ELECTROCUTED IN VIEW OF CROWD.

One Man Killed by Current and Another Shocked Falls From Roof.

Forty Policemen Wounded and Many Hoodlums Hurt in Calcutta Riot.

New York, Oct. 4.—In full view of a throng in the street one man was instantly killed and another mortally injured last night by an electric current in Brooklyn. The victims were Jacob S. Slinbach, 21 years old, Joseph Weich, 23 years old.

The accident was the result of the entanglement of a banner announcing a pleasure club outing in a number of electric wires. The banner was strung from the roof of a small hotel. Slinbach and Weick volunteered to free the banner.

Unknown to any one, the wires supporting had become crossed with a 'live" electric wire. Slingach grasped the banner wire. The instant he did so he fell back dead on the hotel roof. His companion, Weick, who had seized the wire panion, Weick, who had seized the wire at the same time, received a shock which sent him reeling off the roof head fore-

His body was found about sixty miles from Regina, partly eaten by wolves. The story of the finding of such a body was confirmed, but the murder theory was not. The man had evidently left the crew when winter came on and started for the nearest station, which, however, he did not reach. The man was described as about 55 years of age, with a few gray hairs, and carrying an extra suit of clothes. Mr. Culbert's people are greatly distressed.

MAY INVOLVE CITY IN COSTLY LAW SUIT.

East Enders Who Paid for Sewer Will Bring Action Against the City

And Will Look for the Same Terms as the Council Gave to Ald Farrar.

onsiderable warm talk in the Council, and of vague hints of graft, threatens to tangle the city up in a lawsuit. Mayor Stewart vigorously denounced the Council's action in granting the doughty aldcil's action in granting the doughty alderman a connection for a rental of 85 a year, à concession that no one else, except a party who got a connection through a clerk's error, was given. The Mayor declared there was nothing to justify it. That is the view some of the people who contributed liberally towards the fund for building the sewer take, and they say that if Ald. Farrar gets his connection on the terms set down, an action will be begun immediately against the city. People who follow municipal matters closely say there is no reason why all those who have contributed to the cost of the sewer should not get just as good terms as Ald. Farrar. They will try it, anyway.

Foreman Towers, who was instructed by the City Engineer to inspect the Street Railway's cars and see if the or-der of the Ontario Railway Board reder of the Ontario Railway Board respecting repairs and improvements had been complied with, said to-day he thought it would be unfair to make a report at the present time, while the company is making the changes. TWO CHICAGO LOVE TRAGEDIES; TWO WOMEN BADLY INJURED.

Both Were Shot, One by Her Husband and the Other by Jealous Lover.

CITY IN A FIX OVER

Chicago, Oct. 4.—Two women were shot and probably fatally wounded in Chicago last evening—one by her husband, who later committed suicide, and another by a jealous suitor whom she had rejected. The two cases were entirely separate, but both women now are at St. Elizabeth's hospital.

Haines, Mrs. Mary, 23 years old, 178 North Wood street, shot in head by her husband, Lloyd Haines, a laborer, who then shot himself, dying almost instantly.

Maurno, Mrs. Loretta, 30 years old, 133 Grand avenue, shot three times in back by Joseph Stodricia, laborer, who lives at 173 Grand avenue. Stodricia was arrested and confessed.

The shooting of Mrs. Maurno occurred on the sidewalk in Grand avenue in front of Stodricia's house. Both are Italians. Mrs. Maurno was passing and was seen by Stodricia, She had left her husband three months ago and since that time the man had tried to force his attentions on her, without success.

HYDRO-ELECTRIC POWER. New Pumps a Pressing Necessity, But No Information at Hand Yet.

The city is in a nice fix over the question of Hydro-Electric power and new pumps for the Beach station. A spe-cial meeting of the Fire and Water Committee was held at noon to see what should be done about getting tenders, and it was then that the aldermen discovered they would have to mark time until the question of which power is to be used was settled. K. L. Atkin, the electrical expert, who is applying for the job of superintending the installation of the pumps, wrote saying it would be impossible to draw specifications until the power to be used was decided upon. The lower cycle power, the Hydro-Electric, he explained, would require a more expensive motor than the other. The necessity of getting the pumps at once is quite apparent, but it looks as if there was going to be a serious delay waiting for definite figures and information on the Hydro power. should be done about getting tenders, the Hydro power.

Mr. Atkin wants about $1,200 for overseeing the installation of the pumps and doing other work in connection with their purchase. He says that what the and doing other work in connection with their purchase. He says that what the city will benefit by being sure of what it is getting will more than make up for the expenditure. In the meantime Secre-tary James was instructed to get in touch with two or three other engineers and see what their prices are.

Chairman Clark said he had discussed the matter with General Manager Myler, the matter with General Manager Myler, of the Westinghouse Works, and the representative of the Worthington pumps. They advised him that it would be at least eight months after the order was piaced before the pumps could be delivered. They estimate the two sixmillion gallon pumps would cost $15,000 angle.

On the advice of City Clerk Kent, the committee decided to-day to increase the insurance on the Victoria avenue fire station and a shed adjoining from $1,000 to $2,000, and on the Bay street station from $1,000 to $2,000. Mr. Kent also advised an increase on the Central station from $3,500 to $5,500, but the committee thought this was sufficiently covered, the total insurance on all the Central property and King William street station being $10,000. Some of the addermen thought that the danger of fire in the stations was reduced to a minimum with the firemen on duty all the time. Mr. Kent said there was a little fire the other day in the Central station, caused by electric wires, while the company was responding to an alarm.

"I think we should devise some scheme to provide insurance ourselves," said Alderman Peregrine. "A lot of money goes that way every year."

Jordan smiled and cast down his eyes.

"And I never thought of it!" muttered Lavarick, with honest shame and remorse. "I never thought of it, so help me! Sir Jordan, you're a clever man, and I admire you! And to prove it I say—done with you."

And he held out his claw-like hand.

He stopped and his face darkened with an evil scowl.

Jordan watched him.

"Whether you stay or go is your business," he said, coldly. "I have only to arrange for the—the exchange—"

Lavariek noddde.

"Tve thought of that," he said. "Bring the money—I'll take it in notes. Oh, I'm not afraid you'll stop them. You couldn't without causing an inquiry, you know. Bring the notes to Lynne Burrows on Friday night at ten o'clock. I'll meet you by the clump of trees."

You're so clever, you see. Think of your hitting upon the idea of my forging a duplicate! No, no. We're safe, both of us, in the Burrows."

Jordan pondered a moment or two. "Why Friday?" he said, sharply. "The will is not in your possession?"

"Why Friday?" he said, sharply. "The will is not in your possession?"

Well, this will's worth almost as much to me as they are to you. I've got it hid away snug and safe, and I'll produce it on Friday, as I say. I'm not afraid you'll go back on me. "Very well," said Jordan, "I have no more to say," he added, after a pause, and he glanced significantly at the door and laid his hand on the bell.

"Go on."

"Well," resumed Lavarick, huskily, "my girl was all the world to me, and off anything would have kept me straight, she would; but I'm one of those who can't go straight. I suppose there's something in the blood that drives a man to the devil whether he will or won't. I'm a bad lot, I know; but I was fond and proud of my girl, and the worst part of the business when I was sent off was the thought that I was leaving her all alone and without any leaving her all alone and without any one to look after her." He paused and cleared his throat.

He paused and cleared his throat.

"It was the dreadful longing to see her that drove me to breaking out of quod. I thought if I could get away and take her to some place on the other side of the herring pond, she and me could make a fresh start. Well, I got out," he continued, with a touch of pride in his tone, "and I risked everything to come down here and see her. I knew I was running into danger, just putting my head into the lion's mouth, as you'd say; but I risked it. And when I got down here I found"—he stopped and turned his head away—"I found that my Rachel had gone."

Jordan still gazed at his boots, wardly calm and indifferent, but his heart was beating nineteen to the dozen, and his brain was hard at work.

"She was gone. That was bad enough, but there was worse behind. My girl had fallen into bad hands. Some villain had—had played her false, and she'd gone off with him."

the ears of a man in your place. I want to find her." He stammered hoarsely. "I don't care what she's done; she's my girl, my Rachel still, and I want her. But I want the man that ruined her worse! I've sworn—look here, Sir Jordan, most good men like yourself, for instance," and he laughed, grimly, "say their prayers at night. I'm not 'good' anyway, and, instead, I've sworn an oath every night before I've laid down that I'd have my revenge on the man that robbed me of my girl. And if he's alive and I can find him, I'll keep that oath!"

He raised his clenched hand as he spoke and swore fearfully.

"That's all I wanted to ask you," he said. "Just answer it, and I'm off. Just tell me anything you may have heard—anything might give me a clue. Why, look here—"and he struck the small table so that the letters danced again—"I'd rather lose the money I'm to get from you than give up my hope of revenge upon the villain that ruined my little girl."

It was at that moment that an inspiration visited Jordan. It came as a flash as most inspirations do, and its suddenness sent the blood to his pale face.

"You will get into trouble, my good Banks," he said, gravely. "You had better forget your daughter and put yourself beyond the reach of the polict."

Lavarick laughed, a gruesome lind of laugh.

"You think so. Well, look here; if the Lavarick laughed, a gruesome lind of laugh.

"You think so. Well, look here; if the man I want was standing with a policyman on each side of him I'd fly at his throat and as I choked him I'd say I'm Jim Banks, the father of the girl you ruined!' and I'd kill him and be hanged for it afterward."

Jordan turned pale, and his eyes hid themselves under their thick lids.
"I—I scarcely know whether I should be justified in telling you," he began, hesitatingly.

Lavarick turned upon him eagtrly.
"You know something!" he exclaumed. "What is it. Tell me!"

Jordan bit his lip softly as if still considering, then he said, slowly:
"I cannot refuse a father's appeal."

Lavarick swore impatiently.
"Curse that!" he said, hoarsely. "Out with what you know."

Jordan rose and looked down at the carpet pensively.
"You say that your daughter's name was Rachel?" he said.

"You say that your daughter's name was Rachel!" he said.

"Rachel!" assented Lavarick, huskily.
What is it? What do you know?" Jordan sighed.

"Heaven knows whether I am acting "Heaven knows whether I am acting wisely in—in telling you what I know," he said, "and if I do so it in the hope that I may aid you to recover your daughter—not that you may wreak your vengeance upon her betrayer. I think I saw her but once or twice as I passed through the town. I should not remember her if I were to meet her again—"
"Go on!" broke in Lavarick, impatiently.

"You must let me tell you in my own way," said Jordan, rebukingly, "Did you know my half brother, Neville?" he asked, as if with painful reluctance.

Lavarick started.

"No," he said. "He was at college, I suppose, when I was at home here. I never saw him. What—why—"

"Wait," said Jordan, almost gently. "Wait here for a moment."

He went out and returned after a minute or so with a letter in his hand, down with the gait, and, indeed, the exminute or so with a letter in ms name, down with the gait, and, indeed, the expression, of a tiger thirsting for blood, stopped and glared at him.

"What's that?" he asked.

Jordan held the letter firmly.

"I do not know, as I said, whether I am acting wisely in showing you this. I am not convinced that it—er—brings

But I am ashamed to say that my half-brother Neville was as wilful and obstinate as he was vicious. He persisted in his evil courses; a stormy scene ensued between my father and him, and then Neville disappeared. I fear—I greatly fear that he persuaded your unhappy daughter to accompany him.

Lavariek stood white and trembling. "Is this one of your lies?" he got out at last. "Is this a dodge of yours to come over me?"

Jordan shook his head.

"You do right to distrust me, Banks," he said, "but I am telling you the truth. Why should I concoct this story! My brother Neville is doubtless dead, and deed if I did not think so. I should not be deed if I did not think so. I should not be deed if I did not think so. I should not be a significant to the story."

a sneer.
"You hate him," he said, hoarsely.

"You hate him," he said, hoarsely.
"But that's nothing to do with me. Give me proofs. What's that in your hand?"
"The proof you ask for," said Jordan, and then, as if reluctantly, he handed Lavariek the paper.
It was an old letter which had apparently been partly burned. The date and the commencement were destroyed, but the body and the signature remained.
Lavarick seized it and examined it,
then he glared up at Jordan.
"It's—it's her handwriting!" he said, hoarsely. "It's her name—Rachel's!"
and he dashed his hand on the signature.

and he dashed his hand on the signature.

"You recognize it?" said Jordan, gravely, almost pityingly: "It's a heartrending letter; the appeal of a helpless girl to the man who has ruined and deserted her."

"Where—where did you get it from?"
demanded Lavarick, wiping his eyes as if the sight of the familiar handwriting had blinded them.

WANT $12,000 MORE.

In our comments of vesterday on the increase in taxes to result from the addition of $2,653,124 to the assessment. which will mean approximately $50,000, the Times said: "Now, will next year's Council cut their coat according to the cloth on hand, or will they merely increase their spending so as to be as far behind as ever at the end of the year?

We made that comment in the belief that it would fit the case, and that with the usual demagogy, or lack of good business sense, that is unfortunately mon in public bodies the spending of the increase rather than its application to cleaning up debts, would be planned before its collection was assured.

And we do not need to wait for next year's Council to move to justify that . Last night the Internal Management Committee of the Board of Education made the first move. In the face of a steady and very large increase of expenditure by the Board, it propo to abolish the collection of school fees collected for books and supplies fur nished, and demand from the Council $12,000 additional to make good the deficit caused thereby. The matter was brought up by Dr. Carr and Mr. Wodell, the former declaring that he was elected on that plank, and expressing the opinion that the increased tax to be collected next year would more than make it up. nething was also heard about the hardship of collecting fees from the poor workingman, when there was the Council to appeal to for the money lost by foregoing the fees. Mr. Callaghan did not feel very sure about the wisdom of the proposal, but he had heard that there was a 10 per cent. shortage of labor in the city, and perhaps the abolition of school fees might attract workingmen here. Mr. Howell thought the demand for the abolition of the fees, and for $12,000 more taxes on the people to nsate therefor, came only from the Board; and in reply to the plea that it would be "popular," he said it would also be popular to reduce water ratesa very apt illustration. It is possible that the Board may be collecting higher fees than are necessary to pay for the supplies, but that justify the proposal to abolish fees entirely. Moreover, if a balance remains to go into the school funds, it is taken from those directly benefiting by the schools. There has been no clamor for abolition of the fees, and there is a well-grounded and growing feeling that cheap to be appreciated, and at great expense to the taxpayer.

And the parents of the children who pay the school fees are taxpayers. Very few of the parents where families. w of the parents whose families are being educated are not householders; and whether they own or rent, they pay the city charges on the properties occupied, directl or through the landlord. For the fees must be paid, whether collected by the teachers or by the City Tax Collector. A resolution of the School Board to graciously forbear collecting fees to the extent of $12,000 does not mean that the $12,000 must not be paid, and to the last dime. The trustees have magic wand, or Aladdin's lamp, or King Midas' touch, that they can effectively order or wish to relieve th people of thousands, while giving equal vice. All they can do is refuse to lect from the pupils the small fee to cover cost of the pupils' books and supplies, and ask the city to levy an additional tax to take it out of the pupils' parents.

without its good features—that the School Board simply makes its estimate and the Council levies the tax required, has been called into question by reason of injudiciousness, sometimes body, sometimes in the other. If there are to be many moves such as the In ternal Management Committee began last night, the taxpayers may be led give the Board more attention than has been their wont, and a demand will spring up that the Board of Education levy and collect its own taxes. In that vill be brought home to each citi. zen the burden it is steadily piling up.

J. J. Hill is quoted as saying that the age of railroad building is past. But Once he said Manitoba would never grow wheat; but it will soon be one big wheat field. Why, even now the United States railroads are trying to raise five billion dollars to extend and perfect their systems; and Canada is contributing its to refute his dictum. Has J. J. some scheme in view?

It is announced that the report that an interim dividend will soon be paid to York County Loan shareholders is unauthorized, and that "it will be some considerable tim eyet before any divi-dend can be paid." The liquidator thinks "it may be a year or longer." But the lawyers are making hay while the sun

The Board of Education will not let the schools be used for polling booths. In response to the Council's request it is proposed to abolish school fees and ask for $12,000 more taxes.

Inspector Ballard's confidential report would-be headsman os whetting the guillotine knife for the "incompetents" on the teaching staff.

The London Free Press says "it is announced that the government end of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway is to cost $25,000,000 more than was estimated." Who announced it?

A perfect "carnival of bargains," Nothing else will quite fill a description of the great Managers' sale now going on at Stanley Mills & Co.'s. This is undoubtedly the greateses' sale ever undertaken by this popular store, and the thousands of genuine bargains offered attest to the wonderful purchasing power that the Stanley Mills & Co. organization has. For months the department menagers have been looking forward to this sale, and the results of their work and preparing is now seen in the multitude of extraordinary values being offered. WAS VERY SUDDEN.

Death of Mrs. Mary Kitchen, a Respected Resident.

Sudden was the call that Mrs. Kitchen received vesterday afternoon. After announcing to her family that she felt better than she had been feeling for some months, she was found dead, lying on her bed, by her daughter, Miss Viola Kitchen, who entered the bedroom about five minutes after Mrs. Kitchen had gone in. Mrs. Kitchen had been ill with heart trouble for some time and up to a few days ago had been suffering, but a day or two ago she said she was feeling bet or two ago she said she was feeling bet-ter, and yesterday was feeling so much better that she decided to go out to get some fresh air. She had gone upstairs to dress and it is thought that she laid down to rest on the bed for a few modress and it is though that she had down to rest on the bed for a few moments, and passed away. Deceased was 50 years of age, and had been a resident of this city for almost all that time. She was born in Ancaster township, but the family moved to the city shortly after. She was the daughter of the late Jacob Kreamer, and leaves two sisters and two brothers. The sisters are Mrs. Carrie DeGear, of San Gabriel, California, and Miss Lizzie Kreamer, of this city, and the brothers, Wallace Kreamer, of British Columbia, and Theodore, of this city. Her own family consists of two daughters and one sou, Mrs. George Shields, of this city, and Miss Viola, at home, and Horace Kitchen. The funeral will take place on Saturday at 3.30 p. m., from 186 Hughson street north.

Piano Recital.

One of the attractions at the Managers' sale at Stanley Mills & Co.'s this weel, is the playing of Mr. N. H. Hodgins, of Toronto. Mr. Hodgins is a composer of much popular music, and his rendering of his own compositions is a decided treat. Among Mr. Hodgins' most pegular pieces will be found; "My Ideal," "Elmore Polka Two Step," "Our Own Waltz," "Southern Airs," "Cayuga Two Step," "Almost Persuaded." The price of these pieces during the managers' sale will be 15c each. Go and hear Mr. Hodgins' mlaying to-morrow.

The divorce action of the Countess against Bomi was one that stirred the United States and Europe, not only because of the sensational revelations brought out in the charges of the wealthy American girl, but because of the political affiliations of the Count as a member of the Chamber of Deputies and the duels in which he had been "successfully" involved., M. The Countess charged cruelty and the reekless expenditure of her vast Jay Gould fortune. The case was one of the most conspicuous that has been brought into the public limelight for years. Richmond, Va., Oct. 4.—At the convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church yesterday the diocese of Springfield, Ill., sent a petition asking communicants to aid in the building fund for the Cathedral of Saints Peter and Paul at Washington and to remember it in their wills. A resolution was then adopted commending the construction of the national cathedral.

Several memorials were received in both houses looking to the re-marriage of divorced persons. In both houses a concurrent resolution was adopted, expressing satisfaction that a high moral position had been taken on this subject since the last general convention and the hope that positive action would be taken at the present convention.

The house of deputies received a message from the women's auxiliary announcing that at the thank-offering services to-day the offerings amounted to $222,353. At the convention three years ago the offering was $130,000.

THREATENS WIFE. Paris, Ont., Woman Leaves Her Hus

North Tonawanda, Oct. 4.—Another interesting chapter in the life of William King, of Rumbold avenue, was enacted to-day, when his wife applied to Commissioner of Charities Schaver for transportation for herself and four small children to Paris, Ont.

King is the man who was taken into custody while trying to gain admittance to the White House about three years ago for the purpose, as he put it, tance to the White House about three years ago for the purpose, as he put it, of furnishing President Roosevelt with instructions as to how to run the Government. King was in prison several months for the offence. Peculiar actions in Detroit soon after his release from the jail at Washington caused the police of the Michigan metropolis to take King into custody.

While the authorities consider the man's mental qualities decidedly off color, they have not been able to find that there was sufficient derangement to necessitate his treatment for the disease. He was examined a year ago to determine his mental condition, but the physicians who made the examination found that the man was sane at that time.

William Davy, Toronto, and William Gray, York street, were arrested by Detectives Bleakley and Campbell this morning on a charge of stealing two electric light globes from Charles Hartman's Hotel. They pleaded not guilty, and elected to have a summary trial. Hartman says he missed the globes a short time after he had seen these men leave his place, and meeting the two detectives, he had them arrested and searched, and the globes were found in their pockets. Gray being sworn, said that he did not know a thing about the globes, and had ont seen them, and when Davy was sworn, he said that Gray stole them from the hotel and gave them to him. The Magistrate settled the dispute by finding them both guilty of theft and remanding them for sentence.

to Suit Railways.

New York, Oct. 4.—There is said to be a hitch in the negotiations now in progress looking to the manufacture of a perfect steel rail because the steel rail manufacturers assert they cannot make the rail demanded by the committee of the American Railway Association. It is on the chemical composition of the steel that the railway men and the steel makers cannot agree. The railway committee wants a rail low in phosphorus and high in carbon, with a quarter of the mosten mass at the ingot cut off as a "discard."

"A credit man may increase his yearly record of sales by unrestricted liberality to good credits, but in five years' time his house will have made a lesser showing as to total sales than if he had exercised some friendly restriction on individual orders. Many of his customers may have been more successful, have lasted longer and in the end have proved larger customers because of this personal oversight and advice.

"It is also possible that the percentage of loss during one year's time may be kept down equally as well by the cold, unsympathetic credit man, who withdraws credit at the first alarm and who acts on appearances only. But he will lose some good accounts, and in the long run the percentage of losses to volume of business will be in favor of the man who takes a personal and friendly interest in the welfare of his customers. Most frequently it is purely a matter of personal regard founded on mutual respect and intimacy in business."

He is a member of one of the best county families of England, and is of distinguished ancestry. He had inherited a arge fortune, and the estates from when he derived his income had for many generations been in the possession of those of his race.

Father, Enraged, Departs.

This so angered the father that he decided to leave the country. He gathered all the cash which was available, about one thousand pounds, and made his arrangements to ge to the United States with the woman to whom he had become attached as his companion. His love for bis children seems to have lingered to some extent, for he went to the school where they were staying and, under the pretence of taking them for an outing, get them away from their instructors and brought them and his companion to this vountry.

get them away from their instructors, and brought them and his companion to this country.

His wife's attorneys at once informed the Justices of his action. He was declared to be in contempt of court and an order of sequestration was issued not only against his house in London but against his country seat, which was one of the show places in a shire renowned for its romantic and historic interest. By this means the recreant husband and father could not avail himself of the use or income of property valued at a quarter of a million doilars.

He lived at the best hotels when he came to New York, and the woman for whoah he had abandoned his social position was introduced by him as his wife. He placed his sons in a boarding school for boys on Long Island not far from this city, paying their board and tuition for a term in advance. The man and the other woman lived lavishly in the metropolis until his funds were practically exhausted. In order to replenish his dwindling resources he instructed his London solicitors to sell his English property and to send him a draft for the proceeds as quickly as possible. It was then that he learned for the first time of the decree of the court which seques of the decree of the court which seques-

His Position Desperate.

His Position Desperate.

The woman in the case disappears at this point, for she was not of the stamp to submit to any economies. The man, after making some ineffectual efforts toward obtaining employment, realized that his position was desperate. If he could make some financial coup he felt certain that he could regain the object of his infatuation. He was forty years old and like many elder sons in England had never been trained to make his own way in the world. There was little or nothing which he knew would serve him to gain money as rapidly as he needed it. It It was then that he thought of one available asset on which he might raise money—the love of his wife for him and his children. It was this which led him to write a letter to his attorneys in England, threatening that unless the sum of $50,000 were forthcoming that he would kill his sons and then commit suicide. This information was sent to the solicitors of his wife. He subsequently sent a second message.

This information was sent to the solicitors of his wife. He subsequently sent a second message.

The legal representatives of his wife parlayed with the lawyers of the husband, although their client, in her anxiety and distress, declared that she was willing to make any sacrifice to prevent him from carrying out such a threat. Her solicitors meanwhile laid the facts before the High Court of Justice. That tribunal peremptorily summoned his attorneys before them and ordered them on pain of contempt to disclose the address of their client. They replied that they considered what he had written as a privileged communication, but the court, declaring that a threat to commit a crime had been made, ordered that the order be complied with without delay. His solicitors thereupon produced in court the original letters. They were written on the letter heads of the New York attorneys, but did not give the address of the writer. The English solicitors tors did not bring the envelopes in which the messages were disclosed, pleading that they had been destroyed. No clue as to the locality in which the Englishman had mailed the letters which might have been furnished by postmarks could therefore the obtained.

We are all better out of the way than that. So if she and the court deem it best that this should be so the onus rests with them. Please do not misunderstand me, for I mean every word of it, and have made up my mind some time since. Therefore, if either my wife or the court have any desire to protect the children they must accept my terms or one other arternative, which I now give for the first time (and this is the only one), viz., let me take £10,000 (ten thousand pounds) in cash and my personal effects and some furniture. If either of these proposals are agreed to within the time named I have no objection to coming alone to London to expedite the effectiment; not otherwise and only if it will expedite it. Names in High Places.

His wife was of equally good birth and station. The names of both are very well known in London, and would be recognized by many persons in New York were they mentioned.

The Englishman and his wife until recently seconed happy and contented in their married life. Iwo sons were born to them and the man was apparently user, y devoted to their education and wenter.

All this was changed by the advent of the caner woman. At first reports came to the wife of her husband's tiltation with one who moved in a circle enturely different from their own. She placed little credence in the story at first until affairs took such a turn that she was obliged to recognize that he was the victim of a foolish infatuation, for he abandoned her.

Although she still retained her affection for him, she then yielded to the advice of her friends after she saw that a reconciliation was impossible, and reluctantly brought suit in the High Court of Justice for the restoration of her conjugal rights.

Pending a decision, the English tribunal awarded to her the custody of the two boys, then six and eight years old, and directed that they be lett in the boarding school where they had been cent until their next vacation.

CURED IN 3. WEEKS BY CUTICURA COSTING $1.50

"After having the measles my whole head and neck were covered with scaly sores about as large as a penny. They were just as thick as they could be. My hair all came out. I let the trouble run along, taking the doctor's blood remedies and rubbing on salve, but it did not seem to get any better. It stayed that way for about six months; then I got a set of the Cuticura Remedies, and in about a week I noticed a big difference, and in three weeks it was well entirely and I have not had the trouble any more, and as this was seven years ago, I consider myself cured. I used one bottle of Cuticura Resolvent, one box of Cuticura Gintment, and two cakes of Cuticura Soap. I think it a splendid medicine, and I recommend it whenever I can. Women.

London, Oct. 4.—The theft of lady Suffield's jewels and another big jewel robbery at the Victoria Station have completed the consternation of society women, who prize their gems sufficiently now to forego the pleasure of wearing them at country house visits rather than run the risk of losing them entirely. Never have so few valuable lewels been worn as at this autumn's bal-send dinners. They are securely placed in safes and banks before the owner starts on a rousd of visits.

and banks before the owner starts on a rousd of visits.

This fear has penetrated even strong-minded Americans, for the Duchess of Marlborough's emeralds and the famous Vanderbilt pearls, which are her most prized jewels, have been placed in safe keeping, and Lady Cunard, whose rubies are the envy of her friends, has foregone the pleasure of wearing them for the greater pleasure of knowing that they are secure.

Board of Education Proposes to Increase the Burdens of the Aldermen.

Over 1,000 Pupils of City Schools Are Taking Domestic Science.

The Internal Management Committee of the Board of Education decided last night to again recommend that the collection of school fees from resident pupils in the Hamilton Public Schools be abolished. When the recommendation was sent up some months ago by the committee it was objected to on the ground that the estimates for the year had been struck and was referred back. Trustee Carr brought the matter up last night when, seconded by Trustee Wodel, he moved that, beginning with January, 1908, the collection of fees be abolished. A lively discussion followed. Trustee Carr argued that the increased taxes would more than make up for what would be lost by the fees, and emphasized the reduced cost of books as another good reason. The abolition of the school fees, he said, was one of the planks on which he was elected. With would more than make up for what would be lost by the fees, and emphasized the reduced cost of books as another good reason. The abolition of the school fees, he said, was one of the planks on which he was elected. With the increased cost of living Dr. Carr thought it was a hardship to make workingmen pay school fees for their children. "Times are better than they ever were children.

"Times are better than they ever were before," observed Trustee Howell.

"Well, it costs more to live now than it ever did before," said Trustee Carr.

"School supplies cost more per pupil than they ever did before," commented Mr. Howell.

Mr. Howell,

"What is your idea of the moral effect on pupils?" Trustee Callaghan asked Inspector Ballard. "Would it tend to lessen the feeling of value in the eyes of the pupils? Would they be apt to take less cure of the books?"

The Inspector said that the books were never regarded as belonging to the pupils, and he could not see what difference it would make from that standpoint.

point.
"It costs us about $6,000 for books and we get $12,000 in fees. The surplus goes to pay the teachers and for other things," said Trustee Allan.,
"Well, we need it," added Trustee Callaghan, thoughtfully.
"It simply means we have to go to the Council and ask for $12,000 more in the estimates that we are abolishing."

the Council and ask for $12,000 more in the estimates that we are abolishing," said Trustee Howell. "I have not heard of a single person asking to have the fees abolished. I do not think the public cares anything about it, and to make such a radical change I think would be a serious matter. It is very nice for Dr. Carr to say he owes his election to giving something for nothing. When it comes down to a question of actual facts I doubt if anything would have been heard about it were it not for that education."

"The education was begun before I took it up," replied Trustee Carr, "It was up last year."

"You are not giving something for "You are not giving something for nothing," added Trustee Wodell, "everyone pays for education."

"It would be a very popular move to abolish the water rates,' said Mr. How.

Trustee Callaghan said that he had Trustee Callaghan said that he had been informed they were education-mad in Toronto, where no school fees were being collected, this being used as an argument for abolishing the system here. He had been told that unless the Government stepped in Toronto would swamp itself. They were carrying things to extremes.

Secretary Foster said that while there was a reduction this year on readers in the lower grades, that on the whole the supplies figured out ten per cent, higher than last year.

In a discussion over present prosperity In a discussion over present prosperity Trustee Howell said the crowas seen on the streets and patronizing amusement resorts was an argument against the statement that people had a hard time making ends meet.

"The increased cost of living is out of proportion to the increased rate of wages," observed Trustee Callaghan.

Mr. Callaghan said he found there was a shortage of about ten per cent. this year in labor. The abolition of school fees might make Hamilton more attractive from an educational standpoint for workingmen.

"You are a man of faith," added Trustee Wodell, jestingly. "If you persevere you will soon be able to move a

"A very slow process," was another member's dry remark.

The committee agreed to recommend the Board to take up the recommendation which was referred back to abolish the fees, including those for the commercial classes.

After considerable discussion the City ouncil's request for the use of rooms in ome of the schools for polling booths at he coming numicipal elections was reused. Some of the trustees were at the coming municipal electrons was refused. Some of the trustees were at first inclined to consider the request favorably. It was suggested that it was a move on the city's part to cut down expenses, and it was proposed to charge 86, the same as the city has to pay for private places. Chairman Ward remarked that the city, in the past had, in some cases, been held up by a lot of grafters.
Mr. Ward was rather inclined to favor the scheme and explained that people would not come out to vote when there were not proper polling places.

Having succeeded in discovering his whereabouts, the London police and the London press are now busily engaged in trying to fathom the reasons, for his hasty departure from the metropolis and his journey to Dover. All fears as to his safety were set at rest yesterday by the recepit of a cablegram from the Canadian Associated Press, announcing that he had been found in the railway station waiting room at Dover, where he had been staying at the Hotel Burlington under the name of Robinson.

In answer to a query as to how he lost such a big amount Ross said: "It all occurred on Tuesday week. It was a freak of mine, and was all my own fault." To a Star man Ross said he left London to go after a man who from inquiries he had since made seemed to have escaped to the continent, while yet another insistent interviewer claimed that he declared he was really chasing a man who had robbed him of £20,000. Both The News and The Star say that Ross indulged in ambitions of winning the Derby with a Canadian horse and

Pope Pius X., in referring recently to the difficulty of removing his predecessor's remains, said:

"When I left Venice for the last time I promised my good people there that I would go back to them alive or dead. I have broken half the promise already, but intend to fulfill the other half and arrange for my burial there. I am afraid, however, that I shall have to break the promise altogether, as since it is so difficult to remove the body of a Pope from one church to another in Rome it will be impossible to remove one from one extremity of Italy to the other."

Yesterday wasi Mike Daly's day at the Hamilton Joekey Club track, and he landed three winners. And itemay be safe'y stated that there never was a horseman on the local track that came in for more adverse criticism. Salvage, who was badly beaten on Tuesday, when it was an even money favorite and heavily played by the public, galloped home in front in the first race at 8 to 1, making a track record. The steeplechase was a nice race for one turn of the field, after which it developed into a three-horse race. Daly's Kara was nicely handled by Masuada, the Italian jockey, who let Coal Black Lady and Buckman show the way till they tired. Merrymaker ran out after getting over the stone wall, and Ballycastie fell at the Liverpool, and Walsh had his colarbone broken. The horse had struck the three previous jumps, and hardly raised at all when he came to the obstacle at which he went down.

The formation of the Inter-Provincial Rugby Union is surely one more feather in the cap of the Canadian Amateur Athletic Union. Montreal and Ottawa friends of the federation were more persistent than prudent in their manner of warring against the C. A. A. U. They said and reiterated that their teams - puld merely refuse to join under the accepted definition of an amateur, even averring that Hamilton and the Argonauts were ready for the jump. Now look at their predicament, eating Crow! The secretary, president and members of the Canadian Union are surely to be congratulated on their latest triumph. a new Canadian league that is in process of formation. This will be another worry for Joe Kelley and may hasten his departure for Boston.

That there is something irregular and spiteful in the action of the O. R. F. U. at the meeting in Toronto last night is the opinion of the officers of the Hamilton Football Club, and they intend protesting against the action. To throw out the application of the Tigers for membership in the senior series because they could not place a representative senior team in the field shows how little the executive of the O. R. F. U. knows about this city in football time.

It is alleged that the Hamilton Club was not officially notified of the meet-ing which was held last night, nor did they know anything of the nature of the business. No representative was present at the affair, which seems to have been all cut and dried. Hamilton will play senior yet, and the Tigers think they can make Victorias or Peter boro go a good deal faster than they were able to go last year to even hold their own. There is enough material to make up four teams if necessary, but the Tigers do not want to hog it, and will be satisfied with representatives in the senior and junior series.

Not only a few of the players, but almost all the members of the three teams, turned out, and Captain Ballard put them through a good stiff drill. The scrimmage is getting into great shape, and the way they get the ball out reminds an onlooker of the days of Baron Irving. The new men are taking right hold and have not missed a practice yet. That they will make some of the old players hump to keep their place on the team goes without saying. There will be a good workout of the teams after the big game to-morrow, and every man is requested to be on the job in uniform at the conclusion of the junior game.

TROUBLE AT OTTAWA.

Ottawa, Oct. 4.—A rather amazing state of affairs cropped in in local Rugby circles yesterday afternoon, which goes still further to verify the old saying that trouble comes in bunches.

After the organization meeting of Tuesday night a call was issued for all the prospective Ottawa city players to turn out at Varsity oval at 4.30. Officers and members of the new Executive were waiting at the oval for the arrival of the Rough Riders II's., who were to dress at the O. A. A. A. club-house and walk to the oval.

George Kennedy, Peter Ferguson, Csō. Church, Gene Durocher and half a dozen others were on hand awaiting the appearance of suits.

INTERMEDIATES IN REBELLION.

INTERMEDIATES IN REBELLION.

Word came that there was an insurrection in the camp of the intermediates. A meeting was held in the O. A. A. A., and despite the advice of more experienced heads to dress and proceed to the oval, the youngsters refused to budge till they "knew where they were at," as some of them expressed it.

They claimed they were not sure of an intermediate series; that they had never been invited out by the Ottawa city management, that they were not certain of a square deal from the seniors, and fimally, that as they had been thrown down last year by the old Rough Rider

There is a lot of interest being taken in the first football game of the season, which will be played at the cricket grounds to-morrow afternoon. It is a junior O. R. F. U. championship game, and is between the old rivals, Dundas, and Hamilton III. It will be a hummer, there is no doubt. Both teams are very anxious to win, and they will put the best material they have on the field. The local team is in splendid shape, as they have been training for weeks, and unless Dundas plays their intermediate team they should be able to make a runaway of the game. The ball will be kicked off at 2.45.

Dr. Gorrell and George Bryson drove over to the club-house post haste, and inquired into the trouble. No explanation was forthcoming, so the intermediates were ordered over to the oval, the ton and Argonauts in the intermediate series, the Argonaut representative not objecting.

In the western group of the senior series, victorias and Peterboro, who are the only teams, decided to play a single schedule, with a third game on neutral grounds, if necessary. The schedule is as follows: Victorias at Peterboro Oct. 12, and Peterboro at Victorias Oct. 26. The third game will be Oct. 31.

Kingston and Westmount, the teams in the eastern section, will draw up their own schedule.

The Executive in placing the Tigers and Argonauts in the intermediate series thought it was in the best interests of the union, as both clubs have teams in the Inter-Provincial, and it was thought their second team would not be senior calibre.

Makers of the best fitting Clothing in Canada.

Union Made Clothing

Union men should bear in mind that Grafton & Co. own and operate the only OUT AND OUT UNION Clothing Factory in Canada, and to those who may not know the difference between UNION MADE CLOTHING and the ordinary sweat shop product we would say briefly that we manufacture under UNION CONDITIONS, because otherwise we could not get the high-class skilled labor necessary to turn out such superior clothing as GRAFTON'S famous, "HIGH-GRADE." The union tailors are of the higher order of workmen and command much better wages than the ordinary sweat-shop operators. Again, the surroundings of the Union tailor are in every respect superior to the SWEAT SHOP. All our clothing is made in OUR OWN clean, sanitary FACTORY, fully equipped with every modern device that is conducive to the comfort of our work-people or has the least tendency to the betterment of our product.

On the other hand sweat-shop clothing is usually farmed out and is made in squatted tenement houses, without proper equipment, and where the most meagre wages are earned. This, of course, tends to cheapen the product, allowing a great profit to the dealer. 'Grafton & Co., Limited, give you a superior grade of clothing, extra well made and trimmed, manufactured only from the choicest selection of Tweeds, Worsteds and Serges, cut and designed by skilled Union workmen, tailored and finished by full-fledged Union journeymen tailors, and is sold direct to the wearer for considerably less than is usually charged for poorly made, ill-fitting sweat shop product.
