THE ANNUAL ESTIMATES

They Were Presented to Public School Board by Trustee Johnston.

Important Report From Inspector Park—The Meeting Last Evening.

The Public School Board met last evening. Those present were Messrs. Thomson, Bray, Robertson, Wilson, Johnston, Paxton, McKough, Campbell and McCorvie. The minutes of last meeting were read and adopted.

Miss Jordan was given leave of absence until the end of the year. The promotion of teachers was left with the managers, Inspector and Mr. Flewos.

Moved by Trustee McKough, seconded by Trustee McCorvie, that five gallons of liquid slating be ordered—carried.

The report of the Inspector was read and adopted. Trustee McKough said they had reason to be proud of the new inspector, as that was the best report that had been brought in for some time.

Moved by Thomson and Campbell that if the Inspector and Principal couldn't arrange to take the class out of the Payne School, power should be given to do the repairs necessary.—Carried.

The report of the Finance committee Continued on Eighth Page.

DOWAGER EMPRESS FREDERICK PASSED AWAY IN SOFT SLEEP

Embedded in a Mass of Roses the Embalmed Remains Rest—The Funeral Arrangements—Six Weeks of National Mourning—Messages of Condolence.

Cronberg, Aug. 6.—The body of the Dowager Empress still lies in the bed chamber overlooking the valley of the Maine. She died in a soft sleep, painlessly, and her features bear the most serene and peaceful expression. The gardeners and other outdoor dependents were admitted to view the remains this morning.

The remains of the Dowager Empress have been embalmed by Professor Reubens, and lie embedded in a mass of table and la France roses. Emperor William will arrive here at noon, when orders will be issued for the various funeral arrangements, concerning which nothing definite is yet known. No strangers have yet been admitted to the castle. Wreaths continue arriving. Among the earliest was one brought by a deputation from the village of Cronberg, headed by the burgomaster. Another wreath was brought by the pastor of the village.

NATIONAL MOURNING.

Berlin, August 6.—A special edition of the Reichstag Zeitung, published this morning, contains an Imperial Cabinet order giving notice of the death of Empress Frederick, and ordering six weeks' national mourning, beginning to-day. The order also directs that all public amusements, including concerts and theatrical performances, be suspended until after the funeral.

THE DEATH AGONY BRIEF.

According to despatches from Cronberg, the death agony of the Dowager Empress was brief, lasting hardly a quarter of an hour. When Prof. Reubens informed Emperor William that his mother's heart had ceased to beat, the chaplain made a brief prayer, and his Majesty placed white lilies in his mother's hands.

Telegrams are pouring in from all quarters. The heads of all foreign States and the sovereigns of the German states have sent messages of condolence couched in the warmest terms.

GERMAN PRESS COMMENTS.

Berlin, August 6.—The papers comment on the political side of the Dowager Empress's character with reserve. The Post considers it easily comprehensible that a woman of her abilities should seek to influence the political views of her husband, but the paper refrains from criticism, since she avoided all political activity after Emperor Frederick's death. The Kreuz Zeitung wholly ignores her politics. The Neueste Nachrichten says she brought from England political views which were "suitable in a highly developed, solidly founded country like England, but which were out of place in a country like Prussia, struggling for existence." The Deutsche Tages- und Abendzeitung says: "It would be unseemly and repugnant to our sentiments to recall the struggle into which she was drawn." The Liberal papers describe the Dowager Empress as indulged through her indoctrinating Emperor Frederick with English constitutional views. Many papers refer to her relations with the late Prince Bismarck and his opposition to her Englanders.

The town hall, municipal buildings, schools and many private houses here displayed emblems of mourning, and Unter den Linden is thronged with thousands of people passing and re-passing before the late Dowager Empress' palace.

KING EDWARD'S MOVEMENTS.

Cowes, August 6.—The time of King Edward's departure for Germany is still undetermined. He goes to London this afternoon. The royal yacht Victoria and Albert awaits his arrival at Port Victoria to convey His Majesty to Flushing.

THE RACES POSTPONED.

Although the King decided that the Cowes yachting program should proceed (following the precedent set by Queen Victoria at the death of the Duke of Saxe-Coburg), the owners of the vessels entered for the King's Cup (which was to have been raced for to-day) have resolved, out of respect for the Dowager Empress, not to start.

Berlin, Aug. 6.—The "Reichsanzeiger" to-day issued notice that, in accordance with the mourning ordinance of October 7, 1797, the bells of all the churches in Germany must be tolled daily for fourteen days, from noon to 1 p. m.

THE FUNERAL ARRANGEMENTS.

Berlin, Aug. 6.—It is asserted in Berlin to-night that King Edward will probably not go to Cronberg or Cronberg, but will proceed direct to Potsdam to await there the arrival of the body.

In accordance with the expressed wishes of the deceased the funeral services will be as simple as possible under the circumstances. The body will remain on the bed where she died until ready for the coffin. The roses in which it is almost buried are from her private garden, many of the blooms being from bushes cultivated with her own hands. No one will be allowed to view it except the members of the immediate family and household. Emperor William had a long interview with Count Von Buelow to-day. He drove from Cronberg to Friedrichschof, and soon after his arrival there the following official announcement regarding the funeral arrangements was made: "On Thursday the royal family will attend the funeral service in the castle, at which the Bishop of Riga, who was summoned by the Empress, will officiate. Only the immediate family will be present. On Saturday evening the coffin will be escorted from Friedrichschof to the Protestant Church in Homburg by a torchlight procession, followed by the royal family on foot. Sunday afternoon a funeral service will be held in the presence of the family of the Empress, her household, a few of her friends and other privileged persons. It is expected here that King Edward will be present. The royal family will go to Potsdam Sunday evening, and the body will be taken there Monday evening. The funeral service in the mausoleum at Friedrichschof, Potsdam, will be held Tuesday. As it was the Empress' wish that there should be no state ceremony, the service will not be attended by all the German royal personages. It will be as simple as possible. Emperor William has received a telegram of sympathy from the Pope.

McKINLEY'S MESSAGE.

Washington, Aug. 6.—President McKinley has sent the following message to Emperor William, of Germany: "State Department, Washington, Aug. 6.—His Imperial and Royal Majesty Wilhelm II., German Emperor, Berlin.—I learn with deep sorrow of the death of your Majesty's beloved mother, the Dowager Empress and Queen Frederick. Her noble qualities have endeared her memories to the American people, in whose name and in my own I tender to your Majesty heartfelt condolence.—William McKinley."

NABOBS BARRED

American Millions Cannot Buy Privilege of Seeing Edward Crowned.

Desire to Witness Ceremony May Bring About More Anglo-American Alliances.

London, Aug. 6.—Keen competition exists between American millionaires and mining nabobs of South Africa for tickets to the coronation of King Edward next year, the privilege of witnessing the ceremony being now the one supreme object of ambition of fashionable society below the rank of nobility.

The chances are slender that any one of these moneyed nobles will succeed. Against them and their cheek books the doors of historic Westminster Abbey will be barred. The insuperable obstacle is that the building is hardly sufficient to accommodate those who hold the honorary right to be present, and who, therefore, cannot be excluded.

Many impecunious members of the nobility would gladly part with their privilege for even a moderate sum in cold cash, but it is out of their power to do so. In the coronation pageant each one of them will have to sit with his peers in all the regalia of his rank. If an American millionaire, or his wife or daughter, were to masquerade in borrowed costumes, prompt exposure and ejection would be swift and certain. The only American woman who will be present are those who have married Englishmen with titles. Foremost of these will be Consuelo, the American Duchess of Marlborough.

Curious as it may seem, this coronation may be the means of bringing about several Anglo-American alliances within the next few months. There are scores of poor unmarried lords around, some just entering into manhood, and others old and gray and gouty. As the wife of one of them the American heiress could get into the coronation fete with a coronet on her ambitious little head. "A fortune for a coronet" is the matrimonial war cry of half the daughters of American millionaires now in London.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 7.

KRUGER AND PEACE.

In an interview with the Paris Figaro, Paul Kruger is reported to have said:

"We have already proposed peace directly to Britain and we will renew the propositions. All we are willing to give for peace is money if Britain asks it. No price is too dear to obtain independence and the right to live as a free nation."

Doubtless the old man is quite sincere. When he had the running of a country himself he was prepared to sell anything for money, from trade concessions to legal enactments and judicial decisions. Money could purchase anything, and he had no higher idea of political morality than that the man who had the price ought to have the privileges. The statement that no price is too dear to obtain independence and the right to live as a free nation, shows how easy it is for noble sentiments to be come meaningless jargon. Kruger can talk now about no price being too great for independence and freedom, but in the country over which he presided once upon a time, independence and freedom were unknown, except by name. Some people are in the habit of talking very loudly of things concerning which they know very little. In our own town, some of those who are the fondest of prating about British liberty are the very people who would deny to others the right to think or speak or even to live.

THE TELEPHONE IN RAILROAD SIGNALING.

General Superintendent Clark of the Lackawanna railroad will try the experiment of using the telephone instead of the telegraph between railway signaling stations, says the St. Thomas Times. The announcement coming with news of serious wrecks and disasters, directs attention to the improvements in recent years in railway signaling.

Although the mileage of the United States has been doubled, the number of trains trebled, and the number of passengers quadrupled in the last ten years, the number of persons killed each year in railroad accidents has increased very little. Compared with the number who travel, the number who meet death on the railroads has been diminished at an astonishing rate.

From being a hazardous place of existence, the average railroad coach has become in the last fifty years practically the safest place that a man comes upon in the course of his daily business life. This change has been due primarily to the introduction of the air brake, and secondly to the perfection and wide spread use of new signaling appliances.

From the lighted candle placed in the section window, which formed the original railway signal in the early 40's, up to the complicated apparatus of the present day, the improvement in safety appliances for the running of railroad trains has been marvelous. Marshall M. Kirkman, of the North-western railroad, is authority for the statement that "no branch of the railway service has been characterized by greater progress than the signal service."

To-day the principal railroads of the country are provided with automatic apparatus which guards every important crossing with other lines, protects every switch, turnout and side track, and prevents collisions on the straight-away runs. That accidents still happen is due to the fact that men, even with the greatest mechanical aids, will make mistakes.

The passenger that rides on a railroad to-day knows little of the signal that is operating to care for his life and to speed his journey. Entirely automatic and of the highest type of American ingenuity, it stands beside the track sleepless and sure. It is a "sentinel that never tires, that never sleeps, that never forgets."

However, the system is still imperfect, and any innovation that promises improvement, such as that contemplated by the Lackawanna railway, is worthy of commendation and keen interest on the part of the vast traveling public.

DEATH OF EMPRESS FREDERICK.

For the King there will be universal sympathy owing to the loss his Majesty has sustained through the death yesterday of Empress Frederick. The King was deeply attached to this sister, with whom, when she was Princess Royal of England, he spent his young days. After her marriage he frequently visited her in Germany, and was completely in touch with the Imperial family there. The presence of Empress Frederick during the period when Queen Victoria was passing away was an expression of the close bond of sympathy between the two ruling houses. After the Queen's death the King had been to the side of the Dowager Empress, who had been stricken with illness, and was not expected to live long.

The visit was of unusual duration, and the King exhibited to his sister every possible mark of brotherly affection. One of the sights of the German town in which the Empress lived was the King pushing her Majesty here and there in a Bath chair. It has been said that the affliction from which the Empress suffered was cancer, the disease from which her husband died. If this be true it can readily be understood that the King spoke from his heart when addressing the delegates from the Tuberculosis Congress a few days ago. "There is," he said, "no more terrible disease than that known as consumption, and I only hope and trust that you may be the means of minimizing its evil effects and thereby receive the gratitude of the whole world. There is still one other terrible disease which has up till now baffled the scientific and medical men of the world, and that is cancer. God grant that before long you may be able to find a cure for it, or check its course; and I think that to him who makes the discovery a statue should be erected in all the capitals of the world." By the people of England the Princess Royal was beloved. She was as a girl beautiful and accomplished. In music and in art she was proficient, and her attainments added to the national pride with which she was regarded. Her marriage to the Crown Prince of Prussia was most popular. It was a love match, and as the Crown Prince was a noble and honorable young man the union appealed to public sentiment. Certainly the marriage did much towards bringing the two countries into sympathy with the one with the other.

The tragic death of her husband in 1888 drew the Empress closer to her English kinsmen. Emperor William I. had just passed away, and Frederick was called to the throne. He was a reign of but a few months, during which he fought bravely but in vain against the disease which all too early ended his life. Since the death of Emperor Frederick and the accession of her son, Emperor William, the Empress has lived in retirement. Now in the sixty-first year of her age, she is called away. Her demise, though owing to the nature of her illness, not wholly unexpected, will shock the two nations by whom she was held in affectionate regard, for it comes very suddenly and at a period when mourning for another bereavement was almost ended. This is the third death in the Royal family practically within a year. The Duke of Sax-Coburg and Gotha, the King's brother, familiarly known to us first as Prince Alfred, and afterwards as the Duke of Edinburgh, died on July 30, 1890. The great Queen died six months afterwards, and now the Princess Royal has gone.—Mail and Empire.

VALUABLE SUGGESTIONS

Inspector Park Submits Many in his Semi-Annual Report.

Pays High Compliment to Our Schools, but Suggests Some Improvement in Classification.

The following report from Inspector Park was presented at last evening's meeting of the Public School Board. It is entitled to a careful perusal from Planet readers:

Chatham, July 2, 1901.
The Board of Public School Trustees of the City of Chatham.

Gentlemen,—In presenting this, my first semi-annual report, I must beg the indulgence of the Board for any want of completeness in it. When it is considered that I have been Inspector of the city schools for three months only, and these the three busiest months of the Inspector's year, I am sure I shall be excused for whatever shortcomings there may be.

I have, however, visited each of the rooms at least once, several of them twice, and some of them three times. I have endeavored as far as possible in the short time at my disposal to make myself acquainted with the organization, management and discipline of each of the four city schools. I have as well looked into the methods of teaching, examined to some extent the time-tables, and noticed the character of the examination for promotion, where necessary, at the close of the term. My reception by the teachers has been in every instance most cordial; and I have found all of them anxious to receive suggestions that might lead to improvement. As a result of my observations, I believe that we have a very excellent staff of teachers, and that in many cases the teaching can be made more efficient. To this end we need better limit tables, better time-tables, more teaching and less record-keeping (especially in the First Book classes); and, for some of the schools, much better classification and more efficient organization.

I have not had sufficient time at my disposal during the three months just closed to form an absolutely accurate judgment concerning the merits or demerits of any teacher upon your staff, besides, it has ever been my policy to give every teacher the fairest trial before expressing an adverse opinion upon his or her capabilities. For these reasons I beg to be allowed further time before I report upon the special efficiency of each teacher.

Years of patient selection on the part of Principal Brackin have made the staff of McKough school from the best school concerning the merits of the assistants seems to fit exactly into the position for which she has been chosen; and the teaching and discipline in each of the rooms is excellent. Loyalty unites the staff from end to end with their efficient principal, and the management of the school as a whole is all that could be desired. I have seen the assembling and dismissing of pupils from the best schools of the province, from the Normal-model schools down to the ward, and I am satisfied that the heads of these schools could spend time profitably in learning how these exercises are carried out at McKough school. The general design of the building and playfields adjoining facilitates this part of school discipline; and some changes might be made in the entrances at the other schools that would give the principals there the same opportunities.

I am also of the opinion that the Central School has not only an excellent principal in Mr. Flewce, but it has to support him a most efficient staff. The teaching through the school is good, as is evidenced by the result of the last term's work and by the heavy promotion list from each of the divisions. The discipline in each room is most satisfactory; and the assembling and dismissing are all that could be desired except for the intricacies of the entrances. Of Payne school I may say that Miss Mounter is doing satisfactory work, and that she has a very efficient assistant in Miss Sprentall. The addition of a piano to the equipment of the Queen street school has had a splendid effect upon the assembling and dismissing of pupils, as well as upon the general discipline in the rooms.

The schools on the south side of the river have a peculiar organization and classification; which seem to have grown up of their own accord. The organization certainly owes nothing to man's design, for man could scarcely design it to be less effective than it is. From examination, I have come to the conclusion that it is based upon the principal that if you have a school of four rooms, every pupil should pass through each room; if you have a school of six rooms, every pupil should pass through each room. The present principal of the Central has modified this to some extent; but there is an absolute necessity for a revolution (but us hope a peaceable one) before the schools on the south side of the river can do the effective work which they should do.

Let me illustrate. On the south side you have sixteen teachers, besides the Kindergartners; on the north side you have nine. As a result of the labors of the 16, you find the attendance in Principal Flewce's fourth class averages from 5 to 7 less than the average under Principal Brackin with 9 teachers. I do not think the result is due to any inferiority of the 16 teachers. I am quite certain it is due to the very bad organization of the schools.

In the Normal-Model schools of the Province, at Toronto, Ottawa and London, the organization is on the basis of four rooms, with two classes in each; the last class being the Entrance Division. This is to book work, another the Third book work, and the last the Fourth book work. In every graded school we can save this year and a half with which I have had anything to do, these proportions have been carried out, even where there were no Kindergartners; yet with a fine Kindergarten on the south side of the river for years, we have no less than six of the 16 teachers teaching the 1st book classes; when the proper proportion would be 4. In the Central school we have two Junior 3rd classes, promoting to one senior 3rd class, and this class again promoting to two Junior 4th classes, which in turn promote to one senior 4th class. What would I thought put two section men to mind the first five miles of track, one to the next five miles, two to the next five miles, one to the next five miles, and so on. Accidents would be likely to occur on the sections where one man was set to do two men's work. This case however is even more absurd, for it means the condensing of the pupils of two rooms into one; and then the expansion again to fill two.

As a natural result of this absurd organization and classification, we find young men who have nearly reached the age to vote going up to write the Entrance examination, and accompanying them young ladies whose marriage notice in the papers within a year would not surprise us. Indeed, I find on examination of the Entrance rolls for the different centres in the county that Chatham pupils are on the average 1 1/2 years older than the children writing from the other schools of the county. Remember too that rural pupils are able to attend school only about 50 per cent of the time, and sometimes the accommodation and equipment of their schools are poor. Surely, with the magnificent equipment we have in Chatham (no superior in Province) we can save this year and a half of life to the boy to be used in educating him in High School, before he has reached the age when he thinks he ought to be supporting himself, if not another along within.

To bring this about, we have to organize the schools on the south side of the river in such a way as to provide two streams in the direction of the High School; and I propose that we go as far as possible in this direction at once, and the rest of the way as soon as we can arrange for it. We have, as the results of the excellent work done by Miss Birch and Miss Ryan, some 90 pupils ready for the Senior Third. This will necessitate the opening of another Senior Third Class; and I recommend that this be done, and that Miss Birch who has thoroughly shown her fitness, be put in charge of it. I at the same time recommend that Miss McPherson be promoted to Miss Birch's room, as I think her work has shown her to merit promotion.

I further recommend that the three classes in Payne, Queen street and the Central be condensed to two classes, thus reducing at once the First Book to five classes. The average attendance in the three classes for May were Payne, 23; Queen street, 25; Central, 25; or an average of 46 for each of two divisions—only one more than Miss McKelly's average at the Central. This may cause the closing of the senior division of Payne school. If this be agreeable to all concerned, I would recommend that Miss Mounter be put in charge of the Senior Second class, now in charge of Miss McPherson; this class to be sent from the Central school to Queen street during the Model School term.

When these changes have been effected, we shall have on the south side of the river three First Book Classes, Part I; two First Book Classes, Part II; two Junior I; two Junior II; two Junior III; two Junior IV; and one Senior IV Class. I expect to see the Senior IV doubled about Christmas, when other modifications can be made to suit the circumstances. The changes which I here advise will give all the advantages that arise from co-operation (I shall say nothing about competition) for teachers who are doing parallel work always compare notes, and thus help each other.

I have discussed all these points with Principal Flewce, and he fully agrees with me, and shares in the recommendations I have made herein. Any commission that the Board may assign to me in connection with this matter I shall cheerfully carry out.

Should further information be required of me by the Board, it will be furnished, if in my power.

I have the honor to be,

Gentlemen,

Your obedient servant,

ROBERT PARK, Inspector.

Thomas C. MacNabb, Esq., Secretary Public School Board, City.

A True Brain Food.

must replace the feeling of lassitude and mental tiredness by clearness and strength of mind. Not that it goes directly to the brain, that was foolish. The true brain food must be carried by rich, red blood. If mental fatigue worries and alarms you, look not to the brain, but the stomach and assimilative organs. No remedy yet discovered, possesses the marvellous brain strengthening power that Ferrozone has demonstrated in thousands of cases. Ferrozone does not stimulate the brain into a fitful glow, but by improving digestion, strengthening the nervous system, stimulating assimilation, giving new strength to the heart, it sends a stream of red vitalizing blood to the brain. Thus it is a true brain food. Ferrozone is sold by McCall & Co.

Pain in the Back.

makes life miserable. Can it be cured? Yes, in one night. Polson's Nervine gives a complete knockout to pain in the back; for it penetrates through the tissues, takes out the soreness and pain, invigorates the muscles, and makes you feel like a new man. Nervine cures quickly because it is stronger, more penetrating, more highly pain-subduing than any other remedy. Don't suffer another minute, get Nervine quick and rub it in, for sure as you were born it will cure you. 25c.

The Actor's Summer.

THIS is the time of year, writes Alan Dale, the well-known New York dramatic critic, when I fretfully and enviously read the reports of the actor's summer. These reports are always gorgeously and artistically arranged. They are calculated to make any poor breadwinner repine. At the close of his "season," after having led a glided buty life, with the plaudits of enthusiastic millions ringing in his ears, tired out with all this rapturous approval, and with just strength enough to gather in the colossal mound of shekels that have been showered at him—the actor goes to his "summer home" to live for three dreary, wistful, sweetly inactive months, until the hungry public calls him back again. They are all most anxious for us to know how they summer. If there were a commandment saying, "Thou shalt not covet thy actor's summer," I should break it hopelessly. I always regret my fate when these beautiful, rosy reports come in. Why should the actors alone possess the magician's wand that transforms a three-room flat in Harlem to a "mansion overlooking the Hudson," or a six-dollar-a-week boarding-house in Asbury Park to a "summer home by the Atlantic"? Why should the fairy gift of metamorphosing a Bloomsbury furnished room into a palatial hotel be exclusively confined to the actor?

Some of the profession are much better actors during their summer than they are during their thirty weeks of labor. How often I have watched the stalwart leading man on Broadway, hale, bronzed and picturequely attired in tennis clothes, who has just rushed in for a day to see his banker! The magic wand and a little brown grease paint have, perhaps, done it all. He has walked down from East One Hundred and Seventy-fifth street, where the summer and seven children are spending the summer and the winter. But I don't know it, at the time, and in the actor's column headed "In Summer Places" I have read that he was wooing inertia and recuperating after an ardent season.

They all act these press agent parts so efficiently. They summer only because it is absolutely necessary for their health. They are always on the verge of nervous prostration, owing to the strain of "one-night stands." If they have been in New York all season, it is owing to the strain of New York. Managers are after them to play all summer. No company on earth has ever been known to close for any other reason than weariness. The actors summer because they can't work any longer. It is because the actors summer that the public goes to the seaside and the mountains. If the actors did not get so awfully tired the season would go right on revolving, without beginning or end, like a circle. It is in desperation because the actors won't let us go to the theaters any more that we say, "The season is over. Let us go out of town until Romeo and Juliet have recuperated."

The First Firecracker.

There lived in China, years ago, An old old mandarin, Whose temper was so peppery They called him Sin-ah-sin.

He wandered through the crowded streets In search of daily bread, And wore a garment long and straight, Which once was brightest red.

But worn in all the dust and rain, In a ragged and tattered hue, It stiffened slowly with the grime, And turned a dingy blue.

And like a cylinder became, So long, and straight and round, He wrapped Ah-sin from head to heels, And in it he seemed bound.

And out upon the collar high His yellow queue hung down, Till nothing of that mandarin Was seen, but just his crown.

This robe so heavy did become, That he could scarcely walk, And o'er the top of it he tried In vain, to talk.

The boys then chaffed, and taunted him, And mistook him for a cat, And called him shabby Sin-ah-sin, As he went dragging past.

Though Ah-sin's blood did often boil At cruel jest and jeer, The while he wore that rigid coat, The lady had never a fear.

And so, one pleasant July day, The gamins round Ah-sin Said, "Let us have a little fun With this old mandarin."

And stepping up applied a torch To Ah-sin's precious queue, When flaming forth a brilliant light, They heard a noise, and whew!

They saw Ah-sin, from out their sight Go up in flame and smoke, While o'er their heads in tiny bits, Flew pieces of his cloak.

With pent-up wrath he did explode, That poor old mandarin, And far from coat, capers, and boys, Went grumpy Sin-ah-sin.

"Brethren and sisters," concluded the Rev. Washington Johnson, "I had demonstrated abstrusely that de Lord nates a thief—that he is not to be propagated by no offering, therof I bez de pouison of pussions who stole yor pastor's hog to make no contribution at de circulation of de offertory platter." Note—The collection beat all previous records—Princeton "Tiger."

Mrs. Sharpe (severely)—Norah, I can find only seven of these plates. Where are the other five? Cook (in surprise)—Sure, Mum, don't ye make no allowances for ordinary wear an' tear—Puck.

Sympathy

Is a good thing for the young husband to give the young wife. But sympathy will not alone do her nervousness or lift her to that plane of sound health where alone the wife and mother can find happiness.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription meets every womanly want and need. It tranquilizes the nerves, restores the appetite and induces refreshing sleep. Its use previous to maternity makes the baby's advent practically painless and gives the mother abundant nutrition for her child. "Favorite Prescription" is a woman's medicine and has no equal as a cure for womanly diseases. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

Accept no substitute for "Favorite Prescription." No other medicine is "just as good" for weak and sick women. "It affords me great pleasure to be able to say a few words in regard to the merits of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and Golden Medical Discovery," writes Mrs. Flora Ann, Dallas, Jackson Co., Mo. "I was tempted to try these medicines after seeing the effect upon my mother. At an early age of married life I was greatly bothered with painful periods, also a troublesome drain which rendered me weak and unfit for work of any kind. I became so thin there was nothing left of me but skin and bone. My husband became alarmed and got me a bottle of 'Favorite Prescription.' After he saw the wonderful effects of that one he got two more, and after I used those up there was no more pain, and I began to gain in weight rapidly."

KILLED HEROINE AT REHEARSAL

Stage Detective Was Jealous of Real Kisses Was Ejected by Company.

Returned With Revolver and Turned Melodrama into Tragedy With Two Bullets.

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 6.—Melodrama, in a rehearsal in a local theatre, became a tragedy yesterday, when Theodora Brookie, the stage hero, emptied a revolver into the breast of Mrs. Millie Lighthawk, the leading woman, killing her, and then turned the weapon on himself, with fatal effect.

The shooting grew out of the jealousy of Brookie, who objected to the real kisses used in rehearsal by Mrs. Adams, the second man. The drama under rehearsal was "The Arizona Female Bandit," written by Mrs. Lighthawk, who had had considerable stage experience under the name of Millie Allen. Mrs. Lighthawk herself took the title role, and purposed to present the piece in the smaller towns and in the cheaper theatres in the cities.

When the rehearsal was under way, Brookie, as the virtuous but misjudged suitor of the heroine, was evidently too sincere in the character, and Brookie, whose part as detective, gave him small scope for carousals, took affront. He envied Adams the opportunity offered by his lines, and finally entered a protest against the evident pleasure with which his rival entered into the details.

When Adams finally rushed into his sweetheart's embrace in the final act, Brookie exclaimed:—"Oh, cut that out; that doesn't go in rehearsal." Adams insisted that all the "business" should stay in, and he was sustained by the heroine. When Brookie remonstrated further the actors present ejected him.

Brookie returned in a few minutes with a revolver, and without comment shot Mrs. Lighthawk. Brookie then shot himself in the forehead. He died instantly, and the woman a few hours later in Clarkson Hospital.

Curious Bits of News.

The number of retail liquor dealers in the United States at the close of last year was 206,000. The total vote of the Prohibition party in the election of the same year was 320,000.

In the bottom of a strawberry-box opened at Hutchinson, Kan., the other day, the following note was found written on the smooth wood: "I am Cora Marsh, aged sixteen, of Logan, Mo. Never been kissed."

A man in Ray County, Mo., became convinced recently that he had incipient consumption. Every time he drew a full breath he heard a crackling sound. A doctor discovered that the crackling sound was made by a small buckle on his suspender.

A curious old custom was recently revived at Great Oakley, England, where parish lands were let by "pin in candle." The local clergyman presided. A pin is inserted in a burning candle, and so long as it remains in its tallow resting-place bids are taken. The last bidder before the pin drops is declared the tenant for the year.

A Paris schoolmaster has petitioned the French Chamber against kings still reigning on French playing cards. He suggests kings should be replaced by pictures of Thiers, MacMahon, Grevy and Carnot and queens by equally prominent women Republicans. The Parliamentary Commission sitting on the petition has replied that the change is impossible, since it would ruin quite a number of playing-card factories.

What is probably the most extraordinary plant ever discovered has now been found by E. A. Suverkrop, of Philadelphia, who, during trips to South America, has for some years been contributing to the knowledge of his friend, Professor N. E. Brown, of the Herbarium, Kew Gardens, London. The amazing plant which Mr. Suverkrop has now found is an orchid that takes its living down a tube into the water, the tube, when not in use, being coiled up on top of the plant.

Baltimore, Md., had a bulldog until recently, that made a practice of milking cows in the fields. Just how the dog formed the habit is not known, but it is thought he acquired it by following the example of calves. He had often been seen with the many cows in pasture about Mount Washington across a cow's back while she was lying down. His appetite for milk grew so strong that he was not satisfied with part of the supply, but wanted it all, and attacked a dairy-maid who went into her barnyard to milk. He was then dispatched by a policeman with a revolver.

The capital invested in electrical enterprises in the United States is estimated by "American Trade" at four billion dollars. We have the same authority for the assertion that those industries employ more than half a million persons. Almost half of the aggregate capital is represented by the electric railways, which, it would be safe to assume, employ a majority of the half-million persons. There were dismal predictions current ten or fifteen years ago of things that would befall certain classes of labor when electric cars came in; but the abolishment of the horse-car has probably thrown no one out of work—except the horse.

Coats of mail are now being manufactured from papier-mache that cannot be distinguished from real antique armor. According to the wishes of the customer, the armor can be turned out bright steel, silver and gold inlay, hammered brass, rusty iron or malachite. As described by the New York "Evening Post," the new armor is calculated to deceive the best critics, and to give all the satisfaction of the genuine coat of mail. They are warranted not to break easily or to cut any unfortunate guest upon whom they may be thrown in a fall. All descriptions of armor can be had. The new invention has aroused the anger of the dealers in antique armor, who declare that it is intended to ruin their trade.

A well-known English firm of tobacconists are giving away in their packets of cigarettes a small map of the Klondike district. It is colored red, and the words "British Territory" are written in it in large letters. On the back is found the following little history of the gold fields: "There is no doubt that the Klondike district is the richest gold field yet discovered. It comprises some 192,000 square miles, mostly in British territory, and although mining has been going on steadily for the past ten years, it was only in August, 1896, that the extraordinary richness of the diggings was discovered." We have been accustomed to portraits of fat women and popular heroes for so long that the novelty is as pleasant as it is instructive.

Where He Failed.

The young man drew himself up to full height.

"I have," he cried, "an unsullied character, an ardent heart, a versatile mind and strenuous biceps."

The young girl yawned and seemed interested. He was quick to push his advantage.

"I am the possessor of a town and a very large yacht, a stable of thoroughbred and a box at the opera."

She hesitated, and a slight flush betrayed that she was listening.

"I have got," he continued with a certain sarcasm, "thirty servants, forty pairs of trousers, fifty ancestors, three automobiles, six prize bull pups and an army commission."

"Ah! she had found her tongue at last."

"And how many gold medals?" she hissed.

The young man shuddered. He felt that he had lost. He had played nervily and high, but he was above his limit—"Waverley Magazine."

Mrs. Fitz-Caudle—Ah, me! There was a time when you always called me "Daisy," now it's "Mrs. Fitz-Caudle," as if I were the merest stranger to you. Fitz-Caudle—Pound out my mistake, my dear. Daisies shut up at night. You don't—"Plick-Whack."

DELIGHTED PATRONAGE

Peace's Great Shoe Sale Thronged With Customers.

A Rapidly Developing Business—Practical Appreciation of the Public.

One of Chatham's most prosperous and up-to-date shoe merchants is G. J. Peace, whose store is situated four doors west of the market. At present he is having one of his most successful summer sales.

A Planes representative took a walk through his thoroughly equipped store this morning and found it thronged with customers. The citizens of Chatham evidently know where to get good shoe bargains and are taking good advantage of his big August sale. During this sale Mr. Peace is giving 10 per cent. off everything in his store and is fast clearing out his stock to make room for the new lines of goods that are continually coming in.

Mr. Peace came to Chatham about eight years ago and since that time he has, by strong perseverance and wonderful business ability, worked up a most enviable trade. He first started in the store known as the White Shoe Store, adjoining Vooftun's jewelry store. Here he worked successfully for a number of years. Last March he found that in order to keep enough stock to satisfy the demands of the public he would have to find a larger store.

He then moved into his present quarters, and since then his business has rapidly increased until now he has one of the finest and best shoe trades in the city. He also keeps a full line of trunks and valises.

Mr. Peace is certainly deserving of the trade he receives. He has now been engaged in this line of business for 18 years, part of which time was spent in the factory. So that he understands every department of the business and knows just what will meet the demand of his purchasers.

He keeps a gentlemanly lot of clerks and everything around the store presents a most up-to-date and a very business-like appearance. Mr. Peace will leave next week for eastern points to complete the purchasing of his fall goods.

PRETTY WEDDING

Marriage of two Maple City Young People This Afternoon.

A very pretty wedding took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Vanstone, Lansdowne avenue this afternoon, when their youngest daughter Maude was united in marriage to Charles Brush, an employee of Thompson's confectionery.

The ceremony, which was performed at half past three o'clock by the Rev. Robert Sims, rector of Holy Trinity church, was witnessed only by the immediate friends and relatives of the parties concerned.

Miss Etta Camp, of Ridgetown, made a very pretty bridesmaid and Chas. Vanstone, brother of the bride, acted as groom.

The house was very prettily decorated for the occasion and everything passed off in grand style. The bride looked very handsome as she entered the room leaning on the arm of her father, who gave her away. She was becomingly robed in blue organdie and carried a large bouquet of bridal roses. Her maid was also very tastefully dressed in pink organdie and carried pink roses.

After the ceremony the happy young couple left for Ridgetown, where a reception will be held at the groom's home. They will then visit the Pan-American and returning home will take up their residence on Lansdowne avenue.

The newly married couple were the recipients of many beautiful and costly presents, the gifts of their many friends and relatives who join in wishing them a happy and prosperous journey through life together.

THE RAILROAD BOSS.

A SAMPLE DAY IN THE LIFE OF THE PRESIDENT OF A ROAD.

The Thousand and One Details That Claim His Attention and Try His Executive Ability—The Half Hour With the General Manager.

After being for a few hours with a railroad president one has a better conception of the magnitude of the Chinese treatise on all things. The president perhaps has just returned from a trip to New York, where he has attended a conference of presidents of allied lines. He has been on the road all night; but, thanks to that businesslike institution, the private car, often erroneously considered a luxury, he appears in his office fresher for work than the suburbanite who has just come in on the commuter's train. While the president is looking over his personal mail would spread about the big building that "the old man is back." Gradually the private secretaries of the different chiefs drop into the outer office to learn from the president's private secretary what business is most likely to come up first and what chance there is for action on some pet measure. The bell rings, and for a few minutes the private secretary is closeted with the president. Daily telegraphic reports have kept the president informed of events on the line, but in a surprisingly brief time he learns of smaller happenings, of messages left by prominent callers and of the general behavior of his child, the railroad.

Then the president sends for his chief assistant, the general manager, and learns officially some of the things the private secretary has told him as gossip and many others of greater moment, but perhaps of less real interest. The half hour with the general manager may mean decisions involving the expenditure of hundreds of thousands of dollars. It may mean happiness or anxiety to hundreds of homes. For example, it may be decided to move the company's shops from Dan to Beersheba. This means a move for employees, a breaking of home ties and perhaps disappointment to engaged lovers. Again, it may be decided to extend the Utopia branch, which means a fortune to investors in land beyond Utopia and ruin to some in the old terminus.

The president may tell the general manager that the demand for a dividend on the preferred stock is becoming more clamorous and that they must get along another year without the 5,000 new box cars that are badly needed and the building of which would affect many idle men. The president very likely calls the attention of the general manager to the auditor's estimate of last week's earnings and asks why expenses cannot be reduced just a little more.

The president reminds the general manager that the contract for hauling Chicago dressed beef is conditional upon a second morning delivery at the season's end, and he also observes that the reliability and regularity of the passenger trains is helping the western tourist business, that the delay to the hotel men by a freight wreck last week will hurt the winter travel to California and that the new dining car must be made to pay expenses. He asks why the ton cost of moving freight has not decreased in proportion to the recent outlay for big engines.

He ventures the opinion that the superintendent of the Stowburg division must have been asleep while the city council of Ringville passed an ordinance requiring the company to erect ten more electric lights at street crossings. He expresses polite astonishment at the failure of the passenger department to book the headquarters train for the next Grand Army encampment. He makes no attempt at concealing his disgust over a competitor securing ten trainloads of agricultural machinery for the western prairies. He then takes up the question of a larger terminal charge for switching cars to connecting lines and suggests to the general manager that the revenue would be increased by more favorable terms in the next contract with other roads.

The patient and loyal general manager, who has taken all this in the Pickwickian sense in which it was intended, now has his turn. From the bundle of papers under his arm he draws a condensed estimate of an elaborate plan for reducing the cost of transportation on a certain division by running around a bluff and locating freight yards near a busy river instead of climbing into the town. The trained eye of the president catches the salient points, and he tells the general manager whether or not funds are likely to be available, whether or not it is politic to antagonize municipal or other interests.

The general manager diplomatically shows the president that the New Orleans cotton traffic is suffering because of the president's order to consider all Minnesota flour as rush freight. He asks authority to increase the pay of a superintendent who has a better offer from another road. For the benefit of condensed reports he shows a saving of 100 tons of coal the previous week by reason of better fuel furnished from the new mines. He tells of a new gasoline engine at Pumpkin which will cut in two the monthly bills for water supply for locomotives. He reports a conference with the mayor of a big city about the smoke nuisance near the freight yards on the passenger department to stop promising dollar excursionists a two hour schedule for a hard three hour run. He urges conciliatory measures toward the city council of Bucktown, which will repeal the speed ordinance as soon as the old morning accommodation train is restored, and "No. 6" (the St. Louis express) can then get through the town on time. In the most nonchalant manner he asks to be excused, that he may catch a train leaving in five minutes, as he has an appointment for the next morning some 600 miles away.

Before the general manager has finished the private secretary is entertaining two or three reporters of afternoon papers, shakes hands and tells them rates are to be stiffer than ever, that the stockholders are tired of hunting snipe for the fun of holding empty bags. He then jocosely asks them for news about his road, as he has been in New York helping his wife to do her shopping.

A GRASSHOPPER PLAGUE.

Naples, Aug. 5.—The grasshopper plague has visited Naples and is assuming serious aspects. These gormandizers attack everything and make quick work. Farmers are cutting their grain prematurely to save something. The green is said to be "pie" for them and potato tops which have escaped the bugs are being devoured, poison and all. Over half of the town is overrun by the pest.

GONE TO PIECES.

St. Johns, N. F., Aug. 5.—The Norwegian steamer Vera, which struck on the rocks near Renewa Friday night last, broke apart last night forward of her engines. Her hull is now in two pieces and the bottom destroyed by the rocks. The vessel is lifted considerably, and the decks are on a level with the water. All her movable gear has been loaded into two schooners which were despatched from here. The weather continues fine. Salvage operations on the steamship Aegis, which went on the rocks nine miles west of Cape Race about the same time was resumed at day break this morning. A large four-masted liner came near running ashore off Renewa Saturday.

The dredging company picked up a sixty-pound nugget in the Saskatchewan River, near Edmonton, valued at $1,300.

FOOD ASSIMILATION.

You can eat a great deal, but if your stomach won't assimilate the food—won't take the good out of it—you will become a dyspeptic and suffer a great deal. There are certain functions of your body which should take the good out of the food. If they don't act right, it's because nature is tired or worn out at that point. Powley's Liquefied Ozone is a splendid preparation to regulate nature. It does not act on one system only, the whole system is benefited.

Mr. Thomas, who represents the Linotype Co. of Montreal, has this to say of the effect of Powley's Liquefied Ozone on stomach disorder:

Ozone has done wonders in my family for indigestion, rheumatism and general debility. H. H. THOMAS, 55 Victoria Street, Toronto.

Powley's Liquefied Ozone is oxygen in stable form. You can use it externally or internally. It forms healthy flesh and makes a sound system. Its use has cured many cases of consumption, Bright's disease of the kidneys, rheumatism, stomach disorders and catarrh. Its effect is just what you would expect of oxygen.

PARIS AND LONDON.

Habits of the Folk of the Two Cities Amusingly Contrasted by a Well-Known French Journalist.

One of the best known journalists of Paris, recently back from a trip to London, has rather amusingly contrasted the two cities. We have been used to material like this from the pen of Max O'Rell.

"Paris does most things with the right hand or at the right side; London follows the left."

"Parisian coachmen keep to the right, those of London to the left."

"Paris grows by absorption, London by expansion."

"Paris is built of stone, London of brick."

"Paris has high houses and narrow streets; London's buildings are low and its streets wide."

"The windows of Paris open like doors; those in London a la guillotine."

"Paris is collectivistic, it dwells in houses which are really caravansaries; London is individualistic, each family having its own house."

"Paris has its portier, London its night-key."

"Paris gets up early from its bed, which is against the wall; London arises late from its bed, which is in the centre of the room."

"Paris dines, London eats."

"London, said Voltaire, has one hundred religions, and but one sauce; Paris has one hundred sauces and no religion at all."

"Paris is gay, London sad."

"London has too few soldiers, Paris too many. The soldier in Paris wears a blue tunic and red pantaloons while the London man-of-war is clad in a red coat and blue trousers."

"In Paris priests perform the marriage rites; in London they marry themselves."

"In Paris the married women are free; in London when a woman marries she ceases to be."

"Paris has more suicides, London more homicides."

"Paris works, London traffics."

"In Paris the street crowds fight by kicks, in London by blows of the fist."

"The proletariat of Paris refers to the pawnshop as 'My aunt,' while in London they say 'My uncle.'"

Getting Acquainted.
When the Murkleys moved from the country they expected to find their new neighbors reserved and distant. Not all of them proved so. The family had occupied the strange dwelling about a day and a half, says The Chicago Tribune, and the mistress thereof was laying a carpet in the sitting-room, when there came a ring at the door bell.

"She hastened to the front door and opened it. A smiling woman greeted her."

"Good morning," said the caller. "This is Mrs. Murkley, I presume."

"Yes."

"I am Mrs. Pergslup, your next-door neighbor."

"Glad to see you. Will you come in?"

"Thanks, I believe I will step in for a little while."

"You will find us all torn up, of course. We haven't begun to get things in shape yet."

"Now, don't you apologize, Mrs. Murkley. I know all about this thing of moving."

"It's an awful job, isn't it?"

"Terrible. I sometimes tell Mr. Pergslup I'd almost rather have a spell of sickness than to move. Two moves are about as bad as a fire."

"Well, I thought I'd drop in and get acquainted. Could you lend me a cupful of coffee?"

Keeping Roads in Condition.
Fred Grundy, in Farm and Fireside, tells us he has been watching "road-keepers" care for ten miles of black earth road, and he has kept it in good condition not by macadamizing it or by covering it with crushed stone, but by providing good drainage, by tile in most places, to take the water off, and by digging out some of the worst places about 18 inches deep and filling with broken brick, tile, coal, cinders or whatever will make a firm foundation, and allow water to drain through. Then if the roads are rounded up to allow the water to run off and they get a little attention after every rain, they are easily kept in good condition. The results are much better and the cost much less than they were for the annual turnout of the district to mend, or often to make worse the roads, the job being expected then to be done until the same season comes around another year.

Water Drinking in Summer.
Many years ago I knew the manager of a copper works. It was his habit in hot weather to provide pots of water with some oatmeal in it (said to be less dangerous for heated men than plain water), and from these pots the furnace men helped themselves to as much as they would.

The manager arranged with one of the workmen to test the utility of this drinking. The man was weighed before beginning work, and one or two other men were weighed; they all had their usual meals, but the one man had not any intermediate oatmeal drinks. At the end of the day's work there was a re-weighing; the man who had drunk had not lost weight; the man who had abstained had lost many pounds. Of the men who had drunk were not exhausted, the man who had not drunk was dead beat, and some days passed before he fully regained his strength.—London Times.

Infantile Philosophy.
Lottie (aged five)—I wonder why babies is always born in de night time?

Lottie (aged seven, a little wiser)—Don't you know? It's cos' they wants to make sure of finding their mothers at home.

Hard Luck.
"Goodness! What's the trouble?"
"Boo-hoo! All de kids on dis block are either too tough for me to play with or else they's got the measles. Boo-hoo!"—Harper's Bazaar.

GOVERNMENT HAS ITS WAY.

The Postmaster at Delight, Wash., has consented that the office be made one at which money orders may be issued.

The Post Office Department determined some time ago that Delight should be made a money order office. The postmaster objected and wrote to the plan. Again he was informed of the determination of the Department. Postmaster-General Smith the other day received the following letter:

"Postmaster General: 'Sir: Yours of the 13th inst. received and contents noted. We think from the tone of your kind letter that you mistook our meaning perhaps or we should have been more explicit.

"We never intended to dictate to you how our Post Office should be run, and if you come to such a conclusion you mistook our meaning.

"It is your duty to give to the public in our neighborhood the very best mail service possible, and if you think it a money order office we have no more to say. The next thing would be for us to let somebody else have it if it did not suit us. Until the last two or three years the only pay there was in our Post Office was the convenience there was in it for our community. Our first quarter cancellations did not quite amount to $4 and we never got a red cent of that, as there was no instruction from our commission (had not got the postal laws) we sent the whole business to the United States expecting when it was audited we would get our pay, but we never did.

"This was during Cleveland's first term. Then during his second term in making our quarterly report we overlooked $10 in stamps that we got from the Department. Have done that very thing since and was allowed to make the correction that we took no credit for which was held against us and persisted in the extent of pressing our surpluses for payment of course we would not let them suffer, we borrowed the money and paid, but never knew why.

"At the time referred to we were only experimenting with our country; did not know then whether it would make an agricultural one or not, but did doubt in that direction have happily been dispelled, which is evidenced by the trainloads of emigrants that are almost daily coming to our States and adjacent ones.

"Well, we are like the young preacher, got clear away from the text. After we had sent one letter to you and come to think what we had written, that Delight belonged to me and that we had a right to say whether it should be a money order office or not, but your answer had none of the 'Big I and little u' about it, but was tinged with kindness toward an old ignorant man.

"Now it remains for you to say if Delight is to be a money order office, we have no more to say, you are the boss.

"Tell us what to do and we will lay our head on the block. Yours most respectfully, 'P. M.'"

Boy in a Hurry.

The merchant had arrived at his office rather early in the morning, and five minutes after he got down to his desk a foxy-looking, bright-faced young boy came in, says the Cincinnati Enquirer. The merchant was reading and the boy, with his hat off, stood there expectantly, but saying nothing.

At the end of two minutes he coughed slightly and spoke.

"Excuse me, sir," he said, "but I'm in a hurry."

"What do you want?" he asked.

"I want a job, if you've got one for me."

"Oh, do you?" snorted the merchant.

"Well, what are you in such a hurry about?"

"I've got to be, that's why," was the sharp response. "I left school yesterday afternoon to go to work, and I haven't got a place yet, and I can't afford to be wasting time. If you can't do anything for me, say so, and I'll go. The only place I can stop long is the place where they pay me for it."

The merchant looked up at the clock. "When can you come?" he asked.

"I don't have to come," replied the youngster. "I'm here now, and I can't stop at work before this if you had said so."

Half an hour later he was at it, and he's likely to have a job as long as he wants one.

The New Servant Girl.

Mistress (to new housemaid fresh from the country)—Now, see, Mary, this is the way to light the gas. You turn this little tap, so, and then apply the match, so. You understand?

New Housemaid—Yes, ma'am; quite, ma'am.

Mistress (next morning)—Why, what a horrible smell of gas! Where can it come from? We shall all be suffocated!

New Housemaid (with much pride)—Please, ma'am, what shall I do next? I've made all the beds, and dusted all the rooms, and turned on all the gas, ready for the night—Exchange.

Amends Must Be Made.

"We feel that an apology is due," explains the editor of the Spiketown Blizzards, "to the estimable young lady who teaches at the school house in District No. 5. Through the wretched blunder of a worthless tramp printer whom we trusted with the setting up of an item just as we were closing the forms for our last week's edition we were made to say that 'Miss Ruby Cornell, the handsome and popular teacher in the Riggs neighborhood, is the proud possessor of an elegant new black board.' We wrote it 'black board.'"

ONE IN FOUR HAS PILES.

The Most Torturing Disease That Man Has Ever Known—The Safest and Most Certain Cure is Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Of the grown-up persons you meet from day to day one in four suffers more or less from itching, bleeding or protruding piles. Mock modesty leads many to suffer in silence, others dread the surgeon's knife, and, believing an operation to be the only cure, neglect to be treated. Some have found out by actual trial that piles can be promptly relieved and thoroughly cured by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

If you are a sufferer from this exasperating ailment and will once make a test of Dr. Chase's Ointment you will be grateful to the end of your life for having read this advertisement. It will certainly cure you, no matter what form of piles you have, so long as you give it an honest trial.

It has been frequently remarked by persons who have used it, that it has probably relieved more suffering from itching skin disease than any remedy that the world has known. While remarkably safe, it is a cure for eczema, and salt rheum, Dr. Chase's Ointment is unique as the only actual and proven cure for each and every form of piles.

Mr. George Thompson, a leading merchant of Blenheim, Ont., states: "I was troubled with itching piles for fifteen years, and at times they were so bad I could scarcely walk. I tried a great many remedies, but never found anything like Dr. Chase's Ointment."

"After the third application I obtained relief, and was completely cured by using one box."

Mr. F. G. Harding, retired farmer, living at Nilestown, Middlesex County, Ont., writes as follows: "I have been troubled with bleeding and itching piles for four or five years, and suffered intense agony at times. I had tried almost everything, but could get nothing that would give relief. On hearing of Dr. Chase's Ointment I procured a box and it only required part of it to completely cure me. I am recommending it to all afflicted as I was."

If you have not met with some one who has been cured of piles by Dr. Chase's Ointment, ask your neighbors about it. It is impossible to publish testimonials of persons that all readers know, but by seeking your friends you are sure to hear good words for Dr. Chase's Ointment. It is standard the world over and is guaranteed to cure any case of piles, 50 cents a box at all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Some authors tell us that "much is said about the tongue and the mouth, but the thing is in everybody's mouth."

"More haste, less speed," and "hasten slowly," are proverbial bits of advice, but some people don't seem to be hurried without loss and waste. That is especially true of eating. The railway lunch habit, "five minutes for refreshment," is a habit most disastrous to health. "You may hurry your eating. You can't hurry your digestion, and the neglect to allow proper time for this important function is the beginning of sorrow to many a busy man. When the tongue is foul, the head aches, when there are sour or bitter risings, undue fullness after eating, hot flushes, irritability, nervousness, irascibility, cold extremities, and other annoying symptoms, be sure the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition have "broken down." Nothing will help but a return to active healthy operation so quickly as Dr. Pierce's Great Medical Discovery. It strengthens the stomach, nourishes the nerves, purifies the blood, and builds up the body. It is a strictly temperance medicine containing no alcohol or other intoxicant.

Given away. Dr. Pierce's great work, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing and customs. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the papered book, or 50 stamps for cloth binding, to Dr. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

It is an old saying that flowers wilt soon when in the hands of people who have wicked tongues.

The Asthmatic's Agony.

Wakeful nights, suffocating sensations, difficult breathing. Who can describe it! This disease, partly congestive, partly the result of microbe irritation, is no longer treated by nauseous, stomach destroying drugs, but by Catharhoxone, that destroys the microbe, relieves congestion and relaxes the nervous irritability that renders breathing so difficult. The medication is carried by the air you breathe to the very seat of the disease, and removes at once the cause. The great discovery is known as Catharhoxone. Its influence upon Asthma is simply marvellous. Catharhoxone prevents as well as cures, and is the only remedy guaranteed to cure. Your money back if it fails. Two sizes at all dealers, 25c. and $1.

BITS OF FUN.

"No, he hasn't proposed yet," sighed Genevieve. We suggested that the fellow doubtless knew when he was well off. "No, I suspect the trouble is he doesn't know when I'm well off the way papa is plunging in pork," said the beautiful girl, with a sad smile. Ah, love was indeed a great mystery. —Detroit Journal.

"We're just getting our new company in shape," said the business man. "De you happen to know of any one who is a particularly good book-keeper?" "Yes, I do. There's Jimson," promptly replied the bibliophile. "I loaned him a book early in the spring and he seems to think he's to have and hold it to the end of time." —Philadelphia Press.

Patent (waiting impatiently at doctor's office)—When will the doctor be here? I've been waiting nearly half an hour. Servant—What of that? The doctor has been waiting nearly four months for you!—Fliegende Blaetter.

"I did the best I could for you," said the attorney, "but we lost the case, nevertheless." "Oh, you needn't make any excuses," replied the client. "I procured a law excuse no one,"—Puck.

This talk about the father who punishes his wayward boy with a trunk strap is all nonsense. Everybody who ever started to go away on a vacation knows that the trunk strap is always lost.—Somerville Journal.

"This boy of mine," said the distressed parent, "has always been backward in his lessons. He doesn't seem to be smart enough." "You leave him with me," said the old-fashioned pedagogue, significantly, "I'll make him smart."—Philadelphia Record.

"What is coeducation, my son?" "It is a foolish system of education, father, whereby the male students are perpetually condemned to see themselves crowded for first honors by an inferior sex."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Visitor—And who are you, my little man? Outburst (with conscious pride)—I'm the baby's brother.—Answers.

HOW TO TALK.

It is better to be frankly dull than pedantic.

One must guard one's self from the temptation of "talking shop" and of riding one's "hobby."

Whatever sets one apart as a capital "T" should be avoided.

A joke or humorous story is dependent upon its freshness for appreciation. Some emotions will not bear "warming over."

It is no longer considered good form to say a word against any one. An ill-natured criticism is a social blunder. Gossip too is really going out of fashion.

Talk that has heartiness in it and the liveliness and sparkle that come of light-heartedness and innocent gaiety is a fairly good substitute for wit.

Offer to each one who speaks the homage of your undivided attention. Look people in the face when you talk to them.

Talk of things, not persons. The best substitute for wisdom is silence.

It is a provincialism to say "Yes, sir," "No, ma'am," to one's equal.

Have convictions of your own. Be yourself and not a mere echo.

Never ask leading questions. We should show curiosity about the concerns of others only so far as it may gratify them to tell us.

Draw out your neighbor without catching him. Correct him if necessary without contradicting him. Avoid mannerisms.

Strive to be natural and at ease. The nervousness that conceals itself under affected vivacity should be controlled, as should the loud laugh.

True wit is a gift, not an attainment. Those who use it aright never yield to the temptation of saying anything that can wound another in order to exhibit their own cleverness. It is natural and spontaneous. "He who runs after wit is apt to catch nonsense."—Ladies' Home Journal.

OUT OF BABES' MOUTHS.

"Can you tell me," said the Sunday school superintendent to a bright little girl, "to what condition Job was at the end of his life?" "Dead, sir," was the prompt reply.

Little Nettie was learning to read and part of her lesson ran thus: "The cat has a rat." "Huh!" she exclaimed. "The man who wrote this book didn't know very much. Cats don't have rats; they have kittens."

"Johnny," said a mother to her greedy little five-year-old, "if you eat so much lunch you will spoil your appetite for dinner." "Well, I don't care," answered Johnny. "I'd rather have a good lunch for my appetite than a good appetite for my dinner."

"Mamma," said a mother to her Nettie, "where do people go when they die?" "I can't tell just where, my dear," answered her mother. "But don't you know, mamma?" asked the little miss. "Of course not, Nettie," she replied, "how should I know?" "Why, mamma," asked the small interrogator, "didn't you never study geography?"

FRANCE and TURKEY

Their Diplomatic Relations Reported Strained and May be Broken off.

Paris, Aug. 5.—The Foreign Office here refuses neither to confirm nor deny the advice from Constantinople saying the French ambassador there, M. Constans, has handed over the question of the right of a French company, known as the Quays Company, to enjoy rights claimed under a convention to his government, at the same time recommending his own recall, and that the passports of the Turkish ambassador at Paris, Salih Muzir Bey, be delivered to him.

The Temps says there is reason to believe the Foreign Office is considering the recall of M. Constans.

The dispute, centred on the unpopularity of the Quays Company, which is a French concern, to enjoy the rights they claim under a convention. The Sultan is determined to obtain the Quays, negotiations for the purchase of which are becoming active, because he regards as highly dangerous the facilities now afforded for landing and embarking passengers.

DOCTORS AT SEA.

Many a man has to abandon his desk because of neuralgia. The torture sometimes lasts almost unbearably. E. C. Benson, city editor of the Daily British Whig, Kingston, Ont., suffered with neuralgia in the head for twelve months. Ventilation.

The Resilia insole expands from outsole when foot is lifted.

It thus draws in fresh air, through a tiny valve in the heel, which locks it in.

When insole is borne upon, the air contained in the cross channels is then forced up around the stocking, through a row of perforations, under the hollow of the foot.

The valve works one way only.

It thus locks the air in, when foot is lifted, compelling it to circulate up around the stocking, and out at the boot top.

WHITE WINGS WILL RACE

Yachts at Rond Eau will Test Speed in Competition.

Meeting of the Rond Eau Sailing Association last night.

The Rondeau Sailing Association held a short meeting at the Bungalow, Erieau, last evening, for the purpose of arranging for a number of races for this week.

Those who were present at the meeting were chiefly the captains of the yachts including E. Jones, of the "Bonnie Belle"; W. R. Fellows, of the "Enterprise"; W. R. Phillimore, of the "Baden Powell"; "Doc" Arnold, of the "Outlaw." There were also a number of others present.

It was decided that the races be held The big boat's race, in which the larger part of the interest is being taken, will be run off between the Baden-Powell, Outlaw and Enterprise, on Friday at two o'clock. The other free for all races will be run off after that, if they have time.

On Monday, civic holiday, the annual regatta will be held. The yacht races on that day will be run off in three classes. The first class will be between the three big boats, the Baden-Powell, the Outlaw, and the Enterprise. The second will be the 48 foot class, including the Bonnie Belle, Eric B. Louie and Banahes, and the third class will include the Pirate, Tom Cat, and Erid Boy. The final arrangements will be made later re the regatta.

The interest in the above boats, especially the three large ones, is very very keen. Each captain is confident of success, and is working hard to have his boat in good trim for the race on Friday. Ever since the race between the Outlaw and the Baden-Powell, last year, in which neither came out victorious, it has been an uncertain question as to which is the faster boat. This, it is expected will be decided on Friday.

One of the promoters of the regatta suggested that it would be well if the Lake Erie would run a late train from the Eau Monday Evening. It is understood that they will be asked to do so.

HUNTING HUSBAND

MAD LEAP

An Ex-Chathamite Received Concussion of Brain in Detroit.

Detroit, Aug. 7.—Agnes Cornell, 22 years of age, jumped from a fleeting street car near the corner of Jefferson avenue and Bates street about 10:30 o'clock last night. The car was on its way west and most of the passengers were coming from Belle Isle or the resorts out Jefferson avenue.

Sergt. Michael J. Coleman, one of the island police officers, noticed Agnes Cornell stand, but as the car was going at a very fast speed, the sergeant, like the other passengers, who witnessed the accident, did not believe the young woman would attempt to alight.

"As near as I could see," observed Sergt. Coleman, "the girl threw up her hands and jumped from the floor of the car to the pavement without stepping on the running board at all." Several women screamed and the car was stopped as soon as possible. The unconscious woman was carried to the store of the Brown Pharmacy Co., where she revived sufficiently to tell her name and address.

"Where were you coming from?" she was asked.

"The roller-coaster—the chutes," she replied.

City Physician Gorenflo found that the injured woman was suffering from concussion of the brain and stated that her condition was serious. Boyd's ambulance carried her to St. Mary's hospital.

Agnes Cornell came to Detroit from Chatham about three years ago, and at present is rooming at the New York hotel, on Jefferson avenue, near Randolph street.

THE DISTRICT

TILBURY

Aug. 7.—Mrs. B. Richardson, and son, accompanied by her mother and sister, arrived here yesterday on a visit with Mr. and Mrs. John Richardson, of Ella street.

Eight-five tickets were sold here yesterday on the M. C. R. excursion to Detroit.

A number of our citizens spent the civic holiday in cutting down the surplus weeds on Queen street. Many days more could be profitably spent at the same occupation.

The exodus to the Canadian Northwest still continues, and Tilbury is sending its share of the twenty thousand harvesters wanted. The following left on the C. P. R. this morning for different points in the Northwest: Arthur Rollet, Fred Rollet, William Brown, M. Broadbent, John Francis, O. Embrey, Arthur Cullinrois, W. Foxton, all of Tilbury East and Raleigh; B. Lefaiive, A. Hiser, Geo. Honey, C.

Houston, A. Manning, D. Scriven, H. Woolat, J. Hickson, Jno. Kemp, J. Gormican, Nelson Hornick, Jno. Stewart, James Tasker, and William Innes, all from the vicinity of Tilbury. The gun club held their regular weekly shoot last night.

SOUTH BUXTON.

The corn crop promises to be immense, unless there is an early frost. Farmers are very busy just now getting out their manure, preparing their land for wheat, and threshing. The grain is turning out fairly good, but in many cases the wheat is not a good sample.

Among the successful farmers of Raleigh Jas. Barry holds a distinguished place. Last year the products of his farm, 100 acres, brought him $1,500, his cows averaged him $50.80 each all told. And the rest was made out of hogs. He has grown no wheat for three years and says it does not pay to grow it at present prices. So far this year he has sold $780 worth of stock and has 70 hogs to put on the market yet. Mr. and Mrs. P. Gibbala were visiting in Charing Cross Sunday.

Miss Jean Weatherston, of Hamilton, who has been spending a week at the Bothy, Sandy Knowe, returned last evening to Chatham, where she will spend a few days with Mrs. James S. Gray before returning home.

Police Officer Tom Groves is keenly enjoying his vacation here. "The Eau's all right," said Tom to The Planet in his characteristic style. "What with resting, boasting and swimming it is an ideal spot for the holiday. Then the band concert excursions serve to liven up any monotony that may be felt." Tom cautiously admitted he had done a little fishing but declined to tell of his prowess or enter the lists in competition with such nimrods as Vitel Goudreau and—beg pardon, once again.

SUNDAY DISASTER.

There is a common saying that Sunday excursions invariably end in disaster. This was undoubtedly the case last Sunday when a party of excursionists took a short trip in the "Bonnie Belle," the fine yacht owned by E. Jones, of Chatham. The Bonnie Belle has lately been fitted up with new canvas and every one was anxious to see how she would run with her new rigging. Early Sunday morning the captain of the yacht and a few others took her out for a trial spin, intending afterwards to take out a party of young people. They sailed her down as far as the point and returned again to the Eau. Everything went off in grand style. The "Bonnie Belle" sailed along in a manner which reflected credit upon her crew and made her well deserving of the name she bears. Everyone pronounced her a grand success. But when comes the sad part of the whole affair. The party of young people, including a number of ladies, came down to the dock dressed in their grandest attire, anticipating a rare treat. A large number of spectators were down at the beach also to watch the start. The boat certainly did look pretty as she shot out from the dock, but alas! the managers of the craft, had left the centre board up and the sails tied. The wind changed, the boat capized and the whole party were thrown into the water. The yacht was righted again, but the trip was not attempted again that day. The members of the different party returned to their various homes in a far different condition than they had expected to and a number of them state firmly that they will never again attempt a Sunday excursion.
