritchard around the house during the evening. He denied that his brother, the bartender (Rabson), and Pritchard had been placed outside to give warning. He denied that he had, on many occasions lately, placed bottles in his pockets. He told of taking a sick man out of one of the back rooms about the time the officers came in. While there, four men had come in. He said they wanted to go in a back room and sit down, and he asked them to wait a moment. Just then the officers came in. He said he did not know the officers because they were in plain clothes, and from the noise they made he jumped through the window, thinking there was trouble in the yard. He said he had no idea where a cold bottle of lacer, such as Sergt. Lucas found, would come from.

An Important Point. "Now, I want you to be very careful and make no mistake about this, as it is a very serious matter. Sergt. Birrell says that you had a bottle in your hip-pocket. Is that correct?"

"No, it is not," said Mr. James. "Can you give any explanation why these three men should make the statement that they saw me with a bottle?" "None," was the reply. "Can you explain how the cold bottle of lacer was found in the yard soon after the crown was called?" "No," said Mr. James. "Mr. James said that after jumping through the window into the yard he found no disturbance in progress. Now, don't you know that they pushed through that window because they saw the officers, and knew you had that bottle in your pocket?" the crown asked.

"No," said Mr. James. "Witness said the four men in the room were Messrs. Cole, Johnston, Maul and White."

Mr. James denied that he had led the men in to the door.

Another Witness. Joseph White, next called, said he was a switchman on the G. T. R. On July 1, in the evening, he went to Mr. James' house with Messrs. Maul, Cole, Johnston and White. He had only been in a few minutes, when the officers came. Nothing whatever was said about drink. Witness swore that he did not see any bottle or anything on the floor by his feet until the policeman picked it up. There had been a bottle there since a bottle of beer earlier about getting a drink.

Charles Cole said no one used any stock expression to get a drink. "But, if any man there was something for a snobottle," asked Mr. McKillop.

"No," said Mr. Cole. "He said when the men went in they saw Mr. James either in the hall or just inside the door."

Joe Johnston, another witness, said he swore positively that Mr. James had no bottle in his hip-pocket and said he could see that he hadn't. Later he swore that the room was as dark as when Sergt. Lucas came in he had to light a match to see who was there.

Not a Picket. John James denied that he had been surprised to see his brother come through the window so suddenly. "Did you see him throw any bottle away?" asked the crown. "No, he did not," said Mr. James. "All right," said the crown. "There is nothing like swinging good and strong when you start."

Robert Rabson, bartender at the Windsor, denied that he had been acting as a picket.

Varied Somewhat. Fred Maul, bartender at the Columbia Hotel, told a story which varied in important details from that of the other witnesses. He swore most positively that the four men met Mr. James in the hall and talked to him there for about a minute before going into the little parlor room. "Now, I want you to be sure about this," said Mr. McKillop. "Who is telling the truth, you or the other three men, who were with you when they say they did not see James in the hall?" "I am telling the truth," said the witness.

"I think you are," said the crown. "It corresponds exactly with what the officers saw before they went in."

FATAL TERMINATION OF CHURCH DISPUTE

Drug Clerk Near Cornwall Shot by Reeve Dies of Wounds.

Cornwall, Ont., July 7.—William Shaw, the drug clerk who was shot at Bridge End, Glangarry, last Saturday by F. D. McRae, reeve of Lancaster Township, died at the Cornwall General Hospital this afternoon. The charge of shooting with intent, which was laid against McRae, will now be changed to one of murder when he comes up in a court on Friday.

Shaw was shot by McRae while leaving Bridge End with an automobile party, which had endeavored to get possession of Dr. Magee's baby, which the mother, a Roman Catholic, who had left her husband because of religious differences, possessed. Shaw, Dr. Magee, his brother, and a chauffeur, went to Bridge End on Saturday in search of Mrs. Magee's child. They were met at the home of Mrs. Magee's father, D. C. McRae, but were told they were not there. Parquhar McKee, an uncle of the child, however, came along, and he came alone, and trouble arose among the party, with the result that rifles were drawn and were brought to bear on the situation. The child was started off in their car, but Parquhar Magee shot after them, and the ball penetrated the eye of Shaw. He was hurried to the general hospital, and made an ante-mortem statement, leaving he was going to die.

THAMESFORD CHILDREN HAD NARROW ESCAPE

Boy and Girl Almost Under Hoofs of a Runaway Horse.

On Wednesday evening at Thamesford a horse belonging to Mr. A. Cartwright, becoming frightened at an automobile ran away at a furious speed, and completely overturned in which the little child of Mrs. A. Hossick was being pushed by her little brother. The 20-car was demolished, but in some unaccountable manner the child rolled out of danger and was not trampled by the feet of the animal nor run over. The wheels of the wagon, which were terrified for the moment, when the frightened animal careered madly down the street, its speed arrested by the hoofs of the little child of the harness which had broken. The little boy who was wheeling his baby sister failed to notice the danger until it was too late. The boy was hurt at all, but the baby received a slight hurt above the eye from being thrown out of the carriage. The children also suffered from the fright received.

RUNNING SHORT OF ICE

Sarnia May Have to Put in an Artificial Plant.

Sarnia, July 7.—Owing to the fire which destroyed Sarnia's largest ice-house in the spring, the town is facing the fact that there is likely to be a shortage of ice before the summer is over, and the matter is causing a little anxiety among the merchants and other ice consumers. This week a number of artificial ice plants in Buffalo were in Sarnia looking over the prospects of manufacturing artificial ice here for the balance of the season, and building a large ice-house for next year. The prospects are exceedingly good, and in all probability the firm will locate here.

END OF BORDEN'S TOUR

Portage la Prairie Grain Growers Accuse Him of Insincerity.

Winnipeg, July 7.—Mr. Borden's tour of the prairie provinces, which opened in Winnipeg on June 19, comes to an end tomorrow with meetings at Morden, Rosbank and Summerset, in the constituency of Macdonald, represented by W. D. Staples. Today was one of the busiest of the entire tour. Mr. Borden spoke at Gladstone, a strong Liberal district, in the morning, met the grain growers at Portage la Prairie in the afternoon, and also addressed a large public meeting. Tonight he was at St. Pierre, a French settlement, near St. Boniface. The Portage la Prairie grain growers accused him of not being sincere in his stand against reciprocity. He declared that he thoroughly respected their sincerity in favoring it, and expected equal respect for the sincerity of his own views thereon. They also accused the Conservatives in Parliament with blocking legislation in the farmers' interests, which brought from him the statement that it was obviously unfair of them to take that stand and let reciprocity blind their eyes to the policy of the Conservatives in respect to chilled meat, Hudson Bay railway and terminal elevators. Mr. Borden's party was joined today by T. W. Crofton, M. P., and W. W. Crofton, M. P., who have been stump-ing Manitoba, J. G. H. Bergeron, who has been addressing meetings in the French settlements, Hon. Robert Rogers and Hugh Armstrong.

MADE IN LONDON

Patronize Home Industry and Build Up Your Own Community

A GAIN London's industrial host appears pictorially, and in brief conspectus on a single page. Look the items over and grasp more clearly the importance of this city and what can be done here in the way of business.

To the citizens of London these industries are a matter of pride and of convenience. To others their products are brought quickly home by the network of railways which radiates in every direction from this city. With four trunk lines and one traction road in operation, London has a better railway service than any other city in Canada.

There are a good many other reasons why London enjoys such success as a business centre. Labor conditions have been unusually free from friction. Workmen are satisfied as a general thing. This is a city of homes and gardens, owned by the occupants; nearly every street is a park; the water supply both for drinking and for manufacture is in itself for quantity and quality enough to make anybody prefer to work in London. A healthy and happy artisan turns out a good product and takes a pride in his workmanship. There are no slums here.

If you need anything, see first if it is manufactured at home or in this great transportation centre. Then buy from the London manufacturer.

About 40 different lines of manufacture and supply are represented on this page, a very great variety, from ranges and furnaces to biscuits and bolts, from engines to memorial windows.

The reputation of London firms is deservedly high. Their customers are sure of a square deal in all transactions. All over Canada the quality of a commodity is practically guaranteed by its being "Made in London." As this has not been a city of booms, the advance of its businessmen has been steady and solid, looking always to future reputation as well as to a present gain. Sometimes, however, a prophet or a manufacturer is honored anywhere but in his own country or city, and no doubt people of this city often buy carelessly the product of distant places when they could just as well purchase from the man near by.

Deal with the home concerns. If you want a carriage, remember the home builder. If the flour barrel is empty, think of flour "Made in London." Smokers need not look abroad. Shoes that everybody likes are made right here. Plumbers will do well to keep always in mind the local manufacturer. For ironware the supply is right at our doors. And so on with the rest. Scrutinize this list and pick out what you need.

London Delegates

There has been no excessive demand for building permits so far in July. Two were issued today, one for Homer Pearson for a two-story brick house on Victoria street, to cost $2,200, and to T. Kemp for a one-story brick residence on Oak street, to cost $1,000.

Elmwood Bowlers

The Elmwood Bowling Club, of South London will play one team, and very likely two, in the big W. O. B. A. tournament which will be held shortly. The club has a paid membership of 88. Ten big 100 candle power hydro lamps have been placed about the clubhouse, and every evening an enthusiastic crowd of bowlers play their favorite game until very late.

A Runaway

An old gentleman was driving a spirited horse on Father street north at night when it took fright at a passing automobile and bolted suddenly, breaking the harness. He was thrown and dashed wildly down the street, leaving the dashboard and parts of the harness behind. He was stopped at the intersection of the street and the street of the buggy escaped serious injury beyond a bad shaking up.

A Quick Move

The Wilson family who took possession of a house on Wilson avenue a couple of days ago, contrary to the orders of a local real estate agent, made a quick move yesterday. The agent found them there, and gave them until 4 o'clock in the afternoon to get out, and they left in a hurry. The last of their goods was out of the place, and they had taken themselves to a different part of the city.

Police Lodging Is A Little High

John Hill, a colored citizen, was charged by his wife, Mrs. Alene Hill, with the charge of molesting her on the street. The witness was withdrawn this morning when $100 costs were paid.

SYLVIA PANKHURST WRITES BOOK ON THE SUFFRAGETTE

No Apologies to Offer—Says the Non-Militants Would Have Achieved Nothing—No Pleading for Sympathy.

MISS SYLVIA PANKHURST has written a book, "The Suffragette," which is a history of the women's movement in Great Britain. It is a history of the women's movement in Great Britain, and it is a history of the women's movement in Great Britain.

with their mild and conciliatory methods, would never have accomplished anything. No Apologies to Offer. What we find in this book is a direct and minute account of the doings of the women's rights movement under the new dispensation, from its institution in 1903, and its first constructive work in 1905, until well along in 1910. We learn the methods by which the Manchester party got touch with women throughout the country, their rude methods of by-elections, when they worked against candidates of the party in power; their invasion of London, their public meetings, their parades, their tricks, their brooding statesmen, their little riots in Downing street, their big riots in and near St. Stephen's, their meetings with the police, their experience with magistrates and in prison. Not a significant detail is omitted. There is no pleading for sympathy. Nothing is extenuated, nor is aught, we verily believe, set down in malice.

These four women seem to have been born to fight for votes. The widow and daughters of a Manchester physician, who was an aggressive social reformer, they have lived always in an atmosphere of aggressive social reform. Sylvia and Christina were avowed suffragettes at the ages of seven and nine. They went in for other things, of course. Sylvia has been, indeed, she still may be an art student. She is in her thirtieth year now, and Christina, she is diminutive, alert, vociferous, irrefragable, and is two years older. That she should lead the life of a suffragette, is a gentle and a faithful dweller in a dreary and the iron of fate.

Her Mother the Founder. Miss Pankhurst briefly narrates the history of her family, and pays a tribute of respect to her father, who did not live to see his daughters win renown. Then she plunges into her subject. It was in 1802 that Emmeline Pankhurst, the mother, made up her mind that the fight for suffrage could never be won on the old lines. She has been devoting much of her time to educational work in Manchester, but she has given up everything for the cause, and founded the Women's Social and Political Union, which is a familiar watchword, "Votes for Women." From the first, various labor organizations showed sympathy with the movement, but the sympathy was not continuous, and thus far the suffragette movement (Miss Pankhurst soberly accepts the name) has got along without any help to speak of from outside. Neither political party has ever actually favored a Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman believed personally in suffrage for women, but refused his political aid to the cause. The anti-suffrage women and their opponents as dangerous as Asquith and Haldane. The police, the magistrates, and the press are their avowed enemies. Yet from first to last there is not a hint of malice in Miss Pankhurst's narrative. Even toward the anti-suffrage women and their opponents she maintains a moderation of tone and a fair mind. Hers is a nature to be in opposition. Without British conservatism and liberal law to fight against there would have been no suffragettes, and Miss Pankhurst is quite sure that the suffragettes political promotion, he devoted himself to the search for truth with such singleness of heart and unflinching courage as seldom seen among men. The more he read and reflected the more thoroughly was he convinced that he discerned a great void in the history of humanity that needed filling up, and finally his great mind began to concentrate its energies upon this mighty task for which he seemed to have been born—the elucidation of the laws governing human progress.

The result was the immortal book, "The History of the Women's Movement in England," in two volumes, intended by its author as the introduction to the monumental work that was to follow. That judgment of the work created such excitement in intellectual circles as had not been known for generations. Never was a work, not fictitious, the subject of so much interest. The world was startled into admiration by its reading, vigorous style and bold assumptions.

Against his will and wishes, for he was a peacefully modest and careful absolutely nothing for the plaudits of the public, Buckle suddenly found out that his name was upon every tongue, and that he was one of the most famous men in the world. Devouring introductory volumes, men waited anxiously for the main work to come. That it never came, and that the name of the introduction was published in 1861, and already Buckle, though only thirty-nine, was marked for death in his heart. He had forgotten his body, and the penalty was about to be exacted. Loving friends took him to the soft air of the Orient, hoping that the might restore him his lost health, but all in vain, and on the last day of May, 1862, in old Damascus, with the palms waving over his couch and the nightingales singing about him, he breathed his last.

On his tomb they carved this Arabic couplet:
"The writer's word remains long after the writer;
The writer is resting under the earth,
But his works endure."

KITCHENER TALKS TO BOY SCOUTS
Famous General Reviews a Large Body at Ipswich.

LORD KITCHENER recently inspected seven hundred Boy Scouts assembled at Ipswich from all parts of the county in accordance with an invitation to visit Ipswich, from the mayor, Mr. Philip Colbold, to whom he is related. Lord Kitchener asked: "Have you any Boy Scouts?" The demonstration was the answer. The boys were stretched out in a long line across the grass at the Portman road, and a big crowd was looking on. As soon as Lord Kitchener reached the salute, he shouted his patrol cries. They then assumed a horse-shoe formation, and sang their chorus. Lord Kitchener inspected them, shaking hands with the scout masters, and then the march past, and afterwards some of them gave an exhibition of single stick, Judo, and other sports. Lord Kitchener then had them gathered round him in a circle and addressed them.

After having congratulated them all on their smart appearance, he said that before they had the scout organization the boys were generally very idle, and he had little doubt that owners of orchards suffered considerably at their hands. Now all that was changed. Scouts would never touch what was not theirs, and they even gave protection to property. He hoped that the community felt the advantage of that, and would give generous support in furthering the movement by every means in their power. They all knew that in those days, where scouting was popular and seriously taken up, there were no idle hands about for "old Nick" to employ. The scout system has always to be considered and not some good old idea, and he thought that he might suggest that they should help those boys who had not the good fortune to belong to the scouts to obtain the advantages that they themselves had derived. He need not tell them what those advantages were, but he was proud of their faces, and knew that they were healthier and happier by having a responsible and about doing very little good, and possibly much harm to themselves and others. He knew what inconvenience was suffered, and what hard work had to be done, and he was glad that those who took an interest in and tried to help the movement, but he had not yet met anyone who took an active part with scouts who had not done that side of the question, for though it often must be very irksome to give up the time required, the reward was there in the bright faces around one, and in the warm feeling of gratitude and devotion that boy scouts always feel for their leaders and helpers. A boy had not the right to be a scout, but they were really only learning how to meet the grave experience of after-life. Then serious business would begin for them, and many difficulties and temptations would beset them. They must work hard now in order that the grand principles of scouting might be so engraved in their minds that when they struck the straight trail, as he hoped they all would, they might each be able to follow it steadily, not as a tenderfoot seeking his way, but as a scout who was fully prepared.

The boys then cheered holding their hats aloft on their staves. After thanking them Lord Kitchener drove away, and the boys were given tea in the Territorial drill hall by Sir Frederick Wilson.

BETTER THAN SPANKING
Spanking does not cure children of bad wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Sumner, West W. Ontario, will send free to any mother for success in full home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her name and address to the publisher of this paper. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment is the best in the world. People troubled with urine difficulties may day or night.

After being worked for more than 250 years, mines at Parral, South America, are being curtailed owing to the high cost of operation. Two American companies are erecting cyanide mills at Parral and under their management the mines are expected to renew their former activity.

Henry Thomas Buckle
(By Rev. Thomas B. Gregory)

FIFTY-NINE years ago, on May 21st, 1852, in the ancient city of Damascus, died that remarkable man, Henry Thomas Buckle, a man of rare talent and character, whose life of should place his memory to the great good of all lands and times. The new republic in history comes from the fact that he was the first to apply on a considerable scale scientific treatment to the facts of human experience, and the first to attempt to bring history into the category of the exact sciences. Placed early at school, Buckle rapidly gained distinction, and at the age of fourteen won the grand prize for mathematics. His parents asked him to name his own additional reward, and he chose the privilege of being removed from school. The boys' request was granted, and immediately he set forth with a pilot upon the sea of knowledge. He was diligent and thought for twenty years, with scarcely an interval of rest. Rich with the highest social connections, with every opportunity for pleasure and for

BULWER LYTTON'S STORMY LIFE

Came of Two Notable Families
—His Early Love Affair and Unhappy Marriage.

BULWER-LYTTON came of two notable families. The first was believed to have come over with the Normans. The Lytton side were an old clan settled at Conington, and in the Peak district of North Derbyshire. Robert de Lytton had fought at Bosworth and was honored by Henry VII. The second side, the Knibworths, like so many other noble families, came into the hands of the old aristocracy, who supported the church and the aristocrats who were really only learning how to meet the grave experience of after-life. Then serious business would begin for them, and many difficulties and temptations would beset them. They must work hard now in order that the grand principles of scouting might be so engraved in their minds that when they struck the straight trail, as he hoped they all would, they might each be able to follow it steadily, not as a tenderfoot seeking his way, but as a scout who was fully prepared.

England and the English An American's Criticisms

Rosbery Praises Prince Collier's Book—English Self-Confidence—The English Home—Terrible Crowds—The Beauty of the Landscape—A Shrine for Americans.

OLD ROSEBERY, writing a view to the comfort and exigencies of a new half-a-century, has written a new edition of Mr. Price Collier's book on "England and the English," which is a most interesting and valuable contribution to our knowledge of the English people. This famous book is able to show more clearly than any other the true character of the Englishman.

It is certainly a most interesting book, and will interest all those who are interested in the English people, and like to know how we appear to other nations.

English Habits at Sea.—New York on a steamer, and the impressions you get from the Englishman, you put on board, begins Mr. Collier's. The change from the restlessness of the English cab-driver to the serenity of the Englishman of the sea is a most interesting study.

Lord Curzon's Views.—Lord Curzon, late Viceroy of India, in a volume entitled "Problems of the Far East," writes as follows in his dedication:

"To those who believe that the British Empire is, under Providence, the greatest instrument for good that the world has ever seen, and who hold with the writer that its work in the Far East is not yet accomplished, this book is dedicated."

There are three kinds of more or less intelligent men nowadays who are interested in the English language. One writes for the sake of writing; another writes for the sake of the pleasure of reading; and the third writes for the sake of the pleasure of being read.

Saxon Peasant to British Empire.—As I have said before, it is not only the Englishman who is interested in the English language, but also the Saxon peasant who has become a part of the British Empire.

The English Home.—On entering an English home, the first thing one notices is how well the house is adapted to him. Mr. Collier says: "It seems to have grown up around him, and he has taken on the folds of his character, as a coat often worn molds itself to the figure of the owner."

THE GIRL WITH BEAUTIFUL HAIR
Attracts Attention Everywhere.

There is one sure and certain way for every woman to have beautiful hair, and that is to give it intelligent care, which includes the use of Newbrow's Herpicide.

WALTHAM WATCH

Here are Mr. Collier's impressions of our servants and also of the people in the streets.

Brain Workers and Recreation.—Nature comes down hard on those who are too far in the development of the brain. We are more cheerful, younger, better tempered and surer, doors, eat and drink without thinking of it, and give the brain no more than its fair share of work to do.

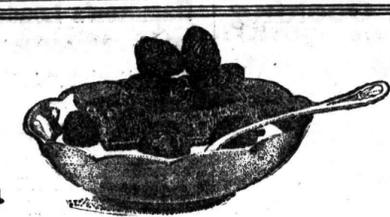

England's Country Landscapes.—"There are two things," says Mr. Collier, "that I dare not mention to the traveler as superlative beauties. If he is disappointed the fault is his, and not my price."

DEADLY ANAEMIA
CASTS A SHADOW OVER THE LIVES OF THOUSANDS OF WOMEN AND GROWING GIRLS.

"Not enough blood" is the simple meaning of the term anaemia, though it should scarcely need explaining. Unfortunately, anaemia is one of the greatest evils in this country, afflicting women of all ages, including young girls. The signs of bloodlessness are plain enough: pallid lips and cheeks, and aching back, frequent headaches, with breathlessness, heart palpitation and great weakness.

THE UNIVERSITY OF FRANCE.
In France there is only one university, and it is an absolute instrument of the state. It is true that there are schools of higher learning, which were founded in 1870 as universities, but five years afterwards the title was withdrawn, and they are now called "instituts."

Be Good to Your Stomach

Be good to your stomach—it will return your kindness a thousand-fold in health, happiness and strength for the day's work. Nothing so delicious, wholesome and nourishing in Summer as strawberries with a food that makes muscle, bone and brain without taxing the digestion. Shredded Wheat Biscuit with cream and a little fresh fruit for breakfast will keep the stomach sweet and clean and the bowels healthy and active—better than medicine or any "Spring tonic."

Heat the Biscuit in an oven to restore crispness; then cover with strawberries, raspberries or other berries and serve with milk or cream, adding sugar to suit the taste. If you haven't tried it you don't know all the joys of Summer—more healthful, wholesome and nourishing than soggy white-flour short-cake—always clean, always pure, always the same price. Try it today. Your grocer sells it.

HECLA FURNACE
The "Hecla" has other safeguards against gas. The cast iron combustion chamber will not burn through and allow fumes from the fire to pass into the house.

THE FUSED JOINT
The "Hecla" is the steel idea of the radiator as fused by our patented process to the cast iron plates at the top and bottom. This process welds the steel and iron into one piece, making an inseparable joint—ones that cannot spread with the heat, and one that has proven perfectly gas and dust proof, even after years of service.

THE OLDEST MAP.
After some controversy about the age of various maps that have come down to us from ancient times it has been finally determined by savants that the oldest is in the form of a mosaic in a Byzantine church at Maron, in Palestine. It is about 1700 years old, and purports to be a map of a part of the Holy Land.

REAL ESTATE OWNERS OBJECT TO INJUNCTION

Pass a Resolution Protesting Against Mr. J. M. Parson's Action.

There was a small riot at the regular meeting of the Real Estate Owners' Association last night, when the proposed sale of the city hall came up for discussion.

After a great deal of argument the following resolution was passed: "Resolved that the R. E. O. A. does not approve of Mr. J. M. Parson's action in regard to issuing an injunction against the sale of the present city hall."

Some of the members, it is stated, became rather heated about the matter, but Mr. Parsons maintained that he was simply maintaining the ground that he has always taken ever since the question came up, that he is absolutely opposed to selling the present hall.

The Mulhall Case. The following resolution was also passed: Resolved, that in the opinion of the association Ward Foreman Mulhall should be indefinitely suspended until he is acquitted of the charges of appropriating civic property.

Never leave home on a journey without a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It is almost certain to be needed and cannot be obtained when on board the cars or steamships.

TRIAL OF McNAMARA

Judge Decides That Manner of Extradition Was Legal.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 7.—John J. McNamara, charged with the murder of nineteen employees of the Los Angeles Times by the use of dynamite, must stand trial before Judge Walter Bordwell.

Judge Bordwell said that a person brought into the state by colorable extradition on principle stands on the same footing as one brought into the state by kidnapping.

Arguments on the motion to quash the indictments against both men because of alleged technical irregularities in the grand jury room, alleged bias on the part of members of the grand jury and for other reasons were then started.

They will be continued tomorrow. TORONTO AIRMAN HURT. Toronto, July 7.—Jos. Richter, "the Flying Dutchman," an aviator from Hamburg, who has made a number of successful flights in Europe and at New York, is in St. Michael's Hospital with his left leg fractured in two places as the result of his Curtiss biplane, alighting into a fence at the island stadium, where he was attempting to ascend this afternoon, for a flight across the bay and around the city hall tower.
