AUSTRIA GETTING READY FOR WAR.

Won't Be Caught Napping by Hungary.

Military Preparations Already Under Way to Coerce Hungarians Should They Attempt to Secede.

(Special cable to the Star.)
VIENNA, July 27.—The aged emperor of Austria evidently does not propose to be caught napping like the aged king of Sweden.
There has been so much talk regarding the possible peaceable separation of Hungary, Austria playing the part of Sweden, Hungary the part of Norway, that the rulers of the dual kingdom have apparently decided to put a stop to it, and they are preparing to show the people of Hungary that any attempt at secession will be put down with the sword.
The Alleduente Tagblatt, of Vienna, is authority for the statement that the military authorities of Austria are preparing for the eventuality of a campaign against Hungary should that country continue its resistance to the emperor.
The news is correct. At the command of the heir to the throne, the Archduke Francis Ferdinand, who represents the emperor in the supreme command of the army, military preparations are already being taken with a view to adopting forcible measures should Hungary secede or declare her intention to do so in open parliament.
As it was feared that Hungary might take this step the Hungarian parliament on the day of its opening was adjourned to September 15.

A HOOLEY MILLIONAIRE
NOW A BANKRUPT.

(Special cable to the Star.)
LONDON, July 28.—The memory of Mr. Hooley's gigantic promotions was revived in the bankruptcy court this week during a meeting of the creditors held under the supervision of Mr. D. Rucker, described on a creditor's petition as a financier. The debtor states, however, that he has now no occupation. Mr. Rucker was formerly associated with E. T. Hooley in the promotion of the Dunlop company, in respect of which his liabilities are $30,000, and he has no assets. The debtor has consented to an adjudication, and no proposal was submitted.

RIVALS BATTLE
ON HIGH TREESTLE.

NEW YORK, July 28.—High up on the trestle of the New York Central Railroad, in 124th street and Park avenue, while trains were passing on either side of them, John Smith and James Bloomfield, of No. 500 East 106th street, fought a duel for a girl with whom both are in love. Bloomfield was armed with a heavy steel wrench, while Smith had a revolver, with which he wounded his rival twice, and then made his escape by jumping from the trestle to the street, a distance of about thirty feet.

FUGITIVE NEGRO MURDERER
ATTEMPTS TO KIDNAP CHILD.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., July 28.—A negro, believed to be Charles Long, the alleged murderer of Matthew Cunningham, of Trenton, who has been hiding in Diamond Swamp, near South Plainfield, attempted yesterday to carry off one of the little girls of a French air camp at Netherwood. A number of New York children and the mothers of some of them, were passing a clump of woods when a negro jumped out and grabbed Annie Wagner, aged 9 years. The child's mother, with other women, pursued the negro, who dropped the little girl, turned about, flourished a revolver, and fled.

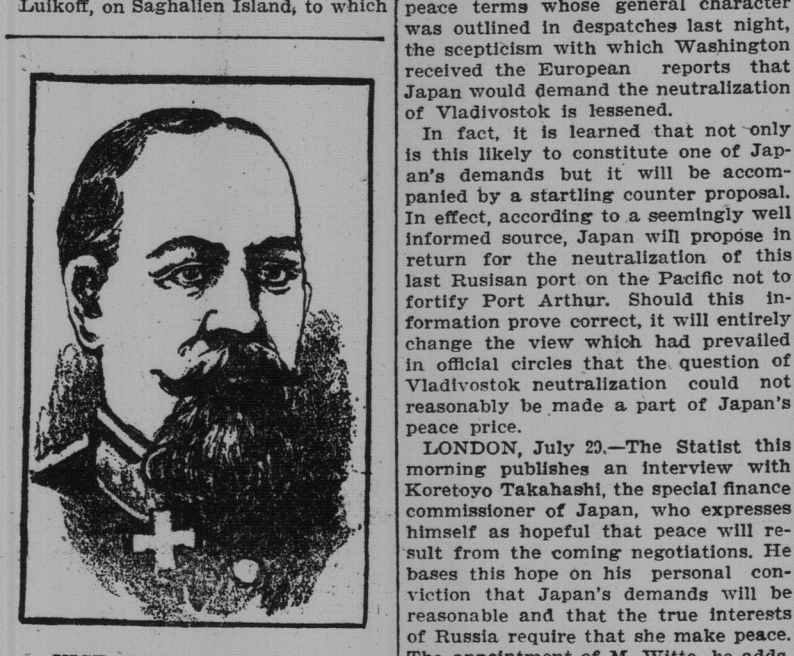

The death occurred yesterday afternoon of Miss Margaret Walsh, the ten year old daughter of Mrs. Patrick Walsh, of 314 Watson street, West End. The deceased was a particularly bright child and had many friends on the west side who deeply sympathize with the bereaved parents. Her father is at present at Gannet Rock. The funeral will take place at 2.30 o'clock on Sunday.

"Yes, he actually tried to kiss me in the dark." "But why couldn't he obtain the same result by merely closing his eyes?"

RUSSIAN FORCES IN SORE
STRAITS ON SAKHALEN.

Whole Island Will Soon Be Captured—Japs May Offer Not to Fortify Port Arthur If Russia Will Do the Same at Vladivostok.

(Special cable to the Star.)
TOKIO, July 28.—The Japanese papers for the first time during the present war seem to allow themselves a little latitude in connection with military and naval operations in discussing the forward movement on the island of Sakhalen. Though it is implied rather than expressed, reading between the lines one can see that the Japanese believe that with Sakhalen completely subjected the Japanese can enter the peace conference with heavy lists of conquests to show. Implying heavy demands to be met. They can also use the island as a base of operations for an attack on Vladivostok.
One report that has reached here indicating the mixed population of Sakhalen is that out of the Russian population of 23,000 on the island, 23,000 are convicts or ex-convicts, and of these convicts and ex-convicts, at least 8,000 are murderers.

Here the Russians are completely isolated owing to the lack of roads. It is impossible for them to make a long stand and it is expected that they will soon be subdued. KISSED GIRL THEN SHOT HER DEAD.

Rejected Lover Also Murdered Sweetheart's Father.

Murderer Entered Bedroom and Killed Her When She Woke—Her Companion Was Smothered in Bed Clothes.

(Special cable to the Star.)
GLASGOW, July 29.—A terrible tragedy occurred this week at a house in South Glasgow, where lived Kalman Goldberg, aged forty, and his daughter, Lea, aged sixteen.
A traveller, named Louis Klirks, had fallen in love with the girl, but she and her father had resented his advances. Klirks succeeded in effecting an entrance into her apartments early in the morning and kissed her while she was still asleep. This aroused her, and she screamed to her father, who was sleeping in an adjoining room. Before, however, Goldberg could reach his daughter's room Klirks had shot her twice in the head with a six chambered revolver, and when Goldberg confronted the assassin in the lobby Klirks also shot him in the head. The girl died almost instantly, and the condition of her father is very serious. Klirks after shooting the daughter and father, proceeded to another room, where Lazarus Goldberg, the girl's brother, was still sleeping. The latter, however, finally succeeded in knocking the man down with a stool, and getting out of a window, notified the police, who subsequently took Klirks into custody. An examination developed the fact that the murdered girl was sleeping with a companion named Fanny Blint, who was in such a state of terror that she rolled herself in the bed clothes and was smothered.

KING EDWARD'S FRENCH
CHEF MADE M. V. C.

(Special cable to the Star.)
LONDON, July 29.—King Edward has bestowed on his French chef the Victorian order. M. Menager, the King's chef, is a very important personage in the royal household. His Majesty pays to this official an annual salary quite as large as that received by an admiral of the fleet, and larger than that of many bishops. There is no doubt but that M. Menager, as a monarch of a monarch's kitchen, is a great success. He does not sleep at Buckingham Palace, but at a house in a street at no great distance from the royal residence. Dinner is always served at the palace at 7 o'clock, when scarlet coats, made in a snow-tailed style, and dark blue waistcoats, gold braided, comprise the livery worn by the servants. The royal chef does not have anything to do with the King's breakfast, it being only the luncheon and dinner which require M. Menager's professional attendance.

"I don't believe," said Mrs. Spudsworth, "in running people down behind their backs."
"But," replied Mrs. Waddenscadda, "what can you do if they neglect to get out of your way when you have tooted at them?"

ST. JOHN STAR, SATURDAY, JULY 29, 1905.

(E. G. V. Thomas.)

Of course, we all know graft when we see it, in the shape of a bribe to a legislator, in the shape of a tip to a waiter or bellboy, in the shape of ridiculously enormous salaries and fat directors' fees and stock syndicate profits to life insurance officials. But are we all so ready to recognize graft in some of its many much more common forms?

For example, do any of the incidents here set forth tell of graft? And if not, graft, what? Business and social amenities? Custom? Thoughtlessness? Stupidity? Selfishness? Carelessness? Or just plain, everyday downright human nature?

Not so very long ago a certain city editor of the metropolis assigned a reporter to interview a certain eminent divine on the growth of the Easter spirit in this country among the Protestant denominations. Seeking the preacher in his church study, the reporter said to him:

"Dr. Blank, the paper which I represent would very much appreciate the courtesy of an interview with you on the manner in which the various Protestant denominations are celebrating Easter with all the elaborate services of the Catholic Church. Would you feel like granting the interview?"

The reverend doctor beamed.

"Why, certainly," he replied, "I shall be only too glad to tell you what I know about the development, and, furthermore, let me congratulate you on bringing to my attention a subject that is most decidedly interesting, but one which would doubtless never have occurred to me had you not mentioned it just now."

Then, in answer to the questions put to him, the preacher gave the reporter all the necessary material for a highly entertaining interview, throwing many unusual sidelights on the way the Protestant churches, one by one, lost their content for the celebration of what they had chosen to term a pagan surmise and began observing it in all solemnity.

When the last question had been put and answered and the reporter had folded his notes, he warmly thanked the preacher for his courtesy and kindness, and the latter responded that he had been only too glad to have had the opportunity presented to him of talking on a subject of such great interest to him, but which he must repeat again, had never occurred to him.

So the reporter returned, jubilant, to his city editor, and told all that had occurred between him and the preacher, even to the compliment the latter had paid the editor's mental acumen in thinking of the subject matter of the interview. Therefore, what was the city editor's surprise two days later when he received this letter in his official mail:

"Dear Sir:—Day before yesterday, when one of your young men called on me to interview me on the growth of the Easter spirit among the Protestant churches generally, I did what I could to supply him with the information desired. I now write to ask you when I shall receive a check; and I trust that you will pardon the suggestion that it should be one commensurate with the unusual information I gave him. If, however, you do not see your way clear to send a check for an interview, may I further suggest that you do not use the interview, but permit me to dispose of it to my denominational paper, which, I feel, would be only too glad to pay me for such an article. Indeed, I see how I can make two articles out of the material."

The city editor read the letter over in dumb amazement. Then he read it slowly and carefully the second time. Then he listened again to the reporter detail all the circumstances attending the interview. Then he handed the reporter the preacher's letter, and as he did so, one word escaped him.

Was that word—graft?

It was another reporter who sought out a reformer, now nationally prominent, when he was just beginning to come to the front, and asked him if he would grant the favor of talking on a certain phase of a question then before the public.

The coming man jumped when the reporter spoke.

"By Jove!" he exclaimed, "why didn't I think of that phase of the thing long ago? Talk about it! No, sir! I'll save that idea until next week, and then work it up for a magazine which I know will be glad to pay me a hundred and fifty dollars, at least, for the discussion. But is there anything else I can talk to you about?"

Graft?

One of last June's many brides—typical of the others, to all appearances—was making up a list of guests for the big church wedding which she had set her heart on and about which she had carried her point, despite the mild remonstrances of her fiancé in favor of a quiet home affair.

It took her some days to compile a list that she was certain included all her friends and acquaintances, and would not cause any one to think that he or she had been either intentionally or unintentionally overlooked. Then she sought her father.

"Daddy, dear," she said, "I've got all the names of the people I personally want to invite to my wedding. Do you want to look it over and add any names?"

The indulgent head of the household superficially scanned the list; then jotted down the name of a half dozen boyhood cronies; then handed it back to his daughter with the remark that it was a very satisfactory list indeed.

The daughter looked at the new additions, and her face fell.

"Are they the only ones you want to invite?" she asked.

"Yes," said the father, "besides the ones you've already got down. They're my choicest friends, and I don't know of any live left off the list."

"But how about the lots and lots of men you do business with?"

"That's just it, daughter. They are not friends of mine; they are merely business acquaintances."

"But, father, why can't you invite them—anyway, the ones you do the most business with? I'd get so many more gifts then!"

On the other hand, cases have been known where fathers insisted on inviting mere business acquaintances for various ostensible business reasons to family weddings. The cloth is not all cut one way, but the question is: Is this graft? And if you can't decide the question for yourself, perhaps it would be well to ask the aid of some business acquaintance who has been the recipient of an invitation to the wedding of a daughter or a son of a man he knows solely in a business way.

When Smith went to the city from his home town, he was polite enough and thoughtful enough to look up his old friends who had preceded him to the broader field, but after paying a call all round, he neglected to avail himself of the numerous opportunities that were given him to continue the old friendships. It is safe to say that he did not see one of his old cronies twice a year, and whenever one of them, in an effort to get in touch with Smith, would call him up by phone to make an appointment for lunch or some social event, Smith would always reply that he was too busy.

After this had been going on for some time, Smith's cousin moved to the city; and the first thing the cousin did was to inquire of their old friends.

"How's Jones?" asked the cousin.

"Haven't seen him for six months," said Smith.

"Well, how's Brown?"

"Haven't seen him for six months, either."

Then the cousin asked:

"Don't you keep in touch with them? Do it went through the entire list; any more?"

"No," was the reply, "I don't. Why should I? They can't be of any service to me. I made it a point when I came here to know and associate only with people who will be useful to me."

Graft?

This same Smith decided that he would spend the summer months at the seashore.

"You see," he explained to his cousin, "it will not be so expensive as it may seem at first blush. I know a lot of swell girls down there whose fathers have cottages, so I'll just take a room at some bachelor hotel, get my breakfast at the restaurants—eggs and rolls and coffee won't cost much—and for most of my dinners I'll get myself invited to their homes by the girls I know."

Said a young man two years out of college—a broker's clerk and something of a society chap—to his chum:

"She's a good girl to know. Father's got wads of money. Gives her all sorts of things. Two afternoons last week she called up and wanted to know if I'd like to go out driving with her. Of course, I was delighted. Takes me out to her golf club, too, and the Country Club every once in a while. Meet a lot of influential people through her. Maybe some of them will be of benefit to me some time. But just now I'm having a jolly good time driving behind tandems and pairs and meeting people. Tell me what, she's a girl worth knowing and cultivating, and I intend to keep in her good graces. Why don't you get acquainted with somebody like her?"

Graft?

Mrs. Perkins was making a morning call on her sister, Mrs. Henry, who lives in two rooms in a non-housekeeping apartment house and takes her meals out. As the hands of the clock neared 12:30 Mrs. Henry remarked, naively:

"How would you like to drop in on me this afternoon, just about the time I'm about her lunch time now, and if we go right away I just know she'll ask us to stay to luncheon, and she always sets such dear little luncheons, and I like them, oh, a very great deal better than those they give us at that boarding house."

Graft?

"William," said the gray-headed head of a famous wholesale drygoods house to his junior partner, "I got a letter in this morning's mail from Hawkins saying that he would be in town day after tomorrow on a buying trip. You know what that means. Hawkins is doing a big business out in Colorado and his orders cannot amount to less than several thousand dollars. We've simply got to land him this time—we remember the fellows down the street and we both agreed at that time it was largely due to the good time they showed him."

Now, when he comes I'm going to turn him over to you. And for goodness sake, make him comfortable while he is here. See that he is nicely located at a good hotel, in a good room; then stay with him of evenings for company's sake and show him round a bit. He's particularly fond of the theatre, and he likes shows with chorus girls and all that. Make him feel that we appreciate him and think he is a good fellow. Here's a voucher for $150, and if you need any more money, let me know; for we want to land that order in full this time. And William, perhaps—perhaps, it would be well to invite him home for dinner one of the evenings."

Graft?

"I'm having a hard time placing anything like the usual number of orders this trip," a travelling man of twenty years' experience with a first-class house wrote the president of the firm. "It's this way: Blank & Co. lately allowed their man on the same route to a day entertainment expenses, and he's cutting right into my best trade, which, I fear, will largely desert me if you, too, don't raise the ante. Confidentially, I think it's a damned shame for us to be held up in this way by a lot of picaresque grafters, but we want the business, and so what are we going to do about it?"

What? Grafters?

"My son," said a successful lawyer, settling back in his chair, preparatory to giving his offspring a bit of fatherly advice—"my son, you would do well to follow my practice of keeping a box of fine imported cigars in my office desk for the benefit of those callers who smoke; and nearly every man is a smoker these days. A fine cigar will put any lover of the weed in a good frame of mind for the discussion of business, and, besides, it will make him feel that he is getting something for nothing out of you and coming out a little ahead of the game."

Something for nothing? And that something—graft?

Two men—such men as you and I are in carriage and dress—met on the street.

"By the way," said the taller, "do you remember the man I introduced you to the other day while going to lunch?"

"Done any business with him yet? He's in your line, you know."

"Not yet, but hope to."

"Well, when you do, don't forget how you happened to get next to him."

Graft?

"On my last trip west I struck a hotel in Chicago where I was able to load up with about all the paper I shall need in writing my next book," laughingly confessed a well-known writer of fiction. "Most liberal hotel I ever saw in the way of writing paper. Send down for some, and the clerk sends you back a ream. And did I take advantage of it? Well, I came back with my grip bulging full."

Graft?

Graft to demand of a famous man that he sent you his autograph, that you may sell it with your collection later on?

Graft to pull strings for complimentary tickets—for the circus, for example?

Graft to wear a shirtwaist for a week, then have it nicely pressed and take it back to the store where you bought it and get your money back—because it doesn't suit?

Graft to get a friend or an acquaintance to secure you an invitation to this, that, or the other function at which you want to be present?

Graft to have a professional singer or an elocutionist at a reception as a guest and then, by constant importuning, get the talented guest to sing or recite as a great favor to you?

Graft to act, incidentally, in a letter, after stating that everything is going well with you and Jack, that just now, through you, are considerable worried, for little Margaret is growing so fast and will need so many new clothes, knowing full well that the next letter from home will bring a substantial check?

Graft? And—as was asked in the better girl is the one who makes her outfit feel comfortable.

BARRING THE SHOPPING SLUMP WHICH FOLLOWS CHRISTMAS, this is about the most uninteresting period in the whole year. When I start out of an afternoon and meander through the shops I begin to feel weary, and frequently find myself wishing for September, so that I may nose about among the new fall goods. All one sees nowadays are lines of fabrics and clothing of which we read so much, and which we have ogled out of countenance since early May. They are stale to us now, and certainly they have served their day and generation. It almost seems as if the storekeepers, too, were tired of seeing them lingering around, for flaring advertisements announce great price-cutting; and yet, after all, this is a good procedure, for if these summery materials and garments remain over winter they will likely be relegated to the shelves as old-fashioned when spring arrives. While retail establishments are drifting along, as it were, until the fall show commences, the large wholesale concerns are throbbing with business—bright, new, fresh goods are being handled. They are what we are to wear when it grows cooler, but as yet I have not been privileged to feast my eyes on the monstrous array.

AGAIN I HAVE SEEN SOME SUMMER CLOTHES I DO NOT LIKE, and on the other hand some get-ups that were decidedly odd and seasonable. Just imagine yourself proceeding up river on a broiling day—one of those actually sticky, humid spells—and observing a group of young ladies standing on the wharf posing to the passengers on deck as a genuine bunch of Bohemians, a free-and-easy party of out-and-out summer girls, while their clothing denoted everything else but freedom and summerishness. One pretty miss was "charmingly" attired in a stuff dress, garnished as if she were going to church, and a half dozen white sun bonnets like she wore, would not have taken the oppressed look that she wore, away. One of her chums, after displaying a dress of unsummersy texture, was costumed in a knitted golf jacket! Before the steamer swung into the stream, however, a jolly knot of tanned and hardy-looking girls romped over the hill. One had on a blue striped cotton costume, a la sailor; another wore a crash suit, a third looking reasonable in cotton voile, and each miss was as cool, to all appearances, as the proverbial cucumber. Which goes to show that the real summer girl is the one who makes her outfit feel comfortable.

and it would be real hard to find a St. John female of other than advanced years who is not more or less interested in the ins and outs of clothing; what's going to be, what has been, and what really is now. With me this style question has got to be a regular fas, as you have perhaps judged by my chattering, but it's an interesting pastime, much less pernicious than bridge whist. Among the items of clothes gossip I found out this past week are these:

Fashion starters in gay Paris are wearing long, loose garments of the old dolman type. It is whispered that there is a deep laid plot to introduce these cape-fitted coats.

Contrary to expectations the separate waist, particularly in white, will reign again this fall and winter, even along with what otherwise might be termed really dress skirts—the swell evening sort.

When inspecting fall stocks don't forget to look the buttons over very carefully. I believe they are larger than for some time back and introduce a lot of novelties in material. This is particularly true in ladies' tailoring lines.

As far as colors are concerned it looks as though the good old staples would be favorites. Black will lead; red will follow, then blue and green. All will be in solid effects, no mixed colors, shadings or tints.

They say velvet costumes are among the new ideas for cooler weather. If this is so we may expect to see the velvet sections of all the big stores hereabouts laden with new qualities and the whole color-card range. Velvet does look nice—on some people.

WARNING TO DOG OWNERS.

(Chicago Record-Herald.)

The town of Hamilton, Montana, has a marshal who evidently does not intend to permit that place to go to the dogs. We find in the Western News, of Hamilton, the following warning, which, as we hope the inhabitants of that town have discovered ere this, speaks for itself:

"Henry," said Mrs. Peck, Mr. Smith's dog came very near biting me this afternoon. I was awfully frightened, and it's up to you to do something about it!" "I will, my dear," replied Peck. "I'll see Smith the first thing in the morning, and if he doesn't ask too much for the dog I'll buy him."

A PANACHE.

Last fall an Englishman of letters was staying, as the guest of an elderly lady, at a country house in Western Massachusetts. While they were driving one afternoon they had the misfortune to meet the omnipresent automobile at a sharp turn of the road. The horses, being spirited, shied, dashing the carriage against a tree and throwing its occupants out into the road. The Englishman picked himself up uninjured, but was horrified to see her aged hostess lying on the ground unconscious. Running to a nearby farmhouse, she knocked for some time before she finally succeeded in bringing a sunbonneted woman to the door. "A lady has been hurt—thrown from a carriage. She is lying down there in the road. Can you give me some whiskey for her?" cried the visitor in breathless anxiety. "Well, no, we don't never keep no whiskey," said the native-born after some deliberation. "Would the lady like a piece of pie?"—August Lippincott's Magazine.

SENSATIONAL ABDUCTION OF WEALTHY WOMAN.

(Special cable to the Star.)
BUDAPEST, July 28.—A sensational abduction took place one night this week just outside one of the principal theatres here. The performance had just concluded, when four masked men pushed their way through the crowd, and seizing a young lady who was waiting for her friends, bore her to a motor car which was drawn up in front of the building. Then the motor car was whirled away. When the young lady's friends had recovered from their stupefaction caused by the very audacity of the deed they informed the local police that she was Miss Ida Cernovitch, the daughter of a wealthy landowner in the neighborhood of Agram. Her family having been at feud with another branch of the house for many years it is supposed that the motive of this up-to-date motor car abduction is one of revenge upon the father, who was a successful litigant in a recent suit against the other side of the family, the money in dispute amounting to $225,000.

U. S. CITIES.

Besides a comparison of population, of bank clearances, school attendance, of tax valuation, a method of determining the real importance of an American city is afforded by the volume of its post office business. Under this test, New York, of course, stands at the head of American cities, with a year's postal receipts to July 1 of $15,000,000. New York and Brooklyn having separate post offices. There was a clear profit to the government on the New York business alone. Chicago, second in population with 2,750,000 inhabitants as now estimated, is second also in postal receipts with a total of $10,000,000. Philadelphia, with only $4,000,000, is much further behind Chicago in postal revenues than in population. Among American cities Boston usually ranks high and Baltimore low in postal receipts. St. Louis has 50,000 more population than Boston, but while the receipts of St. Louis post office were $2,300,000 last year, those of Boston post office were $4,200,000. Baltimore has 500,000 population; San Francisco has 375,000. The postal receipts of Baltimore were $1,900,000; those of San Francisco were $1,510,000. Pittsburgh has 50,000 less population than Buffalo, but its postal receipts of Pittsburgh were $1,900,000 last year against $1,150,000 in Buffalo. Washington and New Orleans have about the same population, 300,000 each, but the postal business of New Orleans last year was $660,000; that of Washington was $1,000,000, largely contributed by the business with the government. New York's post office receipts for last year, $15,000,000, are unprecedented. They not only exceed any other city, but also are in excess of the postal receipts of many European countries.

PARISIAN SWINDLER'S RUSE.

A traveller remarks that the Parisian swindler is the subtlest and the most undomitable one in the world. He was the other day strolling through a fashionable French shop. A woman entered and proceeded to purchase a costly set of silver dishes; and meanwhile a well-dressed man lingered at the doorway as though waiting for her. The woman, her purchase concluded, counted a number of bank notes and advanced to the cashier's desk, holding them in her hand. Then, of a sudden, the man rushed upon her. "You wretch!" he exclaimed. "Didn't I tell you that you shouldn't have those dishes?" And he slapped her upon the cheek, tore the bank notes from her hand, and stalked indignantly out of the shop. The woman fainted. It was ten minutes before she was brought to, and meanwhile those in the shop, believing that a family quarrel was in progress, did nothing. On her recovery the manager of the place said regretfully: "We are sorry, madam, for this occurrence. Your husband—"

TROUBLE IN MONCTON LEAGUE.
MONCTON, N. B., July 28.—There is serious trouble brewing in the local baseball league. The Franklin last year's champs, and the Thistles have dropped to the position of tail-enders without hope, while the race is between the Trojans and the Y. M. C. C. The Trojans have played ten games and won eight, the Y. M. C. C. have played seven games and won seven, both having lost two games. This gives the Trojans a slight advantage in the percentage, but there are about a dozen games yet to be played. The two leading clubs are, of course, anxious to strengthen their teams. The Y. M. C. C. have had McCarthy—a clever young pitcher from Boston—here for some time, but the executive ruled him out of league games. The Trojans now propose to bring Embree here from Wakefield, Mass., and he has been passed by the executive. Embree formerly lived in Moncton, while McCarthy has not had that distinctive honor, and this is the only reason given for the executive's ruling. It is claimed by the Y. M. C. C. that Embree having removed from Moncton several years ago and being manager of a team at Wakefield, is as much an outsider as McCarthy, and that if one is allowed to play, the other should be likewise. As this view has not prevailed, the Y. M. C. C. submitted at a meeting of the executive last night an entirely new team, made up of juniors, to play the balance of the league games, and as there could be no objection to putting on the youngsters the new team was duly passed and accepted. The object of this decision was to arrive at before the next game, which is set down for Tuesday.

THE TURF.

AMHERST RACES.
AMHERST, N. S., July 28.—A large gathering witnessed excellent racing on the Amherst driving park this afternoon, when the events were 2:15 and 2:28 classes for trotters and pacers. The weather was fine and the track good. The following all pacers, started in the 2:15 with positions in order named. Reta, M. Carvell, Fairville, by Israel; Lady Bingen, Springfield Stables, by Israel; Annie Brevit, Dun-cannon, Fairville, by Breach; Danella, Dr. Gilchrist, Greenwith, by Dan Parraro.
Lady Bingen led the field from start to finish, except that in the first heat she was passed when coming into the home stretch by Reta, who got that heat by a length. The two made capital racing in the four heats. Ruth Wilkes showed great speed at time and did some good going. Summary:
Lady Bingen... 2 1 1 1
Reta M... 1 2 2 2
Ruth Wilkes... 3 3 3 3
Annie Brevit... 4 4 4 4
Time, 2:19, 2:20, 2:20, 2:24.
The three contestants in the other race had to go five heats. Daisy Del, trotter, Bouthier, Halifax, sired Red Lake, drew the pole, with Pearl Edison, pacer, Dr. Gilchrist, Greenwith, sired Tom Edison, next, then Claudia Hal, pacer, Springfield Stables, sired Direct Hal. This was a pretty race throughout, Claudia winning the first heat by a head and second by a length and half, while Daisy got to the wire first by a length in each of the other heats. In the third heat Claudia led to the flag, when she had to resign to Daisy, who came to the wire a length ahead and great cheer.

LOCAL NOTES.
Daisy Dewitt... 2 1 1 1
Claudia Hal... 1 2 2 2
Pearl Edison... 3 3 3 3
Time, 2:24, 2:24, 2:24, 2:24, 2:31.
Judges: J. W. Taylor, Amherst; William McLeod, Rockville; F. J. Powers, Halifax—who was starter. Tim-ber, Dr. Calkin, Rockville; J. W. Salter, Halifax; Dr. McCully, Amherst; George Hopkins, Springfield.
A great racing programme is on for tomorrow afternoon in the 2:20 and free-for-all classes.

QUAINT.

TO RACE AT SYDNEY.
The sleeping car apartments on the Halifax express last night presented a strange sight. Suspended from the ceiling of the car were two racing shells, with two pairs of oars, and the seats were the jerseys of oarsmen. They all presented a brawny appearance and will doubtless do credit to St. John at the Sydney carnival races.
Wm. Coates with his trainer, Mr. Fleming, represented the Neptune Rowing Club for the single scull event. The Carleton four-oared crew was composed of Wm. Lanyon, Hilton Belyea, Sam. Sulphant and Mort. Mc-Laren, with Harry Belyea as manager. Their shell was in the baggage car, but suspended from the ceiling of the car was the one in which J. P. Ross will also uphold St. John's name in the single event. Mr. Ross is accompanied by his father, Elias Ross.
Hilton Belyea will secure a shell in Sydney and enter into the single scull race. The boys expect to be back next Friday.

THE RING.

GOOD SPORT AT HALIFAX.
HALIFAX, July 28.—Boxing bouts in the electric light sports last night were the most successful of the kind ever held here. Over one thousand persons were present. The 100 yards dash, half mile run and high jump were the best events of the night.
James McMillan, Abegweit, in the 100 defeated F. E. Luckman, Montreal A. A. A., by only a few inches in 15.1 seconds.
In the half mile Harley of the Abegweits defeated Jenkins, Abegweit, maritime champion, in 2:03.1-5. In the high jump Halpenny, Abegweit, won over McDonald, Pictou, after a hard contest at 5 feet 6 inches. Halpenny won the broad jump with 23 feet 2 inches. McDonald of Pictou second. Luckman won the quarter easily in 55 seconds.
Among the Nova Scotian competitors were Walter Spencer, Frank Con-lier and Gordon Munroe of the Ramblers, Amherst, all of whom were un-placed.
The old home week horse races at the Charlottetown driving park today were well attended and excellently con-ducted by a good field of Island horses. The contest of the day was the two thirty-five trot and pace, which re-quired six heats to finish. In the 2:50 class the stallion Kato, that has given evidence of phenomenal speed, easily took second place in all the heats, and it was evident that he was being held up for the fall racing.

WIMBORNE, Man. July 28.—The convention of the Union of Canadian Municipalities closed last evening. It to resign to Daisy, who came to the wire a length ahead and great cheer.

THREE BOYS WERE NEARLY DROWNED.

ST. ANDREWS, N. B., July 28.—Three Calais lads, James Tracey, Jas. Clarke, aged fifteen, and Bert Hanson, seventeen, started from Robinson, Maine, this afternoon in a boat for Calais. When near the middle of the river, Tracey, while changing seats, stepped on the gunwale of the boat, which upset, rolling over the boys, who caught and clung thereto. The boat drifted in the direction of St. Andrews. A lady at the golf links saw the drifting boat and drove into town, giving the alarm. Some young men put off to the rescue. The swamped boat had been driven near the eastern bar ledges. Tracey and Hanson were found clinging to a lobster trap anchored there. They were taken ashore to the block house. A lady there from the Algonquin drove to the hotel and returned with stimulants and wraps and soon the chilled and nearly perished boys were made comfortable. The Clarke boy was picked up in another boat and taken ashore at the yacht club float, more dead than alive. He was conveyed to the American House, where by the kindly administration of Mrs. Jos. Grant, under the direction of Doctor Wade, he was brought to, and put to bed. The boys are now comfortable. After a night's rest they will be able tomorrow to return to their work. The boys had a close call.

MOOREY STILL AT LARGE.

FREDERICTON, N. B., July 28.—Up to a late hour tonight no word had been received here of Moorey's capture and it is evident that the man is still at large. Police Officer King spent most of the day at Myhrall Settlement, and with a party searched the surrounding country without success. The inhabitants there state that Moorey had been in the place, but they were not sure. A night's rest they will be able tomorrow to return to their work. The boys had a close call.

HOCH REPRIVED AT LAST MINUTE.

CHICAGO, July 28.—Johann Hoch, confessed bigamist and sentenced to be hanged today for poisoning one of his wives, was this afternoon granted reprieve until August 25 by Governor Deneen. The stay of execution followed hours of anxiety on the part of Hoch, who had never given up hope and was allowed by the Governor only after the latter had been assured that the necessary sum to appeal the case had been raised. The amount, $200, was given by an attorney and friend of Hoch's counsel.
About the time set for the execution the attorney who furnished the money, it was said, telephoned Hoch's lawyer that the former had $200 to give toward aiding to appeal the case. The two lawyers hastened to the jail, told Jailer Whitman of the money and secured and arranged with the jailer to postpone as long as possible the execution of Hoch.
Meanwhile they sought States Attorney Hickey and had him arrange a conference with Governor Deneen over the long distance telephone. Hoch's counsel told the governor that there was lacking only a small sum of the amount necessary for a review of the case. After discussing the matter with the state attorney, the governor finally consented to a stay for the condemned man and then notified Hoch's counsel.

BIG PULP DEAL IN N.F.C.

MONTREAL, July 28.—One of the biggest pulp mill mergers in the history of Canada was completed this afternoon at the Windsor Hotel, where by a number of companies operating in Newfoundland having all a total area of a million and a half acres of pulp land, surrendered their interests to a company in which the controlling interests are held by a group of British publishers, capitalised at $1,000,000.
The companies affected are the Reid Newfoundland Co., The Exploit Limited, The Newfoundland Timber and Estate Co., and The New Land Lumber and Pulp Co. The merger has been effected largely through the efforts of H. J. Crowe, of Newfoundland, who visited England and floated the company in London. In all likelihood Mr. Crowe will assume the management of the new company. Managing directors of the various interests involved have been in consultation at the Windsor Hotel for the past few days. Public opinion in Newfoundland which opposed the recent grant to the Harnsworths, is stated to be entirely in favor of the present merger.

CONSERVATIVE VICTORY IN BRITISH COLUMBIA.

McBride Candidate Wins Against All the Forces of Liberals in Alberni.
OTTAWA, July 28.—Mr. Emmerson will not leave for the lower provinces for some time. The department of marine and fisheries has decided to alter the date for the departure of the Neptune from Halifax to relieve the steamer Arctic in the Hudson Bay. August 4th or 5th will be the earliest that the ship can leave port. She will simply take supplies. The Arctic—otherwise the old Gauss—will have to return, as her boilers have played out.
The liberal party in British Columbia has experienced a set-back in the Alberni election, for the vacancy created by the appointment of McInnes to the position of commissioner of the Yukon. Manson, the candidate of the McBride government, has been elected by a substantial majority, a gain of one seat, equal to two on division. The significance of the conservative victory arises from the fact that the full strength of the federal government was concentrated on the constituency in order to ensure the election of the liberal candidate. Sloan, M. P., and Ralph Smith, M. P., were hustled home and told to get busy. They have stumped the constituency on behalf of the grip candidate at the dictation of the Laurier administration, and the electors of Alberni have given their answer.

UNDER THE NEW ACT.

First Extra Sitting of Supreme Court Opens on Tuesday.

On Tuesday there will be a sitting of the supreme court, the first sitting under the act passed during the last session. It is announced that Judge Hanington will preside, but it is also stated that there will be very little business to come before the court.
In the past there have been five sessions of the court each year. Under the new law there will be one additional jury session, and five non-jury sessions, making a total of eleven. These are arranged so that there is a session in every month with the exception of July. Some at least of the St. John lawyers are of the opinion that all these extra appointments will be unnecessary, and that there will be very little more for the judges to do than to adjourn.

ROBBED AND MURDERED.

DETROIT, July 28.—Joseph Moyer, aged about sixty, a pawnbroker at 42 Monroe avenue, died in hospital to-night without recovering consciousness after an attack by thieves who caught him alone in his office. The thieves got away with plunder in money and diamonds variously estimated at $1,600 to $5,000. They left Moyer unconscious, with his head terribly crushed and battered with diamonds and jewelry scattered around the floor.
The tragedy was discovered by passers by, who noticed the disordered condition of the display window. Moyer was found lying on the floor of his private office just east of the entrance of death, and the room was littered with blood. The thieves had gained access to the cash drawer by taking the keys from their victim's pockets. The affair occurred within a block of police headquarters. Several suspects have been placed under arrest.

MONTREAL, July 28.—In the application of counsel for Gaynor and Greene today Judge Oulmet postponed the hearing in the habeas corpus case until Sept. 5th. Counsel for the United States opposed the request, arguing that no inconvenience would be caused by the delay, as in Georgia courts do not sit until October. Judge Oulmet stated that he was on the point of leaving on a three weeks' holiday and granted the postponement asked for.

PRISONS AND REFORMATION.

An experiment along lines similar to the indeterminate sentence and parole system which is under the consideration of the Canadian department of justice and may be adopted in our penitentiaries before long, has been made with young criminals in Borel prison, England, with such success that it will in all probability be adopted throughout the whole country.

While the policy which is being advocated for Canada provides for the release of any prisoner as soon as officials appointed for the purpose decide that his further detention is not necessary as a public protection nor beneficial to himself, this English system is made to apply only to the juveniles in crime. The theory of the treatment is that up to a certain age every person may be regarded as not beyond cure, and that the state should try to convert him into a good citizen. As a result of the experiment 76 prisoners were released from Borel last year. Of these 36 are in employment, 10 unemployed, half through slackness of trade, two in hospital and 19 have been re-arrested. Considering the material, this record is good, for only six of the young men were first offenders.

Then the carriage went into medicine and carried the doctor on his rounds, and many a dark night it took its "William Miller" to some "poor woman in her trouble."

"Jesse" is dead, and the doctor is old and grey, but the wheels of the little carriage still go round.

A county judge rode in it round his circuit; the judge is dead and so is Mand Muller. And then the little carriage was again called to the ministry, but this time it found another church, and although it is narrow, there is nothing of the bigot about it. For several years it carried the ex-prisoner of his conference over his extensive field, and although it is always tired, it never grew weary in its work, though the president was weary in his pulpit. And then it carried a young man to his appointments. A young man of promise, but not over strong in body. What dreams he had of a more useful life, only God knows. His little journey is over.

And again, with a glistering coat of red, over the years have put upon it, the old minister sees a young man spring lightly to his old place, and the old carriage is again called to the ministry. And then it carried a young man to his appointments. A young man of promise, but not over strong in body. What dreams he had of a more useful life, only God knows. His little journey is over.

And again, with a glistering coat of red, over the years have put upon it, the old minister sees a young man spring lightly to his old place, and the old carriage is again called to the ministry. And then it carried a young man to his appointments. A young man of promise, but not over strong in body. What dreams he had of a more useful life, only God knows. His little journey is over.

SATURDAY SERMONETTE.

AULD LONG SYNE

It was an immense thing; it had never thought, it had never lived or hated. It had never flesh nor bones nor blood; a thing of wood and iron—and yet there was an old man who could not look upon it without emotion. It carried him back nearly thirty years, more easily than it had carried him over rough country roads to bials, baptisms and burials.

The old man is a minister; that which has moved him again for an hour is an old carriage, made only large enough to carry one.

The hands that made it have long been dust, but if the builder built as honestly and strongly in other directions he, too, is living and will be when that which he built has decayed.

The old minister smiles as he looks at the narrow seat and remembers that it was large enough for two when the other was a bride.

There is no smile on his lips as he thinks of the many times he has led in that carriage to some "poor woman in her trouble."

The horse that had carried him so cheerfully over the miles and could put behind him more swiftly than the staid deacons approved, grew old and died, and here, with apparently as many years of life in it as had the deacon's "one horse shay," is the little carriage. And then he remembers with the ghost of a smile how after the "honeymoon" was over and the children came, that the little carriage was exchanged for a larger one.

Then the carriage went into medicine and carried the doctor on his rounds, and many a dark night it took its "William Miller" to some "poor woman in her trouble."

"Jesse" is dead, and the doctor is old and grey, but the wheels of the little carriage still go round.

A county judge rode in it round his circuit; the judge is dead and so is Mand Muller. And then the little carriage was again called to the ministry, but this time it found another church, and although it is narrow, there is nothing of the bigot about it. For several years it carried the ex-prisoner of his conference over his extensive field, and although it is always tired, it never grew weary in its work, though the president was weary in his pulpit. And then it carried a young man to his appointments. A young man of promise, but not over strong in body. What dreams he had of a more useful life, only God knows. His little journey is over.

POLICE COURT.

John Quinn Fined $8 for a Drunk That Cost Only Fifteen Cents—Rankine Case Settled.

At the Police Court this morning John Quinn, who figured recently in an election scene, was brought in on a charge of being drunk. Officer Scott said that last night at twelve o'clock he met Quinn on the corner of Union and Waterloo streets. He was very drunk and when asked if he had anywhere to go to, replied several places. The officer told him to get to one of them as quickly as possible. Later on Quinn was found asleep in the old graveyard and was taken to the station, where a bottle of carbolic acid and oil was found on him.

This morning the old man denied being drunk, saying that yesterday afternoon he started out with 28 cents in his pocket out of which he stood treat to one man and bought some for himself. Diving his hand into his pocket he brought forth 13 cents, leaving only 15 to be accounted for. With a scornful look on his face he asked whether 15 cents could make him drunk. If so, it was a very cheap drink, he said. The bottle of acid he used for salt rheum from which he was suffering. His honor fined him $8 or thirty days, and the following dialogue ensued:

Quinn: that's pretty rough, your honor!

The magistrate: No rougher than your drunk.

Quinn: Will you telephone to Mr. McEwan? It was a very cheap drink for ten cents!

The magistrate: You may be in jail when he arrives, and have had a bath by that time.

Quinn: I don't want a bath. I've had all the baths ever I want.

Quinn was gently taken downstairs and his voice gradually dying in the distance, could be heard, saying, "It's a very cheap drink for ten cents."

The case against Yarmouth, N. S., yesterday by Detective Killen on the complaint of Dr. McIntosh, who says Rankine has been drinking and is dangerous to himself and others, was put back, as it was intimated that the differences between the doctor and Mr. Rankine could be settled by the latter returning the books. This it is understood will be done.

The colored boy Walter Forbes who was yesterday remanded for using bad language, was handed over to the care of Mrs. H. Harding Lewis of Pitt street, who has undertaken to bring up the lad in the way he should go. Mrs. Lewis created quite a sensation in court this morning, being attired in a fashionable light blue travelling gown, with a large picture hat. She informed his honor that he might expect a visit from her aunt, who accounts his honor one of her personal friends.

THREE SALOONS WILL CLOSE MONDAY.

But One Dealer May Get Another License.

Extensions for Munde, Reop and Nixon Expires This Month—Graham's Unused License Gives One a Chance.

There are three licensed saloons in the city that will have to close their doors for the last time on Monday night. The premises are those conducted by Fred Munde, King square, Wm. J. Reop, Prince William street, and James Nixon, Brussels street. These men were refused a license when the list was made up to take effect on May 1st but were given a three months extension. Previously these extensions have been extended so that the applicant for a license who had been in business and was turned down really came out ahead as he paid his $300 in instalments of $75. The amendment however passed last session of the legislature, has done away with this as it provided that no second extension could be granted.

There is however great activity among the three dealers as there is a chance that one may secure a license. This is made possible by the run-away of Mr. Graham of Sherbrooke street. Graham's license is it is understood among the assets taken over by his principal creditors, Messrs. James Ready and John O'Regan, and upon them depends what will be done. If they wish to dispose of the license to a responsible party who can furnish the necessary $300 as is approved of by the commission it will only cost $50 to transfer the license.

The commissioners met last night but could take no action in the matter under the law till after the expiration of three months from the date of the issue of the license. This being so they will meet again on Monday night when they expect to be able to settle the Graham matter.
