

GERMANY CAME AS A NATION AMONG EQUALS

Ready to Take Every Advantage of Differences Between Allied Statesmen.

FIRST STEP TOWARD PRE-WAR CONDITIONS

Spa Conference Will Take Place in History With Aix-La-Chapelle Congress.

(By FRANK H. SIMONDS.)

The decision of the Allies to permit Germany to appear at Spa not as a prisoner at the bar, but as a nation among equals, due reservations being made for the fact that the business discussed placed her in the posture of a debtor among creditors, was logical and inevitable. To keep Germany in the position which her representatives occupied at Versailles was unthinkable. Then they were literally caged in a portion of the park and visitors came by hundreds on Sunday to peer across the barriers and see the German representatives for all the world like tame deer walking back and forth discussing what they were not permitted to discuss with their conquerors.

With the bitterness which the war had provoked, with the memory of German crimes still fresh, and the ruins of French towns destroyed in the final German retreat hardly cold, it was natural that in 1919 the Germans should have been treated rather as the Romans treated their captives than as European ambassadors have been accustomed to meet, even after a war which laid one nation low and gave to the conquerors something approaching absolute, if only momentary, power.

Yet the Germans were surprised by their reception. They came expecting to be allowed to visit Paris. Journalists in the party expressed a friend of mine their surprise and disappointment at being denied the right to go to the theatres, the cafes, to enjoy Paris again as they had enjoyed it before the war. That isolation was necessary as a mere protection against the anger and resentment of the French people, an anger and resentment hardly to be criticized, they did not understand, for the Germans who came to Versailles were totally devoid of suspicion of the passion which German methods of making war had aroused all over the world and particularly in France and Belgium.

Such an attitude could hardly endure, however. A hundred years ago the conquerors of Napoleon only three years after Waterloo bade the French king attend the conference of Aix-la-Chapelle, held only a short distance from Spa, where the latest international gathering assembled. At that conference France was admitted not merely as an equal but invited to join that league of nations, the Holy Alliance, which was created nominally, at least, to fulfil exactly the mission prescribed for the later league which was called into existence at Paris, two years ago.

New Situation Arises.
But with the admission of the Germans, even to the preliminary degree which Spa authorizes, a new European situation arises. The Germans came to a gathering of their conquerors to find the conquerors slightly divided as the victors in the Napoleonic struggle were divided at the Congress of Vienna. Great Britain, following the policy which Wellington and Castlereagh advocated at Vienna, would deal with Germany more lightly than would France. At Vienna, Prussia was the Power most eager to dismember France, today the positions of these nations have changed, but British policy remains the same.

France and Britain are divided, between moderation and harshness toward Germany, harshness which means compelling Germany to pay all or only a fraction of her indebtedness to those she has wronged. France and Britain are also at odds in the East, differ over the policy to be followed toward Russia. Italy is estranged from France because of French policy in the Adriatic and from Britain because of the British support of the Greeks. The two rivals of Italy in the east, Jugoslavia on the Adriatic and Greece in the Aegean are thus backed by Italy's recent allies to the natural indignation of the Italians.

In addition, the United States has already assumed the position which Britain presently came to adopt toward Continental questions a century ago. In a word, then, the Germans arrived at Spa to find the alliance which defeated them almost as completely shattered as was the Congress of Vienna at the moment when Napoleon landed from Elba. Then the reappearance of a common foe, the resurgence of a common peril served to restore the alliance, which Napoleon eliminated forever. Presumably the return of the Kaiser and the renaissance of old Junker purposes would reunite the present conquerors of Germany but even this is doubtful and there is small prospect that William will return.

Thus the chance which Talleyrand seized at Vienna and was only prevented from turning to the profit of France by Napoleon's fatal venture lies before Germany, not perhaps at Spa, but in the international assemblies of the immediate future, of which there will be many. They will have full opportunity to endeavor to capitalize Anglo-French quarrels, Franco-Italian disputes, to deal with the various European nations severally instead of collectively as hitherto. Only a Talleyrand seems fortunately to be lacking to them.

Spa then is, in fact, the significant disclosure of a real change in European affairs. Germany is on her way back, she is taking her first step toward the position which from 1815 onward France first and then Germany occupied in Europe. She has lost much by the war in territory and in commercial prosperity, her fleets gone irrevocably and her colonies and Alsace-Lorraine likewise. Her losses to Poland, on the other hand, seem for less final and she has not yet been compelled to make any considerable payment against the indemnities demanded by the victors, indemnities which would, in reality, prevent her becoming a great military power in the next thirty years. To wiggle out of all payments, at all events to escape from any but the most insignificant to keep open the prospect of regaining Danzig and Posen, to play the British and French against each other, to realize on Franco-Italian jealousies, to egg France on to action which Britain will oppose, to stretch out a hand toward Russia as an essential ally against Poland, against Western Europe, this will be German policy. In any event, Spa will prove a date in contemporary history, quite as important as that which saw the Congress of Aix-la-

Chapelle assemble almost a century ago.

THE GREAT IMPERSONATION.

"The Great Impersonation" is perhaps the best novel that has yet come to us from the pen of Mr. E. Phillips Oppenheim. With praiseworthy genuineness Mr. Oppenheim has constructed a tale that is always interesting, full of unexpected turns and possessed of a denouement at the very end that carries with it, even to the most hurried reader a thrill and a surprise. LOG SALE.
A public auction sale of no mark and mixed mark logs was held yesterday morning in the Board of Trade rooms in Prince William street, at which several thousand feet of unmerchantable logs were sold to various lumber firms. The spruce logs were sold to the Standard Douglas Lumber Company, Ltd., at an average of $17 a thousand feet, while Murray & Gregory, Ltd., purchased the cedar at $15 a thousand net scale; hemlock, at $15, net scale, and spiked logs at $12, net scale. F. L. Forts was the auctioneer.

He knows what "luscious" means

If you would catch the full fragrance of LANTIC Brown, use it on bread and butter. If you would get the utmost joy from its use, just watch the children eat it. Truly, in all the King's English, there's only one word for it!

Heaped high with this irresistible spread, you'll whet an old-time appetite and slyly relish a slice of brown bread. And you'll wonder if even the children can possibly enjoy it more than you. Then as you linger long over the subtle zest of it, you'll remember how good it must be for them, this strength-giving product of the sugar cane.

Because it contains food properties that white sugar has not got, properties that render LANTIC Brown a most valuable article of diet, constituents of the cane juice that help the assimilation of the sugar itself!

So spread it thicker—this luscious LANTIC Brown—serve it oftener on buttered bread. For it is indeed full of energy-fuel for little engines that run so fast—fuel to go on, fuel to grow on. It eats so easy, and they love it so. Luscious!

If it isn't "luscious" it isn't LANTIC Brown. LANTIC Brown should really cost more than white sugar—if delicious wholesomeness is the test of value—but you get it for less. Your grocer has it only in 100-lb. sacks, but he will give you any quantity you desire. If it isn't luscious, it isn't LANTIC Brown.

Don't Poison Baby.

FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have PAREGORIC or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and A FEW DROPS TOO MANY will produce the SLEEP FROM WHICH THERE IS NO WAKING. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labelling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrups," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given to your children unless you or your physician know of what it is composed. CASTORIA DOES NOT CONTAIN NARCOTICS.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Of Course You Love Your Baby.

You love it because of its very helplessness, because it can't tell you what is the matter when it feels bad. It can only cry and look to you for help. But the more you love baby, the more you want to help baby, the more you ought to realize what a wonderful remedy Fletcher's Castoria is. It has been used for babies' ailments for over thirty years.

An experienced doctor discovered Fletcher's Castoria especially for babies' use. It is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. Doctors who know what is safe and best for babies have only good to say of it.

Don't neglect your baby. Get a bottle of Fletcher's Castoria and give baby a few doses of it. See how the little one smiles at you as if trying to thank you for helping it. Soon you will learn to depend on Fletcher's Castoria, made just for infants and children, and of course you would not think of using anything for them that was not prepared especially for infants and children. So keep it in the house.

Admiral Everett Returns Thanks

Mayor Schofield is in receipt of the following letter from Rear Admiral O. A. Everett of the H. M. S. Calcutta: "Calcutta," St. John, N. B., July 13, 1920.

Dear Mr. Mayor:—I desire on the eve of my departure from this port to convey to you the thanks, not only of myself for the kind personal attention I received from you, but of every individual officer and man on board H. M. S. Calcutta for the hospitality they have received at St. John. Nothing during our northern cruise has touched us more than the warmth of our welcome and the friendly, almost affectionate interest, which the people of St. John showed in the ship and her crew. That this was reciprocated perhaps best demonstrated by the fact that more men daily took advantage of leave ashore than at any other port we have yet visited.

It was a matter of great disappointment to Captain Noble and the officers that owing to the weather, they were unable to give a dance on board, which they were looking forward to doing. Our facilities for returning hospitality on anything but very small scale are limited to open air entertainment and unfortunately this has not been possible.

May I in conclusion renew through your thanks to the many kind individuals and institutions who have so cordially welcomed, entertained and befriended us all. Believe me, Yours sincerely,

O. A. EVERETT,

Fair Vale Wins Over Rothesay

After a rest of several weeks from the baseball field, the Fair Vale team was ordered Tuesday night to proceed to Rothesay to cross bats with the Knights of Columbus team, who were anxious to battle for the Fair Vale championship. It was rather unexpected, as the Fair Vale boys were working hard preparing their grounds for Saturday when they are to meet the Hardware Clerks' team, but all was ready for a game of ball, when the order was given by Manager Stubbs the boys shook the grass from their feet, got bats and balls and marched to Rothesay where a fairly good game was played, but the Fair Vale boys' hands being caloused from hard work getting their grounds in trim were too much for the Knights, and after several innings were played it was found that Fair Vale was the victor to the tune of 13 to 5.

Council Continues Harbor Discussion

Putting Harbor in Commission Will Not Invalidate Tri-Party Agreement.

The discussion of the Harbor Commission Act was continued yesterday morning at a special meeting of the common council held at eleven o'clock. After hearing from the city solicitor, further consideration was postponed to a meeting to be held at the call of the chair.

City Solicitor J. B. M. Baxter gave as his opinion in regard to the tri-party agreement, that if the harbor went into commission then the commissioners took the place of the city in that agreement, but it was in no wise invalidated by the city selling the harbor to the government.

Mayor Schofield felt the C. P. R. should be consulted as to their attitude toward harbor commission, and that Hon. A. W. Wigmore should be consulted before any further action was taken.

Commissioner Bullock presented the following summary of receipts and expenditures of the harbor department from 1912 to date with the fishery receipts:

Year	Receipts	Expenditures	Fishery Sales
1912	$103,375.83	$98,876.23	$ 3,175.36

AFFAIRS IN GERMANY.

A press despatch from Spa declares that "Germany is between civil war and invasion." Most people, we imagine, will think and feel that it serves her right. She deserves the worst that can possibly happen to her, even to the extent of utter annihilation.

A NORTH SHORE VIEW.

The town of Chatham was one of the very few places in the province that came out strongly against Prohibition, and in favor of beer and wine, and this fact probably prompts the Commercial newspaper, the leading North Shore journal, published in that town to refuse to accept the result of Saturday's voting as conclusive and to maintain that, in spite of the vote cast, the majority of the people in the province do not want prohibition.

"WE ALONE HAVE FAILED."

Limiting deceptions and regards laid on one nation have to be observed to prevent saying that which might be thought but cannot be expressed of another. But voices do ring forth to say that which, if true, echoes that which you may have been thinking, but perhaps of courtesy would not dream of declaring.

THE MESOPOTAMIA OIL FIELDS.

Mr. Lloyd George has been subjected to some severe criticism by certain sections of the London press because he proposes to recognize the concessions granted by Turkey to the Turkish Petroleum Company for the development of the Mesopotamian oil fields. Some of the newspapers openly rebuke him; others, while equally critical, feel that whatever blame there is attached to the matter should be laid at the door of Lord Grey, who was responsible, it seems that the Turkish Government promised full oil concessions to British interests. WHAT OTHERS SAY

Farmers' Typists. (London Daily Mail.) Girl typists should be installed in every village of France, declares M. Henri Girard, a well-known writer on agricultural subjects. She would help the mayor of the commune and his ever-increasing administrative work, and she would also take down letters from dictation for all the farmers.

The Air Age Has Dawned. (Springfield Republican.) Fifty million dollars' worth of millionaires—ten in number—commenced Thursday by airplane from New York City to Southampton, L.I., 106 miles in 72 minutes, beating the fastest train by 31 minutes. And there was no resulting flurry in Wall Street, whatever there may have been among the adventurers. The passenger traffic stage of aerial navigation has just about arrived.

Drilled Brains. (Detroit News.) Twelve hundred seniors are to be graduated from our state university at the commencement this week. When the mass of male and female young men and women to be graduated this month from the colleges and universities in this country the total number will reach about 100,000.

The Hand and the Brain. (Chicago Tribune.) The hand never will rule the brain for any time. In moments of madness when it does it destroys itself. Labor is the hand, which topsy turvy theorists would set up to rule, must always be directed by the conceiving and planning mind. By this alone can the hand exist. The hand can conceive only the simplest necessities, labor without capital and direction must dwell in the cave of the primitive man.

"Profiteer" and "Extortioner." (The Villager.) It is strange that we invented the word "profiteer" when we already had a far better one, "extortioner," says a far better one. "Extortioner" says all that "profiteer" wants to say; it conveys the intended emphasis and conveys it as forcefully as any word could. For "profiteer" tells only what the money-grubber does, and it is not that which concerns us; what causes our resentment is what he does to us, and "extortioner" is a word in terms of the victim. A profiteer might be merely the man who makes prodigious profits out of men's foolishness, but an extortioner is the man who makes his money out of their necessities; he takes a cruel advantage of their helplessness; he is unscrupulous and merciless, and a word that connects him with the Spanish Inquisition and the turning on of screws is just the word to describe him. Beside "extortioner" mere "profiteer" is a pale generic term.

A BIT OF VERSE

TUSH! At the opening session of the National Assembly of the Church of England, a discussion took place on the word "tush," which, according to the Archbishop of Canterbury, is still in use outside the Prayer Book. When a feeling of vexation shakes a pillar of the Church, For an apt ejaculation He cannot find a lengthy search, Straight unto his lips will rush That devout expression "Tush!"

Blasco Ibanez, the Spanish novelist, was taking in New York about the cubists. "I know a cubist in Madrid," he said, "who paints portraits that look like eggs, chains, bottles, rocks—anything but the models they are painted from." "I dropped in on this cubist in his studio one morning, and found him examining with low, troubled looks some twenty or thirty of his masterpieces." "What's the matter, old man?" said "The matter is," said he, "that Don Mucho Denaro the oil profiteer, has just sent around for his portrait, and to save my life I can't remember which it is."

I split ink all over ops desk yesterday afternoon, and after supper he was reading the sporting page and smoking, and I was standing there wondering how to start to tell him, and I sed, Pop. With he didn't say anything back, and I sed, "Pop, I got something I want to confoss to you. The doos you have, sed pop. Yes sir, I sed, I was going pss your desk today, and I picked up that big round paper wate made out of glass and threw it up in the air a little ways on account of thinking I was going to catch it agen, ony I didn't, but it didn't brako it eny, all it did was nook a little peeces off of the edge and you mite never of notice it if I hadn't of told you. That's very unfortunate, sed pop, but I am glad you told me, because honesty is the best policy, and we will say no more about it. Wat do you think it fell on wen it fell, pop? I sed, it fell on your silver pen holder and bent it part out of shape but not all the way. Confound it, sed pop, that pen holder is worth 10 dollars. O well, maybe I can have it straightened, its a good thing for you that you told me before I found it out for myself, thats all.

And after it hit the pen holder it bounched, pop, and wats you think it bounched into? I sed, it bounched into the ink well and nook it rite over, but it didn't brako it eny, and the ink well all over a lot of papers laying there. O it did, did it? sed pop, well my slipper is going ell over something, too. Wich it did.

PREMIER FOSTER'S OPPORTUNITY

(Chatham Commercial.) On Saturday, more than 100,000 people of the province were asked to say whether they wanted the existing prohibitory liquor law continued or not. Of them, 41,000 said they wanted it, nearly 21,000 said they did not want it, and the remainder apparently did not want it either, for they had not sufficient interest in the matter to come out and say so. The net result is that the wishes of 41,000 people will dominate the conduct of the remaining 320,000 residents in this province, and as a consequence in the near future New Brunswick may expect something very near akin to Bolshevik rule.

Premier Foster now has an opportunity such as has fallen to no other party leader to make himself solid with the vast majority of the electorate. If he cares to formulate a moderate and reasonable liquor policy, and go to the people upon it this fall, he will sweep the province. Despite

CAMPAIGN SPENDERS UNDER FIRE

Investigation Committee to Probe Expenditure by Presidential Candidates Still Busy.

ACTIVITIES OF PALMER AGENTS

Many of Whom Were Federal Employees to be Fully Gone Into by Commission.

Copyright, 1920, by Public Ledger Co. F. W. WILE.

Washington, July 14.—Investigation of the campaign expenditures by men of both parties who sought the Presidential nomination is by no means complete. The Senate committee, which carried on its work here prior to the Chicago and San Francisco conventions and has held sessions in Chicago and St. Louis since that time, now realizes that it has merely scratched the surface and that further conditions may necessitate the appointment of an entirely separate committee to carry on the work authorized just before the close of Congress, namely, the investigation of senatorial and presidential election expenses.

Senator Kenyon, chairman of the Senate committee, returned to Washington today from St. Louis only to find his office flooded with mail from all parts of the country asking that the committee's spotlight be turned on conditions in their respective states. There were letters from Florida and Oklahoma and from points as far West as that the curiosity since Senator Kenyon was able to give them convinced him that there was considerable work yet.

Senator Kenyon, as well as the other members of the committee feel, that there is much yet for them to do on the pre-convention expenses investigation, but they do wish to confine themselves to material matters and avoid as much as possible trails that will lead only into the blind alleys of rumor and political insinuation.

Matters that it is certain will be further investigated, however, are the Democratic situation in Missouri that brought about the repudiation of Senator Reed by the Democratic state convention and the activities of employees of the Department of Justice in behalf of the candidacy of A. Mitchell Palmer, Attorney General. The completion of the Missouri phase of the investigation is to be left in the hands of Senator Selden Spencer, of Missouri, and Albee Pomerene, of Ohio, who expect to meet at St. Louis shortly.

In following the leads developed in St. Louis as to the activities of persons on the payroll of the Department of Justice in behalf of Mr. Palmer, the committee is expected to call Howard Pigg, special Attorney General, in charge of the high cost of living campaign, and learn from him how large an organization was maintained in the sixteen cities where branches of the high cost of living campaign were established, how many persons were employed, what they were paid and just exactly what the duties that they carried on were and whether they were for the Government or the private interests of Mr. Palmer.

Another phase of the matter upon which interest is likely to centre, is that two of the delegates to the Democratic National Convention from the District of Columbia were men who during the pre-convention campaign were employed by the Palmer organization at a weekly salary of $125.

The actual course to be followed is to be decided by the committee at a meeting which will be held about the 10th of August. It has been determined, however, that whatever that decision may be as to the future scope of the inquiry the pre-convention investigation will be finished and a report drawn up before the committee begins any new phase of the work.

The committee had expected to wind up its work with the examination of three or four more witnesses, Senator Kenyon, "but a number of new lines of investigation have opened up that the committee believes require further investigation."

Senator Pomerene is expected to return from San Francisco by way of St. Louis and with Senator Spencer complete the taking of testimony there. After that nothing will be done for a month during which time the committee will determine whether to follow out the new lines of investigation or close the hearings on the subject, viz.: Expenditures relative to campaigns for the nomination of President.

Senator Edge is sailing for Europe in a few days and I have made my arrangements for a little vacation in the woods of Maine.

We are all desirous of completing the work as soon as possible. However, we desire to make the investigation complete. I find upon my return many letters from different states urging the committee to investigate the pre-convention campaign in their states. These matters will be submitted to the full committee about August 10 and final action will then be determined.

Senator Kenyon, as well as the other members of the committee feel, that there is much yet for them to do on the pre-convention expenses investigation, but they do wish to confine themselves to material matters and avoid as much as possible trails that will lead only into the blind alleys of rumor and political insinuation.

Bonzang And Wife Endorse Tanlac

Halifax Man Says It Has Entirely Relieved His Wife of Indigestion.

"Tanlac restored my wife's health after she had suffered for ten years, and we cannot say too much in praise of it," said John Bonzang of 33 John St., Halifax. Mr. Bonzang and his wife have lived in Halifax for thirty years and are among the best known and most respected residents of this city, and many of their friends and acquaintances have personal knowledge of Mrs. Bonzang's remarkable restoration to health.

"Her main trouble," he continued, "was indigestion. Her appetite was very poor, and much of the time she could not retain anything she ate. What she did retain caused sour gas to form on her stomach, so bad she could hardly get her breath, causing sharp pains around her heart and kept her in misery for hours. Nearly every day she had dull headaches, which were often so severe she could hardly stand it. She was very nervous and restless and would roll and toss for hours at night, getting very little sleep, and wake up in the morning as tired as when she went to bed. In spite of the fact that she was constantly taking different kinds of medicine, she lost weight and went down in health continually.

"She had tried so many things without getting any satisfactory results that she had almost despaired of anything doing her any good. But I persuaded her to try Tanlac, and what that medicine has done for her is astonishing. She has taken six bottles now, and her health is completely restored. Her appetite is splendid, and her food seems to agree with her perfectly. She is gaining in weight steadily and feels so much stronger that she does her housework with ease. Her nerves are calm and steady and she sleeps well at night and is so much improved that her friends are constantly speaking of how much better she looks. We are how much grateful for her recovery that we feel it our duty to tell our friends and everybody else we can about Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold in St. John by Ross Drug Co., and F. W. Munro under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative.—Adv.

THE GREAT IMPERSONATION.

Startling and prophetic as Oppenheim's previous novels have been, in this, his latest book, he has surpassed himself. "The Great Impersonation" is a happy blending of romance, mystery and intrigue so splendidly done that whoever reads it cannot help but be convinced that it is the best Oppenheim ever wrote. It is indeed a triumph of construction and treatment that grips the reader's interest from the start and does not release that hold until the very last chapter of the book.

SOME BOOK NOTES. In the June issue of "Romance," a comparatively recent Ridgway publication, Edgar Lee Masters, the famous author of the "Spoon River Anthology," has commenced serial publication of his first novel, "Mitch Miller." This may fairly be termed an event in American literature, and the eventual publication of the novel in book form will be awaited with interest. Mitch Miller, the hero of the story, and his pal, Skeet Kirby, are both boys who live in Petersburg, Ill., a mile or so from the place where Lincoln once lived. This would seem to suggest some resemblance to Mark Twain's famous "Tom Sawyer" and "Huck Finn."

Death Caused By Natural Causes

This Was Finding of Coroner's Jury Last Night Empanelled to Enquire Into Death of John D. Morrison, 144 Brussels Street.

That the death of John D. Morrison which occurred at his home, 144 Brussels street on the morning of June 15, was caused by natural causes, was the finding returned by the coroner's jury last evening, which sat to hear the evidence surrounding the death of the deceased.

The hearing was held in the court chambers on Gormain street before Coroner H. A. Porter. The jury's verdict was: That John D. Morrison was found dead in his home, Brussels street, in the City of St. John, in the City and County of St. John.

The body of the deceased was found on the morning of June 15, at 3:00 a.m., while he was sparring Brussels street, Percy Campbell told him that a Mr. Morrison was lying on dead at his home, 144 Brussels street. He accompanied Campbell to the house and found Morrison's body on the floor in a kneeling position with his head over a commode.

Police Sergeant Horace E. McLeese corroborated the previous witness. He said that in the course of investigating he found on a show case in the shop of the accused, half a green tablet, the other half lay nearby in a pulverized condition. On examining the body no signs of violence were apparent. There was about a quart of vomit in the commode. It did not appear similar to that which would come from an upset stomach.

Witness found the deceased's bank book in a coat hanging in the kitchen. It showed a balance of $2.48. A quantity of change, mostly in coppers amounting to $2.87, and also the property of the accused, was found on the table.

The deceased had lived in St. John about a year, previous to that he lived on a farm at Norton, which he sold on coming to the city. James P. Campbell said that he lived in the flat above the deceased. On the day previous to his death the deceased had dinner and supper with the family of the witness, and had asked that the witness come down with a cup of tea to him the next morning. Witness went down and knocked at the door of the deceased next morning but received no answer.

He entered and found the deceased lying by the side of his bed. He immediately started to get Dr. Fleming, and on the way met Officer Linton, who he told what happened and took him back to the house. Witness then went to work.

Since taking up quarters on Brussels street in May the deceased never appeared in very good health. The wife of the deceased had said her husband drank heavily, but witness had never seen any indication of it. The deceased's wife and three children had left the house and gone to the wife's father's a few days previous to his return from jail.

Dr. H. L. Abrahams, provincial analyst stated that he had performed an autopsy on the body of the deceased, which was that of a well developed but poorly nourished man. There was no sign of disease of the heart, although the muscles were soft and flabby. The liver indicated poisoning by arsenic, mercury or some similar toxic poison. The condition of the stomach could not be caused by lemon extract, but could be by corrosive poisoning. Vomiting was not the primary cause of death. The deceased had chronic kidney trouble, sufficient to cause death. Mercury poison, if severe, would cause vomiting. From the examination made it could not be determined if death was due to poisoning alone.

M. V. Paddock, provincial analyst, stated that he made a chemical analysis of the tablets submitted to him by the police and found them to be corrosive sublimate, bi-chloride of mercury. There were 16 pills in the box. On examination of the vomit submitted no evidence could be found of metallic poisoning such as would be caused by mercury, nor were there indications of metallic poisoning of any kind. The bi-chloride of mercury tablets were usually used as an anti-septic wash. The box was plainly marked poison and bore the name of Mowatt's drug store.

Sergeant McLeese was recalled to identify the box. He said that he had taken them to Mowatt's drug store but the clerk could not identify them and said they looked as though they had been bought for some time. The wife of the deceased stated that she left the box of pills in another box from which they had been removed during her absence. They had been used to bathe the foot of the deceased which had been injured and developed gangrene.

Mrs. Mary McParland, 240 Brussels street, married woman, stated that she lived in the flat above the accused at noon on the day before his death. The deceased was helped upstairs to her flat by the witness's son, where

Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus Wonderful

Largest and Cleanest Production That Has Visited St. John for Many Years—Many Thousands of People Fully Satisfied.

The Hagenbeck-Wallace gave two performances in Clark's Field, Lunenburg, yesterday and was fully up to all the good reports that had been received in St. John before its arrival. It was without a doubt the largest and best circus that has shown through New Brunswick for many years, and the many thousands of people who attended the afternoon and evening show were all in accord in voting it as being a mammoth production that proved wonderful from start to finish and persons who did not attend missed something great.

It was almost like a holiday in St. John yesterday, trains and river steamers brought a large number of people into the city for the sole purpose of attending the show, and all that could be heard on the streets the entire day was "Circus."

The parade in the morning made a decided hit with the many thousands of people who lined the route of procession. It is the kind of a parade that is given which, in a great many instances, gives the people an idea of what class of show in the big tent might be expected, and the Hagenbeck-Wallace parade spelled success for the comments from every person who was in the highest terms. It was a lengthy procession, the horses were voted as being the finest lot that has been seen in the city for many years; the wild animals were many; the wagons with gold and beautiful paintings were gorgeous. Clowns were out in abundance; the music of the bands was of a higher class than the usual run; the elephants numbered about a dozen or more, and one chief feature was the magnificently attired employees on the horses or on the top of the wagons, while the attendances were neatly dressed. There was no disorder and any person who was not pleased with the parade must have been unwell.

No time was lost on the ground, for just as soon as the parade arrived from the long march the side shows were thrown open to the public, along with many free attractions on the outside, and were continuous from noon until late at night. It was quite noticeable that there was an absence of the tough element that is sometimes found with a circus, there was no shouting about the lot, every person appeared to know just what was expected of him, and all, from the manager down to the newest attendant, proved courteous and willing to look after the comfort of the thousands who paid their admission fees, as well as those who were about the lot and did not attend the different shows.

The show in the main tent, which is the chief attraction, proved to be one that was beyond the expectations of all. There was not one moment lost from the time the big parade started round the outer ring until the wild west show finished after the main performance. There was in fact too much going on all the time for a person to see it all. To watch about twenty people, men and women on the trapeze or the swinging ladders and ropes, at one time certainly keeps one busy and needs more than one pair of eyes to take in every feature. The bareback riding, and many other sensational acts, number in all about thirty numbers on the programme, was indeed a rare treat for the lovers of daring and skill. The eddiferent acts of a tiger riding on the back of an elephant, a large lion on the back of a horse, and the feats of both tigers and lions in the big steel arena in the centre ring was wonderful, and it would be useless to try and feature any one act as they were all features.

It was a three ring show, and the main tent is very large, and at both afternoon and evening performances there were very few seats that were vacant. While the weather in the afternoon was fine, the thick fog that rolled in during the evening undoubtedly kept many hundreds away, but even so there was about a capacity house at night, and the many thousands left the show grounds fully agreed that the Hagenbeck-Wallace show was one great big success.

MISS HELEN KENNEDY SEVERELY INJURED

Just after the circus parade had passed along King street yesterday morning the city ambulance, which was being driven from Charlotte street at a fast rate of speed lost one of its front wheels which rolled rapidly across the street and crashed through a large plate glass window in the Victoria Hotel. The wheel struck Miss Helen Kennedy, 164 Sydney street, a glancing blow, throwing her against the window and she was severely cut about the face and neck by the glass. She was taken into the hotel and given all attention while Dr. Emery dressed the wounds, four stitches being required to close the wound in the neck.

After recovering from the shock she was removed to her home. She had her dinner and also her supper. She was very pale and weak and trembling. He seemed so gloomy and looked so bad that witness feared he was about to pass away. At supper the deceased had come up stairs with great difficulty. Afterwards he asked witness to give him five pills out of a box which he gave witness. She did so but did not know whether he took them or not. Later he began to vomit and continued to do so for some time.

Witness did not see the deceased again until after his death. She had never known the deceased to drink, and he always seemed to get along well with his wife. Deceased told witness that he had to go back to jail but did not think he would, also that he couldn't live very long.

Standard Plays Part of Host To Sixty Newsies at Trolley Ride and Circus Party Last Evening.

The jolliest, happiest bunch of merriment ever drawn together in the city, judging from appearances, was made up by the sixty "newsies" who landed at the circus grounds, West side, evening at six o'clock. They were to be the guests of the Standard at a trolley ride and Circus Party. At 6:30 the bunch boarded a special car, well decorated with banners advertising the occasion and were given a ride all over the railled system of the Street Railway Company before being landed at the circus grounds.

At the circus tent every courtesy was extended to the lads who, in sunshine and rain, morning after morning deliver at the door your favorite paper. When the "Newsies" rushed into the big tent with the tooting of horns and lusty cheers, many favorable comments were heard from the audience for the thoughtfulness of the Standard in providing an evening of pleasure for its small but valiant army of assistants on the street.

The boys were all happy over the party arranged for them, but they were happier than the Standard management who made the occasion possible. Miss Katherine Hughes, Canadian Journalist and Authoress, will address a public meeting this evening in the Opera House on the subject of Truth About Ireland. The chair will be taken at 9 o'clock. All citizens are invited to attend. Admission is free—Advt.
