The Need of Production

It must be plain to the most obtuse and unreasoning mind that twenty-four or twenty-five million of men cannot be withdrawn even from the swarming population of Europe without effecting a huge reduction in the produce of labour and of the soil. Women may in a measure supply the places of men, but it must be remembered that women have also their sphere in the economics of life. Therefore in taking them to the land they are being taken, in the main, from other employment. Consequently, if for every man who goes to fight there was a woman to take his place in agriculture or other industry there would still be a deficiency not only in labour but in production. At the present time 400,000 women are being called for to take the place of 250,000 British soldiers recruited from farm work.

Hence it is clear, that no matter what steps may be taken, either during the war or after the war, there must be an enormous shortage of the requirements across the Atlantic for many years to come. And that shortage for a period subsequent to the declaration of peace will be as keenly felt as at any time during the gigantic struggle. With the normal scramble for existence resumed there will be less immediate government control, in other words there will be less systematic regulation of supplies. To meet the huge demands that must succeed extra consumption, tremendously less production and immensely greater wastage, there will be abundant use, not for one year's bountiful crops, but for similar blessings during a score of successive years. Where and how can this assured demand be met? There is but one answer to the dual question,

AGED TAX COLLECTOR

Restored To Health By Vinol

Corinth, Miss.—"I am a city tax collector and seventy-four years of age. I was in a weak, run-down condition. My druggist told me about Vinol. I tried it and in a week noticed considerable improvement; I continued its use and now I have gained twenty pounds in weight, and feel much stronger. I consider Vinol a fine tonic to create strength for old people."—J. A. PRICE.

That Canada is not the only country that has not had its resources in large part exhausted or destroyed, is true; but there is plenty of reason to believe that the nations of Europe not engaged in the war, have been drawn upon to the utmost by those so engaged; hence when the time comes all eyes will be turned from east to west for succour. Canada, being the nearest to the great centre of demand, will, of necessity, apart from sentimental reasons, be the first looked to and will have the greatest opportunity. The bogey of released Russian harvests has been on parade since the war commenced, but Russia, with twelve or fifteen million men called to arms, largely of the peasant class, has suffered and is suffering, like the rest. She, too, will need reorganizing, rejuvenating and regenerating. Hence, while for a few months after the outbreak of hostilities, there may have been something to be expected from the release of stores of wheat and other grain from Odessa and other Black Sea ports, there is nothing available now and there may be little in the next decade. Hence, Canada's role is plain, to go on producing, to go on garnering and storing, if necessary, in the sure and certain hope of ultimate profit and prosperity. There never was a time, and probably never will be another time, when we were more urgently called upon to produce, in increased quantities, not alone all articles of food, but every article that enters into the industrial life of peoples.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Needn't Kiss Bible

in Taking Oath

Toronto, April 13.—In future it will not be necessary for a witness in taking an oath in court to kiss the Bible. The legal committee of the Ontario Legislature this morning passed an amendment to the Evidence Act, which provides that a witness shall be sworn by administering the oath while he has a copy of the Old or New Testament in his hand.

Miller's Worm Powders work so effectively that no traces of worms can be found. The pests are macerated in the stomach and pass away in the stools without being perceptible. They make an entire and clean sweep of the intestines, and nothing in the shape of a worm can find lodgment there when these powders are in operation. Nothing could be more thorough or desirable than their action.

Pain Flees Before it.—There is more virtue in a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectic Oil as a subdermal pain than in gallons of other medicine. The public know this and there are few households throughout the country where it cannot be found. Thirty years of use has familiarized the people with it, and made it a household medicine throughout the western world.

Alvinston Free Press:—If we had a relative who would cross to the United States to avoid enlistment, we would disown him. Shame on the cowardly young man who dodges the Big Issue! How mean and selfish such a person must be? Let us make it hard for such to return to this country when the war is over.

Hamilton Spectator:—Enduring will be the memory of Capt. G. T. Richardson, noted sportsman of Kingston, killed in battle. He leaves $30,000 in trust for the education of children of men of his company who are killed or disabled. This noble action is redolent of the floweriest days of knight hood.

THE WHIP IN RIFLE BARRELS

It is Caused by the Pressure of Modern High Power Powder.

The use of high power powder in rifles has given rise to a phenomenon which did not exist in black powder days. This is known as "whip" and is due to the pressure and vibration set up by the powder. It is constant with given loads and is always in the same direction.

Sights are aligned by the manufacturer to compensate for this whip in proportion to the powder charge used. In firing auxiliary cartridges it will often be found that the rifle shoots off center. As a matter of fact the bullet from the auxiliary is traveling in a true line with the bore, and it is the sights that are wrong. The lighter charge of the auxiliary does not produce the usual whip, with the result that the line in prolongation of the bore of the rifle along which the bullet travels is not the line given by the alignment of the sights.

Two other rifle terms that must not be confused are upsettage and keyholing. Keyholing is the tendency of the bullet to turn over in flight, while upsettage is the slight shortening of the major axis of the bullet due to the force of the charge. It was peculiar to black powder fired behind lead bullets and does not exist to any appreciable extent in metal jacketed bullets with smokeless powder. In the latter case the charge burns more slowly and the jacket stiffens the bullet against the sudden blow from behind.—Outing.

ORIGIN OF THE PERISCOPE.

The Reflecting Spyglass Used at the Siege of Sebastopol.

Speaking of the origin of the periscope, the following extract from the writings of the well known inventor of "Pepper's Ghost" gives the credit to the clerical profession. Pepper wrote soon after the Crimean war:

"During the siege of Sebastopol numbers of our best artillerymen were continually picked off by the enemy's rifles as well as by cannon shot, and in order to put a stop to the foolhardiness and factiousness of the men, a very ingenious contrivance was invented by the Rev. William Taylor, the conductor of Mr. Denison in constructing the first 'Big Ben' bell. It was called the reflecting spyglass, and by its simple construction rendered the exposure of the sailors and soldiers who would look over the parapet or other parts of the works to observe the effect of their shots perfectly unnecessary, while another form was constructed for the purpose of allowing the gunner to 'lay' or aim his gun in safety.

"The instruments were shown to Lord Panmure, who was so convinced of the importance of the invention that he immediately commissioned the Rev. William Taylor to have a number of these telescopes constructed, and if the siege had not terminated just at the time the invention was to have been used no doubt a great saving of the valuable lives of the skilled artillerymen would have been effected."—London Express.

Gam's Dry Humor.

When the gallant Welsh captain, David Gam, was sent forward by Henry V. to reconnoiter the French army before the battle of Agincourt he found that the enemy outnumbered the English by about five to one. His report to the king is historic:

"There are enough to be killed, enough to be taken prisoners and enough to run away."

This quaint forecast of the result of the battle at once spread through the camp, and doubtless every yeoman archer of the valiant company felt an inch taller. We know that it was almost literally justified by the event. Poor Gam's dry humor was equalled by his courage. He was killed while in the act of saving the life of his prince.—London Standard.

Distilled Water.

Distilled water after having been exposed to the air is one of the most salubrious of drinks. Its daily use in measured quantities is helpful in cases of dyspepsia and greatly assists the general functions of the body. Every large steamer carries a water distilling apparatus by which sea water is made fresh. In the days before steamers primitive distilling apparatus was used on warships and vessels carrying passengers.

Well Fitted.

"But, my dear," said grandma earnestly, "you are very young. Do you feel that you are fitted for married life?"

"I am being fitted now, grandma," explained the prospective bride sweetly. "Seven gowns!"

How to avoid Operations

These Three Women Tell How They Escaped the Dreadful Ordeal of Surgical Operations.

Hospitals are great and necessary institutions, but they should be the last resort for women who suffer with ills peculiar to their sex. Many letters on file in the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., prove that a great number of women after they have been recommended to submit to an operation have been made well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Here are three such letters. All sick women should read them.

Marinette, Wis.—"I went to the doctor and he told me I must have an operation for a female trouble, and I hated to have it done as I had been married only a short time. I would have terrible pains and my hands and feet were cold all the time. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I feel better in every way. I give you permission to publish my name because I am so thankful that I feel well again."—Mrs. FRED BEHNKE, Marinette, Wis.

Detroit, Mich.—"When I first took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was so run down with female troubles that I could not do anything, and our doctor said I would have to undergo an operation. I could hardly walk without help so when I read about the Vegetable Compound and what it had done for others I thought I would try it. I got a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and a package of Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and used them according to directions. They helped me and today I am able to do all my work and I am well."—Mrs. THOS. DWYER, 989 Milwaukee Ave., East, Detroit, Mich.

Bellevue, Pa.—"I suffered more than tongue can tell with terrible bearing down pains and inflammation. I tried several doctors and they all told me the same story, that I never could get well without an operation and I just dreaded the thought of that. I also tried a good many other medicines that were recommended to me and none of them helped me until a friend advised me to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. The first bottle helped, I kept taking it and now I don't know what it is to be sick any more and I am picking up in weight. I am 20 years old and weigh 145 pounds. It will be the greatest pleasure to me if I can have the opportunity to recommend it to any other suffering woman."—Miss IRENE FROELICHER, 1923 Manhattan St., North Side, Bellevue, Pa.

If you would like special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Canadian aid made possible the recent gain on the west front. More Canadians are needed to make possible more British gains.

The Grain Grower's Guide.—The burdens which the mothers of our land have borne and are bearing and the sacrifices which they have made and are making are not realized as fully as they should be. By nature our mothers are not physically able to shoulder the rifle and take their place in the trenches in the great war. But the mother who sends her son (in some cases as many as six of her sons) to fight the country's battles, whose loving hands are constantly engaged in supplying them with comforts while at war, and whose prayers are always with her children, is a genuine heroine whose patriotism is worthy of the highest honor which the nation can bestow. The women of Western Canada have done nobly in the present war and though their feats of heroism are not performed on the battlefield yet they merit they merit the Victoria Cross none the less.

No mistake can be made about the seriousness of the period through which we are now passing. It is one of the most critical in the history of war—indeed, in the history of England—and its final outcome may quite easily settle war, one way or another. Thanks to a defiance of an almost unexampled stubbornness by the French troops, the approaches to Verdun are still intact for the most part, and the main fortresses have not passed into the enemy's hands. It is still the opinion of the French General Staff that the stronghold will not fall, but exception must always be made for the hazard of war. None of us who are vitally interested will feel secure until the Germans have been defeated beyond hope of recovery. Up to the present their losses have been conservatively estimated at a quarter of a million men, of whom one fourth are dead. But it must not be assumed that our allies have suffered lightly; their casualties also have been heavy.

"Paint My House, Too"

The spirit of neighborhood improvement fills the very air. The glad, bright colors of spring have replaced the somber hues of winter. Grass is green—flowers are springing into glorious bloom. Nature is providing a beautiful setting. Is your house in harmony—or do the fresh-looking surroundings only serve to emphasize its dullness? Does it complete the picture—is it well painted?

Now's the time of all times to dress up your home in fresh, new colors. The first essential in home improvement is good paint, and the paint that you can depend upon to be good is

Low Brothers HIGH STANDARD LIQUID PAINT

You take no chances, you know exactly what the contents of every can of "High Standard" will do. Forty years of experience and countless exposure tests have made this knowledge definite. Chemical analysis of the raw materials and thorough machine mixing insure a uniform product. You get in "High Standard" a paint that works easier, and spreads farther than cheaper paints—a paint that hides better and protects better the surface of your building—a paint that does not fade, that holds tight to the surface in perfectly protecting coats—that fails only by gradual wear and leaves a good surface for repainting. It actually costs less to use this better paint and get its perfect protection. It goes so much farther—and it lasts so much longer on the building that its use is true economy. Ask us for an estimate on your paint requirements.

TESTING A FREIGHT CAR.

Shower Baths Are Used For Detecting Leaky Roofs. Shower baths for freight cars? Certainly. Treating the cars to a good bath every now and then is the method which railroads have devised to prevent having to pay for freight damaged while in transit by water leaking through the car roofs. To detect a leak in the roof of a freight car before it has caused any damage to the goods inside is no easy matter. Previous to the introduction of the shower baths for cars railroads frequently had to pay heavy bills for damage caused by roofs which were supposedly in the best of condition. To overcome this difficulty on several large railroad systems every car is given at regular intervals a severe test for leaks by means of shower baths. The bathing apparatus is rigged over a track along which the car is run at slow speed. Enormous volumes of water are poured upon the car and with such force that water will find its way inside if there is any fault in the roof, sheathing or ends. As soon as the car emerges from the bath inspectors examine it carefully and mark with chalk any signs of leaks. A car thus marked is sent to the shop to be made waterproof. Before it is sent out to resume its work it is subjected to a second shower bath to determine whether the repairs have been satisfactorily made.

MODERN GREEKS.

Those at Home Outnumbered by Those in Other Countries. What and who are these modern Greeks? The most skeptical investigators admit that in most of them is some blood transmitted from ancient Greece and that there is a proportion of Greek descent in Greece about equal to that of Anglo-Saxon descent in America. For the rest the modern Greeks are either Albanian or Slav or Vlach. Besides the Greeks in Greece there are other Greeks who far outnumber them. They are found on all the coasts of the Ottoman empire. Crete and the other islands until very lately under Turkish sovereignty have no other inhabitants important in numbers. They are numerous in Asia Minor, in Syria and in Egypt. While domiciled elsewhere they remain passionate in devotion to the Greece they style Hellas, the modern kingdom, whose people are called Hellenes, and, being masters of commerce and finance, many of them have gained enormous fortunes, from which they pour great sums into Athens particularly, but into Greece generally, for public buildings and endowments.—From "The Balkans—A Laboratory of History," by William Milligan Sloane.

Cleopatra and Poisons.

Cleopatra assembled all kinds of deadly poisons and began experiments with all the criminals sentenced to death in order to see if the action of the poison was painless. As she observed that those which acted quickly brought death with great pain and that the milder poisons worked slowly, she began experiments with poisonous animals, setting them upon other animals in her presence. This she did daily and noted that among them all only the bite of a certain poisonous snake evoked without tremor or pain a certain numbness and invincible desire for sleep so that the victims gradually died with a light sweat upon the face and gradual darkening of the senses, and when one tried to awaken them or to brighten them were as unwilling as those who are in a deep sleep.—Plutarch.

In The Spring

Soldiers on the Battlefield.

"There is no greater patriot—not even the soldier on the battlefield—than the man who battles with the stubborn soil and makes it yield for the support of the nation." We have in Canada a power of dominion in our resources that will make the power that comes with strategy, brute force and armament, insignificant. If we know what we have and use it wisely, we will make others dependent upon us.

The stomach is the center of the body from which radiates our vitality, strenuousness, our fighting strength. A healthy stomach turns the food we eat into nourishment for the blood stream and the nerves. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery refreshes and tones up the stomach walls. Removes the poisonous gases from the system. The first day you start to take this reliable medicine, impure germs and accumulations begin to separate in the blood and are then expelled through the liver, bowels and kidneys.

Get Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to-day from any medicine dealer; it is a powerful blood purifier and tonic. Depend upon this grand remedy to give you the kind of blood that makes the skin clear, the mind alert, the vision keener and puts ambition and energy into the entire body. Contains neither alcohol nor narcotics. Its ingredients are made public and printed on wrapper. It's a pure alternative extract made with glycerine from native roots and herbs. Sold by medicine dealers in liquid or tablet form, or sent 50 cents to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., for a trial box of tablets.

Send fifty cents (or stamps) to pay for wrapping and mailing a copy of the Common Sense Medical Adviser, in cloth binding, 1008 pages, with color plates.

Saved by a Dream. Hints conveyed by dreams are occasionally worth heeding, says the London Chronicle. The late Lord Dufferin when in Paris dreamed that he was in a hearse on the way to the cemetery. A few days later, as he was about to enter the elevator of a certain hotel, he was startled to find that the attendant was a double of the driver of the hearse in his dream. He thereupon promptly left the elevator and walked upstairs. The car ascended without him, but as it neared the top something in the mechanism gave way, and the passengers met their death. Had they also, one wonders, been forewarned in a dream?

A Goat's Voice. The drawler was talking into the telephone. "Why—er—ah! I think—ah-h-h!—perhaps—ah-h-h-h!—I—ah-h-h-h!" "Say, look here!" came a sarcastic voice over the wire. "What do you think you are, anyhow—a confounded nanny goat?"

A Little Mixed. Riding in an omnibus up Regent street last evening I heard an old lady annoying the other passengers with remarks. The conductor remonstrated with her, saying, "Ma'am, remember you are in a public vehicle and behave as such."—London Spectator.

Evolution of the Orange. The orange was originally a pear shaped fruit about the size of the common wild cherry. Its evolution is believed by naturalists to be due to 1,200 years of cultivation.

Production and Thrift

"To win the war with the decisiveness which will ensure lasting peace, the Empire will require to put forth its full collective power in men and in money. From this viewpoint it is our true policy to augment our financial strength by multiplying our productive exertions and by exercising rigid economy, which reduces to the minimum all expenditures upon luxuries and non-essentials. Only in this way shall we be able to make good the loss caused by the withdrawal of so many of our workers from industrial activities, repair the wastage of the war, and find the funds for its continuance. It cannot be too frequently or too earnestly impressed upon our people that the heaviest burdens of the conflict still lie before us, and that industry and thrift are, for those who remain at home, supreme patriotic duties upon whose faithful fulfilment our success, and consequently our national safety, may ultimately depend."

SIR THOMAS WHITE, Minister of Finance.

PRODUCE MORE, SAVE MORE.
MAKE LABOUR EFFICIENT.
SAVE MATERIALS FROM WASTE.
SPEND MONEY WISELY.

LET US PRODUCE AND SAVE—

The war is now turning on a contest of all forces and resources—men, munitions, food, money. The call to all is to produce more and more. It may be necessary to work harder. The place of those who enlist must be taken by those at home, men and women, old and young. The more we produce the more we can save. Produce more on the farms and in the gardens. Save more and help to win the war.

LET US NOT WASTE OUR LABOUR—

In this war-time all labour should be directly productive or should be assisting in production. Make it as efficient as possible. If your labour is on something that can be postponed, put it off till after the war and make your labour tell now. Making war is the first business of all Canadians. Efficiency in labour is as important as efficiency in fighting.

LET US NOT WASTE MATERIALS—

Begin at home. The larger portion of salaries and wages is spent on the home—food, fuel, light, clothing. Are any of these things being wasted? $20.00 a year saved from waste in every home in Canada will more than pay the interest on a war debt of $500,000,000.

LET US SPEND OUR MONEY WISELY—

Are you spending your money to the best advantage? What do you think of extravagance in war time? Tens of thousands of Canadians are daily risking their lives for us at home. Is it not our duty to be careful and economical? Canadian dollars are an important part of the war equipment. Make them tell. Have a War Savings Account. Buy a War Bond.

Terence Maloney

A Story For St. Patrick's Day

By F. A. MITCHEL

You've all heard of Larry O'Toole. Of the beautiful town of Drumgoole. He had but one eye. To ogle ye by—
Oh, murder, but that was a Jew!!
A fool
He made of the girls, this O'Toole.

Whoever was this Larry O'Toole of Mr. Thackeray's he was certainly the counterpart of one Terence Maloney, who was born in the eighteenth century and died in the nineteenth. Terence was about halfway through with his mortal career when the eighteenth century was coming to an end, and with it the differences between Ireland and England were entering upon one of their periodical explosions.

There was everything about Terence to cause him to be beloved. In the first place he had a fine crop of auburn hair on his head that kinked itself into dozens of little curls. Unlike Mr. Thackeray's friend, he had two eyes, brimming with good humor. His complexion was that mixture of white and red which is never found in such perfection as in Erin. His lips were cameo cut, and a succession of smiles was continually cascading over them. His figure was light and agile, his limbs being seemingly moved by hidden springs.

Such a combination of attractions might well be expected to make a fool of the girls. At any rate, not a girl ever came near him without giving him at least a part of her heart. But blame seemed to roll off Terence like water off a duck's back. No girl could complain of his endeavoring to win her, for he was in a constitutional state of girl winning. The good humor constantly bubbling in his eyes and the smiles hovering about his lips were considered a perennial supply which all might quaff. If any girl inveighed against Terence for deceiving her there were dozens to condemn her for desisting to appropriate what belonged to every girl in Ireland.

Naturally when the troubles of '08 came on Terence was imbued heart and soul with rebellion. It is just such persons as he who enter upon enterprises without counting the cost. He was not a leader in the true sense of the word; he was rather a fomenter. Not that he went about pleading with his fellow countrymen to rise, but that, having taken up the cause of Ireland, he was so popular that every Irish man or woman who was in doubt as to his or her political part, on hearing that Terence Maloney was a patriot resolved at once to be a patriot too. If the real leaders of the movement desired to win over a town where old and experienced heads were influencing the people to caution they would send Terence there. He would ride through the main street, scattering smiles to the right and to the left, and the only oratorical effort needed were the words, spoken in Terence's rich, sonorous voice, "Are ye wild us?" Whereupon a succession of affirmative shouts would roll down the street, keeping pace with the orator.

Hence it was that one Peter Shaw, an agent of the English government sent to Ireland to send back information as to the best measure of suppressing the rebellion, wrote to London that there was one man, Terence Maloney, unknown to the government, who was doing more harm to the British cause than the real leaders. Shaw advised the government to arrest Maloney and get him across the channel, but he cautioned them against any public arrest, since Maloney was so popular that such course would influence all his friends. Shaw received instructions to use his own judgment in the matter.

It seemed advisable to the government agent to wait and watch for a favorable opportunity to eliminate Mr. Maloney. Not till the rebellion was coming to an end did he consider it safe to make the arrest. And then instead of accusing Terence of treason he trumped up a charge against him of highway robbery. Realizing what a stir it would make to prefer the former charge, he hoped to allay the feeling by proving that his man was a common criminal.

Shaw learned that on the evening before St. Patrick's day Terence was to attend a ball in the town hall of his native village. The agent got together a number of persons in his pay who were to lay a trap for the young patriot. Terence was present, scattering his smiles as usual. When the dancing was at its height a messenger delivered a note to Terence stating that a friend had been wounded in a duel and desired to see him immedi-

Terence left the hall, mounted a horse and rode away. In passing a place darkened by overhanging trees he was met by half a dozen men who asked him some questions, then, with a cry of "Robbery!" put spurs to their horses and dashed away in every direction. Terence sat on his horse, wondering what it all meant. But a solution was not long in coming to him. He knew that Shaw was desirous of arresting him for treason, but dared not do it. It now occurred to him that he had been called from the hall on purpose to be waylaid by these men, who would doubtless the next day charge him with having robbed them on the highway.

The moment the explanation came to him Terence rode back to the ballroom, and it was not long before what had occurred was known to every one present. Groups of his friends discussed the matter, and various schemes were proposed whereby Mr. Shaw might be headed off. Some were in favor of Terence's taking flight. Others argued that this would be a confession of guilt and opposed it. No decision was reached by Terence's men friends, but the women, at the suggestion of one of their number, determined to oppose his arrest. No more dancing was done, and gradually the revelers dispersed. Terence went to his home at 3 o'clock in the morning and to bed, expecting an arrest during the day. How he should meet the charge that would be brought against him, except by denial, he did not know. The rebellion had by this time proved abortive, and the English government held over him the power of life or death. Were he threatened with arrest for rebellion he would gallop away to parts unknown, but to run from a charge of robbery was more than his sensitive nature could bear.

However, trouble could not get a stronghold on the optimistic Terence, and he slept soundly till 10 o'clock in the morning. Then he awoke, looked at the clock, yawned and was about to turn over for another nap when a shadow passing his window arrested his attention. Sitting up in bed, he looked through the window and was astonished to see a girl with a fowling piece on her shoulder marching to and fro without.

Jumping out of bed, he donned a dressing gown and went about the house, looking out wherever there was an opening. In the yard were some twenty girls, all armed. A chain of feminine sentinels surrounded the house.

"Be the powers!" quoth Terence. "What does it mean?"
"Och, Terence," said his mother, who came up behind him, "the girls are determined that Shaw shan't take you away from 'em."
"What girls, mother?"
"Why, all the girls you love and who love you."

Terence was amazed.
"What in the name of St. Patrick are they going to do?"
"Resist an arrest."
"But, mother, I can't hide here protected by a company of girls."
Throwing open the front door, he appeared, looking very handsome in his informal apparel. He was met by a clapping of hands and shouts of approbation.

"Girls! Darlins!" he shouted. "I'm thinkin'—"
"Keep on thinkin', and go back in the house."
"This won't do. I'm a man!"
Several girls ran up on to the porch, hustled him through the door, shut and locked it. This was done because a posse was seen coming down the street. Each girl took up her implement of war—some guns, some sickles, some pokers—and formed in line before the house. Shaw was with the posse and was evidently directing their movements. He advanced, with the words:
"What's this?"
One of the girls, who was evidently their leader, replied: "You're intending to arrest Terence Maloney on a false charge. We're going to resist you."

Shaw seemed very much astonished. He forced a smile, looked at the array of amazons curiously, then retired and held a conference with his men. He was determined to force his way into the house in spite of the feminine guard. The six men composing the guard, armed with shillalaha, advanced. A cordon of girls stood in their way. Some poked the men with sticks, some brandished sickles in their faces, and suddenly an upper window of the house opened and Terence's mother emptied a bucket of boiling water on the men's heads. This caused a retreat. The besiegers as soon as they had gone beyond the range of the women halted and began a consultation which lasted for some time, for the problem of men subduing more than double their number of girls without injuring some of them, which Shaw did not relish doing, was a problem. Terence had a view of the men from a window and chafed at not being able to take a hand in the fray. He had looked for a fowling piece he kept hanging on the wall, but his mother, not caring to have her son risk a charge of resistance to the legal authorities, perhaps murder, had hidden the gun. A charge of robbery, she said, was quite enough. So Terence was obliged to content himself with witnessing his defense by women without taking a hand in the scrimmage.

All St. Patrick's day the girls stood guard over their favorite, and every time an advance was made some new method was devised on the part of the defense to drive them back, though hot water was found to be the most effective. Toward evening Shaw drew off his force. Then Terence came out on to the porch and tried to thank his defenders, but there was such a babel of tongues, so many interruptions, that he was obliged to desist. So he invited them in for a snack and one and all accepted.

Long before this some of the men of the town had gathered about the house gazing the posse and encouraging the girls. Indeed, whenever it looked as if the latter would be worsted these men showed signs of taking a hand in the defense. When the posse retired all went in to congratulate Terence on having been so ably defended, and the evening was spent in revelry.

The next morning Shaw went back to England, and Terence Maloney was thenceforth free from molestation.

FARM SANITATION.

The leaders of the national grange have suggested that a good subject for local organizations to study this winter is sanitary equipment for the farm. This includes water supply, sewage disposal and the accompanying problems of plumbing. No better suggestion could be made. There is perhaps no single subject pertaining to the farm home which is of more interest and which will mean more to farmers than this. Farmers have outgrown the old methods, and a constantly increasing number in all parts of the country are looking up the questions relating to home betterment.—Orange Judd Farmer.

CONTROL OF BAGWORM.

Pick Off the Cocoons Which Dangle From Twigs and Branches.

If you would save the arbor vitae, red cedars, maples, and other trees and shrubs, pick off the long brown, slender, silken cases or cocoons which dangle from their twigs and branches and burn them. This will destroy the well known bag or basket worm, which is now in the egg stage within the cases. This pest is often a great deal more destructive than cankerworms, San Jose scale, and other pests. Each bag or case may contain from 700 to 1,200 eggs, which during next May and June will hatch into as many hungry caterpillars.

In many cases the bag worm is doing more harm to shrubbery and shade trees than all other insects combined. If the proper measures of prevention are put into practice it is, however, one of the easiest insects to control.

A simple way of destroying the pest is to collect the cases or bags during the fall and winter and burn them. If this work is thoroughly done the eggs of the insects will be destroyed and the pest may be completely stamped out.

Since the caterpillars that hatch from the bagworm eggs are leaf eaters they may be destroyed by the use of arsenical poisons. When the worms are small or just emerging from the bag-like cases during May and June they may be killed easily by spraying the foliage thoroughly with arsenate of lead paste at the rate of three pounds to fifty gallons of water. This spray should be applied just as soon as the pest begins to feed in the spring. Later sprays may require more poison. During the summer sticky bands placed around the trunks of the trees will protect them from the caterpillars which wander at this season.

Your Asthma, Too. The efficacy of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy is not something that is merely to be hoped for; it is to be expected. It never fails to bring relief, and in your own individual case it will do the same. So universal has been the success of this far-famed cure that every one afflicted with this disease owes it to himself to try it.

Watches small enough to be worn in a man's coat lapel have been invented.

IMPOLITE OFFICIALS.

They Sometimes Get a Jolt, as One of Them Did in Paris.
It would appear that the public servant, no matter how small his position or humble his function, is much the same person in France as in this country, manifesting much the same lack of courtesy as that which meets us so often here.

Recently in one of the departments of a Parisian municipality, toward mid-day, a little old employee was about to begin munching a bunch of carrots. Some one rapped at the door. No response from the little employee.
The person who had rapped entered. "Monsieur," he began.
"Come back at 2 o'clock," growled the little employee, as he continued to gnaw away at the vegetables.
"But"—
"No buts about it. Come back at 2 o'clock."
"I am the new chief of the bureau," said the visitor.
At once the little employee jumped up, trying to hide the bunch of carrots behind his back, as he bowed deeply to the visitor.
"Go before me," said the chief, "and show me, if you please, to my bureau."
The little employee was greatly embarrassed by his carrots. He did not know where to put them.
The chief took pity on him. "My friend," he said, "put down your carrots. There is no shame in eating vegetables. But that respectable occupation should not prevent you from giving a gracious welcome to the public. Let this serve as a lesson to you."

Mathematical Prizes.
The Academy of Sciences of Göttingen, Germany, holds $21,000 to be awarded to Whomsoever can furnish a general proof of Fermat's theorem, which is to the effect that in the equation $x^n + y^n = z^n$ if n stands for an integer (whole number) greater than 2 no integral values can be found for x, y and z. This must be furnished before Sept. 1, 1907.

The French Academy of Sciences awards every five years the Jean Reynaud prize of $53,200 for the best original work in mathematics.

Mark Twain's Advice.
Mark Twain was a firm believer in the higher education of women, but Hartford still remembers a speech he made one June to a platform of Hartford girl graduates.

This speech, a humorous attack on the college girl, ended:
"Go forth. Fall in love. Marry. Set up housekeeping. And then, when your husband wants a shirt ironed, send out for a gridiron to do it with."

Pride of Pedigree.
"Who was that you just spoke to?"
"Can't think of his name just now, but he is a descendant of one of the old families."
"He hasn't got over it yet?"
"My boy, they never do."

Worth Cultivating.
"I think fortune is beginning to smile on me a little."
"Keep up the flirtation," advised the friend.

You Can

cure that old sore or ulcer from which you have been suffering for so long, if you will only use an ointment that is capable of reaching the seat of the trouble. Zam-Buk can do this because of its unusual penetrating power. Also, Zam-Buk is a strong germicide—germs cannot live where Zam-Buk is applied, so that the germs are destroyed not only on the surface, but in all the diseased underlying tissue. The healing commences; new tissue replacing the old and diseased, until the sore is thoroughly and permanently cured.

The case of Miss Frances Daudin, of Somerset, Man., verifies the above statement. She writes: "I suffered for over twenty years with an ulcer on my leg, and all the remedies tried during that time proved ineffective. Several doctors treated me, but I got no benefit. Finally I tried Zam-Buk, and I am thankful to say that after perseverance with this ointment I am now completely cured."
Zam-Buk is also splendid for eczema, abscesses, boils, pimples, ringworm, piles, blood-poisoning, cuts, burns, and all skin injuries and diseases. Best balm for baby's sores. All druggists, 50c. box, 3 for $1.25, or from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

Blackburn-Thoman

A very pretty spring wedding took place at the home of Mr. Alexander Thoman, Jr., Arkona, on Wednesday, April 5th, at high noon, when his eldest daughter, Julia, was united in marriage to Mr. Peter A. Blackburn of Sarnia. The ceremony, which was performed by Rev. A. W. Hare, was under an arch of evergreens and cut flowers. The groom was supported by Mr. Orval Thoman, brother of the bride. The bride was gowned in a beautiful creation of ivory satin, trimmed with lace and seed pearls. Miss Lila Dowling very gracefully assisted the bride in a gown of floral silk marquisette. Little Miss Muriel Langau looked very pretty as flower girl and ring bearer. There were about forty guests present. After partaking of the good things that were bountifully provided, the guests bade the happy couple who left on a short visit to Chicago, a hearty farewell. The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful sunburst of pearls; to the bridesmaid a gold bracelet; to the best man a pair of gold cuff links and to the flower girl a gold bracelet.

Very many handsome and useful presents testified to the high esteem in which the bride was held. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Blackburn will be at home to their friends at 186 William St., Sarnia.—Standard.

The stable and carriage barn owned by Dr. Tattersall, V. S., Nairn, was destroyed by fire. This is the first fire that has occurred in that village in nearly a century.

BANISH PIMPLES AND ERUPTIONS

In the Spring Most People Need a Tonic Medicine

One of the surest signs that the blood is out of order is the pimples, unsightly eruptions and eczema that come frequently with the change from winter to spring. These prove that the long indoor life or winter has had its effect upon the blood, and that a tonic medicine is needed to put it right. Indeed there are few people who do not need a tonic at this season. Bad blood does not merely show itself in disfiguring eruptions. To this same condition is due attacks of rheumatism and lumbago; the sharp stabbing pains of sciatica and neuralgia; poor appetite and a desire to avoid exertion. You cannot cure these troubles by the use of purgative medicines—you need a tonic, and a tonic only, and among all medicines there is none can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for their tonic, life-giving, nerve-restoring powers. Every dose of this medicine makes new, rich blood which drives out impurities, stimulates every organ and brings a feeling of new health and energy to weak, tired, ailing men, women and children. If you are out of sorts give this medicine a trial and see how quickly it will restore the appetite, revive drooping spirits, and fill your veins with new, health-giving blood.

You can get these Pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

$50,000 a Month Increase In Wages—Staff Increased By 900 Men Since War Was Declared

Increase the prosperity of the individual and you increase the prosperity of the nation.

The influence thus exerted by the Ford Canadian Company towards upholding and upbuilding the prosperity of the Dominion in times when such an influence is intensely valuable forms a story of real human interest.

This story is founded on three events:

1. An increase in wages of $50,000 a month.
2. The reduction of working hours from nine to eight.
3. The addition of 900 men to the pay roll since war began.

In the Spring of 1915, Canadian manufacturing interests were in most cases being guided by a policy of retrenchment rather than of expansion. It was a time when caution seemed the better part of valor.

The Ford Canadian executives, however, preferred to look upon the situation with more optimism. At that time they were considering putting into effect a higher standard of wages for their employees. They saw no reason why they should stop the wheels of progress on account of the war, so in April 1915, the new Ford standard of wages was adopted.

Here was a war-time increase of from 15 to 60% for every eligible worker in the plant. The average laborer was at once presented with a $38 a month raise.

It is estimated that this increase distributed among the 2,400 Canadian Ford employes amounts to about $50,000 a month. And bear in mind that their previous rate of pay was considered good.

So, by April 15, 1916, the Ford Canadian Company will have given its employes $600,000 in increased wages for one year. Surely, this is increasing the prosperity of the individual with a vengeance.

Likewise it increases the prosperity of the merchants from whom these employes buy. And it increases the prosperity of the wholesaler from whom the merchants buy and so on down the list. The commission man, the jobber, the manufacturers in all parts of Canada share in it. And in the natural course of events the whole nation benefits from this increased distribution of money.

In the nine leading cities from St. John to Vancouver there are Ford Branch establishments that are also assisting in this promotion of prosperity.

In the plant at Ford City there are about 2000 employes whose places of abode are in the four towns of Ford City, Walkerville, Windsor and Sandwich. There are 1000 more employes working in establishments in these four towns whose output either in its entirety or its greater part is taken by the Ford plant. Thus 3,000 persons there are dependent upon the Ford factory.

Basing an estimate on the fact given in the last census report that there are five in the average family, this makes a total of 15,000 people that look to the Ford Plant for their support.

In other words half the people in these four towns whose combined population is about 30,000 are directly benefited by the prosperity of the Ford Canadian Company.

At the same time that they received this increase in wages, the Ford employes were further benefited by a reduction in working hours of from nine to eight per day.

Few firms, excepting those working on government contracts, have found it desirable to add to their number of employes to any great extent since war began. But so successful has been the Ford Canadian policy of full speed ahead, war or no war, that it has been necessary to take on 900 additional employes since August 1914.

Has the Ford Company as a Canadian Plant with its own army of highly paid workers done "its bit" for Canada outside of boosting her prosperity? Again let us consult statistics.

In contributing to the Patriotic and Red Cross funds, the employes, officers and stockholders gave $59,304.39 or an average of $29.60. The factory workers alone gave $30,410.04 or an average of $12.71 per man. Office employes gave $6,168.60; everyone, almost without a single exception gave to the absolute limit. For instance, twenty-two girl office employes, stenographers and file clerks contributed a total of $77.50 per month for 12 months.

The total contribution from the town of Ford with its 2,200 population was $75,776.99 or an average of about $34 per capita which is one of the largest per capita contributions of any city or town in the Dominion.

Ford employes are the highest paid automobile workers in the British Empire. They are paid 3 times as well as the average Canadian workmen—receiving $1,200 a year as against the average wage of $435 as given by the last census reports.

The Ford Canadian executives have proved to their own satisfaction—and figures make this proof obvious—that the increased permanency of a man's employment, his increased skill gained through this longer time of service, and other factors, fully counterbalance this increased expenditure in wages.

And so the owner of a Ford car receives a direct benefit from all this since it results in putting into his car a skilled workmanship that is most unusual and that goes far towards making the Ford car the wonderful mechanical production that it is today.
