FARM AND TURF.

A journal named Hay, devoted to the hay crop, says that it is equal to 675,000 tons, valued at $375,882,982, which is only 20 million behind the whole corn crop.

Chillblains.—Red spots of long standing, painful but not open. Chillblains are a low form of inflammation usually caused by exposure to cold and the rapid restoration of the circulation by external heat, instead of the slower process of vital reaction. Locally, as often as the tingling, throbbing, itching, etc., occur, apply a mixture of 2 parts alcohol and 1 each of sulphuric ether and ammonia and allow to evaporate freely.

The odor and flavor of turnips and rutabagas may be removed from the milk and kept out of the butter by carefully heating the milk or the unripened cream to a pasteurization temperature of about 150° F. This may be accomplished by heating in a double vessel, the inner to contain the milk or cream, which must not be allowed to boil, but merely to simmer at about 150° as a much higher heat would so change the milk fat that there would be a heavy loss in the butter yield. To improve the flavor of the butter it is necessary to pasteurize the cream before it has ripened, and this process is also useful for removing other bad flavor, such as those caused by bacteria, with the milk and the cream should be cooled as rapidly as possible after heating for from ten to thirty minutes.

The final Government crop bulletin of the field products of Manitoba for 1894 was issued last week. It puts the total yield of wheat at 17,172,883 bushels, an average of 17 bushels per acre. The Government estimates 5,564,179 bushels, now in farmers' hands. The crop amounted to 12,000,000 bushels and barley to 3,000,000. Flax has been paying crop this year at $1 per bushel.
Potatoes turned out over 2,000,000 bushels and roots almost that quantity.
Live stock exports estimated at 11,000 cattle, and hogs exported, 8,000. The bulletin also shows increase in poultry raising, the figures being: Turkeys, 46, 183; geese, 15,234; chickens, 200,000, all of which feathered product was consumed in the provinces, butter 2,519,230 pounds, at an average price to farmer of over 15c per pound.

HOW THE LOWER TARIFF OPERATES.
Lower duties on farm products are resulting in a material enlargement of exports. Canadian eggs, for example, were imported to the extent of 96,000 doz during August. With a 3c duty in September, this jumped to 422,000 doz or fourfold, and the trade was only a little less of the following month. A reduction of 33 1/3 in butter tariff enabled Canada's dairymen to send five to ten times as much across the border since after the change though of course this is small in the aggregate. A difference of 2c lb in favor of the Canadian cheese maker has resulted in an increase in the traffic from 847,000 lbs in August to 1,163,000 lbs during October, while the maritime provinces, favored with a good potato crop, have taken advantage of a 10c lb rebate in the tariff and increased their shipments to the U. S. from 8000 to 15,000 tons in September, and in October, the November and December business showing continued large proportions.

Competition tunc Mad.
Calcutta Gold Hunter.
The follow railway schemes are now being promoted in the western counties of Nova Scotia, and all the projects are being seriously discussed in the local press:—

1.—The Harvey line from Shelburne to New Germany, and ultimately to Halifax.

2.—A narrow gauge road from Yarmouth to Lockport.

3.—A standard gauge road between Yarmouth and Shelburne.

4.—A line from Yarmouth to Halifax, promoted by E. F. Chignecto, Yarmouth.

5.—A line from Shelburne to Halifax which a charter is to be obtained from the Dominion parliament next session, by the broad gauge people.

6.—A line from Lockport to Halifax, promoted by the narrow gauge folks.

7.—A line from Annapolis to point on the Nova Scotia Central at or near Springfield following the last mentioned road thirty or forty miles, and thence to Halifax.

Now, won't we have a jolly time when all these roads are running past our door.
There will be no need of tugging over the muddy roads, and competition will be so great they'll pay us for riding on the cars. Surely there's glorious time coming, after the long waiting. Mr.
Harvey, they are all after you, since you told them so much about Nova Scotia!

Minerva Eversall, a young Italian girl, is herself carrier of Borough Valley, which lies fifty miles northeast of Fresno, Cal. The valley is somewhat shut off from the outer world, and the only means of communication is by wagon or horseback over a narrow road.
She enjoys the vantage point, and striding and makes the journey through the wilderness twice a week.

The House Committee on Merchant Marine has decided to report a bill relating to the carrying of passengers on ships to bring the American rating into practical conformity with that of Great Britain and other powers.

A. L. DUPLESSIS, carriage builder here, has improved in health, during the past few months, in a marked degree. His friends have noticed the change. Recently he has written a letter to a prominent St. John firm in which he states the particulars of his case. He writes: "For over a year I suffered with distress in stomach and bowels, and could not sleep.
Several remedies failed to give me relief. Last summer I was induced to try "Gros's Syrup." The best results followed its use. It gave me sleep, removing distress and regulating my bowels. I cheerfully recommend this medicine as a cure for any case like mine."

Don't miss the concert in Music Hall to-night.

The STANLEY missed two days trips on the Picton route last week on account of heavy weather.

TWO BOAT FOR SALE.—Mr. Alfred Polley of Port Elgin advertises a ten ton tug boat for sale.

THE EPWORTH LEAGUE of the Methodist Church on Monday evening last after the regular service passed a social half hour together and were served with coffee and other refreshments.

A PAROCIOUS BOY.—The wife of Mr. Winslow Milner of Westcott was delivered of a son Sunday morning who weighed 12 lbs. and was provided with two teeth, lower incisors well developed.

BAPTIST.—Rev. Vincent baptised Mr. Chip Smith of Ashcroft, B. C., at Morice's Lake Sunday afternoon. At the meeting which followed a young lady professed conversion which events it is thought presage a revival in the Baptist Church.

SACKVILLE BAND.—The annual Band Concert will be given in February probably about the 8th or 9th.

The Moncton people were evidently well pleased with Prof. Ansell's playing at Mr. Watt's benefit concert as immediately after that Mr. Ansell was engaged to play at the Firm's annual concert in Moncton.

EXHIBITION OF PAINTINGS.—Before removing some of his recent works to Montreal Mr. Hammond has kindly offered to open to the public his new studio room in the art building with its contents. Visitors will please enter by students door in rear of building any time between one and three thirty p. m. on Saturday afternoon 19th inst.

CHURCH TRIAL.—Rev. Mr. Little, rector of Sussex has been tried by the ecclesiastical Court at Fredericton and found guilty of making false statements concerning Rev. J. Roy Campbell rector of Dorchester to Joseph Hornbrook C.M. Middleton of Kings, and has been removed from his office as rector.

Y. M. C. A.—The meeting on Sunday afternoon was addressed by Rev. Flemington of the University. The service was varied by a treat of coffee, cake and hot biscuits. The meetings continue well attended.

A class in book-keeping will be started at once with Mr. A. B. Tait, M. A. of the Academy as teacher. Applications have also been made for a class in writing. It is also proposed to formally organize the association right away.

CHAPTER OF ACCIDENTS.—Within the past two months three serious accidents quite unusual have occurred in this vicinity and all alike in that they affected the same part of the body,—the hand. About the first of the year Mr. R. H. Ogden of Beech Hill, slipped on the ice and falling struck his left hand on a stump, bruising it badly. The hand swelled up and though medical assistance was obtained it is still stiff and useless though gradually getting better.

Mr. Eugene Bower is just getting out from the effects of blood poisoning from a rusty nail which he drove into his hand some weeks ago. He had although it has been under medical treatment is still far from well.

Miss Murray, cook at the University, drew the bone of a mackerel in the finger of her right hand about two months ago and blood poisoning resulted. Medical aid was summoned and proved successful, but Miss Murray has not yet recovered entire use of her arm.

COOKVILLE.—On Monday evening the 14th inst. Dr. Sangster delivered in the Methodist church at Cookville a very interesting and instructive address on the "Growth Preservation and care of the teeth." The vote of thanks to the lecturer moved by Mr. E. Murray and seconded by Mr. J. Lund and so heartily supported by the assembly was enjoyed by those who listened to, and learned from the lecture so many important facts respecting health and beauty. The first Tuesday in Feb. was announced as the date of the next lecture, the congregation naturally look forward to wards that period with happy expectation.

MR. ALLISON.—Sedgewick Bailey a senior at the University and Theological student has been lying very ill during the past week with Bright's disease complicated by hemorrhage at the base of the brain and slight paralysis of the left side. Mr. Bailey was sitting talking to friends on Wednesday evening January 9th when without a moment's warning he fell over in a faint. He recovered himself and sat up but immediately after began vomiting and went into a stupor in which he has remained ever since. When aroused however he has talked rationally in most cases. Dr. Bower was first called on Wednesday evening and on Sunday Dr. Coleman was also summoned. On Monday Dr. Black of Halifax came up to consult with the Sackville doctors and agreed with their course of treatment. The danger from brain trouble is now regarded as past and the case is one simply of Bright's disease. Hopes of recovery are yet entertained. Mr. Bailey is about 37 years of age and belongs to Elgin Albert Co. With the exception of a slight attack of Bright's disease four years ago his health up to the present time has been good. His father arrived in Sackville Monday and is now with him.

HELD OVER.—S. C. Alward, County Councillor for Salisbury, writes to defend the action of the council. It will be inserted next week.

NORTH SHORE TREMS, which reached here last week, accompanied by the name of the sender as a guarantee of good faith, are replying in the waste basket.

A SOCIETY under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. will be held at the residence of Mrs. H. A. Powell, on Friday the 18th at 7 o'clock standard time.

An interesting programme consisting of music and readings has been prepared. An enjoyable time may be expected.

Admission free.

Y. M. C. A.—It has been arranged to secure half a dozen lectures on popular subjects to which the public at large are invited. Meetings to be held in Ford's Hall, commencing at 7 p. m. standard time. Mr. W. C. Milner will give the first lecture on Wednesday next, on "Port Cumberland and the Elder War." A silver collection will be taken to help to defray expenses.

W. W. ANDREWS, W. I. GOODWIN, A. J. HART, THOS. MURRAY, For Committee.

SACKVILLE SCANDAL.—The people of Sackville and particularly of Middle Sackville are excited over a case which came up before Justice Cahill yesterday.

Mr. A. J. Estabrooks lives in Middleton, Conn., but his wife lives at Middle Sackville. Mr. Estabrooks claims that his wife has been too intimate with Mr. James McNelis, foreman of the Sackville Police, and has brought action against McNelis on that account. Powell & Bennett appear for complainant and B. B. Teed for defendant. The case has been adjourned to Wednesday 22nd inst.

A FARMER ROW.—William Johnson, Jr. of Calumet's Corner, Parish of Riverview arrived in Sackville Tuesday night with his arm in a sling, his head bound up, and generally used-up look. He had come to seek the legal assistance of Messrs Powell & Bennett. It appears that his father William Johnson Sr. and he had quarrelled over the farm of which they till different parts and the house which they occupy together. This quarrel was of long standing and had been heretofore a source of domestic dispute and the son attacked the son with a jack-knife and made deep cuts on the back of his neck and his throat dangerously near the jugular vein. The father caught his hand cut so badly that he is unable to use it. The son claims that his father has a violent temper and has threatened to kill him and his wife and has been in defence to take action against him and has him placed where he can do no harm.

Dalhousie.

EDITOR POST.—If you have a column for the young folks, I would like to make use of it to address a few sentences to the young folks of Sackville and vicinity, where association with me in the school room, has given me so much pleasure in the past.

Dalhousie as you have noticed on the map is about as far north as you can get without going out of N. B. It is at the mouth of the Restigouche which is here about three miles wide. The town and river do not resemble anything to be seen near Sackville. The town is built to the south of the river and the town is built at the front of the hill and lies along the river. The whole town does not cover more than 1/2 square mile. The houses are near together so that it is quite town like.

The School has three departments, the Primary department consisting of the first three grades, the intermediate of the fourth fifth and sixth, while the principal has those in advance of the sixth. Getting back to the school and on the way to the beginning of the term, when the school at Campbellton became the grammar school and Dalhousie school became the Superior. The school building has been lately repaired and added to, is provided with a bell on the building and flag which is hoisted on school days when the weather is favorable. The house is to be heated by a furnace after this season.

The number of pupils in the school is about 125. The teaching hours from 9.30 to 12.30 a. m. and from 2 to 4 p. m. have been kept pretty regular. I hope my young friends who read this have had their school hours shortened to five a day instead of the old six hour system. Tardiness so far has been a very bad habit.

The young people here are not so well off for sports in the winter as those of Sackville. There is very little skating here at any time. The snow is deep and covers the ground for a long time. I hope my young friends who read this have had their school hours shortened to five a day instead of the old six hour system. Tardiness so far has been a very bad habit.

On the opposite side of the river is a range of steep and rugged looking hills. In Bonaventure County Quebec. There is a fine view of the river and the town from the shore over there and the people, who are French, often drive across the river.

If you were to go to the Restigouche River now it would look very much like a broad strip of marsh covered with snow, but without the barns and haystacks. But you would notice a lot of little shanties out there on the ice. I had heard what they were but went out on Saturday to investigate for myself. They are mostly owned by French people of the town and are loaded on the ice in winter and off in the spring. Two men generally sit in each camp all day and fish with hook and line through a hole in the ice. Forty fish are considered a pretty good day's catch. The proprietor of one camp kindly allowed me to fish from his hole for a while and I did it quite interesting. ## A RAINY DAY.

A dull gray sky and dull brown earth.

The shadows grow deeper within the room.

A fire creeps over the hearth.

Tree stands still and lifeless and dull.

The raindrops cling to the leaves.

A lonely sparrow, rolled up in a ball

Chirps drearily under the eaves.

The sweet black roses hang their heads,

Heavy and dripping with rain;

A butterfly trails the limp, white wings

He never will use again.

The long lullaby, with foam-like fringe,

Lost tangled on the ground.

And the rain's sad, deadening spell has hushed

Each tiny insect sound.

A dull gray sky and a steady rain

And shadows dim up-lifted;

And out of the darkness and sadness rings

The laugh of a little child.

A WOMAN'S WIT.

Well, good-by, old fellow. Enjoy yourself and don't lose your heart to the pretty fish girls.

"Good-by, Ted, dear. Please write to me as often as you can. With Ralph away as well as you I shall be rather dull at home."

The speakers were my friend Ralph Shirley, head clerk at Messrs. Carter's bank, a careworn man of five and forty, with grizzled hair and a pre-occupied expression, and his pretty little step-sister

Kate, aged 24, my affianced wife.

The time was 10 o'clock on August morning; the place, Charing Cross station, the departure platform of the Folkstone train, in which I, Edward Pierpoint, aged twenty-five, was seated, on my way to enjoy my brief holiday at the "Beautiful Bocking," the place for the stranger who's done something wrong."

In this case, however, I myself had done nothing wrong, although at the moment I was a good deal troubled concerning the wrong-doing of others.

Two nights before Ralph had communicated to me, under oath of secrecy, a very startling piece of information. A certain fast young nobleman, the marquis of ————, had married year ago, procured from Messrs. Carter's bank an advance of twenty-five thousand pounds, upon the security of certain famous pearls, which he had inherited from his mother, a Russian princess.

The pearls were reputed to be worth fifty thousand, and were duly lodged in Messrs. Carter's strong room, with every possible precaution. Within the past fortnight, however, it had come to the knowledge of Messrs. Carter, that by an extraordinary exercise of ingenuity and cunning the locks of the strong room and safes had been tampered with, and a portion of the jewelry, amounting to between fifteen and twenty thousand pounds, had disappeared.

The loss was not, so far, known to the remainder of the staff. But Ralph Shirley, who had entered the bank as a boy, and had grown gray in its service, was admitted into the secrets of the firm.

I had for three years lodged in Ralph's house at Clapham, and as his closest friend and his step-sister's future husband, Ralph had, somewhat unwisely perhaps, confided the secret of the loss of the pearls to me.

The shock had affected him strongly.

He considered the honor of the bank as his own, as was but natural after his long service. He was even somewhat shocked and pained at my determination to take my leave, to take my annual holiday as though nothing had hap-

Hotel de Suede.

On the first day of my arrival I received a terrible headache, and returned to my room with a headache, and I was wandering about the boulevards when my attention was attracted by the occupants of a very handsome and well-turned out carriage, drawn by a spruce driver in English livery.

The lady inside, leaning back against embroidered cushions, and elaborately overdressed, was both handsome and wicked looking, a well-known opera buff singer, the bystanders said, noted for her extravagance and disipated manner of life. But the company—the faultlessly dressed, haggard-looking man, with white worried face, mad eyes and grizzled hair?

Could my eyesight be playing me false, or was it indeed Messrs. Carter's trust-head clerk, my friend and future brother-in-law, Ralph Shirley?

Any doubt I may have had on the subject was dispelled by the look upon his face when his eyes fell upon me. He turned first red and then ghastly pale, and looked furtively away in a haunted, stammering manner.

I hailed a cab and followed the carriage. It stopped before one of the largest and most expensive hotels in Paris. I jumped out and laid my hand upon Ralph's arm as he too descended.

"Ralph," said, quietly, "I must speak to you."

He looked at me vacantly for a moment.

"The game's up then, I suppose," he said, and I told him without a word more to his room.

"Don't tell Kate," he said, "and don't ask me what made me do it. It was coming on for a whole year—that feeling that the pearls were back to you, and nobody any good, and that I knew had to get at them. No one suspected me.

I've led a dog's life of dreary routine and tremendous responsibility for five and twenty years. I've got heart-disease.

I know it, and I told myself to you just once to know what life, as they call it, was like before I was snuffed out like a candle. Well, it's a miserable failure. Ted, money, luxury, gay life, the knowledge of Messrs. Carter, and all that I don't want any more. Do I repent? No, why should I? I wasn't</
