SPOT CASE

H. Macaulay, 89 King St.

JOHN WAS WORKING

Ex-Ald. Jack Liddy, as an alderman, was a faithful one and is still keeping up the good reputation he made. As a servant of the city he worked for and served the city, and as an ex-alderman and citizen he is serving the city.

The proof of this was evidenced this morning as that worthy gentleman was seen cleaning off a very muddy crossing on Fifth street. "Working for the city now?" he was asked.

"Oh, yes," he replied, "just trying to help the city engineer out a little bit. He has too much on his brain and can't attend to all these things. I think I am setting a good example for some more of the citizens, and more of them should turn in and help him out."

MESSENGER SAVED CASH

EXPRESS TRAIN HELD UP BY FOUR MASKED ROBBERS.

One of Them Shot While Engaged Fixing the Dynamite Fuse—The Others Fled.

Trinidad, Col., Nov. 20.—Four masked robbers held up a passenger train on the Colorado & Southern Railway, 12 miles south of here, last night. One of the robbers was shot and killed by Express Messenger Sherwick of Fort Worth, Texas, and his body was afterwards found near the track. The robbers flagged the train. As it slowed up they ran alongside the engine and covered the crew with revolvers. They then compelled the engineer to alight, and after placing a stick filled with dynamite under the baggage car and attaching a fuse, ordered the engineer to ignite the fuse. He attempted to do so several times, but the fuse would not burn. During this proceeding the robbers kept up a fusillade of shots in the direction of the train to intimidate the passengers. While preparations were being made to fix the fuse, Messenger Sherwick extinguished the lights in his car, quietly opened a side door and fired at the nearest robber. The latter fell in his tracks. His startled companions fled.

THE DEBRULE CASE.

REPORTED DEATH IN CHICAGO TURNS OUT TRUE.

Woodstock, Nov. 20.—A surprise was in store for those who have been looking for developments in the alleged attempted swindle of Julius Debrule by parties in Chicago, when word was received yesterday that his sister had actually died in the county hospital at Chicago and that her remains were being shipped to Woodstock. The telegram received by Mr. Debrule informing him of his sister's death did not refer to her by name, but simply as "the sister." When he asked the express company to make inquiry in Chicago they found that a woman by the name of Mrs. Lombard had died at the hospital. But Mr. Debrule's sister's name was Mrs. Hood when he last heard from her. He wired back asking for a description of the dead woman. This was furnished and he learned that it was not his sister, but he saw a photograph to the Chicago police. This afternoon the message was received that they had identified her by the photograph. She entered the hospital as Mrs. Lombard. No explanation is given as to who the parties were who insisted that Mr. Debrule should furnish $80 before they sent the remains to Woodstock.

PASSED AWAY

One of the oldest and most respected residents of the Maple City stands peacefully away last evening in the person of Mrs. O'Hare, Laeox St. The deceased lady was a devout member of St. Joseph's Church, and her death was caused from the effects of a fall she received about two weeks ago. She went to church two weeks ago last Tuesday morning and while walking down the steps on her way home she slipped and fell, receiving severe injuries. She has been confined to her home ever since and death followed last evening. Her aged constitution being unable to stand the shock caused by the fall.

Deceased was born in Ireland 86 years ago, and came to this country with her late husband in the early forties. They settled in Raleigh, where Mr. O'Hare followed the occupation of farming. In 1852 they retired from the farm and moved into Chatham, and shortly after this Mr. O'Hare died. Mrs. O'Hare has lived in Chatham ever since. Besides other relatives, one son, Thomas O'Hare, is left to mourn her loss. Mrs. John Rice, of Illinois, and Eliza Purcell, of Kansas are brother and sister of deceased. Mrs. W. J. Twomey, of this city is a grand daughter. The funeral will take place Saturday morning, at 9.30 from her late residence. Service will be held in St. Joseph's church at 10 o'clock. Interment will be made in St. Anthony's cemetery.

FARMERS AND CANADA CO. WILL WAGE BITTER BATTLE

Details of the Differences Which Exist Over Oil Land Deeds—Mr. Pardo Attends Farmers' Meeting and Will Intercede With Government—Many Farm Lands Involved.

Special Planet Correspondence. Scene of Operations, Raleigh, Nov. 20.—Throughout the Raleigh fields there is something that is causing much greater excitement and commotion than the oil strikes and that something is the rider in regard to oil-which the Canada Land Co. inserted in the deeds they gave to the farmers. Over 70 years ago the Canada Land Co. was formed to speculate in land in Ontario. They bought up large tracts of bush and sold it as timberland. The first farms disposed of by the company were to purchase land near where a settlement had already started. The Middle Road, otherwise known as the 12th concession line, was one of the first places settled in the county. The pioneers as they came here from the old country took up homes all along this road. They all got their deeds from the Government. The Canada Land Co. saw that this settlement along the 12th concession line would grow back so they secured from the Government the land lying to the rear of the settlement along the Middle Road. One block of this land, containing some 3,000 acres, lies right in the centre of the oil field and comprises nearly all the land that is considered rich in oil wealth. The first farms disposed of by the Canada Land Co. sold with a rider in the deeds reserving gold, silver and white pine. After the oil excitement of 1866 at Petrolia, the Canada Land Co. added oil to the rider in the covenants. Still later deeds have black walnut mentioned. The consequence is that nearly every owner of a farm in the Canada Land Co. has a different deed and the farmers scarcely know where they are at.

The worst aspect of the unfortunate predicament in which the farmers find themselves is that many of them never knew that there was a rider in their deeds at all until oil was found. A Planet representative called on a number of the older residents of the oil territory and, if what they say is true—and there is no reason to doubt it—the majority of the men who have Canada Co. land did not know of the rider in their deeds. The majority of the men purchased their land 30 years or more ago. In those days money was not nearly so plentiful as it is now and the land was sold on time. The Canada Co. told a purchaser to pay for the land as he could and when the land was paid for they would be given the deed. The deeds came along all right but the farmer knew nothing of the oil and mineral rider until he got his deed. Then all he could do was refuse the deed and lose all the improvements he has put on the land or keep the deed.

Feeling is running pretty high over this. One farmer is bound by his deed from leasing his farm to the oil companies while he sees his neighbor getting $200 an acre for his farm. Naturally he is aroused and even the quiet and cautious men of the district see trouble in the future. Lawsuits are sure to be, but from the threats that have been made by the neighborhood there will be things happen that will be much worse than lawsuits. There is just an undercurrent of feeling that only needs a little stirring up to make it burst forth into open opposition and the oil speculators are adding fuel to the feeling of discontent at every opportunity.

The Elias Scammon property on the corner of the Jenner side road and the 13th concession line is Canadian Co. land. This is where Gurd's Gusher is pouring forth its volumes of oil from the bowels of the earth. The general boundaries of the Canada Co. land in the oil belt may be given as follows: All that land lying west of the Jenner side road and east of the Four Rod road, south of the front lots on the south side of the Middle Road and north of the rear end of the Lake Shore lots.

There is some land outside these boundaries, but this gives a pretty good idea where the Canada Co. land is. This is where Gurd's Gusher is, 100 acres, John McNaughton 50 acres, Wm. Miller 50 acres, Archie Broadbent 100 acres, Walter Bennett 100 acres, Wm. Bump 50 acres, Andrew Pardo 200 acres, Walter and George Bennett 50 acres, Alex. Boyce 50 acres, John Knott 50 acres, Herbert Sullivan 50 acres, Silas Russell 50 acres, Geo. Archibald 100 acres, James Russell 50 acres, Wm. Jenner 50 acres, Philip Cox 50 acres, Joseph Jenner 75 acres, Ben. Harvey 100 acres, John Boyce 100 acres, T. L. Pardo 200 acres, Geo. Archibald 100 acres, Richard Broadbent 50 acres, Ben. Harvey 50 acres, Peter Jenner 50 acres, Wm. Miller 25 acres, Ed. Gill 25 acres, George Knott 50 acres, Wilson Jenks 50 acres, Wm. Pardo 300 acres.

Altogether this makes 2,875 acres. Of course, as has been said, all this land is not controlled by the Canada Co. Quite a number purchased their land before the oil rider was put in the deed. Those who hold such a deed are considered lucky, but they are in the big minority.

Last Saturday a meeting of a number of the farmers who owned Canada Co. land was held at Chatham to consider what had best be done. T. L. Pardo was deputed to go to Ottawa to see what could be done, but Mrs. Pardo has been so ill since that he was unable to go. Mrs. Pardo is not expected to live. The farmers have done nothing as yet as a class, but individually they have nearly all consulted their lawyers and are quietly waiting developments.

The deeds give the Canada Co. right of egress and ingress with permission to fetch and carry, they to pay all damages.

The original deeds of the Government to the Canada Land Co. are being investigated at Ottawa.

CHATHAM BUTTER

G. E. Lister, of the Maple City Creamery, has received a communication from W. Hutchinson of the Exhibition Branch of the Department of Agriculture, asking him for rates on creamery butter which, it is intended, to exhibit at the Fifth National Exhibition of Japan, which will be held in the city of Anaka, Japan, commencing March 1. It is the intention of Mr. Hutchinson to purchase 100 pounds from Mr. Lister to be shown at this exhibition. The order will be filled. Mr. Lister received a diploma for his exhibit in Buffalo. He is at present preparing a large shipment for Trinidad Island. This butter is being shipped in pound cans.

"We are now," said Mr. Lister this morning, "about 2,500 pounds a week behind our orders and we are making twice as much butter as we did last year."

ITALIANS DISAPPOINTED.

QUEEN HELENA'S SECOND CHILD IS A DAUGHTER.

Universal Longing For a Son and Heir to the Throne—The New Princess Named Mafalda.

Rome, Nov. 20.—Queen Helena was accouched of a daughter yesterday. The mother and child are announced to be doing well. The new Princess will be named "Mafalda."

The child born to the King and Queen of Italy to-day is the second daughter, the first, Princess Yolande Margherita, having been born at Rome on June 1, 1901.

Had a male child and heir to the throne been born he would have been proclaimed Prince of Rome.

The accouchement occurred a month earlier than expected. The King yesterday was shooting on the island of Monte Cristo, when he was suddenly summoned home. He immediately boarded a yacht and was landed on the beach in the neighborhood of Rome. As there were no debarcation conveniences, his Majesty's companions had him carried ashore on the backs of sailors. A motor car was in waiting and the King soon reached the palace.

The birth of another Princess, instead of an heir to the throne, is a great public disappointment.

TRIUMPH FOR MARCONI.

COMMUNICATION BETWEEN SYDNEY AND CORNWALL.

The Italian Warship in Constant Touch With the Poldhu Station During and After the Voyages—Marconi Confirms the Statement.

Halifax, Nov. 20.—Signor Marconi has confirmed the report cabled from Rome that the Carlo Alberto had been in constant communication with the station at Poldhu, Cornwall, on the voyage across the Atlantic and that a message had been received by him on the Carlo Alberto while she lay in Sydney harbor. It was reported in Sydney yesterday that a message had been received at Table Head from the Cornwall station and the fact that the Italian cruiser Carlo Alberto was gallantly decorated with flags and bunting lent color to the report. A reporter telephoned to the Table Head station and asked Mr. Vivian for a denial or confirmation of the report. Mr. Vivian turned to Marconi and repeated the message. A minute or two later Mr. Vivian returned to the telephone and stated that Mr. Marconi would say nothing about the report that a wireless message was received there yesterday, but he would confirm the report that a wireless message was received in Sydney harbor on the Carlo Alberto from the Cornwall station. "In fact," he said, "the vessel was in communication with the Cornwall station during the entire voyage."

It is not believed, however, that another message was received at Table Head to-day.

Boats with armed Russians put out from shore to seize the schooner, and a fight ensued. Three Japanese were killed, and the schooner was seized. The other members of the crew were sent to Vladivostok. At last advices the sealers were still in the Russian prison.

COMPARISON OF TAXES.

The St. Thomas Journal, in an editorial on the municipal situation in that city, reproduces some instructive figures. It publishes the assessment and taxes raised in several of the small cities of Canada in 1901. Woodstock is the lowest with an assessment of $2,751,150. Belleville is next with $3,902,578; Chatham, $3,996,777; Guelph, $3,778,000; Stratford, $4,000,000; St. Thomas and St. Catharines, slightly over $4,500,000, and Windsor $5,305,863. The taxes, raised for all purposes: Chatham, $99,420; Guelph, $89,242; St. Catharines, $100,294; St. Thomas, $128,991; Stratford, $99,578, and Windsor $142,303. The mills on the dollar are: Belleville, 22.5; Brantford, 20.2; Chatham, 27.6; Guelph, 23.6; Hamilton, 19.9; Kingston, 19.9; London, 21.9; Ottawa, 22.7; St. Catharines, 21.9; St. Thomas, 28.2; Stratford, 24.9; Toronto, 22.3; Woodstock, 23.7, and Windsor 26.8.

"EASY MONEY."

On Tuesday a Toronto man took a walk to the Rosedale ravine, put a couple of bullets into his head and died, points out the Hamilton Herald. His little fortune, the accumulated savings of years of prosperous business, had been suddenly wiped out. Probably the poor fellow was crazed by his losses.

Although all such cases do not end so tragically, the experience of this Toronto man is very common. He had begun to "double in stocks," investing a few dollars on margins and getting large and quick returns without any exertion on his part. It seemed so easy. Besides, although it was gambling, it appeared to him a respectable sort of gambling, for there were not hundreds of prominent citizens, including many church members, indulging in the same alluring game? Why dabble along at his old humdrum business when money could be made so much more easily and fashionably? So he sold out his business and devoted himself to stock gambling.

It didn't take long for the end to come in his case. In almost all cases it doesn't take long. For a while things go along smoothly. The market is rising and the profits come in steadily. Then comes a slump. Instead of getting profits, the "investor" must pay out to keep his margins covered. His surplus goes, then he must draw on his capital, and by and by he can't "protect" his margins any more and he is ruined.

There have been scores—yes, hundreds—of such cases in the Maple City within the last few years. Men are being ruined every day by attempting to get rich through the bucket-shop. They forget that in every case, without exception, the case with which money is got is always in proportion to the risk attending the process. Happy is he who knows when to quit.

THE MINISTER OF NOTHING.

Complaint is made that the Conservatives, while making much row over the appointment of Mr. Prefontaine, are not saying much about the appointment of Mr. Sutherland to the Public Works portfolio. But the Conservatives would be very foolish to waste their ammunition on such small game as Sutherland. He is a very ordinary man—not quite up to the standard of those parish politicians, his colleagues, who again look like pignions in the presence of the clever but naughty minister, Hon. Mr. Prefontaine.

And Sutherland's portfolio has been depleted; his job has been emasculated, until he has little left to do but draw his salary and agree with his colleagues. The whole business of importance in connection with the Public Works Department has been, or will be, turned over to the man who was so roundly denounced by these two excellent Grit papers, the Witness and the Herald, of Montreal.

The alleged Minister of Public Works will probably make few mistakes, for the simple reason that he will not be permitted to do anything. The empty portfolio has been thrown to Mr. Sutherland in the position of a weak man who is entrusted with nothing that he can muddle. He represents a bump on the Government log.—Hamilton Spectator.

Here is another suggestive piece of news, to which we respectfully direct the attention of the Maple City coal dealers. The Morrisburg Herald says that Mr. McGannon, of that town, expects a cargo of coal almost any day, and further that the price will not be over $3 a ton.

Our contemporary quotes Mayor Sulman as characterizing The Planet's record of the City Council proceedings as a "garbled and unfair report." We fear this journal reports the proceedings a little too fully and accurately for His Worship at times. Suppose the Mayor were to explain a few matters himself and prevent any opportunity of "garbling or unfairness"—say the big bill he charged the citizens for his Montreal trip, for instance.

License Inspector Macnabb has penned a lengthy and laborious epistle to our contemporary explaining that he has been nursing his wrath against The Planet for twelve long years, that it originated at that time in a difference he had with a young lad then on the reporting staff, etc., etc. Everyone is doubtless deeply interested in the "violent and venomous" warfare which was waged between Mr. Macnabb and this lad a dozen years ago, but it is to be hoped that when the Inspector gets through recounting his thrilling experiences, he will submit his reasons for now concealing the public records of his office.

WIPE OUT OF EXISTENCE.

Big Plant of Armour & Co. at Sioux City, Ia., Completely Destroyed by Fire—Loss $900,000.

Sioux City, Ia., Nov. 17.—The big plant of Armour & Co., which occupied three and a half acres of ground at the extreme south end of the stock yards district was totally destroyed by fire, which started at 12:50 o'clock yesterday morning on the second floor of the fertilizer building. The loss, estimated by Charles W. Lennox, manager of the company, is a total of $900,000. The insurance is $721,500.

The cause of the fire was said by Mr. Lennox to have been either spontaneous combustion or an imperfect dryer. Quickly the Armour private fire department of six men was called out, and the entire city department followed.

By 1:20 o'clock six streams of water were being thrown upon the fire, which was destroying the fertilizer building, but the pressure was inadequate. The fertilizer building, which was of brick, 120x60 feet, four stories high, was located between the beef-killing house and the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha Railroad tracks on the east. The Railroad and contents of the building burned like chaff. At 1:25 o'clock the roof fell in, and a moment later the fire burst through into the beef-killing house. Simultaneously, a cattle chute ignited and lasted about five minutes, when it fell with a great crash.

From the beef-killing house to the Oleo building was only a step, and when the herd was ignited the fire presented a most spectacular appearance. The big beef house, where 500 carcasses were hanging, caught at 2 o'clock. By this time the entire plant, except the hog house, was a lake of fire. The roar was terrible. The country for miles around was lighted up. Suddenly there came a terrific explosion, followed quickly by another, and then another. Twenty-four drums of 100 pounds of ammonium each exploded before the reserve supply in the ammonia cistern was reached. That ignition almost razed the entire plant from its foundation.

About this time a burning roof of a chute fell upon a collection of live hogs, and their squeals were added to the appalling chorus.

When the hog house caught fire, all streams were turned in that direction, but the water seemed like oil. In the building were 3,500 dressed hogs and 2,500,000 pounds of pork product.

From a spectacular view, the fire was a magnificent sight. At 3:25 o'clock the fire department had given up the fight.

MORE OF KRUGER'S MEMOIRS.

Represents Himself as an Agent For Peace Before the War.

London, Nov. 17.—The Times published Saturday morning another page of extracts from the memoirs of Mr. Kruger dealing with the history of the Transvaal and his own successive terms of office as President. Mr. Kruger enters at great length into the circumstances of the Jameson raid and declares that it was only his influence and his threat to resign the presidency which prevented the burghers from attacking and shooting down all the inhabitants of Johannesburg.

The former President explains that particulars of the course of the war with the British and of its vicissitudes would not come within the scope of the memoirs, as he took no personal part in the fighting. He describes the harassment and life led at this period, directing and advising the Boer leaders. His sleep was broken many times every night to attend to despatches, etc.

He gives minute details of the removal of the Boer Government from Pretoria and says it was a sad blow to him, especially as his wife was then so old and weak that he could not think of taking her with him. The extracts published also include a description of Mr. Kruger's journey to Europe, and the writer declares that in the matter of peace negotiations he left everything to the discretion of the generals.

Ottawa, Nov. 17.—Word was received yesterday of the suicide at Buckingham, Que., of Thomas Cooke, son of J. T. C. Cooke, of that town. THE PRICE OF COAL

D. W. Crow is unloading the first car of hard coal he has received this fall, and is selling it at $7 per ton. In conversation with a Planet reporter today, Mr. Crow said: "Yes, we've dropped the price down to $7 per ton, and I think there will be plenty of it from now on."

When asked if it wouldn't come down lower still, Mr. Crow replied: "No, I don't think it will go any lower until spring. It is now only up 50 cents more per ton on the car than it was last year. We are now paying $5.50 per ton on the car here."

THE BIGGEST YET

The Katabdin, a large three-masted vessel, with a capacity of 525,000 feet was brought into port this afternoon with pine, shingles and lumber for the Colby, Scott Co., by the tug N. Dymont.

The vessel is one of the largest that ever came up the Thames. Its cargo comes from Perry Sound and Byng Inlet. She went aground between Cook's and Crow's dock, but the tug soon pulled her out.

The Norway, which is lying at the S. Hilday's dock, had to be moved so the Katabdin could get through Fifth street bridge. The bridge was open for quite a length of time to the chagrin and inconvenience of many pedestrians.

WORLD OF SPORT

FOOTBALL

THE DARRELL GAME.

(From The Planet's Darrell correspondent.)

Chatham football team beat Darrell on Saturday last (as their reporter says) three to nil. The last goal it was too dark to know much about—the ball may or may not have gone through. In the last part of the game, because of the darkness, some of the Darrell boys ceased kicking, as they could not tell friend from foe, but they seem to have been replaced by Chatham men, as 13 men were counted on the field.

Now, in our estimation it is no credit to the Chatham team to have beaten Darrell.

Chatham could not beat Darrell, so hunted for the biggest and strongest men available in order to secure success. Darrell team did not have their best men even, as several have sought employment in other places. Lesser players were put in, but great credit is due to them all. They are only boys, and we, as parents and friends, are proud of them.

Let Chatham put the same men in on the field at Saturday, when they played the other game with Darrell three weeks ago, and the score may be reversed, and farmers will not think pandemonium let loose as they did last Saturday evening upon the arrival in town of the Chatham football club.

We always have treated the visiting teams well; we made an exception in favor of Chatham. The mothers and sisters are deeply interested in the pleasures and amusements of our boys, and show it by actions if not by words.

Chatham team can practice much more easily than a country team, the distance is so much less, and farmers must work when they can, especially at such a season as this. Many of the Darrell boys have from two to three miles to get to the ground for practice, after a day's hard work, so that the favor all lies on the side of the Chatham team. No team will win every game.

COLLEGE WON.

The College turned the tables on the Model School yesterday afternoon by defeating them by a score of one to nil. Although the Collegians won the honors were evenly divided. Both teams played outsiders. The work of J. W. Flewos on the half-back line for the Modelites was very noticeable and effective. The College boys, forward line was fast, and had it not been for the good work of Hutchison and Ross at full back, more goals would have been scored.

The College defence, too, was strong with Courtney and Mercer at full back.

The only goal that was scored was in the first half on a fine rush of combination work on the part of the College forwards, and only in minutes to a half could be played.

These teams will play again on Monday or Tuesday next.

THE GALT GAME.

Osar Springs, Nov. 17th. Sporting Editor Planet.

Dear Sir,—Please see the public know, through your columns, the hour of the day that the match will be played between Galt and Chatham football teams, in Chatham, on the 25th inst, as a great many outsiders interested in football, will want to attend, and a knowledge of the time will allow them to make connections by railway. Trusting the information will be early given, I remain, Yours,

E. HERBERT SMITH.

We are much indebted to Mr. Smith for the reminder. It is an evidence of the interest being taken in the game and as soon as the day and time is arranged, they will appear in this column. Sporting Editor.

BOWLING

The finals in the doubles of the bowling tournament were played off yesterday afternoon between Wilson Taylor and Harry Colles, and Dr. J. L. Bray and John A. McCoig.

The usual 18 ends were played and Colles came out winner by nine shots. The game was well contested and interested much interested in the final of the doubles. The weather was fine and the grounds in fairly good condition, although a little sticky. Good playing on both sides was evident throughout the game.

A meeting of the committee which arranged the tournament will soon be held to decide on the prizes.

INWARD AND OUTWARD.

The inward effects of humors are worse than the outward. They weaken all the organs, inflame the mucous membrane, cause catarrhal troubles, and endanger the whole system.

Hood's Sarsaparilla eradicates all humors and cures all their effects. It's the great alternative and tonic medicine whose merit has been everywhere established.

Accept no substitute.

TENDERS

Bulk or separate tenders will be received at the office of the undersigned until Wednesday, Nov. 23rd, for the various trades required in the erection and completion of a brick church on the Baldoon Road, about 1-2 miles from Chatham.

Lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

WHERE UNCLE TOM LIVES.

Tomstown, a Newly-Established Settlement on the Blanche River, in the Temiskaming District—Tomstown's Founder Is Now Crowded.

Settlement has recently proceeded very actively along the Blanche River, says the correspondent of The Globe at Liskeard. This is a considerable stream, which, commencing at the head of Lake Temiskaming, extends in a northerly direction some forty miles. It has branches running north and south, and is the main water supply in a district where the numerous rivers, streams and small lakes make it exceptionally well watered. The Blanche River is navigable for a distance of nearly eighteen miles for small steamers, to the newly-established settlement of Tomstown, and a trip up the Blanche reveals the country under very favorable auspices. It is fine rolling land, well timbered, and the timber here is valuable, owing to its proximity to the river and the comparatively small cost of getting it into the water. Of course all the land along the river is taken up, and what is better, is a pretty nearly all being worked, clearing going on rapidly. There is going to be in a very few years a most prosperous community along the stream.

The present head of navigation on the Blanche River is Tomstown, so called after Uncle Tom. Who Uncle Tom is none of the settlers round here know, although there are few who are not acquainted with him. All the information that is definite about Uncle Tom is that he is an Englishman, and his name is supposed to be Henry Thomas. Four years ago he paddled up the river in his canoe, and, landing, put up a shack about fifty yards back of the high bank of the river. There he has resided ever since, the shack being replaced by a comfortable log cabin, where Uncle Tom lives and receives his visitors, for nobody who goes to Tomstown neglects to call on Uncle Tom.

An old man, possibly 65 years of age, a venerable figure, with a long white beard, kindly face and a friendly smile, stands on the bank and greets the steamer as it ties up at Tomstown. That is Uncle Tom, and he welcomes the visitor to his domain, for, though living so long alone, he is exceedingly sociable, and an evening with Uncle Tom in his cabin, talking by the light of a candle or lantern, is not to be forgotten. Of the country and its future he speaks with enthusiasm, and of him very little, yet he will sometimes tell of a winter night when he started down the river on the ice and fell through and of the terrible time he had before he succeeded in getting out of the water. He finally reached his destination, half frozen and nearly dead from exhaustion.

Uncle Tom at present lives in the midst of a little colony that is growing up around Tomstown. It is expected to be a considerable centre after a time, and when the road now building west meets the road running north from New Liskeard, communication between these two points will be more easily kept up in winter. There is, too, a water-power on the river two miles above Tomstown, which may be made available in the future.

In the meantime, however, taking time by the forelock, Uncle Tom has had Tomstown surveyed into building lots, and there is a land boom on a small scale going on there, quite a number of lots having been disposed of. Into these real estate transactions Uncle Tom himself has entered with some zest, and those who know him are pleased to think quite profitably. But it is said that Uncle Tom contemplates another move. He is getting crowded. There are too many people around Tomstown, sometimes a dozen or twenty arriving in a day. Out of this whirl of civilization Uncle Tom is believed to wish to escape, and it would not surprise anyone if some morning he took his canoe and pack and set out again, to pitch his tent in some spot where he still be incommoded by the passing throng. These days, however, as the traveler takes the boat out from Tomstown he will always see Uncle Tom waving a farewell, and his cheery voice calling, "Good-bye, boys, come again. You are always welcome."

THE DEFENCE OF LONDON.

FORTIFICATIONS BEING RAPIDLY CONSTRUCTED.

Powerful Batteries Mounted on Elevations Commanding Principal Routes—Buildings For Mobilizing Centre.

London, Nov. 20.—Efforts of a far-reaching character have been set on foot to fortify the metropolis against a possible attack in case of war, from which it has hitherto been quite inadequately protected. An announcement to the effect that the extensive buildings have been completed at Wokingham, Surrey, eleven miles south of London, for use as a mobilizing centre in the scheme for the defence of London, reveals for the first time the existence of such important War Office operations. It is stated that when Lord Roberts took over his post as Commander-in-Chief of the British army he personally investigated the defences of London, and found them to be very imperfect. Since then powerful batteries have been mounted on elevations commanding the principal roads between London and the south coast. New fortifications are also being rapidly constructed along the banks of the Thames.

BANQUET AT OTTAWA.

London Chamber of Commerce Delegates the Guests.

Ottawa, Nov. 20.—The delegates from the London Chamber of Commerce arrived from Montreal yesterday. They were entertained to luncheon at the Rideau Club by Hon. Clifford Sifton, and spent the afternoon in sightseeing. Last evening a banquet in their honor was given at the Russell House by the Ottawa Board of Trade. Mr. John Coates, the President of that body, occupied the chair, and among those present were—Hon. William Paterson, Minister of Customs, and Hon. R. W. Scott, Secretary of State. The usual loyal toasts were enthusiastically honored, after which Mr. C. F. Henderson proposed the toast of "Canada and its capital," to which replies were made by Hon. R. W. Scott, Hon. Wm. Paterson and Mayor Cook. Mr. Scott dwelt upon the extent of Canada and the variety of its natural resources, and alluded to it as the home of a free, intelligent and loyal people, who were likely to remain so. There was no thought of annexation, unless it was of annexing the northern tier of States in the republic to the south. (Laughter and applause.) He spoke of the American invasion of the Canadian west, which, however, was of a character that was welcomed here. Before the close of the present century he expected that Canada would have a population of fifty million, and would be the strong right arm of the British Empire. Hon. Wm. Paterson said every Canadian now felt that he was a citizen of one of the greatest countries in the world. He was glad to meet the gentlemen from England, and trusted that their visit to Canada would be a pleasant one.

The Chairman proposed "Our guests from the motherland," which was acknowledged by Sir Vincent Barrington, Mr. John Hume, and Mr. Kendrick Murray. Sir Vincent Barrington said he had found an undercurrent of complaint that Englishmen did not that knowledge of Canada which they ought to have. Some allowance, however, must be made for their education, as Englishmen had been accustomed to pictures of Canadians robed in furs. In England to-day sympathy and admiration for Canada was great and universal. The desire to help Canada was not the possession of any particular party or sect in England. As to meeting Canadian wishes with respect to a preference, there were great difficulties in the way. There was the strong free trade sentiment in Britain, and also the feeling that if the mother country gave a preference to her colonies it would be liable to forfeit the advantage of the most-favored nation clause with other countries. With respect to improved steamship service, it was only fair that British having given subsidies towards steamship communication with the United States, should deal equally well with her loyal colonies. Sir Vincent spoke of the investment of British capital in foreign countries, and expressed the opinion that if investments had been made in the colonies they would have turned out equally well. The speaker strongly endorsed emigration from London to Canada, and warmly advocated carrying on a strong immigration policy in Ireland. Canada gloried in its system of government and the impartial administration of justice. These were things to cling to most firmly. Connected with Britain should be a string of roads and not fetters of iron. (Loud cheers.)

THE WORK OF VANDALS.

Statues Erected by German Emperor Again Damaged.

Berlin, Nov. 20.—Vandals have again broken off parts of five of the statues on the Siegesallee, the historical series erected by Emperor William at his personal expense. The statues themselves were not harmed, as they stood out of the reach of the depredators, but pieces of the decoration of the bases were broken, apparently by the same hands. A previous mutilation occurred in 1899, and though a large reward was offered the culprit was never caught. The perpetrator of the present outrage has not been traced.

An Insane Woman's Deed.

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 19.—Mrs. A. A. Clark shot her son Alan Oxford, killing him instantly, last night. She then shot herself, causing instant death. Temporary insanity is assigned as the cause.

A LAMBERT TALE.

How the Tortoise Got Even With a Baboon Who Had Insulted Him—A Missionary's Story.

On the wide open veranda of our mission house—a wide enough structure of bamboo and mud—in need of the natives, among whom I was working, to tell me their tales, writes a missionary to a London newspaper in his return from the Zambesi country. He proceeds: Of course, they had no means of conveying their thoughts other than orally, and their traditions must have been handed down from father to son for untold generations. It is for some other mind than mine to conjecture the common origin which seems to underlie many of these simple African tales with some of our own country-side tales. I have been surprised again and again at the similarity of thought between the tales of a people which has roamed for generations the plains and jungles of Central Africa with some of the English folk-tales. Can there be anything in the theory that African civilization was once on a par with that around the shores of the Mediterranean? Was the cradle of the human race, as some surmise, in the Abyssinian valleys? Let me, then, recount one of these tales, that the reader may judge for himself. I narrate it, with but little variation.

In the time long ago a Baboon, living in a large bush to be seen in the great forest, espied on the ground a Tortoise. "Good morning, friend Tortoise," said the Baboon. "For a long time I have been wishing to make friends with you—will you come and have 'dinner' with me to-day?" "With pleasure," replied the Tortoise, as his fish-like eyes blinked up at the great Baboon. "I shall be very glad to make your acquaintance," said the Tortoise, when the Baboon's house, he found the food spread out upon a bamboo platform, raised some two feet above the ground. "Just help yourself to whatever you like," said the Baboon, who commenced at once to eat up the good things spread before him. But the poor little Tortoise was unable to reach the food as the platform was far above his head. The greedy Baboon was not long before he had eaten up all the food there was. Then he turned to the Tortoise with a grin, and said: "I hope you have enjoyed your dinner, friend Tortoise? You do not seem to have a very large appetite." "Thank you," replied the Tortoise, "I am satisfied. Pray come and dine with me to-morrow, and give me an opportunity of repaying your kindness." The greedy Baboon, allured with the hope of another meal, as he would count on the Tortoise took his departure, and on the way home revolved in his mind a plan of revenge for the insult the Baboon had put upon him. Now the home of the Tortoise was at the river, and the first thing he did when he got to his house was to set fire to the grass growing along the bank, so that when the fire had spread itself, there was a long stretch of blackened stubble. A few more, when the Baboon arrived, he found a mat spread on the ground, on which were savory articles of food. "I am so glad to see you," said the Tortoise, "and I am quite ready, as you see, will you just run down to the river and wash your hands before we begin to eat?"

Away ran the Baboon, his mouth watering at the thought of the good things which he had just seen. When he had washed his hands he started back again across the patch of burned grass. But as he ran along on all fours he soon found that the burned grass made his hands as dirty as they were before. "I cannot go to dinner with black hands like these," he thought, so he returned to wash them a second time. Then again he attempted to cross the burned grass, but with his better success than before. After washing his hands for the third time he sat down to consider how he was to return to the Tortoise's house without getting his hands black. The only way seemed to be to follow the bank of the river until he reached the end of the burned patch. This he set out to do, and at last, tired and hungry, reached the home of the Tortoise. When he got there he found, to his astonishment, that the Tortoise was just eating the last piece of food. "Hello!" exclaimed the host, "where have you been all this time? I waited a long while for you, but, as you must have been dissatisfied with the food that you saw, and so had gone back to your home again. Now I have eaten it all myself, and have nothing left in the house to offer you. I hope you will not feel any more hungry when you get home than I did when I returned from your home yesterday." Then the Baboon went off much annoyed that the tables had been so cleverly turned on himself.

Science and Long Life.

It is asserted that scientific men are apt to live long, and that many a industry is positive aid to attaining a healthy old age. The belief receives some support, says Modern Society, by the fact that four of the men recently seated at the council table of the London Iron and Steel Institute were over eighty.

Sir Lowthion Bell is in his eighty-seventh year, and still carries his extraordinary experience of British iron and coal as lightly as other men carry the gardenia in their buttonhole. Sir Bernard Samuelson is eighty-two. Time has left deeper marks on his figure and visage. It is true, but he is still hale and hearty. Sir John Alcock stands as square and sturdy to-day as he did when at the head of the great Midland iron foundries which rolled the girders for all our earlier ironclads and ocean liners and cast the huge iron skeleton of the St. Pancras Railway Station. The fourth octogenarian is an American, Mr. John Fritz of Bethlehem, United States. He openly preaches the doctrine that applied science gives men healthy activity of brain and supplies that salt and savor to life which we all need to render our life worth living.

Smart.

The successful merchant nowadays knows how to turn even misfortune into advertising. A team of coach horses dashed into an immense plate glass window in front of a big furniture store and made a great smash up of everything in sight.

The proprietor, instead of shutting up shop even temporarily, sat down and with a paint brush elaborated the following on a big white board and nailed it in the window where the plate glass was:

"A coach smashed this window. You see even the horses know where to find good furniture. This is a hint for you."

A Wonderful Balance.

The grand balance, or scale, used in the Bank of England is probably the most wonderful piece of mechanism to be seen anywhere. It stands about seven feet high and weighs probably two tons. This scale is so perfectly adjusted that it can weigh a grain of dust or 400 pounds of gold. A postage stamp placed on one of the two weighing pans will move the index six inches. If the weight placed upon the scale is beyond its capacity, an electric bell is set ringing, the machine declining to execute a task of which it is incapable.

"No."

On the cornerstone of that fabric which we call manhood is engraved the unchangeable "No." He who early learns the use of that invaluable word has already learned the way to peace and comfort and safety. An easy compliance frustrates everything. Respect for others need not degenerate into servitude, but respect for oneself. That is the very alpha and omega of all inward command.

Flattery.

Some people like to flatter and some like to receive it. Saying things we do not mean, uttering meaningless nothing, is insincerity, and what is insincerity but untruthfulness? Be not deceived by the lips of the flatterer. The honeyed words may be only a concealed arrow intended to blind the eyes.

Expensive.

Suitor—I want to marry your daughter, sir, not because of her social position, but because she's a pearl, sir—a pearl.

Father (dryly)—Yes, she is a pearl, and (dryly) again when you are in a position to pay for the setting.

He who unintelligently attempts what is beyond his power must leave undone his own proper work, and thus his time is wasted, he is ever so close to occupied.

HE'S STILL CURED

Ademard Ooderre Used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Three Years Ago And Has Had No Indigestion Since.

These days of hurry and excitement are bound to make themselves felt in the overworked human body, and on no part of it do they tell more quickly than on the stomach. An extra strain of work, and especially brain work, always must affect the appetite, and what affects the appetite must affect the stomach. And if the stomach is not cared for, rested and recuperated, dyspepsia must result. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets rest the stomach and keep it in fit condition to do its work easily and well. They also cure dyspepsia in its worst form. Thousands who have been cured by Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will tell you so. Ademard Ooderre, of St. Jacques de L'Assomption, is one of these. Listen to his story: "I suffered from dyspepsia caused by inflammation of the stomach," says Mr. Ooderre. "I tried medicines without getting relief and was almost discouraged. One day I read of the cures performed by Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and I bought two boxes of them. I found relief almost at once and was finally completely cured. "It is three years since I was cured of dyspepsia by taking Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and I am still cured."

Saving the Paymaster

By PRIVATE O'BRIEN

Copyright, 1901, by A. S. Richardson

It was a triangular trip Major Whitcomb had to make once in two months when he started out to pay off the men at the three forts, and it included some of the roughest trails in Arizona. Six mounted men always acted as escort, while the paymaster, his clerk and the safe rode in an ambulance. Now and then the Indians were bad or the outlaws had the nerve to make an ambush, but the greatest peril that ever threatened the major and his greenbacks came from an entirely different source and one suspected by no man save Sergeant Britt. He had once been the major's body servant.

It was on a bright morning in the month of May that the paymaster started out on one of his trips. The escort was under command of Sergeant Britt, and everybody knew the sergeant to be a square man. The first night's camp was made at Buzzard's springs, the usual place, but the second was no camp at all. At 4 o'clock in the afternoon the outfit reached Spanish Pete's hostelry, on the Cimarron trail, where it was only intended to halt for a few minutes and then push on for five miles. Pete's place was a hotel on the stage route, but was likewise the rendezvous of a bad lot of men. The first man to appear as the escort clattered up was Pete, but close on his heels was Tom Howard, a noted gambler. Howard explained that he had been down to Anita to raise some cash and was on his way back with $2,000. He had a couple of friends with him, both of whom were members of the fraternity, and when they dared the major to halt for the night and have a little game he did not hesitate more than a minute. A little longer ride next day would make up the lost distance.

The men of the escort heard nothing of the conversation, but suspected the major's reason for tarrying. They joked over it all but Sergeant Britt. Four soldiers lifted the safe from the wagon and carried it into the major's room, and the escort pitched their tents only a few rods from the east wall of the inn. The major's clerk, a young soldier detailed from one of the companies, was quartered in the house. Soon after supper he brought certain orders out to the escort and Sergeant Britt noticed that he was the worse for drink. Half an hour later he was found asleep in his room.

The game began as soon as the evening meal was finished. Howard and his two friends and Major Whitcomb sat down in a room off the barroom. Spanish Pete had been assigned a part, but he found himself baffled by Ser-gent Britt at the outset. When he sent a liberal supply of fiery whiskey out to the soldiers, it was promptly returned to him unopened, and when he sought to be companionable with the sergeant and invited him to sample something choice he was turned down without delay. It was clear to Britt that the plan was to get the escort befuddled. What was to happen after that he could not guess, but he determined not to sleep until the game was finished.

For the first hour the play was light, and no one was more than a few dollars winner or loser. Then the ante was raised, and the sergeant was not surprised at the change which took place in the major. The greed of the born gambler shone in his eyes. He evinced impatience at the slightest delay, and he turned more often to the glasses at his elbow.

For a time he won, and the others could not break his luck. Then the sergeant saw that they had made a combination against him. He caught neither look nor sign, but something told him that they were baiting their trap. They were cautious, crafty men, and they played the major for an hour before he had reached his last dollar. The sergeant looked to see him quit then, but with a muttered curse he put up his watch, pin and ring and held his own for half an hour longer. When he had nothing more to put up, he showed back from the table and lighted a cigarette, and for two or three minutes there was silence in the room.

Then, in a quiet but sarcastic voice, every word meant to sting, Howard suggested that the major had played with poor judgment and with an entire lack of nerve. It was hinted that his former winnings were only accidental, and that he had never really been entitled to sit in a game with men of renown. Other stings were inflicted by Howard's friends, and the sergeant's heart began to thump as he realized the object in view. The major had been drinking too much. He stared at the wall, his brain working slowly and though every taunting word reached his ears it took some time to interpret them. When the case was clear to him, a look of defiance came to his face and he brought his fist down on the table and exclaimed: "You are a lot of tin horn gamblers, and I'll make you go down into your boots! There isn't one of you that dares take a hand in an unlimited game."

"Where's your money?" asked Howard.

"My I O U ought to be good for a thousand."

"Not this eve. It's cash on the table this time. If you had a thousand—five thousand—ten thousand—"

"But I have got it!" shouted the major as he grew more excited. "Give me fifteen minutes. I want to get out into the air and clear my head. When I return, I'll be ready for you."

The officer passed out and walked slowly down the trail, and he was not yet out of sight when Sergeant Britt was rousing up the sleeping men and whispering in their ears:

"Softly now, Jackson and Thomas, put the mules to the ambulance, and you others come with me for the safe."

The men worked swiftly and silently. The sandy soil echoed no footsteps, and not more than five minutes had gone by when the safe was deposited in the vehicle and the ambulance and escort were moving off in the darkness.

Ten minutes later the paymaster returned. His face was white, but his eyes glittered and his lips were compressed. Striding by the sergeant without seeming to see him, he entered the room where the gamblers waited and said:

"I am ready. It is to be an unlimited game and cash on the table."

Pulling out his bunch of keys, he entered the room where his clerk lay in a drugged sleep, but ten seconds later he was out again, shouting:

"Sergeant Britt, the safe has been stolen! Rouse your men and beat about for the trail of the robbers!"

"The safe is all right, sir," said the sergeant as he saluted.

"But where, where?"

"I loaded it up and sent it out with the boys, sir."

"You—you did that without orders? Explain!"

"To save the money and you, sir."

"You dog!" cursed the major as he delivered a blow which knocked the sergeant flat.

"Yes, sir," said the soldier as slowly he rose to his feet and saluted—"yes, sir, the safe has gone on, and with your permission I'll follow."

And, wiping the blood from his lips, he saluted again and stalked forth into the night to overtake his men.

What Will Be the Awakening?

It was of Harriet Martineau (and the saying might apply to all who, like her, have done their best to serve their fellows) that the large souled Florence Nightingale remarked: "What a delightful surprise it will be to her to wake and find herself in heaven!" Somewhat similar in its blending of kindly intention with a spice of innocent malice was Galilee's remark on the death of a skeptical contemporary who had refused to look through the telescope at some newly discovered spectacle in the skies. "I hope he saw the moons of Jupiter while on his way to heaven," surely the most amiable exhibition of the spirit of "I told you so!" on record.

Of a like liberal vein was the old minister's surmise that "we shall meet a great many people in heaven whom we have not expected to see there," though he followed out his suggestion to the less pleasing conclusion that "we shall also miss a great many we had expected to find." "After me the deluge" was a selfish phrase enough and only to be commended for its honesty.—Westminster Review.

Too Much Muscle.

A young hildon plowboy was pestering a female servant with his unwelcome attentions, and one day he proposed. At this instant the pair (they were walking in the fields) came upon another servant, a man, sleeping instead of working. The lassie, a bravey wench, seized a stick and beat the idler till he roared. When he had slunk off to his duty, the swain remarked admiringly:

"Ma certie, lassie, but ye cud well manage yer childer."

"Aye, or their father," replied the girl, with a significant look.

The lover turned pale.

"Ma lass," he gasped, "I just remembered ma auld mither at home. I'm her only laddie, and I think it's na richt for me tae marry while she's alive. W-w-when she dies, I'll come back an' marry ye."

And as he got safely away he said fervently, "May the Lord alloo ma mither to live as lang as me!"—Scottish American.

Young's Impromptu.

To most persons Edward Young is the author of "Night Thoughts" and nothing more, but he was also a man of the world and a shrewd and caustic wit as well as the rector of St. Mary's church at Wexley.

It was there in the garden of the rectory that he composed some of the best impromptu verses known. He was walking with two ladies when some one summoned him to the house. His companions were agreeable, and he was in no haste to leave them. Turning as he reached the gate, he said:

Thus Adam look'd when from the garden driven. And thus disputed orders sent from heaven. Like him I go, and yet to go am loath; Like him I go, for angels drove us both. Hard was his fate, but mine still more unkind; His Eve went with him, but mine stays behind.

A CALLANT FIGHT.

HOW SIX WAZIRI TRIBESMEN HELD A TOWER.

FORT STORMED AND ALL DEFENDERS KILLED.

BRITISH LOSSES HEAVY, INCLUDING COL. TONNOCHY.

Simla, India, Nov. 20.—Colonel Tonnochy, commanding the fourth column of the British expedition engaged in putting down the uprising of the Waziri tribesmen, on the Indian frontier, found a strong tower at Gumati, held by six outlaws, who refused to surrender. The shells from the British guns made little impression on the fort. In the evening the fort was stormed and all of its defenders were killed. The British losses were comparatively heavy. Col. Tonnochy was mortally wounded, and has since died. Captain G. White, of the 3rd Sikhs, was killed while leading the storming party, and Captains Davies and Houston and Lieut. Airy and eight of the native troops were wounded. The tower was razed.

Gen. Egerton arrived at Shiva yesterday and captured the headman and several of the villagers. Col. McRae, commanding the first column, signalled from Spivan on Monday that he had surprised and captured the village, and had taken 250 prisoners. Some war munitions also fell into the hands of the first column.

The British-Indian army suffers a severe loss in the death of Col. Tonnochy, commandant of the 3rd Sikh Infantry, who was in his 48th year, and had seen much active service. He was mentioned in despatches for his services in the Mah and Waziri campaign of 1879-81; received a medal and two clasps for the Burma campaign, 1886-89; served in the Isani expedition of 1892; was severely wounded while with the Chitral relief column in 1895, received the medal and clasp, and fought throughout the Tirah campaign of 1897-98, receiving the medal, with three clasps.

Capt. G. White was 32 years of age, and served throughout the Burma campaign of 1891-92, receiving the medal and clasp, and the Tirah campaign of 1897-98, receiving the medal and three clasps. He was severely wounded at the battle of Dargai Heights, made famous by the final and successful charge of the Gordon Highlanders.

MITCHELL'S ORDEAL OVER.

Was on the Witness Stand Four and a Half Days.

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 20.—After being on the stand for four and a half days President Mitchell of the Mine Workers' Union completed his testimony yesterday before the anthracite strike commission. During his ordeal he was examined by his own attorney, those of five companies, and those of the independent operators. He was followed on the stand by the Rev. Dr. Peter Roberts of Mahanoy City, Pa., who gave evidence as to living conditions in the mining regions, and who was still on the stand when the commission adjourned for the day. One of the most important things brought out during the cross-examination of President Mitchell was his emphatic declaration that the miners were opposed to separate union miners from the anthracite workers, thus creating two organizations, a step which Labor Commissioner Wright had reported favorably upon. The non-union men who remained Bros. during the strike were made a party to the arbitration plan. In connection with this feature Mr. Mitchell announced that he is also representing thousands of non-union men who struck with the unions, and that all the workers under his jurisdiction would abide by the award of the arbitrators "or get out of the union."

TWO ACCUSED OF MURDER.

One Arrested in F-flao, Wanted in New York City.

A watch chain, said to have belonged to the murdered man, was taken from Pazzi. He was locked up on an open charge. Mary Parnelo and Rosa Bertone were also arrested, the former being charged with stealing $600 from the murdered man, and the latter with deserting her child in New York City. They were captured at a boarding house conducted by Mabel Williams and Lena Edwards, both colored. These women were arrested also, and charged with having assisted the men to escape.

Guy Bros. Minstrels were the attraction at the Grand Opera House last evening, and the bright, clean, amusing entertainment was warmly enjoyed. Guy Bros. take an especial delight in introducing new features, and this year they have made a radical departure from the ordinary minstrel show. The opening scene is an innovation both unique and pleasing. Instead of the old style row of black faced artists with banjos, bones and smiles, the curtain rolls up revealing a picture of startling brightness and attractiveness. The scene was laid in front of an English country inn. The husbands in their red coats, which knockers and top boots had just come in, rest and with the assistance of the four colored servants, Arthur Guy, Harry Emerson, Edwin Guy and W. Billings pass the time merrily cracking jokes and singing songs. Albert Guy, master of the hunt, is the master of ceremonies during the rest of the evening. The husbands begin the round of amusement with a splendid rendition of the solo "I'll be an old man's Darling." Arthur Guy and Edwin Guy, the two funniest black faced artists in the business, keep the audience in excellent spirits as much by their comical and clever manoeuvres and antics as by the bright, fresh and extremely funny jokes they tell. Both brothers are adepts at singing darkey melodies and each rendered excellent solos, which were rapturously enjoyed. One feature of the Guy Bros. show is the excellent music above all other similar organizations is the excellence of the orchestra they carry and the music rendered while waiting for the curtain to rise for the second part of the program was warmly appreciated. Lavette Bros. have a good stunt that is very entertaining. It consists of some very funny songs, which they sing, rimes, Howells and Emerson have a very clever song and dance which they put on well. They were very amusing and did so well that they made the audience "Howls." The tumbling tricks of the Panama trio, Charles and Arthur Guy and Botombo, afforded a good 20 minutes of amusement. They have some very unique, difficult and new feats.

Albert Guy sang several solos with picture illustrations. The Guy Bros. Minstrels carry one of the best picture machines that has been here, and most everyone knows the excellent expression and voice with which Albert Guy renders these sweet southern melodies.

A new and original feature of the entertainment was the impersonation of the leading men of history by Victor Lewis. He fixed himself in plain view of the audience and did remarkably well. His impersonation of Napoleon, Bismark, and Lord Roberts were exceptionally true to life. Mr. Lewis has even the little peculiarities of the men he pictures so well.

The musical specialties introduced by George and Albert Guy proved to be one of the best features of the show. Their rendition of "My Old Kentucky Home," by the use of cow bells, was remarkably sweet and pleasing.

Guy Bros. Big Show concluded with moving pictures. The picture machine is certainly all they claim for it. The pictures are as near perfect as possible. The pictures of the King's coronation and Mount Pelée were especially thrilling.

Guy Bros. are old favorites and their many friends here always like to see them return.

GENTILE'S ARREST.

NOTED COUNTERFEITER CAPTURED AT TORONTO.

VAST QUANTITY OF MATERIAL TAKEN BY POLICE.

THE PRISONER WAS HEAD OF AN AMERICAN GANG.

Toronto, Nov. 20.—Two American detectives, in company with Detective Davis of the Toronto force, made a most sensational arrest of a notorious counterfeiter yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Joseph Gentile of 333 Spadina avenue was hard at work in his back kitchen manufacturing false American and Canadian coins in great quantities and considering himself free from suspicion. Without any warning three men walked in upon him, and before he could realize his position he had been handcuffed and placed in charge of two police men. The detectives searched the premises and secured the most surprisingly complete plant for manufacturing counterfeit coins. Scattered about the room, on tables, in trunks, in cupboards everywhere, were false coins, plaster of Paris moulds, tin, zinc, antimony, copper wire, pliers, nitrate of silver—in short, everything to facilitate a counterfeiter in his work. The arrest is one which casts far into the shade that of the Stewarts and the Raymonds.

Chief Wm. J. Flynn of the United States Secret Service of New York district, who is an official also of the United States Treasury Department, arrived in Toronto yesterday morning in company with one of his assistants, Joseph Murphy. They were in search of Joseph Gentile, the head of one of the most daring and successful bands of counterfeiters in the United States, who had operated for a number of years. The American detectives had already been down and captured the major portion of the gang, which numbered some eight or ten men, and which had its headquarters for a time in New York City. In spite of these arrests, the band of counterfeiters continued and baffled the detectives, who had to play a waiting game, until they heard of Gentile's presence in Chicago. The counterfeiter, however, was too wily for the officers of the law, and when they arrived in Chicago he had already set up his business in Detroit. Thither they followed him when they later on learned of his whereabouts, but again they were too late, and when they arrived in Chicago he had already crossed the boundary line into Canada. Again they lost track of him for a time, but soon learned that he had located in Toronto. This time the detectives came with every possible secrecy to Toronto, and the first thing that was known of the case here was when they arrived in the city yesterday morning and examined their mission to Inspector of Detectives Wm. Stark. Inspector Stark detailed Detective Davis to assist the American officers, and the three set out upon their search without delay.

The American officers had knowledge of an address at which Gentile was supposed to have lived, and the party headed for a house on Wood street. Here they were told that their man had moved to a house in the west end of the city. Thither they journeyed, but again they were told that he had moved. This time they were told that he had gone to 333 Spadina avenue, and the three officers went to that address.

At last their efforts were successful, and they surprised their man in the kitchen, hard at work at his illegal trade. He was quickly handcuffed and the patrol wagon was summoned. Word quickly spread about the neighborhood that a counterfeiter had been caught, and a great crowd collected to watch the proceedings. Their curiosity was rewarded with sight of the numerous packages which the officers carried out to the wagon in armfuls. The front part of the house is occupied by a fruit store, which Gentile had been conducting as a blind.

The complete list of the paraphernalia secured by the detectives is as follows:—Five plaster of Paris moulds; 153 50-cent American coins, wrapped up in a cloth and inside a trunk; 100 ten-cent American coins in the kitchen cupboard; 240 fifty-cent American coins in a bundle on the table; 240 fifty-cent American coins in a bundle in the cupboard; 51 ten-cent Canadian coins; 30 fifty-cent American coins, wrapped up in a package; 30 fifty-cent American coins, 22 twenty-five-cent Canadian coins, 49 ten-cent Canadian coins, 61 ten-cent Canadian coins, four pairs of plaster of Paris moulds, with which he was working at the time, and each capable of turning out six American fifty-cent pieces at once; six pounds of block tin, six pounds of mixed metal (tin and zinc), one crucible, four pounds of antimony, one pound of copper wire, two files for finishing off the edges of the coins, six pairs of pliers, six ounces of nitrate of silver, and $27.07 in genuine money, $12 of which was in Gentile's pocket.

LED DOUBLE LIFE.

Alleged Bible Agent a Horse-stealer and Burglar.

Lancaster, Pa., Nov. 20.—A. G. Glasgow of Millersville, who clocked his extensive horse-stealing operations under the guise of a Bible agent, an energetic worker in church work and the organizer of Sunday schools, was found guilty on four indictments for horse-stealing, and eleven indictments for felonious entry and larceny of bugles, harness, etc. He was sentenced to five years and nine months in jail, and to pay a fine of $1,400 and costs.

The guests were assembled and all in readiness for the wedding of Mrs. William McGee of Hamilton to Charles Vosper. The groom backed out because he suspected the bride of mercenary motives.
