Our Financial Institutions.

That the financial institutions cf cover the necessities of the business acterized by sound methods, will be admitted. The banking system of Canada is frequently contrasted with that of the United States to the advantage of the Canadian system. The failures cover the necessities of the business of the business community and of those not in business to the security to offer. Let it not be erroneously stated that loan companies transact business on an unsound basis; they do not. Let it not be supposed from the failure of the Canadian system. Some people have mistaken notions of the powers of loan companies to invest in stocks. Some companies, such as the Atlas Loan have special powers. The majorities of the companies have held no such powers, although it is generally admitted that the privilege of investing in stocks, recently conferred on a certain proportion, would be an advantage to loan companies, and a security, not a risk, to depositors and shareholders alike, because that class of asset is more readily convertible into cash in case of sudden need.

As the proof of the pudding is in the eating, and as in nearly 50 years of experience a small percentage of loss to depositors occurred in one instance only, it is quite safe to claim that the basis on which their business is con-

BATTLE FOR A CHILD

Mother Has Armed Guards to Protect Boy From Father.

New York, June 29.-Private detec tives, armed for a desperate resistance, stand guard tonight around fortified residence in west Sixty-Eighth street, wherein are barricaded the beautiful young wife of Dr. Henry Power, the wealthy physician, of Mont Clair, N. J., and their nine-yearold son, John Alsop Power.

This is the sequel to the sensational kidnapping of the child by the father on Friday evening in a cat boat at Saunderson, R. I., and the mother's recovery of the little one at Newport after she and her brother-in-law, James Westervelt, a well-known lawyer, of this city, had steamed across Narraganset bay in a launch in a thrilling, successful pursuit. While an armed man patrols the street in front of the house in Sixty-Eight street, another detective maintains vigil in the rear to foil an attempt to effect an entrance and steal the child. Such is the armed truce in one of he most remarkable and spectacular kidnapping cases on record—the principals on both sides being wealthy and

He Returns From Big Gathering of Librarians at the Falls.

Mr. Robert Blackwell, public librar-There were 500 or more librarians there from all parts of the United States and Canada, and a most profitable convention was held. Mr. Blackwell has come back full of ideas, some of which will no doubt be worked out there was of great value to himself. A good deal of the time, of course, was taken up with technical questions, such as cataloguing, while the prices of impression of the convention was that no more profitable department existed than that for the young people. The ren and those who are not children. So favorable have been the results so favorable have been the results with the paying of particular attention to young people's libraries that they are now given the preference over ludies' departments. For inover ladies' departments: For inpartment.

Mr. Blackwell has come back more fully convinced of the fact that the greatest care should be taken to provide the best for the young people. This is one of the educative forces of the present day. With the young people the library is the provided that the provided the present day. is an education: with the older people it is rather a recreation. Hence the necessity of having books that will encourage young people to read more and to read the better books. It means the formation of character, so that really there is no more important department.

Radway & Co., New York:
Gentlemen,—In regard to "Radway's Pills," I wish to say that I have never found any remedy that can equal them.
For the past two years I was suffering from nervous dyspepsia and constipation. After eating I would have a sensation of neaviness in the stomach, feel like vomiting, pair and dizziness in the head, and then I would become nervous. I tried everything that was recommended to me. physician told me I had chronic conation and a sour stomach. He could relieve me somewhat, but stil did not

You called me a wanton; for that same insult I sat still and saw an old man die—my late husband whom I Such Is Result of Saturday's Graham, c. I had dreamed of recompensing his years of punishment by placing him n's shoes. as master here in the dead I fancied it would avenge him on the society which had for a paltry fault, a crime which to these gentlemen was a pastime, condemned him to pass the best years of his life among creatures vile enough to contaminate even so noble a nature as dear Dan's. Do not sneer, Brinley; had you seen him on the verge of starvation refuse the food he craved to give it with unutterable tenderness to the poor sick woman, my committed to save us from starvation. Well, Lufton and I had a life of misery together after I once in my foolish he charged me with her parentage. I loved her too well and hated him too well to deny my right to her, but gloried in it, finding I could sting him. You know how miserly he was, and how quarreled about money matters; reled about poor little baby Beth.

The former's hitting and fielding is shown by the scores to be of a higher quality than that of their opponents. The costly McClary team errors were chiefly accountable for their defeat. The snappiness of the one-two-three-order made several of the innings look like professional ball. Both pitchers did good work, but the players of both them, and it appeared to be an easy matter to find the ball. There was much fielding to be done, and much of it was done well. Won and Lost a Game in Wholesale League on Saturday—Improvements in Playing.

The fine weather on Saturday afternon drew a large crowd to Springbank to witness the ball games. Two games were played, the Bennet nine playing in both. The first was to decide the tie game of May 30 between the McCormicks and Bennets, and as a matter of course both teams made great efforts to win. The contest abounded with lots of hard batting and good fielding, the Bennet team finally winning by a score of 14 to 12. The late Herreshoff boats, but, encouraged by the new girth rule of the Yacht Racing Asociation of Great Britain, it is now used in almost all the late racing boats aboard and seems to work excellently, especially to windward. The apparent fault in the Shamrock III.'s design is the impossibility of her gaining much length from her overhangs when sailing at an angle, could keep up with the Reliance on a effect of the flaring sides amidships, which by their added buoyancy will

Taking into contrance, which must form an excellent sideration the assertion by English yachtsmen that Shamrock I. is 10 minutes faster in a 30-mile course than she ever was, and fully as much faster than the Shamrock II., the new boat's per-formance on this side of the Atlantic marks her as probably the most dangerous challenger Sir Thomas has ever brought over. In a light air and smooth water she showed herself to be very fast. The chief purpose of the trial not parallel to the water surface, but was to stretch the sails and resume the tuning-up of the new boat. The two Shamrocks left Tompkinsville at 10:30 a.m., and were towed by the Erin and Cruiser to Scotland lightship, Tow lines were cast off at 12:20, and the yachts started to beat seaward against a fourknot wind from south by east. Shamrock III. was slightly in the lead at the start and began at once to add to it. The yachts headed to sea for more than two hours, and during all that time the Shamrock III. gained steadily. At 2:45 when the challenger was leading the Shamrock I. by 10 minutes, Shamrock III. turned about and ran back to rein reaching that the Shamrock III.'s gain in length is not only minimized by model shows least promise. This feature may be distinguished by comparing the accompanying sketches of buttock line sections of the Sham-

The Herreshoff boat is excessive in the opposite direction; her center of buoy-ancy is well aft, and her buttock lines show a reverse curve a little forward of the after end of the water line. In the Shamrock II., however, is found the same peculiar disposition of buoyancy, and herein lies a striking re-semblance between the two last chal-

8 50 Rev. T. B. Clark Enters Upon Rectorship of All Saints.

Absence of Bishop and Archdeacon He "Read Himself In."

Rev. T. B. Clark, the newly-appointed rector of All Saints' Church, occupied the pulpit of the Hamilton road edifice at both services yesterday. It was his first Sunday as the head of this growing parish, and following the ancient custom of the church he read the 39 articles of the Christian faith at the morning service. The duty of "reading in" a new rector devolves upon the shop or archdeacon of a diocese, but as both the Bishop of Huron and Archdeacon Davis were unable to attend at All Saints' yesterday, the work had to be done by Mr. Clark himself.  In the evening, the new rector referred in grateful terms to the action of th congregation in inviting him to the rectorship and in outlining the plan of work he would pursue, he said his chief
