KITCHENER HINTS AT CONSCRIPTION, BUT DOES NOT FEEL PESSIMISTIC; RESPONSE HAS BEEN GRAND; RESERVES NEEDED

War Secretary States That 210,000 Men Have Been Sent to France and Have Been Well Tested; Front Has Been Increased Over Seventeen Miles.

London, Sept. 16.—Lord Kitchener in the House of Lords yesterday read a carefully prepared and optimistic speech on military operations. In the course of his address the Secretary of State for War made the interesting disclosure that the German attacks with gas, liquid fire and asphyxiating shells, lacking, as they now do, the element of surprise, have failed in their object and have lost much of their offensive value owing to the steps taken to counteract them.

Lifting the veil of secrecy, he announced that eleven divisions of the new army had reinforced Field Marshal French's force in France, and others would follow quickly. He too, spoke optimistically of the situation on the various fronts, expressing the opinion that "the Germans have shot their bolt" in their offensive against Russia without achieving their object of destroying the Russian army.

AS TO CONSCRIPTION Without referring directly to conscription, the War Minister said provision to keep up this strength of the army in 1916 was causing anxious thought, owing to the raising of re-

RECRUITING DEPOT FOR THE CITY AND BRANT COUNTY

Will be in Command of Captain Henderson, of 32nd Battery—Recruits for Every Branch of the Service Will be Handled When It Opens.

A meeting took place yesterday afternoon at the Armouries at the call of Capt. Henderson. The authorities have made Brantford a recruiting depot for the City and County and Capt. Henderson has been selected as the officer in charge. Col. Williams addressed the meeting on behalf of steps to be taken to form a Citizens' Association to assist in the work.

All those present expressed their hearty determination to do all in their power and a provisional committee was appointed consisting of Mayor Spence, W. N. Andrews, J. H. Ham, W. S. Brewster, Reg. Scarfe. This committee will call a meeting of representatives of all classes in the city and the same will be held next Tuesday night at 8 p.m. in the Y. M. C. A.

A recruiting depot means that all men for different military organizations will be recruited at the depot and afterwards assigned to the various units. The men will be examined and passed upon by a medical board and everything will be known as one of the promotion of recruiting and public meetings and such other means as may be determined will be taken to this end. Special care will be taken to see that recruiting does not interfere with necessary work in factories and particularly in those establishments making munitions. This central station will not in any way interfere with the work of recruiting Sergeants for each unit as at present. Organization for recruiting purposes will also take place in each of the municipalities of the county.

FURTHER DETAILS A Courier man had a chat with Capt. Henderson this morning when he went into further details. He stated that at headquarters in Niagara it had been decided to have a recruiting district in Brantford and Brant County, with headquarters in this city. Men will be recruited for all arms of the service, and assigned at the depot to

GERMAN EAST AFRICA ALONE REMAINS UNDER BLACK EAGLE AND PART OF KAMERUNS

Along Two-Thousand-Mile Front Allied Armies of British and French Are Operating in Conjunction and Have Obtained Remarkable Results—Blockade of Coast Effected by British Vessels.

[From Our Own Correspondent] Paris, Sept. 16.—"Fighting continually in Africa since last September along a front of more than 2,000 miles the French colonial troops, aided by the British allies, have obtained remarkable results," said Gaston Doumergue, minister of the colonies. "The Associated Press to-day. "German East Africa," the minister continued, "will soon be the only colony possessed by Germany, with the exception of a small part of the Kameruns. The other German possessions at occupied either by the French or English or conjointly. "When one considers the difficulties of transportation in the interior of the Kameruns, not only of food, but of munitions and cannon of four expeditionary columns, our success appears to be still more evident and meritorious. "A number of French columns marching from east to west and from south to north, already have covered more than 600 kilometres (about 377

JAPAN DOING ALL POSSIBLE AIDING THROUGH SUPPLIES

By Special Wire to the Courier. Tokyo, Aug. 24.—(Correspondence).—The decision of the Japanese Government, announced to-day, to mobilize the industrial resources of the country to increase the output of arms and ammunition for allies is explained by Premier Okuma in an interview in the Kokumin Shimbun. "Russia has a great number of soldiers, but she lacks munitions and other war material," the premier is quoted as saying. "England is in the same position. France alone among the entente powers is able to meet her own requirements. "Japan now realizes that all the allies must co-operate to defeat our common enemies, and has decided to give further assistance to the allies. We have sent instructions to our ambassadors abroad to that effect."

The premier referred to the sacrifices Japan had made already, but pointed out that they were not as great as those of her allies, for whom the stake was their national welfare. Japanese workshops and workmen, he explained, were not trained to the manufacture of such large amounts of munitions, but there has been a great improvement, and he predicted that their output in the future would be sufficient to meet the demands of the entente powers. Referring to what he called the impracticability and impossibility of sending Japanese troops to Europe, the premier expressed the idea that it would naturally be difficult for the Japanese soldiers to fight so wholeheartedly as they would for their own country. Moreover, it was not reasonable to send an expedition to Europe at the expense of weakening Japan's defense at home. He was confident that the increased help which Japan now is undertaking to extend would satisfy her allies.

The premier disposed of the question of a formal alliance with Russia by saying it was inexpedient to enter into any new relations of such a nature during the war. Japan would send representatives to the peace conference, but since she was not in the thick of battle her claims were bound to be restricted. On this point the premier said: "But we will see to it that our dig-

Considering Terms.

By Special Wire to the Courier. New York, Sept. 16.—Standard Oil millionaire including John D. Rockefeller, Jr., it was reported to-day, are considering the terms of the proposed billion-dollar credit loan to Great Britain and France with a view to participating.

ROUMANIA, HARASSED BY THREATENING ATTITUDE OF THE CENTRAL EMPIRES, MOBILIZES HER ARMIES AND STANDS BY, READY TO ENTER FOR ALLIES

KITCHENER'S WORDS ARE COMING TRUE ON THE EAST FRONT

Coincident With His Optimistic Words the News is Reassuring.

By Special Wire to the Courier. London, Sept. 16.—Coincident with Earl Kitchener's optimistic remarks in the House of Lords concerning the position of the Russian armies, they are showing an increasing disposition to resume the offensive at many points on the Eastern front. They are not only pressing their attacks against the Austrians in Galicia, but for the most part are holding up the German rush in mid-Poland.

The Russians also assert that they have thrown back the invaders near Sviatsyany, where the German cavalry cut the Petrograd railway between Dvinsk and Vlna. The German battery still holds at the bridgehead near Dvinsk, although the Russians apparently are holding their opponents in check in this region. Counting their captures in Galicia, the Russians lately have been taking more prisoners than they have been losing. In England hopes are rising that Earl Kitchener did not make an intemperate prediction when he declared Germany had shot her bolt, but that his statement was based on facts. It is said here that Van Hindenburg's rise is losing its vigor.

OTTOMAN BANKS PREPARING FOR AN EVACUATION

Early Fall of the Dardanelles is Said to be Imminent at This Time.

By Special Wire to the Courier. London, Sept. 16.—Advices from Constantinople, according to the Athens correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph Company are to the effect that all government financial institutions, such as the Ottoman Bank are making preparations to move to the interior of Asia Minor. It has been learned from the same sources that because of the fear of an intervention in the Turkish army, all Turkish artillery soon will be placed in charge of Germans. As long ago as March 3, diplomats in London received telegrams stating that the Ottoman Bank and the German bank at Constantinople had been transferred to Konieh, Asia Minor, and that the archives of the Turkish Government had been removed to that city. These steps were supposed to have been taken because of the attack upon the Dardanelles and the fear that a passage of the Straits might soon be forced.

SUBMARINE E-7 PROBABLY LOST IS THE REPORT

By Special Wire to the Courier. London, Sept. 16.—5:01 p.m.—The Admiralty announced to-day that in all probability the British submarine E-7 had been sunk off the Dardanelles. The statement follows: "The enemy claims to have sunk the Submarine E-7. Lieut. Commander Archibald D. Cochrane, off the Dardanelles and to have taken three officers and 25 men of the crew prisoners. As no news has been received from this submarine since the 4th of September it must be presumed that this report is correct." The U. S. Safety First Federation denounces the little card cases containing paper matches.

Berlin Papers Publish Statement Evidently to Prepare Public Opinion For Eventualities; Bulgaria Now Taking Action

By Special Wire to the Courier. LONDON, Sept. 16, 10:30 a.m.—A Copenhagen despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company, says German newspapers were permitted yesterday to publish sensational telegrams intimating that Roumania's participation in the war may be expected at any minute.

The massing of German and Austrian troops on the Roumanian frontier has resulted in the Balkan nation making preparations for eventualities. A large part of the army already has been mobilized and reservists in other countries have been ordered home. A steadfast refusal of Roumania to permit the transportation through her territory by Germany of military supplies for Turkey is supposed to have aroused the animosity of the Central empires. Recent advices from Rome were to the effect that negotiations were under way for the formation of a new Balkan league, to be composed of Roumania, Serbia and Greece. Bulgaria, it was said, was not included in the negotiations because of her agreement with Turkey by which she will obtain possession of territory along the Dedeaghat railway. Montenegro probably would act in accord with the other three powers as she already is arrayed on the side of the allies in the war.

EXPLANATION DEMANDED. Rome, Sept. 15, via Paris, Sept. 16.—Because of the concentration of Greek and Roumanian troops on the Bulgarian frontier, the Bulgarian foreign minister has instructed the ministers of that country at Athens and Bucharest to request an immediate and definite explanation, according to a Sofia despatch to the Giornale d'Italia.

Press despatches from Bucharest state that the Turks already have begun to carry out the provisions of the Turco-Bulgarian agreement. They have abandoned the barracks at Karaghatch and destroyed the forts on the right bank of the Maritsa river, taking the guns and barbed wire to the Gallipoli peninsula. The Bulgarian prefect at Stara Zagora has gone to Adrianople to arrange to take formal possession of the ceded territory in the presence of his Turkish and Bulgarian ministers on September 18. The Turkish vail at Adrianople has gone to Constantinople to obtain instructions from the porte on the same subject. TURCO-BULGAR TREATY. London, Sept. 16.—An imperial decree ratifying the Turco-Bulgarian accord will be issued September 26, according to Constantinople advices received at Athens and transmitted by the correspondent of the Reuter Telegram Company. The new frontier, it is said, will be traced by German staff officers.

WHOLE GERMAN LINE AFLOAT; PLANS FOR WINTER TRENCHING SMASHED BY THE RUSSIANS

Turn of the Tide is in Sight—The Hun Armies Require Regrouping on Whole Front—Exhaustion is Daily More Apparent—Fatal for German Offensive, Disastrous for Their Retreat.

By Special Wire to the Courier. London, Sept. 16.—Petrograd correspondents speculating on the possibilities of the German campaign in Russia, which seems not easy to understand at the present moment, point out that the recent Russian successes upset the plans of the Germans to dig themselves in for the winter, if such was their intention. The Petrograd correspondent of The Times says: "Imperative reasons have necessitated the re-grouping of the Austro-German forces which were engaged in the north and routed in the south. Realizing the virtual impossibility of an advance to the northwest by the shortest route, by way of Slonim, owing to the intervention of a series of strong parallel defensive lines along the Rivers Zelivanka, Shara and Myshchaika, the enemy strengthened his flanks at the expense of his central forces."

WHOLE LINE AFLOAT A Petrograd despatch to The Post says: "The fact that it has been impossible to rest either flank on a secure point, leaves the whole German line afloat. This prevents any thought of carrying out what is supposed to be the German plan—to erect a stone wall line of defences across Russia. The Germans therefore must continue to penetrate further into Russia, delivering a series of extremely costly frontal attacks for every step gained."

German Memorial Charges Native Troops With Ugly Atrocities

Berlin, Sept. 15.—Via London, Sept. 16.—The foreign office has just issued in English a memorial against the employment of colored troops in the European theatre of the war by France and Great Britain on the ground that they have brought with them savage practices of warfare of their native countries. The memorial charges the Africans and Hindus with ill-treating the wounded and mutilating the dead by cutting off their ears which are worn in strings about their necks as necklaces and even severing the heads from bodies as war trophies. These charges are supported by numerous documents, consisting partly of reproduction of letters and diaries found on dead French soldiers or French prisoners and partly of affidavits of German officers and soldiers and of German women living in France when the war broke out. The second annual reunion of the Elks at Atlantic City has an attendance of 15,000. Five prisoners sawed their way out of the burglar-proof cell at the jail at Charles City, Iowa.

Russian Woolwich Destroyed Caused the Change of Plans

By Special Wire to the Courier. London, Sept. 16.—The Daily News in an article to-day says it was through German treachery that the great Russian ammunition factory at Okhta, a suburb of Petrograd, was blown to pieces some months ago. Okhta was the Russian Woolwich, the only munition factory in Russia. "This had a determining influence on the Russian military situation," The Daily News says, "as the allies had to come to the rescue by the circuitous Archangel route. Thousands of workmen were killed and the destruction of the plant caused such an extreme dearth of ammunition that the nothing could be done against the German General Von Mackensen's artillery.

A despatch from Petrograd, April 30 last, said that several persons had been killed and many others injured and much material damage done as the result of an explosion in the Okhta ammunition factory. It was added that several workshops were destroyed by the explosion, but that the stores of loaded shells were not affected and that work in the factory would be resumed in a few days.

"BONNIE, BONNIE BANKS O' LOCH LOMOND" AT FRONT

An enjoyable description of the manner in which the British soldier enjoys himself at the front...

The chairman rose at his table to make a toast to the cheering, the whistles, the tramping of heels, and the jingling of spurs stopped on the instant...

"Gentlemen," said the chairman, "I am requested to ask Lieut. Lord to oblige the company with a song..."

It was a topical song with a theme that struck straight home to the audience. For this was one of the smoking concerts of the Machine-gun school...

The audience yelled the chorus with a zest that sent the chorus billowing forth in great waves...

EXPERTS NOT UNANIMOUS ON BASIS OF LOAN

By Special Wire to the Courier. New York, Sept. 16.—Members of the Anglo-French financial commission and American bankers working for the success of the proposed billion dollar credit loan to Great Britain and France, have some divergent ideas, it became known to-day as to some of the terms governing the loan, chief of which is reported to be the rate of interest.

The commission is reported to be of the opinion that the maximum rate which England and France will pay for this money is 5 per cent. Many American bankers believe that the mammoth issue should yield at least five and one-half per cent. to the investor, and there is talk in some quarters of requiring six per cent.

A five per cent. loan, the commission is reported as having said to visiting bankers, should be sold at par or at not more than a shade under. Some financiers here are said to doubt if the American public would subscribe to a straight five per cent. loan without collateral, at more than 95. It held by all the American bankers.

RUSSIANS HOLDING

Petrograd, Sept. 16.—Although both Dvinsk and Vilna have been flanked and are being hard pressed by the Germans, the Russians are still holding these positions, and according to war office advices there is no immediate need for their abandonment.

Dvinsk is regarded as the stronger position, because of its protection by the Dvina river. Neither point has further strategic importance, except as a section of the general front, each having been emptied of stores and abandoned by government and private institutions.

CANADIAN ARMY MAGNIFICENT; IS SPLENDIDLY FIT

Pressmen Are Conducted Over Many Parts of the Front.

By John Kidman.
 London, Sept. 15.—A tour of the Canadian trenches, just concluded by your correspondent, convinced him that the officers are much more solicitous for the safety of their men than are the men themselves. The brigadier-general, who was conducting the pressmen around these lines found occasion to rebuke his men for showing their heads above the parapets, telling them not to expose themselves needlessly.

Leaving British headquarters at an early hour on Sunday morning the pressmen motored to the Canadian headquarters, where they were cordially received by Gen. Alderson, after which the party divided up to explore different lines of trenches. Departing from their frequent habit of following the main lines, the men remained quiet, and the soldiers encountered in the trenches all declared that it was the quietest day which they had experienced for some time. The snipers were keeping up the game, however, and the visitors had to be on guard against their attentions.

DRAINAGE SYSTEM INSTALLED.
 The trenches occupied by the Canadians were in good condition, many improvements having been effected, such as the installation of a drainage system and the use of wooden gratings, which will do much to obviate water-logged feet and rheumatic troubles in the coming winter. It was also noted that the men received good food, the trenches having facilities for cooking. The men were in splendid spirits.

The party were the guests at dinner of the brigadier-general. Under the starlit sky a visit was made to a neighboring hill, on which the buildings have been shelled by the Germans until the walls only are left. The churchyard, however, is intact. BERNSTORFF SAYS MATTERS WILL BE CLEARED UP

In Two Weeks' Time Germany Will Back Down to United States.

New York, Sept. 15.—Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, stated last night that all the difficulties between this country and Germany concerning German guarantees of safety for American ships and passengers will be satisfactorily settled at the end of two weeks' time. He told reporters at the Carlton that while he had no statement to issue, he could state definitely that he would receive no more advices from his government for a fortnight. He and Secretary of State Lansing, in an interview in perfect accord as to the method to be used in settling the remaining difficulties that still exist between the two countries and recommended that the American people be counseled to patience.

When the Ambassador said that the controversy between Germany and the United States would positively be settled at the end of two weeks, he was asked if he could make any statement then as to whether the German government would disavow the sinking of the Arabic.

"I have nothing to say about that," was the reply.

APPEAL MADE AGAINST ALLIED LOAN BY HUNS

Hypenated Americans Up in Arms Against It, and Make an Appeal.

By Special Wire to the Courier.
 Philadelphia, Sept. 16.—An appeal to the American people to prevent the Anglo-French $1,000,000,000 loan was telegraphed to every corner of the United States from this city yesterday by Dr. Charles Hexamer, president of the National German-American Alliance. The message was a warning against what it terms the "Last sinister influence of our national life, the money trust," which Dr. Hexamer declares, was in a conspiracy against the American people. It asks that all citizens appeal to the president and the secretary of state to thwart the loan, and that all bank depositors protest against their money being used.

The Situation.

It is the general opinion of the experts, and the facts confirm the assumption, that the German offensive in the East is largely spent. Still a formidable factor, of course, but the keen edge of it has been very much dulled, and the troops of the Czar are commencing to take full advantage of the mastery tactics of Grand Duke Nicholas in keeping his forces intact while constantly withdrawing and allowing the foe to take abandoned positions and devastated country.

The Austrians, it is announced, are withdrawing from Trentino, and although they have recently received considerable reinforcements, the Italians continue to make good, if slow, progress. The severity of the French artillery fire on the Western front is still maintained, while Sir John French again reports no change on the British front.

Indications now are that the large billion-dollar loan sought by the Allies in the States is likely to be secured. German efforts to balk the same are apparently doomed to failure.

Asquith and Kitchener Speak.

The British Premier and the British War Secretary both yesterday made important statements regarding the war, the one in the House of Commons and the other in the House of Lords.

Mr. Asquith dealt with staggering figures, but then everything is stupendous in connection with these hostilities, unparalleled in the history of the world. An average daily expenditure in the early part of the struggle has, as far as Great Britain is concerned, risen from $13,500,000 to $21,000,000, with a likelihood of reaching in the neighborhood of $25,000,000 from this on.

The fact that Brantford has been finally constituted as a recruiting centre for this city and county is a fitting move in connection with the splendid work both communities have already done in this regard.

One German authority says that the civilian population had better be ordered to vacate London in view of Zeppelin raids. Meanwhile said people are going about their business as usual, and will continue to do so.

elles was also reassuring. Speaking generally, John Bull has entered upon the second year of the war in vastly improved shape in every department, and his spirit of confidence and determination is greater than ever.

A Characteristic Globe Attack.

The Toronto Globe is at its old game of denouncing the holding of an election, and then using language towards the ministers well calculated to make them go to the country to ascertain if the people think them the blackguards the Globe intimates they are.

Here are some extracts from the precious article of the leading Liberal organ:

"Neither Rogers nor any of his ilk ought ever to have been allowed in a Canadian cabinet. Those of them that are not utterly incapable are utterly corrupt."

"Rogers and Cochrane and Reid and Crothers... are men who, partly by their incapacity and partly by their chicanery, have already earned defeat for the Borden government, and are now doing their best to do their worst to merit disgrace for the Conservative party and humiliation for Canada."

"It may be Hon. W. T. White also knows Canada's most dangerous enemies at this moment are not the Kaiser and his Huns, but are the ministers of the crown who, for themselves and the private interests an election might serve, shout loyalty from the housetops, but are conspiring now for the third time within a year to sell Canada's birthright for less than a mess of pottage."

And much more billingsgate and vilification to the same effect. Here we have the characteristic spectacle of the Globe preaching that heated political controversy should not take place at this time, while for its own part it indulges in contemptible attacks calculated and intended to arouse the very feelings which with characteristic pharisaism it pretends to denounce.

To assert that Hon. Mr. White knows that there are Ministers in the cabinet who are more inimical to the Dominion than the "Kaiser and his Huns" is a statement which rightly throws shame and contempt upon the paper which could utter it. Liberals who have any respect for their party and feel this time of Empire crisis as men should, ought to get together and inculcate some lessons of ordinary decency in the Globe office.

Notes and Comments.

It is still a case with John Bull of "We've got the men, we've got the ships, and we've got the money, too."

Kitchener is not a man to run away with himself, which makes his speech of yesterday all the more heartening.

The fact that Brantford has been finally constituted as a recruiting centre for this city and county is a fitting move in connection with the splendid work both communities have already done in this regard.

One German authority says that the civilian population had better be ordered to vacate London in view of Zeppelin raids. Meanwhile said people are going about their business as usual, and will continue to do so.

KITCHENER HINTS

sent out to join Field Marshal French's command. You will be glad to hear his opinion of these troops, communicated to me. He writes: "The units appear to be thoroughly well officered and commanded. The equipment is in good order and efficient. Several units of artillery have been tested behind the firing line in the trenches and I hear very good reports of them. Their shooting has been extremely good and they are quite fit to take their place in the line."

210,000 MEN SENT OVER. These new divisions have now had the opportunity of acquiring by experience in actual warfare that portion of the necessary training of soldiers which it was impossible to give them in this country, and which, once acquired, will enable them effectively to take their place in line with the rest of the British army. With these additional reinforcements, amounting to 11 divisions (about 210,000 men), Sir John French has been able to extend his lines and take over from the French approximately 17 miles of additional front.

Throughout the Summer months the French have held their own along their extended line of the front and in some places, notably near Arras and in Alsace, have made substantial progress. French trenches along the entire front have been developed and strengthened, and now everywhere present a network of almost impenetrable fortifications. Of this I was able to satisfy myself during a visit lately to our allies, at the invitation of Gen. Joffre, when I was profoundly impressed with the high state of efficiency and morale of the French army. It was evident that officers and men recognized that the only possible termination to the war was to inflict on the enemy a thorough defeat. Their resolution to do this was never firmer or more intense.

THE RUSSIAN RETREAT.

"In the history of this," said Earl Kitchener, "few episodes stand out more prominently, more creditably, than the masterly manner in which the Russian forces, distributed along a line of 750 miles, have been handled while facing violent assaults from an enemy greatly superior in numbers, especially of guns and munitions. The success of this great rearguard action has been rendered possible by the really splendid fighting qualities of the Russian soldier, who, in every where actual conflict has taken place, has shown himself infinitely superior to his adversary."

These fighting qualities of the Russian army empowered her able generals and competent staff to carry out the immensely difficult operation of retirement of the whole line over some 100 or 200 miles without allowing at any point or by surrounding their forces to bring about a tactical position which might have involved surrender of a considerable portion of the Russian fortifications.

"Thus we see the Russian army remaining to day intact as a fighting force. It doubtless has suffered severely from the hard fighting to which it had been subjected during recent months, but the German forces also had to pay a heavy toll for their advance into Russia, and who will venture to say until the present grips of the winter have set in that the most of the Russian forces have not been most?"

ULTIMATE ANNIHILATION.

"It must not be forgotten that Russia, with her vast territory, always has been able ultimately to envelop and annihilate large invading armies. In this she certainly is no less capable to-day than she was a century ago. As regards the net result, all that the Germans can place to their credit is that at an enormous sacrifice they have captured certain fortresses. But our recent experience shows that the most fortified positions, and practically the only one that can effectively resist the new machinery of war, are those which can be quickly dug deep in the soil. Such trenches, formed by the digging of lists, and the most carefully fortified places of which the engineers until lately were so proud.

"The Germans appear almost to have shot their bolt. Their advance into Russia, which at one time was carried out at an average daily rate of approximately five miles, has now diminished to less than one mile a day, and we see the forces which they boastfully described as defeated and broken troops flying before them still doggedly and pluckily fighting along the whole line and in some places, indeed, turning on the jaded invaders and inflicting heavy losses.

The Russian army, far from falling out of the fighting lists, as Germany fondly hoped, is still a powerful and undefeated unit, and the determination and confidence of the troops, fortified by the increasing supply of munitions, have risen in proportion to the strain imposed upon them. In these momentous hours of stress his Imperial Majesty the Czar has taken executive command of his armies in the field. The enthusiasm created by his step will serve to concentrate all the energies of his officers and men on driving back the invaders and preventing them from reaching any vital portion of the empire.

DEFEATS IN DISGUISE.

"To sum up, we may fairly state that while the Germans have prevailed by sheer weight of guns and at an immense cost to themselves in forcing back the Russian front, the thing but behind the scenes, and vacated fortresses have been gained. Thus their strategy has clearly failed, and the victories they claim may only prove, as military history has so often demonstrated, to be defeats in disguise."

Dwelling on Italy's part in the war, Earl Kitchener said:

"The achievements of the Italian artillery have been truly remarkable and the manner in which heavy pieces were hurled into almost inaccessible positions on lofty mountain peaks, and in spite of great difficulties, evokes universal admiration. The Italian army now occupies strategic positions of first-rate importance. The great conduct of the infantry of the line in action has impressed upon their enemies the great military value of the Italian army, while the bold feats of the Alpine troops and bersagliers, when scaling rugged mountain sides were marvelous samples of successful enterprise. "On the Gallipoli Peninsula during operations in June several Turkish trenches were captured and our lines appreciably advanced and our positions consolidated. Considerable reinforcements have arrived, and a surprise landing on a large scale at Suva Bay was successfully accomplished on the 6th of August without any serious opposition."

THE ATTACK FROM ANZAC.

"At the same time an attack was launched by the Australian and New Zealand corps from the Anzac position, and a strong offensive was delivered from Cape Helles in the direction of Krithia. In this latter action French troops played a prominent part and showed to high advantage their usual gallantry and fine fighting qualities."

"The attack from Anzac, after a series of hotly contested actions, was carried to the summit of Sari Bair and Ghunuk Bair, dominating positions in this area. The arrival of transports and the disembarkation of troops in Suva Bay was designed to enable troops to support this attack. Unfortunately, however, the advance from Suva Bay was not developed quickly enough, and the movement forward was brought to a standstill after an advance of about two and one-half miles.

"The result was that the troops from Anzac were unable to retain their position on the crest of the hills, and after being repeatedly counter-attacked, they were ordered to withdraw to positions lower down. These positions have been effectively consolidated, and now, joining with the line occupied by the Suva Bay force, form a connected front of more than 12 miles. From the latter position a further attack on the Turkish entrenchments was delivered on the 21st, but after several hours of sharp fighting, it was not found possible to gain the summit of the hills occupied by the enemy, and the intervening space being unsuitable for defence, the troops were withdrawn to their original position.

ENORMOUS DIFFICULTIES.

"Since then comparative quiet has prevailed and much-needed rest has been given to our troops. In the course of these operations the gallantry and resourcefulness of the Australian and New Zealand troops frequently has formed the subject of eulogy in Gen. Hamilton's reports. It is not easy to appreciate at their full value the enormous difficulties which have attended the operations in the Dardanelles or the fine temper with which our troops have met them."

"There is now abundant evidence of a process of demoralization having set in among the German-led, or German-driven Turks, due no doubt, to their extremely heavy losses and to the progressive failure of their resources. It is only fair to acknowledge that, judged from the humane point of view, the methods pursued by the Turks are vastly superior to those which have disgraced their German masters."

"Throughout, the co-operation of the fleet has been intensely valuable, and the concerted action between the sister services has been in every way in the highest degree satisfactory."

"Of the fighting in Mesopotamia, Earl Kitchener said reconnaissance had shown that the Euphrates was clear of Turks for a distance of 60 miles.

"Since this victory," he added, "there has been no further fighting on the Euphrates, Tigris or Karun Rivers. Climatic conditions in this theatre of war have rendered the operations extremely arduous."

THE NEW ARMIES.

"As I have informed your Lordships, some of the new armies we have prepared and equipped for the war are already in the field, and others will quickly follow them. The response of the country to calls for recruits to form these armies has been little short of marvellous, but it must be borne in mind that the provision of men to maintain the forces in the field depends to a great degree on a large and continuous supply of recruits."

"The provision and to keep up their strength during 1916 has caused us anxious thought, which has been accentuated and rendered more pressing by the recent falling off in the numbers coming forward to enlist, although every effort has been made to obtain our requirements under the present system."

"I am sure we all fully realize that the strength of the armies we are sending out must be fully maintained to the very end. To fulfil this purpose we shall require a large addition to the numbers of recruits joining. The problem of how to secure an adequate supply of men, and thus ensure the field force being kept up to its full strength, is engaging our close attention, and will, I hope, very soon receive a practical solution."

MILITARY NEEDS PARAMOUNT.

"The returns of the Registration Act, which will shortly be available, will no doubt give us the basis on which to calculate the resources of the country and to determine the number of men available for the army after providing for the necessary services of the country as well as those of our munition workers."

"Whatever decision may be arrived at in the full light of the facts before us, must undoubtedly be founded on military requirement for the prosecution of the war and the protection of our shores, and will be the result of an impartial inquiry as to how we can most worthily fulfil our national obligations."

"Although there has been a falling off in the number of recruits, I do not draw from this fact any conclusion unfavorable to the resolution and the spirit of the country. On the contrary, I think now, as I always have thought, that the manner in which all classes have responded to the call of patriotism is magnificent, and I do not for one instant doubt that whatever sacrifices may prove necessary to bring this gigantic war to a successful conclusion will be cheerfully undertaken by our people."

JACOB GREEN HAS SUCCEumbed

Extraordinary Record of Family in the Matter of Injury by Trains.

The death occurred in the Hospital last night of Jacob Green, the well known Indian, who was struck by the Grand Trunk yard engine a day or so ago. Injured to his head were the cause of his demise. As before related, in an accident during early life he had lost an arm and an eye, and a portion of one foot. Deceased who was a member of the Oneida tribe, was a man of exceptional intelligence and at one time was employed as a bookkeeper at a large local establishment. In addition to the property on which he resided on Pearl street, he owned a farm on the Reserve. A peculiarity is the number of the members of the family who have been struck by G. T. R. locomotives. His eldest son, D. R. Green, was killed about two years ago, while walking on the track, and his other son, Sam Green was also struck by a locomotive and has since been an invalid.

NEW SCHOOL OPENED FOR CLASS WORK

The splendid new school on Rawdon street, King George School, was formally opened yesterday. The ceremonies started at four o'clock and lasted until shortly after five. A large crowd of school children and spectators were present, and all appreciated the splendid speeches made. After the program had been brought to a conclusion an inspection of the school was made. The guests of honor were conducted over the building by the members of the Board of Education present.

The chairman of the Board of Education, Mr. A. Coulbeck, ably took charge of the proceedings. After his opening remarks about the qualities of the fine new school, several prominent ministers of the city were called on for speeches. Rev. E. Bowyer, Rev. T. McClintock, Rev. R. Peters and Rev. Mr. Store each held the interest of their audience for several minutes, and each had something nice to say about the school, the Board which had caused its erection, or the good residents of the city, who had liberally aided for it. Following these addresses several speeches from members of the Board followed. Messrs. Andrews, Cutcliffe, Cole and Dr. Gamble spoke. Although their time for talking was limited, they seemed to say a good deal about interesting points in the school, its construction and why it had not been opened for use before. Mr. Lane presented two beautiful medals to Cadet Cisson and ex-Cadet Lloyd Colquhoun for efficiency in drill, shooting, etc., in the public school cadet corps. Both were gold medals, and judging by the look on the lady's faces when they received them, they deemed it to be a great honor. This public presentation will make their fellow-cadets fight harder for their new home in Brooklyn, Ont. followed by the best wishes of a host of friends, especially those of Alexandra congregation.

After their approach, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Mayse stepped back to the days of their childhood, eating corn, marsh-mallows and each other, and playing games until the evening drew to an end all too soon. At its conclusion, and after a lunch of a nature suitable to such a gathering, had been done justice to, remarks of appreciation to Mr. and Mrs. Mayse were expressed by a number of the visitors for the enjoyable time they had been permitted to enjoy, and after the proposed programme for the coming year had been briefly outlined all joined hands and sang Auld Lang Syne, then rushing to catch the last car for their respective homes.

A pleasing feature of the evening was an address by Mrs. James Heath, voicing the sentiments of those present. At the opportune moment a handsome rocker, of the newest design, was presented to the worthy couple. Complimentary references were made relative to Mr. and Mrs. Balfour by Mrs. James Adams, Rev. Mr. McClintock and Mr. Alexander Davies on behalf of the organizations represented, also from personal acquaintance. 1000 kilometres (621 miles) of winding waterways, to the outskirts of the city. The effect of the projectiles was so terrifying that after a short bombardment the population and garrison of Garua requested permission to surrender. "The climate and the nature of the ground opposed great difficulties to the march of our troops, but fortunately they were overcome. I must in this respect refer to the excellent organization of our sanitary service, thanks to which our losses due to disease were greatly reduced." Discussing proposals for raising more native troops for operations next spring, M. Doumergue said: "CONQUER, THEN CONSTRUCT. I hope that we will be able to add still more colonial troops to the force of 70,000 Senegalese riflemen who are on the firing line, whether in France, Morocco, or the Kameruns and in Western Africa. It is indeed wonderful to see the way in which the natives have responded to the mother country's call, and their absolute devotion to the great cause. All the colonies have sent more than their quota of troops and many more are eager to come. This is due to their child-like faith in their commanders, who have rendered our successes in the Kameruns possible. I learn in this connection that many native troops fighting with Germany have crossed over to our side." Regarding the future of the German colonies, Mr. Doumergue said: "It is impossible to speak of the future of the German colonies, as after the war the future will depend entirely upon the terms of the peace treaty. All thinking persons have given and will continue to give this matter much thought; but at present it is too premature, in a war which has nearly involved the whole world, to arrive at a definite decision. Now it is our duty to conquer, and when

OVER SEVENTEEN THOUSAND KILLED IN GALLIPOLI

Well Repaid; Good Rates. By Special Wire to the Courier. Liverpool, Sept. 16.—Fourteen stokers employed on the Barranca have been sentenced to 18 days imprisonment each for imperilling the safety of their vessel by adhering to union regulations when full speed was necessary when passing through the submarine zone. The Barranca was off Fastnet when a wireless message ordering full speed ahead was received. The captain ordered two hours additional work for each stoker, but the men refused to comply unless they were paid for overtime as provided for by the union rules. The Barranca escaped damage, however. J. F. Hennessey, of York, Pa., was voluntarily stung by bees to cure his rheumatism, but was not relieved. The police charged with annoyance by raiding the Duffy Club, New York, were exonerated.

HESTER, AND A LEGACY

"It is for Muriel to decide," said Lord Lynnouth. "As far as I am concerned, one place is as good as another."

"Then my dear Muriel, pray make your choice. One must write to hotels and all that, you know before hand. What is it, Parker?"—addressing a servant in the doorway. "Lady Lexham wants to see me?" And she rose and left the room.

The two on the sofa were left alone—Lord Lynnouth, was pulling Colley's ears, the faithful Colley having accompanied him as a matter of course in his morning call, and looking down into his loving brown eyes while Lady Muriel was twisting her engagement ring round and round her finger with a very grave face.

"Where shall we go?" she asked presently. "My dear child, as I said just now, wherever you like—you have only to name a place. I haven't the smallest choice myself."

"I should have thought," she said slowly, "that you might have liked to take me to some place that you were particularly fond of to show it to me."

"But there is no place I am particularly fond of."

"Surely out of all you have seen there must be one or two you liked better than the rest?"

"I have seen so many and liked so few that I really haven't any choice."

"Yet you stayed away all those months because Egypt and India were so interesting."

"Ah, Egypt and India are different but they are too far away for our honeymoon. Besides, any way, you wouldn't care for them as I do."

"Why not?"

"Oh, well, you wouldn't! It is difficult to explain. I am not a native, and I talk to the natives, and I sleep out on the desert for weeks together. It isn't the sort of life for a lady."

"I should like anything that you liked."

"It is very kind of you to say so, but I don't think you really would if you came to the point."

He leaned back, speaking indifferently, and took up a morning paper. Then, as if recollecting something that was scarcely polite to become interested in it while in her presence, he put it down again and said with an effort—

"Well, Muriel, let us decide this wedding tour business, and get it off our minds. I will take you to Egypt, or India, if you like, but the heat at this time of the year—"

"Madame Lecroix, try your wedding gown, my lady!" said Parker in the doorway, and Muriel rose and hurriedly left the room.

CHAPTER XXIV.

When the dressmaker had dismissed Lady Augusta sent her niece out for a walk with Lord Lynnouth. She had a thousand things to do, she said, and would be busy all the morning; besides, fresh air was good for Muriel. She had been looking very pale lately.

So the two went for a stroll in the Park and to look at the Row, since it was a lovely summer's day and all the world of fashion would be abroad.

There it was, the fashionable world, on horseback, cantering in the shade of the trees, and many among the riders bowed or stopped to speak to the couple on the side path. Again and again Lady Muriel received congratulations on her approaching marriage, and had to smile her replies and look the happy bride. But her face grew paler, and there was a strained look in her eyes that made several of her friends say afterwards they had fancied there was something wrong about the affair and supposed she was not marrying the right man.

"Let us sit down," she said presently, seeing an empty seat. "Aunt Augusta won't expect us just yet."

"Are you tired?" he asked, noticing the expression of her face.

"I am rather." She closed her parasol wearily as she sat down and leaning forward, began to prod the dry earth with the ferrule in the manner of one who is nervous and strung up.

"Dudley," she began at last, "there is something I want to say to you. I have tried several times, but it must be done—even though things have gone as far as they have."

"My dear child, what a serious tone! You quite frighten me!" he said, turning to her with a smile. "What is this awful thing? A confession?"

"Not exactly. It is only that I don't think we are suited—you and I," she said, rushing on her fate and prodding the gravel with an energy worthy of a better cause.

"Not suited? How?" he exclaimed. "We haven't the same ideas, the same tastes, the same sort of minds," she said. "At least, I don't know whether that is it, or whether it is only the love that is wanting. That might make all the difference. Anyway, I feel that I cannot fill your life or even an hour of it. I am really nothing to you and should be only a wife in name!"

Her lips trembled and her voice died away suddenly.

"My dear Muriel," he exclaimed again, "how did you get such an idea? This is really dreadful! You are upsetting yourself for nothing!"

CHAPTER XXV

If the news of the breaking of Lord Lynnouth's engagement caused satisfaction in some circles, it was clear at least that his mother was extremely vexed about it. She shut herself in to her own rooms for the first few days, and would admit no one but Hester and her maid, Lady Augusta, cannot possibly believe it!" "I do," she returned firmly, "and what is more, you cannot on your honor deny it!"—and she looked up at him searchingly.

"Deny that I am fond of you? Of course I can't! Of course I am fond of you, dear."

"Don't try to deceive me," she said in a low voice—"be honest, I am so sure of it myself that nothing could shake me now—not even passionate protestations. I feel it. I cannot fill your life or make you happy!"

"My dear child, you distress me greatly!" he said, and indeed he looked distressed and uncertain how to treat this sudden accusation that was thrust upon him.

"That's it!" she exclaimed. "You think of me as a child. I am no companion for you."

"If that is all, you will grow older in time, you know," he said, smiling. "But I shall never grow into what you want. It is a different sort of woman, altogether—I don't know what sort—I am not clever enough to be able to imagine, but I know you well enough to know that I am the wrong one. Don't deny it!"—hastily interrupting him as he was about to protest.

"What is the use, for I have made up my mind that our engagement must be broken."

"That is impossible!" he said. "No—I would do it even if we were actually at the church door! I will not marry you!" she stretched as if to him in silence, and he felt that she was more wretched as your wife than alone and unmarried all my days! I have quite made up my mind!"

He sat looking down in silence for a moment, and the vision of Hester's dear face rose before him and his heart beat high at the thought of her. It was true what Muriel said—he did not love her, and never would. The approaching marriage had seemed to him inevitable, but it had weighed on his mind as a millstone, an incubus from which there was no escaping. The suggestion of regaining his liberty was one that filled him with a sense of relief, but he felt he could not take her at her word—it would be mean, dishonorable, cruel! Yet the thought of marrying one woman, however sweet and pretty she might be, while the image of another reigned supreme in his heart was one from which he shrank, as a sensitive mind like his must do.

She turned and laid her hand gently upon his coat-sleeve.

"You came to me when I was ill," she said, "and you saved my life. It is that sufficient. The rest was all a mistake. We can be friends, dear friends, all our lives, if you wish, but I will not marry you! You must be free to win that other woman, whoever she is, and I wish you success!"

She rose with an air of determination, and he rose too.

"It cannot be done, Muriel," he said slowly, looking at her with a strange expression. She read it aright—it was a sense of relief, of hope, of longing.

"I can be done, and shall!" she answered. "What does it matter about all the presents and trousseau for life? We were making a great mistake, but we have found it out in time."

"We! It is only you. I do not consider it a mistake. I hope our marriage may be a very happy one."

"There will be no happiness for me if we marry," she said in a low voice. He turned and looked at her quickly.

"You are talking very strangely," he said. "I don't understand. Why didn't you say all this before?"

"Because I have only just found out my own mind."

"Do you mean that you really wish to break our engagement?"

"I do—most thoroughly! The thought of our marriage during the last few days—even weeks—has been making me miserable."

"Is there—there some one else?" he urged.

"Not just at present," she replied, with a curious little contraction of her mouth, "but no doubt there will be some day—some one who is more suitable and whom I can better understand."

He was not satisfied with these explanations; he tried to reason with her, he even pleaded with all the warmth of which he was capable, but she remained resolute and held to her determination. And, after all, in his own heart he was not without a desire that she should carry her way.

"If you will not move in the matter I shall tell aunt Augusta myself," she said, as they left the Park for home. "I shall have no time to lose, and I am quite determined. I am very sorry, dear Dudley, but you must try to forgive me, and some day I am sure we shall both be very glad that we found out our mistake before it was too late."

"Muriel," he said, gravely, "for whose sake are you doing this—yours or mine?"

"For both our sakes, but principally for my own."

He could say no more, and so they walked back together to tell Lady Augusta to stop the work in the hands of the dressmakers, milliners, coachbuilders, etc., who were so busily employed in preparations for the wedding. And Lord Lynnouth was aware, in spite of his best efforts of a sense of relief at his liberation, and Lady Muriel's brave spirit was upheld through all the trials of the ensuing days by the conviction that she had sacrificed her own happiness to secure his.

Surely he was a most fortunate man to be loved as Hester and Muriel loved him, each of whom was willing to sacrifice all she cared about most for what she believed would be for his ultimate happiness.

CHAPTER XXVI

If the news of the breaking of Lord Lynnouth's engagement caused satisfaction in some circles, it was clear at least that his mother was extremely vexed about it. She shut herself in to her own rooms for the first few days, and would admit no one but Hester and her maid, Lady Augusta, who had arrived at Dovercourt about the same time and who drove over to see her, was not received, and all visitors to the Chase were told that the ladyship was unwell and confined to the strict seclusion of her own apartments.

There she remained for the first week after her disappointment, sitting sternly silent, wrapped in thought, or engaged in writing long letters, chiefly to her son. He evidently replied to each, for Hester knew his handwriting, and was so constantly in attendance on her ladyship that she was aware of all that went on. Lady Lynnouth never spoke to her on the subject, but she had heard from other sources of the breaking of the engagement, and was afraid that his mother's anger and unyielding temper might lead her to carry out her threat and disinheritor him in her will.

In the second week her fears were substantiated. A letter was written to Mr. Broadbent, her lawyer, and he appeared at the Chase the following day in evident answer to her summons. They were closeted together for some hours in the morning room in secret conference, and at the end of that time when her ladyship's bell rang, and Hester went into her, she found her alone with two red spots of excitement burning in her cheeks.

"I have had business with my lawyer," she said, as Hester went up to her, "which has fatigued me a good deal. I will now take a walk in the garden before lunch. The air will do me good."

As she paced the path, leaning on Hester's arm, still silent, and lost in thought, it was evident that some weighty transaction had been in process, and Hester guessed that it had been the making of a new will. Her heart was filled with pity for the man who had probably been so unjustly disinherited and whose only fault lay in the fact that he had not loved the girl his mother had wanted him to marry, and as Lady Lynnouth paced beside her in that awful and vindictive silence she longed to speak her mind and plead for the culprit in disgrace. But what would be the use? Would her words have the smallest effect? Would they even receive a hearing? No, she knew they would be looked upon as an impertinent interference, and she must simply let things take their course.

As for her own personal feelings on the subject of the broken engagement she neither analyzed them nor allowed herself to consider what they were. She only kept before her the view that Lord Lynnouth had in all probability got over his infatuation for her by this time, and looked upon it, if he thought of it at all, as a passing madness that was best forgotten.

At the end of the second week Mrs. Vavasour arrived from town uninvited, bringing with her trunks that suggested a prolonged stay. She was not cordially received, and if she expected for some hours in the morning room to be treated as a confidante she was disappointed. Lady Lynnouth remained almost entirely in her own rooms, without apology, and the gay Isabel would have died of dullness if she had not disposed of her time in a round of calling and small entertainments.

One evening, at the end of a sultry September day, Mrs. Vavasour went to bed early on her invariable plea of a headache when she found time hang heavily on her hands, and after dinner Hester settled near the lamps and Lady Lynnouth in the drawing-room to read to her as usual; but after a quarter of an hour or so she was interrupted.

"It is no good—I cannot attend," said her ladyship. "My thoughts are on other things. Leave me alone for a little while. Or stay—give me my writing-case. I have a letter to write."

Hester placed all the necessary writing materials before her, and then, stepping through one of the long, open windows on to the terrace, walked up and down it by herself, thankful for the breathing-space allowed her by being alone.

She had much to think of, much that troubled her, not only concerning her own affairs, but also on the subject of the new will which she felt certain Lady Lynnouth had just made. How would it affect Lord Lynnouth, she wondered, and who was the new heir or heiress?

It was an oppressively hot night; not a breath stirred; the sky was dark, but now and then illuminated by a flash of blue sheet lightning. Everything was very still. Again that curious sense of coming events was on her; she seemed to hear the tread of Fate and the voice of prophecy telling her that a great chance was coming, that a crisis was at hand. It was impossible to resist this feeling or account for it except by the fact that she had been greatly strung up lately and had silently taken an intense interest in the affairs going on around her.

At length, thinking the letter must be finished and she might be needed, she returned to the open window of the drawing room and was about to enter when her heart seemed suddenly to stop beating and she stood still spellbound.

Cubs Shut Out the Boston Braves

Chicago, Sept. 16.—A fast fight between Umpire Byron and "Red" Smith, third baseman of the Boston Braves, marked the final game of the year between Chicago and Boston yesterday. Chicago won the contest 4 to 0.

At the conclusion of the game, Smith rushed up to Umpire Byron, and the arbiter walked to meet him. Both exchanged words, and attempted to strike one another, when Umpire Orth and other ball players stepped between the men. Smith had been "riding" Byron throughout the game because of his decisions on balls and strikes.

Incidentally the game was won by Frank Schulte, who drove a line drive over the screen in right field for the only run of the game. Score: R.H.E. Chicago 4 0 0 Boston 0 0 0

Batteries—Schultz, Oeschger and Halv Beebe and Onslow.

Second game—R.H.E. Providence 0 7 2 Buffalo 5 5 1 Batteries—Eagles and Casey; Tyson and Onslow.

Even Break at Rochester.

Rochester, N.Y., Sept. 16.—The Hustlers and Jersey City split even yesterday. Rochester winning the first game by 9 to 4, and losing the second game, with Forstbauer, a local professional boy in the box by 11 to 8. The Skeeters banded Forstbauer very hard. Two games to-day. Score: First game—R.H.E. Jersey City 4 12 0 Rochester 9 18 2 Batteries—Crutcher and Tragesor; Palmero and Williams. R.H.E. Jersey City 11 15 2 Rochester 8 11 2 Game called on account of darkness. Batteries—Bruck, Ring and Schwerk; Forstbauer and Williams.

Pittsburg Pitcher Won His Own Game

At Pittsburg—Pittsburg shut out Philadelphia yesterday 7 to 0. Kanteleiner kept the hits scattered and won his own game in the eighth inning, when he singled after Gibson had singled and gone to second on Cravath's error. Score: R.H.E. Philadelphia 0 0 0 Pittsburg 7 0 0

Montreal Beat Harrisburg.

Montreal, Sept. 16.—Montreal won from Harrisburg yesterday by 5 to 3 by batting Schacht opportunely, and making the most of Harrisburg's misplays. Score: R.H.E. Harrisburg 3 8 3 Montreal 5 3 0 Batteries—Schacht and Heckinger; Cadore and Madden.

Rain Postpones Game at Toronto

Rain postponed the game yesterday at the Stadium between the Leafs and Richmond, which means that a double header will be played this afternoon at Toronto in the farewell series between the two teams this season. The first game begins at 2 o'clock. To-morrow Providence, who were ousted out of first place yesterday by Buffalo will be at the Island, they playing double-headers on Friday and Saturday. Reports from Buffalo state that it was a real scrappy game yesterday between the Bisons and Grays and with the result of the pennant hanging on the issue of the series here tomorrow and Saturday there should be plenty of fireworks. To-morrow will be Ladies' Day at the Stadium. Fred Herbert will pitch for the league Giants on Sunday, while Daley reports to New York Americans on the same day. The other players are negotiating for a series in Ottawa.

Buffalo Now Lead International League

Buffalo, Sept. 16.—Buffalo took first place in the race for the International League pennant yesterday by winning both ends of a double-header from the champion Providence Grays by 5 to 4 and 5 to 0. The first game went twice innings after the Bisons overcame a four-run lead and tied the score in the eighth inning. Judge opened the twelfth with a three-bagger, and scored on Carlson's drive to the fence. There were numerous alterations between the players, and a fistcuff clash between Onslow of the Bisons and Manager Shean of the Grays was narrowly averted in the first game. Team-mates and umpires kept the players apart. Score: R.H.E. First game—R.H.E. Providence 4 12 0 Buffalo 5 11 2

Detroit Gained on Red Sox

New York, Sept. 16.—Detroit gained a full game on Boston, the league leader, yesterday, when it won a game from New York 4 to 2, while Chicago was defeating Boston. Detroit made a clean sweep of the series of four games, and vanquished New York on the year's games 17 to 5. Score: R.H.E. Detroit 4 7 0 New York 2 0 0 Batteries—Beland, Cowlaski and Stanage; Caldwell and Nunamaker.

Chicago Won From Boston.

At Boston—Faber's shoots dimmed the eyes of the Red Sox batsmen yesterday, Boston getting only one hit off his delivery, and Chicago won 3 to 1. Pitching with much of his former skill, Gregg struck out nine Chicago batters, some of them at critical moments. Score: R.H.E. Chicago 3 8 0 Boston 1 1 0 Batteries: Faber and Schalk; Gregg and Cady, Thomas.

Washington Shut Out.

At Washington—Brenton held Washington to four hits yesterday, and shut out the locals, while Cleveland found Harper and Gallia for six safeties, including two doubles, which, with several passes and brilliant base running by Evans and Roth, netted the visitors five runs. The score: R.H.E. Cleveland 5 6 2 Washington 0 0 1 Batteries: Brenton and Egan; Harper, Gallia and Williams.

Sporting Comment

Any fan around town who is following the race in the big leagues has enough excitement on his hands to see him over the winter. In the American League Boston leads Detroit by 20 points, and Detroit opens to-day 20 points of games at Boston. On these games depend the championship. Detroit has had a marvellously successful career on the road all season and if they leave Boston tied or ahead, they will win the pennant. Then local fans will charter a special car for the World's series.

The National League race stands as it did. Philadelphia and Boston both lost yesterday, which makes the Dodgers and Braves tied for second place. All the touring teams change over to-day and the end of the first lap shows no inclination for Philadelphia to "crack." Both Boston and Philadelphia have a hard series ahead of them for the rest of the week at St. Louis and Cincinnati. Both these teams are going very strong.

Buffalo defeated Providence twice yesterday and the Bisons now lead in the race. Providence plays Buffalo again to-day and then four games in two days in Toronto to finish the season. Toronto is coming strong and with good weather there will be some exciting baseball in the Queen City before Sunday.

A Famous Soldier.

Paris, Sept. 16.—The death is announced of Bugler Roland, sole survivor of those who took part in the battle of Sidi Brahim in 1845 in the French war of subjugation in Algeria. He was 95 years old, and was decorated a few months ago with the medal of the Legion of Honor. President Poincare attended a dinner given in his honor on February 1914 in this city. During the battle of Sidi Brahim, while wounded and a prisoner, Bugler Roland was ordered by Abd El Kader, the Arabian chief, to sound the retreat at a critical stage of the battle in order to deceive the French troops. Without an instant's hesitation he sounded the charge. In the clash which followed the French won the day.

ELEVEN ENEMY AIRMEN LOST AERIAL BATTLE

Allied Aviators Score in Individual Duelling in Space. London, Sept. 16.—The Press Bureau issues a report from Field Marshal Sir John French, in which the British commander says: "Since my last communication, September 9, there has been no change in the situation on our front. There has been considerable artillery activity on both sides, more particularly south-east of Arrmentieres and in the neighborhood of Ypres. "Three hostile aeroplanes were brought down within the past four days. Of these two were hit by our anti-aircraft guns and fell inside the German lines. The third was shot down by our air pilots and fell in our hands. The machine was only slightly damaged, but both pilot and observer were killed. During the past week there have been 21 air fights over the German lines and in 11 cases the hostile aeroplane was driven to the ground. "On September 10 our artillery, assisted by aeroplane direction, bombarded two German observation balloons located east of Ypres. One balloon burst, while the second was deflated and removed. "Mining activity has continued, but without important results on either side."

RUSSIAN DUMA PROROGUED UNTIL LATE NOVEMBER

Differences Between the Cabinet and Duma Are Growing Acute. London, Sept. 16.—Reuter's Petrograd correspondent telegraphs that the Russian Duma will be prorogued to-day until the middle of November. An imperial decree to this effect has been issued, the correspondent says, and was communicated last night by Premier Goremynkin to the cabinet and to Michael Rodzianko, president of the Duma. The premier also conferred with the military and civil authorities of Petrograd and Moscow with regard to forestalling popular demonstrations. Differences of opinion between the cabinet and the Duma have been clearly defined since the formation early this month of a majority in the Duma of Liberal and Progressive elements. The new majority put forward a program of important reforms, and it was reported that the cabinet might resign. Premier Goremynkin went to the field headquarters of Emperor Nicholas to discuss the situation, and on his return to Petrograd, it was said the government regarded the program of the Liberals as untimely.

PERISCOPE IS PERFECTED FOR USE ON RIFLE

Australian Soldier Has Invented Clever Mechanical Sighter. Melbourne, Australia, Aug. 24 (correspondence)—Major-General Birdwood, who commands the Australian troops engaged at the Dardanelles has lately written a letter to the governor-general of the Commonwealth, Sir Ronald Munro Ferguson, in which he says: "Our complete moral superiority over the Turks is partly due to a very clever invention of a man named Beach, who produced a periscopic rifle. When we got here we denuded the whole of our transports of their long glasses and made up some 2,000 periscopes on our little beach. This man then made a very simple device. The result is the Turk only sees the muzzle of a rifle coming over the parapet without anything behind it to shoot at and we understand from prisoners that he dislikes this intensely. "In connection with the foregoing, the following extract from the Army corps orders is cited by the Commonwealth minister of defence: "The army corps commander wishes to record his appreciation of a clever invention of a periscopic attachment for the rifle, the work of Lance Corporal W. C. B. Beach, second battalion, Australian Imperial Force. As far as is known this invention has not been tried in France, the Lieutenant-General commanding has forwarded the idea to Lord Kitchener for consideration."
