DOWNPOUR DOES GREAT DAMAGE.

The River rose on Saturday to an Unprecedented Height.

HOUSES FLOODED

Crops are Utterly Ruined in Some Parts of the County.

Compelled to take to the second stories of their houses in order to escape being drowned, residents of Athol spent a dreary day on Saturday last. Rain which has fallen almost constantly in this county for the past six weeks came down in fairly good sized bucketsful early Saturday morning. The river rose to an unprecedented height. The land at Athol which is particularly low was soon inundated. The water entered many houses and rose to a height of several feet above the first floors. The Athol mill of the Shives Lumber Co., was one of the principal sufferers. The water entered the mill and rose to a height of five feet above the driving belt in the engine room. The mill was compelled to close down all day on Saturday.

Almost all the wharves in Campbellton were inundated Saturday morning. One gasoline launch was submerged as a result and another which was ready to be launched, slipped off the blocks as gracefully as a summer girl slipping into a shirt waist. She was captured, however, before she had a chance to proceed to sea.

The old post road between Dalhousie and Charlottetown, a distance of about three miles is located near Bay Chaleur, and consequently is much exposed to an easterly storm. During recent years the government had done considerable in wharfing the bank, with the view of keeping the highway where it was located during the fiercest settlement of the country, but nothing could withstand Saturday's storm, and a considerable portion of the highway in the parish of Colborne was so much damaged that all traffic was stopped. In the parish of Dalhousie several spans of the large Eel River bridge were carried away by a heavy sea. Eight spans of telephone wire were carried away and smashed. It is likely the government will now build a steel bridge at Eel River bar.

At Jaquet River a number of fishing boats were driven against the beaches and smashed. It is reported that Calhoun lost four or five thousand logs at Jaquet River. Nat McNair lost a number of cedar logs at Nashe's Creek and Prescott lost about a hundred logs at New Mills but got the majority of them back.

The Dalhousie ferry wharf was damaged and the slab wharfing in front of the Presbyterian cemetery, which has stood against storms for years, was badly shaken. Large ornamental trees were blown down, and several citizens suffered losses by water filling their cellars.

Damage is also reported from the Quebec side, where several boats were lost and bridges damaged.

Reports from different parts of the country state that the crops are well nigh ruined by the continual downpour. Indeed in some parts particularly the lowlands a portion of the crops at least have been utterly ruined. Wherever the hay is heavy it is lying flat on the ground and it will probably not all rise in time to be saved. The farmers are waiting as patiently as they can for a fine day. As soon as one arrives they will commence haying.

FATAL SHOT FIRED DURING STRUGGLE, DOCTORS AGREE.

Witnesses Affirm at Seely Preliminary Trial that Fontaine Was Not Killed While Running Away.

EXAMINATION AGAIN POSTPONED FOR ONE WEEK

At the preliminary trial of Geo. Seely at Dalhousie yesterday before Magistrate Windsor two witnesses were examined, Drs. Disbrow, who performed an autopsy, and Ferguson, the coroner who had viewed the remains of Peter Fontaine. Nothing new was brought out. Dr. Disbrow was of the opinion that the wound which proved fatal was caused by the discharge of the revolver while Fontaine and Seely were struggling on the ground. He said that the wound could not possibly be made while both men were standing or while the victim was going up stairs. Dr. Ferguson was the next witness. He said that the wound referred to above might have been made while both men were standing but the revolver would have to be held practically parallel with the body. It would have been impossible for a shot fired in chase to inflict the wound. Witness said the men must have been in actual contact when the shot was fired. Court adjourned until 10 a. m. Aug 7th.

WILL LOOK AFTER FIRE LOSS FIRST

Senator Edwards Company Compelled to Drop Dalhousie Project for Time

BURNT OUT AT OTTAWA

Tells "Events" Company Is Pleased with Dalhousie And will Decide in Time

As a result of a fire which destroyed a large portion of the property of the W. C. Edwards Company at Ottawa, the company which is considering the advisability of establishing large mills at Dalhousie will postpone action for a time. Senator Edwards, who is head of the Ottawa Company is also head of the company which has Dalhousie in view. He sent "Events" yesterday the following telegram:—

"We are most favorably impressed with Dalhousie, but our most disastrous fire at Ottawa and arrangements for reconstruction will divert our attention for some little time. We will, however, take up and decide the matter down there as soon as possible."

The fire at Ottawa on Friday resulted in a loss of $250,000 for the Senator.

W. C. Edwards sash and door factory, the planing mill, the library and bureau of the Canada factory in which the W. C. Edwards Co. is largely interested, several piles of valuable lumber, Blackburn & Russell's mica warehouses, and Foley's Hotel, No. 6 fire station, and C. J. Mewes' grocery store, and the main offices of the Edwards Co. were all burned to the ground. Several other buildings, including the fire residence of the Blackburn family were scorched.

The W. C. Edwards Co's main lumber mill lies on the west side of the Rideau River, escaped. The lumber piles destroyed were practically all hardwood. Altogether about 2,000,000 feet of lumber was burned. When Mr. Gordon Edwards was seen he placed the loss at nearly $300,000 upon which there is about $200,000 insurance.

Chief of Police Gray told us this week that July was the record month for drunks in the Campbellton police court, over sixty having faced Magistrate Matheson on this charge. Besides this, the chief says about a dozen were taken home.

BURGLAR ALARM AROUSES CLERKS

Charlie Alexander and Fred Campbell Find Burglars in Former's Store.

ORDERED THEM OUT.

Marauders Make a Dash for Liberty But Are Run Down.

Charlie Alexander and Fred Campbell, employees of the firm of A. E. Alexander & Son, were sleeping the sleep of the just at 1 o'clock this morning when bizz! b-i-z-z! b-u-r-r! The burglar alarm connecting with the store went off.

Alexander and Campbell both live in the house of A. E. Alexander on Water street. The house is situated within less than a stone's throw from the store. Hastily slipping on their trousers and shoes, Campbell and Alexander made a bee line for the store. On their arrival they found two burglars helping themselves to the contents of a show case. The marauders made no attempt at concealment. The window blinds were up and the lights were burning. A raised window in the south side of the store revealed the manner in which they had entered.

While Campbell stood directly in front of this window, Alexander backed up a short distance and called to the men to come out, accompanying his command with a threat to shoot if they were disobeyed. But neither Alexander nor Campbell were armed. The two burglars, one of whom was tall, slim and sandy, and the other stocky with fair hair also, made a dash for the open window, saw Campbell, and the tall one, razor in hand, exclaimed as he came through the window:—"Don't lay hands on me or I'll cut your throat." Nevertheless Campbell attempted to lay hands on him, but missed him. The big fellow took to his heels and Campbell took after him. He overtook him in front of John Farrer's house and struck him a powerful blow on the back of the head which felled him. Campbell then sat on him. Meanwhile Charlie Alexander had closed with the smaller of the two burglars. They fought desperately for the mastery from the store to the I. C. R. track. Here Alexander finally overpowered. Meanwhile some of the women folk residing in the Alexander house had been calling burglars, fire, police, murder, etc., and it wasn't very long before the whole neighborhood was aroused. John and Hiram Farrer were the first to come to the assistance of Alexander and Campbell, but were quickly followed by many others. The two burglars were escorted to the police station and locked up. Then Chief of Police Gray was telephoned for. On his arrival he searched the prisoners. Razors, chisels and knives were among the implements found on them.

Twelve hundred Japanese from Honolulu arrived at Vancouver last week on board the British trampsteamer Kumeric.

Bowling Green a negro, was hanged at Pittsburgh last week for the murder of his wife last August. Green marched cheerfully to the scaffold singing. "In the Cross I know I'm anchored."

The official announcement is made that "Queen Helena is in an interesting condition and that her accouchement is expected in a few months." Three children have already been born to the Royal Italian couple.

Mrs. Jennie Lauberbauer was shot and killed by her husband, Joseph, at Chicago last week. Lauberbauer, who was arrested, told the police that he mistook his wife for a burglar. The police are inclined to believe his story.

Geo. T. Bennett, proprietor of the Bennett Electrical company, Los Angeles, was shot and killed Friday by Estelle Corwell, a young woman. Bennett was killed as he sat on the porch of the home of Miss Marguerite Bennett, who although of the same name was of no relation.

The Ladies' Park club, an exclusive rendezvous for society women, is unique among London women's clubs in forbidding bridge and smoking. These rules are strictly enforced, and they have, it is claimed, been the means of excluding the "bad form, smart set" and attracting genuine gentle women.

Mrs. Emma Marius, whose age is 63, and Cornelius Andrius, 36, who has been employed by Mrs. Marius on her farm for the past few years, have surprised their friends. They were married in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., last Monday. The union was kept a secret by the couple for nearly a week.

After telling his wife that he was going to fly out in the night air like a bird, Eugene Howe, aged 28 years, Thursday leaped in his nightdress from a third story window in New York and dropped like a stone to the flagging below. His skull was fractured and he died in the hospital an hour later.

VALUABLE MEDICAL PRESCRIPTION

Recommended by a Well-known Toronto Doctor, Whose Love for Humanity is Greater than His Prejudice Against Proprietary Medicines.

The following very valuable prescription, by an eminent and successful physician, will be appreciated by many who are suffering from influenza, cold, cough, pneumonia, or any throat, lung or stomach trouble, or run-down system, as it is a certain cure, and will save many a doctor's bill. It is almost a certain preventive as well. "When you feel that you are taking cold, have chilly feeling or aching in any part of the body or head, or feel weak, tired, dizzy, unfit for work, pain in the head or back of the neck, do not neglect these dangerous symptoms, but send immediately to your druggist and get a bottle of Psychine (pronounced Si-keen), and prepare as follows:

"Psychine, 2 teaspoonfuls.
"Sherry, whisky or water, 2 teaspoonfuls.
"Choice of the latter can be made according to the judgment and preference of the patient.

"Mix thoroughly and take regularly before each meal and at bedtime." This prescription has been used in thousands of cases and has been so universally successful that number of leading physicians regularly prescribe Psychine in their practice for any of the above troubles, or any run-down, wasting or constitutional difficulty. It is the most reliable and valuable home remedy. It tones up the entire system, giving a feeling of youthfulness and vigor, adding many years to the life of those who use it.

"I was almost a physical wreck and was suffering with lung trouble. Friends and neighbors thought I would never get better. I began to despair myself. I was in bed for weeks. I procured another one who recommended the use of PSYCHINE. It was surprising beyond description the effect it had. I seemed to gain with every dose. Inside of two weeks I was able to attend to my household again. There are no symptoms of consumption about me now."

MRS. HENDERSON, R. J. N. B.

"I had been suffering from La Grippe. My lungs were weak and I had a cough, but Psychine cured me."

MRS. E. REAY, Campbellton, Ont.

Psychine can be procured from any druggist at 50c. and $1.00. It is a very

THE HARTLAND FIRE.

As an outcome of the popular suspicion that the recent disastrous fire at Hartland was of incendiary origin, L. G. McNally was arrested Saturday and after a brief preliminary examination was remanded until July 27, pending further investigation. Sensational developments may occur.

The last bunch of logs on the river St. John have within the last few days been brought into safe waters. This completes the best clearing up on the St. John in a good many years and there are now not more than a million feet which will not be brought to the booms. These few odd bunches are still on the landings and were never put in water, otherwise they would have been brought out.

Discussion of the herring fisheries situation continues without abatement in Newfoundland particularly in the fishing colony on the west coast. The fishermen are preparing to hold a public meeting to consider the conditions which would result in case the American vessel owners should decide to bring full crews with them to the fishing grounds next season, instead of hiring men here. This would throw about 800 men out of their customary employment at the busiest time of the year.

Mrs. Josephine Leslie was last week found guilty in the Old Bailey, London, on a charge of defrauding members of well known families by false pretences and sentenced to five years' penal servitude. It was her custom to represent herself as a friend of J. Pierpont Morgan and to deceive her investments. The hearing of the case was concluded in two hours. Mr. Morgan testified briefly that he did not know the prisoner and had never had any dealings with her.

The lure of the United States as a land of opportunity and wealth to the people of Hungary has brought about a curious state of affairs in the little village of Kerisova, Hungary, of 3,500 souls. One by one the male residents of Kerisova heard the call across the water and they emigrated until such a time as the Mayor was the only adult male to remain in the village. Finally he also left. As a result of this exodus of males the women of Kerisova have just elected a young woman to fill the position of Mayor and other female residents have been elected to fill the remainder of the municipal offices.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, better than three Doctors.

"Three years ago we had three doctors with our little boy and everything that they could do seemed in vain. At last when all hope seemed to be gone we began using Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and in a few hours he began to improve. Today he is as healthy a child as parents could wish for."—Mrs. B. J. Johnston, Linton, Miss. For sale by all druggists.

The Fredericton Exhibition which promises to be the largest ever held in that city, will be held Sept. 14 to 21. John A. Campbell, M. P. P., is president, and W. S. Hooper, J. O. Box 150, secretary. The price list is now ready and will be sent to intending exhibitors on application to the secretary.

For an Impaired Appetite.

To improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion try a few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Mr. J. H. ## INDIA.

The discontent among the Bengalese and other Indians of the Hindu faith is growing so rapidly as to cause serious apprehension regarding the future of British rule in India. The native leaders in the movement for independence seem to be circulating the most absurd and untrue stories about the governing class, such as that the British cause the plague in order to kill off the natives, that they poison wells, insult the Hindu religion, etc. So far has the anti-European agitation progressed that in many districts no European dare be seen on the streets unarmed. American and British mission stations have been destroyed and many Christians assaulted.

The Mohammedan element, whose ancestors were the rulers of India immediately before the British took possession, are as a rule more intelligent than the Hindus. Their long period of authority in a country where four-fifths of the people were of a different religion taught them habits of tolerance and forbearance unknown to many other Moslem nations. Since being conquered by Britain they have enjoyed as much religious freedom as ever they did under their own rulers; and they are not as yet taking any steps to embarrass the government. Much depends upon the course pursued by the sixty million Mohammedans of the Indian Empire. Should they unite with the Hindus it will be extremely hard for Britain to maintain her authority. Should they assist Britain in subduing the Hindus, they will probably demand, as their price for assisting the British, complete independence for those provinces where the Mohammedan element predominates.

It is to be hoped that India will be spared from falling into the hands of those who would revive with all its horrors religious persecution that for so many years disgraced and retarded the western nations. India will ultimately secure her freedom, but a holy war against Christianity will neither elevate her people nor hasten the day of her political redemption.

AUSTRALIAN LEGISLATION.

Premier Carruthers of New South Wales, the most important state of the Australian Commonwealth, has announced a government program for next session of the legislature which is decidedly Socialistic and a little more paternal than that to which even Australia has hitherto been accustomed. The programme embraces pensions for invalids, subventions to friendly societies and the establishment of a system whereby the poorest persons may purchase annuities. There is little doubt that the proposals will be adopted. The annuities to be issued by the government Savings Banks and their deposits, will draw special rates of interest. Premier Carruthers justifies his proposals by arguing that they "tend to uplift the community, swell the ranks of the friendly societies, increase the inducement to thrift and generally aid in the battle against improvidence."

Farm Facts and Fancies

He who plants a tree is a benefactor of mankind. For more than a hundred years we have been destroying trees. We must now quickly plant other trees to take their places or we and our children will suffer from famine. We should plant fruit trees along the roadside and educate the school children to respect them and to care for them. We should plant all our rough hillsides with useful trees, both for the growing value of the trees and because that is the only way to control flood of waters.

LOSS OF FEATHERS.

When fowls lose their feathers, the cause may be feather-pulling, in which one bird pulls feathers from another and swallows them. Too much oily food will also cause the feathers to come out. Loss of feathers is also caused by parasites, which attack especially the feathers destroying the web, while the quill remains. The feather mites, which do great damage, are very small, requiring the aid of a microscope to observe them. Skin disease, such as eruption from chicken pox, white comb, or from impurity of the blood, will often cause the feathers to fall from the head and neck. The cheapest and best remedy against parasites is the dust bath. Feather pulling by fowls is usually the result of close confinement and lack of exercise.

CREAM FOAMING IN THE CHURN.

Generally this trouble is caused by a too full churn, too cold, too hot, or too thin cream, and is more prevalent in the late fall when many cows are stripping and which would not occur in the summer time under similar conditions.

It saves time and butter to draw off as much of the cream as possible and continue the churning with what remains, say half a churn full. Then churn what is drawn off later. The lesson to be learned is to provide a large enough churn to handle every possible batch of cream without reason, then to resist the temptation to make one churning of what should really be two. This is the chief error, the too full churn. Too thin, too cold, or too

ANARCHY IN ALASKA.

Up in Alaska, there is civil war between the employees of two great companies who are disputing over a railway crossing. On Wednesday the Bruner Company hired on the employees of the Guggenheims, who were laying rails to cross the Bruner railway, killing one man, fatally injuring another and wounding nine more. The

It is worth while to try to induce as many patrons as possible to have some of their cows come in in the fall. Succulent food is also a factor in the winter time productive of a more churnable cream.

Constipation

Baked sweet apples, with some people, bring prompt relief for Constipation. With other people all-vine brand will have the same effect. Nature undisturbed has a vegetable remedy to relieve every ailment known to man, if physician can but find Nature's way to health. And this strikingly true with regard to Constipation.

The bark of a certain tree in California—Cascara—offers a most excellent aid to the bowels. But, combined with Epsom Salts, Siphon, Epsom Salts, Solid Extract of Prunes, etc., this same Cascara bark is given its greatest power to correct constipation. A toothsome Candy Tablet, called Lax-ets, is now made at the most effective prescription. Its effect on Constipation, Biliousness, Sour Stomach, Indigestion, Bloating, etc., is indeed prompt and satisfying.

No eating, no unpleasant after effects are experienced, and Lax-ets are put up in beautiful, illustrated metal boxes at 5 cents and 25 cents per box.

WOMAN'S WORLD

THE REAL "GIRL WITH THE FAN"

(Special Correspondence of Events)
Paris, July 18.—A young caricaturist of Montmartre became suddenly famous, on account of the humor of his subjects—and the violence of his legends.

Generally, he "arranged" the bourgeois, who is today Monsieur Everybody, prudent, saving—compromising. Ugly and temporizing as he may be, the Paris bourgeois is almost a man like any other, with man's impulses and aspirations. Abel Faivre showed it.

I have just turned down some twenty of his caricatures as utterly impossible to reproduce or describe for our public, but the Duval restaurant bonne and the old notary is famous, with "Peter Duval" wearing one of his extraordinary hats in the background. So is the artist who presents the painting of a cow to a old lady. So is the pompous old business man who tells the pretty chambermaid his wife has fallen ill on looking at her portrait.

In particular it was inquired why Faivre was so hard on French doctors. His special number of the anarchistic "Butter-Plate" (French slang for "graft") was of unbridled violence against the learned corporation that remains, in France, almost a priesthood. Where did he get that special wit, so terrible, that awful information? Then it became known that his brother is a celebrated Lyons physician, who handed him many a "pleasantry" of the hospital salled-de-garde.

I must tell you that the "doctors-series" is outrageous; and that Abel Faivre's bourgeois and bourgeois are the limit, in ugliness of body and mind, even for Paris.

Suddenly, one day, at the New Salon, there was seen a great and surpassing modern painting, of such exquisite charm, such extraordinary freshness of coloring, such mysterious delicacy of sentiment and execution that—without even glancing at the artist's name—the critics announced a great modern master. "That man's name is Abel Faivre."

It took Paris a full month to realize that the two Faivres could be one and the same—the known caricaturist with his monsters of ugliness and prettiness, and this new type of beauty, called at once by everyone "The Girl With the Fan."

Immediately the French government bought "The Girl With the Fan" for the Luxembourg. We Americans who have been going wild over Hellen's cheque, do we know that Hellen has not even a drawing in the the Luxembourg?

In any case, you know enough, now, to hear the true story of the false "Girl with the Fan"—the false one first.

It was the first year of the painting's celebrity.

At the Grand Cafe, Boulevard des Capucines, the waiter, Auguste, came hurrying to a young man of no importance, saying:

"Go, quick, to my row on the terrace. There's an interesting number...."

"Number" is slang for the music halls, "a turn," a "personage," and Auguste, years ago, was himself something of a ladies' darling in the Latin quarter. He knows what's what.

Therefore the young man of no importance hurried to the cafe terrace, which is four or five rows of chairs and little tables on the sidewalk.

There sat a charming young person.

At once the young man was struck by something curiously familiar in her regard. Talking of rain and fair weather, he continued seeking in his memory. Suddenly he found it.

"I say," he inquired, "I know who you are. You are the model of Abel Faivre's 'Girl With the Fan'."

She opened mouth and eyes like a beautiful young heifer who watches with astonishment the passing train, then grew troubled saying:

"Why does everybody ask me that? I have done nothing wrong. I have no fan. My name is not Faivre, but Durand; and I'm just arrived in Paris from Fouilly-les-Oies!"

Ab, me! She was a delicious person! The next morning the young man of no importance had the grace to take her to the Luxembourg and watch her stand, astounded, before "The Girl With the Fan."

All girls, now, know well how they look. This little demi-peasant saw immediately the remarkable resemblance. Faivre has put into the painting the strange living interrogation of the eyes, found only in one other—that I know, the most famous portrait of all time, Leonardo's immortal "Joconde." The girl had it, too. Alone, this alive look disarms all criticism in detractors of "The Girl With the Fan." They can't deny it. I say, this girl had it, too. She was very much impressed. Like the young man in the Scripture, she went away a pensive.

Six months later, in the utterly fashionable mixed worlds of the Palais de Glace, the man of no importance saw the little demi-peasant skating. Ah, what change, mes enfants! She was dressed, already, to perfection; and she had acquired a mincing grace. "Hum, hum!" he thought. "She has already mounted one big grade!"

Six months more passed; and he saw her seated, with much dignity, in a landau, behind two horses, in the Alley of Acacias of the Bois, at the bewitching hour of half past six, when that extraordinary woodland drive is fairyland. All Paris was there.

This time the girl had a fan!

Also the curious hat and coiffure, with great plumes and falling ribbon. She was "The Girl of the Fan!" And the young man of no importance asked a friend who knew it all, "Who is that charming person?"

"You know nothing!" was the answer. "Why, all Paris knows. She is the famous model of 'The Girl With the Fan' of Abel Faivre, it's in the Luxembourg. And the king of the Boscards of Paris is running her!"

Now, who the king of the Boscards is, I'll have to tell you another time; suffice to say he is a splendid and aristocratic grafter, almost honest, who does no harm and immense good to many persons. A busy man, who in the legitimate business world would make them sit up. As it is, he dines with Edward and Alphonse, two well-known kings, leads the grand dukes in Paris and elsewhere, and dictates taste to quantities of rich people.

"Hum, hum!" thought the young man of no importance. "She has made her second grade with a vengeance!"

A year passed. I met her on the road between Biarritz and Saint-Jean-de-Lus in a magnificent new Mercedes. They told how she had her suite at the Hotel du Palais. How she had her Paris mansion. How she went yachting. Of her collections. Of her jewels. Of her charities, even.... Yes ma'am.

Nothing is too good for the delicious original of "The Girl With the Fan." She is a little queen, today, in Paris.

Good. No one begrudges it to her.

Now for the true model of that painting.

Abel Faivre, though still quite young, is, sure, a disabused man. Of late, he has been putting on style, dressing like a Boni, leading, more or less, the great life, but he started among the Montmartre Bohemians, knew hard days, in which he grew ferocious; and his caricatures, bringing now big prices in the Figaro and other big daily papers, still reflect the bitterness of the Bohemian.

Well, at the time when he was at his worst, when his hand was against all men, he knew a tender bud that grew in Montmartre mud.

He never speaks of her.

She was, in a vague way, his model.... and his friend. She was delicate in health, of an ethereal, housed Paris charm, so timidly beautiful, too graciously tender.

Abel Faivre, made many, many sketches of her, some in black and white and some in color. He was not a painter. He was a caricaturist. The sketches were his works of love, for art.... and who knows?

Then, one day, Jeanne disappeared. "Bah," thought Abel to himself, "I'm not blaming little Jeanne. She's surely the fool to stay with me. Yesterday we had no lunch—in order to eat a good dinner. Good luck, Jeanne."

And he occupied his mind by making a peculiarly stinging cartoon against men with money. And, as he had his work, his large and bitter gall, his Montmartre streets to moodily take long walks in, he killed the time. Days followed days. Time passes for us all. A man would be a triple idiot to mourn for anyone or anything.

Yet, all the same, one day, when he was quite cured of that old infatuation, quite cured, look you, he gets out those sketches in black and white and color; and, shutting himself in his studio for nine days with bread and milk, he produced, with tears in his eyes, hate in his heart, the masterpiece of the Luxembourg. "The Girl With the Fan"—he, Abel Faivre, the caricaturist!

He sent it to the salon. Good. The French state bought it for a high price. Good. Abel Faivre was, suddenly, doubly famous. Good. His cartoons began to bring high pay from the first journals. Good. So, had he not been so excessively unhappy, so uneasy, so restless and week-long, he would have been quite a lucky, happy youth.

You understand, he did not care a rap for Jeanne. He was just embittered because luck had come too late.

So, instead of taking his pleasure, he fled from the snobs who would have cultivated him, and began walking the dark streets again. What doing? Looking, looking for a face he never found. "She's not there!" he at last said with a great sigh of relief. "I'll look in the high places."

It did not take long. He went among the snobs. At once, from all sides, he heard echoes of the beautiful model.

"Yes, of course, your model. 'The girl with the fan.' Why, sure. Where? Everywhere. At all the first nights. All the smart expositions. And, particularly, in the Bois, at half past six."

Feverishly the ferocious, neglected Bohemian dressed in clothes from the first Paris tailor. With fire in his veins, he sailed out at half-past five, to roll through the Acacias in a smart turnout.

Up and down and back and fourth. He saw Tout-Paris come. He mingled in the splendid pageant. Under the acacia-blossoms he was watching, waiting.

She came, the Girl with the Fan. She had her fan. She had her great peculiar hat, with its plumes, its long streamer. "There! There she is—your famous model!"

Abel glared at her intensely. As she rolled by in her Victoria, he almost stuck his face into her face.

Of course she did not know him. Of course he did not know her. "That heifer, there, my Jeanne! Name of a— Come. We can fire the cannon, now!"

They thought that he was drunk. He was drunk later that day.

Three days passed in hateful phantasmagoria.

Then Abel Faivre again began his search.

He searched the smart patisseries, where young married women take afternoon tea. He searched the parks, where young mammas sit reading while nurse promenades the baby. He searched the suburbs, Neuilly, Auteuil, where smart bourgeoisie live retired. He searched the banlieu, where clerks and employes live economically. In vain.

Then he searched the Latin Quarter and the boulevard. He walked the gaily lighted streets. He sought always for a face he never found. Do you know what it is to seek a face you never find in crowds? It gets upon the nerves.

It was at this time that Faivre did his cartoons of the second style, more ugly, nasty, hateful than ever before.

One rainy night—I'll cut it short—he walked in the mud of the Boulevard Roche chourst, Montmartre.

Suddenly a poor trailing thing accosted him. Dragged, wretched, coughing, with great eyes.... Ah, Abel....

Ah, poor Jeanne! He took her to him. He had her elaborately tended. It was too late. It was no use. She had seen too much hardship and too little food—the true Girl with the Fan!

PROMOTING IMMORALITY.

It ill becomes Canadians to point the finger of scorn at the manner in which the abominable unwritten law is made to triumph in the courts of the United States when Justice is so frequently and so noticeably burlesqued in the courts of this country. Scarcely a day passes that a glaring travesty of justice is not enacted in some part of this expansive land. A day or two ago a couple of Quebec cabbies were charged with attempting to criminally assault a woman who had engaged one of them to convey her to a point outside the city. The cabbies had influential friends and although they were convicted of the charge they escaped with a nominal fine. What a mockery of Justice! And yet it is doubtful if the action of this Quebec court is any more demoralizing to law and order, to say nothing of morality, than a verdict returned the other day by a New Brunswick jury. Defying God, law and public opinion a resident of one of our most virtuous towns maintained two separate domestic establishments side by side. That is to say that while keeping the roof over the head of his lawful wife he also kept one over the head of another woman next door. He made the abode of the other woman his headquarters, flouted his immorality in the faces of his law-abiding neighbors who, while not viewing it with indifference made no attempt to put a stop to it. But as the old saying goes "give a calf rope enough and he will hang himself". This licentious individual was indiscreet enough not long ago to lodge a couple of friends in the house of his paramour overnight. They saw a thing or two and one of them told the town policeman about it. The policeman laid a charge against the licentious individual and the town magistrate on hearing the evidence of the two lodgers committed him. His trial came off the other day. There was no doubt about his guilt and the good people of the town felt that they would soon be rid of him. But low and behold, just as the citizens were congratulating themselves the jury returned from the ante room, after being out only a few minutes, with the verdict of "not guilty." Immorality is altogether too common in this part of Canada and the decent living folk look to our courts to discourage it and not to encourage it.

THAT TAX

Why not make a determined effort to increase our population and prosperity NOW. Without any effort on the part of our citizens Campbellton will in time become a large and prosperous city. It is bound to. Nothing can stop it from becoming so. But why not try to make it so NOW. One way to help bring about such a condition is to place such a tax on our pulpwood as will prevent its exportation to the United States. We believe that if the Northern counties demanded such a tax the government would impose it. It would most certainly mean that the Americans would come here and manufacture. They would be compelled to. The New York Sun holds that the imposition of an export duty by Canada is of secondary importance to the conservation of the Canadian spruce limits. In other words, it takes the ground that the vital matter is not so much a question as to whether the pulpwood of the future is to be secured north or south of the boundary line as it is a question as to whether it can be secured at all. The Sun further admits that Canada holds the key to the position and could make the Americans dance to what ever tune may be played by the Dominion. Similar encouragement is given by the frank admission of the New York Commercial that an export duty will lead to the immediate investment of much American money in paper mills in Canada.

NOTE AND COMMENT

We haven't a very exalted opinion of the newspapers which are endeavoring to show that this province is in a bankrupt state.

Supposing a number of financiers did contribute sums of money to District Attorney Jerome's campaign fund, they could not have contributed to a better cause. Mr. Jerome is the best district attorney New York ever had.

Evelyn Nesbit Thaw is to return to the stage. If Mrs Thaw is a capable actress we see no reason why she shouldn't do so. And those who saw her on the witness stand at the trial of her husband are inclined to believe that she is a very capable actress indeed.

The Zarzarc cocktail has arrived in New York and indications point towards this novel introduction playing to a successful season's stand. The birthplace of this enchanting specialty was New Orleans. Its true pedigree is found in the following formula:—A tumbler is basted with absinthe, succeeded by a dash of peso or Florida bitters; then comes half a jigger of French vermouth, capped with a liberal supply of the component material of chief value, brandy, whiskey or gin, as the palate of the customer prefers. This tippie ought not to be frapped. The ice, which is placed in a serving glass, should only be spoon stirred. Doubtless a generous series of "Zarzas" will make the average custodian feel like—well, you who tippie can imagine what it would make him feel like.

The drought, which has continued practically unbroken for nearly a month on Long Island, New York is causing the farmers much alarm and prayer services are to be held for the purpose of invoking rain. Should there be no rain within another week many farmers will abandon hope of gathering more than slim crops. There will be but a little more than a two thirds crop of wheat in the Northwest this year, and the price will reach $1.25 a bushel. This is the prediction of one of the largest growers. The conditions are the same in Kansas, North and South Dakota and Minnesota, the largest producing states. And in the northern section of New Brunswick the crops are well nigh ruined because of too much rain. Can't the weather man be persuaded to give Long Island, for instance, a little rain and northern New Brunswick a little sunshine. We should be eternally grateful to him if he would only balance things a little better.

To what extent if any, Haywood Moyer and Pettibone figured in the murder of Governor Stenerson will probably never be known. Haywood has been acquitted. There was insufficient evidence to convict him of complicity in the crime, but in the eyes of impartial observers he has not been cleared. While it may be said that there was insufficient evidence to establish his guilt, it may also be said that their was insufficient evidence to establish his innocence. The Haywood trial revealed but one thing clearly, viz. the guilt of Harry Orchard. Orchard must hang. Only those who take the most extreme position in opposing all capital punishment will regret that the slayer of perhaps a score of men, must suffer the heaviest penalty of the law. Orchard not only killed by wholesale but in cold blood. He murdered men who had done him no harm; in some cases they were entire strangers. He killed them, by his own confession, without even the brutal excuse of personal hatred or the heat of passion. He is a deliberate assassin, even if half his own story is false, and if he escapes with his life it would be the natural conclusion that he bought it by trying to send other men to their death.

TOWN TOPICS

Mr. and Mrs. William Thompson are receiving congratulations on the arrival of a baby boy at their home.

For those of our subscribers who do not receive daily papers we recommend our condensed telegraphic news on page 2.

"I did a thing to day," S. R. Beebe said this afternoon, "I never thought I would do," bought a baby buggy."—Atchison Globe.

E. F. Wallace has resigned his position as bandmaster to the Citizens' band. Ernest Nason, an English cornet soloist, succeeds Mr. Wallace.

The announcement has been made of the appointment of Dr. P. F. Duffy as surgeon of the marine hospital, Douglastown. The contest was narrowed down to Dr. Duffy, Dr. Byrne, of Chatham and Dr. Desmond, of Newcastle and was pretty warm.

A few mornings ago while at breakfast the guests of the Robertson House, Bathurst, were astonished to see two deer grazing in front of the hotel. Being disturbed they ran to the garden of Mr. Ellis, where they stayed for some time. They eventually ran to the river and swam across the harbor to the village. Game is very plentiful on the North Shore.

Complaints are again made by our Point La Gade subscribers that they do not receive their papers regularly. We understand the fault lies with the mail clerks on the other side who are said to be so overworked that they haven't time to sort the newspaper mail for Point La Gade people and toss it aside. Our subscribers are naturally rather indignant about it and some favor asking the postal department for an investigation.

A number of papers have stated that the man who fell from the Ocean Limited near New Mills last week was one Charles McKinnon of Chatham. His name is not McKinnon but McCarthy as stated in the last issue of "Events" and he does not belong to Chatham but to Boston. He was one of a gang of laborers brought to this country a year ago by Thomas Malcolm to work on the International railway. Reports from the hospital this week say McCarthy is doing splendidly and that there is every probability that he will shortly be out. When he is liberated it is understood he will be charged with stealing a ride on the I. C. R. train.

Matters in the dispute between the I. C. R. machinists and the management are now virtually settled, so the members of the I. A. of M. who have been active in connection with the concessions asked for stated at Moncton Monday night. Representatives from the northern division of machinists were there on that day in session with Master Mechanic Lozo of River du Loup, and Mechanical Superintendent Joughins, and the men left for home at night satisfied with the interview. It is stated they have been granted an increase of two and four cents, and a settlement of the wage question on this basis gives the North Shore men perfect satisfaction.

On the main line of the I. C. R. some of the old conductors made their last run yesterday. The pension act's provisions state that all the employees over the age limit must relinquish their positions on the 31st of July. All employees over 60 years of age who have been in the service fifteen years have the right to retire on pension and those who are 70 years of age are forced to retire. Three in all, at least, on this division will likely receive pensions. These are old familiar faces, Levesque, conductor on the Maritime between Campbellton and Lewis, Geo. Cagnon brakeman on the Maritime between Campbellton and Lewis and Car. Inspector John Gallant. Under the act no pension is less than $20 a month.

Two meetings of the Town Council were held during the past week, the first on Friday evening and the latter on Tuesday evening. Friday evening's session was devoted to the consideration of by-laws, the council going into committee of the whole. By-law No. 4 relating to the duties of Committees, was reported favorably for adoption. At Tuesday evening's meeting a communication was read from J. C. Mackintosh & Co., Halifax, asking for information re-valuation, population, debt, etc. of the town. The matter was referred to the Finance Com. A request from Arch'd McNair for relief from payment of taxes for this year as he has been given a license to do business to Oct. 31st 1907. Referred to Assessment Com. D. Cameron made application for license to conduct a moving picture show for three months. On motion it was ordered that license be issued on payment of $75.00. After passing a few accounts the Council went into committee of the whole to consider by-laws, Coun. Mowat in the chair. A number of the new by-laws were reported favorably for adoption, after which council adjourned.

A Clifton, Gloucester county correspondent writes:—There is a bird here now resembling the Condor. It watches the innocent bird and takes away their support. Those that examine it closely say it is not as powerful as it looks, and it sings different tunes.

A big game scandal on the Miramichi has about reached that point where action must be taken which will bring it into public notice, says the Fredericton Gleason. In fact, already the people generally are talking of the affair on all sides and along the Miramichi and in sporting circles returned from the Miramichi work and that while arrests have not been made as yet, they are likely to follow at any moment. Mr. Henry Braithwaite, the respected and veteran guide returned from the Miramichi the last of last week and to-day Chief Game Warden John Robinson, Jr., arrived from the North Shore. This afternoon Deputy Surveyor General Fievel stated that he was not in a position to make any statement regarding the case, but referred the matter to Chief Game Warden Robinson. Mr. Robinson when seen said that he was not in a position to make a statement. He said he had expected to find the Surveyor General here, but he had been in telephone communication with him and that he would go to Moncton and see Hon. Mr. Sweeney there.

With Edged Tools

By HENRY SETON MERRIMAN

Author of "The Story of the Boy Who Wasn't There"

Copyright, 1906, by HARPER & BROTHERS

"There are also my poor contributions to your collection," chimed in Jack Meredith. "A comparison must have been interesting to you, by the same mail presumably, under the same postmark."

"I made no comparison," the girl cried defiantly, "there was no question of comparison."

She said it shamelessly, and it hurt Meredith more than it hurt Guy Oscar, for whom the sting was intended.

"Comparison or no comparison," said Jack Meredith quickly, with the keenness of a good fencer who has been touched, "there can be no doubt of the fact that you were engaged to us both at the same time. You told us both to go out and make a fortune where-with to buy your affections. One can only presume that the highest bidder—the owner of the largest fortune—was to be the happy man. Unfortunately, we became partners, and—such was the power of your fascination—we made the fortune, but we share and share alike in that. We are equal, so far as the price is concerned. The situation is interesting and rather amusing. It is your turn to move. We await your further instructions in considerable suspense."

She stared at him with bloodless lips. She did not seem to understand what he was saying. At last she spoke, ignoring Guy Oscar's presence altogether.

"Considering that we are to be married tomorrow, I do not think that you should speak to me like that," she said, with a strange, concentrated earnestness.

"Pardon me, we are not going to be married tomorrow."

Her brilliant teeth closed on her lower lip with a snap, and she stood looking at him, breathing so hard that the sound was almost a sob.

"What do you mean?" she whispered hoarsely.

He raised his shoulders in polite surprise at her display of comprehension.

"In the unfortunate circumstances in which you are placed," he explained, "it seems to me that the least one can do is to offer every assistance in one's power. Please consider me hors de concours. In a word—I scratch."

She gasped like a swimmer swimming for life. She was fighting for that which some deem dearer than life—namely, her love. For it is not only the good women who love, though these understand it best and see further into it.

"Then you can never have cared for me!" she cried. "All that you have told me—and her eyes flashed indignantly across Oscar—all that you have promised and vowed was utterly false if you turn against me at the first word of a man who was carried away by his own vanity into thinking things that he had no business to think."

If Guy Oscar was no great adept at wordy warfare, he was at all events strong in his reception of punishment. He stood upright and quiescent, betraying by neither sign nor movement that her words could hurt him.

"I beg to suggest again," said Jack Meredith, "that Oscar has not yet brought any accusations against you. You are both cruel and cowardly," she exclaimed, suddenly descending to vituperation. "Two to one. Two men—gentlemen—against one defenseless girl. Of course I am not able to argue with you. Of course you can get the best of me. It is so easy to be sarcastic."

"I do not imagine," retorted Jack, "that anything that we can say or do will have much permanent power of hurting you. For the last two years you have been engaged in an—intrigue such as a thin skinned or sensitive person would hardly of her own free will undertake. You may be able to explain it to yourself—no doubt you are—but to our more limited comprehension it must remain inexplicable. We can only judge from appearances."

"And, of course, appearances go against me. They always do against a woman," she cried, rather brokenly, "that which some deem dearer than life—namely, her love. For it is not only the good women who love, though these understand it best and see further into it."

"You would have been wise to have taken that peculiarity into consideration sooner," replied Jack Meredith.

"I do not imagine," retorted Jack, "that anything that we can say or do will have much permanent power of hurting you. "I think," he added, "that there is nothing more to be said."

There was a dead silence. Millicent Chyne glanced toward Guy Oscar.

He could have saved her yet by a simple lie. Had he been an impossibly magnanimous man, such as one meets in books only, he could have explained that the mistake was all his, that she was quite right, that his own vanity had blinded him into a great and unwarranted presumption. But, unfortunately, he was only a human being, a man who was ready to give as full a measure as he exacted. The unfortunate mistake to which he clung was that the same sense of justice, the same code of honor, must serve for men and women alike. So Millicent Chyne looked in vain for that indulgence which is so inconsistently offered to women, merely because they are women, the indulgence which is sometimes given and sometimes withheld, according to the softness of the masculine heart and the beauty of the suppliant feminine form. Guy Oscar was quite sure of his own impression. This girl had allowed him to begin loving her, had encouraged him to go on, had led him to believe that his love was returned. And in his simple ignorance of the world he did not see why these matters should be looked up in his own breast from a mistaken sense of chivalry to be accorded where no right was.

"No," he answered, "there is nothing more to be said."

Without looking toward her, Jack Meredith made a few steps toward the door—quietly, self-composed, with that perfect savor of the social expert that made him different from other men. Millicent Chyne felt a sudden pleasurable desire to scream. It was all so heartbreakingly well bred. He turned on his heel with a little half cynical bow.

"I leave my name with you," he said. "It is probable that you will be put to some inconvenience. I can only regret that this denouement did not come sooner."

And so they left her—amid the disorder of the half unpacked wedding presents—amid the ruin of her own life. Perhaps, after all, she was not wholly bad. Few people are; they are only bad enough to be wholly unsatisfactory and quite incomprehensible. She must have known the risk she was running, and yet she could not stay her hand. She must have known long before that she really loved Jack Meredith, and that she was playing fast and loose with the happiness of her whole life. She knew that hundreds of girls around her were doing the same, and, with all shame be it mentioned, not a few married women. But they seemed to be able to carry it through without accident or hindrance. And illogically, thoughtlessly, she blamed her own ill fortune

WILD STRAWBERRY
IS AN INSTANTANEOUS CURE.

It has been used in thousands of homes during the past sixty-two years and has always given satisfaction.

Every home should have a bottle so as to be ready in case of emergency.

Price 35 cents at all druggists and dealers. Do not let some unprincipled druggist humbug you into taking so-called Strawberry Compound. The original is Dr. Fowler's. The rest are substitutes.

Mrs. G. Bode, Lethbridge, Alta., writes: "We have used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry and found it a great remedy for Diarrhoea, Summer Complaints and Cramps. We would not like to be without it in the house."

Wood's Peppermint Cure.
The Great English Remedy.
A positive cure for all forms of Croup, Whooping Cough, Sore Throat, Hoarseness, Asthma, Bronchitis, Indigestion, Eczema, and all other ailments of the throat, chest and lungs. It is a purely vegetable compound possessing perfect regulating powers over all the organs of the system and controlling their secretions.
It is so pure and so effective that it cures all blood humors and diseases, and this combined with its unrivaled regulating, cleansing and purifying influence, renders it unequalled for all diseases of the skin.
Mr. Robert Parson, Millbank, Ont., writes: "Some time ago I was troubled with boils and pimples, which kept breaking out constantly. After taking two bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters I am completely cured."

"Do you know," she said, softly, to the young man who sat in the hammock with her, "I dreamt last night that we were engaged."
"Isn't it strange," said the young man, quickly, "how still the lake is to day?"
He had been caught on that game once before and was dead wise.

Deafness Cannot be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

I will mail you free, to prove merit samples of my Dr. Shoop's Restorative, and my Book on either Dyspepsia, The Heart or The Kidneys. Troubles of the Stomach, Heart or Kidneys are merely symptoms of a deeper ailment. Don't make the common error of treating symptoms only. Symptom treatment is treating the result of your ailment, not the cause. Weak Stomach nerves—the inside nerves—mean Stomach weakness, always. And the Heart and Kidneys as well, have their controlling or inside nerves. Weaken these nerves and you inevitably have weak vital organs. Here is where Dr. Shoop's Restorative has made its fame. No other remedy even claims to treat the "inside nerves." Also for bloating, biliousness, bad breath or constipation, use Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Write to me today for a sample and free Book, Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. The Restorative is sold by A. McG. McDonald.

Is Your Cold better?
No, it's as bad as ever. Nothing seems to help. Why not use the up-to-date specific "Catarrhose" which drives out cold in one day. Inhale Catarrhose and you will be relieved in two minutes. Continue the treatment constantly. Healing, germ destroying and pleasant, nothing for colds, throat trouble and catarrh compares with Catarrhose. Sold everywhere 25c and $1.00.

Eczema.
For the good of those suffering with eczema or other such trouble, I wish to say, my wife had something of that kind and after using the doctor's remedies for some time concluded to try Chamberlain's Salve, and it proved to be better than anything she had tried. For sale by all druggists.

"What is your impression of an ideal railway system?"
"An ideal railway," answered the weary traveller, "is one whose trains arrive as punctually and safely as the dividends.—Washington Star."

Regained Health and Energy.
From Walton, P. Q., Que., comes the following from Mr. Nazaire Begin—"If anyone had told me any remedy could build up my nervous system so well, I would not have believed them. Before using Ferrozone I was run down in nerve and vital energy, and in very weak health. I didn't get enough sleep at night, felt poorly in the day time. Ferrozone has filled me with energy and vim, increased my weight and made a new man of me."

Hundreds tell the same story—Weak dispirited, everything wrong, unable to catch up. They took Ferrozone and all was changed to health and serenity. Price 50c per box at all dealers.

The Suburbanite's Wife—Are you going to weed out the old bed?
The Suburbanite—From the way it looks I think I will flower out the weed bed.

Remedy for Diarrhoea Never Known to Fail.
"I want to say a few words for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I have used this preparation in my family for the past five years and have recommended it to a number of people in York county and have never known it to fail to effect a cure in any instance. I feel that I can say too much for the remedy of the kind in the world."—S. Jemison, Spring Grove, York County, Pa. This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

"You!" snorted the rich old man, "you marry my daughter? Why, you are a beer gutter, sir!"
"Yes," replied Nervus, "but after my marriage I'd step all that. I expect to be able to afford wine then."—Philadelphia Press.

Is your Trouble Indigestion?
Then probably you know the evils of indigestion, fermentation and irritation that accompany digestive troubles. Next important is to know how promptly to relieve them. Quick as wind it relieves bloating and feeling of fullness puts the entire digestive apparatus in perfect order, makes you feel fit and fine all over. For internal pain, Polson's Nervine surpasses every known remedy. Keep it in the house always, it's a source of comfort in the hour of its agency. Large bottles for 25c at all dealers.

John Philip Sousa tells an amusing story of a German trombone player whom the composer-conductor knew in his early days.

The old trombone player was named Backenblosser—a fact he could not help—and on one occasion Sousa saw him standing outside of the theatre where he had been playing for several weeks. Backenblosser was swearing very unmusically for a man who had absolute pitch, and he shook his fist at the theatre and even administered one or two kicks to the unrelenting brick wall.

"What's the trouble, Backenblosser?" asked Sousa, stopping in surprise.

English papers, whose columns abound with such phrases as "bugger-mugger," "flapdoodle," etc., should publish a glossary with each issue, otherwise how is the poor reader, who only speaks English, to know what they mean?

Is Your Cold better?
No, it's as bad as ever. Nothing seems to help. Why not use the up-to-date specific "Catarrhose" which drives out cold in one day. Inhale Catarrhose and you will be relieved in two minutes. Continue the treatment constantly. Healing, germ destroying and pleasant, nothing for colds, throat trouble and catarrh compares with Catarrhose. Sold everywhere 25c and $1.00.

Eczema.
For the good of those suffering with eczema or other such trouble, I wish to say, my wife had something of that kind and after using the doctor's remedies for some time concluded to try Chamberlain's Salve, and it proved to be better than anything she had tried. For sale by all druggists.

What's the trouble, Backenblosser?
asked Sousa, stopping in surprise.
"I will never fail in dere again!" shouted the German.
"Why not?"
"Nefar I tell you—nefer!"
"But why not?" persisted Sousa.
"Because I haf been discharged."

"Madam," said Witticus to his landlady as he took his place at the dinner table, at the fourth consecutive appearance of the veal, "why do you so persistently snub us?"
"I don't snub you, Mr. Witticus," answered the landlady, uneasily.
"I don't know about that," he retorted, reproachfully. "This is the fourth time you have given us the cold snoulder."

Easy to Retain Health.
Most important of all is proper attention to the bowels. Avoid constipation it's the health-killer of today. Harsh, gripping medicine is ruinous—beware of it. Best results follow a truly vegetable remedy like Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butter-nut which not only relieves costiveness in one night but cures the cause of the trouble and prevents its return. No distress or inconvenience attends the use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills which are world famous for their mildness and efficiency. Sold everywhere 25c box.

The Suburbanite's Wife—Are you going to weed out the old bed?
The Suburbanite—From the way it looks I think I will flower out the weed bed.

Remedy for Diarrhoea Never Known to Fail.
"I want to say a few words for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I have used this preparation in my family for the past five years and have recommended it to a number of people in York county and have never known it to fail to effect a cure in any instance. I feel that I can say too much for the remedy of the kind in the world."—S. Jemison, Spring Grove, York County, Pa. This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

"You!" snorted the rich old man, "you marry my daughter? Why, you are a beer gutter, sir!"
"Yes," replied Nervus, "but after my marriage I'd step all that. I expect to be able to afford wine then."—Philadelphia Press.

Is your Trouble Indigestion?
Then probably you know the evils of indigestion, fermentation and irritation that accompany digestive troubles. Next important is to know how promptly to relieve them. Quick as wind it relieves bloating and feeling of fullness puts the entire digestive apparatus in perfect order, makes you feel fit and fine all over. For internal pain, Polson's Nervine surpasses every known remedy. Keep it in the house always, it's a source of comfort in the hour of its agency. Large bottles for 25c at all dealers.

John Philip Sousa tells an amusing story of a German trombone player whom the composer-conductor knew in his early days.

The old trombone player was named Backenblosser—a fact he could not help—and on one occasion Sousa saw him standing outside of the theatre where he had been playing for several weeks. Backenblosser was swearing very unmusically for a man who had absolute pitch, and he shook his fist at the theatre and even administered one or two kicks to the unrelenting brick wall.

"What's the trouble, Backenblosser?" asked Sousa, stopping in surprise.
"I will never fail in dere again!" shouted the German.
"Why not?"
"Nefar I tell you—nefer!"
"But why not?" persisted Sousa.

TOWN TOPICS

Harry Nelson caught a twelve pound salmon at Matapedia, Tuesday.

Correspondents who wish their contributions published in these columns must stick to facts and sign their names. We do not publish anonymous correspondence.

Felix Doucett, of Bathurst Village, while saving in the Summer Company's mill at that place, Monday, had the misfortune to have three fingers and one thumb of his left hand taken off by one of the saws.

At a meeting of the School Board held, Monday evening Miss Hazel B. McCain of Florenceville and Miss Mary E. Lenihan of Fredericton were appointed teachers. Both hold superior license. The vacancies in the town schools are now all filled. The board also appointed William Smith, janitor of the Grammar school.

Friday was St Anne's Day. The Indians of the mission and many others observed the day. High mass celebrated in the church at Restigouche by Rev. Father Pasquie was attended by many from Campbellton and other points. The annual bazaar opened on Friday and continued until Sunday noon with the usual success.

The news agent on the Ocean Limited express had a miraculous escape from death at Harcourt Saturday. As the train was moving out of the station the news agent jumped back from the train, but stumbling over a pile of boxes he was thrown back between the rails. He immediately stretched himself at full length and let the entire train pass over him, getting up when the last car had passed without sustaining a scratch. A number of terrified spectators watched the occurrence.

John McKay, one of the oldest residents of Grand Cascapedia died at midnight July 21st, at the age of 84 years and five months. Deceased had been ill for about two months. The funeral was held on Wednesday the 24th at New Richmond. The Rev. J. McPherson of Escuminac officiated. The pall bearers were Arthur Gilker, Alex Willett, Alex Dimock, Wm. Gilker, B. Pidgeon and John Watson. A large number of friends followed the remains to the cemetery.

The ship Cambria, Swanson master, with a cargo of deals for Dublin and ashore, Friday afternoon about one mile off Point La Nim. The Cambria which is a vessel of about 1600 tons was loaded at Oak Point by the Wm. Richards Company. She sailed Friday morning in charge of pilot Dan McNeil. When about a mile off Point La Nim she became becalmed and drifted out of the channel and aground before she could be anchored. After several attempts had been made to tow her off, she was finally taken off by three tugs at high tide, Tuesday evening. She is now anchored off Dalhousie and a survey is being held on her today. As the soil is muddy where she ran aground it is thought she is not badly damaged and that she will be able to proceed to sea.

Rev. Dr. Chapman of Amherst will supply the pulpit in the Methodist church here for a month. Dr. Chapman will preach his first sermon on Sunday.

The Board of Trade did not meet Friday evening as scheduled. A meeting will likely be called again in a day or two and delegates appointed to the Maritime meeting at St. John.

A few days ago "Events" called up the office of a well known shipping firm to ascertain some facts concerning the grounding of the ship Cambria. Some smart alec in the office thought he would string us and forthwith gave us a lot of false and misleading information. We have our private opinion of a man who, in his official capacity, will attempt to string a newspaper man.

Miss Lena Duthie's Scotch entertainment last Friday evening in Dimock's Hall under the auspices of the Caledonia Society was one of the most delightful affairs of the season. Miss Duthie possesses a very rich voice and her rendering of Scotch lyrics quite captivated the large and fashionable audience present. Miss Duthie was ably assisted by Mr. Ross on the bagpipes. Miss Duthie gives a concert at New Mills, Aug. 9th.

"Arcadia" Campbellton's new amusement resort is now in full swing. The management we learn has secured the services of a first class pianist and singer, both of whom will be in evidence from this evening on. Also there will be a complete change of pictures. All are highly entertaining and have never before been seen in this town. We advise you not to miss them. The subjects are as follows:—Modern Burglars, The Dog Snatcher, Pork Butchers Dream, The Bad Mother. Illustrated song, Alice where art thou going.

Thomas F. Ryan, Jr., son of the famous Wall street napoleon of finance, accompanied by four of his college friends and a doctor came to Campbellton on Monday to enjoy some fishing. Unfortunately the beastly weather interfered somewhat with their plans. They had one day at Parker's Lake and made a fairly good haul, but the rain prevented them from going again. They knocked about here and enjoyed themselves as best they could until this morning when they left in their private car, "Pere Marquette" for Truro. Their car was attached to the Maritime. The party will return home from Truro.

Seven deaths are reported by Secretary Paver of the I.C.R. Employees' Relief and Insurance Association for the month ended July 25, with insurance amounting to $3,250. The deaths were as follows:—Owen Doyle and L. D. French, Moncton, $250 each; Chas. Lloyd, Moncton, $1,000; N. Fournier and Alex. Couture, Levis $550 each; Thomas Fitzmaurice and George Bannister, Halifax, $1,000 and $250 respectively. In addition to these deaths, two employees, members of the Temporary Employees' Accident Fund were killed, namely Sirfrid Canuel at Cedar Fall, and Alfred Govang, Truro. The fees and levies for the month are: Class A, $2; Class B, $1.20 and Class C, 80 cents.

Theodore Galley, of Newcastle, aged 20, was drowned Tuesday night from the steamer Alexandria, carrying A. G. H. excursionists. The night was dark and practically the last seen of Galley was when he was standing on the rail of the boat with his arm around a post. He was supposed to be sick and no particular notice of his actions was taken. The next thing heard was a splash, and the young lady who was with Galley cried out that he had fallen overboard, and she attempted to follow. The boat was near Lyon's Cove at this time, about a mile below Chatham, and when those in the vicinity of where Galley had gone overboard had succeeded in holding the girl and had told Captain Nowlan of the accident, the steamer was two or three miles below the cove. The boat was therefore not stopped.

Mr. Pottinger's official car was attached to the maritime express. At the depot, Mr. and Mrs. Pottinger were congratulated by a number of friends.

No word as yet been received as to when Consul Benedict's successor will arrive here. Mr. Benedict, however, will remain until he comes.

A correspondent writes:—"It seems odd that all the distinguished Russian correspondents of the Campbellton Tribune should spell by-law with an 'e', but I suppose it is due to their unfamiliarity with the English language."

The captain of the ship Cambria now aground off Point La Nim was reported missing the morning after the big storm last week and it was feared for a time that he had been drowned in going from Campbellton to his ship at Oak Point. He turned up, however, in a day or two.

DALHOUSIE DOINGS

Baxter and Mann have about finished laying the main water line from McNeish's brook to the town and it is hoped that the water system will be in operation by autumn. A concrete dam is being constructed across McNeish's brook to form a reservoir from which the water will be brought to the town.

PRaises OUR POLICY.

To the Editor of Events—
Your policy as well as that of all other newspapers in treating the idiotic utterances of that tri-weekly sheet in our town with silent contempt meets with general approval, but I think somebody should provide the writer of such nonsense with a nursing bottle and a teething ring and send him to some institution for the care of the harmless insane.

Reader.

BURGLAR ALARM AROUSES CLERKS.

The tall man said his name was Wm. Murphy, while the short one gave the name of John Condon. Both claim Ireland as their birthplace. Murphy, who is the more talkative of the two, said that they had both been in this country a good deal during the past ten years. The police, however, have no acquaintance with them.

The prisoners came up before Magistrate Matheson at 10 o'clock this morning. They pleaded guilty to the charge of breaking and stealing and were committed for trial. They will be taken to the Dalhousie jail to-morrow.

Both Murphy and Condon are roughly dressed and do not appear to be professional burglars.
