WOLFVILLE, N. S., AUG. 6, 1915.

Editorial Brevities.

"We cannot because we must not fail," says Sir Robert Borden. This is a terse and true statement of the Empire's position.

The more soldiers Canada sends to the front the greater the obligation of those at home to keep the Patriotic Fund in a healthy condition. Praise of the heroes will not feed their children.

The Kaiser in a manifesto just issued says that before God and history his conscience is clear. While he may have a convenient conscience he is not wise to anticipate the verdict of history. His assertion that God with him will also bear scrutiny a little later.

Sir Robert Borden, premier of Canada, received the freedom of the city of London in appreciation of his services to the Empire and its grateful recognition of the splendid part taken by the Dominion of Canada during the present war and the valuable assistance rendered by the officers and men of the Canadian contingent on the battlefields of Europe. The freedom was enclosed in a gold box, the customary accessory on such an occasion. This is the highest honor the city of London can grant, and is sparingly bestowed.

Patriotic Funds.

At a meeting of the Nova Scotia Executive of the Canadian Patriotic Fund, there being present Lieutenant Governor MacGregor, Hon. G. H. Murray, Mr. Justice Harris, E. N. Rhodes, M. P., H. A. Fleming, Honorary Treasurer and Secretary A. B. Barnstead, a full report of the present financial status of the fund was given and considered. This report shows contributions received to July 31st of $150,780.80. There has been paid out to dependents in Nova Scotia $113,555.51. This leaves but $37,225.29 to meet requirements.

The monthly disbursements approximate $18,000 and will increase fully $200,000 additional will be required during the next twelve months and not more than $150,000 is subscribed by individuals or voted by municipalities. Nova Scotia desires to provide for its local needs. Cash in hand will meet the needs of dependents for a little over two months. Another payment on subscriptions will fall due in September and it is incumbent that this should be met promptly, and that all municipalities and private subscribers in arrears should see to it immediately any overdue amounts. The strain upon the resources of this fund has been much greater than anticipated. Already the central fund at Ottawa is drawing up on its reserves, the monthly income not meeting the last monthly expenditure by $122,000. The care of our soldiers' dependents must not be forgotten in the general desire to provide adequate military equipment.

Over 4000 men have already enlisted for overseas service from Nova Scotia, while large numbers of our militia are on Active Home Defence at the forts at Halifax and at other points in the Province. 1142 families of volunteers, comprising a total of 3600 dependents are being assisted. The average monthly disbursement per family in the Province is $16.65. Eight hundred and eighty-nine families of those on Overseas Service receive an average per family of $17.06. Of these 109 are Belgian and French Reservists who get a higher proportionate rating since the allowances from their Governments are on a less generous scale than those from the British and Canadian Government.

Two hundred and fifty-three families of those on Active Home Defence have been receiving an average monthly allowance of $10.83. It has been decided, however, that for the next three months the allowance for those on Active Home Defence shall be withdrawn unless in the judgment of the Committee there is exceptional need in any individual case. It is necessary to conserve the funds as far as possible, and it is felt that no hardship will result from withdrawal of assistance to the dependents of men at home during the next three months when the cost of living is at its lowest point.

The Absurdities of the Submarine Rumors.

Many persons have read of the reports and articles printed of the possibilities of foreign submarines off the coast of Maine, but it has remained for the Rockland, Me., Courier Gazette to expose these absurd rumors.

It appears that a resident of Castine, Me., with an abnormal imagination, or indulging in a "pipe dream", lately sent a communication to Washington of supposed "islands of Oil" in Castine Bay, and he jumped at the conclusion that such "islands" must be oil from submarines.

This hoax upon the American public seems so ridiculous and possibly detrimental to the coastwise steamship companies and our tourist traffic, that we reprint the following explanation from the issue of the Rockland, Me., Courier-Gazette of the 23rd inst.: "That the submarine scare is not taken seriously down that way (Castine, Me.) may be judged from the following from Tuesday's Boston Post:

"Frederick Whitney, a Boston business man and next-door neighbor of Professor Edmund von Nash at West Brooksville, gallantly came to the German instructor's defence yesterday, declaring emphatically that the stories published in the New York papers to the effect that von Nash was suspected as acting agent of the German government in aiding the submarine commanders in establishing a submarine base at Castine, were not only an absurdity, states that the incident is received as a huge joke by all who are acquainted with the surrounding country.

"The story the Post printed in this morning's paper, declared Mr. Whitney giving an interview with the Harvard professor and quoting him as saying it is absolutely preposterous, is just right. Why, the whole situation is so absurd and humorous that the report must be laughing stock to everyone who knows the land formation on that section of the Maine coast. My neighbor, the illustrious von Nash, may be charged with keeping a secret German army in his barn, but until the imperial German government or some one else succeeds in supplying hundreds of tons of munition from Lawrence Bay he will never be found guilty of harboring a submarine.

The absurd stories put in circulation of late the above explains and exposes completely, and we gladly print this to remove all apprehension from the minds of our good friends the American tourists, and wish to assure them that they may now visit the Maritime Province with every degree of safety and comfort.

Premier Murray's Eloquent Appeal.

Premier Murray at the big recruiting meeting at Halifax:

"The fighting of our boys has been a matter of pride to every Canadian. (Cheers) They have covered themselves with glory on the battlefield and have given Canada a high status in the eyes of the world. We have not suffered like Belgium or France, whose territory has been devastated. The Belgians say with pride that none of them would have the courage to tear out the latest page of their history. How many Canadians would like to be deprived of the glorious page which our sons have already written in the battlefields of Flanders? It can be said that this is the greatest page in our history and the call comes now for men to see that the record nobly won is kept undimmed.

A call comes from our country for men. The triumph of British principles can only be won by men. There is no royal road to victory. The fact of the need of more men is now before the Canadian people. The call comes to every man who is in a position to volunteer. If you believed that the Empire was in danger how many men capable of discharging military duty would refuse that call? It has been well said that the man who will not defend his country is not the man to enjoy its liberties.

"We have a splendid birthright in Canada; a freedom which was handed down to us by a generation passed away. Are we, as free men, to jeopardize this freedom? Can it be contemplated that we are to have the domination of Prussian militarism in this country? I cannot but think that when our people have a knowledge that men, and still more men, are needed and with these men British principles can triumph and the honor of the nation can be maintained before the world, there must be a response from every man who has a proper love of country in his heart. Thank God there are many men who called from Canada whose love of country was deeper than life itself. (Cheers.)

"Do not make any mistake, if the young and fit will not go the old will have to go. Britain can never be beaten. She is fighting for the great principles of honor, justice and liberty—principles which cannot be crushed and when the day comes, as it surely will come, when these principles shall triumph and the flag of freedom still floats triumphantly over this country the proudest thing a man can say will be: 'I bore my part. I did my bit in the great crisis for my King and Country.' (Great cheering.)

The news that Rev. G. D. Milbury, Pastor of the Parrishboro Baptist church, had tendered his resignation, was received with regret by all our townsmen. During his stay here Mr. Milbury and his estimable wife have made many friends, and his work has been very successful. Mr. Milbury goes to Glasgow in September.—Parrishboro Leader.

An English Prediction.

There have been many severe attacks in England on Lord Kitchener, principally from Lord Northcliffe's papers, and due, in the opinion of many persons, to further the plan of forcing conscription on the country. Naturally, the Secretary for War has many defenders, not alone from among his admirers but from that large number of persons who consider criticism in the present condition of affairs unwise. One of the first class probably, is Mr. A. G. Hales, a well known journalist and author, who in a contribution to the press praises the War Secretary for his great work and makes the following prediction:

"The hour is pregnant with great news. It will not be long before our land will ring from coast to coast with a splendid story of triumph and daring, and men will bear their heads high and thank God for giving us the grim granite man who sits like a sphinx at the head of our armies, and works night and day with locked mouth, for his country's salvation. I have searched the pages of history, and searched in vain for a case parallel to his. Day in and day out a gigantic press organization attacks him, seeking to nullify his almost superhuman efforts. The spirit behind the attacks may be one of mistaken patriotism—I hope it is so. Let the Gods judge. But the hour of his vindication is near at hand, his triumph will be so immense, so overwhelming that we shall be able to pity those who sought his ruin, their humiliation will be utter and complete. * * * Knowing what I do know, I can write to-day more in pity than in anger concerning Lord Kitchener's enemies within the gate; they are going to drink of the cup of Jericho when the British people will fill to the brim, and they will have to drain it to the dregs, whilst a wondering world shouts his name to the quivering skies. There are no sands in England deep enough for them to hide their heads in when he makes his move and plays his hand. The thing I know I have known for some little time past—as the editor of the journal has known it for a longer time. Let Britain possess her soul in patience—the world's greatest soldier has not been sleeping; he did not need people of untrained intelligence to teach him a soldier's duties; he may not have secured the kind of shells to meet their views, but it will be found that he has ready to his hand all that will be required to satisfy the German soldiers and their leaders.

The foregoing, which was written two weeks ago, has an air of mystery which has not yet been cleared up, but it is possible that Mr. Hales is the possessor of information not given to the public, and that great events are impending.

Liquor Advertisements.

A census has been lately taken in the United States of all the daily newspapers, to learn how many of them decline taking liquor advertisements. 500 of the daily newspapers refuse all such advertising, 360 declare themselves in favor of prohibition. Would it not be well for some of our Halifax papers to take up the same attitude in reference to this matter. Why should such pernicious advertisements be sent into Nova Scotia families as a whole column setting forth in enlarged type the benefits of Scotch whiskey, Four Crown Scotch and Keith's Bohemian Lager. In these days of advanced temperance sentiment and when the European nations are struggling against the dire effects of the liquor traffic among the soldiers, there should be no place in the Halifax dailies for such advertisements.

Mr. Nathan K. Caldwell, formerly of Wolfville, and Miss Mildred, daughter of Mrs. Mark Rathburn, were united in marriage by the Rev. J. M. Fisher, at Hantsport, Wednesday evening, July 28th.

DON'T SET THE CART BEFORE THE HORSE.

The cart is your business, the horse to pull the load is advertising. Some merchants say "I will advertise when business is better. I cannot afford it now." That is setting the cart before the horse. The way to make business better is to advertise. Advertising really costs nothing, because it costs more than pays for itself if done wisely and well. Persistent Advertising Pays.

Mr. Johnson was a most valued member of the Wolfville Baptist church for over thirty years, having also served in the office of deacon. He will be greatly missed in the community, where, during a long life time, he was everywhere known and respected for his upright and integrity. He kept himself remarkably well informed and could converse most interestingly on any subject. Mr. Johnson was one of the pioneer promoters of progressive orcharding and was regarded as a recognized authority in horticulture. The high state of perfection attained in the cultivation of his own orchard testified to the neat and diligent study he had given to the subject. Visitors who recognized him as one of the 'show places' of the town, frequently spoke of the value of the hints received from Mr. Johnson in the solution of horticultural problems. His son, Ernest, now residing on the homestead, is one of the most expert, wide awake and up-to-date farmers in the Province. The warm sympathy of the church and town is extended to the daughter and son, Mrs. George H. Higgins, of New York, and Ernest H., at home. Mrs. Johnson predeceased her husband by seven years. In the absence of the Wolfville pastor, funeral services were conducted at the home by Rev. M. C. Higgins, a close friend of the bereaved family, on Monday. The interment was in Willow Brook.

Patriotic Mass Meeting.

On Wednesday evening a very successful mass meeting was held at the Opera House for the purpose of observing the anniversary of the beginning of the great war in which the empire with her allies is now engaged. The attendance was large, considering the rather insufficient announcement, the Opera House being well filled. It is to be regretted, however, that more young men were not present. Mayor Pith presided and a number of citizens occupied seats on the platform. After the singing of the National Anthem prayer was offered by Rev. Dr. Perist, of Toronto. The chairman then, in a few appropriate remarks, stated the object of the meeting and introduced Dr. G. H. Todd, professor of History and Economics at Dalhousie University, as the chief speaker. Dr. Todd was greeted with applause, and his address was a most masterly one—the like of which had scarcely ever before been heard in Wolfville. The speaker cleverly reviewed the circumstances leading up to the war and fittingly contrasted German and British ideals. His address was couched in the choicest English and showed a perfect grasp of the subject under discussion. To attempt to give a review of the address could not but be unfair to the speaker. Dr. Todd held the closest attention of the audience throughout. The chairman then called upon Mr. Charles Townsend to present a resolution as follows: Resolved, on this anniversary of the declaration of a righteous war, this meeting of the citizens of Wolfville records its indelible determination to continue to a victorious end the struggle in maintenance of those ideals of liberty and justice which are the common and sacred cause of the allies. This was seconded by Dr. Tufts in a highly informing address and unanimously passed. A letter was read from Mr. W. H. Chase, who was unavoidably absent, urging that Wolfville should provide at least five machine guns for the use of our boys at the front and offering on behalf of Mrs. Chase and himself the sum of $750 for that purpose. Dr. H. T. DeWolfe, who was then called upon by the chairman, gave a brief but forcible address in which he eloquently called upon the young men of the community to give themselves in this time of their country's need. Capt. W. M. Black was present in uniform to receive recruits should any offer. The meeting closed with 'God Save the King'.

Russian Munitions.

A New York paper says that during the forty eight hours preceding and following the declaration of war by Germany against Russia, the war munitions plants were put out of business by incendiary fires and dynamite explosions. The Russians always have felt justified in crediting the destruction of their munitions plants at this critical period in their history to the work of German spies or through the use of German money. During the tumult that followed the declaration of a state of war between Germany and Russia, the outside world knew nothing of the devastation wrought to the Russian army by its enemy, although it now develops that some men who were caught red handed were shot or hanged. The strict censorship then maintained at Petrograd and other Russian cities prevented any knowledge of the disasters from reaching the outside world. That the blow struck by Germany against Russia, however, was pretty thorough and complete is evidenced by the fact that only within the last three months have any of these armaments been restored to working conditions and with a minimum of output, inadequate to supply more than one-fourth of the actual needs of the Russian military forces. Russia's allies have been helping as well as they could, but they could not supply so great a deficiency. However, every effort is being made to aid Russia. War material is now being rushed across the ocean from the United States, and it is stated preference is given in the factories, by general consent, to the orders from Russia. When the tables are turned and she ceases the role of invader she will be better prepared for the task than ever before. The government has evinced a hearty interest in the work being done by The Overseas Club in the direction of furnishing tobacco for the soldiers at the front. In order to further the work being done, notice has been sent to the various post-masters by the department urging them to give the matter their earnest co-operation and support. Wolfville people who wish to subscribe to this worthy object will fill the collecting card at the money order window at the post office where subscriptions will be gladly received and forwarded.

HOW LONG WILL THE WAR LAST?

The War Against Health Is Quickly Ended By "Fruit-a-lives".

MRS. DEWOLFE

"It is with great pleasure that I write to tell you of the wonderful benefit I have received from taking 'Fruit-a-lives'. For years I was a dreadful sufferer from Constipation and Headaches, and I was miserable in every way. Nothing in the way of medicines seemed to help me. Then I finally tried 'Fruit-a-lives' and the effect was splendid. After taking one box, I felt like a new person and I am deeply thankful to have relief from those sickening headaches."

Kinship.

There's a figure in the trenches,
Hollow-cheeked and anxious-eyed,
With the spectre of destruction
Ever moaning by his side;
He's been a time for morals,
Or to think about his soul;
He's too occupied with business,
Keeping mind and body whole,
But it's not his fault he's fighting
In this Armageddon grim—
Liberty called to the Empire,
And the Empire called to him;
And his wounds are borne for others,
Bloodied flesh and shattered bone—
He is suffering for evil,
Though his sin is not his own!

There's a woman in a kitchen
Flourishing through her daily grind,
With the horror of the trenches
Ever present to her mind;
And she fears to see the papers
For a certain column there,
Sons the names with apprehension,
Reads each item with a prayer;
Dreads a telegram or letter,
Trembles as she waits alone—
She is suffering for evil,
Though the sin is not his own!

There's a figure on a hilltop
Hanging on a cross of shame,

REMARKABLE CASE OF Mrs. HAM

Declares Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Saved Her Life and Sanity.

Shamrock, Mo.—"I feel it my duty to tell the public the condition of my health before taking your medicine. I had falling, inflammation, kidney weakness, pains in both sides, backaches and bearing down pains, was short of memory, nervous, impatient, passed sleepless nights, and had neither strength nor energy. There was always a fever and dead in my mind, I had cold, nervous, weak spells, hot flashes over my body. I had a pain in my right side that was so sore that I could hardly bear the weight of my clothes. I tried medicine and doctors, but they did me little good, and I never expected to get out again. I got Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier, and certainly would have been in grave or in an asylum if your medicine had not saved me. But now I can work all day, sleep well at night, eat anything I want, have no hot flashes or weak, nervous spells. All pains, aches, fevers and dizziness are gone, my bones, children and husband are no longer troubled, as I am almost entirely free of the bad symptoms I had before taking your medicine, and all in pleasure and happiness in my home."

—Mrs. Anna Clark, R. F. D. 1, Box 25, Shamrock, Mo.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA
The much traveled young man had just returned from foreign climes, and of course, he must entertain his rich old aunt (with whom he was in favor) with stories of the wonderful sights he had seen.
"Yes," he said in the course of his remarks, "there are some spectacles that can never be forgotten."
"Dear me!" exclaimed the absent minded old lady, "I do wish you would get me a pair of them, John."

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA
Parvus took his wife and two other ladies to lunch at the Carlton. As they seated themselves, Mrs. Parvus whispered to her husband: "Ask for a menu, Jack."
Parvus pulled out his chest and chuckled.
"One menu only?" he said. "One menu for four? No, no, I'll do the thing well now I've started. Here, waiter, four menus—fresh ones, mind, and see that they're not overdone."

While the rabble surging round Him
Mock his wounds and, curse His name;
Crucified with malefactors,
He who once refused a throne—
He is suffering from evil.
Though the sin is not his own!
Ye who hear the nations struggle,
Thinking freedom highly priced,
Ye have kinship with the Master,
Ye are suffering with Christ!

The Hope of the Future

The convincing and unanswerable argument for the prohibition of the liquor traffic is the child. He is, as well, the most important factor to be considered in our future plans for freeing the nation and the world from the drink evil. Some things may be neglected and no serious loss will result therefrom. One thing is imperative—that the children and the young people be trained to carry on to completion the work our organization represents.

Edward A. Steiner, that keen student of life, emphasized a truth of which we used constantly to remind ourselves when he roared to us as acquaintances who loathed to see a church to which he belonged was known as "the church of the automobiles." "There is no future for a church like that. The future belongs to the church of the baby carriages."

Only the cause that grips the hearts of the little children, only the movement that enlists them in its service can be certain of its future.

Why are we today responsible for bountiful harvests of prohibition victories? Because fifteen, twenty, thirty years ago, there were seen in the intellects and souls of little children a hatred of the liquor evil and a longing to eradicate it.

How about the future mayors and city fathers, legislators, congressmen and senators, who are growing up in your town or city? Are they being instructed and trained in a well conducted Loyal Temperance League? Are they enlisting as Young Campaigners for prohibition? If not, what assurance have you that the future prohibition laws is safe in their hands?

Make the future your debtor by detaching some of your leisure to the work among the children in your community, and winning them to lifetime of consecrated service to God and Home and Every Land.

This Is The Day The Lord Hath Made

FOR REST
My Sabbath is God's gift to me and every man. As I love the gift, I will value the gift. In it I will do no needless work, nor will I ask of or do such work for me or mine.

FOR WORSHIP
My Sabbath is my Lord's. Though I gave the Day to me, yet He claims it as His own. He invites me to meet Him each Sabbath with my heart, to share His companionship and to taste His joys which never surfeit and which never cease. My Sabbath is my trust with my Lord.

FOR HUMAN BEINGS
My Sabbath is not mine alone. I am my neighbor's too. I will not offend my neighbor. As I would defend my own right to his, so will I defend His. For my Sabbath would not be so sweet to me, and my Lord would surely grieve, if my neighbor lost his Sabbath while I selfishly kept my own—Wm. P. Swartz.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children. The Kind You Have Always Bought Bears the Signature of J. C. Watson

Irene and Helen, two little sisters, went to visit their grandmother in the country. It was their first visit away from the city and they were surprised and delighted at everything. They were especially interested in the chickens and loved to hunt for the newly laid eggs.

Their grandmother cautioned them children never to take away the nest egg. Their strife to see who could find most eggs was great. One morning Irene reached a nest first. Seizing the forbidden egg she started for the house.

"O, grandmother!" shouted Helen, hurrying after her sister, "Irene's got the egg the old hen measures by!"

CANADA'S COAL MINES

Loss of Workmen in European War May Start Export From Here

Will the great war be the means of bringing Canada to the front as a producer and exporter of coal? The coal resources of Canada are estimated at something over 1,200 billion tons of easily workable coal, with an additional 17 billion tons at depths greater than 4,000 feet, which could be used as a last reserve. The war nations of Europe before the war produced annually some 765 million tons of coal of which Great Britain is credited with 322 million tons.

This is one of the few industries in which women cannot take the place of men, and devastated Europe must soon turn somewhere to replenish her diminishing coal supply. With her enormous coal reserves, Canada has been importing nearly one-half of the total coal consumed within her borders. This is partly due to the lack of coal in the middle provinces of Ontario and Quebec, which are at present the largest coal consumers, and which are much closer to the huge coal fields of Pennsylvania than to the eastern or western coal mines of Canada.

The total production of coal in Canada last year was 15,012,178 tons, and the number of men employed to mine this coal was about 28,900, of which 13,736 in the eastern provinces mined 7,950,000 tons. If Canada could export an appreciable amount of coal to Europe it would have to come from the Maritime Provinces, which are estimated to have a total reserve of 10,000,000,000 tons.

By far the largest coal fields in Canada are in Alberta, where the estimated reserve is over 1,000,000,000,000 tons, but the long haulage would make the article very expensive for the European consumer, although last year the output of the Alberta mines increased by nearly 21 per cent over the previous year. Last year the mines of Alberta produced 3,200,000 tons, valued at $8,000,000, and employed 6,650 men.

If Canada can develop her coal industry extensively this looks like her great opportunity. The coal resources of the Dominion are second to those of no country in the world, but the distribution of population has up to the present prevented full advantage being taken of them. If Canada wants the business it is knocking at her door, for the United States, at present the world's largest producer of coal, needs every ton for home consumption.

FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE

Not Confined to Cattle and is Very Contagious—Some of the Causes

The foot and mouth disease in cattle is highly contagious and infectious, due to a specific virus and characterized by vesicular eruptions in the mouth, between the clouts, around the corners and often in other regions, says a writer in The Farmer's Advocate.

In some cases the mouth only is affected, while in others the eruptions appear only in the feet. In other cases the udder and teats are often involved. In such cases the milk is unfit for use. While cattle are more susceptible than other classes of stock, others are not immune, as sheep, pigs, dogs, poultry and even horses are sometimes attacked, and even the human being is not exempt.

Like all other contagious diseases, it can be caused only by the introduction of the virus or contagion into the system of healthy animals. In diseased animals the virus exists in discharge from the eyes and nostrils, as well as in the fecal matter which is highly charged with the excretion of a source of great danger. Thus 'good or litter of any kind, as hay, grain, roots, grass or straw which has been contaminated with the saliva of diseased animals, becomes a carrier of the virus, and requires only to be ingested by oil or animals in order to propagate the disease. It is also readily conveyed from diseased to healthy animals by the hands or clothing of attendants, by rugs, blankets, pads or other table utensils. It is claimed that the disease can, and has been spread by diseased cattle wading through and defecating in streams, which subsequently coursed through healthy districts. There is no doubt that the disease often follows the course of a stream.

Deep Working Land

Adapted for agricultural purposes, a new subsoiling implement has been invented in Australia which may be used either independently or in conjunction with regular plowing. The device is provided with a U shaped blade which extends in the ground to a depth of from 12 to 30 inches and makes a cut 14 inches wide, lifting the soil some what and breaking it up without turning it to the top. The blade is fast to a framework which at the front carries a guide wheel and is provided with plough handles. Another type of the same implement is built with a frame which is carried on wheels, allowing the driver either to ride or walk while doing the subsoiling work. The blade may also be used back of the stores of a double-furrow plow. A somewhat different implement used for draining purposes, is provided with both U and V shaped blades, and is fitted with a mold board so that the soil is

USES FOR STALE BREAD

Not a crust of stale bread should be thrown away, for it is not only useful for the crumbs which every housekeeper keeps on hand to use in trying and scalloping, but may be used in countless other ways. Toast, of course, is always better when made from yesterday's bread, and to make good toast is no mean art. Buttered toast, which makes a very good luncheon dish, is made from slightly stale bread. Heat a dish and stand it over hot water; toast several evenly sliced pieces of bread and spread them generously with slightly softened butter. Sprinkle with salt, place them in the hot dish and stand for a minute or two in a hot oven; serve in a covered dish.

Milk toast is delicious when properly made, but it is so simple that people are apt to make it carelessly. Here is a recipe that, faithfully followed, makes perfect milk toast. Make a dry toast, spread with butter and sprinkle with salt. Place it in the dish in which it is to be served. Pour over it a little boiling water; cover and place in the oven for a few minutes to steam.

Put into a saucepan one teaspoonful of butter. When it bubbles, stir in a teaspoonful of flour and let it cook without coloring. Add slowly, stirring all the time, one cupful of milk. Cook until slightly thickened and add a saltspoonful of salt. Pour this thickened milk over the softened toast just before serving.

Stale bread as crumbs or soaked in milk, custard, or stock, may be used in the making of many sweet puddings, such as bread and butter pudding, apple Betty, plum pudding, cheese pudding, etc.

Starting Evening Gown
Madame Paquin, who for her aid in the industries of France" was decorated with the cross of the Legion of Honor does more, perhaps, than any other woman to set the fashions of the world. Some of her creations might be considered rather extreme in Canada, as, for instance the "sleeveless, backless" evening gown shown. The upper arm is covered merely with rows of crystal and bead trimming.

Now, Mr. Black, said the temperance advocate to a candidate for municipal honors, "I want to ask you a question. Did you ever take alcoholic drinks?"
"Before I answer the question," replied the young candidate, "I want to know whether it is just as an inquiry or as an invitation."
"How are you going to spend the summer?"
"I've rented a cottage again, and I suppose I'll spend it in the kitchen, cooking fish for our city friends to eat the way I did last year."

WENTZELLS Spring and Summer Catalogue is ready

That's the best news careful housekeepers have had for many a long day. Recognizing the efforts of the "Big Store" to serve the interests of the people, particularly at the present time, such an overwhelming demand was received for our last catalogue—Fall and Winter—that we ran short of them considerably earlier in the season than usual. The result was that for a short time past we have been unable to supply copies to the hundreds of new names requesting it. However, the new catalogue is ready.

If it is possible, it is more complete than ever. A bigger range is listed and the greatest care has been taken in the pricing. If your name is not on our mailing list and if you desire a copy just cut out, fill in and mail the coupon below.
