The Colors of the Flag.

What is the blue on our flag, boys?
The waves of the beautiful sea,
Where our vessels ride in their blue-toned glee,
And the feet of the winds are free.
From the sun and smiles of the world is seen
To the lot of the world's good men,
With countless tread through billows deep
The guardian ships go forth.
What is the white on our flag, boys?
The honor of our land,
Which burns in our sight like a beacon light
And stands while the hills shall stand.
We know this white is our land's great name,
And our flag wherever we
And our flag wherever we
The brave hearts over the sea.
The colors of our flag, boys?
On the burning sands in the wild waste lands
No such flag as the purple stain
And it cries to God from the crimson stain
And the crest of the waves outlined
That the sea is our land's great name,
As our fathers fought of old.
We'll stand by the red and the blue, boys,
Whatever be said or done,
Though the whole world say, as we face the west,
Not to be true to the colors of our flag,
Though our only reward be the breath of a west
And a bullet in heart or brain.
What matters one more, if the flag floats on
And lilies in heart of the stars?
—Frederick George Scott.

Only a Sip.

'Father, there is such a wretched fellow outside. He looks perished with cold, and I am sure I never saw one so ragged before. Somehow he does not seem quite like an ordinary beggar.'
So golden-haired Myrtle Norrey as she peeped into the library where her father sat busily writing one cold day in February.
Now, Sir Francis Norrey had certain excellent opinions about relieving poor, rightly believing that to give without discriminating was of no charity at all, and that as a rule the wandering vagrant was not the really deserving person, such poverty being too often the result of intemperance. A most liberal-minded man, he nevertheless strictly adhered to these convictions, and Myrtle had grave doubts as to the success of her application. It was most unusual for her to appeal to her father on such a matter, but something in the appearance of the beggar, whose arms were so plainly visible through the sleeves of his coat, had prompted her to do so.

A bitter-sweet shiver was sweeping down the length of Myrtle's spine as she saw the man's face. It was a face that had been through a great deal of suffering, and even in her warm dress had left its keenness. After the delicious warmth of the conservatory, from whence she had escaped the wretched man who had craved from her a crust of bread with trembling lips, the wintry atmosphere outside had seemed more oppressive and the subject condition of the applicant more terrible.
'Do please come and look at him, father, dear,' she pleaded, remembering the hard, cruel cough that had interrupted the poor man every time he spoke. 'I fear he will really die if something is not done for him.'
Laying aside his pen, Sir Francis rose and followed his daughter into the garden. He was not quite proof against Myrtle's soft, dark eyes, which bore so striking a resemblance to those of the mother she had never known, and whose memory he so tenderly cherished.

Myrtle's description of the beggar had not been exaggerated. He saw something else, too, something that caused him to utter so sharp an exclamation of mingled astonishment and pain that his daughter turned to him in mute amazement as he said in a voice she could hardly recognize as his:
'Ray, Ray, it is really you!
Never as long as she lived, would Myrtle forget the anguish of those words or the look of sorrowful wonder in her father's kind eyes. The rest of the eventful day was the longest she ever remembered to have spent as she sat silently, about from room to room, unable to settle to anything, ever and anon pausing outside the door of the one to which that mysterious beggar had been taken by Sir Francis, and wherein they of indulging in strong drink. Yes, my dear children, but for that your poor uncle would not be what he is to-day—an outcast coming to the house of his little brother. You have already seen his deplorable condition. Myrtle, it was a very little thing that brought him to that—just one little cup, my dear, only a sip.

Now, you already know what my opinions are respecting this terrible matter, and how I loathe everything connected with strong drink, but until this evening you have never known what powerful reasons I had for being what may seem to some people rather narrow-minded. In my young days, that abstinence was a complete modern idea, and abstinents were, as a rule, regarded as fanatics. My grandfather was one of the earliest advocates of this excellent cause, and many were the arguments that went on between himself and my father, who believed in a moderate use of what he called a 'good creature of God,' and smiled at the idea of their being any danger in having drink in our house.
'My brother and I were never allowed anything of the kind and our grandfather did his best to teach us how dangerous it was. One Christmas day we had been having our dinner with the elders of the family, and during dessert Colonel Nesle, one of our father's oldest friends, took my brother on his knees and lifted his glass of wine to the boy's lips, bidding him to taste it. Ray was then a lively boy of seven, with golden curls and the most beautiful eyes imaginable. I can see my grandfather's look of horror as he sprang forward and took Ray from him.
'It was only a sip, grandfather, only a sip,' declared my brother, looking innocently into the dear old man's face.
'The first sip has too often been the beginning of other ruin of body and soul,' said my grandfather grave-

Will Lose Fiscal Independence.

But the most serious feature of the arrangement is the sacrifice of our fiscal independence. The more you look at it the more certain does it become that from the moment the treaty takes effect our policy will be controlled by what is done at Washington. To day we are the most independent country in the world. We absolutely control every department of our public administration. Once we put ourselves into a similar dependence upon American markets and American tariffs our freedom is gone. With it goes the manly spring of our national life.
No intelligent man can deny that the policy followed by the U. S. in excluding us from her markets in the past has been a prime factor in making Canada a self-reliant and independent country. It was at first a hardship, and there was every excuse for those who sought reciprocity. Now we have overcome the difficulties and won our way through to independence and prosperity there is no excuse for throwing away the advantages of our position. The true path for Canada is the path she has been following—a dignified independence in policy and a vigorous development and careful conservation of her resources. The treaty in the first step towards the exploitation and subordination of Canada.—Hon. Clifford Sifton.

MEASURES TAKEN INTERNALLY CANNOT CURE ECZEMA. IT IS CAUSED BY GERMS.
Eczema cannot be overcome by ordinary treatment and the old-fashioned way of dosing the system with drugs. Eczema is caused by a parasitic germ that bores into the skin. It is generally a contagious disease. Until the parasite is completely destroyed and removed, eczema cannot be cured. Fully one-third of skin diseases are in the form of eczema.
We so thoroughly believe that Rexall Eczema Ointment will overcome eczema and allied skin ailments, that we unhesitatingly promise to promptly return the money paid for it if it fails to cure.

Because of its remarkable cleansing, antiseptic, germicidal, soothing and healing influence, Rexall Eczema Ointment has a very pronounced value in the treatment of skin diseases, especially where the form of ailment is of the chronic, aggravating sort. We highly recommend it for the dry scaly form or the weeping type, where there is a constant flow of ill-smelling secretion.
Rexall Eczema Ointment is very prompt in relieving pimples, blotches, skin discolorations, ringworm, acne, nettle rash, stetter, hives, insect bites, and for healing sores and wounds. It is a pleasant smelling, grayish-white ointment, and is very cleanly for use. Two sizes, 50c. and $1.00. Sold only at our store—The Rexall Store, A. V. Rand.

Man and the Crowd.

President Schurman's address to the graduating class at Cornell was an eloquent appeal for the individual against the crowd. 'Would you abolish poverty, would you advance civilization?' he asked. 'Then educate individuals one by one to be more virtuous, more intelligent, more skillful, more industrious.
Upon the soundness of the plea there will be general agreement. It is but a new statement of the philosophy of Jesus that each man should take care of his own soul. But it is a creed that has been much more successfully taught on lonely farms and pastures than in universities.
The late Henry Guy Carleton, the playwright, lived at Atlantic City, and when the mosquitoes were bad he would tell his Madras mosquito story. 'There are no mosquitoes,' he would begin, 'in Brittany, and a Breton woman, about to emigrate to Madras, was warned by a friend.
'Beware of the Madras mosquitoes. They have long suckers hanging from their heads and they will draw the very life blood out of you.'
'The Breton woman arrived in Madras duly, and as she disembarked she saw three elephants drawn up near the pier.
'Ciell!' she cried. 'Are these mosquitoes?'

A well known Des Moines woman after suffering miserably for two days from bowel complaint, was cured by one dose of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. For sale by all dealers.
A little miss of five years who had been allowed to stay up for an evening party was told about 8 o'clock to bed. Very, very slowly she moved toward the chair. As aunt, seeing her reluctance, asked, 'Helen, can I do anything to help you?'
'No,' replied Helen. 'I will get there altogether too soon as it is.'

Out of his Own Mouth.
Out of his own mouth the present attitude of Sir Wilfrid Laurier regarding Reciprocity is condemned in the strongest possible terms. Speaking at the Imperial Conference in London in 1907 he made use of these words:

'If we were to follow the laws of nature and geography between Canada and the United States, the whole trade would flow from South to North and from North to South. We have done everything possible by building canals and subsidizing railroads to bring the trade from West to East and East to West so as to bring trade into British channels. All this we have done, recognizing the principle of the great advantage of forcing trade within the British Empire. There is no boundary line except a purely conventional one over the whole territory of North America. The (the American) habits are the same as ours, and therefore we are induced to trade and cannot help it by force of nature. But so far as legislation can influence trade we have done everything possible to cash in on it.'

There was a time when we wanted Reciprocity with the United States, but our efforts and our offers were put aside. We have said good bye to that trade and we now put all our hopes upon the British trade.
New Minister—Now, just one thing more, before I accept this charge, have you got a supply?
Deacon—Well, yes, though never said anything to the last preacher about it. I'll show you where it is, and you get a key, but I tell you you'll have to be just as careful about using it as the rest of us!

ZAM-BUK
SAVED THIS BABY
Mrs. M. Barrett, Montreal, says:
'A horrid rash came out all over my baby's face and spread until it had totally covered his scalp. It was irritating and painful, and caused the little one hours of suffering. We tried soap and powders and salves, but he got no better. His mother's face got quite this and worse, and was relieved to a very serious condition. I was advised to try Zam-Buk, and did so. It was wonderful! The burning, painful skin, Zam-Buk from the very commencement of its use, disappeared in the spot, and the pimples and sores and the irritation grew less and less. Within a few weeks my baby's skin was healed completely. He has now not a trace of rash, or eruption, or eczema, or burning sore. His only ailment, but cured of the remaining skin trouble, he has improved his general health.'
Zam-Buk is sold at all stores and medicine stores, or by mail from the Great Zam-Buk Co., Montreal, for 25c. a box. A complete cure for all skin diseases, acne, hives, and for itching.

Editorial Notes.

'Give the farmer a chance.' is the Liberal slogan. The Grit idea of giving him a chance is to place him on a free trade basis for what he has to sell and a protection basis for what he has to buy.

The reciprocity press shouts 'Let the farmer have his turn!' which would be fair enough if the farmer had not for ten years past been having his turn with a vengeance. Now when is the poor housekeeper to get her turn.

William Jennings Bryan, of Nebraska, who ranks among the greatest orators of the day, will speak in the Valley, either at Wolfville or Kentville, on Monday, Sept. 18th. He will appear under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A.

It is indeed refreshing to read laudatory remarks made regarding certain politicians by party speakers, after having listened to the caudal opinions of the same speakers at a time when no election was in sight. Politics is indeed a great game.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier in 1907: 'Canada today is not in favor of reciprocity. There was a time when Canadians, beginning with myself, would have given many things to obtain the American market, but, thank heaven, these days are past and over.'

The proposition to straighten and improve Main street at the bridge has received very favorable recognition from many citizens. The work can easily be accomplished, and will be of unestimable benefit to the eastern section of the town especially.

The sixty-sixth annual session of the United Baptist Convention of the Maritime Provinces, which has been held at Bridgetown during the past week, was largely attended and one of the most successful ever held. Rev. Dr. Manning was elected president. The Convention will meet next year at Moncton.

Last Sunday morning Rev. W. W. Wilcox, of Walden, N. Y., preached in the Methodist church with much acceptance. In the evening a rousing address, replete with information and interest, on 'Christ's Conquest of Eastern Asia,' was given by Dr. Dillon Bronson, of Boston.

In another column will be found an interesting letter from Rev. Mr. Jackson, a tourist from 'over the line' who has been spending some time in Wolfville. His interest in our town will, we feel sure, be appreciated by our citizens, and we trust an effort will be made to put his timely suggestions with regard to a local need in our town to a practical test.

An exchange says: 'Canada's phenomenal growth has been due to the fostering of the agricultural interests of the country and the settlement of its vacant lands.' All of which was made possible by the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway under a Conservative government, and the development of good home markets under a protection policy—also the work of a Conservative government.

The convention of the Liberal Conservative party of this county, which was held at Kentville on Thursday last we k. unanimously nominated Mr. A. deW. Foster, of this town, as its standard bearer for the approaching federal election. Mr. Foster has resigned his position as housemaster of Horton Collegiate Academy and accepted the nomination. He is a clever young man, a keen debater and would make a representative of which Kings county could be proud.

The Liberal convention was held on Saturday afternoon, when Sir Frederick Borden was again nominated. We understand the chief reason given why he should be returned is that he will not retain the seat after the election whether the government is defeated or sustained. If that be true it would seem to us to be the wisest policy to elect Mr. Foster, and thus save the trouble and expense of another contest.

A vote for reciprocity means a return to the days prior to '76, when Canadians were mere hewers of wood and drawers of water for your Uncle Samuel; when labor toiled hard for paltry wages, frequently not more than fifty cents per day; when thousands of bright, robust Canadians abandoned home for the United States, then growing by leaps and bounds under the impetus of a wise protective policy that developed industry, rewarded ambition and rounded out a nation that at long since made the civilized world sit up and think. As Canadians, let us ask ourselves: Was this position attained by hurling away raw materials, boarding up the windows and locking the doors of industry against the enterprising and skilled laborer? If you can make yourself believe this then vote for reciprocity, sacrifice the raw materials of Canada and be content to see your country retrograde and step down from the proud position it occupies to-day as part of the great British empire to one of subordinate to the giant republic south of us.

Wolfville Needs a Library.

To the Editor of THE ACADIAN.

DEAR EDITOR:—It may be presumptuous in one who is not a resident of Wolfville to venture through your columns a suggestion, but from what I have learned of its citizens during my stay among them of two weeks and more, I am confident that their charity is broad enough to cover even the sin of a tourist's presumption. During my brief residence in your beautiful and delightful little town I have very forcibly felt the absence of what every place of its size should have and could have—namely, a public library and reading room. Towns smaller than Wolfville and with less intelligence and culture possess good libraries. It is not necessary that an expensive building be erected, and several thousand books be purchased to fill it. A room centrally located on Main street could be rented and inexpensively but tastefully furnished. A hundred volumes more or less would do for a nucleus of a library, and some one could be secured for almost a nominal sum to serve as librarian. In this way a beginning could be made without embarrassing any one.

All that is necessary is the voluntary services of a number of representatives of the interested men and women who could consider themselves a committee to secure contributions of money and books. I am sure they would meet with a hearty response from the residents past and present were they properly approached.

You have driven the saloon out of your community, a most praiseworthy piece of work. But what have you given the young men in place of it? Nothing so far as I can see. If I am mistaken I shall be glad to be corrected. Some one will say we have the college. Does the college care for all the young people of Wolfville? The presence of Acadia College is not a valid excuse. As a matter of fact the faculty of the college should be the first to take the initiative in the matter of providing the people of Wolfville with a public library. The college professor or president who shirks here is not a good citizen.

I am aware that agitation for a public library may be an old story in Wolfville. Some of your good people will say we have agitated and agitated and nothing has come of it. We have gotten tired and have quit. Will you not, Mr. Editor, through your editorial columns, urge them to begin again. The quitters never get anything. The stickers secure it all. Here's to the success of the people of the charming little town of Wolfville in their efforts to secure a public library. R. L. JACKSON, Acadia Lodge, Aug. 21st.

A Terrible Record of Children's Deaths.

As every mother knows the death of a child is a calamity that no mother would care to see repeated. The reason for this is that the excessive heat brings on those dreaded troubles, cholera infantum, diarrhoea, dysentery and other stomach and bowel complaints. These come on so quickly and with such little warning that often baby is beyond help before the mother realizes he is ill. During the hot summer months the mother must be continually on her guard to see that baby's bowels are working regularly and his little stomach is kept sweet and pure. Baby's Own Tablets should always be kept in the home as they are the mother's great friend. A dose now and then will prevent these troubles, or if they do come on suddenly they will be quickly banished by the Tablets. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Great Race Meet and Splendid Exhibition Attractions.

The great Nova Scotia Provincial Exhibition will open to the public on August 29th and on that afternoon there will commence a programme of races for which a greater number of horses have been entered than has ever been seen before in the history of Nova Scotia. There are seventeen races, ninety-five different horses and a grand total of one hundred and sixty-five entries, which include splendid specimens from the United States and the best in Eastern Canada. The races will come off daily, and the programme as published will be strictly adhered to.

The Aerial Navigator who is to give daily air flights from the Exhibition grounds will arrive in Halifax in a few days to prepare for his work. Flights will be made every day when the wind does not exceed twenty knots an hour, and many thrilling performances will be witnessed. In addition to this there will be several splendid vaudeville acts to be put on in front of the Grand Stand afterwards and evenings, and constituting a performance unparalleled in point of merit and surpassing everything hitherto seen in Nova Scotia.

All the regular features of the Exhibition will be on a splendid scale. Bands of music will be in attendance, and the rates of transportation to Halifax to the Exhibition have been arranged at exceedingly low rates.

Mrs. Mary B. Friesland, of New York, has accepted an appointment as teacher of music in Acadia Seminary, Miss Friesland has studied in New York under Geraldine Morgan. For several years she studied in Berlin under Joachim and Hair, both principals in the Hoch Schule. She has had large teaching experience and comes most highly recommended.

Choral Service.

On Sunday evening last at St. Andrew's church a choral service was held in connection with the usual service. Prof. Shedd, of Boston, who presided at the organ in the absence of the organist, had the matter in hand and deserves much credit on the success of the undertaking which is something of a novelty in Wolfville. The choir was assisted by Mrs. Shedd, Messrs. R. O. Chisholm, Herman De Witt and Fred Bishop. The following was the order of service: Organ Prelude, 'Sanctus' Gounod Hymn go Scripture Reading Anthem—'Hark, Hark my Soul' Shelly Prayer Duet—'The Lord is my Shepherd' Smart Miss Beckwith and Mrs. Chambers Solo—'The Mora Hieraal' Hayes Rev. DeWitt Offertory Organ—'Largo' Handel Duet—'The Lord is my Light' Back Mrs. Shedd and Mr. Bishop Sermon Rev. McLeod Harvey, Worcester, Mass. Quartet—'One Sweetly Soberm Thought' Ambrose Miss Beckwith, Mrs. Chambers, Mrs. Shedd, Miss Stuart Hymn 608 Postlude—'Hallelujah Chorus' Handel

Pretty Home Wedding.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Strong, Acadia street, was the scene of a pretty home wedding on Wednesday evening when their daughter, Miss Alice Winnifred, was united in marriage to Dr. John Tremain Roach, of this town. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. D. Webber, assisted by Rev. J. W. Westwood. A large number of invited guests were present. The parlors were prettily decorated and the whole affair passed off very pleasantly. After the ceremony and congratulations a dainty lunch was served, after which Dr. and Mrs. Roach were driven by automobile to Windsor en route for an extended wedding tour. THE ACADIAN tenders congratulations.

Former Wolfville Man Killed in the West.

Mr. Charles E. Starr, a former highly esteemed citizen of Wolfville, was thrown from a horse and instantly killed in Washington on the 16th inst. The sad news reached Wolfville on Monday. No further particulars were given. It is expected that the remains, accompanied by his son Frank, will arrive in Wolfville on Monday next. Mr. Starr was a most popular gentleman and had many friends throughout the country. He had mining interests in Washington, which he was probably visiting at the time of his death. He leaves a widow and two sons, George L. in Winnipeg, and Frank, who is a civil engineer in the west, who have the sympathy of many friends here.
