CHAPTER I.
"Can You Doubt It?"

"But men await the tale of love, and wear of the life of Troy." None of the events of life seem to have such a pronounced fatality as those which refer to love and to death. Who among us has the oracle of his grave? Who can tell under what skies it will be dug; or at what time? And the uncertainty of dying is no greater than that of loving. A man may walk daily among the fairest women on earth and never know the meaning of the word. He may come to an age which fairly gives him warrant to assure himself that he is proof against the witcheries of women. He may even deprecate his insensibility to them; and yet find that the bitterly sweet experience has only been a little delayed—that in an hour undreamed-of—without premonition or preparation, he falls senseless and carelessly into the deepest depths of that half-divine condition.

Perhaps no men in New York felt more certain of his position in this respect than Dr. Robert Carter, a physician of renown, a man of great wealth, very handsome, and still unmarried though nearly forty years old. He was accustomed to speculate on the circumstance; and especially so when the claims of his profession took him to Adrian Van Buren's. He had been there one afternoon, and as his carriage joined the stream of vehicles coming down the Avenue, he soon became thoughtful and enforced slowness of his progress conducted to reflection:

"What a noble woman she is! How strong, how gentle and how wonderfully handsome! Only I do not feel her beauty. My heart beats no faster in her presence. I can forget her for weeks together. Yet I wish I could love her. I like her father; she has no embarrassing female relatives; and I ought to marry. Will it be always telling me so; and Will is right. But I know that there is such a thing as love. Professionally, I have met cases of 'love unto death.' Surely in the presence of Alida Van Buren—a woman who is even physically divine—I ought to feel love—but I do not!"

Engrossed with such thoughts, he had nearly reached his home, when he remembered he had promised to call upon a sick gentleman living in a neighboring street. He knew him to be a reckless speculator, and he had a very shrewd idea as to his physical trouble.

"I will wager my fee that he is dying of gold on the brain," he muttered as he went to the chamber of his patient. And he told him so plainly: "What have you to do with the money-market, Mr. Shepherd? He asked: "You, whose nervous system is all on the outside, and whose feelings are refined by prolonged culture. To men of your caliber the money market is only a common form of suicide."

"What is the world but a money-market, doctor?" "It is a great deal more. Men who make colossal fortunes do not die so much from choice as because it is their reason that suffers. When Nature produces a creature for the special purpose of making money, she does not burden him with nerves and with wants and desires that would scatter his forces."

"Money-makers are necessary to progress, doctor." "Certainly they are. This is the industrial age, and there must be men who are great reservoirs of capital. How else could we build railroads and lay cable cables! But consider the

CHRONIC BRONCHITIS

Cannot be cured with ordinary soothing syrups. The disease must be attacked at the root to eradicate the irritation of the lungs, heal the wounds and strengthen the respiratory organs. The composition of MATHIEU'S SYRUP of Tar and Cod Liver Oil and other Medicinal Extracts marks it amongst all other remedies as the true specific for the diseases of the throat, the bronchial tubes and the lungs. Here are a few conclusive proofs:

Dear Sirs,—Yours of the 22nd last received re Mathieu's Syrup. I have been using the article in my home for the last seven or eight years, and know of nothing better to use when one is subject to cough or cold. In fact, we would not be without it for twice the value. I have very much pleasure in recommending this article, and in selling it over the island I have the same report from our customers.

SYDNEY, C.B., July 30, 1908.
Dear Sirs,—Yours of the 22nd to hand asking for testimonial for Mathieu's Syrup. I have handed Mathieu's Syrup for one year, and find it one of the best sellers in a cough medicine that I have ever handled. I am ordering one gross from your traveler to day, as I sold the last bottle in stock yesterday.

men who make great sums of money, and you will see that in all business matters they act with the steadiness and the certainty of instinct. Culture impairs natural instincts, makes them hesitating and tentative. You are too cultured, Mr. Shephard; you will never succeed in making millions; and I tell you, if you continue the effort, you will kill yourself. Go to the seaside—to the woods—to the mountains—go anywhere but to the money-market."

The sick man sighed and turned his head wearily to the wall. And Doctor Carter having done his duty, went slowly down stairs. He was buttoning his gloves and thinking of his dinner. As he passed through the hall he was arrested by the opening of a door. A small, slight figure, a woman's face, young and lovely; a soft, eager voice—made potential reason for his delay.

"Doctor Carter, how is my father? Is he very ill?" The white, anxious face lifted to his face was very beautiful, but that was not the charm. It was the face to which he had been waiting; it was the voice, which seemed to have half-forgotten echoes in his memory. No other woman had ever touched him in just the same way. He felt a right in her, and a determination to impress that right the moment she spoke to him. An unusual tenderness came into his heart, and the sick man acquiesced a sudden interest through the sick man's daughter. He sat down by her side and entered into explanations and directions not before thought necessary. He could have remained with her all day. Her eyes drew him like magnets; and when she gave him her hand at parting he hardly knew how to escape from its clasp. When all had been said, he still held it; and for a moment they looked silently at each other. In that moment her face was imprinted upon his heart. He knew that he must forever carry the sweet impression.

Robert Carter was nearing forty years old, and accustomed to diagnose both mental and physical symptoms. He knew what had happened to him. "I have fallen in love at last," he mused. "I was taken so absolutely unawares. However, in real life, he said decidedly to himself, 'love is the most manageable passion in the world.' Then he wondered if he should tell his brother. He would, and then he would not; and yet he knew his indecision was all a pretense of indifference. In his heart he was longing to describe the loveliness and sorrow which had subjugated him.

There was indeed between Robert and Will Carter a brotherly affection which could not endure reservations, although no two men could have been more dissimilar in many respects. Robert lacked all sentiment and poetic tastes and was without spiritual discernment. No obstinate questions of "Why?" or "Where?" ever troubled him; and no mere matter of feeling him was ever likely to interfere with his "getting on" in the world. Will Carter cared very little for the world, but much for the unfathomable inside of life. He was a lover of nature, a fine musician, a man who inhabited only his head and his heart and who put all fleshly desires under his feet. Yet, in spite of these radical oppositions in taste and character, the brothers had a strong attachment for each other. Accustomed to give all affairs of their lives a mutual confidence and discussion, they derived from the habit something of that moral discipline which a priest derives from manufacturing his conscience. And though Robert's many duties separated them from morning to night, as soon as they were together starting shoot through the square, swift, straight and resolute. I knew he was going to the country. I made a rendezvous with him there."

"To-day I also made a rendezvous in the country. But it was with a young lady." "Robert! You made a rendezvous with a young lady? Who is she? What is her name? Where is her habitation?" "She is Mr. Ambrose Shepherd's daughter. I do not know her personal name yet. She lives in the next street. Ambrose Shepherd is very ill. I have advised his removal into the country, and his daughter asked me if I would visit her father there. I said I would."

"But then? That is not all!" "Not quite."

A BROKEN-DOWN SYSTEM.
This is a condition (or disease) which doctors give many names, but which few of them really understand. It is simply weakness—broken down, out of order of the vital forces, the muscular system. No matter what the cause, it is a general weakness, the most common of all ailments, and is the cause of many of the most serious ailments, such as nervous prostration, depression of spirits and loss of energy in all the organs of the body. Now, when a man is afflicted with this condition, he is in need of a powerful tonic.

THERAPION No. 3
This is a tonic of the highest quality, and is taken in accordance with the directions accompanying it, will the shattered vitality be restored.

and a new life imparted to what had been a lifeless, unproductive, "used up" system. This tonic is not a mere vegetable and innocuous is agreeable to the taste and palatable to all constitutions, and conditions, as either sex; and it is difficult to imagine a case of nervous prostration, depression of spirits and loss of energy in all the organs of the body, in which it does not produce a most beneficial result. It is a tonic of the highest quality, and is taken in accordance with the directions accompanying it, will the shattered vitality be restored.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

"In babbling, gorging food, or quenching drought, All mischief comes through opening the mouth."

—Chinese proverb. I am not quite sure whether I've said it before or not, but I am sure I want to say it again if I have. And "it" is this—that I am more convinced every day that one of the crying needs of this generation is more reserve. It seems to me that it is really appalling how freely we babble to strangers or mere strangers of the things that should be spoken of only to close friends, and sometimes not at all.

There is, of course, the explanation that it is easier to reveal one's inner self to the ships-that-pass-in-the-night acquaintance, than to the intimate friend whom one will have to see the next day, after the glow of feeling which makes confidences possible, has died into the commonplace and unromantic daylight of the "morning after."

But I do not think even that really accounts for the frequency with which we rush into intimate confidences with strangers.

I met a woman in a hotel the other day. We were both alone and drifted into eating together. At the first meal she told me why she didn't marry a very desirable man who had offered himself to her. At the second she related some interesting details about her brother's wife which one would have hardly thought she would have wanted known outside her own family, and the third she told me why she wished she hadn't married the man she did.

Dora Melegari, a Russian writer, says, "If we could prove by statistics the number of acquaintances a man had fifty years ago and those which the modern man has, the difference would be enormous."

It seems to me one certainly could say the same of confidants with even more reason. I know a woman who travels a good deal who makes it her boast that in all her travels she has never spoken to anyone to whom she has not had a formal introduction. That doesn't appeal to me at all. I consider that there is no reason why a mature woman who is capable of looking out for herself should not while away a long journey by conversing with those of her fellow passengers whom her common sense tells her are desirable people. Personally, I think fleeting glimpses through conversation into other people's points of view and experiences are much more interesting than fleeting glimpses through the café window into a monotonous landscape.

But I do not see why such conversations need be of an intimate character. It seems to me there are plenty of impersonal topics or plenty of less intimate personal topics to furnish food for any amount of interesting conversation between cultured people without touching on matters which in saner moments one cannot but regret having spoken of.

Ruth Cameron

Fortune Telling

Does not take into consideration the one essential to woman's happiness—womanly health. The woman who neglects her health is neglecting the very foundation of all good fortune. For without health, love loses its lustre and gold is but dust. Womanly health, when lost or impaired may generally be regained by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

This Prescription has, for over 40 years, been curing delicate, weak, pale, wracked women by the hundreds of thousands, and this too in the privacy of their homes without their having to submit to indecent questionings and offensively repugnant examinations.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free. All correspondence held as sacredly confidential. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, R. V. Pierce, M. D., President, Buffalo, N. Y. Dr. Pierce's Great Family Doctor Book, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, newly revised up-to-date, edition—1000 pages, answers in Plain English hosts of delicate questions which every woman, single or married, ought to know about. Sent free, in plain wrapper to any address on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to cover mailing copy, or in cloth binding for 50 stamps.

Household Notes.

Cake batters, as well as candies and coffee, are improved by a pinch of salt.

An apple pie made without the upper crust is a pleasing change. Line the pie plate and bake the under crust; fill with apple sauce, seasoned to taste, and cover the top with whipped cream.

Housekeepers who get butter in the jar or tub will find that the use of a little charcoal will insure having the butter sweet. The charcoal is placed in a paper bag and then put into the jar.

Cold bluefish, or almost any good cold fish, except coarse fish like salt cod, may be utilized for salad dressing, tiny slices of young onions and minced parsley. Serve on a bed of lettuce.

Old velvetene should be saved for polishing cloths. It will serve the purpose of wash-cloths for plate cleaning and save buying anything fresh. Wash the velvetene in soapy water as often as needed, and lay out to dry.

To get better results from a hot-water bottle wrap it in a soft cloth wrung out in hot water. This will give a steaming heat, and is much more effective for neuralgia, etc., than the dry heat of the bottle as ordinarily applied.

For a cream whip which is easily made fill a sherbet glass half-full of preserved fruit. Heap them with whipped cream that has been flavored with vanilla or wine and spread the tops lightly with cocoa, coconut or minced nuts.

Never sit on the edge of a sick person's bed, and never place your chair so that he must strain his eyes or turn his head to see you. Get directly in range of his vision, so that he may see you comfortably. Never whisper in a sick-room.

To destroy red ants, grease the plates with lard and put them on the floor, with a few sticks for the ants to climb up. Soon the plates will be covered with ants, which prefer lard even to sugar. Turn the plates upside down on a hot fire.

Lamb's liver, which is very delicate, and not so much used as it deserves to be, is delicious minced and served on toast. It is also excellent dried, cooked two or three minutes in a tablespoonful of butter and folded in an omelet with peppers and a minced olive or two.

A sweet biscuit may be made with ordinary biscuit dough with the addition of chopped dates. Roll the dough quite thin, spread with plenty of soft butter and then put on a thick layer of chopped dates. On top place another layer of dough and cut out with a small cutter. Bake in a hot oven.

A delicious dessert is made of French chestnuts that have been peeled, boiled tender, and mashed, until they are smooth and then seasoned with a little vanilla or other extract and sugar, heaped around the sides of a glass dish and filled in the centre with whipped cream. The cream may be dotted with jelly.

The latest way of serving oyster or clam cocktails is to use a new double glass, quite similar to the glass used for grape-fruit. The outer receptacle is filled with finely shaved ice. The oysters are placed directly on the ice, while the dressing is put in the inner glass. Each oyster, as it is picked up, is dipped in the sauce.

To make whole wheat bread, take

GIRLHOOD AND Scott's Emulsion

Scott's Emulsion provides her with powerful nourishment in easily digested form. It's the food that builds and keeps up a girl's strength.

four cupfuls of whole wheat flour, two of white flour, half a cupful of sugar, one teaspoonful of salt, one yeast cake dissolved in enough warm water to make a stiff batter. Let rise until light, mold in two loaves, let rise again and bake in a moderate oven. A teaspoonful of shortening soda adds to the richness.

A delicious and simple fruit punch is made of canned pineapple shredded. Take a pint of this fruit and to it add the juice of three good-sized lemons, the juice of four oranges, two sliced bananas and one and a half-cupfuls of sugar. Put the mixture in a bowl with a good-sized lump of ice. Let it stand for an hour or so and then add a pint of carbonated water.

Leftover cereal may be useful in either of two ways, mixed with some chopped meat and seasoned well it is always tasty in croquettes. An excellent dessert may be made of the cooked cereal, sweetened, seasoned with spice and then mixed with chopped raisins. Then it should be moulded into cones and browned in the oven. Serve with syrup or thick cream.

Beeswax and turpentine is a capital polish for furniture which is not French polished. To make it spread half an ounce of beeswax very thick and add to it a quart of a pint of spirits of turpentine. Stir well and put aside until the next day. Then stir again and let it stand for another day, when it will be ready for use. Never melt beeswax and turpentine over a hot fire as it is highly inflammable.

Sociable at the Goulds.

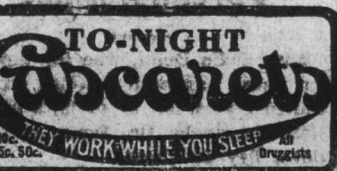

A very enjoyable sociable was held at the Goulds on Thursday night last. The school house was nicely decorated for the occasion, and a large number of people were present. Rev. H. Uphill, Organist Lloyd and the choir of St. Mary's Parish arrived at 8 o'clock. The tables were well supplied with all the good things necessary to satisfy the inner man, and full justice was done to same by the large crowd present.

Rev. H. Uphill then made a few opening remarks, and thanked the good ladies of the Goulds for providing such an excellent tea.

Rev. G. H. Hewitt, incumbent of the Mission, then followed, and, on behalf of the people of the Goulds thanked the Rector of St. Mary's and his choir for their presence, and hoped that many similar gatherings would take place in the future.

A short entertainment then followed, the choir singing the Christmas Carols, and the following ladies and gentlemen also contributing to the programme:—Duet—Miss E. and Master H. Bendall. Recitation—Rev. H. Uphill. Cornet Solo—Messrs. Pope (2). Recitation—Miss Uphill. Song—Rev. H. Uphill.

The various items were well rendered and encore were called for. After the concert a dance was held which terminated early Friday morning. The people of the Goulds are to be congratulated on providing such an enjoyable sociable, and let us hope that before long another such gathering may be seen at the school house. The proceeds which amounted to a fairly large sum are to be devoted to the building of a new church in that locality.

Newfoundland Victims at Sydney. The disaster at Sydney Mines will unfortunately bring home to many minds in Newfoundland the risk to life and limb which attends the coal mining industry, no matter how carefully that industry be safeguarded. Of course, the less precaution the greater the risk. Even with the utmost precaution which science can suggest and with a well administered system of Government inspection, the risk of disaster cannot be eliminated. This was illustrated at Bolton where 1,200 persons were bereft when death overtook 341 miners in the Preston mines which was supposed to be the best equipped in England and where the coal was "rot" by electrical cutters and not by blasting or "shot-firing". The cause of the disaster was mysterious like that at Sydney Mines where a number of Newfoundlanders lost their lives.

Medical Fees. There can be no doubt that the feeling of dissatisfaction among the public against the scale of fees adopted by medical practitioners in the city is strong and widespread. The scale of fees is far too high, so much so that its adoption has caused great dismay. We hope that the indignation prevailing will have at least one effect and arouse a public feeling that will insist on the city being thoroughly cleaned, disease centres destroyed and the city kept clean. Such a course would save the public three quarters of the fees they pay medical men, and the community would be the better for it.

Died of Typhoid. Mrs. Whalen, who was one of the first to be put in Hospital suffering from typhoid fever, died this morning in the Fever Hospital. The deceased who was 60 years old, was a sister of Mrs. Collins, and daughter of Miss Reardon, both of whom died from the disease a couple of weeks ago. Rev. Father Goff was very ill this morning, but the three Collins' boys are improving.

A Food for Thinkers. Grape-Nuts. Think it over! There's a Reason.

Mr. John Fox Elected Rhodes Scholar. This morning Mr. John Fox, the son of Lady Morris, and educated at St. Bonaventure's College, was elected by the Committee as a Rhodes scholar. His scholarship will begin to run next fall. Mr. Fox entered Oxford College, Oxford, last fall. He is the holder of the Jubilee Scholarship and had a brilliant scholastic career at St. Bonaventure's College. There were only two candidates before the Committee this time, Messrs. Fenwick and Fox, and the latter was the fortunate one. We congratulate Mr. Fox on his success. As to Mr. Fenwick, we hope he may meet with better luck next time, as he is well deserving from his prominence in scholastics and sports. He may take heart from Mr. Fox's case, who did not succeed in his first candidature. The following are the scholars who have preceded Mr. Fox as Rhodes scholars from Newfoundland: Messrs Herbert, Bond, Penny, Winter, Mitchell, Higgins and Tait.

Another Case of Typhoid Fever. William McGrath a well-known resident of Sebastian Street, was stricken with typhoid fever yesterday and taken to the Hospital. The disease is spreading quickly in that section of the West End bounded by Sebastian Street on the south, and Pope Street on the north. The City Council, it seems to us, should now interfere and use the powers they possess to sweep the hovels which most of these people inhabit out of existence.

The Fogota Sails. The S. S. Fogota, Capt. B. Barbour, sailed at 11 a.m. to-day for the northward taking a full cargo and these passengers: J. J. McCarthy, Rev. Dr. Murphy, D. A. Ryan, Isaac Avery, H. House, A. Green, W. White, Lieut. Milley, S. A. S. Jeans, Capt. A. Barbour, Jos. Parsons, E. Elliott, F. J. House, A. H. Miles, Mrs. A. Koon, Mrs. Templeman, Head Constable Peet and 5 police officers with several stowage.

Received Ugly Cut. As Mr. Edward Power, the well known captain of the Star football team, was crossing the floor of his home yesterday to go to work, he tripped in a mat on the floor and falling drove his left hand through a pane of glass in the window. The hand and arm were terribly cut and the main artery was severed, so that the man lost much blood. Staunching the flow as best he could he proceeded to Dr. Macpherson's surgery where his injuries were attended to.

Coastal Boats. BOWRING SHIPS. The Prospero left Lae at daylight. The Portia left Channel at 8 p.m. yesterday and is due here Friday evening. REID NYLD CO. The Argyle left Baine Harbor at 4 p.m. yesterday for the west. The Bruce arrived at Port aux Basques at 7.20 a.m. to-day. The Clyde arrived at Lewisporte at 6.20 p.m. yesterday from the north. The Dundee arrived at St. John's at 10.50 last night having completed the service. The Ethie arrived from Trinity on Sunday. The Ethie arrived at Rose Blanche at 5 p.m. yesterday going east. The Home is due at Port Saunders from the north. The Invermore is at St. John's.

Train Notes. The Bruce express which left here at 6 p.m. yesterday took out about 40 passengers, mostly second class. The local arrived here at 10 last night bringing Mr. Moore, Capt. Woodrow, Mr. Diamond, Mr. Barnes, Purser Coloway of the Fogota, Mr. Udell, Moses and Mrs. Drower and about 50 second class, including a number of male and female students coming here for the reopening of the various colleges and schools.

Personal Notes. Miss Sadie Dunn, who for the past ten years has been residing in the United States, left by to-day's train to visit her uncle, Dr. Dan, of Broad Cove, Bay de Verde. S. S. DUNDEE RETURNED. The s.s. Dundee, Capt. Darius Blanford, returned from Bonavista Bay last night, having completed the service for the season. She made the run up from Westville in 11 1/2 hours. Capt. Blanford did very successful work the past season and did not meet with any serious mishap to crew and ship. We congratulate him on his good work.

QUIDI VIDI CHURCH.—The little Church of England Church at Quidi Vidi is nicely decorated in keeping the Xmas season. The work was done by Miss Martin, of the White Hills, assisted by some lady friends. On last Sunday, at the close of the service, some Xmas Carols were creditably sung by the children of the village assisted by Mr. Chas. Hammond, who trained the children for the occasion.

Nerves at High Tension. Slight extra strain means collapse. Restoration obtained by using DR. A.W. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD. The successful men and women are often of the high-tension nervous type—keen and active—but with too little reserve force. A little extra worry and anxiety and snap goes the nervous system. Rest helps, so does fresh air and exercise, but the blood must also be made rich by use of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food. Mr. Wm. Branton, Victoria St., Stratford, Ont., writes: "My nervous system seemed all astray. I could not sleep, had no appetite, my digestion was poor and I had jerking of the limbs. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food helped me and I continued until I had taken twenty-four boxes. This treatment has made a radical change in my condition, building up the system and strengthening the nerves." Pardon for Spies. Berlin, Dec. 27.—Interest has been centered in the dramatic and historic trial of Captain French and Lieutenant Brandon, the British spies, before the Imperial Supreme Court at Leipzig in accordance with tradition the Kaiser will unquestionably pardon the prisoners before they have served more than six months. The date of King George's coronation is regarded as the time the Emperor will probably choose for the exercise of clemency.

The Anglophobe press is already howling against shortening the period of the Englishmen's detention. Those papers say that four years are all too short a time to permit the German naval and military authorities to make such alterations in the north sea defensive scheme as to render their espionage ineffective.

$100,000 for Detective. Washington, Dec. 28.—Richard Parr, the customs detective who discovered the steel springs in the scale on the American Sugar Refining Co.'s Williamsburg Dock in New York, and furnished most of the evidence through which more than $5,000,000 has been returned to the federal treasury, will get his reward as a New Year's greeting. Parr's moiety was $100,000.

He was paid $20,000 some time ago, but the treasury had no more funds to complete payment. The urgent deficiency bill passed by Congress carried an item of $90,000, and of that $80,000 will go to Parr. Secretary MacVeagh will sign a warrant this week, transferring the money to Collector Loeb in New York, who will be able to pay Parr before New Year's Day.

New Discovery
About Sight.

Not Optic Nerve But Wonderful Fluid
Which Transmits Impressions.
A new discovery with regard to the phenomena of the sense of sight has been announced by Dr. F. W. Edridge-Green, an eminent English authority in visual research. He has found by an interesting series of experiments and tests that the process of vision is not the simple transmission by the optic nerve to the brain of objects photographed upon the retina.
The new discovery in non-technical language amounts to this: In front of the retina there is a small chamber or sac of clear liquid which is in constant motion of currents or eddies. Dr. Green finds that this fluid itself contains distinct perceptive power which plays an important part in conveying impressions to the brain.
In other words, this wonderful fluid
contains liquid nerves, so to speak, which transmit to the understanding a considerable part of the impression
it receives of color, form, etc.

"Best and Goes Farthest."

The late Sir Clifton Robinson, the "Tramway King," who, commencing his career as a conductor at the age of twelve, achieved the distinction of organizing tramways all over the world, had a budget of good stories to tell. One of the most amusing was that of two countrymen on a visit to Edinburgh some years ago, who noticed trams for the first time. They wished to proceed in a certain direction, but as there seemed so many cars going the same way they were in doubt as to which to take. All dubiousness, however, soon vanished for Geordie, noticing a car bearing a cocoa advertisement in huge letters, turned to his friend and said:
"Here, Jimmie, 'we'll tak' this one;
it's 'Best and goes farthest.'"

Sir Clifton once confessed that his hobby was work, and he was certainly one of the most strenuous of men.
He never believed in the old proverb,
"A rolling stone gathers no moss."
"I have rolled all over the world," he confessed a short time ago, "and still hope to roll and gather moss." The following were the rules for success which he once laid down: Have faith in yourself. Back yourself as other men back horses. Get to know all you can. Cultivate a sense of humor.
Work hard, be thorough, live plainly,
never stand still.

A Remarkable Dinner Party on Chesapeake Bay.

Wilmington, Del., Dec. 28.—Not the smallest Christmas dinner party on the eastern shore of Chesapeake Bay was that at the home of John F. Guy, near Delmar, Del. Besides his own thirty-two children, Mr. Guy, who is 74 years old, had all of his grandchildren around the festive board and eight large turkeys to serve to them. Mrs. Guy, the third, a young woman aged 25 years, prepared the dinner.

Guy married his first wife, a farmer's daughter, in 1855. Of this union seven children were born. He died with his second wife when she was 21 years old and caused a sensation.
Of this second union eighteen children were born. Miss Loela Crockett, a girl of 16, became Guy's third wife in his sixty-fifth year, nine years ago.
Of this union seven children were born, including twins, who arrived a few months ago. Guy, who is strong and hearty, says he expects to en-tain the family again next Christmas.

Will Get $35 Per Week

The Frederickton Gleaser says:
Mike Murphy spent Christmas here, and left last night for Galt, Ont., to join the professional hockey team
there.

The attraction that takes the players to Galt is a contract for $35 per week for each and about two games
a week. Manager Elliston, of the Galt team, first wrote to Murphy several weeks ago, and his offer was $30 per week. When Murphy did not reply he received a telegram in a few days asking what he was going to do about the offer. No reply brought a further telegram offering $35 per week, and Murphy and the other two players accepted.

The players were to have reported to Manager Elliston for a game on Christmas Day, but were unable to do so as their transportation did not reach New Glasgow in time. Murphy, for that reason, came here to spend Christmas and left last evening for Frederickton Junction, there to meet Morrison and Dunphy and proceed to Galt.

The Coronation
Plans for the Peersesses at the Abbey.
Souvenir Chairs.

The preliminary work of preparation for the coming Coronation is proceeding apace. It includes the making of a special carpet and the arrangement of the seat accommodation in Westminster Abbey.
It may be remembered that at the Coronation of King Edward and Queen Alexandra the special carpet covering the nave was of enormously long fibres surface. On this occasion a very splendid pile carpet, of remarkable and striking design, has been ordered.
The weavers are to be Messrs. Trumpleton, of Glasgow. The foundation color will be royal blue, and the ornamentation will include emblems of the noble Order of the Garter and other heraldic devices. The pattern is on such a large scale that the design is repeated or matched only once in every six and a half yards.

Chippendale Pattern Chairs.
In regard to the seating, the general principle adopted is to dispense with fixed seats. Special chairs of Chippendale design, but with rush seats, were made for the previous Coronation. For the prospective ceremony there will be Chippendale pattern chairs of somewhat similar character but with the seats upholstered in silk. Smaller chairs are in narrow stools were supplied in hundreds, and were of upholstered bench with cane seats. Next June these will be replaced by polished chairs and seats upholstered in silk.
After the Coronation of King Edward and Queen Alexandra many of the Peersesses who used the special chairs were anxious to secure the identical chairs as mementos and the Office of Works agreed to sell them at practically cost price. The bench chairs and stools, all branded with the Crown, the date, and the word

"Coronation," were eagerly sought after, and were supplied on similar terms, and it is extremely probable that this will again be the case, and that the provision of the seating accommodation will entail little cost to the organizers and might, if desired,
be made a source of profit.

Display of Regalia.

A complete group of the articles to be used at the Coronation has been made by the Lord Chamberlain and Sir Douglas Dawson. The articles are on view at the Tower. Among them are the crown of St. Edward with the Star of Africa diamond, in front of the sceptre with the larger Star of Africa in it, the large orb or rod
of power, the Orb, the Sword of Mercy,
the two Swords of Justice, the Ring of Alliance with the kingdom, the Armilla or bracelet, the Spurs of Chivalry, the Cap of Maintenance, and other objects. All these will be borne by noblemen in the royal procession
within the Abbey.
Representations are to be made to the King to secure the passing of the Coronation procession through the principal thoroughfares of South London.—Daily Mail.

Battle With Anarchists IN EAST END OF LONDON.

Special Evening Telegram.
LONDON, Jan. 3.
The East End was thrown into excitement to-day by a battle between several hundred policemen and a band of men suspected to be murderers, and friends of the murderers, of the three policemen who were recently killed by anarchist burglars.
The suspects occupied a four storey brick-house on Sydney Street, a narrow thoroughfare. The police surrounded the place, and were met with a volley of shots from within. A rapid exchange of shots followed. During which two detectives were shot, one seriously. Hundreds of shots had been fired, when the house caught fire and the Fire Brigade was summoned.
Preparing for a raid on the place the police caused the tenants in the neighbouring houses to quietly remove from their homes during the night. Detective-Sergeant Leeson was examining the building from the rear when he was shot. A call for help was sent to headquarters, and two hundred responded. Seven hundred officers were on duty by noon.
A detachment of sixty men, with one officer and three non-commissioned officers of the Scots Guards, from the Tower, arrived later. They were served with ball cartridges, and fired a few rounds into the building. After a full five minutes, the besieged replied. It was impossible to estimate the number of the besieged, as they were armed with magazine rifles and fired with great rapidity.
In the meantime loads of straw were hurled to the place for the purpose of starting a fire and smoking out the besieged men. Piles of this straw were ignited near the building, and the flames soon communicated to the house. Then the fire brigade was summoned.

Home Secretary Churchill appeared early in the afternoon, and surveyed the scene, crossing the fire zone at some risk. In the face of the terrific odds, the trapped men continued a desperate resistance, and every few minutes appeared at the windows, employing their guns at any one in sight.
As the afternoon progressed, the battle raged more fiercely. Another company of the Scots Guards were ordered out, and took up a position in front of the house. So furious was the battle and so determined the resistance of the criminals, that machine guns were called for. These were hurried off under orders to use them upon the East End of the fortress should other measures to dislodge the defenders fail.
The flames, unquenched, swept up through the building, driving the occupants to the top storey. Hard pressed, the terrorists kept up the fight. At 2 o'clock the whole building was in flames, and the desperadoes had been driven to the roof, from where they fired indiscriminately upon the police and soldiers below.
As the fire enveloped the house heavy explosions occurred. These apparently were from ammunition with which the men seemed well supplied. The roof of the house fell in places, and the anarchists down amid the flames just before the supports gave way in every direction. He met a volley from the soldiers and staggered back into the house.
The zone of danger widened so rapidly that many persons were caught within its limit. Scores were so paralyzed with fear, and made helpless, that it was necessary to carry them bodily to places of safety.
Six of the anarchists have been found dead in the ruins.

Hayward-Puddington Nuptials at Windsor.

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mrs. O. W. Puddington Windsor, yesterday, when her young daughter, Kathryn Stewart, was united in marriage with Mr. Herbert Hayward, of A. J. Harvey & Co., St. John's, Newfoundland. The drawing rooms, where the ceremony was performed, was prettily decorated with palms, ferns and flowers. The bride party stood under a floral bell from which extended main ribbon. The bride was given away by her brother Arthur Puddington. She looked very sweet and girlish in her bridal robe of cloth of gold with over-dress of Brussels lace, heavily embroidered and carried bride's roses and lilies of the valley. Little Miss Frances McDonald and Dorothy Dill, nieces of the bride, attended as flower girls, each dressed in dainty white, carrying pink carnations and roses. The Rev. Neil Herman officiated. After the ceremony a reception followed, after which Mr. and Mrs. Hayward left on the express for a brief honeymoon. They will return to Windsor before leaving for their future home in St. John's, Newfoundland.
The bride travelled in a tailor-made suit of blue with white beaver hat with touches of gold. Many beautiful presents were received. Halifax Herald, Dec. 27, 1910.

RETURNING TO WORK—The past couple of days numbers of men came to the city from various bays, including many from Conception Bay, and proceeded to the fishing wharves to resume work there. Many, who spent their holidays at home, also returned to Sydney, and the express last evening took a large number of men at Bridgetown to the wharves. The line of the ship goes to Sydney from Port aux Basques daily 100 men went along.

Shannahan and Tucker ON THE DOCTORS' FEES.

"I wonder," says Tucker, "are the doctors getting mad to start in raising their fees in the middle of the winter, too. Why, says he, 'tis simply shocking, for we can hardly afford to pay the doctor as it is, much less to face the increased charges Mrs. Tucker keeps on making. I say we can't, and I say further that the doctors can charge if they like, but getting it is another matter. Some people will turn around and tell you that the workmanman is paid better than he was paid eight or ten years ago. He may get above money to hold on to Saturday night, but take a look in his purse on Monday night, and see how much is the remains of his week's wages. Why would you want a double pair of microscopes to find it?"
"But," says Delaney, "the poor man is not to be charged as much as the rich man. For instance, if a rich man lives in a big house and pays a big rent, he'll be charged a bigger fee by the doctors than if he lived in a small sized flat and paid a small rent."
"Oh," says Tucker, "I see you're to be charged by the doctors according to the rent you're paying; oh, that's fine, that's a lot easier on the poor man than I thought at the start. Sure all we have to do, us poor men, is to pay no rent and we can stab the doctor and stab the landlord at one and the same time. There's nothing like killing two birds with the one shot, 'tis fine."

Immigration of Anarchists.

Special Evening Telegram.
LONDON, Jan. 4.
All London is stirred by the terrific battle waged between anarchists and hundreds of police, infantry and artillerymen. How many anarchists took part in the engagement fought in and around the barricaded house in Sydney Street is not definitely known. Portions of only two bodies have been recovered. The newspapers call for more effective means of dealing with the growing terrors of alien immigration. There is no doubt entertained that the desperadoes that fell were anarchists.

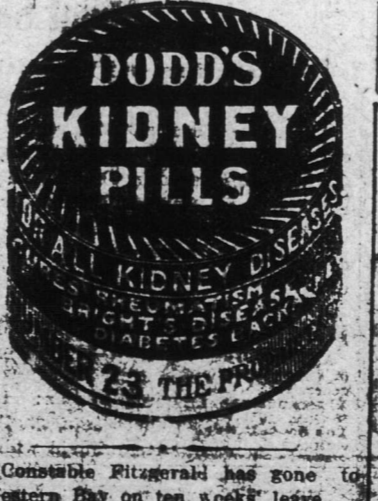

Golden Jubilee Celebration.

Special Evening Telegram.
PLACENTIA, Jan. 3.
The Golden Jubilee of the Rev. Mother M. Joseph O'Dowd, of the Presentation Convent, Placentia, was celebrated here to-day with great rejoicing. The religious function took place in the Parish Church, which was crowded with a vast congregation. The ceremony was performed by His Grace the Archbishop, assisted by Very Rev. Mons. Reardon and Rev. Father St. John. The Archbishop, vested in cope and mitre, ascended the altar steps. The jubilation kneeling before him in full choir robes, bearing a lighted taper, answered her religious vows and answered her appropriate questions. His Grace then read the prayers which were listened to with great attention. The staff and crown were then blessed, and the Archbishop then delivered an impressive discourse, reviewing the history of the Order of the Presentation, both in Ireland and Newfoundland. He dwelt particularly on the active and edifying career of the Jubilarian during her life of sixty years in this country. The benediction ended with the Benediction of the Most Holy Sacrament. The mass throughout was of a very high order of excellence.

Dissects 100 Cats. —All Tuberculosis.

One Physician Declares the Household Pets a Menace to Any Family.
Cleveland, Ohio, Dec. 27.—That cats spread tuberculosis and are a menace to the family was declared to-day by Dr. W. L. Ensor, of Lakewood, who within the last six months has dissected more than a hundred of the animals.
Among Dr. Ensor's patients was the head of a family who was afflicted with tuberculosis. From the history of the case the doctor was convinced that the family cat had brought the disease to the house. As a result he made an investigation, and offered money for each of a hundred or more were killed and examined.
"I found in all of them germs of tuberculosis," the doctor said, "of course not all the cats were in the last stages of the disease, although at least thirty per cent. were in."

serious condition. I venture to say that enough of the germs were present to make any of them a danger to a household. Cats prowl around in various places and thus carry the germs with them. The household pets are a menace."

REINDEER BRAND CONDENSED MILK

Advertisement for Reindeer Brand Condensed Milk and Cocoa. Includes images of cans and a reindeer logo. Text describes the quality and benefits of the milk, mentioning it is 'far better than normal, raw cows' milk for everyday culinary purposes' and 'is far better than normal, raw cows' milk for everyday culinary purposes. For the preparation of such wholesome dishes as bread-and-butter pudding, cup or baked custards, boiled rice, sago, tapioca and rice puddings and many other desserts of ordinary utility, 'Reindeer' Milk is unexcelled. 'Reindeer' Milk is just the best of good milk from the great dairying centres of the Dominion; the surplus water is driven out and the milk is then preserved by the addition of pure sugar, much as the housewife would ordinarily preserve fruit. For this reason, an open can of 'Reindeer' Milk will keep indefinitely; the sugar crystallizes in a thin layer over the top of the milk and protects it from the deleterious influences of the atmosphere. Remember, the Dominion Government Analyst gives 'Reindeer' Milk total solids of 72.68% with 8.61% butter-fat. 'Reindeer', therefore, stands above all other brands of sweetened, condensed milk on the market.

Doctors' Fees.

Special Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—In the last issue of your paper and that of your contemporaries, I notice that the city doctors have caught on to the idea of forming a Union for self protection. All are agreed that certain prices must be paid after a certain date, which in effect means "if you haven't got the money, you needn't send around" (for the doctor).

Another thing, I can hardly believe that the meeting was reported verbatim when I read that some of those self-important doctors declare they will go back to Nova Scotia if the rates are not raised here. Mr. Editor, whoever sent them to come from Nova Scotia, and now that they are here, who would stop them from going back to-morrow? We have enough of young medical students getting their degrees day after day to fill our needs. While I am at it, I would suggest also that doctors specify their bills. In this advanced age it isn't explicit enough to receive a bill reading only "To professional services, $25.00." It seems that this get-together-and-don't-care-for-any-one-else method of doing business is playing havoc in this city. Personally I am in favor of trade unionism and unity for the greatest good, but when a class of men, tinkers or tailors, laborers or doctors, band together and ride roughshod over everyone else, without any sense of fairness or justice, then it is time to cry halt.

By all means let the doctors have their share of the good things that are, but it shouldn't be necessary to adopt socialistic principles in order to do it.

These few words, Mr. Editor, are written with only one object in view—the greatest good to the greatest number; and I trust they will not meet with the disapproval of your readers, not a few of whom have already expressed themselves in no uncertain manner about it. Yours truly, J. J. LACEY.

Religious Ceremony at Belvidere.

On Wednesday, 23rd inst., Feast of Holy Innocents, the beautiful ceremony of religious profession took place in the Oratory of the Belvidere Convent. His Grace the Archbishop officiated, assisted by Rt. Rev. Msgr. Roche.

Sister M. Madeline, daughter of Mr. Trehey, Conception, having completed the probation required by the Rules of the Order of Mercy before admitting candidates to religious profession, pronounced the sacred vows of Poverty, Chastity and Obedience, which bind her forever to the service of God.

When His Grace vested in Cope and Mitre approached the Altar, a procession of the Religious, preceded by a band of the little orphans in flowing white vells, moved into the Oratory chanting the Hymn Vener. The Novice-clet was then conducted by the Rev. Mother Superior to the foot of the Altar, where His Grace interrogated her as to her willingness to assume the responsibilities of the vows and her ability to discharge the obligations which they impose, which choice and elegant language His Grace then addressed the young sister, depicting in glowing words the harmony and happiness of the Religious life and the peace enjoyed by the inmates of the Cloister as contrasted with those who have to be "solitaneous about many things." Summing up a beautiful and impressive discourse, which was listened to with rapt attention by those who were privileged to be present, he concluded by encouraging Sr. M. Madeline in her perseverance in the exalted state she has embraced.

The rendition by the Orphans of the beautiful ceremony music merited a tribute of praise and appreciation from the Archbishop, who listened with evident pleasure to the sweet young voices blending so harmoniously.

We congratulate Sr. M. Madeline and wish her many years to carry on the noble work of training the orphan children of St. Michael's, Belvidere.
